The Aberdeen District Conference will convene in Houlka June 3, at 8:30 a.m. The opening sermon will be preached June 2 at 8 p.m. by W. S. Shipman. Wednesday will be given to the consideration of the Sunday School and Epworth League interest. Thursday, the 4th, will be given to the W. H. M. S. and W. F. M. S. interest. All members of the Conference are expected to be present not later than 8:30 a.m., June 3. The following are the committee of examination for license to preach: W. L. Graves, D. M. Geddle, W. A. Bowlin. A programme for Sunday School Conference will follow in a few days.

J. H. MITCHELL, P. E.

NATCHEZ DISTRICT CONFERENCE.

The Natchez District Conference will be held in Woodville, May 13-16.

The opening sermon will be preached by Dr. E. H. Mounger May 12, at 8 p.m.

The Conference will open in business session at 8:30 a. m., May 13. The following will serve on Examining Committee:

For License to Preach — Robt. Selby, C. C. Gibson, John D. Ireland.

For Admission — W. H. Saunders, D. Scarborough, E. A. Enochs.

For Orders — E. H. Mounger, W. W. Simmons, R. W. Thurman.

For Quarterly Conference Records—H. P. Lewis, Jr., R. A. Sibley, Jr., J. M. Sessions.

The local preachers are expected to report to the Conference. The pastors will please communicate with their delegates, urging them to attend the Conference. Prominence will be given religious services. Brethren, pray that it may be a season of grace to the town.

J. T. LEGGETT, P. E.

THE SAFEST AND QUICKEST WAY
—TO—
TRANSFER MONEY
—Is By—
Long Distance Telephone
FOR RATES APPLY TO LOCAL MANAGER
Cumberland Telephone & Telegraph Co.,
INCORPORATED.

NEW ORLEANS
CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE

Millsaps College Library.

REV. JOHN W. BOSWELL, Editor.
REV. H. WHITEHEAD, Ass't Editor.

NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, MAY 7, 1908.

CHAS. O. CHALMERS, Publisher,
Office, 512 Camp St., New Orleans.

VOL. 55—No. 19.

"PROVE ALL THINGS; HOLD FAST THAT WHICH IS GOOD."

WHOLE No. 5398.

Layman's Missionary Conference.

In accordance with a resolution adopted by the General Board of Missions at its Annual Meeting in May, 1907, there were called together in Nashville a few laymen on August 7 to discuss the organization of the Laymen's Missionary Movement in the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. At this meeting it was decided to call a Conference of not less than fifty laymen to meet in Knoxville, Tenn., on September 17 and 18 to formulate plans for the organization of the Movement. The Conference was held with fifty-three representative laymen present from the entire territory of our Church. After a full discussion, followed by the appointment of an Executive Committee of seven members, it was decided to hold a great Conference of laymen in Chattanooga, April 21-23, 1908. The Conference was held, (a full report of which appeared in our last issue,) and adopted the following:

Plan of Organization.

1. This movement shall be called the Laymen's Missionary Movement of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South.

2. The officers shall consist of a president, three vice-presidents, a secretary and treasurer. There shall be an Executive Committee of nine laymen and the secretary of the Board of Missions, who shall be ex-officio a member of this Committee. This Committee shall have full power to act in the interim of meetings of the Central Committee.

3. The Central Committee shall consist of the Conference lay leader from each Annual Conference, to be chosen by the lay delgates to the Annual Conference, or in case of no election, to be appointed by the Conference Board of Missions. They shall meet at the call of the Executive Committee.

4. There shall be held a delegated Conference every two years at such time and place, and with such delegation as the Central Committee may determine. The officers and Executive Committee shall be chosen by the Central Committee at the time of each Biennial Conference. Vacancies may be filled by the Executive Committee.

5. There shall be a Conference Committee in each Annual Conference. It shall be composed of one lay leader from each presiding elder's district, who shall be elected annnally by the lay delegates to the District Conference. The leader of the Annual Conference shall be ex-officio chairman of this Committee.

6. There shall be a District Committee to be composed of one lay leader from each congregation to be selected by the Quarterly Conference of the charge. The lay leader of the District shall be chairman of this Committee.

7. There shall be a Missionary Committee of five members of more in each individual church to be elected by the Church Conference, of which the lay leader for that church shall be chairman.

8. All of these leaders, together with all members of the Movement, shall be within the limits and subject to the directions and constituted authority of the Church, and shall work in co-operation with the Parent and Conference Board of Missions.

The unit of administration in this plan of organization is the leader. The Annual Conference, district and church leaders are so related to each other that any instructions, plans or literature can be sent down the line from the Central Committee to the last layman of the Church, information and co-operation being in this way swiftly secured from the remotest bounds of the Church. Full, alert and prompt co-operation alone on the part of all these leaders will make this Movement effective in securing its great ends. The failure of any one of them will break the force and render ineffective to that extent the work of all the rest.

Conference Leader.

1. He shall have general supervison of all the work of the Movement in the bounds of his Annual Conference.

2. He is to act in co-operation with the officers of the Movement and Central Committee and to help forward all plans set on foot for the aggressive prosecution of the work.

3. He is to keep in close touch with the district leaders, and as far as practicable hold two meetings of these leaders annually for the purpose of hearing reports and devising plans for better results in every direction.

4. He is expected to answer all communications and other inquiries from the secretary of the Movement touching any phases of the work in the bounds of the Conference.

5. He is to make a report of the progress of the work of the Conference semi-annually to the Executive Committee through the secretary.

District Leader.

1. It shall be the duty of the district leader to co-operate with the Conference leader on the one hand, and on the other to lend his assistance to the Church leaders in carrying out the work of the Movement, and annually to call a meeting of all the Church leaders in the district to hear reports and consider plans for the promotion of the work. It shall also be his duty to devise and bring to the attention of these Church leaders such information and methods for the carrying on of the work as may be deemed most desirable.

2. He is expected, as far as possible, to visit the Quarterly Conferences of the district during the year, and to assist the laymen of the entire district in co-operation with the presiding elder in prosecuting various kinds of Church work in which they may be engaged, and especially help in securing a religious service every Sunday in every Church in the district where such services is not now held—co-operating heartily with the pastor and Church leader in this work.

Church Leader and Pastor.

1. It shall be the duty of the Church leader to encourage the study of missions and the distribution of missionary and evangelical literature, especially the pamphlet and periodical literature published by our own Church.

2. To encourage by well-matured plans and by personal example systematic and proportionate giving as an act of worship.

3. To promote the spirit of prayer for the deepening of spiritual life in the church membership, for an increased sense of responsibility for winning souls for Christ, and for a larger measure of intercessory prayer in behalf of the evangelization of the world.

4. To make provision in co-operation with the pastor for a religious service of some kind, every Sunday where such service is now held, by either the leader conducting the service in the absence of the pastor, or securing some other proper person to do so.

Educational Policy of the Laymen's Movement.

THE BASIS.

The basis of all permanent interest is information. Recognizing these facts from the beginning, the Laymen's Missionary Movement announced as its first aim—"to project a campaign of education among the laymen to be conducted under the direction of the various mission boards." In line, therefore, with this policy it is needful that we should inaugurate a far-reaching campaign of missionary education if ever the great body of Southern Methodist laymen are awakened to a genuine interest in the cause of missions at home and abroad, if ever they are brought under a deep and abiding conviction as to the authority and purpose of the Great Commission and if ever they adequately recognize their obligation to prosecute the missionary enterprise.

THE POLICY.

As missionary education involves instruction first in principles, then in facts and also the development of a sense of obligation, we would recommend, in order to establish these lines of educational influence, the following:

I. A prayerful and regular study of the Bible by the laymen of the Church, with greater emphasis on its missionary interpretation and with more careful consideration of the doctrine of Christian stewardship.

II. The free distribution, among all laymen of the Church, of a well-selected leaflet literature touching every important phase of the great missionary enterprise.

III. A persistent effort to make great books on missions a necessary part of every intelligent layman's library and to select and circulate those missionary books specially adapted to interest and inspire laymen.

IV. A vigorous effort to increase the list of subscribers to "Go Forward," the missionary periodical of the Church, and to enlarge the circulation of Conference organs.

V. The frequent discussion of missions from the Scriptural and business point of view by laymen in missionary metings, rallies and institutes.

THE PLAN OF EXECUTION.

Recognizing the fact that this Movement looks beyond the perpetuation of itself to the making of a great missionary Church, we feel the need of well-laid plans for carrying into effect the policy above outlined. We, therefore, suggest—

I. As touching the text-book of missions,
  First—A declaration of faith in the Bible as a missionary Book.
  Second—A systematic effort to enlist men in daily Bible study and prayer.
  Third—The introduction of missions as a supplemental course of study in Sunday school classes composed of men.
  Fourth—The publication in booklet form, for free distribution, of a brief but strong discussion of "The Bible as a Missionary Book."

II. As touching the publication and circulation of a general missionary literature and the missionary literature of our own Church we recommend:

First—The establishment of a Literature Department, which shall adequately provide for the selection, creation and circulation of a leaflet literature covering every phase of missions and adapted to our needs, and the selection and circulation, at the least possible cost, of such great missionary books as will appeal, in the subject treated or manner of treatment, to thoughtful men; also the prosecution of plans for increasing the circulation of our missionary periodicals.

Second—That this Literature Department be located in Nashville, Tenn., in order that the Movement may avail itself of the best possible facilities for both publishing and circulating this literature.

Third—Such an affiliation of this Movement with the great education movement in missions as will secure to us the best missionary books at the least possible cost and at the same time put us in consant touch with the best plans and materials for missionary education.

III. As touching wider lay activity in the agitation of missions, we recommend:

First—The laymen who are studying the subject accept, as often as possible, invitations to discuss missionary topics at the various Conferences and other meetings of the Church.

Second—That the experienced and successful lay-

(Continued on Last Page.)

Christian Advocate.

Published for the Louisiana, Mississippi and North Mississippi Conferences Methodist Episcopal Church, South.

DIRECTIONS.

Correspondents will please direct all communications intended for the Editor to 512 Camp St., New Orleans, La. Communications intended for the Business Department should be addressed to the Manager of the New Orleans Christian Advocate. Write with ink and only on one side of the paper. No attention will be paid to [illegible] manuscripts.

The printed date of a paper shows the date to which a subscription is paid. It serves as a written receipt. When renewal is made, if the date is not moved forward after two weeks, notify us and we will make it right. Papers will be continued unless subscribers order otherwise.

For Advertising Rates Apply to

Religious Press Advertising Syndicate,
JACOBS & CO., CLINTON, S. C.

Home Office, Clinton, S. C., will have charge of the advertising of this paper.

ADVERTISING REPRESENTATIVES.

J. F. Jacobs, J. L. Jacobs, Home Office, Clinton, S. C.
E. J. Ritter, 411 W. St. Catherine St., Louisville, Ky.
Thornwell Jacobs, 1011 Stahlman Bldg., Nashville, Tenn.
C. C. Little, 302 Mutual Bldg., Richmond, Va.
L. S. Carter, 153 LaSalle St., Chicago, Ill.
Miss M. L. McGhee, 150 Nassau St., New York, N. Y.
Marion E. Buchanan, 153 LaSalle St., Chicago, Ill.
J. H. Rich, Birmingham, Ala.
E. J. Barrett, New Orleans, La.
J. B. Keough, Atlanta, Ga.
J. B. Gentry, Clinton, S. C.
H. E. Edwards, Houston, Texas.
W. L. Boggs, Greensboro, N. C.
F. A. Wynne, Cor. Akard & Elm Sts., Dallas, Texas.

Glances at the World.

Not long since Mrs. Evelyn Thaw, the notorious, accompanied by a male companion, entered the dining room of a popular hotel, and was politely, but firmly, requested to leave. And now news comes from San Francisco to the effect that Emma Goldman, the anarchist lecturer, with her manager, one Dr. Reitman, put up at the St. Francis hotel, but were forced to leave. Everywhere Emma Goldman goes she is under the eyes of the police, as she is an agitator of the worst kind. The mangement of the hotel could not stand the notoriety occasioned by the presence of the woman and the espionage of the police, and the party had to leave. They found lodging with an anarchist sympathizer in another part of the city, but were kept shadowed by the police. What a shame that a woman, inspired by hatred for law and order, should give herself to the stirring up of strife, and lead men into murder. It used to be said that anarchy could not thrive on American soil, but we have come to learn that it can—not only so, but that two or three places in the country are real hot-beds where it is propagated, and from which it is distributed to other parts of the country. Anarchy thrives, and anarchists are perhaps less disturbed here than in any other land. Our people do not fully realize their danger.

* * *

The question of the timber supply for the future is giving serious concern to the world. Even far-away Korea, the "Hermit Kingdom," is concerned and casting about for means of preserving remaining forests, and restoring vast tracts that have been denuded. Not until recent years have the people of our country even thought of "forest preservation." The idea prevailed that our forests were inexhaustible. This writer can call to mind sections of country that the people supposed contained timber sufficient to "last always," that to-day cannot furnish enough to fence in the farms. The railroads which have penetrated the country put the timber within the reach of the markets, and the owners have not been slow to sell. Not only is the timber supply runnig short, but taking it off the lands tends to produce droughts in summer and floods in winter. Our government has a man employed whose only business is to study and look after the forests. The man as yet is little known and less felt, but we predict that within the next fifteen or twenty years he or his successors will be as well known and respected as any officer in the land below President. Those who come to know him will respect him for his work's sake.

* * *

Some men, under some circumstances, come boldly to the defense of their fellow-men when their "personal liberty" is threatened. This is particularly true if the "liberty" of liquor sellers is in danger. They are not so swift to the rescue if danger threatens in some other directions. For example, we hear no protest from the Personal Liberty League, nor from the Southern Intelligence Bureau, nor from the anti-prohibition papers against the arbitrary ruling of the State Board of Health of Louisiana. This Board recently ruled that no prescription, though made by a reputable physician and filled by a registered pharmacist, shall be "refilled" if it contains drugs or chemicals, as opium or its derivatives, or chloral, chloroform, etc. According to our understanding, when a prescription is obtained and paid for, it is the personal property of the individual who buys it, and may be used by him as often as he sees proper. Frequently one filling of a prescription does not suffice—more of the same medicine is necessary—but under the ruling, no matter how necessary, if the prescription contains the smallest quantity of the sedatives named, the doctor must be called on to write another prescription. Such a ruling will result in hardship, as it involves needless extra expense. If a physician is competent to administer medicine at all, he certainly can be trusted to issue a prescription that will bear refilling. If he is not, he should not be permitted to impose upon the people.

* * *

In regard to the temperance sentiment in Congress, the Zion's Herald, of Boston, speaks as follows: "The temperance question is rapidly passing from a State to a National phase. The movement for stricter temperance laws is making headway everywhere. In some States it is taking the form of prohibition; in others it has declared in favor of local option; high license, or eliminating by remonstrance. The "dry" territory is being widened in scope month by month. The larger the "dry" area becomes, the more stands out the fact that the States cannot meet with a full measure of success so long as the Federal Government nullifies the work of the States. Under existing Federal law no State can create absolutely "dry" territory, because liquor may be shipped into this territory from another State with impunity. It is also impossible to make a State or any portion of a State "dry" as long as the Federal Government will issue a "permit" to a person to sell intoxicants in the territory which local authority says shall be "dry." It is needless to say that the whisky and beer forces are working together to prevent, if possible, the passing by Congress of advanced temperance legislation. They have hitherto succeeded in this selfish and unpatriotic endeavor, but now that public sentiment has so generally awakened to its duty to temperance—a population of 35,000,000 now living under prohibitory law, 10,000,000 being protected from the ravages of the saloon by State legislation, and 25,000,000 given the advantage of local option—it should be possible at an early date to emancipate America from the tyranny of the saloon, by retiring congressmen who obstinately refuse to pass the reasonable temperance legislation demanded by a majority of the people."

* * *

The most stubborn fight of recent days is on between Gov. Hughes, of New York, and the State legislature. It is over race-track gambling of all kinds, and provides that the legislature shall enact suitable statutes to carry the constitution into effect. Instead of this, the legislature passed a law legalizing gambling on race tracks. This law, Gov. Hughes declares, is an open violation of the constitution, and asks its repeal. The bill was brought in the legislature which almost unanimously favored repeal, but the Senate defeated it by a tie vote. Thereupon, the governor sent a message to that body assuring them that the vote did not by any means dispose of the matter. Soon after this the legislature adjourned, but immediately an extra session was called for May 11, when the Governor's demand will be renewed. In the meantime a vacancy in the Senate is to be filled by a special election, and the hope is to elect a member in sympathy with the Governor. The people are with Governor Hughes overwhelmingly, and he will win in the end. The race-track gamblers are rich, and the opinion is entertained that several of the senators were "bought over" to the gamblers' side. Stranger things have happened. Governor Hughes has shown himself for the right in all his acts, and is one of the foremost men in the country.

* * *

The New York Times, commenting on Mr. Gompers' criticism of the Supreme Court says: "Samuel Gompers' grievance against the United State Supreme Court seems to be that it is composed of lawyers, and lawyers, in the opinion of Mr. Gompers, are a sorry lot. The view is not original—the Knights of Labor barred lawyers and barkeepers from membership—but it is based on rather an insufficient or a biased reading of history. Law and lawyers are the basis of such liberties as we enjoy. 'Laws are silent in war,' runs the maxim; either law or force rules the world, and force unrestrained is despotism. The rude law of a South Sea island tribe is better than no law. It moulds public conscience into habit, which is law. Greek law mitigated the horrors of intertribal wars. Roman law established the 'Roman peace' in every province, protected women and minors from spoliation, enforced kin-duties, compelled the decent treatment of slaves. Lawyers overthrew tyranny in England and taught kings that they had joints in their necks; lawyers like Grotius built up international law to lessen murders of war; lawyers formed the fighting line of the French social refrom that made the serf a man; lawyers in our own day have made The Hague Conferences a hope of the world. The American Revolution was the work of lawyers, enforcing the lawyer's maxim, 'No taxation without representation,' composing in its defense the lawyers' brief that we call the Declaration of Independence, and pegging down the fruits of victory with a basic law known as the Constitution. Why grumble at the lawyers' education and environment? We are all educated and environed and bear the corresponding stamp; few of us are so habituated as lawyers to looking on both sides of every question. We all have 'vested interests,' too; those of the poorest man rest in law, whose protection he needs far more than the richest. And if Mr. Gompers can convince a majority of the voters that any particular law is wrong he can easily get it changed."

THE GREAT CHATTANOOGA MEETING.

The religion of Jesus Christ is in a good sense intolerant. Being the only true religion, not of man's device, but revealed by God out of heaven, it is the one and only hope of the race. Therefore, it will not share any human heart, but demands the whole. So it will not divide the earth with any other religion, how much soever of truth such religion may hold. Hence, from the beginning Christianity has meant to subdue the whole earth. And it will!

Modern missionary endeavor took on organized and aggressive form at the celebrated Haystack Prayer-meeting, when those participating in that epoch-making event took for their motto, "We can, if we will."

For many years the women and children have had organized societies in which they raised thousands of dollars in addition to the amounts collected regularly by the preachers from the membership of the churches. During these years the men have been content to respond with more or less (generally less) liberality to the appeals of the preachers, giving as little as they could and as seldom as they could. But in the past two years this is being changed. * * *. In 1906 men of the various churches began to awake. They met and resolved to have a particular and large part in saving the world, taking as their motto: "We can, and we will." That motto is a distinct advance over, "We can, if we will."

The sentiment created by an interdenominational meeting finds its best method of expression by an organization of the men of each separate denomination working through its own channels. Methodists determined to launch their Men's Movement in a great meeting at Chattanooga, Tenn., which was held there April 21-23.

By all tokens it was the greatest meeting it was ever my privilege to attend. I thought the missionary meeting at New Orleans in 1901 was great—and it was. But that at Chattanooga was greater. There were distinguished speakers from nearly every quarter of the globe. Bishops, preachers, missionaries, diplomats, lawyers, bankers, merchants combined to make a programme of great strength and unusual breadth.

The most distinguished man present was the Hon. James Bryce, ambassador from Great Britain to the United States. His address was a great paper, but Mr. Bryce is an indifferent speaker. The most remarkable speech was that by Mr. Ellis, a newspaper man from Philadelphia.

The occasion confirmed an opinion I have long held, viz: the world's greatest orators are in the South, and are found among our preachers. Bishop Hendrix and Bishop Candler wore the honors for oratory at Chattanooga. I was reminded of an incident at Memphis in 1894. A fraternal delegate was present from the North and one from Canada; and a messenger from England. The addresses of these men to the General Conference were responded to by Bishop Galloway and others. A man from North Carolina said, "You may bring speakers here from the North, you may bring 'em here from Canada, you may bring 'em here from England; and when you get 'em here, Charles B. Galloway will out-speak the whole crowd!" And a delegate from Mississippi said, "Amen!"

The great Mississippian was not at Chattanooga. He is to speak at Baltimore in May, and later in Wisconsin, where he will be introduced by ex-Senator Vilas; and on June 3, before the University of Mississippi. But for the fact that Bishop Galloway has so frequently made the "speech of his life," I would venture to prophesy that the address at Oxford will be "the speech of his life."

The men at Chattanooga resolved to raise this year two hundred thousand dollars in addition to the regular contribution to missions, thus increasing the yearly offering to more than a million dollars. Having raised that amount once, the yearly gifts will be rapidly increased beyond that large sum. Two methods will be adopted to accomplish this great work. There will be a central committee with an active secretary, and a leader for each Annual Conference, and one for each presiding elder's district, and one for each pastoral charge. Thus all the men of the Church will be reached for a contribution.

Then there will be enrolled ten thousand "emergency men." These "emergency men" will agree to give one, two, five or ten dollars each when called on as often as three or four times a year. Thus when immediate demand for money may arise in any mission field it will be instantly met.

Inspiring, isn't it?

Much remains to be said about the meeting at Chattanooga, but I must not tax unduly your space * * *. It was fitting that this meeting to save men should have been held where so many men were slaughtered. Was it not in keeping with the prophecy, "Many nations shall come, and say, Come, and let us go up to the mountain of the Lord * * * and he will teach us his ways, and we will walk in his paths * * * and he shall judge among many people * * * and they shall beat their swords into plowshares, and their spears into pruning hooks: nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more."

Thus shall be fulfilled the purpose and promise of,

"That God, which ever lives and loves,
One God, one law, one element,
And one far-off divine event,
To which the whole creation moves."

J. R. BINGHAM.

MEMORABILIA.

BY WM. RICE SIMS.

The Methodist Episcopal Church, South, made no mistake when it elected Holland Nimmons McTyeire to the Episcopacy. Taking him "by and large," as a Scotchman would say, he was a giant, towering, in many respects, head and shoulders above his fellows. He was distinctly and distinctively great as a parliamentarian, and as a student and codifier of church history and church discipline. He would have been a great figure at the head of any department of State government, executive, advisory or legislative.

Mere reminiscences are sometimes misleading, but those that I shall give in this paper are safely indicative. They may be somewhat rambling. So is all conversation. Nobody, since the days of Samuel Johnson and Macaulay, has talked by topics and chapters.

My first glimpse of Bishop McTyeire was under peculiar circumstances. It was at the Forest District Conference, held at Morton, Miss., in the summer of 1878. W. H. Leith was presiding elder; J. J. Smylie was preacher-in-charge of the Morton and Forest Circuit. On Sunday morning at 11 o'clock the Bishop had as big a congregation as the old frame church, perched on the high hill at Morton, would contain; and he preached a great sermon. It was not graced by oratorical flourishes. The flora and fauna of the rhetorician and the scientist were conspicuous by their absence. In their place were direct, practical statements, lucid exegesis, and pointed, homely illustrations. The text was Luke xvi, 8. Turn to it and read it. The opening sentences, uttered in that strange, fog-horn voice, I shall never forget. The text was read twice, slowly, and with long pauses: "The children of this world—in their generation—wiser than the children of light." Then the preacher began with one of those flash-lights for wich he was notable. "It puzzled me a long time," he said, "to know why the Lord commended the unjust steward; but finally, one day, I looked right close, and I saw that it was a little I—and a little lord. Not the Lord of heaven and earth; but the steward's earthly lord, who commended his shrewd business management." From that moment the big man in the plain wooden pulpit—the man big of brawn and big of brain—had the rustics of Scott and Simpson and Jasper and Newton under his control, and he held them to the end.

In the interim of this same District Conference, on Saturday, the Quarterly Conference of the Morton charge was held. A young man applied for license to preach, and was duly examined during the noon hour. As the examination closed, and the young man retired from the room, the Bishop entered to call the afternoon session of the District Conference to order. He was interested in what he heard of the young man, and sent word by the presiding elder that he wished to have a talk with him.

Of course, the young man heeded the invitation, and at the close of the afternoon session he waited at the door with trepidation. Presently the Bishop came along, pounding the floor with his inevitable cane. He put his hand familiarly on the young man's shoulder, as if to reassure him, yet without any air of condescension or patronage, and so drew him along into the very depths of a neighboring woodland. Ah, what parts these deep-shadowed skirts of forest around the old country churches have played in the power of ministry and personal life!

For two hundred yards or more the strangely-assorted couple walked on in dead silence. At length an old log was reached—a fallen monarch of the forest. As the Bishop seated himself, and waved the boy to a place at his side, there came to mind the opening lines of that stately poem, "The groves were God's first temples." Then, after an interval of tender and simple prayer, the man who might have been aptly called at that time the primate of Southern Methodism—there on that old moss-covered log, there in those old tick-haunted and tacky woods that hardly rose to the dignity of forests such as he had seen—there he opened up his heart to the boy, asked of him his plans and purposes; told him, as he never told in public, of his own early struggles and difficulties and aspirations; and ended by reciting a home-made parable, which any young man aspiring to the ministry may well read, mark and inwardly digest.

"So," he said, in slow, meditative tones, talking as much to himself as to the youth at his side, "you are going into the ministry. But you are very young—barely eighteen. Are you ready for such a great work. Let me tell you a little story—such as you and I used to hear when we were boys;" closing his eyes till the stray sunlight that through-shotted the woodland shadows scarcely reflected a glint.

"Once there was a woodsman, who dwelt on the edge of a great forest. It was his business to cut wood. By that means he earned his livelihood. By that means he supported his family. One morning, as he started out (the reader must here imagine very long pauses between almost every word, and he must further conceive a picture of the Bishop sitting on the log, with his great cane pounding a hole in the

The Canal-Louisiana Bank and Trust Company

CORNER CAMP AND GRAVIER STS.

Embraces every function of financial business. It solicits your deposit account subject to cheque. It solicits your SAVINGS ACCOUNT upon which will be allowed INTEREST at the rate of 3 1-2 per cent. per annum, compounded semi-annually.

It will safeguard your securities in its BURGLAR and FIRE-PROOF SAFETY DEPOSIT VAULTS. It will collect Bonds, Rents, Mortgages, Interest, Dividends, Coupons and every class of Income. It will pay Taxes and Insurance, sell property and undertake the care and management of Estates. It will act as Executor, Administrator, Guardian or Trustee under will or by appointment of court.

DURING YOUR LIFETIME IT WILL ACT AS YOUR AGENT AND AT YOUR DEATH IT WILL ADMINISTER YOUR ESTATE.

Its Foreign Exchange Department buys and sells Drafts and Cable Transfers; issues Commercial and Travelers' Letters of Credit available in all parts of the world, makes collections and does a general foreign exchange business.

Accounts of Individuals, Firms, Banks and Corporations Respectfully Solicited.

Every Accommodation Offered Consistent With Safe and Legitimate Banking.

sandy soil underneath.—"One morning as he started out very early to do a long day's work he instinctively felt the edge of his axe and found that it was dull. He reflected that he had only a day for work; but as he passed the grindstone he stopped—stopped for just a few minutes—and put a better edge to his axe; and when he got to the woods he more than made up for the time spent at the grindstone. How our [illegible]."

Silence fell. Fell long enough to let the parable percolate to the gray matter of the boy at the Bishop's side. The great ecclesiastic wanted for the boy to break that silence. He waited purposely. At length the boy, half-afraid, turned to worse affairs and large movements, but sure in his own movement, said:

"But, Bishop, I haven't the grindstone."

The words were born of the impulse of the moment; but they were strategic, almost tragic to the boy—they formed what the modern analytic writer would call the psychological moment.

The Bishop pounded the ground with his heavy cane, until he had bored a miniature tunnel in the sandy loam.

"But suppose," he said carelessly, as if stating a hypothetical and remote case, "suppose some one would lend you a grindstone, would you stop and grind your axe? In plainer words, would you take a two-years' course in college, if it were offered to you now?"

The young man accepted on the spot. What this offer led to in the way of a seven years' course in college and university would make, as the old narrators used to say, another story. But it is told here in a way which many will understand as a tribute to a great and noble soul—a man of stern and harsh exterior; but on the inside, on the real side, tender and loving as a mother.

It was some years before the boy learned, and then accidentally, that his expenses in the dormitory and in the college had been borne out of the Bishop's own private purse; and, furthermore, that four other young men had been similarly enabled to go through college.

At that very time some carping critics, looking through green goggles, were measuring the size of the Bishop's salary as a Bishop and raising their eyebrows over narrow foreheads at the thought that besides this huge sum he also drew a salary as president of the board of trustees of Vanderbilt University.

He was a much misjudged man. We cannot always tell what our neighbor has for dinner by looking down his chimney. The smoke, you know, is rather blinding.

Indianola, Miss.

A WORD FROM YOUR OLD PARTNER

BY BISHOP O. P. FITZGERALD.

The NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE of Thursday, April 16, is under my eye as I pen this note. This issue of your paper, Dr. Boswell, gives me special satisfaction. Its discussion of the temperance question is able and sound. The blows against the giant evil of intemperance are well directed and delivered with power. You seem to recognize the fact that this battle is begun in earnest, and will be fought to a finish. The people called Methodists are, I gladly believe, practically unanimous in their support of the right side. Their past record in their dealing with this question is a clean one. Wherever the Methodists are strong, the temperance sentiment is strong in all the world. The prayer is in my heart that Methodism may everywhere grow stronger and stronger, and the liquor traffic weaker and weaker, until it is extirpated. And let me prophesy in these columns that this consummation is coming. The prohibition wave that is rolling has been gathering during many previous years. It will not be checked in its course. The political parties and partisans that oppose it will be overwhelmed, no matter as to what name they call themselves. The prohibition issue is the paramount issue with a host of men that vote and of women that pray. There is at the front [illegible] against the [illegible]. The victory will be [illegible], and when [illegible] the only astonishment will be because of the fact that this evil was tolerated so long in a nation who claimed to possess a Christian civilization.

Nashville, Tenn.

HIGHER CRITICISM AND SOME OF THE CRITICS

BY REV. H. W. FEATHERSTUN, D.D.

No. I

I mean to write about the higher criticism and the critics of the Bible. In this connection to criticize does not mean to find fault with, but to carefully study. Nothing could be more commendable than such criticism. May we not take as literal and make intense the words of our Lord as we read them in the authorized version: "Search the Scriptures"; and should we not encourage any effort to truly, deeply and thoroughly study the Bible?

There are two kinds of this criticism, lower and higher. The lower criticism of the Bible is otherwise spoken of as textual criticism, and is a careful study of the words, phrases and sentences of the Scriptures. The higher criticism has been defined as "the free study of all the facts"; that means the study of the Bible with the side-lights and all the other lights turned on it. It is sometimes called historical criticism because by it it is sought to turn on all the light that history can supply. Dr. Henry S. Nash, of Cambridge, says:

"The lower, or preparatory, criticism aims at the original text, cleared of corruptions and accretions. The higher criticism, the original text having been found, aims at the historical interpretation of Scripture." And to study the Bible critically is to assert its right to be understood, to be taken in its own sense.

This is certainly all right. We are aware that men in their blundering ignorance have given meanings to very much of the Scripture which were in no sense its own. It is very, very well to seek the real meaning of the Scriptures. Truth is never to be feared. There is no harm in lights on the Word of God, "side lights," high lights, "lower lights," strong light, pure white light—any sort of light. There can be no sort of objection reasonably raised against higher criticism.

Let us be careful—let it be distinctly understood that higher criticism is not the denial or even the questioning of any of the generally accepted beliefs concerning the Bible. Some of the higher critics have questioned and denied some of these; and have trumpeted abroad as the legitimate deductions of higher criticism, their shallow unfaith. Let it be remembered that but once in all the years of human time has an ass voiced the Word of God; but the days of Balaam are long past. The brazenness of the assumptions of some of these gentlemen is in an inverse proportion to their reasonableness. Some callow theologians have erred egregiously and laughably because they have overlooked these things.

Some of the critics have announced as logical deductions of higher criticism some very illogical theories, for instance, of the date and authorship of the Book of Job. One theory, much trumpeted, is that it was written by some Jew, name unknown, about the time of the return from the Babylonish captivity—some contemporary or immediate successor of Ezra. These gentlemen who present this theory would have us believe that some literary Jew antedated the great Shakespeare, and that by many centuries, and wrote a great historical drama—a dramatic romance full of profound philosophy and the highest wisdom, and based it on the history of a noble family of olden Arabia, giving his superb drama the tone and local color and setting of the desert and of a time antedating his own by at least a thousand years. Historical romances giving the customs, the modes of life, and thought of a remote antiquity and the local color of other lands have no place in any ancient literature. No such was ever written until fully two thousand years later than the latest date given by any of the higher critics as the true date of Job. Archeology is a modern science, utterly unknown at that time. History itself was very meager. Comparative philology had never been dreamed of. Indeed, there was no sort of critical research. A Georg Ebers, even a Walter Scott, or a Lew Wallace, would have been impossible to that era. Yet we are asked by these higher critics to believe that a great Jewish Shakespeare in Babylon or Jerusalem learned what no other man of antiquity had ever learned, and used that wonderful learning in the production of a book the like of which had never been written, a book unmatched in all the years since, and of a literary kind not attempted for at least two thousand years later. I am too much of a real higher critic to accept any such absurd reasoning. Such criticism is simply too low.

The Book of Job is a book of the desert and of a primitive age. Its era was the early time of great longevity. Job lived a hundred and forty years after all the events of the book. (Job xlii. 16.) The family life it presents was patriarchal. The false religions it tells of were the earlier kind, the worship of sun, moon and stars, and not the lower idolatry, the degenerations of a later time. The whole setting indicates a time not later than the days of Moses. The local color is altogether that of the Arabian desert of that early time. For instance, in xxx. 1-7, there is a striking allusion to the Bushmen as Job's contemporaries and neighbors; and these people are known to have lived in the Arabian desert and to have passed away by the time of Moses.

The omissions of the book are as unaccountable as these presentations, if we accept the Exilic or post-Exilic date of its writing. It contains not the slightest reference to the Mosaic law, to the Exodus, to the conquest of Canaan, to the Temple or its service, or to any fact of

YOU MAY FIND OTHER COFFEES AS GOOD AS LUZIANNE
BUT THEY WILL COST YOU TWICE AS MUCH. OTHER COFFEES MAY BE AS LOW IN PRICE, BUT YOU'LL FIND THEM ONLY HALF AS STRONG AND ONE-FOURTH AS GOOD.

LUZZIANNE COFFEE is of perfect purity, flavor, quality, and freshness. It's sold everywhere.

SOLD EVERYWHERE

The REILY-TAYLOR COMPANY.
New Orleans

Israelitish history. The sacrifices it alludes to are not such as the Pentateuch describes. The philosophy, the style of language and the manner of discussion are utterly unjewish.

Now, is it at all possible that a Jew of the Exilic, or post-Exilic, era should be so broad in thought, so learned in the science of archeology two thousand years before the birth of that science, so gifted in poetic and philosophic insight and expression, and withal so cosmopolitan in spirit that he could produce a poetic drama of a grade Shakespeare never equalled, voicing a philosophy Plato never reached, and all cast in an era a thousand years before his own time and in a land so unlike his own? To think so requires a credulity pitiably unreasonable. A recent learned writer says truly: "No post-Solomonian (Hebrew) writer could reproduce the times before Moses as here; nor keep himself so completely as not to betray by something the Hebrew times in which he lived."

This is some of the nonsense that some so-called higher critics teach and expect us to accept as if it were "gospel truth." We are beginning to hear it nowadays from a few smart preachers in our own Church.

(More anon.)

AN INQUIRY ANSWERED.

Dear Dr. Boswell: I noticed your inquiry under "Personal" mention in the NEW ORLEANS ADVOCATE of April 23, 1908. I will answer the question at the risk of making the matter even more ludicrous.

You should not have referred to "Webster," but to some one familiar with "Conference parlance." Webster died before the Mississippi Conference became prominent, and a few of its preachers use words occasionally not according to Webster.

However, we haven't any preachers who are "allied" to the "pachydermatous mammals of the genus sus (i. e., hogs).

Now, Doctor, I'll let you into the secret, and explain how the word "hippopotamus" came to be applied to a preacher. Several years ago, just how many I'm afraid to say, a well known preacher came to Mississippi. He is not only a "giraffe," because of his towering intellectual and theological qualities, but his obesity is above the average. One of the brethren, after casting his eyes upon him, from his head to his toes, humorously said:—"Brother, I had the impression that giraffes only transferred from one Conference to another. Why, you are not a giraffe, but a hippopotamus!"

Since that time the word has lived, and has been applied several times to big, fat preachers, both at home and abroad. Mississippi preachers enjoy a little pleasantry, especially among themselves, and little nonsense now and then is relished by the wisest men.

Doctor, on page 16 of your paper (same issue) you make a big brother call a little four-year-old "a monkey." I might ask, "Brother Boswell, why did you?" "What do you mean?" "Unless the maker of Webster's Unabridged is a 'nature fakir,'" the little animal is "allied" to the ape and baboon. But I understand you. I am sure you didn't mean it that way.

Come to see us, and we will not only tell you more about our Conference and its preachers, but we will let you preach to us. Yours fraternally,

JNO. D. ELLIS.

Waynesboro, Miss.

THE EVANGELIST QUESTION.

BY REV. J. M. WEEMS, OF LOUISIANA.

The evangelist question, like the presiding elder and some other questions, will not down until it is settled right. This writer has been very much interested in it as it has run its course through our Church during the last score of years.

In recent articles that have come under my observation some wise things have been said, and some otherwise. But in all I have seen in our Church papers thus far, pro and con, it seems to me that two of the main factors in the question have been almost, if not entirely, overlooked.

The great central, all important question for us as Christians, and as a Church, to settle first is this: Is God really and potently in this modern evangelist and holiness movement? For it is evident to my mind that these two questions in the main are inseparably linked together.

There are a few evangelists of great renown, like Chapman and Torrey, that, so far as I know, do not stand connected with the holiness movement, but the great body of evangelists who minister to the common people, and work in the smaller cities, towns, and rural districts, and more especially in territory occupied by our Church, most of them are definitely identified with the holiness movement.

Now, is God in this thing? Do these men bear the marks and characteristics of men called of God and entrusted with the ministry of reconciliation? Is there in this modern holiness movement the evidences of the presence, power, and blessing of the Holy Ghost? It seems to me that these are the great questions for us to settle. And when we determine "whether this work and counsel is of God," then our attitude toward it, the relation that we ought to sustain to it, as Christians, and as a Church, will be clearly determined.

And we ought not to be guilty of the supreme folly of judging the evangelists, or holiness question, by sporadic cases; but to judge righteously.

It is the tendency of human nature to judge of classes, or doctrines, against which there may be doubt, or prejudice, by the most unworthy individual in the class, or illustration of the doctrine. But we want to be judged by a different standard.

A member of an Annual Conference does not think it right for the Conference to be judged by the "Joab Grubbs, Jacob Sprouts, or Gum Log" elements in it, although he may be "one of which," but wants the Conference estimated by the best men in it; but, at the same time, if he is prejudiced against evangelists, he will judge and condemn the whole tribe by some cranky and unworthy specimen that may have crossed his path.

Regenerate men do not think it fair to have the great body of the truly regenerate, or the doctrine of the spiritual birth, estimated and condemned because of the slazy, slack-twisted, inconsistent professors of this grace. Yet, many of them, if they have a prejudice against the doctrine of entire sanctification, will not hesitate to trot out for inspection the runtiest and mangiest specimen or professor of holiness that ever came under their observation and say, "Look here; this is it!"

Now, it is childish and silly to lambaste the whole evangelist brotherhood over the sins and follies of some cranky and unworthy brother. He may need lambasting. If he does, give it to him, but don't forget the great central question: Is God in the great body of these men and women? As a class do they show the evidence of a divine call to the work of the ministry? Are they doing the work of God? Do they add anything appreciable to the sum total of moral and spiritual influences that make for righteousness? Does piety, joy, brotherly kindness, family altars, study of the Bible and Christian liberality follow and flourish in their wake? Does the unity of the spirit in the bonds of peace, among the really spiritual, pious, consecrated people of all Churches result from their labors?

These evangelists as a body are more fully in the limelight of public vision than ever we pastors as a body of men are. How does their lives as lived in the public eye compare with ours?

On the great moral questions of the day, such as the liquor traffic, the tobacco habit, the social evil, gambling, Sabbath desecration, and divorce, how do they, as a body, stand? Can we as pastors claim to more fully represent our Lord on these issues than they?

On the question of worldly amusements, such as dancing, theatres, circuses, skating rinks, card parties, etc., what is their testimony? Is ours any better?

On the doctrines of sin and salvation, do we sound any clearer note or hold up any higher standard than they? On the question that our Lord puts paramount to all other practical questions, "soul winning," have we any better credentials from heaven than they, that we are called of God?

God help us to be just and generous in our judgment of our fellow-men and not to harshly judge, nor forbid those who cast out devils in his name. If this work or counsel be of men it will come to naught; if it be of God, we, as ambassadors of Christ, ought to stand in friendly and helpful relation to it, and them. Personally, I think we as a Church made a mistake some twenty years ago when the question first came before our General Conference to recognize the office of evangelist, and regulate by law their work in the Church. Had we done so then, or even at the subsequent General Conferences and made the law flexible enough, the main body of the evangelists in the South would now be in our Church, and the mighty spiritual power of the holiness movement would largely be under our control.

But our repressive measures in dealing with, and trying to hamper and restrain what we denominated the self-called and self-constituted evangelists, and our attitude toward our members who, under the preaching of these men, were led to deeper joys in the divine life, tended very materially toward widening the breach between these people and the Church. And this brings out another question that our authorities have overlooked, or underestimated. And that is: The wishes of the lay members of the Church, the people who pay the bills, while we preachers, in our ecclesiastical counsels and Conferences, legislate, whereas, and resolute, and thunder against the evangelist. The common people want him to come around and preach and hold meetings and organize camp-meetings, etc. And these free and sovereign Americans generally get what they want and are willing to pay for. And the evangelist comes. We pastors may hedge him out of our charges for awhile, and shut him out of our pulpits all the time, but we can't keep him out of our bounds all the time, nor can we keep our dear people from attending missions in the towns or camp-meetings in the woods, nor can we hinder them from getting sanctified, nor keep their mouths shut when they get it. I know, for I have tried it.

There are two other questions that come to me in this connection:

First—When these evangelists first come into a community with the doctrine of entire sanctification, and present Jesus as a complete Savior from all sin, "outward and inward," what class of people does it affect first and most? The most spiritual and Christ-like or the most careless and inconsistent?

Second—By what class of people in the Churches is it most condemned, the best and most deeply pious, or the most worldly?

Zwolle, La.

Harness and Saddles

E. G. AWCOCK,

333 BARONNE STREET,

Phone Main 4467. New Orleans, La.

Repairs Neatly and Promptly Done.

PROHIBITION VICTORY IN ACADIA PARISH

The good people of Acadia Parish have won a great victory in the local option election of Apr. 21. The [illegible] interests massed their forces here and gave out the statement that they would make an example of this parish for the sake of the moral influence on other parishes. Every effort was [illegible] through the mails with literature about "personal liberty," the fallacy of prohibition, etc. Squads of workers were sent in and money was not spared in the determined effort to hold this territory.

Fortunately, the prohibition forces were organized under the leadership of prominent citizens of all shades of religious belief. [illegible] and leading lawyers, doctors and business men were prominent in the fight. The chairman of the committee which conducted the campaign was a prominent lawyer of the Catholic faith, who made speeches in French and English throughout the parish.

The preachers did effective and earnest work but were glad to take a place in the rear ranks. Such an organization disarmed possible prejudice and materially aided the cause.

The women of Crowley organized themselves, and on the day before the election a great parade of women and children, with bands and banners, counting not less than 600 persons, was an impressive appeal for the rights of the home. On election day the women served refreshments, beginning before 6 o'clock in the morning. These demonstrations had doubtless much influence on the result.

The present prospect is that this magnificent victory will have a great effect on a number of neighboring parishes which are agitating the same question.

W. W. DRAKE.

Crowley, La.

THE BREWERS' INTELLIGENCE BUREAU.

BY D. E. HARMON.

The brewers and liquor dealers, becoming alarmed at the rapid march of prohibition, have organized what they term an Intelligence Bureau, to educate the people in regard to the liquor traffic. In this they have made a fatal mistake. The people are becoming so well informed and educated upon the great evil, and demoralizing effect of the liquor traffic, in contrast with the good results and reforming character of prohibition that they are acting in accordance with the knowledge and intelligence gained and are driving the saloon from their midst with whirlwind speed. The prohibitionists have nothing to fear from the spread of intelligence in regard to the liquor traffic. All that is necessary for them to do is to follow their speakers and contradict all the erroneous statements that may be made.

There are many uninformed ones who will take as true any statement made. For instance, when it is stated that there are only six prohibition states out of forty-two, and, therefore, the sentiment of the people of the United States is not represented by these six States. This statement could be shown to be erroneous by stating that there are seven States that have adopted prohibition as a whole, and that they alone, truly, do not represent the sentiment of the people on the prohibition question as two-thirds of the entire territory of the United States is protected by prohibition laws in some form. Again, one of the brewers, in a speech made in New Orleans, stated that all the great daily papers were against prohibition except one Philadelphia paper.

Now, he was either stating what he knew to be untrue, or he needed some education, different from that which his Intelligence Bureau is discriminating. His [illegible] has never been [illegible] and many others that could be named.

[illegible]

The address of Mr. Story [illegible] of Louisiana in the Times-Democrat [illegible] contains statements [illegible] of our most intelligent, thoughtful and [illegible]. He says: "The results in States [illegible] the minds of any [illegible] than prohibition does not prohibit, and where the [illegible] the second condition is worse than the first." This does not admit of a question. It is contradicted by the most [illegible].

I submit that Mr. Story is not a candid investigator. He evidently obtained his information from brewers and saloon keepers, and [illegible] beyond the limits of New Orleans.

Had he desired to learn the real facts in regard to effects of prohibition he would have inquired of ex-Governor James K. Vardaman and Governor E. F. Noel of Mississippi, both of whom denounced the liquor traffic in severest terms in their last and first messages to the legislature recommending the enactment of statutory prohibition. He would have inquired of the legislators of the House and Senate which carried out those recommendations with only four dissenting votes in the Senate, as to why they enacted laws that would bring about the awful state of affairs that he is depicting in his address to the people. He would also have inquired of the 1,365,101 population in the seventy dry counties in Mississippi why they have lived for fifteen years under the awful conditions that he is announcing to the people, when they had the right at any time to recall their action and return to the saloons.

Again he says, "The record of jails, courts and communities where prohibition has been tried are rife with evils. Fraud, lying and deception follow in the train of prohibition." If that be true, Mr. Story is pronouncing many an eminent and intelligent judge on the bench, honored governors, able sheriffs and noted prohibition advocates, as liars and perjurers, who have frequently stated in print the beneficial effect of prohibition in lessening crime and reducing the number of prisoners in jails. I quote from the Review of Reviews: "The jail-keepers of Kentucky recently appeared before the present Legislature to ask for a special appropriation, assigning as the reason that the closing of the saloons had so diminished crime that they did not have prisoners enough left within the jail walls to furnish board money to apply on maintenance."

Mr. Story again says: "It is well known that the licensed saloon is subject to legal restrictions which, if enforced, would remove many objections of the prohibitionists; that they are not enforced is a fact patent to all." Mr. Story has admitted a fact which is his stock in trade argument against prohibition, "that it does not prohibit." I submit that the prohibition laws are better enforced than regulation laws for the saloon. I insist as emphatically as Mr. Story in regard to prohibition [illegible] that the regulation laws will never be enforced.

He says again: "[illegible] makes [illegible] is not [illegible] high ideals [illegible]. We want to make the best of men," which is to say that prohibition makes the worst of men. The following is the testimony of the members of the Board of Trade of Meridian, published in an illustrated pamphlet: "Meridian is an ideal place for rearing a family. The city has for years operated under the prohibition laws, and [illegible] here makes the prohibition law [illegible] boys are not surrounded by temptations that beset them in other places, and for that reason the type of young men found here is much above the average in moral worth." This was not said by prohibition fanatics, but by business men who have made Meridian what it is under prohibition.

He says again: "The average man or woman active and healthy, such as we are addressing, is not the fanatic nor the paid [illegible] agitator. [illegible] object to the temperate use of liquor." I judge that means all who are opposed to the saloon, which would include ex-Governor James K. Vardaman, Governor E. F. Noel, of Mississippi; ex-Governor Northern, of Georgia; Governor Glenn, of North Carolina; Governor Hanly, of Indiana; ex-Governor Cobb, of Maine; ex-Governor Douglas, of Massachusetts; Governor Haskell, of Oklahoma; and many other great and wise leaders could be named, all of whom have given their best energy and efforts in opposition to the saloon.

Shining will cost me something. All light means an expenditure of force. [illegible] fat and wick must be consumed in burning. But can I grudge the expenditure? Must I not rather glory in it when in proportion as I am expended in his service, I am myself transfigured by the flame that consumes?—Rev. R. H. Knight.

GET SOLID PROTECTION AND INSURE WITH
LEON IRWIN & CO.
Fire and Casualty Insurance.
[illegible] GRAVIER STREET. PHONE, MAIN [illegible]

W. W. Carre Co., Ltd.
Manufacturers and Exporters of
LUMBER,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Phone Main [illegible]
ROOMS and BOARD
[illegible] and [illegible] SOUTH STREET LAFAYETTE SQUARE
CORNER ST. CHARLES ST., NEW ORLEANS
UNLIMITED MEALS. ALVIN PORTER, Manager.

ESTABLISHED [illegible]
JOHN DAVID BURGHARDT CO.,
THE RELIABLE PLUMBERS and GAS FITTERS.
Agency: Born's Patent Steel Ranges. Hygeia Water Filters.
613-615 Bienville St. Phone Main [illegible]
Jobbing and Repair Work a Specialty. New Orleans La.

Our line of Stoves, Kitchen Furnishings and General Household Supplies is full of interest to all Good Housekeepers.

Suppose you take a look at it for yourself—
UNITED HARDWARE CO.,
LIMITED.

AMERICAN BIBLE SOCIETY.

SOUTHWESTERN AGENCY.

Dear Dr. Boswell: I feel sure that our people believe in the uplifting and saving power of the Word of God, and will be greatly interested in the new work reecntly inaugurated by the American Bible Society in the Southwest under the name of the Southwestern Agency.

This Agency in its territory includes the States of Oklahoma, Arkansas, Louisiana and Texas. Its work is to be directed in its details by a secretary, with an advisory or executive committee composed of men who are leaders in the work of the various denominations represented in these States. The work, of course, will be subject to the control of the American Bible Society.

A depository has been opened at Dallas, Tex., and an aggressive Bible missionary campaign has been inaugurated for the purpose of placing a Bible in every home in the Southwest that does not now possess one. This work is to be conducted especially among the foreign-speaking peoples. Colporters have already been secured for work among the French, the Italians, Mexicans and Indians; and others, among the Germans, Bohemians, and the Poles, etc., are to follow.

That there is need for such a work no one who has studied the field at all can for a moment doubt. Out of a population of approximately eight millions in this Southwest, nearly one million are either of foreign birth or of foreign-speaking parentage. And they are just beginning to come. Galveston and New Orleans are already recognized immigrant ports, and recent appropriations made by Congress for the establishment of immigrant stations at these places, with an expressed purpose on the part of the immigrant authorities to turn our way a part of the great tide of immigration now pouring its millions from southern and southeastern Europe upon our shores, predict larger things for the future. These peoples present to our churches a serious problem, an imperative need, and an unparalleled opportunity. It is a remarkable case of foreign missions at home. They call aloud for the truth as it really is in Jesus Christ, and the American Bible Society has entered the field to help answer this call. A large force of Bible missionaries should be maintained to open up the way and lay the foundations for the more permanent and broader work of the Churches. This will be impossible without the generous interest and support of the Protestant Churches.

Surely, the work is one that makes its own appeal. No other promises larger results for the advancement of the kingdom of our common Master. If it has been the custom of your people to make an annual offering for this Society, will you not ask that it be increased? And if they have not been contributors, will you not see that they have a chance to begin this year?

This communication is sent out by the direction of the American Bible Society that it may inform the people somewhat in detail about the work of this new Agency, and that I, as their secretary, may get in touch with the brethren of my field and have them come to feel that I am a part of them and a co-worker with them in a most vital and fundamental sense.

Collections and gifts for this work may be sent to me or directly to William Foulke, Bible House, Astor Place, New York. Yours cordially, GLENN FLINN.

Mirth is God's medicine. Everybody ought to bathe in it. Grim care, moroseness, anxiety—all this rust of life ought to be scoured off by the oil of mirth. It is better than emery. Blessed is he who has a sense of the humorous! He has that which is worth more than money.—Henry Ward Beecher.

The Home Circle.

ENLARGED HIS BORDERS.

"No, Dr. Hull," said Martin Reed, "I don't believe in missions. Seems to me we have enough of work piled up around us here."

"I'm sorry to hear you talk like that, Martin. You have been my right-hand man in so many ways since I began my pastorate here that I do not want a single grace denied you. You don't know how a man whose youth is gone covets other men's youth for the Master. But let's not have differences to remember for the whole month of my vacation. Since you will not agree, we will change the subject."

They had stopped at the parsonage, and their eyes met with that heart-warming look of liking which is one of the most lasting sweets of life.

"Martin, I want you to do something for me. I suppose, like all well-regulated Christians, you pray at morning and evening. For one month I want you not to pray a single time for yourself or family."

"For what, then, Doctor?" Reed asked uncomfortably.

"For whatever you please, Martin. But not one word for yourself or your family. I'll pray for you and them, if you like, and give you free range. Don't skip your usual praying-time—that's all."

Reed laughed to himself as he went out: "I dont' know what he is after; but he is trying some experiment, with his finger on my spirtual pulse. He can't find out anything, though, unless I tell him."

When the two men met a month later, the minister as brown as a ripe pear from his vacation, Martin answered his question before he asked it.

"I believe in missions now, Dr. Hull."

"That warms me. But how did it happen?"

"Why, you happened it, and you know it."

"Tell me about it."

"Well, that first night, when I went to pray before I slept, I found that I had nothing to say. Doctor, I tell you it frightened me to discover that in all God's full world I could find nothing worth praying for but myself and my mother and Grace. I got through some how, but it made me think—and I didn't sleep very well. We have never had family prayers at our house, though perhaps—but that's another story. Well, the next day Uncle Daniel Burt came for a week's visit, and, of course, he held family prayers. And equally of course he called on me, as the man of the family, to pray. I was up a stump. When I knelt down, my head and my heart were as empty as a new cup. You see, I couldn't very well pray for spiritual blessings on a saint like Uncle Dan and leave myself out. So I devoted the time to civic affairs. I didn't realize how much I had agonized over the mayor until, as soon as prayers were over, I saw Uncle Daniel seize the paper and look through it for sensational developments at the city hall. He didn't find anything, and on the way down town he said innocently: 'Sonny, what kind of mayor is Jane Briggs' son making?' I told him the best kind—best we'd had since I'd been voting—but my face got pretty red."

Reed looked up slyly at the minister, whose laughing eyes in his grave face were like a bit of sunshine in a shady place.

"The next morning I prayed for the poor, and for our institutions of learning; but, Dr. Hull, I felt something lacking; I felt an emptiness, a sense of limitation. Heretofore I had begun with myself and radiated a little way; but now I wanted to be able to say, 'God bless the world—all but me,' and I was not able. But, you see, I had to acquit myself somehow before Uncle Daniel; so I went to the Psalms for suggestions, and here the first thing I saw was the heathen given to Christ for his inheritance, and that the multitude of the isles are to be glad because the Lord reigns. How many times I have passed those things for something for me, something 'personal'—in my littleness not seeing that these promises are 'personal' to millions of folks Christ died for!

"After that I asked Uncle Daniel to do the praying, and it pleased him—he thought it was offering him the whole of the apple instead of half, because he was company. And somehow I saw that I had missed it, and I kept still and envied Uncle Daniel while he lavished himself on the whole creation. Well, Doctor, in short, you showed me the selfishness of my prayers and God showed me the way out. I believe now in the world for Christ. And I'd like to pray a little for myself, too, for I don't want to be the only man sitting down while all the rest are standing."

The minster spoke tenderly: "Pray all you like. You have entered into the secret, my friend."—Epworth Herald.

In order to speak the language of prayer since we have been so long strangers and foreigners in lands of forgetfulness, let us ask God to put the holy language of devotion again upon our lips, that we may talk to him in sweet, pure, strong words; that we may know what the fathers meant when they talked of transacting with God; that we may, in our humble measure, cast weights into the wavering scale of providence, that shall determine its descent laden with help and comfort to the Church and the world.—F. B. Meyer.

For all of us the road has to be walked every step, and the uttermost farthing paid. The gate will open wide to welcome us, but will not come to meet us. Neither is it any use to turn aside; it only makes the road longer and harder.—George Macdonald.

BELLEVUE POULTRY SUPPLY CO.

Everything in the poultry line: Chickens, Parrots, Guinea Pigs, Rabbits and Pet Stock of every description; Cyphers, Incubators and Feed at Factory Prices, may be had by writing us at 740 Camp St., New Orleans, La. Catalogue sent free.

DOCTOR
Tichenor's Antiseptic
ASK ANY ONE WHO HAS EVER USED IT.

UNDER A STRAIN

The muscles always become sore and stiff. Delightful and lasting relief is immediately had by applying

Dr. Tichenor's Antiseptic

Its healing effect is truly wonderful. You can't well be without it. Take a bottle home today.

All druggists 25 and 50 cts.

Christian Advocate.

REV. JNO. W. BOSWELL, D.D., Editor.
REV. H. WHITEHEAD, Ass't Editor.
CHAS. O. CHALMERS, Publisher.

ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT NEW ORLEANS AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

OFFICE: 512 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

TERMS:

One Copy, one year, $2; six months, $1. To Preachers of all Denominations, half-price.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEES:

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE—Rev. W. W. Drake, Rev. N. E. Joyner, Rev. J. M. Henry.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE—Rev. M. L. Burton, Rev. W. H. Lewis, Rev. C. W. Crisler.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE—Rev. W. T. J. Sullivan, D.D.; Rev J. T. Murrah, Rev. W. W. Woollard.

AN APPEAL FOR HELP

BY THE COLLEGE OF BISHOPS OF THE METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH.

During the past few days three fearful storms have ravaged the States of Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama and Georgia. This cyclone disturbance has been accompanied by widespread destruction of property and fearful loss of life. Several towns and villages have been completely wiped out. Churches have been destroyed and hundreds, if not thousands, of our people are without homes and shelter.

Telegrams of inquiry were sent from Mission Headquarters in Nashville, offering aid. The response to one of these is as follows:

"Conditions not exaggerated. Children being found in the woods. Parents dead. Send all the financial aid you can."

In view of the foregoing, and of the added fact that the fearful havoc wrought by the hurricane extends over a widespread area in the Southern section of our Gulf States, we make an immediate appeal to our Methodist people for generous contributions in aid of the sufferers. All funds should be forwarded to J. D. Hamilton, Treasurer Board of Missions, Nashville, Tenn., who will distribute the same under the instructions of the Executive Committee of the board. (Signed)

A. W. WILSON.
O. P. FITZGERALD.
C. B. GALLOWAY.
W. A. CANDLER.
E. R. HENDRIX.
H. C. MORRISON.
J. S. KEY.
SETH WARD.
JAS. ATKINS.

WOMAN'S FOREIGN MISSION BOARD.

The Woman's Board of Foreign Missions convened in annual session in this city May 1. It is at this writing, Monday evening, in the midst of the work. The field is extensive and the women give it full and patient attention. As yet final conclusions have not been reached, and we can make no report. The Board is composed of the general officers, and delegates chosen from the various Annual Conference Societies. It is not a very large body, but made up of the choice women of the Church, some of whom are not only consecrated, but women of superior attainments. They know how to transact business, and do it. A writer in one of our daily papers said the Congress of the United States might take lessons from them, as they had done more work in a week than Congress generally does in a month.

We looked in upon them while in session—which was a great pleasure. Besides, we had the honor of an introduction, and bowed as politely as our awkwardness would allow. The President, Miss Gibson, in introducing us, said something we did not hear. It may have been an invitation to make "a few remarks." No matter. We had no remarks in mind, and quietly went back to the rear.

The women have been remarkably successful during the past year, having raised more money than during any year of the Board's existence. They are full of hope and courage. All honor to the noble band of saints who are doing all they can to extend the Master's kingdom.

SOME EVILS OF OPEN COMMUNION.

One evil of open communion as pointed out by Rev. T. A. J. Beasley in the Baptist Record some time in January is its tendency to the persecution of those who hold to restricted, or close communion, as practiced by Baptists. In the issue of the Record of April 16 Brother Beasley says the editor of this ADVOCATE proves his contention. That is to say: The editor of the ADVOCATE, who favors open communion, persecutes those who are opposed to it and adhere to what he calls "the Scriptural terms of the Lord's Supper."

What did we say that subjected us to the serious charge of persecuting a brother Christian? Having specially in mind those Baptists who commune with other denominations, we said: A plain, honest Christian who would engage in such a service * * * would be hard to convince that he was perpetrating an evil." These brethren do not believe they do violence to God's Word when they partake of the Lord's Supper with other churches; otherwise, as honest men, they would not do it. But because we think these Christians are honest and would be hard to convince that they perpetrate an evil by practicing open communion, it does not follow that, in our opinion, "one who believes such to be an evil is not honest." It is in obedience to his honest convictions that one Baptist holds to restricted communion. It is likewise in obedience to conviction that another Baptist, equally honest, practices open communion.

Wherein consists the evil? It certainly works no harm to the individual. If it did he would refrain. Nor can we conceive of it as working harm to the cause of God in general. On the contrary, the communion at the Lord's table of persons of different churches cannot do otherwise than bind them closer together in Christian fellowship. It is bound to broaden their Christian sympathies. How the brethren of the "most straitest sect" of close communionists feel when they restrict the Lord's Supper to the members of the local church, as did Dr. J. R. Graves, or to Baptist churches in general, we are not prepared to say.

There are some Christians, including many Baptists, who claim to belong to the only body of believers authorized to preach the Gospel, or to baptize and set the Lord's table. They hold themselves aloof from everything indicating sympathy with other people claiming to belong to the Church of Christ. In their estimation, such Christians belong to human organizations, and are without authority; their preachers are not scripturally ordained, and their baptism, though it be immersion, is null and void. They are exclusivists to all intents and purposes. How can it be otherwise than that they cut themselves off from the sympathy of those who hold to broader views? We reject such exclusive views, believing that our holy religion binds all believers together in one body in Christ, giving equal rights and privileges to all; and, in doing so, we do not cherish the least bit of the spirit of persecution. Nor do we doubt the honesty of those who see differently. We know that the basis of Brother Beasley's doctrine is that, to the Baptists, the Lord Jesus delivered the great commission, and that he and those of his "faith and order" are in the line of succession—things that he cannot prove.

Brother Beasley says the trouble with us is, we do "not understand the design of the Lord's Supper." Possibly that is true, but it has nothing to do with the question of open or close communion. We know very well that the Lord's Supper is not designed "to show our love for one another as Christians;" at the same time it is true that members of different churches, even of different Baptist churches, would not commune together, if they did not love one another. And we insist, notwithstanding our Lord said, "Do this in remembrance of me," and that St. Paul said, "Ye do show the Lord's death till he come," that when Baptists, Episcopalians, Methodists and others get together around the Lord's table, the world, looking on the scene, has a perfect right to say: "See how these Christians love one another!" But the world never will say this so long as Christians hold themselves apart, and, like Jews and Samaritans, have no dealings with each other.

CONFERENCE FOR EDUCATION.

The Conference for education by the Board of Education of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, will be held in Atlanta, Ga., May 19-21. Several Conferences of like character have been held since they were authorized by our General Conference in 1902 with gratifying results. The coming Conference is expected to be of unusual interest. This we would necessarily infer from the subjects (some of them) to be discussed and the men who are to discuss them. Possibly the results will be far-reaching. Men who have far-reaching schemes in hand will be there, and will be heard. Many of the addresses will be interesting and profitable—two at least we would much like to hear: "The Relation of the State to Religious Education," by Gov. Hoke Smith, of Georgia, and "The Nature and Extent of the Control that Should be Exercised by Denominations Over Their Institutions of Learning," by President Henry S. Prichett, of the Carnegie Foundation.

Great preparation is being made for the entertainment of the Conference, and a large delegation is expected. Dr. J. D. Hammond, of Nashville, Tenn., we suppose will furnish inquirers all necessary information.

THE COMPARATIVE FIGURES.

The Regular Baptists and Southern Methodists, in point of numbers, are the leading denominations in Mississippi. The number of Baptists we do not know. The Methodists number, including preachers, 99,913.

According to the figures given out by Rev. W. P. Price, Secretary of the Baptist State Convention Board, the Baptists for the year closing April 30 gave $19,182 for Home Missions, and $28,900 for Foreign Missions, a total of $48,082. At the close of the last fiscal year the Methodists of Mississippi reported, in the regular collections for Foreign Missions, $27,194, besides special contributions to the amount of $4711; and for Domestic Missions, including Church Extension funds, $51,058, a total for missions of $82,963. Both these Churches in Mississippi are advancing in all departments of Christian work.

PERSONALS.

Rev. E. L. Cargill reports a "good day" at St. Francisville, last Sunday. Six persons were received into membership on profession of faith and two joined by certificate.

At Auburn, Miss., on May 31, there will be an "old folks' union service," to occupy well-nigh the whole day. The sermon at 11 a.m. will be preached by Rev. H. P. Lewis, the elder. It will doubtless be a day of great interest.

Miss Katherine Gertrude, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. John A. Randolph, of the North Mississippi Conference, was married April 25 to Mr. Louis Lowrance Wright. They are at home, 104 Tenth Street, Dallas, Texas. May life's blessings in abundance be theirs!

Rev. J. J. Smylie, of Flora, Miss., had the misfortune to lose his home, a valuable piece of property, at Purvis, Miss. It was completely destroyed by the great storm of April 24. "Only a little pile of lumber is left." The two persons living in the house were killed.

The Church at Water Valley prospers under the able administration of Rev. W. W. Woollard. By the way, he sends us a fine account of the Layman's Missionary Movement. He says: "It may be a little long, but what I left out was far more than I put in." Our readers will be interested.

We thank the faculty and graduating class of Scarritt Bible and Training School for an invitation to the Fifteenth Annual Commencement, Monday, May 11. The sermon will be preached by Bishop Ward on Sunday the 10th, at Melrose Church, Kansas City. The graduating class numbers seventeen.

Dr. J. W. Shoaff, of Columbus, Miss., will next Sunday (May 10) deliver the commencement sermon for the Tuscaloosa Female College—the second time he will have served the institution in that capacity within the five years past. On May 7 he was engaged to deliver the memorial sermon at Soule Chapel.

Rev. J. W. Rogers, of Winona Circuit, serves "a people loyal to the Church and to God. No pastor ever had a better people to serve." And Brother Rogers is doing his part to help them. Part of the work is circulating the ADVOCATE. He sends us a list of twenty renewals and new subscribers. We heartily thank him for his good work.

Rev. T. J. Leggett, presiding elder of the Natchez District, under date of May 2 (last Saturday), informs us that Rev. M. A. Thurman, of the Hamburg Circuit, died on Tuesday, and was buried at Crystal Springs the following Thursday. There were no other particulars. Mississippi loses one of her faithful and useful preachers. A memoir, we suppose, will be furnished us in due time.

We are glad to learn through a private note from Rev. J. C. Park, of Greenwood, that his health is constantly improving, and that he hopes soon to be able to do full work. The Sunday School, Epworth Leagues and all other departments of the work are prosperous. The stewards this year raised the salary to $1800, and pay it monthly. Twenty-three persons have joined the Church this year.

Bishops Wilson and Hoss attended the Annual Meeting of the Woman's Board of Foreign Missions in session just now in this city. Bishop Wilson preached Sunday morning in the First Church, and Bishop Hoss addressed the Board in the evening, giving full information concerning Brazil and the work in that promising field. Both left the city to meet the Board of Church Extension and the General Board of Missions.

Rev. G. D. Anders, writing from the McComb and Fernwood charge, says: "It is too soon in the year to be figuring for an appointment," but ventures the following: "Brother G. H. Thompson, our popular presiding elder, held our second Quarterly Conference at Fernwood on the 26th ult., and preached the most appropriate sermon for the occasion that I have heard for a long time. He has won the hearts of our people, and they love to have him come."

A CALL IN BEHALF OF PURVIS,

Dear Dr. Boswell: At a called Quarterly Conference at Purvis, Miss., a building committee was appointed to arrange for the rebuilding of the Church and parsonage, which were totally destroyed in the cyclone of April 24.

The good people of Main Street, Hattiesburg, will build the Church, but to build the Parsonage it will require money, and but two members of the Church in Purvis are now able to help. But few churches in the State have done more than the Methodist Church at Purvis, with a comparatively small membership. They gave last year between $4000 and $5000. The property of nearly every member was swept away, some not being left a change of clothing.

Rev. M. M. Black, our faithful pastor, lost practically everything. I feel that it is right to ask the Methodists and friends of the cause of Christ to help these good people. Contributions sent to James Hand, at Purvis, Miss., or Thos. M. Ferguson, at Hattiesburg, Miss., will be duly acknowledged and applied to the building of the Church and parsonage. Fraternally,

M. L. BURTON,
Presiding Elder Seashore District.

DR. J. A. MOORE'S LIFE A PROVERB.

Dr. G. M. Galloway, a dentist of Spencer, West Virginia, and a former student of Millsaps College, in a private letter, has written the following words about his former preceptor:

"I was shocked to know that Dr. J. A. Moore, of Millsaps College, was dead. I always liked Dr. Moore. You know I was in his class at Sunday school when we studied part of the New Testament in Greek. Last year when I went to Jackson to stand examination before the State Board of Dental Examiners, I got Dr. Moore and Prof. Ricketts to sign a certificate of recommendation as to my moral character.

"Dr. Moore used to read Proverbs to us in chapel, and his life seemed a model proverb—one of wisdom and self-control. I think he was as impartial in the class-room as is possible for human kind to be. He seemed to bring up his children in knowledge and industry. He was very punctual and faithful in the discharge of his duty in the classroom. I dare say he is now with the pure in heart around the great white throne. His place in Millsaps will be hard to fill."

FELICITY STREET REVIVAL.

Felicity Street Church has just closed a gracious revival of two weeks in which there were twenty-two additions made to the Church. The preaching was done by Rev. Chas. D. Atkinson, our pastor of Parker Memorial Church, whose sermons were soul-stirring messages that led many hearts to a closer walk with God. The membership was revived and a large number of persons took a stand for Christ, which is clearly seen in the increased activity in church work, especially in our Sunday school.

Our Men's Club, which was organized some time ago, has fallen in line with the Layman's Movement, and will co-operate in everything that fosters the interest of the Church.

ALBERT S. LUTZ.

A VALUED RELIC.

Dear Dr. Boswell: A few days ago I saw the credentials of Stephen Tunnell, who was ordained a deacon at Tuscaloosa on the 20th of December, 1824, by Bishop R. R. Roberts. Three of Stephen Tunnell's children are now living, viz, D. P. Tunnell and L. L. Tunnell, of Shannon, Miss. They are worthy citizens, and are members of old Piney Grove Church. Mrs. Jane C. Barmore, of Clariettville, Tex., holds to the faith of her father, and is a consecrated Christian woman.

A goodly number of both ministers and laymen in Alabama and Mississippi were associated with Stephen Tunnell.

J. W. SHOAFF.

Columbus, Miss.

ENGLAND SAYS NO ALUM IN FOOD and strictly prohibits the sale of alum baking powder—

So does France
So does Germany

The sale of alum foods has been made illegal in Washington and the District of Columbia, and alum baking powders are everywhere recognized as injurious.

To protect yourself against alum, when ordering baking powder,

Say plainly—

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

and be sure you get Royal.

Royal is the only Baking Powder made from Royal Grape Cream of Tartar. It adds to the digestibility and wholesomeness of the food.

ALEXANDRIA'S NEW CHURCH.

First Church, Alexandria, will be completed June 6, and the first sermon in the new building will be preached by Dr. W. F. McMurry on Sunday, June 7. All former pastors and presiding elders are cordially invited to be present. Homes will be provided for all who will notify me.

H. R. SINGLETON.

DISTRICT CONFERENCE.

The Crowley District Conference will meet in Jeanerette May 29-June 1, 1908. The opening sermon will be preached Friday, May 29, at 8 p.m., by Rev. J. I. Hoffpauir. The business session of the Conference will begin Saturday, May 30, at 9 a.m.

J. M. HENRY,
Presiding Elder.

WINONA DISTRICT CONFERENCE.

If the preachers will send me the names of their delegates who are at all likely to attend the District Conference it will be of great service to me in providing you entertainment, and I shall be grateful for the information. Respectfully,

W. H. MOUNGER.

Eupora, Miss.

NOTICE.

The Meridian District Conference will convene in Buckatunnna, Miss., June 23, at 4:30 p. m. Let there be a full attendance at the opening.

W. C. BLACK, P. E.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.

The Woman's Foreign Missionary Society, and also the Woman's Home Missionary Society, of the Sardis District, will hold their District Meeting in connection with District Conference, at Batesville, on May 27, and on May 28 will be held the Sunday school and Mission Day Special. The District Conference will run through to May 31, including fifth Sunday.

W. M. YOUNG.

The great dangers lie within ourselves. What matters it what threatens our head or our purse? Let us think only of that which threatens our soul.—Victor Hugo.

Obituaries.

Obituaries not over two hundred words in length will be published free of charge. All over two hundred words will be charged at the rate of 1 cent a word. Count the words and send amount necessary with the obituary. That will save trouble all around.

JOHN HENRY TOWNS.—Friday morning, Feb. 11, 1908, the death angel quietly visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Towns and took from them their darling baby boy, John Henry, just six years old. He was sick nearly a month—first with measles, and then bronchitis and then pneumonia. He was a patient sufferer, never murmuring or complaining. He is gone and we are left to follow on. We know he has gone where there will be no more sickness or death, but life around the throne of God. Little John loved to go to Sunday School, and to sing the sweet songs of Zion; his favorite being, "There's a light at the river." He can never come back to his parents and loved ones, but we can go to him, where there will be "no more good byes." He was laid to rest at the old Camp Ground, there to await the resurrection. John Henry was a smart child, loved by all who knew him. Though gone, he is not forgotten; his vacant place in our home can never be filled. He loved to sit in mamma's lap or by her side. He leaves father, mother, four brothers and two sisters to mourn. Oh, how we miss our darling. It looks as if we cannot stand to think we will never see him any more in this world. May our Father help us to say, "Thy will, not ours, be done." His pale hands are folded on his cold and silent breast, the coffin has closed on his face cold in death, and we are left to sorrow, and our thoughts constantly turn to the little mound that marks his resting place in "the city of the dead." He will sleep peacefully till the resurrection morn, when we shall meet him to part no more. His loving sister,

MAY TOWNS.

Mr. WILLIAM FOOTE, after a long and useful life, passed quietly away surrounded by family and friends, on Sunday night, March 29, 1908, at his home, near Rosa, La. Mr. Foote began life's journey on Feb. 1, 1821, in North Carolina, and moved to Vicksburg, Miss., when a boy, from whence he moved to East Carroll Parish, La. Miss Sarah Parker, whom he married in 1841, was called to the home beyond in 1877. Their union was blessed with ten children, only four of whom survive him. On May 22, 1879, he married Mrs. C. L. S. Knighton, of Chicot County, Ark., who was a faithful loving wife, and has many friends who truly sympathize with her in this bereavement. Mr. Foote was a prominent member of the Baptist Church, while his wife is a Methodist, and ministers of both churches were ever welcome in their home. A man of sterling character, a good neighbor, and ever a friend to the widow and orphan, "Grandpa Foote" was loved by all, and will be sadly missed by many who were accustomed to visit him in his hospitable country home, where many sorrowing friends gathered and laid him to rest in the beautifully shaded garden on Monday afternoon, March [illegible], 1908.

ONE OF HIS FRIENDS.

In Webb, Miss., while on her way to Memphis to be treated, NARY E. GOFF, daughter of Sister Katie A. Goff, one of our noblest and truest women, quietly and peacefully passed away in the hotel with her devoted mother and the faithful doctor by her side. Nary was only sixteen years of age, but in all this country, perhaps, there were very few who did not know this beautiful character. She had won her way into the love and admiration of all who knew her. In all the writer's experience in the Delta, he has not witnessed just such a funeral service and attended by so many people from the surrounding country. The services at the church and grave were conducted by the pastor and Brother J. R. Huges, a faithful Baptist preacher, and at one time, Nary's teacher. Only eternity will reveal the gracious influence her life has had upon humanity. God in His goodness had endowed her with a strong intellect and sweet disposition and in return she gave her heart to God. A modest, unselfish, affectionate girl, her death was sad beyond the power of words to express, but she laid hold upon the life that was fit to live forever.

W. M. CAMPBELL.

CHURCH DIRECTORY.

New Orleans District, Rev. F. N. Parker, D.D., presiding elder; residence 231 Olivier St.

Rev. John T. Sawyer, D.D., Conference Missionary Evangelist; residence, 2421 Chestnut St.; phone, Uptown 1822.

First Methodist Church, St. Charles Ave., near Calliope St.; Rev. J. E. Wray, pastor; residence, 5830 Prytania St.; phone, Uptown 329; office hours, at Church, 2 to 3 p. m.; Church phone, Main 1779.

Second Methodist Church, 2531 Burgundy, near Lafayette Ave.; Rev. A. I. Townsley, pastor; residence, 2728 N. Rampart St.; office hours, 9 to 11 a.m.; phone, Main 973.

Parker Memorial, corner Nashville avenue and Perrier street; Rev. C. D. Atkinson, pastor; residence 734 Nashville avenue.

Louisiana Avenue, corner Louisiana Ave. and Magazine St.; Rev. W. W. Holmes, pastor; residence 2903 Camp St.; phone, Uptown 1391.

Rayne Memorial, St. Charles Avenue and General Taylor Streets; Dr. John A. Rice, pastor; residence, 1101 Peniston Street.

Felicity Street Church, corner Felicity and Chestnut Streets; Rev. Albert S. Lutz, pastor; residence 2321 Chestnut Street.

Carrollton Avenue, corner Carrollton avenue and Elm street; Rev. Henry T. Carley, pastor; residence, 1125 Fern St.; phone, Uptown 1238.

Algiers, Lavergne Street, corner Delaronde; Rev. J. F. Foster, pastor.

McDonoghville and Gretna, Rev. H. Whitehead, pastor; residence 5208 Magazine Street; phone, Uptown 2459.

Epworth Church, corner Banks and Scott Streets; Rev. L. A. Sims, pastor; residence, 232 South Pierce Street.

Rev. Jno. L. Sutton, Superintendent Orphan Boys' Asylum; residence, 5220 St. Charles Ave.; phone, Uptown 128.

Rev. L. E. Wicht, junior preacher Lower Coast Mission; address, 509 Board of Trade Bldg., New Orleans.

Marriages.

At the residence of Mr. Thos. Hay, near Ouachita City, April 5, 1908, by Rev. H. B. Vandenburg, Dr. Duke Hodge to Miss Anna Hay.

At the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson, in Ringgold, La., by Rev. A. R. Hoffpauir, on April 19, 1908, Mr. OBED TUGWELL, of Alberta, La., and Miss ROSA WILSON.

On April 23, 1908, at the residence of the bride's father, Mr. SAMUEL HAYGOOD and Miss LENA KUHLMAN, by Rev. J. A. Parker. All the parties are residents of Point Coupee Parish.

At the parsonage, in Louisville, Miss., Jan. 19, 1908, by Rev. J. W. Raper, Mr. J. E. CROSBY and Miss MARY EVANS.

At the home of the bride's father in Winston County, Miss., Feb. 11, 1908, by Rev. J. W. Raper, Mr. G. E. YARBROUGH and OLA WAID.

At the home of the bride's brother, Dr. T. L. Parks, Louisville, Miss., March 10, 1908, by Rev. J. W. Raper, Mr. F. B. KIRBY and Miss VIRGINIA MAY PARKS.

At the Parks Hotel, in Louisville, Miss., March 15, 1908, by Rev. J. W. Raper, Mr. N. E. FULLER and Miss MATTIE K. GREER.

At the home of Mr. J. C. Cox, in Louisville, Miss., by Rev. J. W. Raper, April 14, 1908, Mr. S. M. MEEK, of Kosciusko, Miss., and Miss MARY COX.

On Wednesday, April 22, 1908, at 4:30 p. m., at Rayne Memorial Church, by Rev. John T. Sawyer, D.D., Mr. JOSEPH DONALDSON, Jr., and Miss ELIZABETH T. SAWYER, both of New Orleans, La.

April 22, 1908, by the Rev. R. H. B. Gladney, in the Methodist Church, at Starkville, Miss., Dr. HUNTER L. SCALES to Miss VIRGINIA SAUNDERS.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.
Address: F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.
Sold by Druggists, 75c.
Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

FITS St. Vitus' Dance and Nervous diseases permanently cured by Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. Send for FREE $2.00 trial bottle and treatise. Dr. R. H. Kline, Ltd., 931 Arch St., Philadelphia, Pa.

MOXINE CHILL TONIC
Only Tonic—one bottle—one cure.

BETTER than Cake, Pudding or Pastry
Jell-O
THE DAINTY DESSERT
Cheaper too
10 cents a package
Serves Six

HIS CHANCE IS GONE
YOUR CHANCE IS HERE
The question is, are you qualified to hold a responsible position? Have you had a thorough commercial training? Bankers, Merchants and Manufacturers want you if you are competent. Now is Your Chance. Two roads are open to young people. One requires no training and leads to failure. The other requires training and leads to success. We prepare young men and women and start them on the road to success by securing them high-salaried positions. Fine climate, board cheap. Write for illustrated catalog and further information.
HATTIESBURG BUSINESS COLLEGE, HATTIESBURG, MISS.

MAKE YOUR OWN CONCRETE BLOCKS. Save dealers' and manufacturers' profits. Big saving in cost. Sand, Portland Cement and water, only materials required. No experience necessary. We furnish complete instructions and a simple, rapid outfit for $3.25 and up. Buildings erected are handsome, durable, fireproof, frost-proof and require neither painting nor repairs. This is an opportunity to own your own home at small cost. Investigate. Concrete machinery catalog free. THE PETTYJOHN CO.
614 N. 6th Street, Terre Haute, Ind.

NEW YORK
CINCINNATI
ST. LOUIS
NEW ORLEANS

QUEEN & CRESCENT ROUTE
THROUGH SLEEPING CARS
All Meals in DINING CARS
TICKET OFFICE
211 ST. CHARLES ST.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL
The Double Track Route.
26 Hours to Chicago
21 Hours to St. Louis
22 Hours to Louisville
26 Hours to Cincinnati
Through Sleeping Cars to above points. Dining Cars, Library Cars, Chair Cars and Coaches.
Full Particulars at
City Ticket Office.
141 ST. CHARLES STREET.
Phone Main 3818.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

CORINTH DISTRICT—SECOND R'N'D.

Marietta Ct., at Blythes C.	May 9, 10
Myrtle Ct., Ebenezer	May 16, 17
Blue Spgs., at Liberty	May 23, 24
New Albany Ct., at Wells C.	May 30, 31
New Albany Sta., at New Albany	May 31, June 1
Booneville Ct., at Blackland	June 6, 7
Jonesboro Ct., at Brownfield	June 13, 14
Rainey, and Faulkner Ct., at Marvin	June 20, 21
Ripley and New Hope, at Wier's	June 27, 28

District Conference will be held at Baldwyn, Miss., July 14, 15, 16.

BEN P. JACO, P. E.

COLUMBUS DIST.—SECOND ROUND.

Macon	May 16, 17
Mayhew, at Mayhew	May 9, 10
Mathiston	May 1, 3
Crawford, at New Bethel	May 23, 24
Sturges, at Bethel	May 30, 31
Brooksville	June 6, 7
Hebron	June 13, 14
Cedar Bluff	June 20, 21

District Conference will be held at Mathiston July 1, 2, 3.

L. M. LIPSCOMB, P. E.

OXFORD DISTRICT—SECOND RND.

Paris Ct., at Bruner's	May 9, 10
Water Valley Ct., at Pleasant R.	May 15,
Coffeeville Ct., at Goshen	May 16, 17
Waterford Ct., at Harris C.	May 30, 31

The District Conference will meet in Holly Springs May 19, 20, 21.

J. E. CUNNINGHAM, P. E.

GREENVILLE DIST—SECOND RND.

Cleveland Sta.	May 10, 11
Cleveland Ct.	May 11, 12.
Rosedale	May 14,
Gunnison, at Hillhouse	May 16, 17
Friar's Point	May 17, 18
Greenville	May 23, 24
Jonestown, at Belen	May 30, 31
Robinsonville	June 1,
Shaw	June 7, 8
Glen Allan and South Greenville	June 10,

The District Conference will be held at Cleveland May 27-29.

R. A. MEEK, P. E.

ABERDEEN DIST.—SECOND RND.

Houlka, at Asbury	May 9, 10
Palestine, at Ebenezer	May 14,
Pontotoc, at Chesterville	May 23, 24
Pontotoc, at Chesterpille	May 23, 24
Nettleton Ct., at Union	May 30, 31
Okolona Ct. at B. Chapel	June 6, 7
Aberdeen	June 9,
Fulton	June 12,
Smithville	June 13, 14

J. H. MITCHELL, P. E.

SARDIS DIST.—SECOND ROUND.

Pleasant Hill, at Baker's C.	May 9, 10
Wall Hill, at Grubb Hill	May 13,
Hernando and Hinds, at H.	May 16, 17
Coldwater	May 18,
Harrison, at Bethel	May 21,
Courtland, at Wesley's C.	May 23, 24
Batesville	May 31,
Eureka	June 4,
Tyro, at Tyro	June 6, 7
Arkabutla	June 13, 14
Longtown, at Longtown	June 16,
Crenshaw	June 17,

W. M. YOUNG, P. E.

WINONA DIST.—SECOND ROUND.

Inverness, at Lawrence D.	May 9, 10
Ruleville, at Sandy Bayou	May 16, 17
Winona Ct., at Bluff Springs	May 20,
Minter City, at Glendora	May 23, 24
Mar's Hill, at Bethesda	May 30, 31
North Carrollton, at Poplar Springs	June 6, 7
Tom Nolen, at Lebanon	June 9,
Slate Spgs., at Spring Hill	June 10,
Vance, at Marks	June 13, 14

The District Conference will be held in Eupora May 26-28. Opening sermon May 26, 7:30 p.m., by Rev. John Ritchie.

E. S. LEWIS, P. E.

DURANT DIST.—SECOND ROUND.

Ebenezer Circuit	May 9, 10
Vaiden, at Kilmichael	May 16, 17
Black Hawk	May 23, 24
Kosciusko Circuit	May 28,
Sidon, at Tchula	May 30, 31

S. M. THAMES, P. E.

Mississippi Conference.

MERIDIAN DIST.—SECOND ROUND.

Eucutta, at New Hope	May 2, 3
DeKalb, at New Hope, at 11 a.m.	May 6,
North Kemper, at Mellen, 11 a.m.	May 7,
Matherville, at Hiwanee	May 9, 10
Seventh Avenue, 7:45 p.m.	May 13,
Enterprise, at Stonewall	May 16, 17
Pachuta, at De Soto, 11 a.m.	May 22,
Waynesboro Ct., at Big R.	May 23, 24
South Side, 8 p.m.	May 26,
Vimville, 11 a.m.	May 27,
Middleton, at State Line	May 30, 31

VICKSBURG DIST.—SECOND ROUND

Oak Ridge, at Redwood	May 9, 10
Port Gibson, at P. G.	May 13,
Rocky Springs, at Cayuga	May 23, 24
Edwards, at E.	June 1,
Anguilla, at Grace	June 4, 5
Rolling Fork, at Cary	June 6, 7
Vicksburg, C. Street	June 13, 14
Bolton, at Raymond	June 20, 21
Mayersville, at Shiloh	June 27, 28

District Conference will be held at Edwards May 27-30.

G. H. GALLOWAY, P. E.

NATCHEZ DIST.—SECOND ROUND

Bethel, at Mt. Carmel	May 9, 10
Centerville	May 10, 11
Percy's Creek, at P. C.	May 16,
Woodville	May 17, 18
Bayou Pierre, at Tabernacle	May 23, 24
Natchez, Pearl Street	May 30, 31
Natchez, Jefferson St	May 31, June 1
Washington, at Kingston	June 6, 7
Barlow, at Lebanon	June 13,
Fayette, at Ebenezer	June 14, 15
Wilkinson, at Mars Hill	June 20, 21
Meadville, at Nebo	June 27, 28

The District Conference will be held at Woodville May 13-16.

J. T. LEGGETT, P. E.

SEASHORE DIST.—SECOND ROUND.

Gulfport, Twenty-fifth Ave.	May 6,
Gulfport, Twenty-ninth	May 7.
Howison and Saucier	May 9, 10
Carriere, at Nicholson	May 14,
Lumberton	May 15,
Hattiesburg, Broad St.	May 16, 17
McHenry and Wiggins, at McHenry	May 23, 24
Mentorum, at Zion	May 25,
Ocean Springs and Oak St., at Oak Street	May 30, 31
Coalville	June 1,
Wolf River	June 2,
Hattiesburg, Court Street	June 6, 7
Hattiesburg, Main Street	June 7, 8

District Conference at McHenry, May 19-23. Opening sermon at 7:30 p.m. by Rev. J. W. Thompson. Sermon evening of 20th by Rev. D. P. Bradford, followed by administration of the Lord's supper.

M. L. BURTON, P. E.

JACKSON DIST.—SECOND ROUND.

Flora, at Bentonia	May 9, 10
Pinola, at Harrisville	May 20,
Terry, at Spring Ridge	May 23, 24
Jackson, Capitol St.	May 27,
Benton, at Tranquil	May 30, 31
Eden, at Phillips	June 2,
Canton	June 6, 7
Lintonia, at Anding	June 13, 14
Mount Olive	June 20, 21

A. F. WATKINS, P. E.

NEWTON DIST.—SECOND ROUND.

Vossberg, at Philadelphia	May 9,
Laurel	May 10, 11
Fifth Avenue	May 10, 11
Rose Hill, at Garlandsville	May 16,
Morton, at P.	May 17, 18
Harpersville, at Contrell	May 23, 24
Trenton, at Trenton	May 30,
Raleigh, at Raleigh	May 31, 32
Hebron, at Hebron	June 6, 7
Ellisville, at Ellisville	June 9,
Decatur, at Neshoba	June 12,
Philadelphia, at Hester's	June 13, 14
Indian Miss., at Phillips	June 19,
Edinberg, at Edinberg	June 20, 21
Neshoba, at Mt. Pisgah	June 27, 28
Walnut Grove, at Zion	July 3,
Carthage, at ———	July 4, 5

JAS. M. WEEMS, P. E.

BROOKHAVEN DIST.—SECOND RND

District Conference at Tylertown	May 8, 10
Tylertown, at China Gr.	May 11,
Monticello, at Sontag	May 16, 17
Beauregard, at N. Wesson	May 17, 18
Wesson	May 23, 24
Summit, at Osyka	May 24, 25
Adams, at Adams	May 30, 31
Pearl River, at W. Chapel	June 3,
Topisaw, at Holmesville	June 6, 7

GEO. H. THOMPSON, P. E.

The United States Geological Survey estimates that two hundred million tons of coal are wasted every year, through improper mining methods. This is enough coal to supply the needs of the country for six months, and at the lowest estimate is worth $200,000,000, at the mines.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

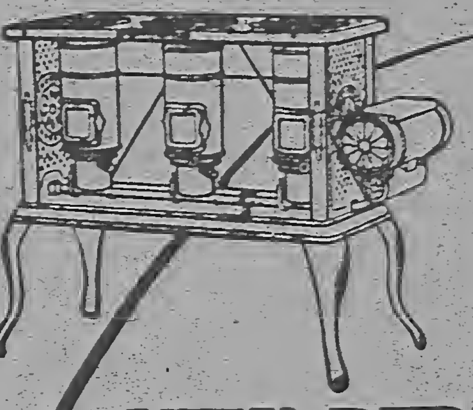
Sold by Druggists, 75c.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

MOXINE

Cures LAGRIPPE and Colds.

Hot Stove—Cool Kitchen



How do you expect to endure the broiling days of summer if you prepare all the food over a glowing coal fire?

You need a "New Perfection" Oil Stove that will do the cooking without cooking the cook. It concentrates plenty of heat under the pot and diffuses little or none through the room. Therefore, when working with the

NEW PERFECTION

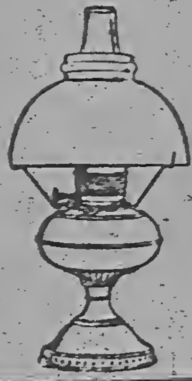
Wick Blue Flame Oil Cook-Stove

the kitchen actually seems as comfortable as you could wish it to be.

This, in itself, is wonderful, but, more than that, the "New Perfection" Oil Stove does perfectly everything that any stove can do. It is an ideal all-round cook-stove. Made in three sizes, and fully warranted. If not with your dealer, write our nearest agency.

The Rayo Lamp a substantial, strongly made and handsome lamp. Burns for hours with a strong, mellow light. Just what you need for evening reading or to light the dining-room. If not with your dealer, write our nearest agency.

STANDARD OIL COMPANY
(Incorporated)



The Brookfield Summer School of Music.

The unprecedented success and growth of this school is the strongest argument for its usefulness. The 1908 session will open Wednesday, July 1st, and close Tuesday, August 25th. The daily Class Instruction is divided between Theory, Choral Instruction, Normal Sessions, Recitals, Musicales, Lectures, and Concerts. Room and board for the eight weeks are furnished at the school. Private lessons, optional as to frequency, can be had in all departments. For Prospectus, address,

H. W. GREENE, No. 864 Carnegie Hall, NEW YORK CITY.

W. H. BYRNES, Pres. JOHN T. GIBBONS, Vice-Pres. P. E. BURKE, Sec'y.

Capital $200,000.00
Assets 479,860.90

HIBERNIA INSURNCE CO.,

No. 305 Camp Street,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.

LOSSES PROMPTLY PAID.

Pine-Brook Dairy Co., Ltd.

ALL OUR COWS TUBERCULINE TESTED.

Milk and Cream Delivered Morning and Evening.

COR ST. CHARLES & WASHINGTON AVES. Phone 1514 Uptown.

The Union Railroad Business College,

BUSINESS TAUGHT AS IT IS DONE.

Is backed up by thousands of dollars and expert teachers. Uses no text books or copying nonsense. Free scholarships given only to those between the ages of 13 and 35 years.

Business men everywhere are calling for the graduates of this school. For full particulars address PROF. W. W. STEPHENSON, Texarkana, Texas.

THE AMERICAN PAINT WORKS,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.,

MANUFACTURES EVERYTHING IN PAINTS,

Guaranteed Strictly Pure

The Climatic Prepared Paints, Perfecto White and

SOLD SUBJECT TO A CHEMICAL ANALYSIS

DIRECTORS:

Thos. S. Witherspoon, President. Francis Martin, Vice President
R. B. Parker, John McCloskey, Geo. A. Hero

PHONE, MAIN 915. Special Attention to Mail Orders.

Sunday School

By W. B. Campbell.

LESSON FOR MAY 10.

THE MISSION OF THE HOLY SPIRIT.

John xvi, 4-16.

Golden text: "I will pray the Father, and he will give you another Comforter, that he may abide with you forever." John xiv, 16.

When Jesus began to tell of the Holy Spirit, who would come and supply his place after he was taken away, the disciples had advanced to that stage in Christian growth that enabled them to take a first lesson in those truths that can only be spiritually discerned. The Holy Ghost was to come, he told them, and abide forever. He was going away, and his going was to be the grand final act of his specific mission he was sent to fulfill. The mission of the Holy Spirit was not so specific in its character, for he pervades the whole work of the Almighty everywhere. At the creation, when the earth was without form and void, and darkness was upon the face of the deep, the Spirit of God moved upon the face of the waters. So has it ever been, that where there has been darkness, the Spirit giveth light. He has been that part of the Triune God that is distinctly executive; for no work of God, of which we have knowledge, was ever done except through the agency of the Spirit. The great sacrifice, made by the Son of God, in offering up himself, was "Through the Eternal Spirit." Read Hebrews ix, 14. Before the flood, when the wickedness of man was great, "and every imagination of the thoughts of his heart was only evil continually," the Spirit strove with them to win them back to God. Many times did Israel vex God's Holy Spirit, as they were so wonderfully led and guided from bondage to the liberty of fulfilled promise.

Moses and all the prophets, all who have ever penned a word in God's Holy Book, were moved by the Holy Ghost. Jesus Christ, the incarnate word of God, was conceived of the Holy Ghost. So in every provision made by a loving heavenly Father for the happiness of his children on the earth, the Holy Ghost is the great divine medium through which it is effected. All the way from the dawn of the world's first moving, down to the last message given to man from heaven, we learn of the ever present work of the Spirit. The part of this work that most concerns mankind is the agency of the Holy Ghost in the salvation of souls, reproof of sin, shedding light into the soul that is clouded with unbelief, and revealing to the repentant one the Lamb of God that taketh away sin. The young and the religiously inexperienced do not know and love the Holy Spirit as they should. They are made afraid by what has been said in regard to the sin that cannot be pardoned, the sin against the Holy Ghost. No one who has this fear need think he has committed that sin, or that he is in danger of doing so. Our very concern about it shows that we have the Spirit in our hearts. This unpardonable sin does not consist in one act, or in the sin of a day, but it does consist in a life-time of resisting all the pleadings, all the warnings and the convincing work of the Spirit until finally "God's Spirit ceases to strive." Then comes a carelessness for religion, a want of interest in religious matters. Prayer is neglected, God's Word seldom read. When man reaches this condition let him beware, for his danger is great.

"There is a time, we know not when,
  A point we know not where,
Which marks the destinies of men,
  To glory or despair.

"Ah, where is that mysterious bourne,
  By which our paths are crossed,
Beyond which God himself has sworn
  That he who goes is lost?

"How long may we go on in sin?
  How long will God forbear?
Where does hope end, and where begin
  The confines of despair?

"An answer from the skies is sent—
  Ye who from God depart
While it is still to-day—repent,
  And harden not your heart."

The Holy Ghost himself works continually to guard us against this great sin and against every sin. Is there ever a doubt as to whether we possess the indwelling Spirit? Do we often wonder if we are really the temple of the Holy Ghost? We need never be in doubt. There is a test. God has given it to us in his Word. Do we love the Savior? Is he our own, nay, our Lord and Master? Then for everlasting assurance read, "No man can say that Jesus is Lord, but by the Holy Ghost." 1st. Corinthians xii, 3. So then, even our faith in, and our love for Jesus is the work of the Spirit that dwelleth in us.

The mission of the Holy Spirit is one of love; and when we know him it is love that casteth out every fear that we will ever "do despite to the Spirit of Grace." O, blessed Comforter, sweet Spirit of peace! help us to love thee with that grateful, thankful love that is thy due. As the disciples were gathered around the Lord they must have listened to his words in sadness and in wonder, too; for he told them it was best that he should go from them. They could not know that our needs required just such a friend as he who was to be sent them when the Master was gone. "He will abide with you forever." What a promise! He will supply every need, even teaching us how to pray, and making intercession for us with such earnestness as cannot be uttered. See Romans viii, 26.

The mission of the Holy Spirit? It is to be our life. If we are the body, the Holy Ghost is our soul; for, when he leaves us we are dead indeed. If the church is the body of Christ, the Holy Ghost is the soul of that body. The Spirit and the bride say come, whosoever will. The Holy Ghost says come, and helps all to come. May the Father give us a greater love and a deeper thankfulness for such a Comforter that abides with us forever.

MOXINE
Cures LAGRIPPE and Colds.

OUR FRIENDS.

We give below a list of our friends who have helped us by sending in the largest number of subscribers. In this list the names sent in the last few days have not been included. In a few weeks we will show the list of clubs again.

Those who have sent us between five and ten are:

Rev. D. Scarborough, Fayette, Miss.
Rev. C. McDonald, Lake, Miss.
Rev. J. R. Wilson, Mt. Pleasant.
Miss Mit Doty, Kosciusko, Miss.
Rev. W. G. Harbin, Fayette, Miss.
Rev. L. T. Sargent, Mariette, Miss.
Rev. J. M. Alford, Baker, La.
Rev. J. V. Bennett, Anburn, Miss.
Rev. R. I. Allen, Carrollton, Miss.
Rev. H. P. Lewis, Jr., Natchez, Miss.
Rev. H. P. Lewis, Sr., Liberty, Miss.
Rev. J. A. Alford, Jackson.
Rev. G. D. Anders, McComb, Miss.
Rev. McK. M. Black, Purvis, Miss.
Rev. W. A. Clark, Kosciusko, Miss.
Rev. D. L. Cogdell, Coahoma, Miss.
Rev. J. M. Carley, Prentiss, Miss.
Rev. J. E. Craig, Tickfaw, La.
Rev. T. J. Durrett, Nettleton, Miss.
Rev. H. C. Edmonson, Slate Springs.
Rev. C. H. Ellis, Ellisville, Miss.
Rev. R. A. Ellis, Yazoo City, Miss.
Rev. T. E. Gregory, Tomnolen, Miss.
Rev. S. D. Howard, Eunice, La.
Rev. W. H. Lane, Monticello, Miss.
Rev. J. L. Lay, Alberta, La.
Rev. A. H. Parker, Pelican, La.
Rev. W. W. Perry, Leakesville.
Rev. R. Randle, Lisbon, La.
Miss Susie Reed, Natchez, Miss.
Rev. B. H. Rawls, Decatur, Miss.
Rev. S. L. Riggs, Kentwood, La.
Rev. J. S. Rutledge, Pinegrove, La.
Rev. R. O. Weir, Bayou Lachute, La.

Those who sent from ten to fifteen are:

Rev. R. T. Nolen, Philadelphia, Miss.
Rev. P. O. Lowry, Many, La.
Rev. J. J. Garner, West, Miss.
Rev. J. B. King, McComb, Miss.
Rev. J. M. Alford, Baker, La.
Rev. F. A. Lane, Forest, Miss.
Rev. J. M. Massey, Satartia, Miss.
Rev. W. W. Moore, Montrose, Miss.
Mrs. T. S. Randle, Lanesville, La.
Rev. A. G. Shankle, Ruston, La.

Those who sent from fifteen to twenty are:

Rev. A. W. Langley, N. Albany, Miss.
Rev. W. B. Lewis, Mosspoint, Miss.
Rev. W. L. Blackwell, Vicksburg.
Rev. W. W. Graves, Rose Hill, Miss.

Those who sent from twenty to thirty are:

Rev. J. W. Rogers, Winona, Miss.
Rev. D. W. Babb, Crawford, Miss.
Rev. E. Blizzard, Myrtle, Miss.
Rev. S. A. Brown, Byhalia, Miss.
Rev. R. W. Evans, Brownville, Miss.
Rev. J. H. Foreman, Hermanville.
Rev. G. W. Gordon, Myrtle, Miss.
Rev. W. C. Harris, New Albany.
Miss M. Higginbotham, Merrouge.
Rev. A. A. Martin, Abbeville, Miss.
Rev. J. F. McClellan, Trenton, Miss.
Rev. R. T. Pickett, Mentorum, Miss.
Rev. T. H. Porter, Webb, Miss.
Rev. O. L. Savage, Iuka, Miss.
Rev. M. L. Ward, Mantachie, Miss.
Rev. W. W. Woolard.

Those who sent over thirty are:

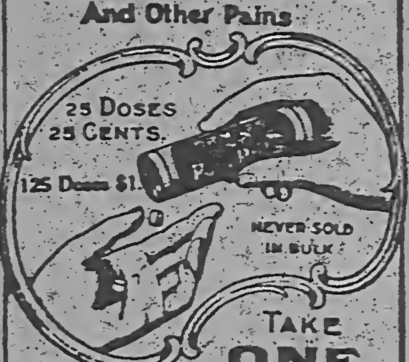
Rev. G. W. Bachman, Winona, Miss.
Rev. C. C. Griffin, Daleville, Miss.
Rev. M. H. Moore, Sharon, Miss.

ECZEMA, TETTER AND SKIN TROUBLES.

Tetterine, the fragrant, antiseptic and healing ointment, instantly relieves and quickly cures skin and scalp diseases and itching piles. It is the finest prescription ever discovered for these condtions, and is elegantly prepared by The Shuptrine Co., Savannah, Ga. If your druggist cannot supply you, send 50 cents in stamps.

BLYMYER CHURCH BELLS. UNLIKE OTHER BELLS SWEETER, MORE DURABLE, LOWER PRICE. OUR FREE CATALOGUE TELLS WHY.
Write to Cincinnati Bell Foundry Co., Cincinnati, O.

MOXINE CHILL TONIC
Only Tonic—one bottle, one cure.



DR. MILES' ANTI-PAIN PILLS FOR HEADACHE
And Other Pains
25 Doses 25 Cents. 125 Doses $1. Never sold in bulk.
TAKE ONE of These Little Tablets AND THE PAIN IS GONE.

Pride and Pimples

The woman who "sits back" is generally the woman with pimples or unsightly eruptions. Get in the beauty row by cleaning up the face with the magic healer of all skin diseases—with a half century record of miraculous cures. Removes ugly blotches, roughness or redness of the skin, and heals all scaly, tettery eruptions. After the cure Heiskell's Soap will keep the skin smooth and fine. Heiskell's Blood and Liver Pills are especially recommended for use with the ointment and soap. They act on the blood.

HEISKELL'S OINTMENT

Ointment 50c a box. Soap 25c a cake. Pills 25c a bottle.

Sold by all druggists or sent by mail.

JOHNSTON, HOLLOWAY & CO.
531 Commerce St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Drives 'Em Out Of House To Die

Get a box of Stearns' Electric RAT and ROACH Paste
If you are troubled with rats or mice. It is sure death, driving them out of the house to die. Easy to use and gives quick and sure results. Sold for 30 years, and never yet failed to kill off rats and mice. Also for cockroaches, water-bugs and other vermin. 2 oz. box, 25c; 16 oz. box, $1.00. Sold at druggists and general stores everywhere, or sent direct prepaid on receipt of price.
STEARNS' ELECTRIC PASTE CO. Buffalo, N.Y., U.S.A.

BELLS.
Steel Alloy Church and School Bells. Send for Catalogue. The C. S. BELL CO., Hillsboro, O.

ALTAR CHAIRS, SUNDAY School Seats, School Desks, Portable Chairs, Collection Plates, Communion Tables, Lodge Furniture, etc. Ask for big Catalog No. 60. E. H. Stafford Mfg. Co. Chicago, Ill

MEETING OF THE SUNDAY SCHOOL BOARD.

The General Sunday School Board, composed of Rev. J. O. Willison, D.D., of South Carolina; Mr. John R. Pepper, of Tennessee; Mr. B. M. Burgher, of Texas; Judge M. L. Walton, of Virginia; Col. George M. Napier, of Georgia, and the Sunday School Editor, held its annual meeting in Nashville, Tenn., April 18.

The facts brought out by a review of the general Sunday School work of the Church and the progress of the Sunday school department were in every way encouraging. The review showed that during the year 1906-7 there was an increase of sixty three Sunday Schools, 2,517 officers and teachers, and 43,121 scholars, the total Sunday school enrollment at the close of this year being 1,241,013. The ten per cent fund from Children's Day for the year amounted to $2,168.29. The amount raised for the chair of Religious Pedagogy and Sunday Schools in Vanderbilt University was $4,478.21, and the amount raised for missions in the Sunday schools, $113,422.97. This last sum does not include the contributions from the South Carolina Conference, the minutes of which do not give a separate report of these contributions. The net increase in the circulation of our literature from April 1, 1907, to April 1, 1908, was 69,240, and the increase from the sales of literature, $32,098.17. I may note in this connection that the circulation of our two new periodicals, The Adult Student and The Primary Teacher, has far surpassed our most sanguine expectations. The total circulation of all our periodicals April 1 was 1,521,600.

The figures given above show that the income from the ten per cent of Children's Day Fund is still very far short of what it ought to be, and that the amount contributed towards the endowment of the special chair in Vanderbilt University, as provided by our last General Conference, is distinctly disappointing. The Conference minutes show that many pastors who report Children's Day offerings do not send them to the treasurers of their Conference Sunday School Boards. The General Board, therefore, took action urging the brethren not to divert these offerings to other purposes, but to direct them as the law of our Church requires. I am sure that our preachers would gladly comply with this reasonable request if they could read the reports that come to the Central office from the various foreign fields in which we are endeavoring to aid in the building up of Sunday school work. Dr. W. R. Lambuth, in his annual report to the Board, speaks of the great good that has been accomplished through our appropriations for the development of a Sunday school literature and the expansion of Sunday school work in destitute regions. "It is an interesting fact," he says, "that our Sunday school membership on the foreign field is larger than that of the Church membership. We have now in round figures over 19,000 in attendance upon these schools." Speaking particularly of our Spanish work, he says:

"Your appropriations from year to year to Mexico have enabled us to put into the Spanish-speaking fields of the world an evangelical literature which has never been equaled in style or matter. This in itself is one of the best pieces of missionary work ever turned out." Bishop Candler, speaking of the Cuban paper, the establishment of which was made possible by our appropriation last year, says: "It is more than equal to the force of another missionary on the field. It has unified our work in Cuba as nothing else could have done." Personal messages from various missionaries abundantly confirm these estimates of the importance of the work accomplished through the small appropriations we have been enabled to make, and earnest appeals for larger assistance show how urgent is the demand for the increase of these appropriations. I sincerely trust, therefore, that our Sunday school superintendents everywhere will give heed to the request of the Board to hold Children's Day services, take offerings and forward them to the treasurers of their Conference boards.

In regard to the fund for the Chair of Religious Pedagogy and Sunday schools, the Board passed the following resolution:

"Whereas only twenty Conferences have made contributions to the Chair of Religious Pedagogy and Sunday Schools in Vanderbilt University, the Sunday School Board requests that this great cause be pressed upon the attention of all our Sunday schools that they may contribute to the chair as required by the Discipline of our Church."

Among other resolutions passed by the Board, the following will be of interest to our Sunday school workers:

1. A resolution expressing hearty appreciation of the faithful and excellent work of Miss Tucker for our Sunday school literature, and sincere regret at the loss of her valuable service.

2. A resolution favoring the publication by the Sunday School department of a juvenile paper. This resolution, however, leaves the ultimate decision of the matter with the Sunday School Editor and Publishing Agents.

3. A resolution expressing the pleasure of the Board at the establishment of a Department of Sunday School Supplies and the securing of the service of Mr. E. B. French as its superintendent. In this connection the Board recommended that our publications and supplies be tastefully exhibited at the various sessions of the Annual Conferences, and that where the superintendent of Sunday School Supplies or some representative of his appointment cannot be present, the Conference Sunday School Boards be made the custodians of such exhibits.

4. A resolution favoring a complete exhibit of our Sunday School literature and supplies at the International Sunday School Convention to be held in Louisville, Ky., next June.

5. A resolution favoring the federation and the registration at the Central Office of our organized adult classes, and appointing the Sunday School Editor, Dr. H. M. Hamill and Mr. J. R. Pepper to formulate a plan of federation.

6. A resolution pledging the members of the Sunday School Board to assist the Sunday School Editor and the superintendent of Training Work in the presentation of the Sunday School cause before our various Annual Conference Sunday School Boards.

7. A resolution urging the presiding elders to co-operate with the Conference Sunday School Boards in supplying the Central office with complete Sunday school statistics.

8. A resolution urging our Sunday schools to co-operate with Dr. W. F. McMurry, Church Extension secretary, in his effort to aid in building churches in the new State of Oklahoma through Birthday Offerings.

Other resolutions passed by the Board are of sufficient importance to be printed in full.

In view of the great demand for trained Sunday school workers and of the fine opportunity offered for helping to meet this demand through the Methodist Training School at Nashville, the editor deemed it worth while to bring the matter to the attention of the Sunday School Board. It was explained that if a suitable man can be secured to begin this work in the Training School, it is entirely probable that an arrangement can be made by which he may be enabled to deliver a parallel course of lectures before the Biblical Department of Vanderbilt University, and that this temporary arrangement can be maintained until the fund for the establishment of a special chair in that department has been raised. In this way we may begin at once the work both of special teacher training and pastor training. After carefully considering the entire matter, the Board took unanimous action as follows:

"Resolved, That we heartily commend the proposition to inaugurate a teacher training course in the Methodist Training School at Nashville, and that we designate the Sunday School Editor, Dr. W. R. Lambuth and Rev. J. E. McCulloch to raise the necessary funds by such means as they deem wise. We further endorse the establishment of a permanent Chair of Sunday School Pedagogy in the Training School and any means adopted by the aforementioned committee looking to this end."

After hearing the report of Dr. Lambuth and the Sunday School Editor in regard to the excellent work of Dr. and Mrs. Hamill in the Orient, the Board passed the following resolutions:

"Resolved, That the Sunday School Board has heard with great pleasure of the splendid work accomplished by Dr. and Mrs. Hamill in the Orient, and it is especially gratified to learn from all quarters that such interest has been awakened in and such impetus given to the Sunday school cause in those far-away lands that the visit of Dr. and Mrs. Hamill has been proven beyond doubt to have been a most valuable and timely enterprise. The Board heartily congratulates them on their triumph and distinguished service, and expresses the sincere hope that their work may abide and increase steadily.

Resolved, second, That the Board regrets the absence of Dr. and Mrs. Hamill from its meeting, and that the members leave in Nashville their hearty welcome to these esteemd fellow-workers as they return home."

E. B. CHAPPELL,
Sunday School Editor.

PRINCE OF THE AIR.

The May Century will contain the last work of Edmund Clarence Stedman, in which, under the title of "The Prince of the Power of the Air," the writer reviews what has been accomplished or undertaken in aeronautics by various governments, and predicts that aerial navigation is a menace to British supremacy. Dr. Alexander Graham Bell, who read Mr. Stedman's article in proof, says that he is undoubtedly right in looking upon the fish as the true model for the dirigible balloon, and calls attention to the fact that the dirigible war-balloon of to-day already approximates the fish-like form predicted by Mr. Stedman years ago.

LADIES CAN WEAR SHOES

one size smaller after using Allen's Foot-Ease, a powder to be shaken into the shoes. It makes tight or new shoes feel easy; gives instant relief to corns and bunions. It's the greatest comfort discovery of the age. Allen's Foot-Ease is a certain cure for tired, sweating, hot, aching feet. At all druggists and shoe stores, 25c. Don't accept any substitute. For FREE trial package, also Free Sample of the FOOT-EASE Sanitary CORN-PAD, a new invention, address Allen S. Olmsted, Le Roy, N. Y.

[illegible] Business College,
Vicksburg, Miss.

If you are interested in business education send your name NOW for a booklet we are getting out; entitled, "For They Themselves Have Said It."

MANSFIELD COLLEGE COMMENCEMENT MAY 21-27.

Thursday evening, May 21, Seniors entertained by the Juniors.

Friday evening, Entertainment by the Primary Department.

Saturday evening, Display by the Art Department.

Sunday, 11 o'clock a. m., Commencement Sermon, by Rev. J. W. Wray, of New Orleans.

Sunday, 8 o'clock p. m., Missionary Sermon, speaker to be selected.

Monday, 10 o'clock a. m., Sophomore Entertainment.

Monday, 3 o'clock p. m., Art Display.

Monday, 6 o'clock p. m., Junior Entertainment; Annual Commencement Address, by Rev. Frank Barrett, Texarkana, Ark.

Tuesday, 9 o'clock a. m., Meeting of Board of Trustees.

Tuesday, 10 o'clock a. m., Alumnae Exercises.

Tuesday, 3 o'clock p. m., Art Display.

Tuesday, 8 o'clock p. m., Grand Concert by Music and Expression Departments.

Wednesday, 10 o'clock a. m., Graduating Exercises, Baccalaureate Address, and Delivery of Diplomas.

Don't you know
That Craddock-Terry Co's
Long Wear Shoes
wear longer than other shoes at the same price? If not, try a pair of these celebrated shoes and be convinced.

"SKYLAND INN."
4400 feet above sea level.
Blowing Rock, N. C.

OPENS June 18th, 1908. Highest location at Blowing Rock, roomy halls, broad verandas, magnificent scenery. Address E. R. Stewart, Prop., Newton, N. C., until June 15th. Rates: From $7.00 to $12.00 a week.

Epworth League

PRAYER-MEETING TOPIC.

May 16. The Father's Ear Open to the Cry of His Children. Luke xviii 1-8; Matt. vii 7-12.

The Psalmist has a beautiful thought when he pictures God as leaning over and turning his ear to hear the cry of his children (Psa. 116, 2). In his gratitude he pledges himself to call upon him as long as he lives. The knowledge of God is absolute. He knows all that his creatures do. There is nothing hidden from his eyes. He is in every place, and neither in earth, nor heaven, nor hell, could one get away from the knowledge of God. But much more than this is meant by the thought of the inspired writer and by the words of the Master.

1. You have access to the Father.

Men must stand at the doors of the mighty of the earth and wait until they secure admission into the inner courts, and permission to ask the things that they desire. It is sometimes hard to gain access to the presence of men of great tasks, and even when you are in reach of them, it is harder still to get them to pay attention to your projects. Herein lies one thought of the Master, our Father is interested in the playthings of his children. Some of them play at trade, some play at hide and seek with the mysteries of the earth and call it science; some play with guns, and call their cruel game war; some play at ruling their fellows, and call it politics. But whatever the game may be, our heavenly Father is interested in us, and when we take to him our desires and tell him of our troubles, he gives heed to us; in other words, we have access to the Father. And we may always secure his interest. We need not wait on the pleasure of any man. He who seeks the Father shall find.

2. A father's heart awaits his child.

When you have come to understand the heart of a true father, and how deeply he loves his child, you have made a beginning at understanding something of our Father. You must multiply every good trait in a father by infinity before you begin to realize the love of God for his children. And every true father delights to lavish his gifts on his children. Yet no true father is willing to give his children things that will hurt them. So our Father in heaven is willing to give to his children far more than they can ask or think. Yet because of our weakness and childishness, there are many things he is willing to give to us that we cannot bear.

3. Ask and ye shall receive.

If a child is right in his relations with his father, he does not hesitate to ask for the things which the father can give. So the Master has taught us to come with assurance. Seek and ye shall find, ask and ye shall receive, knock and the door shall be opened to you. Not with the senseless prattle, nor the wilfulness of heart with which so often children ask, and ask until they get the things which they desire; but with reverence and submission, and yet persevering in those things which we believe are in harmony with the Father's will. There is unmeasured comfort in pouring your sorrow into the ears of the Father who is moved with infinite compassion. There is new courage when you take your battles to the one who stands ready to help in every struggle for the right, and whose arm is unfailing. When cyclones waste the land, when disease lays its blighting hand on those we love, when defeat crushes hope and destroys ambition, oh, what unmeasured consolation there is in the thought that a heart of infinite love is brooding over all, and that he will see that at the last all things shall work together for good to them that love him. (Rom. 8:27.)

COMMENCEMENT PROGRAMME OF PORT GIBSON FEMALE COLLEGE.

Friday.

8 p. m.—W. C. T. U. Gold Medal Contest.

Saturday.

5 to 7 p. m.—Junior Reception.

4:30 p. m.—Alumnae Meeting.

Sunday.

11 a. m.—Sermon by Rev. R. W. Tucker.

8 p. m.—Public Meeting of the College Epworth League.

Address by Rev. G. H. Galloway.

Monday.

9:30 a. m.—Meeting of the Board of Trustees.

10 a. m.—Art Levee.

11 a. m.—Delivery of Medals and Diplomas.

Address by State Superintendent J. N. Powers.

8:30 p. m.—Grand Concert.

(On account of change in standard of study there are no literary graduates this year.)

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used for over Sixty-Five Years by millions of mothers for their children while teething with perfect success. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain; cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for Diarrhoea. Sold by Druggists in every part of the world. Be sure and ask for "Mrs Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Guaranteed under the Food and Drugs Act, June 30th, 1906. Serial Number 1098. An Old and Well Tried Remedy.

MOXINE CHILL TONIC
Only Tonic—one bottle—one cure

On last Saturday, a severe gale gave eight ships of the battleship-fleet, a severe shaking up in the harbor of Monterey, Cal. In the height of the gale the "Illinois" parted her cable and drifted 800 yards towards the shore, before the emergency anchors would hold.

BLOOD POISONING POSITIVELY CURED

Hereditary, primary, secondary and tertiary. Scrofula, Eczema, Blood and Skin Disease. If you have exhausted old-time methods, and want to get well, write me in fullest confidence for proof of cures. Take my treatment and get well.
A. A. BROWER, M. D.
San Antonia, Tex.

The month of April was a fatal period for the British Navy. In different collisions, a torpedo boat, a torpedo boat destroyer, and a cruiser were sunk and many lives lost. In addition, six men were seriously injured in a boiler explosion on the battleship "Brittania." While no navy is without its accidents, this is an unusually heavy record.

MOXINE
Cures LAGRIPPE and Colds.

"A CHANT OF DARKNESS."

The May Century feature of unique interest and importance will be Miss Helen Keller's "A Chant of Darkness." The lines, which have a definite autobiographic intention, were originally a passage in the first draft of Miss Keller's essay, "A Sense and Sensibility," published in The Century for February and March. As Miss Keller developed the thought her style became chant which stood out from the prose. The conductors of The Century consider it a remarkable poem.

ST. NINCHOLAS NOTE.

In the May St. Nicholas the "True Chronicles of a Ditty-Box"—and they are true—will tell the story of the Battle of Manila Bay—just the simple, thrilling narrative of a very-much-in-earnest young fellow who was in the midst of it all. This instalment of "Three Years Behind the Guns" comes with fortunate timeliness in the month of the tenth anniversary of the Battle of Manila Bay.

MOXINE CHILL TONIC.
Only Tonic—one bottle—one cure

ANGELL PHARMACY COMPANY,
2300 Baronne Street, corner Philip.
PRESCRIPTIONS OUR SPECIALTY. Phone Main 4269.
Pure Drugs, Chemicals, Toilet Articles, Perfumery, Stationery, etc.
TRY ANGELL'S COUGH & WHOOPING COUGH SYRUP
Price 25 and 50 cents. Sold by all Druggists.
HOMŒPATHIC DEPARTMENT.
Homoeopathic Medicines, Books, Cases, Globules, Sugar of Milk, Etc.
Prices, 1-2 ounce vial 15 cents, 1 ounce vial 25 cents.
PROMPT DELIVERY.

A GOOD PIANO,
PIANO PLAYER or PLAYER PIANO see the
Grunewald's
Before You Buy.
Agents for the Latest Improved and best Instruments on the Market.

SCROFULINE
The Wonderful Healer
Unsurpassed for tetter, ezcema, skin and scalp troubles, old sores, ulcers and piles, any nature or duration. Goes to the very seat of the trouble, kills the germs and extracts all foreign matter. Sold under a positive guarantee, 25c, 50c and $1.00 per jar. Mail orders promptly filled. Stamps accepted. Liberal sample upon request. Address,
THE SCROFULINE COMPANY, Waco, Texas.
SOLE OWNERS AND MANUFACTURERS.

$35.50 FROM NEW ORLEANS TO CALIFORNIA,
MARCH 2 TO APRIL 30, '08, INCLUSIVE,
VIA
Southern Pacific "Sunset Route"
SOUTHERN PACIFIC SUNSET ROUTE
This rate applies from most points in LOUISIANA, correspondingly low rates from other points.
PULLMAN TOURIST SLEEPERS, OIL BURNING LOCOMOTIVES,
DAILY NEW ORLEANS TO SAN FRANCISCO.
F. E. BATTURS, GEN. PASS. AGT., NEW ORLEANS.

General News

Peru has an insurrection on its hands, but this is not a novelty.

* * *

Secretary of War Taft, is on his way to Colon, where he will work out some of the present problems facing the Canal construction.

* * *

In a hotel fire at Fort Wayne, Ind., six persons were burned to death. The building was old and dry and burned like a tinderbox.

* * *

On Wednesday, of this week, the Quadrennial General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, assemble in Baltimore, Md.

* * *

Rain, sleet and snow has swept over the whole country within the last week. There are some fears that fruits and cotton may be damaged, but it is too soon to tell.

* * *

During the past week the Japanese Training Cruiser, "Matsushima" was blown up by the explosion of one of the magazines. Out of a complement of over three hundred men, not half are known to be saved.

* * *

Great Britain is having considerable trouble with the Afghanistans. A force of between thirteen and thirty thousand armed men have tried to sieze Khyber Pass. The British General is hurrying up re-enforcements for the support of the blockhouse.

* * *

On the 13th of this month there will be at the National Capitol, a Conference on Waterways, called by President Roosevelt. The chief proposition before it will be the opening of a fourteen-feet channel from Lake Michigan to the Mississippi, and through the river to the Gulf of Mexico.

* * *

The newspapers of the land, are pleading for free paper, that is in the interest of everybody, for everyone wants the news at the least possible cost. Congress might be willing to grant the plea, if they were not afraid that a great many other crying evils would at once demand attention, when they tried to right this wrong. The papers will probably have to wait.

* * *

The present indications are that when this paper reaches the hands of its subscribers, that Congress will have reached some conclusion on the currency bills. If the members of Congress would pattern after the vigorous methods of the Woman's Foreign Mission Board, that has been in session in New Orleans, they could accomplish more legislation in a week, than they now do in a month.

* * *

There has been a slight raise in the telephone rates in New Orleans, that is the four party lines have been eliminated, with the rates that correspond; and no more than two party phones will be allowed on a line. There has been many things said, calling for competition, but there can be no competition in telephones. Competing telephone lines, does not mean the choice between two for business houses, but compells the choice of both. Regulation, and not competition is the only remedy for the ills of all semi-public corporations and natural monopolies. Two systems mean double expense, while the man who has a private phone can never be sure that his friend whom he wants is on the same phone system. Those who have tried two or three phone systems in the same city, as a rule, prefer one; nevertheless, the one line should be amenable to law and reason.

MOXINE CHILL TONIC
Only Tonic—one bottle, one cure.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

NEW ORLEANS DIST.—SECOND RND

Felicity ....a.m.	May 10,
Epworth ....p.m.	May 10,
First Church	May 17,
Rayne ....a.m.	May 24,
Carrollton ....p.m.	May 24,
Covington	June 6,
Second Church	June 14,

F. N. PARKER, P. E.

ALEXANDRIA DIST—SECOND RND.

Selma	May 9, 10
Boeuf River	May 11,
Chicot, at Ward's Chapel ...	May 16, 17
Opelousas, at Opelousas	May 18,
Alexandria, at First Church.	May 23, 24
Alexandria, West End	May 24, 25
Simmsport, at Woodside ...	May 30, 31
Dry Creek, at Hopewell	June 5,
Glenmora, at Forest Hill....	June 6, 7
Natchitoches	June 11,

The District Conference will convene in Natchitoches June 12-14.

N. E. JOYNER, P. E.
Alexandria, La.

SHREVEPORT DIST.—SECOND RND.

Mansfield Circuit	May 9, 10
Zwolle, at Noble	May 16, 17
Mansfield	May 17, 18
Many	May 23, 24
Ida, at Ida	May 30, 31
Shreveport, Texas Ave......	June 1, 2
Shreveport, First Church ...	June 3,
Shreveport, Noel Memorial	June 4,
Pleasant Hill............	June 6, 7
Greenwood	June 8, 9
Hornbeck	June 13, 14
Leesville	June 14, 15
Bon Ami	June 20, 21
De Ridder	June 21, 22
Mooringsport	June 24, 25
Provencal	June 27, 28

Our Annual Preachers' Meeting and Missionary Institute will meet at Mansfield Monday night, May 18, and close Wednesday night. We want each pastor to bring at least three laymen and as many of the good women as possible.

T. J. WARLICK, P. E.

BATON ROUGE DIST.—SECOND RND.

Franklinton, at Angie.......	May 9, 10
Mt. Hermon Ct., at Mt. H..	May 11,
Kentwood	May 12,
St Helena, at Wesley	13,
St Francisvill, at Star Hill..	16, 17
Pinegrove, at Montpelier ...	May 23, 24
Liveoak, at Alford's	May 30, 31
East Felicians, at Clear Cr.	June 6, 7
Melville, at Cottonwood	June 13, 14
Newroads	June 21, 22
Baton Rouge, First Church..	June 28, 29
Baton Rouge, Second Ch....	June 28, 29

R. W. TUCKER, P. E.

ARCADIA DIST. — SECOND RND.

Vernon, at New Prospect ...	May 9, 10
Bernice, at Bernice	May 15,
Lisbon, at Harmony	May 16, 17
Ruston	May 18,
Minden	May 19,
Ringgold, at Andrew's	May 20,
Lanesville, at Pine Grove...	May 23, 24
C. Valley, at C. Valley	May 26,
Winnfield	May 31, June 1

District Conference will be about the last week in July. Preachers please take notice and make no conflicting appointments.

BRISCOE CARTER, P. E.

CROWLEY DIST—SECOND ROUND

Lake Arthur	May 17
Jennings	May 24

J. M. HENRY, P. E.

MONROE DIST.—SECOND ROUND

Brookland, at Sardis	May 9, 10
Eros, at Indian Village	May 16, 17
Merrouge, at M.	May 23, 24
Mangham, at Little Creek...	May 30, 31
Harrisonburg, at Jonesville.	June 6, 7
Florence, at Holly Grove	June 13, 14
Downsville, at Douglas	June 17,
Waterproof, at St. Joseph ..	June 20, 21
Floyd, at Midway	June 27, 28

J. E. DENSON, P. E.

AN INITIAL WATCH FREE.

A Father Knickerbocker "Dutch Auction" is the Latest.

A "Father Knickerbocker" Eight-Day Mission Clock is offered on the first day of the "Dutch Auction," at the regular price and then the price is marked down 50 cents each day until the highest BID is reached. Each of the 99 persons whose BIDS are nearest to the highest BID also get a "Father Knickerbocker" at the amount of their BID.

These ONE HUNDRED genuine "Father Knickerbocker" Grandfathers' clocks are offered at the "Dutch Auction" simply to advertise and introduce this beautiful creation of Modern Artcraft, and any housewife will indeed be fortunate who secures a "Father Knickerbocker" in this manner.

Send your name and address to the Knickerbocker Clock Company, 901 Lexington Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y., and you will receive full particulars and photo-illustrations of the three designs for hall, dining-room or library, together with five blank BID forms allowing you and four of your friends to BID at the "Dutch Auction." It costs nothing to BID for one of these beautiful clocks at your own price.

Send to-day, then tell your friends about it and show them the illustrations of the "Father Knickerbocker" clocks. If you interest four of your friends in our offer and forward their BIDS with your own you will receive FREE a "Miss Knickerbocker" watch artistically finished in gun metal and gold, with your initial engraved on the case. A limited number of these beautiful watches are to be offered as souvenirs of the "Dutch Auction" to ladies sending for particulars as above.

Birthday Post Cards Free

10 high-grade artistic and Embossed Birthday Post Cards, new and lovely designs, in exquisitely beautiful colors, our big post card catalogue and trial subscription to popular magazine, all free if you answer ad. immediately and send 10c for mailing expenses. 30 cards all different 25 cts. Post Card Co., 409 U. S. Express Bldg., Dept. 93, Chicago.

Healthy Happy Babies

Mother, you know the summer will be a trying time for your teething baby — a period of anxiety and sleepless nights for you unless you take the precaution to keep baby's system in condition to make teething easy.

Teethina
(Teething Powders)

The prescription of Dr. C. J. Moffett, graduate of Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia; contains elements recommended by the most advanced medical science to remove the cause of disease and keep the system in condition to make teething easy. For 40 years the standard remedy throughout the South during the trying period of teething, colic, hives, etc., in children.

In nine out of ten cases of cholera infantum that prove fatal from ordinary neglect and subsequent treatment, the timely use of Teethina would have saved the child.

At All Druggists, 25 Cents
Or from
Dr. C. J. Moffett Medicine Co., St. Louis, Mo.
Write for our free "Mother's Booklet."

THE BEST MADE.
Angell's Cough and Whooping Cough Syrup
For Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Coughs, Colds and Throat Trouble.
CONTAINS NO OPIUM OR MORPHINE.
All Druggists, Price 25 and 50 Cents.

$60 LIFE SCHOLARSHIPS $25

Beginning April 10th, we are going to show our appreciation of the Very, Very Liberal patronage our University has Always received, and on account of the recent money panic, and sell a Limited number of $60 Life Scholarships at $25. Buy one before they are sold, for they will go fast at this price, and get ready for a good position in the early fall. If you can't come at once pay us $10 now, which will insure you the reduction, and pay the balance on entering.

HARRIS BUSINESS UNIVERSITY,
JACKSON, MISSISSIPPI.

Louisiana Railway and Navigation Company.

PASSENGER SERVICE,

Daily Passenger Trains between Shreveport and New Orleans. Daily Passenger Trains between Shreveport and Winnfield.

FREIGHT SERVICE.

Exceptional good time on carload traffic. Special attention given less than carload shipments all of which moves in

DAILY THROUGH PACKAGE CARS.

CLARENCE ELLERBE, Assistant to President.
H. B. HELM, General Superintendent.
E. C. D. MARSHALL, General Freight & Passenger Agent.
Shreveport, La.

(Continued from First Page.)

men of the Church volunteer to aid the young preachers of the nearby country charges and small towns in their plans of missionary education.

Third—That the representative business men of the Church recognize the spirit and purpose of the Great Commission and acknowledged the feasibility of its success by taking a stand for larger missionary activity and larger Christian liberality.

IV. As touching the controlling spirit and purpose of the great Laymen's Missionary Movement and our desire for the best results and for uniform loyalty in our own Church, we recommend:

That in all missionary agitation and education and in every effort to enlarge the missionary activities of the Church the Movement shall be careful to keep in thorough sympathy and close co-operation with the constituted authorites of the Church.

In view of the fact that we must make provision for he administration of the Laymen's Missionary Movement in our Church for the next two years, ni order that the work may be aggressively prosecuted, therefore, be it resolved that we raise now $15,000 in order to carry on this work as it should be done.

Some of the items to be provided for are as follows:

First—The employment of a general secretary, a layman of excellent ability, both on the platform and in the office.

Second—A stenographer to aid him in the great volume of work that will undoubtedly come to his hand.

Third—The creation and sending out of a large body of literature, pamphlet, booklet, and otherwise so neecssary to the edncation of the great army of laymen in our Church.

Fourth—Postage and other necessary office expenses which will also amount to considerable.

Fifth—Travelling expenses, as it will be absolutely necessary for the general secretary to be in the field a great deal. The amount to be raised here will be payable qaurterly in advance for the next two years provided any subscriber does not wish to pay all the amount at one time.

We believe this splendid body of laymen assembled here, all of whom are active, enterprising business men in their own communities, will appreciate the necessity for this fund for the administering of the work so necessary to be done, and will gladly give us the amount required.

We recommend that the election of a general secretary be left to the Executive Committee when a suitable man can be found.

Amend the section or paragraph providing for the election of a Conference leader by each Annual Conference so as to provide also for the election at same time and in same manner by each Annual Conference, of a vice-leader, who in absence of leader, caused by death, removal, resignation, or any other disability, shall perform all duties required of the leader.

We, your Committee on Organization, declare the full purpose of the Laymen's Movement is the enlistment of the Laymen of the Church in all its varied activities, such as Missions, Home and Foreign, city evangelization as outlined by the "City Methodist Union," Church Extension, education, Sunday schools, Epworth Leagues, personal work, philanthropy, reform, benevolence, fraternity and such other work as may be necessary to the Church in carrying out her God-given mission.

The following was adopted by the Laymen's Conference:

Whereas Missions and Church Extension are parts of the same great department of Church effort, and whereas the laymen of the Church are interested in whatever contributes to the spread of the kingdom, and whereas the last General Conference committed the Church to the building of a representative house of worship in Washington, D. C., therefore, be it,

Resolved, first, That we hereby give our endorsement to this proposition and assure the Committee entrusted with this task of our willingness to cooperate with them in this important work.

Second, That we rejoice at the growth of sentiment in favor of an increased Loan Fund Capital for our Board of Church Extension, and trust that our people will generally observe "Loan Fund Day," May 10, 1908, as proposed by the Board of Church Extension.

THE LAYMEN'S MISSIONARY DECLARATION.

1. The world is our Parish.
2. It is the mission of the whole Church to give the gospel to the whole world.
3. We desire a league offensive and defensive, with all who are striving to fulfill this mission.
4. Our entire Church is a missionary society, and each member is under pledge, as well as under command, to help give the gospel to every creature.
5. It is as much the duty of every member to help to support a parish abroad as a parish at home.

"LEST WE FORGET"

Pastors!
Epworth League Presidents!
Sunday-School Superintendents!

REMEMBER

Church Extension Loan Fund Day

Sunday, May 10, 1908

PLEASE PRESENT THIS URGENT CAUSE AND

GIVE EVERYBODY AN OPPORTUNITY TO CONTRIBUTE

Send Cash and Subscriptions to W. F. McMurry, Cor. Sec'y, 705 W. Chestnut St., Louisville, Ky., who will receipt for same.

6. Our giving should be an "Act of Worship." (Prov. iii, 9.) Cheerful (1 Cor. ix, 7) and according to the Rule of Three (1 Cor. xvi, 2).

Individually—Let every one of you lay by him in store.
Systematically—On the first day of the week.
Proportionately—As God has prospered him.

SARDIS DISTRICT.

SUNDAY SCHOOL PROGRAMME.

Should Superintendents Encourage the Use of the Bible in Class Recitation?—M. E. Garratt, W. H. Eckles, L. B. Hankins.

The Importance and Value of all our Schools being made Mission Schools as the Discipline Directs—W. D. Miller, W. R. Williams, W. S. Cooper.

What Constitutes Efficiency and Success in Sunday School Superintendents and Teachers?—H. I. Gill, N. G. Augustus, W. H. Wall.

How may more Parents be Enlisted in the Sunday School? Should Children be Taught to Sing a Variety of New Songs, as well as the Old?—F. C. Holmes, H. T. Gaines, W. V. Shearer.

MISSIONARY PROGRAMME FOR SARDIS DISTRICT, MAY 28.

What are some of the Evidences of Success by our Missionaries in the Fields Occupied by our Church?—S. A. Brown, O. W. Bradley.

What Literature is Best Calculated to Interest and Inspire our People on Missions?—J. T. Murrah, G. W. Bachman.

Are the Pastors and Laymen Sufficiently Aroused on the Subject of Missions?—V. C. Curtis, C. P. Moss.

Give the Conference the Plan, Method and Spirit that will Insure full Collections from every Charge.—W. J. O'Bryant, R. M. Evans.

COMMITTEES OF EXAMINATION.

For License and Recommendation for Admission on Trial into the Traveling Connection—J. M. Huggins, H. T. Gaines, W. R. Williams.

For Deacons' and Elders' Orders—E. E. Langford, J. T. Murrah, W. J. O'Bryant.

One sound always comes to the ear that is open; it is the steady drumbeat of Duty. No music in it, perhaps—only a dry rub-a-dub. Ah! but that steady beat marks the time for the whole orchestra of earth and heaven. It says to you: "Do your work—do the duty nearest you!" Keep step in that drum-beat, and dullest march is taking you home.—George S. Merriam.

CALENDAR OF IMPORTANT EVENTS.

STATES OF LOUISIANA AND MISSISSIPPI.

Brookhaven District Conference, Tylertown, Miss., May 6-10.
Church Extension Loan Fund Day, May 10.
Mississippi Methodist Sunday School Superintendents' Institute, Durant, May 12-14.
Natchez District Conference, at Woodville, Miss., May 13-16.
Shreveport District Missionary Institute, at Mansfield, La., May 18.
Oxford District Conference, at Holly Springs, Miss., May 19-21.
Seashore District Conference, at McHenry, Miss., May 19-23.
Durant District Conference, at Kilmichael, Miss., May 21-23.
Winona District Conference, at Eupora, Miss., May 27-28.
Commencement Grenada College, at Grenada, Miss., May 24-26.
Crowley District Conference, at Jeanerette, La., May 29-June 1.
Greenville District Conference, at Cleveland, Miss., May 27-29.
Vicksburg District Conference, at Edwards, Miss., May 27-30.
Whitworth College Commencement, Brookhaven, Miss., May 31 to June 2.
Millsaps College Commencement, Jackson, Miss., June 7-9.
Aberdeen District Conference, at Houlka, Miss., June 3-5.
Alexandria District Conference, at Natchitoches, La., June 12-14.
Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the North Mississippi Conference, at Senatobia, Miss., June 13-17.
Mid-Year Meeting of the Mississippi Conference Board of Missions, at Centerville, Miss., June 15-17.
Mississippi Conference Epworth League, at Gulfport, Miss., June 18-21.
Meridian District Conference, Buckatunna, Miss., June 23.
Columbus District Conference, at Mathiston, Miss., July 1-3.
Newton District Conference, at Montrose, Miss., July 8-10.
Corinth District Conference, at Baldwin, Miss., July 14-16.

Many a failure in the judgment of man has been a royal success in the estimation of the angels.—Rev. F. B. Meyer.

THE SAFEST AND QUICKEST WAY

—TO—

TRANSFER MONEY

—Is By—

Long Distance Telephone

FOR RATES APPLY TO LOCAL MANAGER

Cumberland Telephone & Telegraph Co.,

INCORPORATED.

BUY THE NEW BOOK

HARP OF A THOUSAND STRINGS,

contains the immortal burlesques of Rev. Henry Talliaferro Lewis. One Dollar at McKowen and Co., Jackson, La., and W. L. Linfield, Woodville, Miss.

NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE

College Library.

REV. JOHN W. BOSWELL, Editor.
REV. H. WHITEHEAD, Ass't Editor.

NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, MAY 14, 1908.

CHAS. O. CHALMERS, Publisher,
Office, 512 Camp St., New Orleans.

VOL. 55—No. 20.

"PROVE ALL THINGS; HOLD FAST THAT WHICH IS GOOD."

WHOLE No. 5399.

Glances at the World.

As a rule women do not like to tell their age. Some will not unless compelled. We have known a few men who were as eccentric as the women. Whether women in other countries than our own have the same aversion, we cannot say, but in some lands, whether they like it or not, custom forces them to make, as it were, public proclamation of their years. In Japan, for instance: There, it is said, "every woman has to dress according to her age, and it is pretty certain that such a fashion, if fashion it is, will never prevail in this country. Suppose it were the rule that every woman upon a certain birthday anniversary should adopt a certain kind of dress, there would be a forgetting of birthday dates in very short order. In Japan a woman wears gold pins until she is 25. At 30 the pins are white, merely spotted with gold, and at 40 she wears plain shell combs. Her shoes are also changed as the age changes." In this country fashions change, and women adopt them as they come, but no sort of fashions tell their age.

* * *

The tallest building in the world to be used for business purposes is going up in New York. It is the building of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, at Madison Avenue and 24th Street. The Weekly Witness says this building, "which intermittently for a year has been rising, story by story, is having a renewed attack of gowing pains. Originally planned to be forty-eight stories high and the tallest building in the world; the structure will be carried four stories higher, rising fifty-two stories, with a total altitude of 700 feet. This will make the Metropolitan tower eighty-eight feet taller than the Singer Building, which only rises a trifle of 612 feet above the street level. The building will be the highest in the world, except the Eiffel Tower. 'We are an insurauce company,' said one of the Metropolitan officers, 'and while we are about it we might as well insure ourselves against competition in the tall tower business, at least for a decade or so. But it will not surprise us when we read of a 1,000-foot tower being planned, any more than a 1,000-foot steamship surprises the builders of 800-foot boats.'"

* * *

A social function, by way of demonstrating the beauty of social equality between the whites and blacks, occurred in New York a few days ago, in comparison with which Mr. Roosevelt's lunching with Booker Washington sinks into nothing. Mr. Roosevelt was talking politics, and politics makes strange diners together, as well as "strange bed-fellows." In the case referred to something like twenty white women sat down to dinner in one of the noted clubs with an equal number of negroes, some of them, it is reported, "as black as the proverbial ace of spades." This dining together was not by accident, nor on the impulse of the moment, but was premeditated and prearranged. At least one of the women moved in high social circles. At the table, and as chief speakers were two editors, one of a semi-religious, but fanatical weekly paper; the other of a popular evening daily. That exemplification of equality may have been intended as an initial step to test public sentiment, and doubtless satisfied the most ardent, but it will do no good. It will be of no advantage to the negroes in the North, save to a limited extent, and if the thing is attempted in the South it will do the negro great harm.

* * *

Much is said in the anti-prohibition papers about the "prohibition fanatics." It is a favorite expression with the liquor orators and writers. It seems never to occur to them that men can go as wild in support of the liquor traffic as do some who are opposed to it. We had a practical demonstration of this a couple of weeks ago in Congress. The queston of prohibition for the District of Columbia was up for discussion, and it gave Congressman Bartholdt of Missouri an opportunity to turn himself loose. He was not slow to embrace it. He was loud in his denunciation of the measure, and of prohibition in general. He well-nigh exceeded the limits of free speech in his characterization of those who favor the suppression of the liquor business. As we failed to clip and preserve his remarks we shall not venture to repeat them from memory. We allude to it here simply to call attentron to the fact that men can be as fanatical in defense of a purely secular business as in defense of things purely spiritual. And we modestly suggest that it is more seemly to become enthusiastic, even to the point of fanaticism in one's desire to overthrow an evil than in efforts to perpetuate it, even though the effort be made in the name of "personal liberty." We commend Mr. Bartholdt to Mr. Story and advise him to secure the Congressman's service next time he undertakes to manage a canvass against prohibition.

* * *

Many years ago, for some reason brought to bear on the rulers of China, high official rank was conferred on the Roman Catholic clergy in that empire. The forty-six Bishops received the rank of viceroy, which carried with it great power and influence, especially in behalf of native Chinese who had embraced the Roman Catholic faith. On the 1200 priests was conferred official rank of less dignity. The Dowager Empress, in conjunction with the Emperor, has rescinded the edict, it is said, with the approbation of the heads of the Church in China. Why the priests were thus deprived of their secular dignity and power, we do not know. We suppose, however, it was because secular power in the hands of foreign church men was a source of trouble. "It is interesting," says a foreign dispatch, "in this connection to recall that when the question was raised in 1899 as to whether the Protestant Missionary Bishops in China were not entitled to analogous rank, under the most favored nation treatment clause of the treaties with China, the Protestant Bishops and missionaries, at a conference held at Shanghai for the purpose of discussing the matter, decided unanimously that it would be inadvisable to accept official rank from the Chinese Government, on the ground that it was undesirable 'to complicate their spiritual responsibilities by the assumption of political rights and duties.'" It is not at all strange that while the Protestants unanimously declined the honor, the Roman Catholics unanimously accepted. Romanists believe that the Church has temporal as well as spiritual power. Protestants believe in the entire separation of Church and State.

* * *

Zion's Herald, of Boston, sets forth the following as the "Lessons of the Pacific Cruise:" "Whatever bearing the cruise of the Pacific fleet may have on the grand strategy of international policies, it has taught important lessons regarding the maintenance and manipulation of modern squadrons at sea. The high general average of speed maintained by the ships under Admiral Evans has been better than ever before. It appears that the further battleships are removed from navy yards, and the more the men are thrown upon their own resources, the more efficient they become. The cruise has afforded an invaluable training for the sailors, both in the management of machinery and in gunnery practice, and, while manœuvres at sea on a broad scale have not been possible, it has been shown that sixteen great American battleships, without a break in their formation, or stopping their engines to wait for laggard comrades, can sweep on gradually from port to port—provided only a proper coal supply awaits their coming at prearranged points. The able handling of the torpedo boats has again demonstrated the seaworthiness of those craft, and their ability to accompany a fleet in over-sea cruising, though the little boats are more strictly limited to ports where recoaling may be had. The torpedo flotilla has rendered an important service in promoting the good feeling which was developed in Latin America by the cruise of the battleships. The fleet was ignominiously obliged to depend upon foreign colliers for some of its supplies—a condition of things to which Congress remains strangely apathetic."

Christian Advocate.

Published for the Louisiana, Mississippi, and North Mississippi Conferences, Methodist Episcopal Church, South.

DIRECTIONS.

Correspondents will please direct all communications intended for the Editor to [illegible] Camp St., New Orleans, La. Communications intended for the Business Department should be addressed to the Manager of the New Orleans Christian Advocate. Write with ink and only on one side of the paper. No attention will be paid to [illegible] manuscripts.

The Printed Label of a paper shows the date to which a subscription is paid. This is good as a written receipt. When renewal is made, if the date is not moved forward after two weeks, notify us and we will make it right. Papers will be continued unless subscribers order otherwise.

For Advertising Rates Apply to

Religious Press Advertising Syndicate,
JACOBS & CO. CLINTON, S. C.

Home Office, Clinton, S. C., will have charge of the advertising of this paper.

ADVERTISING REPRESENTATIVES.

J. F. Jacobs, J. L. Jacobs, Home Office, Clinton, S. C.
[illegible] W. St. Catherine St., Louisville, Ky.
Thackwell Jacobs, [illegible] Stahlman Bldg., Nashville, Tenn.
C. C. Little, [illegible] Mutual Bldg., Richmond, Va.
L. J. Carter, [illegible] LaSalle St., Chicago, Ill.
Miss M. E. [illegible], [illegible] Nassau St., New York, N. Y.
Barton E. Bookman, [illegible] LaSalle St., Chicago, Ill.
J. H. [illegible], Birmingham, Ala.
E. J. Barrett, New Orleans, La.
J. B. Keough, Atlanta, Ga.
J. B. Gentry, Clinton, S. C.
H. B. Ewbank, Houston, Texas.
W. L. Boggs, Greensboro, N. C.
F. A. Wynne, Cor. Akard & Elm Sts., Dallas, Texas.

THE LAYMEN'S MISSIONARY CONFERENCE.

BY REV. W. W. WOOLLARD.

I think every one who attended this meeting will agree in saying it was a great Conference. There was nothing small about it from its inception to its final results.

1. It was great in plan. All had been laid out on a large scale. Provision for entertainment, various accommodations, missionary exhibits, press reports, organization, etc., marked it from the beginning as a great occasion.

2. It was great in its purpose—a movement led by laymen to enlist all laymen in "the evangelization of the world in this generation," not during the next century. "It can be done if we will" was revised to read, "It can be done and we will." Many a preacher's heart was made glad by the earnest and cheering words of our laymen, who have tarried too long by the stuff. When our whole Church hears the voice of these representative laymen and their call for great things for their Lord, this purpose will be realized. Speed the day!

3. It was great in its programme. From the first word of welcome by Mayor Crabtree, to the final message by Bishop Hendrix, the addresses moved with a steady progression to a powerful climax. Every speaker on the programme was present, and had evidently been chosen for his special fitness. Barring one or two exceptions, the addresses showed thorough preparation.

4. It was great in its attendance. I cannot say just how many were there, but each night the auditorium, with a capacity of 6000, was full. Through the day from 1500 to 2500 were present. Laymen were largely in the majority. Probably 25 per cent of the visitors were ministers. As a guess, I would say 800 or 1000 laymen were in attendance. From the North Mississippi Conference I counted thirty-three, of whom five were preachers, and one presiding elder. The attendance was representative, being from all parts of the Church, many from west of the river.

5. It was great in its utterances. Some of the addresses will abide with me forever. Notably that by Mr. James Bryce. Not simply because a great ambassador delivered it; and yet one cannot dissociate the personality behind the utterance from the utterance itself. Indeed, one ought not to separate them. From his large knowledge and wide experience he could speak with authority. I do not think he put the obligation for missions on the highest grounds, but he did rest it on safe grounds, and no man with a clear vision could fail to see that his conclusions were [illegible]. His argument was such as would probably appeal most strongly to a clear-headed business man. To illustrate his position take the Samoan Islands. Commerce and the traders have forever made impossible again their old way and government. They have given the Samoans new laws, new customs, new habits, new ideas. With these new ways of civilization have gone its evils. The trader with his lust for gold has gone with rum and gunpowder. He is too often civilization's most unworthy representative. With him goes its vices and the diseases peculiar to civilization. The native cannot stand the contact. It is the inevitable consequence of changed conditions without the fostering care of that which sustains civilization itself. Shall not the Church of Jesus Christ give them the best that civilization is and has? Otherwise we become to them a blighting curse. This purpose is not mere altruism, but simple justice. What he said of the works of our missionaries in Turkey and India, where he had had personal observation, made our hearts to thrill with joy. His address was a notable deliverance. It would awake the dullest mind, the most lethargic soul.

Space forbids my writing of the addresses of Mr. Ellis, Bishop Candler, Bishop Wilson (what a vision this grand old man, like a Hebrew prophet, gave us of a triumphant church), Mr. King, Mr. Capen and many others. Dr. Josiah Strong, one of the greatest students of Christian Sociology, pleaded in powerful and convincing arguments and facts the call of the city. Beyond all question, Dr. Strong has a message for the Church, and the Church and the nation must heed it. See his books and read them.

Certain facts brought out by Mr. J. Campbell White call Southern Methodism to the sense of her obligation. If, as this movement says and our leaders approve, the Church is to evangelize the world in this generation, each individual Christian had as well face his responsibility and prepare to meet it. Our Church is charged with the evangelization of 40,000,000 of those who have never heard of our Christ. What a responsibility! And yet it is within our power if we follow our Lord. The missionaries on the field say one man, with the aid of native help that will be raised up, can evangelize in twenty-five years 25,000. That is a vastly heavier task than any preacher in Christendom has. And yet the missionaries are willing to undertake it. With the power of the Holy Spirit they can do it. This means that there is charged to our Church on the books of heaven the maintenance of 1600 foreign missionaries. By the side of what we are now doing it looks like the impossible. But it is not. With an awakened Church it is an easy task. There are more than 1000 members for the support of one missionary. Is that large? It means that the North Mississippi Conference is charged with the maintenance of fifty missionaries. We have laid on us the evangelization of 1,200,000 who have not heard of our Christ. This means that each individual member of our Church has twenty-four of God's untaught children charged to him as his wards. Christ's Church is expecting him to carry or send them the light.

To do this it will take men—men with a purpose and with faith in God. Beside it all other questions pale, both in magnitude and in importance. But will it be done? Our laymen have said Yes. They have committed themselves to the task with God's help. Thunder it in the ears of every child of our Zion. Thunder it from every pulpit. Let our people know what the laymen have said.

They voted unanimously for a round million for foreign missions this year [illegible] 1908. The era of missions is [illegible] earnest. Our Church is in the current [illegible] the man who drifts [illegible] remain there. [illegible] him.

The organization of the "[illegible] Corps," at the suggestion of Mr. [illegible], met with enthusiastic approval. [illegible] it to be composed of "Emergency [illegible]" [illegible] agree to pay so much annually [illegible], to meet any emergency that [illegible] the field for which no provision [illegible] started with two men subscribing [illegible] and one one thousand. It has [illegible] down. A lapel button, suitably [illegible] be the token of its membership.

They raised $15,000 to [illegible] and conduct a vigorous campaign [illegible]. In a short while literature will [illegible] for general distribution.

There was organized a Medical Missionary Society to be composed of all the physicians of our Church. Its object [illegible] the works of medical missions, than which there are none more interesting and profitable [illegible] mission work. Its secretary is Dr. [illegible], Nashville, Tenn. Every physician in [illegible] Mississippi Methodism should join [illegible].

The closing address by Bishop Hendrix was marked by the [illegible] presence of the Holy Spirit. It was a time of [illegible] communion with our Father. The [illegible] auditorium was conscious of an unseen presence.

And now, finally, for this paper is drawn out too long. These men can [illegible] trust their leader. [illegible] R. [illegible]. He [illegible] gold. "There was a man sent from God, whose name was John."

Watervalley, Miss.

LEADERSHIP.

It seems to be God's [illegible] that some men are born to lead and others to follow. That is as it should be. Moses was a leader, and a born leader at that. Paul was a leader in his very make-up. Plato was a [illegible] and perhaps no philosopher has ever gone very far beyond his teachings. In fact, Emerson says of him, "Great havoc makes he among our originalities." Peter the Hermit, Caesar, Napoleon, Wesley, Gladstone, Washington, Jefferson, Hamilton, Lincoln, Davis, Cleveland, Luther, Wesley, Galloway, Hoss, Roosevelt and Bryan are a few of the many to be set down in history as leaders per se. Possibly neither of them ever fully realized that nature had set them apart as leaders of men. But the masses do follow them. Then there are other leaders of a less wide reputation—leaders in communities, whose names never get beyond their immediate neighborhoods, but whose leadership is pronounced and certain. In every community you will find some one man who stands out like a polar star as a guide for those people nearest him. Then there is still another class of leaders. In every community you will find that the Church of God has sent a man to live, even though temporarily, among that people. He is selected, or supposed to be, for his special fitness for the work and for leadership for good for that particular people. We commonly call him a preacher. If he is endowed with leadership he can indeed accomplish a great deal of good. The mass of people are disposed to follow, but they are quick to discern whether or not this man or that one is a leader worthy to be followed. And it is just at this point that our presiding elders and Bishops are called upon by their positions to be judges of men. The right man sent to that Church means much, and so also does the sending of the wrong man mean much. Every minister ought and doubtless does study how best to lead his people. If he fails, his people have failed. May God direct them all in their responsible work. Respectfully,

W. A. BELK.

Holly Springs, Miss.

A GLANCE AT THE PAST.

A paper read by G. W. Bachman at the Winona District Missionary Institute, April 9, 1908, and published by request of the Institute:

The first Methodist preaching in America was by two local preachers, Philip Embury and Robert Strawbridge, in 1766. The first Methodist Church was built in New York in 1768 or 1769. The first Conference was held in Philadelphia, June, 1773, one hundred and thirty-five years ago, when there were ten preachers and 1160 members. In 1808, one hundred years ago, there were 540 preachers and 121,687 members.

There are now more than 7,000,000 Methodists on the Continent. In 1845 (the Church having been divided in 1844) the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, began with nineteen Annual Conferences, 1384 traveling preachers, 2833 local preachers, 333,688 members (besides 124,911 colored members). There are now forty-five Annual Conferences, 7188 traveling preachers, 4703 local preachers, 1,713,576 members.

Methodism began in Mississippi in 1799 by the preaching of Tobias Gibson in the Natchez country. The first year he reported sixty members. In 1808, one hundred years ago, there were six preachers and 335 members. The territory was then embraced in the Western Conference, which included the States of Ohio, Kentucky and Tennessee. There are now in the State two Annual Conferences, 356 traveling preachers, 201 local preachers, and 99,639 members.

The North Mississippi Conference was organized in 1870 with nine districts, 95 pastoral charges, 134 traveling preachers, 190 local preachers, 21,750 members. There are now eight districts, 150 pastoral charges, 171 traveling preachers, eighty-five local preachers, 49,736 members. In 1871 there were paid to presiding elders $8,404, pastors $42,605, Conference claimants $2,214, Foreign Missions $1390, Domestic Missions $1,031. There was then no Church Extension or Woman's Missionary work. In 1907 there were paid to presiding elders $13,019, pastors $101,887, Conference claimants $4,712, Foreign Missions $9,269, Domestic Missions $4,882, Church Extension $3,223, Woman's Foreign Missions $3,583, Woman's Home Missions $15,686.

From the foregoing we note as follows: Average salary in 1871 of presiding elders $933, of pastors $449. In 1907 presiding elders $1627, pastors $679. Contributions to the regular benevolences, per capita in 1871, 21 1-3 cents; in 1907 83 cents.

This shows a large increase in liberality during the past thirty-seven years, which is indeed very gratifying. But in itemizing we find that for the Conference claimants there has been a decrease of nearly 1 cent per capita. This fact should provoke serious consideration until we have for this most important cause an advance commensurate with the others.

This "glance at the past" should stimulate within us the spirit of thanksgiving to our Lord for this wonderful progress in the past, and of brighter hope for the future of his kingdom in our beloved country.

Those who heard the original paper will observe in this some elaboration which it was understood would be made.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.

The Woman's Foreign Missionary Society, and also the Woman's Home Missionary Society, of the Sardis District, will hold their District Meeting in connection with District Conference, at Batesville, on May 27, and on May 28 will be held the Sunday school and Mission Day Special. The District Conference will run through to May 31, including fifth Sunday.

W. M. YOUNG.

HIGHER CRITICISM AND SOME OF THE CRITICS.

BY REV. H. W. FEATHERSTUN, D. D.

No. II.

I remember that once there came about as a fashion an indescribable pose of the body among young women called "the Grecian bend;" and now, when some young girl has been off and comes back to the rusticity of her village, she wants to shake hands with a queer upward movement, as if she expected you to kiss her hand; and I have seen young men wear broad, black silk sashes, instead of vests, and grasp a young lady's arm, police-fashion, instead of offering her his own! Now, these are fads, mere fads, more or less harmless, but altogether ridiculous. There are fads in science. Alas, there are fads in theology and Bible interpretation. Higher criticism is the fad of to-day. There is some good in it—some truth—but many of its deductions are not deducible. They may not be very harmful, but are very absurd; and render some of our smart preachers, who take up with the fad, very ridiculous. One, hearing them voice their theories on Job's date and John's authorship, would naturally think of silly girls posing the "Grecian bend" and sappy boys exploiting the arm-clutch. Harmless it may be, but rather silly.

Such I have already shown the theory of a late Job to be; and now I propose to show the assertion that the Apostle John did not write the book known as "The Gospel According to St. John" to be equally as silly.

Bretschneider, a famous German, in 1820, suggested that the book was not written by the Apostle John, but by an Alexandrian in the second century. Baur, another German, and founder of what is called "the Tubingen School" of interpretation, urged that it was written by a "Gentile Christian," a Gnostic, in the latter part of the second century, nearly a century after the death of the Apostle John. Weisacker and Wendt, whose "Teachings of Jesus" lies before me, and Schurer, all Germans, believe that it was written not by John, but by a disciple of his. Other German doctors, some English and Scotch divines and a few American preachers follow the German fad set by Baur and modified by Wendt and others. Some of our faddists are leaning Germany-ward in the matter.

Did the Apostle John, "the beloved disciple," write the book that we call "The Gospel According to St. John?"

1. For over eighteen centuries the learned Bible students of every land say that he did. Why deny it?

2. Until 1820 no scholar denied it; and he who denied it then, afterwards recanted his denial.

3. Tatian, who was born in A. D. 110—not twenty years after the death of St. John—and died in 172, wrote a harmony of the gospels called the "Diatessaron," in which he incidentally recognizes that St. John wrote the fourth Gospel. He does not argue the question; for it was not a question then—nobody had suggested any other author; but he incidentally indicates St. John as its author. The Christian Church then was small, its members few, and driven by persecution to cling close to one another; and its ministers were fewer still, and generally well known throughout the little Christian world. It is hardly possible for Tatian to have been mistaken about it. He died before the date set by Baur and his Tubingen school; and yet he includes the book, the Diatessaron — the very name, Diatessaron, "throughout the four," requires it. Now, here is a sage school of so-called higher critics, who tell us that the Gospel of John was not written until, at the earliest, A. D. 170, while we have a Diatessaron including that Gospel, and it was written by a man who died in 172. Is there not something silly in this contention of these sage gentlemen? Tatian tells us, too, that the Gospel was written by St. John, and that Apostle had been dead only about eighty years when Tatian died. Is there not something quite silly in the Tubingen contention?

4. Eusebius, the great patristic historian, who was born about 270, quotes a passage from Clement of Alexandria, who was born in 153, in which is given the occasion for the writing of each of the four Gospels; and in this passage Clement incidentally indicates John as the author of the Gospel that bears his name. Clement, like Tatian, does not argue the question; for it was not a question. No man had ever questioned it. He simply says: "John, last of all, perceiving that what had reference to the body in the gospel of our Savior was sufficiently detailed, and being encouraged by his familiar friends, and urged by the Spirit, wrote a Spiritual gospel." Is it at all possible that both Tatian and Clement, learned and honest men, living within less than a century of the real date of the Gospel by John could both be utterly mistaken about its writer, or utterly false to the known facts?

5. There has but recently been discovered a fragment, in the Coptic language, written as early as 160, "which cites the fourth Gospel as John's." Verily, these three witnesses convict the Tübingen School of utter silliness.

All of this means, not that there is anything wrong in higher criticism, a thorough study of the Scriptures, a turning on of all the light possible; but that there is something very much out of order in the mental machinery of some so-called higher critics.

Rev. J. T. Curry, of Tennessee, in an article published in our Review, of July, 1905, concedes that higher "criticism has had a large share in the work of creating the present enthusiasm in Bible study." Maybe so; but I doubt that its share is a very large one. He further concedes that it has intensified or made more critical that study and has given "a truer balance and discrimination between the human and divine, the essential and nonessential, the universally vital and merely local or temporary elements in the Bible." Possibly all this is true; but if it has been the occasion of the birth of a fad, following which a great lot of smart preachers on both sides of the Atlantic have been led to play the monkey before the world, it may be costing us more than it is worth. However, the fad, like all fads, will soon die, and we shall have a sane, splendid method of Bible study left to us. But where, oh, where will the faddists be?

The Canal-Louisiana Bank and Trust Company

CORNER CAMP AND GRAVIER STS.

Embraces every function of financial business. It solicits your deposit account subject to cheque. It solicits your SAVINGS ACCOUNT upon which will be allowed INTEREST at the rate of 3 1-2 per cent. per annum, compounded semi-annually.

It will safeguard your securities in its BURGLAR and FIRE-PROOF SAFETY DEPOSIT VAULTS. It will collect Bonds, Rents, Mortgages, Interest, Dividends, Coupons and every class of income. It will pay Taxes and Insurance, sell property and undertake the care and management of Estates. It will act as Executor, Administrator, Guardian or Trustee under will or by appointment of court.

DURING YOUR LIFETIME IT WILL ACT AS YOUR AGENT AND AT YOUR DEATH IT WILL ADMINISTER YOUR ESTATE.

Its Foreign Exchange Department buys and sells Drafts and Cable Transfers; issues Commercial and Travelers' Letters of Credit available in all parts of the world, makes collections and does a general foreign exchange business.

Accounts of Individuals, Firms, Banks and Corporations Respectfully Solicited.

Every Accommodation Offered Consistent With Safe and Legitimate Banking.

MANSFIELD FEMALE COLLEGE.

Dear Dr. Boswell: The work of the scholastic year being nearly ended, I deem it proper through the ADVOCATE to furnish the Church some statements of interest connected with the College. More than is commonly believed, the institution has a warm place in the hearts of our Methodist people, and they are rallying right worthily to its support. The president has announced that notwithstanding the severe financial conditions that have prevailed throughout the country, the College will defray its running expenses. He has evinced marked skill in economy of resources and managed an unusually high standard of excellence during the first year of the new regime. Splendid work has been done by the students, and a spirit of progress is manifest. Meanwhile there has obtained within the College a real and ideal religious development that gladdened the heart of the writer. No great upheaval of emotion has characterized the situation herein, but a steady, deepening work of grace has been wrought in the lives of our student body that will count for much in the coming years. Some of the most intellectual young women here are devotedly pious and through their earnest work much good has been done.

At the morning prayer services for the College family it is my privilege statedly to officiate, and it has been my constant aim and effort to be all that a loving and solicitous parent should be in seeking to direct the minds of the young women to the noblest and purest ends of life, "that they may be corner-stones, polished after the similitude of a palace." In the classroom, also, I have endeavored to inculcate with all due discretion and fidelity the principles of industry, honesty and sobriety.

We use the new Methodist Hymnal and the standard hymns, so dear to our fathers, are becoming familiar to our young people in lieu of the less devotional and elevating kind that elsewhere is popular. All the College classes receive regular instruction in the Bible under the capable and devout direction of our president, who is himself a Methodist preacher's son. Next week we are to have with us Rev. Dr. Rice, of New Orleans, who is to deliver a series of addresses on certain books of the Holy Scriptures that will doubtless be replete with interest to us and the towns-people as well. The learned Doctor is well furnished as a Biblical student and exegete. We look for large spiritual and intellectual benefit.

The Commencement programme will be an attractive one. (May 21-27.) Rev. Dr. J. E. Wray, of First Church, New Orleans, and Rev. Dr. Frank Barrett, of Texarkana, will bring us messages charged with interest and value. There are nine seniors who hope to graduate from the literary department. In music and expression are several expecting to receive parchments also.

The town will doubtless join us in keeping open-house hospitality, whereby to entertain our friends and any prospective patrons, who may see for themselves the place where their daughters can find a comfortable college home. If any such persons will write President Dean beforehand entertainment will be provided free of expense to our guests. We hope for a large attendance of our preachers of the Conference. If they see the buildings and attractive grounds for themselves, it will be easy to tell their people about the advantages here found.

W. A. BETTS.

Mansfield, La.

AN INSTITUTE FOR PREACHERS.

The commission appointed by the Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana Conferences to arrange for an Institute for preachers at the Seashore Camp-Ground, and the committee previously appointed by the Mississippi Conference for the same purpose, met in joint session in the Methodist Church in Gulfport, Miss., on April 28. Brother Robert Selby was elected chairman of the joint body, and Brother Seay secretary, and Brother Holmes treasurer. It was moved and carried that the outline published in the Mississippi Conference Journal of last year be the guiding outline for the programme for next year, 1909, when the first institute is to be held. In view of the importance of making for the first presentation of the institute a programme of the highest order, and of all the difficulties involved in such an undertaking, it was thought best to hold the first institute in 1909, June 23-July 1, inclusive, and to ask of the five Conferences of Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama to appoint a commission of three for the establishment of a permanent Institute for Preachers at the Seashore Camp-Ground. A programme second to none of its kind was outlined to be recommended to that commission (if the Conferences comply) and arrangements made to get things in shape for that commission. Some of the world's best men for such work are on this proposed programme.

The three officers were made an executive committee of the body to carry on the preparations and to present the matter in proper shape to the Annual Conferences.

SECRETARY.

DISTRICT CONFERENCES.

MERIDIAN DISTRICT.

The Meridian District Conference will meet at Buckatunna, June 23, at 8 p. m., instead of 4:30 p. m. as previously announced. This change is necessitated by a new railroad schedule. The opening sermon will be preached by Rev. J. W. Ramsey.

W. C. BLACK, P. E.

ABERDEEN DISTRICT.

All who expect to attend the Aberdeen District Conference, June 3-5, Houlka, Miss., living out of the district, that expect entertainment, will please write me.

We have notified all the preachers of the district by cards. Hope they will all respond to request. Dr. Boswell, you are cordially invited.

W. C. CARLISLE, P. C.

Houlka, Miss.

DURANT DISTRICT.

The Durant District Conference will meet at Kilmichael, May 21-24.

The good people of Kilmichael are getting ready to give us a royal entertainment. They are overhauling their church, and when they are through it will be a gem of beauty. They will give a hearty welcome to the servants of God and the Church, and they expect a "time of refreshing from the presence of the Lord."

The train arrivals are: Going East: 11:12 a. m. and 8:55 p. m. Going West: 10:12 a. m. and 3:40 p. m. All trains will be met by committee; but if any should arrive unannounced, they will please go to the church or to the bank, where Brother A. L. Pery will give any assistance needed.

A full attendance is desired, not only of members of the Conference, but of any and all visitors interested in the great work. Mr. Editor, we will be very glad to have you with us. Yours in the work,

J. H. SMITH, Pastor.

THE OXFORD DISTRICT CONFERENCE.

"Dat aint no Angel!
BUT, hit's de bodiment ob goodness jes de same. Ah tells you, when you gits a taste ob dat dar LUZIANNE COFFEE you feels mighty close to de Good Place sho'."
25 CENTS PER POUND
THE Reily-Taylor Co.
NEW ORLEANS U.S.A.

The Oxford District Conference will meet in Holy Springs, May 19-21. After organization and appointment of committees, Tuesday morning, the meeting will be turned over to the Woman's Missionary Societies for the day.

Rev. J. H. Bass will preach Tuesday night. Thursday will be "Layman's Day." A very fine programme has been prepared, and we look for great things. Besides the regular delegates, there will be many other laymen present from all over the district. Let pastors and delegates meet promptly at 8:30 o'clock Tuesday morning.

Committee on License and Recommendation for Admission to Annual Conference: W. W. Mitchell, W. G. Burks, H. S. Spragins.

Committee on Orders: T. G. Freeman, J. W. Poston, J. R. Roberson.

J. E. CUNNINGHAM, P. E.

NEWTON DISTRICT.

The Missionary Institute at Philadelphia (Miss.) is changed from June 17 to June 23.

JAS. M. WEEMS, P. E.

THE LAYMEN OF OXFORD DISTRICT.

Mr. Editor: The Laymen's Movement is being felt and recognized in the Oxford District. Eight laymen, members of the Oxford Church, met recently with our Presiding Elder and pastor, Brothers Cunningham and Spragins, and Brother Wollard, of Water Valley, for a full and free discussion of this great movement as related to our Church. A considerable degree of interest and enthusiasm was evinced. We decided to set apart a special day for this important subject at our District Conference, to be held at Holly Springs May 19-21. We have prepared and had printed a programme for the 21st, mailed one to each member of the District Conference, and to many other laymen as well. About three hundred and fifty have been mailed out, and with each a letter urging attendance. We hoped to have a day of much profit and real interest.

We have the hearty and intelligent co-operation of our presiding elder, and of the president of our Missionary Board, Brother Woollard.

If our laymen catch and appropriate the Christ-like spirit and force of the great Chattanooga Conference, they can but speak out and act while the heart burns within. The thought of the unused assets among our members—in ourselves—should alarm, bestir and encourage us.

A greater work remains to be done for the Master. A greater work can be done for his cause. Now let us say we will do it. The field and the reapers are open; men and women are ready to go on this great missionary conquest for the King of our salvation. We need money and consecration to send them and to make their work effective unto him!

Laymen and preachers of North Mississippi Conference, the battle is on; the forces of heathendom are weakening before the onward march of Christian civilization; let us have our full share in the glorious victory of our Lord!

J. M. WYATT,
Leader of the Layman's Movement of Oxford District.

PROGRAMME

FOR MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE EPWORTH LEAGUE DAY, MAY 31, 1908.

(To be used by all of the Leagues in the Conference, with such changes as local conditions may require.)

Song.
Scripture lesson, Phil. iii, 8-16.
Prayer.
Special music, etc. (to be arranged for according to local talent.)
The Epworth League; Its Origin, Purpose and Work (by the pastor or leader).
Reception of new members.
Five minutes talk on the work of the (a) Devotional Department by the first vice-president; (b) Charity and Help Department by the second vice-president; (c) Literary Department by the third vice-president; (d) Missionary Department by the fourth vice-president.
The Epworth Era Necessary to Our League Work, by the Era agent. (Have sample copies of the Era and distribute, and get a club of ten or more.)
Special Work of Our League.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE EPWORTH LEAGUE.

What? An annual gathering of delegates from all the Leagues in the Conference.
Where? Gulfport.
When? June 18 to 21, 1908.
Why attend? To learn League methods.
Who can attend? Pastors, presidents and two or more delegates from each League (and church without a League).
Collection for expense of the Mississippi Conference League. (Remit to W. D. Hawkins, Meridian, Miss.)
Elect your delegates to Gulfport (if not already elected).
Song.
League benediction.

FOR THE USE OF CHURCHES WITHOUT EPWORTH LEAGUES.

Splendid music (to be arranged by each community.)
Song.
Prayer.
Scripture lesson, Phil. iii, 8-16.
"What is the Epworth League?" by the pastor (or some one selected by him).
"Do We Need and Can We Have Such an Organization Here?" (Volunteer talks from those present.)
Organization; election of officers; subscriptions to the Era, and election of delegates to Gulfport.
Song.
League benediction.
Send names of delegates to Miss Georgia Rohrer, Gulfport, Miss.

DISTRICT CONFERENCE.

The Crowley District Conference will meet in Jeanerette May 29-June 1, 1908. The opening sermon will be preached Friday, May 29, at 8 p.m., by Rev. J. I. Hoffpauir. The business session of the Conference will begin Saturday, May 30, at 9 a.m.

J. M. HENRY,
Presiding Elder.

WINONA DISTRICT CONFERENCE.

If the preachers will send me the names of their delegates who are at all likely to attend the District Conference it will be of great service to me in providing you entertainment, and I shall be grateful for the information. Respectfully,

W. H. MOUNGER.
Eupora, Miss.

LOUISIANA ORPHANAGE

Rev. C. C. Weir, Field Agent,

Bunkie, La.

My Dear Brethren: Since I last wrote you, I have made several visits of interest. I went to Mansfield, where I was very kindly received by old friends and new. The pastor, Brother K. W. Dodson, is very busy in the erection of one of the finest churches in the Conference.

Brother Dean, president of Mansfield Female College, is surrounded by a happy, contented, hard-working crowd of girls, who will do much to draw patronage next year. Patrons, after all, are the very best recommendations. Our beloved superannuate, J. L. P. Shepherd, while not physically able to take a pastorate, is keenly alive to every interest in our Zion. The Mansfield congregation will pay, through two local secretaries, twenty dollars monthly. This will care for three children.

I am glad that fine, new churches do not always mean a clear receipt, so far as other matters are concerned. I presented the orphanage work in the morning to the Methodist people, and at night, by invitation of Rev. Mr. Thorpe, the rector of the Episcopal Church, I told the Episcopalians about our Orphanage. Now, wont some of your Methodists invite me!

Easter Sunday I was in Hico with Brother Robert Randle. I cannot begin to tell you how much I appreciate the fact that he drove for me fifteen miles, and fifteen miles back, making in all a drive of sixty miles for him, and I am neither a Bishop nor a presiding elder; so he did this for the reason many others have done the nice things for me—for Jesus' sake. How tender are the ministrations of my brethren!

On Friday, the 10th, I received the following letter from Mr. S. D. Pearce, president of our Board of Trustees:

"We are in immediate need of money to carry on the work on the building. The superintendent of the work has need for $150 to $300 per week, and we have now less than $100 on hand—not enough to pay up labor account for this week—and unless more money is put into the treasury by Saturday evening next, 11th inst., work on the building will stop at the end of this week. That, you understand, will be a great misfortune to the undertaking just at this stage of the work, which, up to this time, has progressed nicely. * * * The situation is a critical one and calls for immediate action. We look to you for financial aid."

I had to meet the issue, which I did. You can readily see that mechanics' and masons' hire amount to nearly $1000 per month, to say nothing of feeding the children.

Brethren, somehow I feel like I should have a chance at some of your people without having to literally "but in," as I have so frequently to do. The building is beautiful, and is walled up to the windows of the second story. We need this so much. Our rented house is just about full now, and we are receiving daily requests to take children.

I received a nice letter from Louisiana Avenue Sunday school, with an Easter offering of $18.50. It is nice to be remembered.

It will take $6000 to put the roof on and doors and windows in. Those who can pay should help us with money; those who have no money should pray for us. Reader, is this on your heart?

My club continues to grow. I copy portions of a few letters about the club—I mean the club who are to pay $500 monthly into our Home:

From Shreveport: "I am not prepared now to sign a card for a specified amount for your Orphanage every year, but hope to be able to contribute every year. Enclosed find my check for $25."

A widow's letter: "Some days ago I received a little book and some leaflets regarding the Methodist Orphanage at Ruston, also asking for a subscription monthly. I have thought over this quite seriously, and have decided, though my means are very limited (a great deal more so than you have any idea). I will subscribe six dollars annually, fifty cents monthly. I have an income from my one rented house of $16 monthly. From this I clothe myself, pay Church, Sunday school and mission dues, taxes, insurance and all repairs that are made on the place."

I wonder if some one body who reads this letter to the ADVOCATE will not write and ask to join the "$500 Club."

Asking your prayers and sympathy and co-operation, I am yours fraternally.

C. C. WIER.

THE SAFEST AND QUICKEST WAY
—TO—
TRANSFER MONEY
—Is By—
Long Distance Telephone
FOR RATES APPLY TO LOCAL MANAGER
Cumberland Telephone & Telegraph Co.,
INCORPORATED.

BELLEVUE POULTRY SUPPLY CO.

Everything in the poultry line: Chickens, Parrots, Guinea Pigs, Rabbits and Pet Stock of every description; Cyphers, Incubators and Feed at Factory Prices, may be had by writing us at 740 Camp St., New Orleans, La. Catalogue sent free.

Harness and Saddles
E. G. AWCOCK,
333 BARONNE STREET,
Phone Main 4467. New Orleans, La.
Repairs Neatly and Promptly Done.

BUY THE NEW BOOK
HARP OF A THOUSAND STRINGS
contains the immortal burlesques of Rev. Henry Talliaferro Lewis. One Dollar at McKowen and Co., Jackson, La., and W. L. Linfield, Woodville, Miss.

W. H. M. S.

The Twenty-[illegible] annual Session of the Woman's Board of Home Missions [illegible] at the [illegible] Church, [illegible] [illegible] afternoon, April [illegible].

Miss Bennett, the head of the organization, in her annual message to the body [illegible] with [illegible] the progress made throughout all phases of the work during the past four year and emphasized the need of the department [illegible] women [illegible] with [illegible] Christian [illegible]. [illegible] women of [illegible] thought and [illegible] equipment to [illegible] the [illegible] work [illegible] representing [illegible] Conferences were present at the meeting. [illegible] a number of [illegible] Dr. [illegible] of [illegible] New York and an author of [illegible] reputation, gave a [illegible] entitled "The New [illegible] of the New [illegible]" and [illegible]. [illegible] gave the spiritual [illegible] to the Conference by his daily Bible talks on the "Secret of the Inner Life." His plain, simple exposition of the great truths of the Christian religion reached the hearts and came as a call to higher and better service for the Master. The Bishop declared he had no faith in the piety that pines inordinately for paradise; that a religion which causes a person to lose all interest in the movements of this world is selfish and narrow. To make the world better is to be a factor in politics, in business and by example and wisdom to be a help to those around him.

Following the annual sermon on Sunday morning by Bishop Hendrix, ten young women were consecrated by him to enter as deaconesses the great field of missionary effort in the homeland. The sum of $15,000 was appropriated by the Board to develop mission work on the Gulf Coast, this work to be centered in the three great ports of entry, New Orleans, Galveston and Mobile—in Galveston the work established to be known as the "Sam Jones Immigrant Bureau," in honor of the great evangelist and because of his deep interest in the cause of Home Missions.

The reports show the past year to have been the most prosperous one in the history of the organization, the grand total of collections, local and connectional, being $[illegible]. The attitude of the Board against the liquor traffic, child labor, legalized prostitution and the divorce evil was emphasized in no uncertain terms, and the members of the body urged to use their utmost endeavor to promote the enactment of righteous laws in both local and State governments. The appropriations for the present year amount to nearly $[illegible], this amount to be divided among the fifteen schools and other enterprises of the Society.

Dr. McMurry, secretary of the Church Extension Board, in his address on "Parsonages" highly commended this department as a great factor in extending the gospel by its provision of homes and supplies in the hard places. Nineteen thousand nine hundred and thirty-two dollars were donated to parsonages last year, also supplies to various charges and missions valued at $[illegible].

A report of special interest was made by Dr. Trawick, of the medical staff of the Louisville Wesley House. He stated that during the past twelve months three thousand patients had received attention from the nurse deaconess, while fully that number of medical calls were answered by the three physicians on the Wesley House staff. "Altogether, this free work," he said, "would have amounted, at the lowest estimate, to more than $8000 in the year."

Taken all in all, the meeting which has just closed was pronounced by general consent one of the most efficient and fruitful that has ever been held by the Woman's Home Mission Board.

[illegible] the [illegible] of the [illegible] from the [illegible] served [illegible] the [illegible] committee [illegible] composed of [illegible]. [illegible] meeting [illegible].

[illegible]

[illegible] that [illegible] Mission [illegible] the [illegible] of the [illegible] will [illegible] of the [illegible] Jubilee number.

[illegible]
[illegible] Conf.

[illegible]

Mrs. [illegible], the newly elected corresponding secretary of the New Orleans District and the [illegible] Superintendent of [illegible] work in the State [illegible] South Franklin Street, New Orleans, La., has been appointed corresponding secretary of that district. Mrs. [illegible] will [illegible] the [illegible] Shreveport District having removed from the State also.

NOTES FROM SARDIS DISTRICT.

The people of the Mt. Pleasant charge are delighted with their pastor, Rev. [illegible] Wilson, and are giving their appreciation tangible expression in many ways. Their second quarterly Conference, which was recently held, was well attended and good reports were made. They are repairing and beautifying their parsonage property. We are [illegible] that [illegible] Wilson is [illegible] with his people.

We regret to note the illness of Sister W. M. Young, who is now confined to her bed, and hope it will be temporary [illegible].

Brother Langford writes that it became necessary to remove Sister Langford to an infirmary in Yazoo City, where she underwent an operation, which was entirely successful. The present indications promise a complete restoration to health, for which we join the happy husband in rejoicing. He [illegible] for this extra expense [illegible] most sincere thanks. He has already entrenched himself in the affections of his people.

Rev. N. D. Augustus and [illegible] Gaines exchanged pulpits last Sunday. Both congregations enjoyed the [illegible].

The children of Brother [illegible] charge, [illegible] have raised more than fifty [illegible] for the Orphans' Home.

Miss Allen, [illegible] charge, who was converted last [illegible] a scholarship in the [illegible] and Training School preparatory to [illegible] the foreign field.

May [illegible], 1908.

WINONA DISTRICT CONFERENCE

TO BE HELD AT [illegible], MISS., MAY 27-28.

A Sunday School Institute will be held May 26, opening at 2:30 p.m. Short addresses will be made upon the following topics, viz.:

The Sunday School as an Investment—J. W. Bell, R. T. Jones.

The Sunday School's Contribution to the Church—J. B. Small, John Ritchey.

The Essentials of an Ideal Sunday School—A. B. Reese, J. A. Hall.

[illegible] the Sunday School [illegible] May [illegible] Hold the School—[illegible] L. W. [illegible]

Some Marks of a Successful Teacher—J. H. [illegible], [illegible] McCafferty.

[illegible] the School [illegible]—W. B. Bingham.

Sunday School Music—[illegible] Park.

Rev. [illegible] Ritchey will preach the opening sermon for the District Conference at 7:45 p.m. Tuesday, followed by the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. The Conference will open at [illegible] Wednesday morning. Reports from the [illegible] charges will be heard, careful inquiry being made into the general state of the Church. During the morning W. B. Bingham, J. J. [illegible] and [illegible] Bryan will bring us "Echoes from the Laymen's Conference at Chattanooga." During the afternoon [illegible] will be [illegible] Home Mission [illegible] the routine business of the Conference will be completed [illegible].

[illegible] in our [illegible]

Methodism's Opportunity in the Winona District—[illegible] L. W. [illegible]

The Layman's Place in the [illegible]—[illegible]

[illegible] and Education—[illegible] Ritchey, R. [illegible]

The Preacher and [illegible]—[illegible] Hall.

The Church Extension Loan Funds—J. R. [illegible]

The Need of Better Provision for our Superannuates—R. Thayer.

Our Temperance Fight and Its Cost—R. A. [illegible], W. H. Mounger.

COMMITTEES

On License to Preach—[illegible] Park, J. A. Hall, John Ritchey.

Admission and Orders—J. W. Bell, H. M. Young, G. W. Bachman.

E. S. Lewis.

GET SOLID PROTECTION AND INSURE WITH
LEON IRWIN & CO.
Fire and Casualty Insurance.
[illegible] GRAVIER STREET PHONE MAIN [illegible]

W. W. Carre Co., Ltd.
Manufacturers and Exporters of
LUMBER,
NEW ORLEANS.

Phone Main [illegible]
ROOMS and BOARD
[illegible] SOUTH STREET LAFAYETTE SQUARE
CORNER ST. CHARLES ST., NEW ORLEANS.
UNLIMITED MEALS ALVIN PORTER, Manager.

ESTABLISHED [illegible]
JOHN DAVID BURGHARDT CO.,
"THE RELIABLE" PLUMBERS and GAS FITTERS
Agency: [illegible] Patent [illegible] Ranges, [illegible] Water Filters.
[illegible] St. Phone Main [illegible]
Jobbing and Repair Work a Specialty New Orleans, La.

Our line of Stoves, Kitchen Furnishings, and General Household Supplies is full of interest to all Good Housekeepers.

Suppose you take a look at it for yourself—
UNITED HARDWARE CO.,
LIMITED

LORENZO DOW'S DEEDS TO CHURCH LOTS.

In his wanderings about the world, Lorenzo Dow visted the "Natchez Country" more than once. He had quite a partiality for this favored settlement in the then new Southwest. In his story of his travels and experiences he tells how he advised the kin-people of his wife, Peggy, to remove to this portion of the Mississippi Territory. Finally, he did make his home in Claiborne County, Mississippi, near the present town of Port Gibson, where he resided for several years, and where, according to his narrative, he had varied tribulations, chiefly because of the ill health of his devoted wife, Peggy.

It is likely not generally known that he owned land in Mississippi. But the records of Adams County show this to be the case, and, further, that he made two conveyances of lots for church purposes in the early part of last century. These transfers are interesting because of the parties, the forms of the deed and the locations of the property. The unique character of the man is shown even in these transactions in realty. The members of the Church receiving the benefit of these donations will at least be entertained for the moment in reading about these deeds.

On June 11, 1803, by deed, which is recorded in book "C," page 193 of the records of deeds of Adams County, Miss., the Reverend Lorenzo Dow, then a resident of Coventry, Conn., conveyed, or, using his words, "Gave and bequeathed," to Rev. Moses Floyd, William Foster, Adam Tooley, Robert Turner and Stephen Calender, trustees, a lot described as the south corner of lot 11, square 11, fronting forty feet on Claiborne Street, and extending back sixty feet, in Kingston, in Adams County, Mississippi Territory. And the following words, taken from the instrument show the trusts and purposes of the conveyance: "They (the trustees) shall, when convenient, erect and build, or cause to be built, thereon a house or place of worship for the use of the members of the Methodist Episcopal Church in the United States of America according to the rules and discipline which from time to time may be adopted by the ministers and preachers of said Church, and in further trust and confidence that they shall at all times hereafter permit such ministers and preachers belonging to the Church, or shall from time to time, be authorized, according to the discipline of the same, to preach therein, and when unoccupied by the said ministers and preachers that they shall suffer other well-recommended ministers and preachers of other denominations, and the above mentioned Lorenzo Dow, unless he should become an opposer of ye doctrine or discipline of said Church," to preach and conduct services in same.

It will be noticed that the Rev. Lorenzo Dow had it nominated in the deed that he might preach in the proposed church so long as he was not in opposition to the Methodist teachings and regulations. At the time of the execution of the deed he still claimed his residence in New England; and it is evident that he was not married. The conveyance was signed in the presence of Alexander Calender and Harrod Newland, and the proof of its execution was made before Samuel Brooks, justice of the peace, by the affidavit of Mr. Calender.

Kingston is a country neighborhood in Adams County, thickly settled, and rendered attractive by its beautiful roads, fertile land, pleasant homes and excellent people. Those who have known Kingston for the past some decades will be surprised to learn that in its early history it contained a projected and measured-off town. The congregation of Methodists at Kingston worshipping in a church centrally located is really the successor of the first organization of Protestant Christians in the Southwest upon the coming of the Swayze brothers of the Congregationalist Church of the Homochitto River.

At a later date, on Nov. 20, 1811, Lorenzo, joined by his wife, Peggy Dow, then residing in Claiborne County, Mississippi Territory, by deed recorded in book "G", page 75, of the deed records of Adams County, conveyed to Miles Harper, Isaac Quinn, Reuben Newman, Robert Turner, Daniel Rawlings and Alexander Covington, trustees of the Methodist Church, a certain lot of land situated in Adams County, Mississippi Territory, in or adjoining the town of Washington, on First North Street, and measuring seventy by one hundred feet, "together with houses, woods, water ways and privileges" belonging to the land. This deed was signed and delivered in the presence of Jos. B. Wilkinson and Robert Andrews. It is quite lengthy and was evidently prepared by a skilled conveyancer, and one having intimate knowledge relative to the requirements of the rules of government of the Methodist Episcopal Church. The instrument first above mentioned was, apparently, written by Lorenzo himself. The deed to the lot at Washington provides for the erection of a church wherein regular Methodist preachers should "preach and expound God's Holy Word." There is no expressed permission for these preachers to deliver great moral discourses, learned addresses nor elocutionary displays. They were simply to preach the Word. This deed also contains the provision that when the church was not occupied by Methodist ministers, regular licensed clergymen of other denominations should be permitted to preach therein. It set out with great detail and clearness plans for the election of new trustees upon the death or the withdrawal or removal from the church of those named.

At the time of the making of this deed Washington was a flourishing community and the seat of government of the Mississippi Territory, and about that period it was the scene of some notable events in the history of the Southwest country. It is now a village, a suburb of Natchez, and generally known as the location of the Jefferson Military College, the oldest institution of learning in Mississippi. Lorenzo Dow, doubtless, often preached in Washington and also at Kingston. It is clear that he esteemed the Christian work at these places and desired to aid the Methodists in the effort to obtain homes for their congregation.

RICH'D. F. REED.

Natchez, Miss.

CHURCH EXTENSION.

The Committee on Applications has just finished its work. For three weeks this Committee has been trying to make $69,476 (the amount which the Board can appropriate for donations at its annual meeting in St. Joseph, Mo., May 6-10), supply the demand for $177,225. It has also been wrestling with a proposition created by a demand for loans amounting to $273,125.75, with only $75,000 in its hands for distribution.

We have done the best possible, and a report is ready for the Board, which has final authority in every case.

There is not a preacher in the Church who would not earnestly press the claim of the Board of Church Extension on "Loan Fund Day" if he could sit for one hour with this Committee on Applications.

It will be observed that the amount asked for in loans is greater than our total Loan Fund capital. When it is understood that it is impossible to turn this capital over in a shorter period than five years, the necessity for a larger Loan Fund capital will at once be seen.

It will also be observed that the amount asked in donations is larger than the total Church Extension assessment. When it is remembered that this assessment is not paid in full, and that the Conference Boards reecive 50 per cent of the amount paid, our trouble will be manifest to all.

One of the most interesting letters received in response to the call for contributions to the Loan Fund capital of the Board of Church Extension is given below.

The brother who wrote the letter is a faithful layman. He is not blessed with a large amount of this world's goods, but is rich in faith and good works. The letter follows:

"Kansas City, Mo., April 20, 1908.

"Brother McMurry: Your appeal received. I have a dear old mother who has loved and worked for her Church these many, many years. She is now practically a suffering shut-up. But she still retains her interest in the welfare of the Church. I want to make a subscription to the good cause in her name, and now enclose a check for $100. Please acknowledge receipt of same to Mrs. ———. Yours sincerely,"

We trust that many who read this letter may be moved by the same spirit to do a like noble deed.

W. F. McMURRY,
Corresponding Secretary.

WHEN WATCHES GROW SLEEPY.

"You know that the vital energies are at lower ebb at night than in the daytime," said an old watchmaker. "Would you believe that some watches—especially the cheaper ones—are similary affected?"

"You know a good watchmaker always wants several days in which to regulate a timepiece. That is because the only way to regulate it properly is to compare it with a chronometer at the same hour every day. Otherwise the variations in the speed of the watch will baffle his efforts. The man to whom I was apprenticed told me this, and I thought the idea absurd. We were working late one night, and he called my attention to a lot of watches we had regulated and ready to deliver. It was near midnight, and every watch was slow. The better timepieces had lagged behind some seconds. The cheaper watches were a minute or more out of the way. Next morning every one of the lot was exactly right. The fact is you can regulate a watch to make exactly twenty-four hours a day, but you can't persuade it to make just sixty minutes in each of the twenty-four hours. Why this is, no one can tell."—The Girl's Companion.

A SICK MULE
Needs Dr. Tichenor's Antiseptic.
It relieves and cures COLIC and BOTS promptly and permanently.
At all Druggists.
25 and 50 Cents
Also in quart bottles.
Dr. Tichenor's Antiseptic

Christian Advocate.

REV. JNO. W. BOSWELL, D.D., Editor.
REV. H. WHITEHEAD, Ass't Editor.
CHAS. O. CHALMERS, Publisher.

ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT NEW ORLEANS AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

OFFICE: 512 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

TERMS:
One Copy, one year, $2; six months, $1. To Preachers of all Denominations, half-price.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEES:
LOUISIANA CONFERENCE—Rev. W. W. Drake, Rev. N. E. Joyner, Rev. J. M. Henry.
MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE—Rev. M. L. Burton, Rev. W. H. Lewis, Rev. C. W. Crisler.
NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE—Rev. W. T. J. Sullivan, D.D.; Rev. J. T. Murrah, Rev. W. W. Woollard.

ORGANIC UNION.

It is likely that the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, now in session, will take a step towards organic union with our Church; but it is just as likely to take two steps in the opposite direction. A commission will probably be appointed to confer on the subject. That is the one step. But since the proposition to elect Bishops for races has been overwhelmingly defeated it is probable that one or more colored men will be elected to the Episcopacy. That would be the two steps backwards.

The "color line," as it now exists, is embarrassing enough. It would be much more so should colored men be elected to the Episcopacy. That would give them the legal right to preside over white Conferences as well as black. They might not exercise the right for many years, and some writer (a white man) pleading for colored Bishops, has said that the white Bishops would see that they are always appointed to the colored Conferences, and thus avoid all friction. That is a beautiful theory. It looks well on paper, but Southern men are not going to take any chances.

In reply to a correspondent of the Central Christian Advocate, suggesting that union of the negroes in the Methodist Episcopal Church with Colored Methodists having their own separate jurisdiction, the Editor, Dr. Spencer, uses some very strong words, which, if expressive of the sentiments of his Church at large, show that our Northern brethren are by no means ready to make any concession for the sake of union that involves the separation of the negroes from their Church. Dr. Spencer says:

> We share every longing that the two great Methodisms may come together and be one. For it we often pray. But we cannot have organic union, nor do we want organic union, nor would our big-hearted Southern sister respect us if we did want organic union, if it involves showing the white feather as regards the task we have undertaken in helping our colored brethren. We know the heaviness, the magnitude, the ostracism of our undertaking; but that is no reason why we should cast that task away. There are ten million colored people in this land, and we have set our face to helping them. All talk about social equality and racial mix-up our Southern friends know to be the veriest slander. We are not in the South to promote amalgamation and intermarriage; we are there to help the colored folk to self-support, to self-respect, to self-initiative, to education, thrift, character. All of which would break down if we began preaching amalgamation. Everybody knows that. We will not for many a moon lay down that distinct and providential duty. Therefore organic union may have to wait. * * * And we do intend to go straight on trying to meet our tasks with our folk who are black, and we know—we do not simply believe—we know that in this task, which they thoroughly understand and appreciate, we have the sincere and profound appreciation of many of the greatest men in the Southern Church to-day.

From this it appears Dr. Spencer prefers holding on to about 280,000 colored members rather than surrender them for the sake of organic union with 1,700,000 Southern Methodists. Possibly if we occupied his place we would be governed by the same sentiment, but looking at the matter from our standpoint, and guided by our experience in setting off and setting up our colored members into a separate jurisdiction, knowing they have never been hindered, but rather helped by the action, we can but feel that if our Northern brethren believed the union of the two great Methodisms to be a matter of importance, as all who favor union seem to think, they would willingly transfer their colored members or make of them an independent body, and bid them godspeed.

If this, or any other disposition of their black brethren meant abandonment, or the "showing of the white feather," as Dr. Spencer calls it, the thing would be different. It should not mean that. It did not mean that when the Southern Church set off its colored membership. To this day, though more than thirty years have elapsed, the Colored Methodist Episcopal Church claims our sympathy and help, and to some extent both are given. Should these colored members prefer an independent organization, and effect it, they would at once command the respect of the world, for they would have not only a large membership, but their twenty Annual Conferences and many millions of dollars in Churches and schools. Besides, the great Methodist Episcopal Church could afford just as well then as now to make generous appropriations for weak and struggling congregations and schools. The wonder is the colored members do not clamor for independence. Possibly they are deterred by the fear of having their supplies cut off.

Our Northern brethren were willing enough to merge their Japanese members with other Methodist bodies. In doing so they did not set them adrift to shift for themselves. They are still remembered in their missionary appropriations. Why not release their black members on the same terms?

Like Dr. Spencer, we are not afraid of "amalgamation and inter-marriage," or any form of social equality. These are not regulated by State or Church. We are not afraid even of negro domination. But, as we are free from all embarrassment and "entangling alliance" of every kind, we intend to remain free. Our Northern brethren have gone half way towards releasing themselves by drawing the color line in their Annual Conferences. They should go all the way by encouraging their colored members to unite with other colored bodies, or form a jurisdiction of their own. Until they do one or the other all talk of the union of Northern and Southern Methodism is useless.

Personally, we venture to say there are other insurmountable objections to union with the Methodist Episcopal Church. One is its position in regard to the Episcopacy; the other is its record in the case of Bishop Andrew. That record we presume will never be repudiated. The position on the Episcopacy will be maintained. And this writer and the Methodist Episcopal Church will remain apart.

A DISCERNER OF SPIRITS.

One of the striking sayings of Dr. J. B. Gambrell, the leading man among the Texas Baptists, is to the effect that a spiritual man "must be something of a discerner of Spirits." Is this not true of an intelligent and faithful pastor? or, as for that matter, of any one deeply interested in the work of the Church? Who is better prepared than a pastor, even on a short acquaintance with his people, to determine the fitness of this or that man or woman for any special work? A Methodist preacher is never long in determining who among his converts is suitable for steward or Sunday School teacher. It is not infrequently the case he discerns that certain ones are suitable for preachers. It would be hard to tell just how he discerns the fact.

Dr. Gambrell tells us that more than once he has been impressed that a certain man ought to preach, and on opening the subject to him found that the Spirit had already spoken to him and he was ready for a helpful word. This writer can also say that more than once he has been impressed in the same way in regard to young men, and that in more than one case he has been somewhat instrumental in leading young men into the ministry.

There has been much said in recent months concerning the dearth of ministers. Nearly all the Churches have fallen short of a supply. At the same time, the conviction has been expressed that the Lord has called men as usual, but that they, for one cause or another, have declined to obey. Would it not be well for our brethren to be on the look-out for young men and speak to them on the subject? Some, doubtless, know their duty, and need not only encouragement, but faithful warning of the danger of disobedience. Others possibly, among spiritually-minded young men, are restless, and do not know the cause. They need to be instructed. Others realize the call, but say nothing about it. Poverty and lack of education keep them silent. They should be sought out and helped.

It may be that our preachers need no exhortation on this subject. But lest they forget, we venture to urge them during the coming season, while fishing for men, to exercise their power of discernment, and bring to bear with all force on suitable young men the necessity for laborers and the glorious reward awaiting those who gather sheaves for the Master.

Dr. Gambrell says, "To find God's preachers and help them to come out is really a very fine work."

At the recent session of the Baltimore Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church Bishop Wilson, of our Church, by special invitation, addressed the candidates for admission into full connection, whereupon a correspondent declares "such courtesies will go far towards bringing about organic union." In the minds of some it is probable. But how great an impression "along that line" will one venture to say was made on Bishop Wilson?

Dr. John M. Moore, managing editor of the Christian Advocate (Nashville), writing from the Far East, recommends the election of "missionary bishops to reside permanently in the foreign fields," a recommendation at variance with "the plan of our itinerant general superintendency." The thing cannot be done without a constitutional amendment. We see no need for Bishops who cannot be used at home as well as abroad. Our Northern brethren have such officers. They sustain about the same relation to the Board of Bishops that a morganatic wife does to her royal husband.

PERSONALS.

Rev. S. L. Riggs is in a revival at Kentwood. The church is too small to accommodate the crowds, and for a week services will be held in the theatre building.

Rev. H. W. Bowman has been relieved of the Bogalusa charge, New Orleans District, and "appointed to do revival work in the Arcadia District." His address is Ruston, La.

The commencement exercises of Grenada College will begin May 23, and end May 26. Rev. Theo. Copeland will preach the Baccalaureate sermon. Eight young ladies will graduate. We thank President Clifton for an invitation to be present.

Saturday last was a happy day with Rev. K. W. Dodson, of Mansfield—the corner-stone of the new church was laid. Dr. F. R. Hill, of Shreveport, delivered the address. The house will be built of pressed brick at a cost of $20,000.

Our Brother, W. B. Thomson, Treasurer of the Board of Missions of the Louisiana Conference, who has been sick for some time past in one of the sanitariums of the city, has so far recovered as to be able to go to his home. He is well on the way to recovery.

Rev. H. T. Carley reports a large congregation and an interesting service at Carrollton Avenue Church last Sunday evening. Our brother and co-laborer, C. O. Chalmers, treated the church to an address on the Laymen's Conference at Chattanooga. The address was greatly enjoyed.

A Layman's Conference is called, May 21, for Oxford District at Holly Springs. The presiding elder, Rev. J. E. Cunningham is striving through personal letters to laymen and preachers to arouse an interest in the movement. His pleas are strong and we trust he will realize his fondest hopes.

We publish in this issue an appeal in behalf of our Church at Purvis, Miss. It will doubtless arouse much feeling. We hope also it will open the the hearts and purses of many good men and women who escaped the awful calamity that befell Purvis. And those whose hearts are touched should respond quickly.

Rev. O. L. Savage and his people at Iuka, Miss., have enjoyed a great revival. Rev. W. L. Graves did the preaching, and pleased, as well as benefited, the people. There were many conversions. Brother Savage has received sixty-nine persons into the Church this year—fifty-four on profession of faith. He is doing a great work.

Invitations have been issued by Dr. and Mrs. Collins Denny to the marriage of their daughter, Elizabeth Chapman, to Rev. Eugene E. Vann, on Wednesday evening, May 20, at 8 o'clock, Vanderbilt University Chapel, Nashville. We acknowledge the receipt of an invitation. The young people have our best wishes.

Dr. T. C. Wier sends us an Appreciation of the late M. F. Ames, who, for sixty years and more, was connected with our church at Starkville, Miss., and who for forty years was a steward. The faithful man deserves to be held in everlasting remembrance. None but a true man could maintain his place among good people that number of years.

The faculty and students of Port Gibson Female College invite us to attend the annual commencement exercises, May 15-18. The sermon will be preached by Rev. R. W. Tucker, presiding elder of the Baton Rouge District, on Sunday the 17th, at 11 a. m. The address to the College Epworth League Sunday evening will be delivered by Rev. G. H. Galloway, of the Vicksburg District.

For the Educational Conference of our Church, to be held in connection with the Annual Meeting of the Board of Education, in Atlanta, May 19-21, thirty-five speakers have been engaged: Bishops, presiding elders, pastors, and a missionary secretary; presidents of colleges, chancellors of universities, State and Church; college professors and judges; the president of the Carnegie Foundation; one plain "Mr," and one without any title at all. Such an array of talent was hardly ever seen as far South as Atlanta. The great programme, we presume, was arranged by Dr. J. D. Hammond, secretary of the Board.

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED.

One of the most interesting articles of the April number of the Methodist Quarterly Review is entitled "The White Plague." It is by a lawyer, Mr. Temple Bodley, of Louisville, Ky., who was a sufferer with tuberculosis. In a letter to the editor of the Review Mr. Bodley wrote: "Five years ago I had the disease. Six months later, thanks to competent medical advice and the modern treatment with fresh air, rest, and nutritious feeding, I was pronounced cured; and have since had no sign of relapse, although living pretty much as I did before, except that I am more in the open air in the daytime and sleep with the windows and door open at night."

We have not room here to reproduce this article, that it would be well for you to secure and read if you are especially interested, but we can give a few of the points presented in the language of the layman, and not in the mysterious tongue of the scholar.

The specific cause of the disease is a microscopic germ, called the tubercle bacillus. This germ has no power of locomotion, and dies in sunshine in a few hours, and in ordinary daylight in a week. It lives on decayed animal matter, and thrives and multiplies in a marvelous manner in unhealthy lungs. It cannot thrive and multiply, and commonly dies, in any animal tissue abundantly supplied with good, healthy blood.

The essential points in the modern treatment of the disease are plenty of fresh air, plenty of nutritious food and rest, especially when there is any fever. These things may be secured in almost any climate, and men have been cured of consumption everywhere. It is possible for the poor man, who has no money for expensive journeys, nor large fees, to secure all these. An intelligent study of the essentials, and a determined effort under the guidance of the family physician, might save many who otherwise will fade under the steady advance of this insidious disease.

No specific remedy for this disease has yet been found. A number of proclamations have been made, but they have all proven to have been premature. The man who brings you some nostrum, that is a certain cure for consumption, is either a self-deceived, incompetent, or a fakir. The specific for consumption may be discovered; but it has not yet been. But by enlisting all nature's forces it is possible for the consumptive who is not too far gone in the disease to recover.

W.

THE CHURCH AT PURVIS.

Dear Dr. Boswell: Full particulars of the recent terrible cyclone at Purvis have already been given by the secular papers, nor have the reports of this great calamity been exaggerated except in a very few items. The escape of myself and family from serious injury was nothing short of miraculous, as the parsonage was completely demolished. We are profoundly grateful to Almighty God, who granted us so gracious a deliverance. The severe cut which I received on my right wrist is now nearly well.

At a Quarterly Conference held at Purvis a few days ago, it was resolved to rebuild both church and parsonage as soon as possible, all of the members being greatly encouraged by the noble offer of aid made by the Main Street Church, of Hattiesburg. Fully three-fourths of the residences in Purvis were either destroyed or rendered uninhabitable, and all of our citizens sustained such heavy losses that many of them will not be able to rebuild even their own homes, except with outside help. This being the case, it will be impossible to rebuild our church, which was valued at $3,500, unless Methodists elsewhere generously come to our relief. The outside world has responded nobly to the calls for aid in other directions, and I feel confident that the Church at large will contribute cheerfully and liberally to meet this emergency. A dozen or more churches have already sent in contributions amounting to a little over $300, and it is hoped that many others will quickly respond.

I have never served a more loyal and liberal-hearted people than the membership of our church at Purvis. They have heretofore never failed to give generously to every good cause, and are eminently deserving of general and substantial sympathy in their sorely stricken condition. We are perplexed, but not in despair; cast down, but not destroyed. May God put it into the hearts of many to assist us in the work of rebuilding the walls of Zion.

Absolutely Pure
From Grapes, the most healthful of fruits, comes the chief ingredient of
ROYAL BAKING POWDER
The only baking powder made from Royal Grape Cream of Tartar
ROYAL BAKING POWDER

All contributions for either church or parsonage should be sent to Brother T. M. Ferguson, Hattiesburg, Miss., who was elected treasurer of our Building Committee. Yours fraternally,

M. M. Black.

CALENDAR OF IMPORTANT EVENTS.

STATES OF LOUISIANA AND MISSISSIPPI.

Commencement Port Gibson Female College, Port Gibson, Miss., May 15-17.
Shreveport District Missionary Institute, at Mansfield, La., May 18.
Oxford District Conference, at Holly Springs, Miss., May 19-21.
Seashore District Conference, at McHenry, Miss., May 19-23.
Durant District Conference, at Kilmichael, Miss., May 21-23.
Winona District Conference, at Eupora, Miss., May 27-28.
Commencement Mansfield Female College, Mansfield, La., May 24-26.
Commencement Grenada College, at Grenada, Miss., May 24-26.
Crowley District Conference, at Jeanerette, La., May 29-June 1.
Greenville District Conference, at Cleveland, Miss., May 27-29.
Vicksburg District Conference, at Edwards, Miss., May 27-30.
Whitworth College Commencement, Brookhaven, Miss., May 31 to June 2.
Millsaps College Commencement, Jackson, Miss., June 7-9.
Aberdeen District Conference, at Houlka, Miss., June 3-5.
Alexandria District Conference, at Natchitoches, La., June 12-14.
Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the North Mississippi Conference, at Senatobia, Miss., June 13-17.
Mid-Year Meeting of the Mississippi Conference Board of Missions, at Centerville, Miss., June 15-17.
Mississippi Conference Epworth League, at Gulfport, Miss., June 18-21.
Missionary Institute, Philadelphia, Miss., June 23.
Meridian District Conference, Buckatunna, Miss., June 23.
Columbus District Conference, at Mathiston, Miss., July 1-3.
Newton District Conference, at Montrose, Miss., July 8-10.
Corinth District Conference, at Baldwin, Miss., July 14-16.

Classified Advertisements.

EDUCATIONAL.

WANTED—[illegible]

AGENTS WANTED.

[illegible]

WANTED—[illegible]

OPPORTUNITIES AND INVESTMENTS.

Manufacturer's Opportunity—[illegible]

MISCELLANEOUS.

Brother—[illegible]

Obituaries.

Obituaries not over two hundred words in length will be published free of charge. All over two hundred words will be charged at the rate of 1 cent a word. Count the words and send the amount necessary with the obituary. That will save trouble all around.

BEN F. WATTS, one of the best men in Copiah County, died at his residence, March 15, 1908. He was 58 years old December 14. He was born in Copiah County, near Beauregard, and was converted and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, when about 20 years old, of which he was a loyal, consistent Christian member. He loved his Church, his family, his neighbors and his God. Rev. J. C. Farrar said to me that he had lived a neighbor to Brother Watts about seven years, and that he was a model neighbor, that he knew naught against his good name; that he said to Brother Farrar, while in the jaws of death in answer to some question asked Brother Watts by Brother Farrar, that he realized his condition, and was ready to die. He said to me, one week before he died, that he had fixed up his business so that his wife and son, Marcus, could remain or sell the place if they desired, and, best of all, he was ready to die; that there was not anything between him and God, "that all is well." So he expressed himself to Rev. D. C. Farmer and others. He leaves a devoted wife, one son, three brothers, two sisters, other relatives and many friends to mourn their loss. We will miss him. May God's richest blessings rest upon his loved ones. He was laid to rest in Pine Grove Cemetery by a large and sorrowing host of friends till the resurrection morning. "Asleep in Jesus, blessed sleep."

J. C. ELLIS, P. C.

EDITH SIMPSON THOMPSON died April 13, 1908. On the eastern slope of Emory churchyard, kissed by the dews and sunshine of the early dawn, guarded by the carolling birds by day, and the eternal stars, night-watches of the skies, reposes in flower-wreathed grave the sweet-faced Edith, heart-treasure from two of our homes. A sole remaining daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Simpson, the tendrils of her being were woven around their hearts in an incomparable devotion. Two sons, all left from a family of nine, share this sorrow. As beloved wife of W. R. Thompson and mother of little Raymond Davis, Maggie Lee, Nell and Mary, her loss is inexpressibly sad. No sweeter nature nor truer, purer womanhood ever graced our fair land than hers. In her modest little woodland home in touch with the peaceful home and shut in from the world and all its allurements, she lived her short life nobly and heroically, leaving an indelible impress on all who knew her. Some one gathered all the flowers she possessed—only a bunch of pansies—and wove them lovingly into a cross and thought as the pure white, sweet flowers lifted their faces heavenward clinging to the cross how typical of the fair young life they were, for Edith had been a good Christian from her earliest years. Her last illness was brief but severe and soon the brave gentle spirit passed into the Savior's own keeping. While willing hands had done all that loving service required and the bedside of the sufferer was surrounded by her loved ones and friends, while life so bright and dear to one thus environed was swiftly ebbing away, the fair-haired Edith bade them "think of the home over there" and told how she was willing and ready to do her Savior's bidding. It was marvelous to see the rapt, beautiful expression in that dying face to listen to the last words of this pure, sweet Christian as she lingered a little while in crossing the threshold of eternity. A friend standing near said, "If no word had been spoken the look of the redeemed was pictured in that face." One could see all was well with the departing soul. Beautiful words are a sweet legacy. What patience and cheer they impart to the weary! What inspiration to attain the highest ideals as we journey on towards life's evening! But the memory of a beautiful life is dearer still. May these influences abide with her loved ones always.

M. L. W. L.

VANCLEAVE, MISS.

Dear Dr. Boswell: We closed an eight-days meeting at this place on the 19th of April. Rev. W. B. Jones of Gulfport did the preaching. The congregations were good from the beginning to the close of the services. Much interest was manifested and we believe great good has been done. We had a number of conversions and twenty-three added to the Church. A special children's service was held one Sunday afternoon. The little ones assembled at an early hour and Brother Jones gave them such a splendid talk. At the close he gave an opportunity for prayer, and such a throng of children as gathered around the altar, many of them with tears in their eyes! The angels must approve of such a scene.

We are blessed with local preachers on this work. Brothers Lyman and Irvin Roberts assisted in the meeting, and Brother I. Roberts was called away to conduct a funeral service. While conducting family prayer he received a candidate for membership. He turned it over to Brother Burton, presiding elder, and the pastor to receive into the Church. This good old preacher is doing much good, and we believe at the last great day "many will rise up and call him blessed." Brother Jones was entertained at the parsonage here, and by his gentle, home-like manner he won his way into our hearts, and Mrs. Martin and I have decided that our home will be open to him whenever he happens to come this way again. We are rejoiced over the success of our meeting. We desire the prayers of all Christian people that we may get many souls for our hire, and when the battle is over may we have the sweet assurance of duty well done. Praying God's blessings on you in your good work, I am your brother,

G. M. MARTIN.

CHURCH DIRECTORY.

New Orleans District, Rev. F. N. Parker, D.D., presiding elder; residence 241 Olivier St.

Rev. John T. Sawyer, D.D., Conference Missionary Evangelist; residence 1411 Chestnut St.; phone, Uptown 1932.

First Methodist Church, St. Charles Ave., near Calliope St.; Rev. J. E. Wray, pastor; residence 5830 Prytania St.; phone, Uptown 329; office hours at Church 2 to 3 p. m.; Church phone, Main 1779.

Second Methodist Church, 2531 Burgundy, near Lafayette Ave.; Rev. A. J. Townsley, pastor; residence, 2725 N. Rampart St.; office hours, 9 to 11 a.m.; phone, Main 976.

Parker Memorial, corner Nashville avenue and Perrier street; Rev. C. D. Atkinson, pastor; residence 734 Nashville avenue.

Louisiana Avenue, corner Louisiana Ave. and Magazine St.; Rev. W. W. Holmes, pastor; residence 2900 Camp St.; phone, Uptown 1391.

Rayne Memorial, St. Charles Avenue and General Taylor Streets; Dr. John A. Rice, pastor; residence 1101 Peniston Street.

Felicity Street Church, corner Felicity and Chestnut Streets; Rev. Albert S. Lutz, pastor; residence 2211 Chestnut Street.

Carrollton Avenue, corner Carrollton avenue and Elm street; Rev. Henry T. Carley, pastor; residence, 1125 Fern St.; phone, Uptown 1238.

Algiers, Lavergne Street, corner Delaronde; Rev. J. F. Foster, pastor.

McDonoghville and Gretna, Rev. H. Whitehead, pastor; residence 5205 Magazine Street; phone, Uptown 2459.

Epworth Church, corner Banks and Scott Streets; Rev. L. A. Sims, pastor; residence 232 South Pierce Street.

Rev. Jno. L. Sutton, Superintendent Orphan Boys' Asylum; residence, 5220 St. Charles Ave.; phone, Uptown 125.

Rev. L. E. Wicht, junior preacher Lower Coast Mission; address, 509 Board of Trade Bldg., New Orleans.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Address F. J. CHENEY & CO.,
Toledo, Ohio.

Sold by Druggists, 75c.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

FITS St. Vitus Dance and Nervous diseases permanently cured by Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. Send for FREE $2.00 trial bottle and treatise. Dr. R. H. Kline, Ltd., 931 Arch St., Philadelphia, Pa.

MOXINE CHILL TONIC
Only Tonic—one bottle—one cure

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used for over Sixty-Five Years by millions of mothers for their children while teething, with perfect success. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain; cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for Diarrhoea. Sold by Druggists in every part of the world. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Guaranteed under the Food and Drugs Act, June 30th, 1906. Serial Number 1098. An Old and Well Tried Remedy.

Keep the Wheels Turning

One of the little economies that help toward a substantial saving is the use of a good axle grease. A grease without proper body runs off. One too heavy stiffens on the axle and adds to the pull.

MICA AXLE GREASE

is right—won't run, won't stiffen, won't wear out as soon as other grease. Covers the axle with an almost frictionless coating of powdered mica and keeps the wheels turning when the other kind [illegible]

[illegible] Mica Axle Grease [illegible] Ask the dealer [illegible]

STANDARD OIL COMPANY
Incorporated

New Orleans

NEW YORK
CINCINNATI
ST. LOUIS

QUEEN & CRESCENT ROUTE

THROUGH SLEEPING CARS
All Meals in DINING CARS
TICKET OFFICE
211 ST CHARLES ST

ILLINOIS CENTRAL
The Double Track Route.

26 Hours to Chicago
21 Hours to St. Louis
22 Hours to Louisville
26 Hours to Cincinnati

Through Sleeping Cars to above points. Dining Cars, Library Cars, Chair Cars and Coaches.
Full Particulars at

City Ticket Office.
141 ST. CHARLES STREET.
Phone Main 3618.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE

CORINTH DISTRICT—SECOND R'N'D.

Marietta Ct., at Blythes C.	May 9, 10
Myrtle Ct., Ebenezer	May 16, 17
Blue Spgs., at Liberty	May 23, 24
New Albany Ct., at Wells C.	May 30, 31
New Albany Sta., at New Albany	May 31, June 1
Booneville Ct., at Blackland	June 6, 7
Jonesboro Ct., at Brownfield	June 13, 14
Rainey, and Faulkner Ct., at Marvin	June 20, 21
Ripley and New Hope, at Wier's	June 27, 28

District Conference will be held at Baldwyn, Miss., July 14, 15, 16.

BEN P. JACO, P. E.

COLUMBUS DIST.—SECOND ROUND

Macon	May 16, 17
Mayhew, at Mayhew	May 9, 10
Mathiston	May 1, 3
Crawford, at New Bethel	May 23, 24
Sturges, at Bethel	May 30, 31
Brooksville	June 6, 7
Hebron	June 13, 14
Cedar Bluff	June 20, 21

District Conference will be held at Mathiston July 1, 2, 3.

L. M. LIPSCOMB, P. E.

OXFORD DISTRICT—SECOND RND.

Paris Ct., at Bruner's	May 9, 10
Water Valley Ct., at Pleasant R.	May 15,
Coffeeville Ct., at Goshen	May 16, 17
Waterford Ct., at Harris C.	May 30, 31

The District Conference will meet in Holly Springs May 19, 20, 21.

J. E. CUNNINGHAM, P. E.

GREENVILLE DIST—SECOND RND.

Cleveland Sta.	May 10, 11
Cleveland Ct.	May 11, 12
Rosedale	May 14,
Gunnison, at Hillhouse	May 16, 17
Friar's Point	May 17, 18
Greenville	May 23, 24
Jonestown, at Belen	May 30, 31
Robinsonville	June 1,
Shaw	June 7, 8
Glen Allan and South Greenville	June 10,

The District Conference will be held at Cleveland May 27-29.

R. A. MEEK, P. E.

ABERDEEN DIST. — SECOND RND.

Houlka, at Asbury	May 9, 10
Palestine, at Ebenezer	May 14,
Pontotoc, at Chesterville	May 23, 24
Pontotoc, at Chesterpille	May 23, 24
Nettleton Ct., at Union	May 30, 31
Okolona Ct. at B. Chapel	June 6, 7
Aberdeen	June 9,
Fulton	June 12,
Smithville	June 13, 14

J. H. MITCHELL, P. E.

SARDIS DIST.—SECOND ROUND.

Pleasant Hill, at Baker's C.	May 9, 10
Wall Hill, at Grubb Hill	May 12,
Hernando and Hinds, at H.	May 16, 17
Coldwater	May 18,
Harrison, at Bethel	May 21,
Courtland, at Wesley's C.	May 23, 24
Batesville	May 31,
Eureka	June 4,
Tyro, at Tyro	June 6, 7
Arkabutla	June 13, 14
Longtown, at Longtown	June 16,
Crenshaw	June 17,

W. M. YOUNG, P. E.

WINONA DIST. — SECOND ROUND.

Inverness, at Lawrence D.	May 9, 10
Ruleville, at Sandy Bayou	May 16, 17
Winona Ct., at Bluff Springs	May 20,
Minter City, at Glendora	May 23, 24
Mar's Hill, at Bethesda	May 30, 31
North Carrollton, at Poplar Springs	June 6, 7
Tom Nolen, at Lebanon	June 9,
Slate Spgs., at Spring Hill	June 10,
Vance, at Marks	June 13, 14

The District Conference will be held in Eupora May 26-28. Opening sermon May 26, 7:30 p.m., by Rev. John Ritchie.

E. S. LEWIS, P. E.

DURANT DIST. — SECOND ROUND.

Ebenezer Circuit	May 9, 10
Vaiden, at Kilmichael	May 16, 17
Black Hawk	May 23, 24
Kosciusko Circuit	May 28,
Sidon, at Tchula	May 30, 31

S. M. THAMES, P. E.

Mississippi Conference.

MERIDIAN DIST.—SECOND ROUND.

Eucutta, at New Hope	May 2, 3
DeKalb, at New Hope, at 11 a.m.	May 6,
North Kemper, at Mellen, 11 a.m.	May 7,
Matherville, at Hiwanee	May 9, 10
Seventh Avenue, 7:45 p.m.	May 13,
Enterprise, at Stonewall	May 16, 17
Pachuta, at De Soto, 11 a.m.	May 22,
Waynesboro Ct., at Big R.	May 23, 24
South Side, 8 p.m.	May 26,
Vimville, 11 a.m.	May 27,
Middleton, at State Line	May 30, 31

VICKSBURG DIST.—SECOND ROUND

Oak Ridge, at Redwood	May 9, 10
Port Gibson, at P. G.	May 13,
Rocky Springs, at Cayuga	May 23, 24
Edwards, at E.	June 1,
Anguilla, at Grace	June 4, 5
Rolling Fork, at Cary	June 6, 7
Vicksburg, C. Street	June 13, 14
Bolton, at Raymond	June 20, 21
Mayersville, at Shiloh	June 27, 28

District Conference will be held at Edwards May 27-30.

G. H. GALLOWAY, P. E.

NATCHEZ DIST.—SECOND ROUND

Bethel, at Mt. Carmel	May 9, 10
Centerville	May 10, 11
Percy's Creek, at P. C.	May 16,
Woodville	May 17, 18
Bayou Piere, at Tabernacle	May 23, 24
Natchez, Pearl Street	May 30, 31
Natchez, Jefferson St.	May 31, June 1
Washington, at Kingston	June 6, 7
Barlow, at Lebanon	June 13,
Fayette, at Ebenezer	June 14, 15
Wilkinson, at Mars Hill	June 20, 21
Meadville, at Nebo	June 27, 28

The District Conference will be held at Woodville May 13-16.

J. T. LEGGETT, P. E.

SEASHORE DIST.—SECOND ROUND.

Gulfport, Twenty-fifth Ave.	May 6,
Gulfport, Twenty-ninth	May 7.
Howison and Saucier	May 9, 10
Carriere, at Nicholson	May 14,
Lumberton	May 15,
Hattiesburg, Broad St.	May 16, 17
McHenry and Wiggins, at McHenry	May 23. 24
Mentorum, at Zion	May 25,
Ocean Springs and Oak St., at Oak Street	May 30, 31
Coalville	June 1,
Wolf River	June 3,
Hattiesburg, Court Street	June 6, 7
Hattiesburg, Main Street	June 7. 8

District Conference at McHenry, May 19-23. Opening sermon at 7:30 p.m. by Rev. J. W. Thompson Sermon evening of 20th by Rev. D. P. Bradford followed by administration of the Lord's supper.

M. L. BURTON, P. E.

JACKSON DIST.—SECOND ROUND.

Flora, at Bentonia	May 9, 10
Pinola, at Harrisville	May 20,
Terry, at Spring Ridge	May 23, 24
Jackson, Capitol St.	May 27,
Benton, at Tranquil	May 30, 31
Eden, at Phillips	June 2,
Canton	June 6, 7
Lintonia, at Anding	June 13, 14
Mount Olive	June 20, 21

A. F. WATKINS, P. E.

NEWTON DIST.—SECOND ROUND.

Vossberg, at Philadelphia	May 9,
Laurel	May 10, 11
Fifth Avenue	May 10, 11
Rose Hill, at Garlandsville	May 16,
Morton, at P.	May 17, 18
Harpersville, at Contrell	May 23, 24
Trenton, at Trenton	May 30,
Raleigh, at Raleigh	May 31, 32
Hebron, at Hebron	June 6, 7
Ellisville, at Ellisville	June 9,
Decatur, at Neshoba	June 12,
Philadelphia, at Hester's	June 13, 14
Indian Miss., at Philips	June 19,
Edinberg, at Edinberg	June 20, 21
Neshoba, at Mt. Pisgah	June 27, 28
Walnut Grove, at Zion	July 3,
Carthage, at ———	July 4. 5

JAS. M. WEEMS, P. E.

BROOKHAVEN DIST.—SECOND RND.

District Conference at Tylertown	May 6, 10
Tylertown, at China Gr.	May 11,
Monticello, at Sontag	May 16, 17
Beauregard, at N. Wesson	May 17, 18
Wesson	May 23, 24
Summit, at Osyka	May 24, 25
Adams, at Adams	May 30, 31
Pearl River, at W. Chapel	June 2,
Topisaw, at Holmesville	June 6, 7

GEO. H. THOMPSON, P. E.

MOXINE
Cures LAGRIPPE and Colds.

FROM AMORY, MISS.

Dear Doctor: We have just closed what, in some respects, was truly a great meeting. For seventeen days and nights, with a 4 o'clock service part of the time, Brother J. H. Felts, of Tupelo, did faithful and strong preaching. Felts has no tricks—clean, straight and strong, preaching the gospel of his Lord in his way of bringing them in from the fields of sin.

Our church was too small for the evening congregation, and was none too large for some of the morning gatherings. Last Wednesday at 10 a. m. we closed out at the very highest of the tide. Thirty-six were gathered in and more to follow. This meeting, in its influence for good, reached beyond denominational lines even in Amory. The Lord be praised for all his wonderful works.

Revs. K. M. Harrison and J. B. Stone, who now live here, were with us—Brother Stone only part of the time. These noble old soldiers love the battle yet. How blessed to have their counsel and prayers. May the accumulated years of life rest lightly upon their furrowed brows. Brother Harrison has lived here for years, and many of this people are his spiritual children, and he and his faithful, good wife are always ready to help the pastor in all his work.

W. S. SHIPMAN.

The Brookfield Summer School of Music.

The unprecedented success and growth of this school is the strongest argument for its usefulness. The 1908 session will open Wednesday, July 1st, and close Tuesday, August 25th. The daily Class Instruction is divided between Theory, Choral Instruction, Normal Sessions, Recitals, Musicales, Lectures and Concerts. Room and board for the eight weeks are furnished at the school. Private lessons, optional as to frequency, can be had in all departments. For Prospectus, address,

H. W. GREENE, No. 864 Carnegie Hall, NEW YORK CITY.

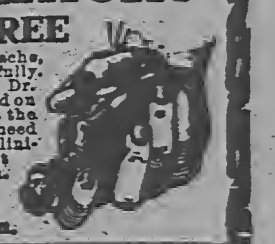
W. H. BYRNES, Pres. JOHN T. GIBBONS, Vice-Pres. P. E. BURKE, Sec'y.
Capital $200,000.00
Assets 479,860.90
HIBERNIA INSURNCE CO.,
No. 305 Camp Street,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
LOSSES PROMPTLY PAID.

Pine-Brook Dairy Co., Ltd.
ALL OUR COWS TUBERCULINE TESTED.
Milk and Cream Delivered Morning and Evening.
COR ST. CHARLES & WASHINGTON AVES. Phone 1514 Uptown.

The Union Railroad Business College,
BUSINESS TAUGHT AS IT IS DONE.
Is backed up by thousands of dollars and expert teachers Uses no text books or copying nonsense. Free scholarships given only to those between the ages of 13 and 35 years.
Business men everywhere are calling for the graduates of this school. For full particulars, address PROF. W. N. STEPHENSON, Texarkana, Texas.

THE AMERICAN PAINT WORKS,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.,
MANUFACTURES EVERYTHING IN PAINTS,
——Guaranteed Strictly Pure——
The Climatic Prepared Paints, Perfecto White
and
SOLD SUBJECT TO A CHEMICAL ANALYSIS.
DIRECTORS:
Thos. S. Witherspoon, President. Francis Martin, Vice President.
R. B. Parker. John McCloskey. Geo. A. Hero.
PHONE, MAIN 915. Special Attention to Mail Orders.

COMPLETE ONLY $15.00
BURNS WOOD OR COAL
JUST SEND ME ONE DOLLAR
and I will ship C. O. D. to any railroad station in the U. S. this fine Willard Steel Range. Anyone can say they have the best range in the world, but I will furnish the evidence and leave the verdict to you. After you examine this range, if you are satisfied in every way, pay Agent $14.00 and freight, and you become the possessor of the best range in the world for the money. The range has six 8-inch lids; 18-inch oven; 15-gal. reservoir; large warming closet; top cooking surface, 30x34 ins. Guaranteed to reach you in perfect order. Shipping weight, 400 lbs. Thousands in use and every one of them giving satisfaction. Write for full description and testimonials.
WM. G. WILLARD
No. 62 WILLARD BLDG.
320 CHESTNUT STREET
ST. LOUIS, MO.



Brown's Magic Liniment
This bottle for you---FREE
Those who seek relief from rheumatism, sciatica, neuralgia, headache, backache, lumbago, sprains, sore muscles, and other pains—Read carefully. We want to help you. We know the marvellous curative power of Dr. Brown's Magic Liniment; how wonderful it is; that when it is poured on a piece of cloth and pressed closely to the place where the pain exists the pain instantly vanishes. It is different from other liniments which need rubbing. You simply smother the cloth under your hands and the liniment penetrates to the source of the pain and instantly relieves it. It soothes the nerves, produces warmth, and starts up the circulation. We know it does all these things—AND WE WANT YOU TO KNOW IT.
Send for the sample bottle and try it. Write to BROWN CHEMICAL CO., Dept. A. Nashville, Tenn.

"A YARD OF ROSES" FREE
THIS BEAUTIFUL PICTURE, "Yard of Roses" is one of the grandest flower pictures ever offered. 1 yard long, on heavy copper plate paper, in ten beautiful colors, a handsome ornament for any home that you will always be proud of. To introduce our splendid home magazine which has a half million readers, we mail this grand work of art, all charges paid to anyone sending 10 cts. for trial subscription to The Household. We also have other "Yard" subjects, comprising Violets, Puppies, Kittens, Little Chicks, Pansies. We send 3 pictures and one year's subscription to our popular magazine for 25c, or all six for 50c. Send at once before they are gone. Address
HOUSEHOLD PICTURE Dept.,
579 Jackson St., Topeka, Kans.

T. W. O. C.

Just think of these four letters, next time you are ill.

They represent good advice to sick women.

Ladies, by thousands, have written to tell others to "Take Wine of Cardui."

They have tried it, and know what it will do for the ills and weaknesses peculiar to their sex.

Cardui, you must know, contains no injurious ingredients, but is a pure, vegetable, non-intoxicating, extract of medicinal herbs, which acts gently, specifically and curatively on the womanly organs.

"I was a total wreck," writes Mrs. Eveline McGrew, of 2950 Guadalupe Street, Austin, Tex., "and I wish I could tell all afflicted females what Cardui has done for me and for my daughters. It is certainly the best and most wonderful tonic, to build up shattered nerves and for all other female troubles. If all women and girls would use Cardui, they would not need doctors. It saved my life at the menopause and I recommend Cardui to all."

Cardui is an old and well tried remedy for female troubles. Your druggist sells it, with full directions for use on the wrapper. Try Cardui.

TO CURE ECZEMA.

The one infallible method by which Eczema can be quickly and permanently cured is by the use of HEISKELL'S OINTMENT. For half a century this great remedy has been the means of curing skin diseases of every nature. Erysipelas, Tetter, Ulcers, Pimples, Ringworm, Blotchy Skin, Eruptions, Rough Skin, Salt Rheum, Scald Head—all yield as readily to the marvelous curative virtues of HEISKELL'S OINTMENT as the dread disease—Eczema. Before applying the ointment, bathe the affected parts, using HEISKELL'S MEDICINAL SOAP. HEISKELL'S BLOOD AND LIVER PILLS tone up the liver and cleanse the blood. Ointment, 50 cents a box; Soap, 25 cents a cake; Pills, 25 cents a bottle—at all druggists. Send for interesting book of testimonials to JOHNSTON, HOLLOWAY & Co. 531 Commerce Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

MOXINE CHILL TONIC
Only Tonic—one bottle, one cure.

COMMENCEMENT PROGRAMME OF PORT GIBSON FEMALE COLLEGE, MAY 15-17.

Friday.

8 p. m.—W. C. T. U. Gold Medal Contest.

Saturday.

5 to 7 p m.—Junior Reception.

4:30 p. m.—Alumnae Meeting.

Sunday.

11 a. m.—Sermon by Rev. R. W. Tucker.

8 p. m.—Public Meeting of the College Epworth League.

Address by Rev. G. H. Galloway.

Monday.

9:30 a. m.—Meeting of the Board of Trustees.

10 a. m.—Art Levee.

11 a. m.—Delivery of Medals and Diplomas.

Address by State Superintendent J. N. Powers.

8:30 p. m.—Grand Concert.

(On account of change in standard of study there are no literary graduates this year.)

This is a very dreadful world of ours by reason of sin. It was so to Jesus, and it is so still, and will remain so to all who are his, and who walk in his footsteps. — Alexander White.

Our common every-day lives are the means God implies by which we shall build our Christian lives. — Henry Drummond.

Marriages.

At the Methodist parsonage, Belzona, Miss., May 3, 9 p. m., by Rev. H. M. Young, Mr. RUFUS EMERY and Miss MODENA McBRIDE, both of Belzona, Miss.

At the residence of the brides' parents, Lucedale, Miss., Dec. 22, 1907, by Rev. R. S. Gale, Mr. JNO. S. JOHNSON, of Mobile, Ala., and Miss ADA C. LANE, of Lucedale, Miss.

At the residence of the grooms' parents, Cross Roads, Miss., April 1, 1908, by Rev. R. S. Gale, Mr. WM. W. COCHRAN and Miss ELMAR McNAIR, of Hinds County, Miss.

At the Methodist parsonage, Lucedale, Miss., April 13, 1908, by Rev. R. S. Gale, Mr. J. M. REEVES and Miss MISSOURI EVANS, of Lucedale, Miss.

At the residence of the brides' parents, Lucedale, Miss., April 22, 1908, by Rev. R. S. Gale, Dr. WILBUR MITCHEL SOLTER, of Repton, Ala., and Miss ROBERTA PINKIE YOUNG, of Lucedale, Miss.

At the Methodist Church, Lucedale, Miss., April 26, by Rev. R. S. Gale, Mr. THOMAS D. GARDNER and Miss TEMPIE C. CLARK, of Lucedale, Miss.

SIDON, MISS.

Dear Dr. Boswell: As there has been no report from this work for some time, I will send you a few items. This work consists of three churches—Tchula, Cruger and Sidon. Brother K. A. Jones is our young (?) preacher. He is doing a fine work. This is his second year at this place. The parsonage is here. When Brother Jones came there was a debt of $280 on it, and it has been paid. All the churches on this work are prospering. Ladies and children have societies at each charge. Sabbath schools at every church.

Brother Jones has been in the active ministry 52 years. This is his fifty-third year. He is the youngest man of his age I ever saw. The writer heard him in the early 70's, and I think he preaches with more power and effect than he did then. We do not want to exchange him for a young man. It is a benediction to be with him. I pray the Lord may spare him to the Church and his family for many years. I do not think it ever occurs to him to quit preaching. I will not impose on you. Very truly, S.

FROM EUNICE (LA.) CHARGE.

Editor Christian Advocate: We had our second Quarterly Conference at Long Point Church April 19. The presiding elder, Brother Henry, by my request, came here on Saturday and attended the big prohibition rally, and helped to make it a great success; for it was a great success in every way. There were four speakers and our beloved pastor at Opelousas, Brother Turner captivated everybody with his eloquence and wit and power, and I am happy to say that Eunice, a town of 2500 people, went dry by a good majority, notwithstanding there were four saloons in full blast.

Saturday night our beloved presiding elder preached a real good sermon to a large congregation, and next day he and I went to Long Point, where he preached another excellent sermon to a large and appreciative congregation.

I closed a very successful meeting here last Friday night. It was an experiment to me, as I had never tried to hold a revival meeting without having preaching in day-time. I did the preaching myself, except the sermon preached by the presiding elder, Brother Henry. We had seven accessions to the Church, all on profession of faith, and the Church was greatly revived. Have received about twenty members here at Eunice since I came on the work. Had a real good meeting at Iota last Sunday, and received one lady in the Church by baptism—not immersion.

God bless the Advocate and all concerned with it. Pray for me and mine. My health is good now.

S. D. HOWARD.

MANSFIELD COLLEGE COMMENCEMENT MAY 21-27.

Thursday evening, May 21, Seniors entertained by the Juniors.

Friday evening, Entertainment by the Primary Department.

Saturday evening, Display by the Art Department.

Sunday, 11 o'clock a. m., Commencement Sermon, by Rev. J. E. Wray, of New Orleans.

Sunday, 8 o'clock p. m., Missionary Sermon, speaker to be selected.

Monday, 10 o'clock a. m., Sophomore Entertainment.

Monday, 3 o'clock p. m., Art Display.

Monday, 6 o'clock p. m., Junior Entertainment; Annual Commencement Address, by Rev. Frank Barrett, Texarkana, Ark.

Tuesday, 9 o'clock a. m., Meeting of Board of Trustees.

Tuesday, 10 o'clock a. m., Alumnae Exercises.

Tuesday, 3 o'clock p. m., Art Display.

Tuesday, 8 o'clock p. m., Grand Concert by Music and Expression Departments.

Wednesday, 10 o'clock a. m., Graduating Exercises, Baccalaureate Address, and Delivery of Diplomas.

He who puts on the towel of service puts off a world of care. There is no surer and no readier remedy for our own cares than to try and lessen the cares of other people.—Mark Gay Pearse.

The Torture of Itching Eczema

is almost instantly relieved and quickly cured by Tetterine, a fragrant ointment prepared by The Shuptrine Co., Savannah, Ga. It is the finest prescription ever discovered for Eczema, Tetter, Itching Piles and Scalp and Skin Diseases. If your druggist cannot supply you, send 50 cents in stamps to The Shuptrine Co., Savannah, Ga.

BLYMYER CHURCH BELLS. UNLIKE OTHER BELLS SWEETER, MORE DURABLE, LOWER PRICE. OUR FREE CATALOGUE TELLS WHY.
Write to Cincinnati Bell Foundry Co., Cincinnati, O.

MOXINE
Cures LAGRIPPE and Colds.

Tired Women

Women's delicate nerve organism suffers much from worry, excitement, over-work. Headache, nervousness, backache, stomach trouble, and general debility are the natural result. For all such Dr. Miles' Nervine will be found to be a splendid nerve tonic. It soothes the nerves, and brings refreshing body-building sleep and rest.

"I have been extremely nervous for some years—Dr. Miles' Nervine has done me more good than any medicine I have ever taken. I have used it whenever I needed it and it always quieted my nerves, and strengthened me so that I feel first rate."
MRS. W. H. BOZARTH, Hamilton, Mo.
If first bottle fails to benefit, money back.
MILES MEDICAL CO., Elkhart, Ind.

The Guaranteed Exterminator

Stearns' Electric RAT and ROACH Paste
is guaranteed to rid the house, barn or store of cockroaches, rats, mice, water bugs, etc. Sold at druggists or general stores everywhere, or sent prepaid on receipt of price.
2 oz. box, 25c; 16 oz. box, $1.00.
STEARNS' ELECTRIC PASTE CO., Buffalo, N.Y., U.S.A.

HIS CHANCE IS GONE
YOUR CHANCE IS HERE

The question is, are you qualified to hold a responsible position? Have you had a thorough commercial training? Bankers, Merchants and Manufacturers want you if you are competent. Now is Your Chance. Two roads are open to young people. One requires no training and leads to failure. The other requires training and leads to success. We prepare young men and women and start them on the road to success by securing them high-salaried positions. Fine climate, board cheap. Write for illustrated catalog and further information.
HATTIESBURG BUSINESS COLLEGE, HATTIESBURG, MISS.

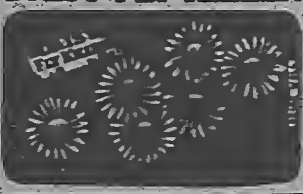
I Am Helping Others —Let Me Help You—

If you are honest, ambitious and aggressive, I can help you Make Money—no matter where you live.

I have made more than $1,200 in one month in the Real Estate business. I made this in commission selling property for others. It doesn't matter whether you have had experience or not, or what your present occupation is. I can teach you the Real Estate business by mail, then I want you to act as my associate and assist me in your locality to sell property. Write me now.

I WILL TEACH YOU A CLEAN, HONORABLE, DIGNIFIED BUSINESS.
Write for free book.
ROBERT DAWSON,
644 Garrison Ave. Fort Smith, Ark.

DAISY FLY KILLER



placed anywhere, attracts and kills all flies. Neat, clean, ornamental, convenient, cheap. Lasts all season. Absolutely harmless, cannot spill or tip over, will not soil or injure anything. Guaranteed effective. Of all dealers or sent prepaid for 20 cents.
HAROLD SOMERS
149 DeKalb Ave.
Brooklyn, N.Y.

BELLS.
Steel Alloy Church and School Bells. Send for Catalogue. The C. S. BELL CO., Hillsboro, O.

"SKYLAND INN."
4400 feet above sea level.
Blowing Rock, N. C.

OPENS June 18th, 1908. Highest location at Blowing Rock, roomy halls, broad verandas, magnificent scenery. Address E. R. Stewart, Prop., Newton, N. C., until June 15th. Rates: From $7.00 to $12.00 a week.

MOXINE CHILL TONIC
Only Tonic—one bottle, one cure.

Sunday School

By W. B. Campbell.

LESSON FOR MAY 17.

Subject: "Jesus betrayed and denied." John xviii, 1-27.

Golden Text: "Jesus said unto them, The Son of Man shall be betrayed into the hands of men." Matt xvii, 22.

Judas holds the place of archtraitor. All that have ever betrayed a person, a cause, or a trust, have taken a place below him. Ample and timely warning was given, long beforehand, that this heartless and most unfeeling act would be committed by some one of the number of those the Master had chosen and called apostles. Jesus had enemies that were eternally active to counteract any influence he gained over the people, and their motive was to put the Lord out of the way, even if his death was necessary: but it is not recorded that they ever dreamed of receiving an ally from the chosen twelve.

As it has been before stated, the human race can console itself, that this masterpiece of treachery did not originate in the heart of man, for "the devil put it the heart of Judas to betray him." If Judas were on trial in a modern court, and the evidence against him was taken from the Scripture, he would be convicted of the crime in its first degree, for it would be shown that he had malice and forethought. It is all so horrible that any extenuation might be pardoned. We have only left us the fearful amazement, as to what depths of infamy, the human heart may be plunged by the fierce attacks of Satan. Judas was dead to every impulse of goodness, past all feeling; he went direct from the benign influence of the presence of Christ to the assembled Sanhedrin and bargained for the betrayal of the most unoffending victim. He found the enemies of the Lord only too ready to pay the price mentioned by the Prophets of old; they also wanted to put Lazarus to death, for the presence of one brought back from the grave to live again, was a most powerful force in spreading faith in the one they wished to destroy. How hard had grown the heart of the traitor, for he went back and took his accustomed place among the sacred circle, as they were gathered in the upper-room to celebrate the Passover. He arrived in time to hear Jesus tell him, "It were better for that man if he had never been born." He was among them that asked the Lord who it was that should betray him. It is said that he had not only claimed, but actually obtained the seat at the table next to the Lord. Judas must have forgotten that Jesus had power to read the innermost thoughts of the heart. Throughout the Passover feast, the institution of the Lord's Supper, and even while the Lord washed his feet, Judas remained still, preserving the semblance of innocence. Let us behold the fact that it is possible for the hypocrite to take part in the most solemn service of God, and yet have his mind set on wickedness. "What thou doest, do quickly," was the final warning given to Judas, as he turned his back on his most faithful friend, and to seek his confederates in the most wicked act in the list of crime, he went out, "and it was night." Darkness had spread over the world, but there was a darkness deeper than all in Judas' soul, preparing him for the eternal night he was soon to enter, never more to see the light that he had often seen on the face of him that was soon to be "led as a lamb to the slaughter."

After the promise of the coming of the Holy Ghost, and after the prayer of Jesus for those that would be left in the world, they all arose from the never-to-be-forgotten table of the Lord, and took their way to the garden of Gethsemane.

Although Jesus had audibly prayed in the presence of his disciples, there had come the time for secret prayer; he went a short distance away to pray alone, and so great was his grief and sorrow, and so earnest was his pleading, "O Father, if it be possible, let this cup pass," that angels were sent, not to take away the cup, but to give strength to bear it. As they sweetly communed there in the garden, they saw in the gloom of night a great company of soldiers and others approaching, and the company was led by Judas Iscariot, a fact that added to the great sorrow that had already brought a sweat of blood to the face of the Savior of the world. When the mob had come near, Jesus stood up and asked: "Whom seek ye?"

There must have been an unseen power in the voice of the Lord; for when the soldiers heard it they shrank back and fell to the ground, but, arising and advancing again, the Lord asked them again, and they replied, "Jesus of Nazareth."

"I am he," said Jesus, "and if ye seek me let these go their way." So they led him away. Judas had fulfilled his part of the most shameful transaction in the world's history. He could not bear the remorse that followed, for the Scriptures tell us that he went away and took his own life.

Jesus was taken first to the high priest's house, and Peter followed the procession, but not closely; his fear made him hang back, for the Scripture says he followed "afar off." Peter did love the Lord, and partly overcame his fear, for he gained entrance to the place where they had taken Jesus. It was cold weather, and early morning, and Peter had come in and was warming himself by a fire, when a little girl saw him and accused him of being one of Jesus' friends. We know the account—how often have we read it, and how often have we sorrowed for Peter! He who had been so brave in the garden, now denied all knowledge of him for whom he said he was ready to die.

Let us not be too hard on Peter, for as soon as he was reminded of his disloyalty he went out and wept bitterly. Poor Peter; he was driven to it, and who of us would have been strong enough to do otherwise than he?

Peter was full of discouragement after this, and had determined to go back to his old trade of fisherman. It was while he was at this work, and after the Lord had risen from the dead, that Jesus came to him by the seaside, and as Peter had denied his Lord three times, his Lord made him confess that he loved him, three times. What pardoning love was in the voice of Jesus now! How sweet to end such a lesson with a scene like that in the early morning on the shore of Galilee. Let us listen: The Lord asks: "Lovest thou me?" and with all the earnestness we possess we reply, "Lord, thou knowest all things: thou knowest that I love thee." Then the Lord says to each one that loves him: "Feed my lambs."

HATCHING Minorcas & Leghorns Eggs 50c. doz.

Eggs delivered to families at 30c. per doz. Want to buy young chickens for broilers or fryers. C. M. FUSH.
2434 Jena St., corner Frere', New Orleans.

5 Beautiful Post Cards Free to any who will send a list of names and addresses of boys and girls who will likely go away, to College this fall. Send boys' and girls' names on separate sheets. Address Pres. J. W. BEESON, Meridian, Miss.

Ten Finest Post Cards Free

10 high-grade artistic and Embossed Birthday, Friendship, Floral and Greeting cards, in exquisitely beautiful colors, our big post card catalogue and trial subscription to popular magazine, all free if you answer ad. immediately and send 10c for mailing expense. 30 cards, all different, 25 cts. Post Card Co., 409 U. S. Express Bldg., Dept. 18, Chicago.

THEATRE-GOING

So far as reaching the masses of people is concerned, it seems almost useless to cry out against theatre-going. They flock there in crowds regardless of the immoralities of the place. The extent to which worldliness holds sway among multitudes of professing Christians is evidenced by the vast numbers who attend such questionable places. Theatre-going, holy living and soul-winning do not walk hand in hand. They are antipodes. As the theatre goes up in our estimation, Christ goes down, and as the theatre goes down Christ goes up. The "Pall Mall Gazette" quotes Mr. Spurgeon as saying:

"Are there not many persons who find in the treatre precisely that kind of recreation and rest which is most useful for the discharge of their daily work? 'It may be,' said Mr. Spurgeon, 'but I don't know any of them. You see I live in a world apart from all these things, and so do my people. We argue this way: Granting it perfectly safe and profitable for myself to go to the theatre; If I go, a great number of those will go to whom it will do positive harm. I will not be responsible for alluring by my example into temptations which but for my self-indulgence they would entirely escape. I will give you an instance of how this works out. When I go to Monaco, the grounds of the gambling-hell there are the most beautiful in the world. I never go near them; and why? Not because there is any danger of my passing through the gardens to the gambling-tables. No; but a friend of mine once related the following incident to me: "One day Mr. Blanc met me, and asked me how it was I never entered his grounds. 'Well you see,' I said, 'I never play, and as I make no returns whatever to you, I hardly feel justified in availing myself of the advantage of your grounds.' 'You make a mistake,' said Mr. Blank. 'If it was not for you and other respectable persons like yourself who come to my grounds, I should lose many of the customers who attend my gambling saloons. Do not imagine that because you do not yourself play you do not by your presence in my grounds contribute materially to my revenue. Numbers of persons who would not have thought of entering my establishment feel themselves perfectly safe in following you into my gardens, and thence to the gambling-table the transition is easy."

"'After I heard that,' continued Mr. Spurgeon, 'I never went near the gardens. And the same argument applies to all theatres."

—Living Water.

PINE GROVE CIRCUIT.

Mr. Editor: We hope to rededicate the church at Montpelier on the 14th of this month. The public is cordially invited. [illegible] there will be a special train from Newberry out there that day, and with Brother R. W. Tucker to preach for us there will be no reason why we should not have a delightful time. Doctor, we would be glad to have you come over with us that day and see how the Lord has graciously blessed us in leaving this temple of his, while others yielded to the cyclone, even in the same town.

Our work is moving on very well. All are bearing their burdens without murmuring or complaint. The Sunday school is interesting. We do not forget the Advocate and say, as the Psalmist said of Jerusalem, "If I forget thee let my right hand forget her cunning."

J. S. RUTLEDGE.

BELZONA, MISS.

Mr. Editor: Rev. W. S. Lagrone was with us, beginning on the 12th of April, and remained with us until Monday night, the 20th, nine days. Our town, Belzona, I am told, never had a better and more elevating series of sermons in its history than during this meeting. The good done can hardly be estimated in words, nor can its fruits be expected to be gathered in a heap; but the seed thoughts of a deep spiritual life was ever portrayed in his earnest words and faithful messages. His firm and yet very plain denunciation of sin in its various channels gained the highest esteem of all who were so fortunate to hear him. Even our saloonmen, whose business, of course, came in for its just denunciation, speak kindly of him. The impressions made abide with us. The Church is growing in all her interests, and we are often made to rejoice because God is with us. The earnest, yet quiet brother, Prof. Butt, the choir leader, gained a place in many hearts. Also the greatly added pleasure of the good work done in the choir by Brother Briggs, of Itta Bena, with his cornet, and Brother Meek, of our city, with his violin.

The preaching was abiding, and is still abiding. The music was good all the way, and made all our people want to sing, even to the dear children, and we are doing so. Six accessions, and more to follow.

We have paid both our Foreign and Domestic Missions in full for Belzona charge, and are glad.

H. M. YOUNG.

OAK RIDGE CHARGE.

Dear Dr. Boswell: We are living seventeen miles north of Vicksburg, midway between Yazoo river and Big Black river. Our parsonage is located on the dividing ridge. The rain-water that runs out of my front gate goes on toward Big Black, and the rain-water that runs out of the back gate goes on toward the Yazoo.

We have five appointments—three morning and two afternoon appointments. The Methodist preacher is the only preacher in all North Warren. We take in the territory ranging from Big Black to the Yazoo and from the A. & V. Railway to the Yazoo County line. We preach to the living, bury all the dead and go to see all the people, sick and well, we can.

Our work is growing. We had Rev. W. H. Lewis, of Port Gibson, with us on the first Sunday in April. He preached a grand sermon on missions, and the people enjoyed it very much.

The W. H. M. S. gave an Easter egg-hunt on Saturday before Easter, sold ice-cream and cleared twenty-five dollars for the parsonage.

Our congregations are growing all the time, and we believe we will have a great revival this year. Brother H. M. Ellis will be with us at Oak Ridge on the third Sunday in July. We are praying and working for, and expecting, a glorious meeting.

Pray for this charge. We need a mighty shaking-up in this country. If we don't get it one way, we will be sure to get it another way. We don't know what moment the good Lord will drop down a whirling cyclone in our midst. The key-note of my messages to the people is "to be ready when he comes," lest, coming suddenly, he finds you sleeping."

JAS. M. LEWIS, P. C.

MOXINE CHILL TONIC
Only Tonic—one bottle—one cure.

The budget presented to the British Parliament includes estimates for an old age pension. It makes provision to pay a pension of $1.25 a week to every person over the age of 75 whose income is less than $130 per annum. There is this difference between the British plan and the German: Germany pays an old age pension to working men, to which working men are compelled to contribute, while the British plan simply makes this a part of the funds raised by the usual process of taxation.

BLOOD POISONING POSITIVELY CURED
Hereditary, primary, secondary and tertiary. Scrofula, Eczema, Blood and Skin Disease. If you have exhausted old-time methods, and want to get well, write me in fullest confidence for proof of cures. Take my treatment and get well. A. A. BROWER, M. D.
San Antonia, Tex.

It is rumored that in spite of the hard times and the lack of freight traffic, the railroads are to advance freight rates. In the past we have been in the habit of seeing rates cut in times of depression, when the railroads were fighting for the traffic. The query is being raised as to what kind of a secret agreement makes such a rise possible at this time. All sorts of solutions are being suggested.

With all your Bible study, make sure each day, the first thing in the morning, of some soul-feeling sentence on which to live during the day. —Wells.

SHAKE INTO YOUR SHOES
Allen's Foot-Ease, a powder. It cures painful, smarting, nervous feet, and instantly takes the sting out of corns and bunions. Allen's Foot-Ease makes tight or new shoes feel easy. It is a certain cure for sweating, callous swollen, tired, aching feet. Try it today. Sold by all druggists and Shoe Stores. By mail for 25c. in stamps. Don't accept any substitute. For FREE trial package, also Free Sample of the FOOT-EASE Sanitary CORN-PAD, a new invention, address Allen S. Olmsted, Le Roy, N. Y.

MOXINE
Cures LAGRIPPE and Colds.

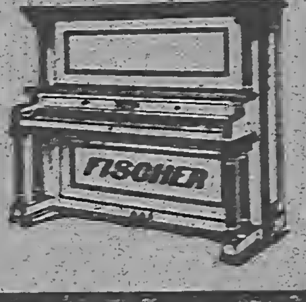
Governor Blanchard has issued his proclamation declaring the amendments to the Louisiana State Constitution carried which were voted on in the last election. Amendment No. 1 fixes the salary of the Secretary of State at $5000; No. 2 prohibits non-resident and Federal corporations from transferring suits to the Federal courts; No. 3 increases the powers of the Railroad commission; No. 4 allows the General Assembly to initiate legislation in regard to the Railroad Commission, and No. 5 provides for one tax collector in the city of New Orleans with a salary of $5000.

Admiral Robley D. Evans has been retired, and Admiral Charles M. Thomas has taken charge of the battleship fleet. He will hold the honor but five days, when he also will be placed on the retired list and Rear Admiral Charles N. Sperry will take charge of the fleet.

The Mississippi river is so high that all ships below New Orleans have been warned not to run near the banks lest they damage the levees. The river is at a danger stage.

MOXINE CHILL TONIC
Only Tonic—one bottle—one cure.

ANGELL PHARMACY COMPANY,
2300 Baronne Street, corner Philip.
PRESCRIPTIONS OUR SPECIALTY. Phone Main 4260.
Pure Drugs, Chemicals, Toilet Articles, Perfumery, Stationery, Etc.
TRY ANGELL'S COUGH & WHOOPING COUGH SYRUP
Price 25 and 50 cents. Sold by all Druggists.
HOMŒPATHIC DEPARTMENT.
Homoeopathic Medicines, Books, Cases, Globules, Sugar of Milk, Etc.
Prices, 1-2 ounce vial 15 cents, 1 ounce vial 25 cents.
PROMPT DELIVERY.



A GOOD PIANO,
PIANO PLAYER or PLAYER PIANO see the
Grunewald's
Before You Buy.
Agents for the Latest Improved and best Instruments on the Market.

SCROFULINE
The Wonderful Healer
Unsurpassed for tetter, ezcema, skin and scalp troubles, old sores, ulcers and piles, any nature or duration. Goes to the very seat of the trouble, kills the germs and extracts all foreign matter. Sold under a positive guarantee, 25c, 50c and $1.00 per jar. Mail orders promptly filled. Stamps accepted. Liberal sample upon request. Address,
THE SCROFULINE COMPANY, Waco, Texas.
SOLE OWNERS AND MANUFACTURERS.

YOUR SUMMER VACATION
IS NEAR AT HAND
THE Southern Pacific
SOUTHERN SUNSET ROUTE PACIFIC
WILL HAVE MANY ATTRACTIVE ROUTES TO OFFER BY RAIL OR WATER
To CALIFORNIA
GO ONE WAY ---- RETURN ANOTHER THROUGH THE MOST BEAUTIFUL SCENERY IN THE WORLD
To NEW YORK
ON ONE OF OUR MAGNIFICENT STEAMSHIPS --- FIVE BIG BOATS
"CREOLE," "MOMUS," "ANTILLES," "PROTEUS," "COMUS."
ASK YOUR AGENT FOR LITERATURE, OR WRITE
G. E. GUEDRY, Div. Pass. Agt. F. E. BATTURS, Gen. Pass. Agt.
LAKE CHARLES NEW ORLEANS

Epworth League

Topic for May 17, 1908.

THE MOCKERY ANND MALIGNITY OF STRONG DRINK.

Prov. 20:1; 23:29-35; Eph. 5:18.

All the efforts of men who advocate strong drink have failed to find any error in the statement made in Proverbs 20:1. Scientific study has failed to show that there is no harm in intoxicating liquors, and has now come to add its word of testimony to that of the more practical if less scholarly workers. "Wine is a mocker, strong drink is raging, and whosoever is deceived thereby is not wise."

I. The idea the first term of the topic sets forth may be dismissed with only a word. It is vain to argue the good qualities of anything that has a tendency to make those who use it less sane and able to take care of themselves. As good a test as men have is the old one laid down in the words of our Lord: "By their fruits ye shall know them." The theory of the liquor man must be forever held as the sheerest folly when brought face to face with the logic of facts. The mockery and hypocrisy of the whole business is declared by the sort of means used to propagate the trade, to say nothing of the examples of intoxicated men.

II. From the more external it is well to pass to the internal effects of strong drink. In the temperance lesson a few months ago attention was called to the necessity of facing the facts. It was urged that terms be defined and the real problem be faced. Only as this is done can we hope to triumph.

1. In the first place, it is well to notice, alcoholic liquors injure the system. It does not matter if it can be proved that some things useful may be mixed in most drinks. If it can be proved that hurtful elements prevail it is only a matter of common sense to do away with strong drink. It is impossible to give details, so we must be content with a glance. The mucous membrane of the drinker's throat is affected, and in some cases is so diseased that death is the result. The examination of the trachae and lungs of a man who died of alcoholism was a revelation to the writer. The examination of the interior of the stomach of drunkards reveals the fact that alcoholic drinks invariably impair this organ. The liver of a man addicted to drink is rough, and diseased. The same is true of the spleen, the kidneys, the intestines. Thus the breathing and digestion of a drinker show the malignant effects of his indulgence. The red nose of the drunkard is only one mark of the work done on the circulation and heart action by the stimulant.

This glance from the point of view of the anatomist is confirmed by the testimony of the physician. All the diseases that are so common, like typhoid fever and pneumonia, are sure to go harder with those who drink. The following statement from a German doctor sheds some light on the subject, and is doubly valuable since it comes from the land of beer gardens: "Life is considerably shortened by the use of alcohol in large quantities. But a moderate consumption of the same also shortens life by an average of five or six years."

The practical workers—employers and trainers—testify that alcoholic liquors injure men. There is only one athletic trainer of any note in New York that does not require total abstinence. Look for statements from employers and you will see how business bids them stand on this question.

2. Secondly, drink hurts the mind. The superintendent of a large insane asylum states that one-half of the inmates are drinkers or children of drinking parents. Forty per cent of epileptics are such because of alcohol. Ninety-three per cent of the criminally insane in Massachusetts prisons for such are so because of drink. These are facts from which only one conclusion can be drawn. Alcohol is injurious physically and mentally.

3. Thirdly, alcoholic drinks do not lead to God. More than 90 per cent of persons in a rescue mission of New York last year trace their fall to drink.

Draw from the second reference the two pictures. A drunkard and a warning to the one who is tempted to begin. They have their weight and we must respond to their appeal for aid.—Rev. Wesley M. Smith, in St. Louis Christian Advocate.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

NEW ORLEANS DIST.—SECOND RND

First Church	May 17,
Rayne	a.m. May 24,
Carrollton	p.m. May 24,
Covington	June 6, 7
Second Church	June 14,

F. N. PARKER, P. E.

ALEXANDRIA DIST.—SECOND RND.

Chicot, at Ward's Chapel	May 16, 17
Opelousas, at Opelousas	May 18,
Alexandria, at First Church	May 23, 24
Alexandria, West End	May 24, 25
Simmsport, at Woodside	May 30, 31
Dry Creek, at Hopewell	June 5,
Glenmora, at Forest Hill	June 6, 7
Natchitoches	June 11,

The District Conference will convene in Natchitoches June 12-14.

N. E. JOYNER, P. E.
Alexandria, La.

SHREVEPORT DIST.—SECOND RND.

Zwolle, at Noble	May 16, 17
Mansfield	May 17, 18
Many	May 23, 24
Ida, at Ida	May 30, 31
Shreveport, Texas Ave	June 1, 2
Shreveport, First Church	June 3,
Shreveport, Noel Memorial	June 4,
Pleasant Hill	June 6, 7
Greenwood	June 8, 9
Hornbeck	June 13, 14
Leesville	June 14, 15
Bon Ami	June 20, 21
De Ridder	June 21, 22
Mooringsport	June 24, 25
Provencal	June 27, 28

T. J. WARLICK, P. E.

BATON ROUGE DIST.—SECOND RND.

St Francisvill, at Star Hill	16, 17
Pinegrove, at Montpelier	May 23, 24
Liveoak, at Alford's	May 30, 31
East Feliciana, at Clear Cr.	June 6, 7
Melville, at Cottonwood	June 13, 14
Newroads	June 21, 22
Baton Rouge, First Church	June 28, 25
Baton Rouge, Second Ch.	June 28, 29

R. W. TUCKER, P. E.

ARCADIA DIST.—SECOND RND.

Lisbon, at Harmony	May 16, 17
Ruston	May 18,
Minden	May 19,
Ringgold, at Andrew's	May 20,
Lanesville, at Pine Grove	May 23, 24
C. Valley, at C. Valley	May 26,
Winnfield	May 31; June 1

District Conference will be about the last week in July. Preachers, please take notice and make no conflicting appointments.

BRISCOE CARTER, P. E.

MONROE DIST.—SECOND ROUND.

Eros, at Indian Village	May 16, 17
Merrouge, at M.	May 23, 24
Mangham, at Little Creek	May 30, 31
Harrisonburg, at Jonesville	June 6, 7
Florence, at Holly Grove	June 13, 14
Downsville, at Douglas	June 17,
Waterproof, at St. Joseph	June 20, 21
Floyd, at Midway	June 27, 28

J. E. DENSON, P. E.

AN INITIAL WATCH FREE.

A Father Knickerhocker "Dutch Auction" Is the Latest.

A "Father Knickerbocker" Eight-Day Mission Clock is offered on the first day of the "Dutch Auction," at the regular price and then the price is marked down 50 cents each day unil the highest BID is reached. Each of the 99 persons whose BIDS are nearest to the highest BID also get a "Father Knickerbocker" at the amount of their BID.

These ONE HUNDRED gennine "Father Knickerbocker" Grandfathers' clocks are offered at the "Dutch Auction" simply to advertise and introduce this beautiful creation of Modern Artcraft, and any housewife will indeed be fortunate who secures a "Father Knickerbocker" in this manner.

Send your name and address to the Knickerbocker Clock Company 991 Lexington Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y., and you will receive full particulars and photo-illustrations of the three designs for hall, dining-room or library, together with five blank BID forms allowing you and four of your friends to BID at the "Dutch Auction." It costs nothing to BID for one of these beautiful clocks at your own price.

Send to-day, then tell your friends about it and show them the illustrations of the "Father Knickerbocker" clocks. If you interest four of your friends in our offer and forward their BIDS with your own you will receive FREE a "Miss Knickerbocker" watch artistically finished in gun metal and gold, with your initial engraved on the case. A limited number of these beautiful watches are to be offered as souvenirs of the "Dutch Auction" to ladies sending for particulars as above.

Birthday Post Cards Free

10 high-grade artistic and Embossed Birthday Post Cards, new and lovely designs, in exquisitely beautiful colors, our big post card catalogue and trial subscription to popular magazine, all free if you answer ad. immediately and send 10c for mailing expenses. 30 cards all different 25 cts. Post Card Co., 409 U. S. Express Bldg., Dept. 93, Chicago.

Is Your Baby Teething?

There is no need to dread baby's second summer—the trying teething period—just keep its system in condition to make teething easy and save sleepless nights.

Teethina
(Teething Powders)

was first used by Dr. C. J. Moffett, a graduate of Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, in his extensive and successful treatment of children's diseases incident to teething and summer complaints—a standard remedy for over 40 years throughout the South. It contains the elements recommended by the most advanced medical sciences as necessary for removing the cause of disease and keeping baby's system in condition to make teething easy.

In nine out of ten cases of cholera infantum that prove fatal from ordinary neglect and subsequent treatment, the use of Teethina would have saved the child.

At all Druggists, 25c
Or from
Dr. C. J. Moffett Medicine Company, St. Louis
Write for our free "Mother's Booklet."

THE BEST MADE.

Angell's Cough and Whooping Cough Syrup

For Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Coughs, Colds and Throat Trouble.
CONTAINS NO OPIUM OR MORPHINE,
All Druggists, Price 25 and 50 Cents.

$60 LIFE SCHOLARSHIPS $25

Beginning April 10th, we are going to show our appreciation of the Very, Very Liberal patronage our University has Always received, and on account of the recent money panic, and sell a Limited number of $60 Life Scholarships at $25. Buy one before they are sold, for they will go fast at this price, and get ready for a good position in the early fall. If you can't come at once pay us $10 now, which will insure you the reduction, and pay the balance on entering.

HARRIS BUSINESS UNIVERSITY,
JACKSON, MISSISSIPPI.

Louisiana Railway and Navigation Company.

PASSENGER SERVICE,

Daily Passenger Trains between Shreveport and New Orleans. Daily Passenger Trains between Shreveport and Winnfield.

FREIGHT SERVICE.

Exceptional good time on carload traffic. Special attention given less than carload shipments all of which moves in

DAILY THROUGH PACKAGE CARS.

CLARENCE ELLERBE, Assistant to President.
H. B. HELM, General Superintendent.
E. C. D. MARSHALL, General Freight & Passenger Agent.
Shreveport, La.

The Home Circle.

HOW TO READ THE BIBLE.

Few men know how to read the Bible. Few understand what the Book is really intended for. A word upon this point was spoken by the Rev. Joseph Dawson, of Newcastle-on-Tyne, and we are glad to append it. He says:

"When men search the Scriptures, not to extract the innermost meaning out of a Greek particle or a Hebrew point merely, not to discover passages which may be torn from the context to be fastened as proofs to some theological system; not to give scientific exactness to that over which there hangs all the shadowy indefiniteness of magnificent metaphor; not to cram into a thimble what was meant to fill the sky; when, laying aside all the petty methods and pigmy notions begotten of pedantry and literal-mindedness, they regard the Scriptures as the record of the gradual unfolding of the Divine in human history, and dig down under its poetry and story, its parable and song, to find principles which cannot die and laws of life which will abide forever—then will the Bible have a resurrection as grand as his who was carried to the grave as a criminal and emerged from it the conqueror of the world."—Selected.

SINS FORGIVEN AND FORGOTTEN.

"I believe in the forgiveness of sins." Do you? Do you, indeed? Do you believe it in your very heart? Have you so grasped the Divine love and faithfulness that pardon has become as real as sin? Ah, how imperfectly have we done this! "I have blotted out, as a thick cloud, thy transgressions, and, as a cloud, thy sins." Why, then, do we not look up with holy confidence if the threatening storm-cloud, tinted with the rainbow, has melted into the infinite azure of the Divine pity and love? "For thou hast cast all my sins behind thy back." Where that region lies, who may say? But if God comes between us and all our sins, it is enough; why afright ourselves seeking to discover that ghostly realm of silence and forgetfulness? "Thou wilt cast all their sins into the depths of the sea." The sea is deeper than Micah knew, and the sea into which heaven plunges our sins is one that shall never give up her dead; why, then, this deep-sea dredging to fish up what the purple ocean of the eternal merit and power has swallowed in unfathomable deeps? First, we make a mock of sin; and lightly assume its forgiveness; then, when the law comes home, we believe it to be so profound and incurable that we despair of salvation. The last thing we do is to believe in the reality of forgiveness as in the agony of conviction we believe in the reality of sin.

The higher life we covet is impossible except we cordially take God at his word. Terrible is the very suspicion of uncanceled sin! What can be more repressive to our best impulses, more blighting to our heart, more chilling and paralyzing to all our upward-seeking desires and strivings, than the misgiving that our death-warrant obtains, that detectives shadow us, and that at any hour of the day or night we may be thrust into the prison-house? This it is that robs the grass and flower of their glory, that renders doubly dark the watches of the night, makes sweet things insipid, brings black shadows into sunshiny places, and spoils the peace and joy of life. The burden of Bunyan's Pilgrim rolled into the sepulcher, and he "saw it no more." It is thus we must set out on the new life, the heavenly pathway. Leave the old life and the old sins in the depths of God's love, Christ's merit, the Holy Spirit's grace. "If we confess our sin, he is faithful and just to forgive us our sin." Believe in God's nobleness; and what is forgotten in heaven, let us no more remember on earth to our detriment or despair. "Take the cup of salvation" and fill it with the water of Lethe, "calling upon the name of the Lord." Then ours is the "peace that passeth understanding," and we "shall not be confounded."—The Supreme Conquest."

LOST KING RICHARD.

King Richard was missing. It was dinner-time, and his majesty was not in the habit of being absent at this hour. Indeed, no one could recollect that such a thing had ever happened before. Messengers ran in all directions to seek him.

"Kitty! Kitty!" called Bess, down the garden.

"Poor pussy, come to dinner!" coaxed Rob, prying into all the corners of the cellar.

As for Marjorie, she had been looking everywhere, and when she found it was all of no use, she just sat down and cried.

"There's no good in that," said Rob. "He'll come back just as soon without it."

But Marjorie was inconsolable. King Richard was her own pussy, and naturally she felt worse than any one else. At least, so said Marjorie. The others secretly believed that they cared quite as much for King Richard as Marjorie did, only they had more self-control.

Supper time came, and still his majesty had not returned. Bess cried, too, then. And when the clock struck eight, which was bed time, and still he had not been found, the grief was universal.

This was Thursday. On Friday, the children scoured the neighborhood, seeking for tiding of their pet. All in vain! King Richard was not seen or heard of.

"To think how he may be suffering somewhere!" moaned poor Marjorie. Rob was anxious about King Richard, too.

By Saturday night all hope was given up, and when the children went to church on Sabbath, and took their places in the minister's pew, they wore sad little faces.

At the end of the anthem, papa stood up in the pulpit. "We will sing the ninety-third hymn," he announced, in his deep, rich voice.

"Mew!" came from somewhere. The little folks in the minister's pew started, and looked at one another.

"'From all that dwell below the skies—'"

"Meow! Me-ow!"

The children were quivering with excitement now. People in the congregation began to smile. Papa read louder.

"Me-ow! Me-o-o-o-ow!"

There was no use going on with the reading. Pussy had gained the day. Papa paused. The sexton, who was adjusting a window, went out. Marjorie, obtaining mamma's consent with a beseeching face and a hard squeeze of the hand, followed breathlessly.

"Oh, I know it's my King Richard!" she exclaimed, as the sexton opened the cellar door.

Sure enough, out sprang the cat, grimy and wild-eyed. Marjorie, regardless of coal dust and cobwebs, caught him in her arms, hugging him and calling him scores of pet names, as she carried him home.—Mary S. Daniels, in Youth's Companion.

CANDY OR CHINA.

"Oh, I do hate to wash dishes!" sighed Elva Forrest, as she lifted the breakfast plates and cups from the rinsing water.

"Mrs. Bassett says Kitty likes it," replied Mrs. Forrest.

"Well, I should," Elva said, "if we had as pretty china as the Bassetts have. When I was over there to tea I wiped the dishes for Kitty, and they were so lovely—all violets and lilies of the valley and tiny gilt bands. I don't wonder Kitty likes to wash such dishes."

Elva hoped her mother would say: "Well, we'll have some new ones;" but instead she only asked: "How much money did Uncle Mart give you last night, for candy?"

"Fifteen cents," the little girl answered, "for a quarter of a pound of those chocolates with nuts inside."

"I saw some very pretty cream pitchers at Conklin's the other day for only fifteen cents," Mrs. Forrest remarked.

For a minute Elva did not seem to see any connection between the cream pitcher and her candy money; then her face grew bright, and she said, "Oh!"

Her mother smiled. "I think you are eating almost too much candy nowadays, and if you wish to spend any of your money for china instead of chocolates I am willing, and I am sure Uncle Mart won't care."

"I will!" cried Elva. "Oh, that will be lovely! Uncle gives me lots, and I'd rather have some pretty dishes to wash and go without the candy. I'll take that fifteen cents and go right down and get that little pitcher this afternoon. May I?"

The candy money came in quite plentifully, for Uncle Mart and Aunt Judith were generous with their little niece, and Elva's pieces of pretty china made her heart glad. Every week she added something to her store, or saved the money over to be added to her next gift, in order to buy a larger or more costly dish.

"I never see you eating candy nowadays," Uncle Mart said one evening. "Do you give it away, or eat it up in secret—which is it?"

Elva laughed. "I haven't bought any candy for a long time," she said.

"Well, well, what do you spend your money for? Or are you getting to be a miser?"

"I'm buying pretty china, so I will have something besides ugly white dishes to wash;" and then she confided to him her plan.

"Good idea!" Uncle Mart decided; and after that Elva noticed that his little gifts of dimes and nickles came oftener than before.

Weeks before mamma's birthday Elva began to save up her money, and then one morning she and Uncle Mart went down town together. They visited several crockery shops before the two could be wholly satisfied, but when they went home the young uncle carried a queer-shaped package, and Elva's little purse was quite empty.

The next day Mrs. Forrest found beside her plate at breakfast a beautiful china nut dish, with two little squirrels as handles. Mamma was delighted, and said it was just such a dish as she had long wanted.

"And just think," exclaimed Elva, "what if I had eaten it up?"—Zion's Herald.

NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE

REV. JOHN W. BOSWELL, Editor.
REV. H. WHITEHEAD, Ass't Editor.

NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, MAY 21, 1908.

CHAS. O. CHALMERS, Publisher,
Office, 512 Camp St., New Orleans.

VOL. 55—No. 21.

"PROVE ALL THINGS; HOLD FAST THAT WHICH IS GOOD."

WHOLE No. 5400.

Millsaps College Library.

Glances at the World.

It is well-known that for many years Australia has been overrun with rabbits. They were destructive pests, and multiplied faster than they could be destroyed. How to get rid of them was a puzzling question. The authorities at last hit upon the plan of building a rabbit-proof fence across the continent. The Detroit News-Tribune is our authority for saying that the fence, 2,036 miles long, has just been completed at the cost of nearly $1,250,000. At intervals of five miles there are rabbit traps and hundreds of the animals are captured every day. This line has the distinction of being the longest fence in the world. "Inside the barrier there appears as yet no trace of rabbits." If this fence was run across the country, and the whole country was overrun by the pests, we do not understand why they are plentiful on one side and not on the other. But we are not responsible for this puzzle. We write this only to call attention to the fence, which is something worthy of note, as, according to the statement above made, it cost something over six hundred dollars a mile—a somewhat costly fence.

* * *

The legislature of Louisiana convened the 11th of May. Governor-elect J. Y. Sanders was inaugurated on the 18th. By the time this issue of the ADVOCATE reaches our readers the work of the session will be well under way. Much important matter will be up for consideration—some things will create not only interest, but excitement. Doubtless the most exciting, and, as we see it, the most important matter that will come before the body is the question of State-wide prohibition. A bill has already been prepared and will be offered in due time. This bill will ask for prohibition throughout the State, except in cities of 100,000 inhabitants and over. This is simply meant to exempt New Orleans from the provisions of the bill. It is offered in that shape, we presume, because of the fear that if New Orleans is included the bill will fail; and possibly in the hope it has been suggested of securing the aid of representatives from New Orleans in getting the bill through. The bill does not strike us as being exactly the right thing, but as we have not studied it thoroughly we here express no fixed opinion. We may have something to say later. All our friends in the State should give the subject thorough consideration.

In view of the action of the State Board of Health in regard to physicians' prescriptions, to which we called attention two weeks since, it seems that some action is necessary to give relief. A movement for this purpose has been started, and the matter will be carried to the legislature, now in session. The matter is thus set forth by the Times-Democrat, which, we note with pleasure, has championed the rights of the people in opposition to the oppressive ruling of the Board of Health: "It is announced that a determined effort will be made during the coming session of the legislature to amend the State pure food and drug law, placing the power now vested in the State Board of Health in the hands of a representative commission. The movement originates with the drug and pharmaceutical associations and the grocers' organizations, whose members are naturally first to feel the effect of too drastic or ill-advised regulation. It is proposed that the commission or board be composed of two physicians, two druggists, two grocers and an expert chemist, the president of the State Health Board to be ex-officio chairman. With the members' intimate technical knowledge of the various trades affected, it is contended that the regulations could be more justly and intelligently framed, giving the public health the maximum of protection with the least possible injury to the various business interests involved."

* * *

The combination of the liquor forces is a gigantic affair. It claims a membership of more than a million voters, and represents an investment in breweries and distilleries, and allied trades of $3,350,000,000, and pays licenses and taxes annually to the amount of $338,000,000. It assumes to be, not only the "balance power" in politics, but to dictate to political parties. There sits one of the lords in his office in Chicago, and when the Republican convention of the State met, he sent to the committee on platform a scrap of paper on which was written something like this: "We favor all laws giving the people the largest measure of personal liberty." This was meant as an endorsement of saloons open on Sunday, dance halls and everything else in which men and women engage. And the convention adopted the plank. When the Democratic convention met he did the same thing. And the Democrats did his bidding. Thus the liquor interests endeavor to control both parties. What this man has done in Illinois he will endeavor to do with both national parties when they meet to make a national platform and nominate a man for the presidency. Already the crowd has spoken out against Mr. Bryan because he does not use tobacco and never drinks wine or whisky. Shall the liquor forces dominate our country?

* * *

Many people wonder why men who commit great crimes are punished lightly, while others whose offences are little by comparison suffer heavy penalties. A poor man, white or black, convicted of stealing a hog worth less than ten dollars will be sent to the penitentiary for one or two years. Another man in office, with a big-paying salary, may be convicted of stealing one hundred thousand dollars, as was the case recently in New Orleans, and he gets a term of only seven years. Why this difference? Some big thieves escape entirely. A writer in the Saturday Evening Post says: "In New York, as is shown by the records of District Attorney Jerome's office, the big thief nearly always goes free. Of 3,274 cases of grand larceny—under which head comes the embezzlements—in the years 1905 and 1906 there were only three cases of conviction in which the sum named in the records was $50,000 or over. The great mass of the other convictions was for the stealing of sums ranging from $100 to $1,000. Your big thief, even where the law lays its hands upon him, gets off; your little thief is likely to go to jail. But even the little offenders' chances are good—better than two to one. For of 11,037 cases of grand larceny reported by the chief clerk of the district attorney of New York for the seven years ended December 31, 1906, there were 6,637 cases acquitted, discharged or dismissed, and there were only 4,400 convictions. The fact that there have been a few more convictions for embezzlement in 1907 than in the previous year in nearly all the large cities is merely the result of their having been a much greater number of embezzlements, and does not mark a growing tendency to prosecute, as some misinformed writers seem to think."

LAYMAN'S MEETING.

On Friday evening (to-morrow), at 8 o'clock, the Methodist laymen of this city will hold a mass meeting, at which the delegates to the late Layman's Missionary Conference will make addresses, giving detailed reports of the work of the great Chattanooga convention. The meeting will be held in First Methodist Church, and the laymen of New Orleans are urgently requested to be present on time.

Christian Advocate.

Published for the Louisiana, Mississippi and North Mississippi Conferences, Methodist Episcopal Church, South.

DIRECTIONS.

Correspondents will please direct all communications intended for the Editor to [illegible] Camp St., New Orleans, La. Communications intended for the Business Department should be addressed to the Manager of the New Orleans Christian Advocate. Write with ink and only on one side of the paper. No attention will be paid to rolled manuscripts.

The Printed Label on a paper shows the date to which a subscription is paid. It is as good as a written receipt. When renewal is made, if the date is not moved forward after two weeks, notify us, and we will make it right. Papers will be continued unless subscribers order otherwise.

For Advertising Rates Apply to

Religious Press Advertising Syndicate.

JACOBS & CO., CLINTON, S. C.

Home Office, Clinton, S. C., who have charge of the advertising of this paper.

ADVERTISING REPRESENTATIVES.

J. F. Jacobs, J. D. Jacobs, Home Office, Clinton, S. C.
R. J. Ritter, [illegible] W. St. Catherine St., Louisville, Ky.
Thornwell Jacobs, 1011 Stahlman Bldg., Nashville, Tenn.
C. C. Little, [illegible] Mutual Bldg., Richmond, Va.
D. J. Carter, [illegible] LaSalle St., Chicago, Ill.
Miss M. R. Middleton, [illegible] Nassau St., New York, N. Y.
Barton E. Beckman, [illegible] LaSalle St., Chicago, Ill.
J. H. Rich, Birmingham, Ala.
E. J. Barrett, New Orleans, La.
J. B. Keough, Atlanta, Ga.
J. B. Gentry, Clinton, S. C.
H. B. Ewbank, Houston, Texas.
W. L. Boggs, Greensboro, N. C.
F. A. Wynne, Cor. Ackard & Elm Sts., Dallas, Texas.

SPIRITUAL MEDITATIONS.

Divine suggestions die from spiritual inaction. A live thought has life-power and is full of energy. To make it powerful it must find a productive soul capable of nurturing and utilizing its vitality. All the great problems of both religion and science have been awaiting for ages man's receptivity, spiritual as well as mental. God's great storehouse of thought has opened its broad doors to man in all the past eternity. God has graciously awaited his creature's readiness. He has stood at the entering of the city, at the top of the high towers; unto men in all ages he has said, "Ho, every one that thirsteth, he that hath no money, yea, come, buy wine and milk without money and without price." The very best of God's fullness is and has ever been ready for man's acceptance and use. Our race need not have waited for the scientific wonders of this nineteenth century, nor need this age wait for the grander developments of the fortieth era.

The marvelous brain-power that is now at work in selfish pursuits, and has been active in the effort of self-exaltation in ages past, astounds the students of life-force. Such mighty efforts, if used for the good of men, had long since lifted our race out of degradation and vice into purity and happiness. God made and capacitated us for great and mighty activities. He places no limit to the on-reach of the most gifted. He has made it possible for the worst men to attain divinest excellence. His Son centered in himself all the gifts, graces and capabilities for man's noblest and grandest development. He died to make it possible for him to bestow the largest wealth of power upon his followers. He stood in the great centres of the ages to give abundantly of his treasures for not only the salvation of men, but for their complete attainment of perfection. He stands to-day, yea, in the very presence of the world-rulers and world-workers and longs to open the great gates of regal opportunity to them, that man may reach unmeasured wealth of joy. Why will the multitudes not behold him and surrender to his wise, loving call? Because sin has blinded their eyes.

The past is fruitful to the wise thinker in teaching the danger-points to be shunned in coming voyaging. The old sea pilot, who ignorantly wrecked a ship on a rock not laid down on the chart, saith: "Now I know it is there; I will steer clear of it as long as I live." So we, by our disasters, gain wisdom. But all our dangers are charted, no rock but what the great pilot has surveyed and marked in our life-chart. The trouble is that only wrecking our hopes awakes our [illegible] powers. God lets our vessels of humanity be driven by storm-power on the rocks that our souls may be saved. Nothing but a tornado arouses some souls. Rather than permit one to perish God wrecks us of our earthly values and lets us be washed ashore on the beach of his mercy, hoping thus to arouse our spiritual force and make us cry out in almost despair, "God be merciful to me, a sinner." Christ, the great life-saver, stands on the beach of God's ocean of love ready to rescue any poor sin-wrecked one. Yea, he is out in the roaring breakers amid the very wreckage, stretching out his all-powerful arms of mercy, ready to clutch hold of any poor lost soul that cries out, "Lord, save, or I perish."

The wise, earnest, faithful use of possessed blessings is far more needful than the gifts craved and often prayed for. How can our Father be expected to confer greater favors upon us, when we fail to use, misuse, or abuse the countless favors he so lavishly bestows? It is well to keep a record of our mercies and to memorize them in order to cultivate our gratitude. The Psalmist cries out, "Bless the Lord, O, my soul, and forget not all his benefits." We are so prone not only to forget, but to treat with indifference and neglect the indispensable mercies of God that we need to constantly remind ourselves of our possessions. No sin is more common or more frequently committed than discourteous treatment of God. How seldom we politely thank God for a favor! Indeed, our manners toward our heavenly Father would not be tolerated by our earthly associates.

The munificence of the life-power in the Lord Jesus Christ is sufficient to light up the whole world. There is no need for a single soul to be in darkness. The effulgence of God's glorious mercy beams forth far and wide over the entire age. Its fruitfulness results from its reaching all who realize its need, all whose souls cry out for the living God. Each of the followers of Jesus are torch-bearers illuminating the world. Those who receive the grace of burning light give forth rays that gladden and save the immortal souls. Youngest to eldest of the children of God can broaden the shining of the life of Christ. All are to be illustrators of the wonders of the "Life that is the Light of the world." By living as did Paul with his "life hid with Christ in God," we become transformed into the Christ-life.

M.

Biloxi, Miss.

LETTER FROM GILDEROY.

Rev. David Harkey I knew along in the early fifties. He settled on Old Town Creek, in the extreme western part of Itawamba County, Miss., where his second family of children grew to manhood and womanhood. He had lived east of that for a long while in his earlier years. From his young manhood he was a local preacher in our Church and served as a supply on many charges, and always with great acceptability and efficiency.

Brother Harkey was tall, manly and very quick and rapid in motion and in speech. He wore his hair tolerably long, parted it in the middle and combed it down smooth on each side of his head. When sitting in one of the old-fashioned box pulpits his head and face looked like the head and face of a woman. His voice was soft, sweet and musical, never harsh, never boisterous. His manner was earnest and persuasive. He was an evangelist.

Though not a man of learning, he was a man of extensive and varied information—not an educated, but a very wise man. He was deeply versed in the Holy Scriptures [illegible] the standards of our Wesleyan-Arminian theology and in the history of Methodism. [illegible] knew what we believed and why we believed [illegible] his day few were ahead of him in [illegible] defending the doctrines of our Methodism. His logical faculty was fully developed and he was masterful in argument. He [illegible] among the intellectual giants of his day, [illegible] able to measure arms with the best [illegible]. His life was a benediction to a wide [illegible] country. Such a man is a tower of [illegible] any community.

Brother Harkey was at his best [illegible] campmeeting occasions and in great [illegible] religion. He was a fluent speaker and [illegible] the gospel message in a torrent of [illegible] tenderness. It was difficult for the sinner to resist him.

When I was a boy trying to get ready for the itinerant ministry, Brother Harkey was my theological preceptor. He directed my reading and helped me in my studies. I marked all the hard places in the books he gave me and once a month recited my lesson to him and had him expound to me such matters as I did not fully understand. He was a good teacher, and I tried hard to be an apt pupil. He conferred no degrees, but he did know how to impart instruction to an ignorant, but anxious boy. I wanted to know things and to know that I knew them. My studies under Brother Harkey were limited to theology and to Methodist history.

At the same time I was taking a course in grammar, arithmetic and algebra under Miss Fanny Ratcliff, later Mrs. Brown, and still later Mrs. Armstrong. I recited to her once a month. She was a great teacher, had the gift of making things clear and simple. I did not need or want a teacher, only to help me where I could not possibly go along by myself. Such were the meager facilities for preparing young men for the ministry fifty-five and sixty years ago. My teachers were the very elect of God, but I do hope no imperfections of mine will be laid to the charge of these elect ones. They did the best they could with the material they had in hand.

A four years' course in Wesley, Watson, Clark, Fletcher, Wilbur Fisk, and Nelson on Infidelity, under Rev. David Harkey, was a tremendous help to a poor unlettered plow boy. It gave him a start, laid a foundation to build upon.

A like course for the same period in grammar, in rhetoric, in logic, in natural, mental and moral philosophy, in astronomy and in arithmetic and algebra under Miss Fanny Ratcliff, helped to stir a boy's mind in a course of study that will not end in this world nor in the world to come.

Yours,

GILDEROY.

Strong, Miss.

TENNYSON AND BROWNING.

The Methodist Quarterly Review for April, 1908, is adorned with a charming article by Miss Burma May, of Grenada, Miss., on comparative features of Tennyson and Browning. The comparison is made, it would seem, for the purpose of setting forth the likenesses and agreements, rather than the differences between the two greatest British poets of the Victorian age. The finding of these agreements and the clear illustrative expression of them so as yet to preserve the distinctive personalities of the great poets is evidently due to a strong, well-trained intellectuality in the young writer. The style is marked by modesty, clearness, and remarkable fitness in the choice of words. The writer shows a strong sympathy with the works of her distinguished authors and an apt facility in giving expression to what she discerns as their characteristic sentiments. Even ordinary readers of these great poets will thank Miss May for the result of her helpful studies and for the lines of illuminating thought that she has left to our service. In reading the article one feels that the fair young writer has exposed the qualities of her own heart and mind, which she shows us were the controlling powers in her chosen authors. The high literary and artistic merit of this article by Miss May will help us to a more ready and appreciative study of the great authors she has compared, and we shall expect to find in them the marks which her own thought has given us. Many of the readers of our great Quarterly will thank the learned editor for giving this deserving young author from Mississippi a place in the circle of his able contributors. Grenada College is to be congratulated for the high honor confered on her by one of her own younger children. So fine a beginning ought to be followed with a rich yield of literary fruit. W. T. J. SULLIVAN.

Jackson, Miss.

THE COLE LECTURES AT VANDERBILT

The choice of the Vanderbilt Faculty of the Cole lecturer for this year fell upon a pastor of the Wesleyan Methodist Church, stationed in Toronto, Canada—Rev. George Jackson, B. A., formerly pastor in the city of Edinburgh, Scotland. Thus, for the first time since the founding of this lectureship the lecturer has come from the ranks of the pastorate.

It was at first thought by the Faculty that he would probably choose for his theme some practical problem of the busy pastorate; but instead, he saw fit to speak on a thorough-going theological subject, viz., "The Fact of Conversion." In his first lecture the speaker showed clearly that this time-worn subject may be made fresh and interesting in a popular and scientific, rather than in a technical and theological manner.

Following this plan, he addressed himself at the outset to the consideration of Conversion as a Fact of Consciousness. To establish this thesis he drew upon the testimony of the New Testament and Christian biography. The second lecture was devoted to showing the value of conversion in transforming the lives and conduct of men, showing that this transforming power is seen in the victims of physical appetite, the debauchees of society, and also in the case of men whose lives have always been outwardly correct, such as St. Paul, Wesley and Chalmers.

Speaking of the Varieties of Conversion, he said in substance:

"For one man conversion is the slaying of the great beast within him, for another it is the coming of peace to the disturbed mind. It is not important that we classify these various forms of conversion, but it is of the greatest importance that we abstain from a standardizing of the experience. The New Testament itself records various kinds of conversion. For example, that of Sts. Paul and Peter and Timothy and Lydia. It also uses a varied terminology in referring to it, as, for example, regeneration, passing from darkness to light, the death of the old man, a new creation, and similar expressions.

"Sudden, explosive conversions, such as that of St. Paul, have never ceased to occur in the history of the Church. John Calvin records his own sudden conversion. So does John Wesley. The sudden character of some conversions does not invalidate them. On the contrary, sudden conversion seems to be the only way by which some men can enter the kingdom of God.

"It would be a mistake to assume that the sudden type of conversion is more effectual than is the gradual type. Christian biography is rich in testimony of a gradual change of heart and life, which has characterized some of the most conspicuous members of the Church. Such names as John Livingston and John Henry Newman occur to us at once. John Newton testified that his heart of oak had been shattered by no poignant sorrow.

"The same variety of conversion meets us when we turn from the manner of conversion to the motives and agencies that have brought it about.

"Truly the wind bloweth where it listeth and we hear the sound thereof, but cannot tell whence it cometh nor whither it goeth.

"Hear the conclusion of the whole matter. Conversion is the return of the soul to God. Some come by the wicket gate, some come in the crowd, some in loneliness—but all the paths lead to God. They shall come from the North and the East and the South and the West to take their place in the kingdom of God."

On the Rationale of Conversion he referred to Browning's belief in Conversions as follows: "Browning is a great witness to conversions. He never forgets that not intellectual quickening, but repentance-conversion, swings the life into its true place. Nor does he forget that conversion is a personal relation. Browning is not afraid of sudden spiritual upheavals; he believes in them."

Discussing the Psychology of Religion, the lecturer pointed out the contributions which investigators in the department of psychology are making to the understanding of the phenomena connected with conversion.

The closing lecture was devoted to the consideration of the theme: "Present Day Preaching and the Conversion of Men."

This series of lectures promises to put our preachers to thinking over their preaching problems anew, and when published will perform a much-needed service in that they will convey to the non-technical reader the results of modern scientific work in a new field.

THE LAYMAN'S MISSIONARY CONFERENCE.

J. W. BEESON.

It was my good fortune to be a delegate to the Layman's Missionary Conference held at Chattanooga, Tenn., April 21-23. In company with my wife and Mr. L. P. Brown, who was also a delegate, accompanied by his wife, we left Monday evening in order to arrive in time to take in the entire convention. It was indeed a great gathering and will undoubtedly be far-reaching in its results for missions and for the Church. The papers estimated the attendance of delegates and visitors to be about 3,000. The large auditorium, which is said to seat 5,000 to 6,000, was filled at all the principal services.

The programme was a feast of good things, and was carried out in full in a thorough-going business way, as business-men can do. There was not a hitch or delay; every speaker on the programme was present on time and filled his part well. Great addresses were given by Hon. James Bryce, ambassador from Great Britian; J. Campbell White, of New York; W. T. Ellis, of the Philadelphia Press, who has recently been sent around the world by his paper to study the mission fields of the world; Samuel B. Capen, a wholesale carpet dealer of Boston, who is president of the National Layman's Missionary Movement, delivered an excellent address; also Bishops Wilson, Hendrix and Candler delivered masterful addresses; Dr. Anderson, of Soochow University, China; Dr. Staley, a physican from Virginia, who has made a tour around the world studying medical missions, gave a fine address. There were also fine addresses by other returned missionaries and laymen that were quite edifying. One of the ablest addresses of all was given by Dr. Josiah Strong, of New York, on the "Challenge of the City." Dr. Strong is author of several books on sociological questions, his last being one by the same title as his address and is in many mission study courses, and ought to be read by every preacher and layman in America. We had the great fortune to bring Dr. Strong home with us to deliver a lecture to the 1000 young people of the colleges and vicinity which was greatly appreciated by the audience. The missionary societies of the Methodist churches of Meridian have engaged him for his famous address, "The Challenge of the City," to be delivered June 1. Other towns in this section would do well to get him while on this trip South. He is a great scholar, a devout Christian, and perhaps the best posted man on city mission work, its needs and remedies, in America. His address at Chattanooga was great. In fact, there was nothing on the programme but something good.

The Canal=Louisiana Bank and Trust Company

CORNER CAMP AND GRAVIER STS.

Embraces every function of financial business. It solicits your deposit account subject to cheque. It solicits your SAVINGS ACCOUNT upon which will be allowed INTEREST at the rate of 3 1-2 per cent. per annum, compounded semi-annually.

It will safeguard your securities in its BURGLAR and FIRE-PROOF SAFETY DEPOSIT VAULTS. It will collect Bonds, Rents, Mortgages, Interest, Dividends, Coupons and every class of Income. It will pay Taxes and Insurance, sell property and undertake the care and management of Estates. It will act as Executor, Administrator, Guardian or Trustee under will or by appointment of court.

DURING YOUR LIFETIME IT WILL ACT AS YOUR AGENT AND AT YOUR DEATH IT WILL ADMINISTER YOUR ESTATE.

Its Foreign Exchange Department buys and sells Drafts and Cable Transfers; issues Commercial and Travelers' Letters of Credit available in all parts of the world, makes collections and does a general foreign exchange business.

Accounts of Individuals, Firms, Banks and Corporations Respectfully Solicited.

Every Accommodation Offered Consistent With Safe and Legitimate Banking.

This Laymen's Missionary Movement is undoubtedly the greatest missionary movement that has been started in the world's history of missions. It is getting hold of the laymen, the monied men, the business men, the professional men as nothing else has ever done. They voted to raise $200,000 more for missions this year than was raised last year in our Church, and intend to make the collection for missions $3,000,000 for 1909.

This Layman's Movement has already sent sixty business men around the world to study the mission fields and see the needs and make report. They are dividing up the mission world into sections and apportioning it out to the different Protestant Churches who will agree to take charge of these sections, and are going about to raise enough money and send out enough missionaries to evangelize the world in this generation. They expect to work in and through the different Churches, and not as an independent movement, but merely an auxiliary missionary effort.

The signs of mission work are now more hopeful than at any time in the world's history. Now is the strategic time for everybody to put shoulders to the wheels and push the work of world-wide missions. We in the college here are striving to add our little mite to this great work. Besides several mission-study classes voluntarily pursued by over 100 students in the two colleges, we have put a required course of reading two books on missions in each grade from the primary to the senior class, which will give quite a comprehensive course. Why should not all Christian colleges substitute some mission study books in place of some of the English classics? It is in the colleges that we find the most fruitful field for mission study.

We have quite a number preparing to go to the foreign field. One of our seniors is planning to enter Scarritt Training School this fall. Another may go if not providentially hindered. One is already a missionary in South America, and a former teacher in China, and one in India.

Let our colleges send out their finest material to help in this great conquest of the world for our King.

Meridian Woman's College, Meridian, Miss.

LETTER FROM A LAYMAN.

Mr. Editor: I wish to state through the columns of your paper the pleasure that came to me from attending the great Layman's Conference in Chattanooga, Tenn., April 21-23. As district leader from Arcadia District, I had taken the matter of attending the Convention up with each of the delegates selected at the Annual Conference in Ruston last December, and we had four other delegates from this district present besides myself. Those present were: Dr. J. L. Scales, Alden Bridge; B. F. Wrenn, Pine Grove Church (Minden, La., R. O.); F. C. Marsalis, Athens, and R. T. McClendon, Lisbon.

We hope to meet all the delegates at the District Conference at Bienville and perfect a district organization, so as to begin to reap the benefits of this great movement in our Church. We want to be ready for the next Conference two years hence so we can show something accomplished, or at least something attempted.

It was certainly an inspiring sight to see so many representative laymen from all parts of our Church field gathered together to try to devise means for utilizing the laymen of the Church (a force which has heretofore lain practically dormant) in advancing the cause of Christ both at home and abroad.

We trust that this movement will cause every layman in our Church to attempt more for Christ in the days to come; that the business men of our Church will go at the matter of spreading the gospel as they go at any other proposition, in a business-like-way. Wishing the ADVOCATE success, I am, yours very truly,

N. G. GRIGSBY.

M. F. AMES—A USEFUL MAN.

Our friend and brother, M. F. Ames, was long and favorably known in Starkville, Miss.—a landmark in the community and a prominent member of the Methodist Church. Closely associated with him as his presiding elder for two full terms and two years as his pastor, and a resident of the same town, the writer found in him a valued co-laborer, counselor and friend. His death came to me as a sore bereavement and personal loss. An excellent paper was read before the Starkville Quarterly Conference of the M. E. Church, South, sometime ago as a tribute to the usefulness and worth of Brother M. F. Ames, who was for many years a leading member of this Quarterly Conference. As no notice of the death of our departed brother, now nearly a year ago, has appeared in the ADVOCATE, I send some extracts from the above mentioned tribute for publication.

T. C. WIER.

* * * "Madison Fisk Ames was born in Sparta, Tenn., Aug. 9, 1830. He came to Starkville, Miss., with his parents in 1835; joined the Methodist Church on probation at the age of 15, and was taken as a member some time later. He was made a steward in the Church just after the war, in 1866 or 1867, which position he still held at the time of his death, June 19, 1907.

"His father, Judge David Ames, was one of the most prominent men of this section. In 1836 he was elected probate judge, and filled that office thirty-one years. Judge Ames was a first-honor graduate of Dartmouth College. His wife was an excellent woman of sterling Christian character. Under the training of such parentage the youth character of M. T. Ames was moulded. * * *

"In his immediate home circle he was especially blessed. He was married at the age of thirty-one to Miss Rosanna Minerva Hogan, a woman of culture and many excellencies of heart and mind. Six children—three boys and three girls—came to bless their union, all of whom, together with the devoted wife and a number of grandchildren, are left to mourn their loss.

"His official connection with the Church, which covered a period of fifty years, was never of a perfunctory nature. He was always zealous in promoting its interest; he rejoiced in its successes and all that tended to its advancement. Unassuming and quiet in manner, conservative in spirit, cherishing enmity toward none, he could be firm and unswerving in his convictions of right, without giving offense. He inspired those about him with a confidence in his judgment, and his counsel was frequently sought by his pastor and his fellow laborers. He was of sturdy piety, constant and methodical in his religious life, always at his post of duty. * * *

"His continued success in business placed him in position to be materially helpful to the Church, and his liberality to all its causes was a worthy and valuable example to others.

"Possessed of fine social qualities and gifted with a rare sense of humor, he was always a welcome companion. He was known and loved by many. * * * Amid all classes and conditions there are grateful memories of his kindly smiles; words of cheer to the faltering, encouragement to the weak and comfort to the sorrowing, fell daily from his lips. In short, he loved his fellow-man. * * *

"He was always cheerful; even toward the last, when his steps grew feeble, the sunlight of his cheery nature was still undimmed; he seemed to approach the morrow of eternity with a serene confidence that gave evidence of a simple, trusting and immovable faith in the divine promises of the reward that awaiteth the righteous.

"We mourn our loss and shall long miss him from our official meetings and from our daily associations.

N. W. PULLER,
HUGH CRITZ,
F. S. WIER,
Committee."

HELP THE CHURCH AT PURVIS.

Dear Editor: The statement from Rev. M. M. Black, pastor at Purvis, in last week's issue of the ADVOCATE ought to appeal to every Methodist pastor and congregation in the Mississippi Conference. I wish to make an additional appeal through the ADVOCATE in behalf of the Purvis Church. If the daily papers correctly report of the decision of the War Department in reference to the distribution of the funds appropriated by the government, none of that money can be used in the rebuilding of either homes or churches. That being the case, the church can be rebuilt only as we who are not hurt by the storm come to their assistance.

I can speak from experience in this matter. Seventeen years ago this next July my father's home, crop and all buildings on the farm were completely destroyed. We were then unable to do more than to rally enough to house ourselves without calling on the public to help us.

Soon after I came to Meridian, two and a half years ago, a tornado passed through this city, destroying much property and blowing down four churches, two white and two colored. There were few lives lost here. But as I served on the Relief Committee, I became well acquainted with the condition of the people in the section of the city through which the storm passed, and I know that the people who worshipped in the churches that were blown down were unable to rebuild the same. I feel confident that if the Relief Committee had not provided funds for rebuilding those churches some of them, at least, would have become disorganized for lack of a place of worship.

Remarkable
for its fine quality, its delicious flavor, its double strength, and most remarkable for its moderate price.

Luzianne Coffee

is the best value you
can possibly get for your coffee money.

SOLD EVERYWHERE

The REILY-TAYLOR COMPANY,
New Orleans.

The people at Purvis need help now to rebuild their church. The Church Extension Board cannot help now, for we have no money in the treasury. And even if we did have, it ought not to be necessary to draw on that fund. That Board was not organized to meet emergency cases, but to help build in new places and to meet the needs in growing communities. Being secretary of our Conference Board, I know that there are already this year churches expecting aid from this Board far in excess of the amount we will have for distribution without the Purvis claim coming before us.

With the proposition that has come from Main Street, Hattiesburg, in which one member agrees to furnish the lumber free for the building, it strikes me that it would be a shame on the preachers and members of the Mississippi Conference not to send in money enough within the next thirty days to meet all the expenses of that building. We have one hundred and fifty-eight pastoral charges in our Conference. To count eight of them as being very weak mission charges, still the one hundred and fifty could send in $3000, at an average of $20 per charge. I believe if the case is simply stated by the preachers that amount could be easily raised. The charge I serve is but little above the average, but by a simple statement of the case on the first Sunday in this month I got a cash basket collection, not the result of a personal canvas or appeal, of $23.

Brethren of the Mississippi Conferenece, do not let the people of Purvis have to build their church on a credit, and then come before the Church Extension Board in December expecting to get money to pay the indebtedness. We have no emergency fund, hence emergency cases should be met by special collections. And you should report your contribution to the Purvis Church at our next Conference as a special to Church Extension.

L. E. ALFORD,
Secretary Church Extension Board.

There must be something in the very atmosphere of liquor saloons that works on the moral nature of the men who run them. No matter what obligations they assume, or what promises they make, they cannot be trusted, as a class, to run their places according to the law. It would require a revolution in the government to throw around farmers and merchants and manufacturers such restrictions as are thrown around liquor sellers.

W. F. M. S.

WOMAN'S BOARD OF FOREIGN MISSIONS.

Methodist women of the city who gave such earnest work in their arrangements for the annual Convention of the Woman's Board met one afternoon last week at the First Methodist Church to wind up the affairs of the meeting. Such splendid financiering has been done by the ladies that, after all the expenses are paid, it is found that there will be something like one hundred dollars left in the hands of the committee. It was decided at this meeting to turn this sum over to the Rev. Mr. Wilson, the Methodist minister at Amite, who suffered so much from the recent cyclone. This sum will accordingly be sent him, and if there is anything over, and it is expected that there will still be a few dollars, the money will be turned over to the Conference expense fund.

Mrs. W. W. Carre, chairman of the General Committee on Local Arrangements, was given a rising vote of thanks for her splendid work. Mrs. Carre, in return, thanked the various chairmen of committees for their hearty support, modestly laying to that cause the success of the arrangements.

Rev. J. E. Wray paid a tribute to the financial ability of the committees in having such a neat sum to devote to a worthy cause after the splendid arrangements made. Mr. Wray complimented the treasurer, Mrs. McTyiere, for her Napoleonesque handling of the big funds in a way, he said, that was a marvel to bankers. While holding to his reverence for the old type of woman, he could not but admire the acumen and splendid business ability of the new type which the board meeting had exemplified.

Impressions of the recent meeting were given by Mrs. Jay, one of the oldest members of the Methodist Church in the city; Miss Crittenden, Deaconess of First Church; Mrs. J. W. Kinnabrew, Mrs. Ahrens, Mrs. Perry, Mrs. Lyons, Miss Mary Werlein and Mrs. F. A. Dicks.

The following resolutions were presented by the chairman of the Resolution Committee and were unanimously adopted:

"We, the women of the various Methodist congregations of New Orleans, wish to express our thanks and appreciation to all who so kindly contributed to the successful entertainment of the Woman's Board of Foreign Missions during its recent session.

"We feel that it was a rare privilege to have these consecrated women in our midst, and believe that their presence has been an uplift and inspiration which will be lasting. For this we give thanks to our Almighty Father, who permits us to be co-laborers with him.

"We desire to express our special thanks to the Maison Blanche for a contribution of the beautiful ribbon which made our badges and souvenir programmes so attractive.

"To the friend who so kindly contributed the use of dishes on which to serve our luncheons.

"To E. W. Smith, of the Troy Laundry, for the daily laundering of the necessary table linen, calling for and delivering the same promptly.

"To the daily papers for their efficient services in arousing the interest of the general public in the Woman's Board of Foreign Missions of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and giving such full and accurate reports of their sessions.

"To Palfrey, Purcell & Rodd and others for donations of stationery.

"To Mr. I. A. Strauss for cuts of the points of interest in New Orleans for our souvenir programmes.

"To Mrs. J. G. Grant and her assistants for the necessary furniture and accessories that made our rest room so comfortable and attractive.

"To Messrs. W. L. Boudet, Holmes, Carley, Atkinson, Townsley, Lutz and J. T. Sawyer for their kindness in serving on our Reception Committee and their courtesy in escorting the delegates to their homes.

"To Miss Ingree Peterson for her ever-willing services in distributing mail, selling post cards, checking packages and giving information and assistance whenever possible.

"To Mrs. O'Pry and Miss Mary Wilkinson for rendering such able assistance in selling the missionary books and Guide Books of New Orleans.

"We do thank the kind friends who extended the hospitality of their homes, regretting that through some mistake several were not accepted.

"Last, but not least, we wish to express our grateful thanks to Mrs. John Hollingsworth and her assistants for their untiring effort in providing and serving the dainty and appetizing lunches from day to day, which not only satisfied and refreshed us all, but gratified the artistic taste as well.

"To everyone who has contributed in any way to sustain the reputation of our city for hospitality and good will we return thanks and pray that the spirit aroused by this meeting may abide and bring joy and blessing always.

"MRS. F. A. DICKS.
"MRS. ELMER E. WOOD."

BOARD OF MISSIONS, NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

Treasurer's Report for Month of April, 1908.

	Domestic.	Foreign.
Sardis District—
Batesville, Rev. C. P. Moss	$ 50.00	$61.50
Greenville District—
Shelby and Merigold, Rev. R. P. Neblett	42.00	....
Coahoma, Rev. D. L. Cogdell		35.00
Winona District—
Greenwood, Rev. J. C. Park	90.00	100.00
Belzoni, Rev. H. M. Young	30.00	50.00
Durant District—
West, Rev. W. L. Storment	35.00	....
Ackerman, Rev. J. D. Simpson	44.00	56.00
Columbus District—
Starkville, Rev. R. H. B. Gladney	....	75.00
Corinth District—
New Albany, Rev. W. C. Harris	....	112.00
Total amount collected from pastors' charges, April	291.00	489.50
Total amount collected by W. S. Lagrone to date	275.75	....
Total amount collected for April, 1908	566.75	489.50
Amount previously reported	853.70	389.00
Total collected this Conference year to date	1420.45	878.50

RECAPITULATION.

	Ass'm't.	Paid.	To be paid.
Domestic missions	$6,260.00	$1,420.45	$4,839.55
Foreign missions	11,475.00	878.50	10,596.50
	$17,735.00	$2,298.95	$15,436.05

The figures above show that much remains to be done. The call is urgent. Will we not give heed?

Fraternally,

W. E. M. BROGAN,
Secretary Board of Missions.

CONFERENCE BOARD OF MISSIONS.

March 23 to May 15, 1908, Received for

FOREIGN MISSIONS:

Louisiana Avenue, Rev. W. W. Holmes	$ 30.00
Pollock, Rev. G. D. Purcell	11.50
Carrollton Avenue, Rev. H. T. Carley	67.00
McDonoghville, Rev. H. Whitehead	10.00
Algiers, Rev. J. F. Foster	40.50
Second Church, N. O., Rev. A. I. Townsley	52.00
Amite, Rev. L. C. Wilson	20.00
Rayne Memorial, Rev. J. A. Rice	125.00
Bunkie, Rev. J. D. Harper	70.00
Donaldsonville, Rev. E. P. Craddock	60.00
Colfax, Rev. C. V. Briethaupt	62.00
Eros, Rev. J. J. Kelly	15.00
Port Vincent, Rev. H. C. Murphy	11.00
Patterson, Rev. J. F. Patterson	14.00
Total	$588.00

DOMESTIC MISSIONS.

Donaldsonville, Rev. E. P. Craddock	$ 43.25
Carrollton Avenue, Rev. H. T. Carley	45.00
Ponchatoula, Rev. W. Schuhle	20.00
Mary Werlein, Rev. R. F. Harrell	12.25
Eros, Rev. J. J. Kelly	15.00
Port Vincent, Rev. H. C. Murphy	10.00
Minden, Rev. R. H. Wynn	100.00
Tallulah, Rev. R. A. Davis	38.00
Total	$283.50

We wish to remind the brethren that the Board has financial obligations to meet outside the regular appropriations, and an empty treasury at present is causing some embarrassment. Kindly forward your Domestic Mission collections.

The subscribers to the "French Mission" collection will please send in amounts at once, as only about $300 has been received to date, leaving us at present about $85 behind on Brother Hebert's salary.

W. B. THOMSON, Treas.

New Orleans, La.

A GREAT GATHERING.

Dear ADVOCATE: It was my pleasure to attend the Sunday School Superintendents' Institute at Durant, May 12-14. It was a notable gathering. Brother N. A. Mott, of Yazoo City, has been at work on the scheme for several years, and to him is largely due the credit of the Institute just held.

There were present five preachers from the Mississippi Conference and twenty-five from the North Mississippi Conference. Presiding Elders Thames, Cunningham and Lewis were there. More than seventy Sunday school superintendents were there. Notably among them were Streater, of Black Hawk; Johnson, of Acona; Young, of Lexington; Wheeler, of Greenville; Cavett, of Jackson; Carter, of Columbus; Mott, of Yazoo City; Bachman, of Winona; White, of Westpoint; Shell, of Houston; Strain, of Tupelo; Ellis, of Utica; Carruth, of Rosine; Calhoun, of Mt. Olive; Brister, of Bogue Chitto, and others were there. We had the big Sunday school workers of the Church there—Mrs. H. M. Hamill, Dr. Hamill, J. R. Pepper, J. B. Greene, E. E. French of McKendree, and some home talent. R. P. Neblett led the singing. I only regret that every Sunday school superintendent in the State was not present.

A great forward movement is now on in our beloved Church. Three things were emphasized:

First—There must be more of God's Spirit in this work.

Second—Our superintendents must be more wide-awake, aggressive and studious.

Third—The Sunday school is educational. Its great purpose is to save, but it must never be forgotten that it is also a training school.

Quite a number of lady teachers were with us. Brother Duncan and his people gave us royal entertainment.

T. W. LEWIS.

It is not true that all men who sell liquor are worse than some who buy it, but it is true that if all who claim to be respectable would refrain from buying, our authorities would have far less trouble with blind tigers in prohibition territory. Much good might be done if the preachers could get that fact before their congregations.

BELLEVUE POULTRY SUPPLY CO.

Everything in the poultry line: Chickens, Parrots, Guinea Pigs, Rabbits and Pet Stock of every description; Cyphers, Incubators and Feed at Factory Prices, may be had by writing us at 740 Camp St., New Orleans, La. Catalogue sent free.

Harness and Saddles

E. G. AWCOCK,
333 BARONNE STREET,
Phone Main 4467. New Orleans, La.
Repairs Neatly and Promptly Done.

ANNUAL MEETING OF BOARD OF CHURCH EXTENSION.

[illegible]

The Board met in St. Joseph, Mo., on the 6th of May. The writer went to St. Joseph in order to obtain first-hand information as to the [illegible] of the Church Extension Department. As he was the only one of the editors of the Southern Methodist press on the ground he gladly shares with other papers the information gathered.

It is known to the Church that the Board is composed of all our Bishops, the corresponding secretary, Dr. W. F. McMurry; the secretary of the Board of Missions, Dr. W. R. Lambuth, and thirteen other managers, together with the president and treasurer of the Board—all men of first-grade ability, taken from over the Church.

The Board was called to meet in St. Joseph in order that it might be brought in contact with our people of that city, giving them an opportunity to better know of its great and important work. Besides the business sessions, which were, of course, of an executive nature, there were as many as ten public meetings, addressed by distinguished speakers, covering all phases of the Board's work. This was an interesting and highly profitable feature. The attendance of the people was good. There was every token of appreciation of the meeting of the Board upon the part of the people of St. Joseph, who showed distinguished courtesies.

With vast labor and great care, Dr. McMurry and his office force had prepared for this meeting. The preparation of the report of the Committee on Applications is a matter of great labor. To this Committee go all applications for donations and loans. All these must be passed upon by the Committee, which submits a recommendation as to each. The secretary is supposed to have at hand information on all these items ready for the use of the Board. The information was always ready. Our secretary is a man of details as well as a man of plans and purposes.

There were before the Board this year 258 applications—three more than last year—asking for donations to the amount of $177,225, and loans to the amount of $273,126. The Board did its best, and members greatly deplored their inability to do more. But funds were available for only $71,400 in donations, and $83,750 in loans. This represents quite an advance over last year, amounting to $14,575 in donations and $13,750 in loans. It is something to advance in the face of the financial conditions that have prevailed for the last six months. Of course, there were many applications for donations and applications for loans that the Board simply could not meet. There was just one reason—lack of money. There was no lack of willingness. The spirit of utmost fairness was manifest in the work of the Board.

The resources of the Board consist of the annual collections, amounting last year to $58,530.77, special donations amounting last year to a little over $10,000, some slight income from interest accounts and of the Loan Funds owned by the Board. The Board, since its organization, has received, in cash, for loan funds, in round figures, $180,000, and there has been earned in interest some $80,000, so that the Loan Fund capital of the Board is at present, in round numbers, $260,000. Great effort is being made to increase these funds. No one can attend a meeting of the Board and fail to be impressed with the urgent need of the Board, for at least, half a million dollars. Our Church Extension Board ought to be the banking department of the Church, able to lend money where it is needed, to build churches, and where churches must be built or the kingdom suffer loss. And what better use can a man make of his money? Not a dollar of these funds is ever to be consumed or alienated from the Board; the funds are to be loaned, earn interest, serve to build up a church, return again to the treasury of the Board, and then go out again to repeat the process till the end of time. It must be remembered that the Church is a trustee that can be trusted, and that never dies. We need at least $500,000 at this very moment for these funds. Let our brethren who are making their wills consider this.

We need a new conception of this whole business of the Church Extension Department. We have been too much accustomed to look upon it as a matter of gathering money to be put into brick and mortar—this and nothing more. It has been, in the popular mind, the most nearly secular of all our departments of Church work; but how is it secular at all? To build a church is as spiritual an act as preaching or praying. Neither preaching nor praying will, in the end, amount to much where churches are not built. We can no more bring up a spiritual and strong people without church buildings than we can bring up cultured families without houses.

The need for Church Extension help was never greater than it is to-day. We have no less need for our old and settled Conferences than we have had in times past. There are simply hundreds of rural communities where help is needed; there are strategic points in towns that must be occupied; there are readjustments to be made in our Southern ports in view of the opening of the Panama Canal.

But the great West! How great is the call! Bishop Atkins is laying plans on the Pacific Coast which will involve the outlay of great sums of money. The West! The West! How the life of the nation is to be affected by it in the coming years! There is undoubtedly a loud call for us on the Pacific Coast, considering the needs of the people for the word of God.

Into Arizona and New Mexico people are pouring—largely from the South. There never was a day when we had such an opportunity in these two Territories—soon to be a State or States. The day will not likely come when we shall have again such opportunity there as at the present. We must occupy, or give place permanently to those who will. The population of New Mexico has increased from 195,000 in 1900, to 460,000 at present, and is still rapidly increasing.

The whole Church knows of the efforts of the Board to take care of the vast work in Oklahoma. It is our most needy and most promising field. We have within this single Conference 425 societies without houses of worship. No fairer land is in the world. No pluckier band than that Conference is in all the Church. But they are called upon to do everything at once—to open their farms, establish their business, build their homes, build their churches and their school houses—do everything. This is why they need help and why they must have it. The entire amount of the available funds of the Board could be used this very year in Oklahoma to very great advantage. It ought to be remembered that Oklahoma Conference itself is leading the way to larger things in raising Church Extension money.

Such is the need in Oklahoma and such are the demands upon the secretary that the Board authorized him to employ a man who shall give all his time to that field.

The Board also instructed the secretary to raise, in conjunction with the secretary of the Board of Missions and the Bishops in charge, a special of $10,000 to be used in Oklahoma, Arizona and New Mexico. The Board devoted 10 percent of its funds this year to foreign fields. This is twice as much as it ever gave before to mission fields. In addition, Dr. McMurry and Dr. Lambuth were instructed to raise $6,000 as a special for a church in Hiroshima, Japan, where we have one of the most prosperous girls' schools in all the world.

The general policy of the Board is, not to help every place that needs help, but to use its funds so as to secure the largest possible results in all the fields we occupy. Strategic points must be occupied at moments of crisis.

I took particular care to ascertain from the discussions of the Board, and also by conversations with members, the attitude of the Board toward the work of other churches, particularly the work of the Methodist Episcopal Church in the West. It is not the purpose of the Board to spend any money merely to maintain a competition with some other Church, provided it be a Church preaching an evangelical gospel. The Board of Church Extension of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, is not in the business of erecting altar against altar. It is worth while to make this statement very plainly at this time in view of the recent charge of the Central Christian Advocate of the M. E. Church, and of Kansas City, to the contrary. The Central cited the case of Portland, Oregon, in proof of its charge, alleging that we are putting connectional funds there, in the hands of a handful of people, to build a church within a few steps of an M. E. Church. The evidence before our Board was to the effect that there is not an M. E. Church within a mile of the spot on which we are building in Portland. Besides, this Portland church would be a necessity to us somewhere in Portland, even if it seemed to violate the principle of altar against altar, in view of the fact that Portland is the commercial center of a large region of country which we occupy and must continue to occupy.

One of the important actions of the Board was provision for an institutional church in Denver, Colo., all movements subject to the direction of the secretary of the Board of Church Extension, the secretary of the Board of Missions and the Bishops in charge.

Our Church may be assured that Dr. McMurry is moving things in his department.

GET SOLID PROTECTION AND INSURE WITH
LEON IRWIN & CO.
Fire and Casualty Insurance.
[illegible] GRAVIER STREET. PHONE, MAIN [illegible]

W. W. Carre Co., Ltd,
Manufacturers and Exporters of
LUMBER,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Phone Main
ROOMS and BOARD
624 and [illegible] SOUTH STREET LAFAYETTE SQUARE
CORNER ST. CHARLES ST., NEW ORLEANS.
UNLIMITED MEALS. ALVIN PORTER, Manager.

ESTABLISHED 1891
JOHN DAVID BURGHARDT CO.,
"THE RELIABLE" PLUMBERS and GAS FITTERS.
Agency: Born's Patent Steel Ranges. Hygeia Water Filters.
613-615 Bienville St. Phone Main [illegible]
Jobbing and Repair Work a Specialty. New Orleans, La.

Our line of Stoves, Kitchen Furnishings, and General Household Supplies is full of interest to all Good Housekeepers.

Suppose you take a look at it for yourself—
UNITED HARDWARE CO.
LIMITED.

The Home Circle.

PLUCKY TIGER BIRDS.

India's tiger bird, so called because he is the one thing the royal beast fears, is no larger than a sparrow; yet so bold and combative is he that if the great cat is surprised by a sufficient number of the little creatures far from the protecting shelter of the jungle, it will go hard with him. When alone the bird will not attack. Supported by a flock of friends, however, often numbering several thousands, the bird will seek out his hereditary foe and give battle.—South China Post.

JUST LIKE FATHER.

The Daughters of the Parsonage were discussing provincialism. The most of their life had been spent in the wide, free Mid-West, where only is the United States tongue spoken in its full richness. There North and South have blended; there East and West have met and exchanged courtesies and phrases, there the cowboy, with his lingo, had his brief day. By mutual association each section and class has contributed its share to the strength and picturesqueness of the common language, while time and the public school have largely eliminated the most outré peculiarities of East, South and West. It was with this blend of provincialisms that the minister's daughters were familiar.

The minister himself, worn and depressed, lay on a couch, apparently paying no heed to the chatter of his girls. But it had transported him to his boyhood days. Though scarcely past middle life, his early home had been located on the far frontier of central Iowa. The railroad had but just begun to push its slowly advancing single pair of feelers beyond the Mississippi river.

In this memory realm the minister's mind was wandering. The Indians were once more thronging about the house, peering in the windows, ejaculating their friendly "How?" The neighbors were again trooping through the always hospitable doors. Again he listened to the Down-East yankee, the Indianian, the North Carolinian, each speaking in his own language wherein he was born. Then indeed one might have said to his neighbor, "Thy speech betrayeth thee."

One of the girls was saying, as if concluding the whole matter:

"Yes, I think we've heard about every kind of dialect," when unexpectedly their father joined in the conversation with the irrelevant remark:

"I'm powerful doncey to-day."

"Papa!" they exclaimed, "where did you ever hear that? What does 'doncey' mean, anway?"

"I'm all-through-other," he explained. But that was only a still funnier puzzle. Evidently the young people had not heard everything, even in the wandering life of a minster's family in the West of to-day.

"It's a mighty fine day," he went on. "A man could have a mighty fine ride, if he had a mighty fine beast and a mighty fine sleigh." The minister rattled it off as if it had been a formula learned long ago.

The girls laughed merrily, but began to press their advantage. Papa was manifestly seeing visions of the past, and the rare chance of a story of old times was not to be neglected.

"Who said that?"

"A neighbor boy came to our house one stormy day when I was a youngster"—(the story was coming!)—"and sat down with his back to the stove and opened up conversation with that remark, and then added, 'We had a mighty fine beast but it got cut. We reckoned old Mother Berry did it, but we ain't named it to 'er yit.' It struck our funny spot, and we boys used to enjoy getting it off on all sorts of occasions after that."

"But who was Mother Berry?"

"She was blind Uncle Billy Berry's wife."

"And was she so bad?"

"I guess she was something of a termagant."

"Tell us about her, papa."

Then the minister sat up. And this is the story that he told, though it is more about some one else than of Mother Berry:

The Berrys were very poor. Besides Mother Berry and Uncle Billy there were four little Berrys. They lived two miles from our house. Across a creek, up a steep bluff, over a stretch of bleak prairie, and down on the farther side you went to another creek, and there the Berrys lived.

We had some pretty hard winters in those early days in Iowa. But we were young, and didn't mind the cold so much. And there was comfort and plenty in our big log house, and outside, too, for that matter, till toward the close of that terrible winter when we fed the cattle from October till June. But that is another story.

One day a big snow storm came on, and as the sun went down the wind rose. We made the stock comfortable in their long sheds covered with hay, and spent the evening around a red-hot stove. One by one, or two by twos, we children climbed the ladder and snugged down in our warm beds, and listened to the roaring outside. Mother came up and put extra covering over us, and we slept. Then, when the last things were done for the night father and mother too lay down. The clock ticked off the minutes—five, ten, fifteen, half an hour. It struck ten, and father spoke.

"Mother!"

"Yes, father."

"I can't go to sleep."

"What's the matter? Are you cold?"

"No, but I can't help thinking about the Berrys. I'm afraid they're suffering."

"Well, father, I don't see as we can do anything about it. You'd better forget them and go to sleep." And she dozed off once more, and the clock went on ticking.

Fifteen minutes past ten. Again came the call.

"Mother!" There was a note of decision in his voice.

"Well, father?" and it would not be strange if mother's tone showed a trace of impatience.

"Haven't you some bedding that you could spare?"

"Oh, yes; there's bedding enough, but——"

"I wish you'd get up and make up a bundle, and I'll take it over to Uncle Billy's."

"Oh, father! I wish——"

But mother knew it was no use to protest when father had made up his mind. And she too had learned in her pioneer experience how not only to give up material comforts, but, what is of far more value and costs more, to give up her own comfort and to give up her own life.

The bundle was made up, and the blessed father went out into the night and the storm, and the mother sat down by the stove to wait and to feed the fire and to listen.

Now, she heard the stable door slam shut; Now he was springing on old Judy's back; the sound of hoofs came to her ears for a time; then they ceased. He must be crossing the creek by this time. And now he is climbing the hill. She went to the window and strained her eyes if perchance she might see his dark form against the white of the bluff. But the air was filled with blinding snow. Her horizon was bounded by the window pane. The wind smote the house with great blows. No other sound reached her. She went back to the fire and her vigil.

It was half-past eleven now. He must be there by this time. Would he find the house dark and the Berrys snug in bed and sound asleep?

The clock struck twelve, and still the mother waited. Father must face the storm coming home—the icy northwest blast. She wished there was a plainer road. What if he should get lost on the prairie? Mother was inclined to worry.

Another half hour. He should be here by this time. Again she went to the window. The clouds had broken. A gleam of light was struggling through here and there. Even as she looked the wind swept the sky clear, and the full-orbed moon looked down on a white, white world. And there across the creek on the hillsides in plain view, was old Judy, carefully picking her way down the unseen, uncertain path. Of course old Judy wouldn't get lost! Mother might have known that. The man on her back is as white as the waste of snow around him. But now she can make him out, and he sees her form outlined at the window by the light behind her. With the boyish abandon so characteristic of this friend of God, he waves his arms aloft, and gives a shout that rings through the frosty midnight, and sends old Judy to her stall at a break-neck speed.

Mother looked up at him a little severely as he entered the house. Perhaps his jubilant spirits had jarred on her over-tense nerves. His greeting was the one word:

"Well?" with the rising inflection.

"Now, mother," he laughs, "take the broom and sweep me first! How nice and warm you are in here!"

"Wasn't it warm at Mother Berry's? Did you have to get them up out of bed?"

"No; it wasn't very warm there, and I didn't have to wake them up. I found Mother Berry and blind Billy hugging the stove. They had piled everything they had in the house on the children's beds, and were trying to keep themselves warm by the fire. But the house is so open the snow drives right in."

"What did they say to you?"

"Oh, never mind, mother. That isn't what matters. They needed it and God sent us. That's enough. If you're warm let's go to bed."

"What time is it? Can you see, mother?" he said, as his head touched the pillow.

"Just five minutes to one."

Mother heard the clock strike, but father was asleep.

"And that was just like father," the minister said as the story was ended.—The Christian Intelligencer.

Accidents Will Happen

You cannot prevent that—they "come when least expected."

A bottle of

Dr. Tichenor's Antiseptic

kept near at hand is your best safeguard—the cheapest "Accident Insurance" in the world!

It affords immediate and permanent relief from Cuts, Bruises, Burns or Sprains.

Keep a bottle in the house—always.

All Druggists 25 and 50 cents.

Christian Advocate.

REV. JNO. W. BOSWELL, D.D., Editor.
REV. H. WHITEHEAD, Ass't Editor.
CHAS. O. CHALMERS, Publisher.

ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT NEW ORLEANS AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

OFFICE 512 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

TERMS:

One Copy, one year, $2; six months, $1. To Preachers of all Denominations, half-price.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEES:

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE—Rev. W. W. Drake, Rev. N. E. Joyner, Rev. J. M. Henry.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE—Rev. M. L. Burton, Rev. W. H. Lewis, Rev. C. W. Crisler.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE—Rev. W. T. J. Sullivan, D.D., Rev. J. T. Murrah, Rev. W. W. Woollard.

THE BAPTISTS AND METHODISTS.

The Baptists and Methodists are found almost everywhere, and nearly always they are close neighbors. Both are aggressive evangelists, are not ashamed of their doctrines and never tire in preaching them. It gives us great pleasure to report the success of the Baptists, and, if our readers will pardon us, we venture to say that we take quite as much pleasure in reporting the success of the Methodists. We read a few of the best Baptist papers, and never purposely overlook or neglect a good point, such as the following from Dr. Geo. W. Truett in the Baptist Standard in telling the Texas readers of the progress and status of the Atlanta Baptists. He says: "According to the ratio of population Atlanta is one of the first Baptist communities in all the world. * * * Our twenty-eight white churches now have a membership of thirteen thousand." This is "an increase of 102 per cent" in ten years. That is a fine showing indeed.

But what has Methodism done in Atlanta during all these years? How the figures stood ten years ago we do not know. The statistics are not at hand. At present the twenty churches, including four suburban congregations, number 13,115 members. As Dr. Truett says: "Isn't that a superb showing for a city of something like a hundred and fifty thousand people?"

ARE OUR SCHOOLS IN DANGER?

What is called the "Carnegie Foundation" is a sum of many millions of dollars set apart by Mr. Andrew Carnegie for the pensioning of old and faithful teachers. Only teachers of such institutions as meet the conditions prescribed by the founder become beneficiaries. Such institutions are comparatively few. At first teachers in State institutions were barred. But the rule barring them, if we mistake not, has been modified. Denominational schools, exclusively under the control of the Church, are likewise cut off. This looks like discrimination against Christian colleges. And when we consider that Mr. Carnegie is represented as unfavorable to all Churches we are tempted to think that, in excluding their schools from the benefits of his great gift, his purpose was, as far as possible, to break them down. The fact that he barred schools under sectarian control shows he was not laboring under the impression that they were on that account well provided for. The barring was purposely done.

What has been the effect? When the gift was first announced, two years ago, we called attention to the prescribed conditions and pointed out what would possibly be the outcome. What we feared is being realized. Full forty years and more we have believed that a certain college was the property of our Church. We have read of the sacrifices made by our Methodist brethren to sustain it. Often we have heard that at least one life was brought to an untimely close by hard work in its behalf. And since the establishment of two training schools and one great college for women, all under one system, nobody denying they were Methodist schools, we have been proud of their standing and success. As editor and publisher of a Methodist paper, we have given the Woman's College no little amount of free advertising, believing that we were aiding a Methodist institution. But we have had a rude awakening. In trying to place the school on the Carnegie Foundation effort was made to show that it is not entirely under Methodist control nor exclusively property of the Church. If Mr. Carnegie's money had this effect in one place, it will probably have a like effect in another place.

Shall we, as Methodists, surrender our control or property rights in our schools for the sake of getting our teachers on Mr. Carnegie's pension roll? Our teachers are worthy. The majority of them are laborious, self-sacrificing men and women—as a rule, they are poor in this world's goods, and under-paid. We would rejoice were all our schools sufficiently endowed by the Church to retire the faithful toilers on full pay; but we are not willing for the sake of a pension to sacrifice the interest of our Church in these schools, and turn them over to the control of men who deem the Church incompetent to manage large institutions—men who have but little interest in the Church at large, and none at all in particular denominations. Our schools are sacred trusts, and should be kept out of the hands of those who do not love our Methodism.

We suspect no man's religion or loyalty, but we learned long since from an intelligent and successful lawyer that self-interest can cause even a good man to see some things in a strange light. We warn our brethren against the threatened danger. It is real and imminent.

WE WILL HELP THEM.

A sprightly paper called Good Tidings is printed in this city. A copy of the "advance edition" has fallen into our hands. It is edited by Rev. W. W. Horner, pastor of Grace Baptist Church. Of course, it is set for the defense of Baptist principles and practices. In the issue before us the editor acknowledges the weakness of the Baptists, having only five pastors and one thousand white members in a city of 350,000 inhabitants. But he seems not to be discouraged. He tells us that "the Baptist cause is on the upgrade in New Orleans, the pastors report larger congregations, and a revival spirit pervading their churches, and the Sunday schools growing." "And yet," Brother Horner says: "with all these encouraging features, with only five men to preach to this city of 350,000 inhabitants the task of taking it for our Lord is almost but impossible."

This last statement presents a sad condition of affairs indeed. Only five men to preach to a city of more than a quarter of million souls! We have often lamented the lack of righteous men in New Orleans, but we did not know that preachers of righteousness were so few in number. We believe there are more. We can name seven Presbyterian churches, all of which, with possibly one exception, have pastors. Southern Methodists have eleven churches, and fifteen preachers in the city. The Northern Methodists have several. The Protestant Episcopal Church has perhaps a dozen—the exact number we do not know. Besides these there are several other evangelical denominations doing service for our Lord. Brother Horner overlooked all these Churches and their preachers.

The condition is not quite as hopeless as our brother represents. Our own little flock in the city, numbering 2,525, standing for all that is good, but recognizing the magnitude of the task in taking the city for our Lord, is ready to join hands with our Baptist brethren and give all the help they are able. Other good Christians will do the same, as was abundantly shown in the late union meeting.

Brother Horner certainly does not think that none but Baptists are laboring to take New Orleans for Christ. If he does he had about as well go off and sit down under a juniper tree and wish himself dead. He will never accomplish the work. If he could be content to stand in his lot and do his best—save as many souls as possible—he would do well and be happy. But if his ambition is to make Baptists of all the people of New Orleans, he will fail and die in despair.

A full thousand Baptist preachers with Jno. D. Rockefeller's millions at their command could not convert this city, which is so thoroughly given over to the Roman Catholic religion. A few may be saved now and then, but the great mass of the people are going to stay in the mass.

PERSONALS.

Rev. A. I. Townsley will preach the Annual Sermon before the High School at Covington, La., next Sunday. Rev. J. L. Sutton will fill his pulpit morning and evening.

Dr. Gross Alexander, book editor, and editor of our Methodist Review, will preach the Commencement Sermon for the Meridian colleges May 24, at 11 a. m. On the Wednesday following Rev. Jno. H. Smith will deliver the Baccalaureate address.

Rev. Glenn Flynn, agent-secretary for the American Bible Society, Southwestern Agency, is much encouraged in his work and is looking forward to results all over his territory that will prove worth while. He writes thus from Dallas, Texas, his headquarters.

The Mid-year Meeting of the Board of Missions of the Mississippi Conference will be at Centreville, June 17-19, instead of June 15-17, as previously printed in our calendar. Brethren are requested to take notice. This change is authorized by Rev. W. G. Forsyth, the president of the Board.

The Board of Missions has assumed the support of the French Missionary and appropriated $1000 for this purpose. This appropriation will begin to be available with the next session of the Annual Conference. Brother Hebert is doing a great work in connection with his co-laborer.

The University Training school, at Oxford, Miss., under the direction of Rev. L. M. Wyatt, and Prof. G. G. Hurst is closing out a successful term. Brother Wyatt says: "Our prospects are fine for the next session." We are glad to record Brother Wyatt's success in this enterprise.

We acknowledge an invitation to the commencement exercises of the Louisiana Industrial Institute at Ruston, May 22-25. Accompanying the invitation is the card of Miss Willie May Porter, daughter of our Brother W. J. Porter, of the Louisiana Conference. Miss Willie May is one of the graduating class of eighteen.

A brother, whose name we cannot tell because not written plainly, tells us of the death of a good Christian woman and a member of our Church, Mrs. Gertrude Godwin, who died at her home on Black River, La., May 12, from a wound received in the storm of April 24. She was eighty years of age, and faithful to her Lord.

Rev. G. D. Parker preached Sunday last for Second Methodist Church. The pastor, Rev. A. I. Townsley, reports a fine sermon and a real spiritual meeting. Many persons pledged themselves to remember Brother Parker, who will soon return to his work in Brazil, in their prayers.

Dr. Stanford E. Chaille has been connected with the Medical Department of Tulane University for the past fifty years. Through the kindness of the Alumni Association we received a card of invitation to the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary on the evening of Tuesday, May 19. The jubilee exercises were held in the Tulane theatre.

The Montrose Preparatory College has just closed the most prosperous session of its history. Dr. J. M. Weems, of the Mississippi Conference, preached the commencement sermon. Seventeen boys and girls were graduated, among them three preachers. The principal, Rev. C. M. Chapman, is now canvassing south Mississippi in the interest of the school.

Bishop Galloway is one of the few men selected to lecture during the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, now in session in Baltimore. His lecture was delivered on the evening of May 8. The Central Christian Advocate says: "Bishop Galloway greatly stirred the hearts of his 3,000 hearers by his great lecture in Lyric Hall last Friday night."

During a protracted absence of Rev. R. A. Clark, from Okolona, Miss., his pulpit was filled one Sunday by Rev. T. C. Wier, and one Sunday by Rev. A. P. Leech. These brethren, though on the retired list, still delight in preaching. It is gratifying to learn through a letter from Brother Clark that the good people of Okolona were delighted with the sermons of these two faithful men of God.

Rev. L. M. Lipscomb, presiding elder of the Columbus District, writes as follows: "Brother Dorsey has just closed a fine meeting in Westpoint—did all the preaching himself for two weeks, and part of the time preaching three times a day. As the visible results, he received forty persons into the Church, thirty-eight of whom were on profession of faith. He has a strong hold on his people and has a great year before him."

Rev. L. W. Cain, pastor at Ittabena, writes: "Such was the success of our Children's Day service on the 11th inst. that it deserves notice in the ADVOCATE. For over an hour the little fellows held the great crowd of people spellbound. The large church building would not accommodate all who came. Many stood throughout the service. The collection amounted to $52. Our school has a membership about a third larger than the Church membership—including the cradle roll and home department."

Rev. E. C. Sullivan and his good wife are rejoicing in the prospect of moving into a new parsonage, located at Brownfield, Miss. We congratulate them. Brother Sullivan says: "Our new parsonage at Brownfield, Miss., is nearing completion. It is going to be real pretty. The people of Jonesboro Circuit are to be congratulated. Brother W. H. Brown, chairman of the building committee, deserves praise. He never lost a day from working on the parsonage from the time it was started until May 12, when the carpenters quit."

The death of Dr. J. E. Armstrong removes one of the remarkable men of our Church. He had been a preacher for more than fifty-five years, in the active ministry fifty-three years, and for more than fifty years the secretary of the Baltimore Conference. He was in his usual health at the recent session of his Conference, served as secretary, was taken with pneumonia on the last day of the Conference and died after less than a week of illness. Surrounded by his loving wife and children he passed to his heavenly home. "Servant of God, well done!"

The following assignment of deaconesses and missionaries for New Orleans was made by the Woman's Home Mission Board at its annual meeting recently held in Louisville: New Orleans, La.—Pastor's assistant Rayne Memorial, Miss Mary Frankland, deaconess; pastor's assistant First Church, Miss Lee Crittenden, deaconess; City Board, Mrs. L. Meekin, missionary; immigrant and city work, Miss Margaret Ragland, deaconess; Miss [illegible] Duncan, deaconess and nurse. Miss Ethel [illegible], who served in the city so efficiently last year, was transferred to the Institutional Church, Kansas City.

The following complimentary paragraph is clipped from the Jackson (Miss.) Daily News of May 11: "Prof. M. W. Swartz, professor of Latin and Greek in Millsaps College, has just been notified that he has been elected vice-president for Mississippi of the Classical Association of the Middle West and South at the meeting of the association which was recently held in Nashville. This is quite an honor for Millsaps College and for Prof. Swartz, for it elevates Millsaps College to the forefront of classical instruction in the State and it makes Prof. Swartz the official head of the classical work in Mississippi. Mississippi educators deeply appreciate the honor conferred on Prof. Swartz, and all will join in declaring that it could not have been more worthily conferred."

HELP FOR NEW ORLEANS.

At the annual meeting of the Church Extension Board they made an appropriation of $7500 for First Church, in this city. This will be a very material help towards lifting the heavy debt on this church. There is a wonderful field of usefulness opened for a typical down-town church, but until their debt is all paid it will always hold them back from large undertakings.

The Church Extension Board continued the same appropriation for Parker Memorial. We understand this is a donation of $2000, and a loan of $2500. Our informant was not sure as to which was the loan and which was the donation. This church has one corner of the building, for which they have planned, erected, and they are holding all services in this piece of a church. Standing in front of the present structure, it is very attractive, but when you go around to the side, where you can view the temporary part of the work, it looks like a slice cut off from a gigantic cheese. In this inconvenient and incomplete structure a great and heroic work is being done. The Sunday school has to be held in two sections, one section meeting at nine a. m., and the other section meeting at 10. There is no more worthy object for investment of money for the glory of God and the advancement of his kingdom. The congregation are straining themselves to the uttermost. Have we no Methodists, who, with a large vision of what needs to be done, and what can be done, will come to the rescue with gifts that will measure up to the amounts that the Church Extension Board will give when the church can meet the conditions?

The Foreign Mission Board and the Church Extension Board, as well as the College of Bishops, seemed to feel that the time had come when the Church must take hold of this field in earnest. They were all opposed to half-way measures, and the dispensing of little sums in little dribs here and there. So a commission, consisting of Rev. W. R. Lambuth, secretary of the Board of Missions; Rev. Jno. R. Nelson, D.D., Domestic Mission secretary; Rev. W. F. McMurry, D.D., Church Extension secretary; Bishop Ward and others, were appointed to visit the city and map out the work to be done, and to plan for the help that should be given. Now is certainly the time for the laymen of this city to meet them more than half-way. Really, this movement is a response to action of the preachers and laymen of this city, but the indications are that the Church at large may do more than was at first asked, and if so it will call for larger plans on the part of the laymen here.

W.

Where the finest biscuit, cake, hot-breads, crusts or puddings are required
Royal is indispensable.

ROYAL
Baking Powder
Absolutely Pure

Not only for rich or fine food or for special times or service. Royal is equally valuable in the preparation of plain, substantial, every-day foods, for all occasions. It makes the food more tasty, nutritious and wholesome.

AN APPEAL.

As the cyclone that swept Amite, La., destroyed, not only many of the homes of our people, but their Church as well, and in their destitution they are not able to rebuild their Church; and further, as both the General and Conference Boards of Church Extension are without money, hence unable to help, and the need is great and urgent, we make an earnest appeal to our members and friends throughout the State to help these stricken people by special personal contribution, and as quickly as possible send all contributions to W. G. Wadley, treasurer, Shreveport,

J. D. HARPER.
P. O. LOWRY.
W. G. WADLEY.

Executive Board, in Behalf of Louisiana Conference Board of Church Extension.

THE ORPHANS' HOME.

The annual meeting of the board of directors of the Methodist Orphans' Home was held at the home in Jackson, Miss., May 12, 1908, the following members being present, viz: J. H. Sherrard, president; J. B. Streater, secretary; M. L. Burton, treasurer; R. W. Millsaps, S. J. Taylor, J. M. Wyatt, D. W. Babb, J. R. Countiss, H. M. Ellis and Thos. H. Dorsey. The mangement was commended by the board, and W. M. Williams was re-elected as manager for the ensuing year. In accordance with a by-law adopted by the board, the president and first vice-president of the Woman's Home Mission Society of each of the Mississippi Conferences will hereafter be members of the board of directors. The board commended the manager's plan of monthly collections.

There are in the Home at present one hundred and twenty-nine children, one hundred and two of whom have been in the school during the past term. Four girls are in college; three at Port Gibson, and one at Brookhaven, whose entire expenses, $5 per month, are paid by individuals.

We have great cause to be thankful for the success of this institution.

J. B. STREATER, Secretary.

A layman in Virginia, who declines to make such concessions as will take from the Church the control of our institutions of learning, and transfer it to an irresponsible and self-perpetuating body of trustees, for the sake of making them beneficiaries of Mr. Carnegie's money, says he "prefers death to disgrace." Why should we commit our boys and girls to the training of teachers thus tempted by money?

Obituaries.

Obituaries not over two hundred words in length will be [illegible] free of charge. [illegible]

WALLACE E. FERGUSON—Died [illegible] in the thirty-[illegible] near Hebronville, Miss., on March 11, 1908, in full assurance of hope, WALLACE E. FERGUSON, aged 17 years and 11 days. Thus has passed from our midst a young life full of earthly hope and promise, one who had dedicated his life in early childhood to the service of God and the Church, one who always with three brothers and three sisters accompanied their parents to church and Sunday School—a thing so rare in these days. A beautiful sight—father and mother, sisters and brothers as regular, and as much expected at church and Sunday School as the pastor and superintendent. But alas! alas! one is missing. Our Wallace is no more to be seen in the Bible class, nor to be heard in the prayer-meeting, to say nothing of the vacant chair at home, but thank the good Lord we mourn not as those who have no hope. Truly, "Death loves a shining mark," and why not? since we may believe that our own dear Wallace is a light in the window of heaven to guide us on our way home. Then let us weep no more for him, but look forward and rejoice in hope of the Great Reunion not long in the future. P. HONARD.

SELLARS.—On the afternoon of May 5, 1908, the angels came down to the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Sellars and carried home the cherub spirit of their baby child, little THELMA ADINE, and left that happy home in shadows and sadness. Little Thelma was born July 17, 1906, and though her stay in this world was brief, yet she had made a warm place for herself in the hearts of all who knew her, and was the idol of her parents' hearts, for she was a gentle and affectionate and lovely child and bright for her years. Her brief stay on earth was not like the residence of a mortal here but was like an angel's visit to that bereaved and afflicted home. What aggravates the sadness of her early death was the manner of her summons. She was accidentally burned on May 4th so badly that very little hope was entertained from the start for her recovery, but though her suffering was great, she tried to console her parents, assuring them that it was not so bad as they thought. Short, indeed, was her stay in this world of struggle, but fragrant was that sweet young life with the aroma of heaven where she belonged, and is now returned to be with her Master, and with the angels, among whom are several brothers and sisters, who doubtless were at the pearly gates to welcome her into the fair city, and to her eternal home. We laid her body to rest in Cottonwood Cemetery, surrounded by a numerous concourse of friends and sympathizers, weeping because she was taken from us, yet rejoicing and thankful that she is happy and safe, and that she will be found among the angels when we are called home. May the Spirit of God comfort the bereaved hearts of father and mother and sisters and brothers and friends. J. W. LEE.

Mrs. S. E. STAGG died April 11, 19[illegible]. She was born [illegible]. She married Mr. [illegible] in 18[illegible], and was soon left a widow. She married Dr. W. E. Stagg in 18[illegible]. She was the mother of five children, three of whom survive her. Dr. Stagg died about fifteen years ago. Sister Stagg was reared in affluence, but learned in the 60's that life required Christian character to meet its vicissitudes. After an acquaintance of forty-two years I can bear witness to the genuineness of her profession. Possessed of a soft voice, her visits to the sick or sorrowing were always cheering and soothing. Her delicate attentions were inspiring. To know her was to love her.

Mrs. INDIA STEWART (nee Stewart) was born in Oakland Plantation, Pine Ridge, near Natchez, Miss., Dec. 26, 18[illegible]. She was married to John Stewart August 1, 18[illegible], and moved to Waterproof, La. Her husband fell a prey to swamp-fever in 18[illegible], leaving her to bear the burdens of life alone. She moved with her son to Pueblo, Colo., in 18[illegible]. The second great stroke that came to her was the loss of her only son, Capt. John Stewart, who was killed in battle at the head of his company near Manila, Philippine Islands, March 27, 1899. Following hard upon this great sorrow was the death of her daughter, Isabella, one among the brightest minds and leading teachers of the South. Mother Stewart joined the M. E. Church, South, at Waterproof, in 18[illegible], and ever retained her relationship. She was a great sufferer all the latter years of her life, and fell a victim to pneumonia on the morning of April 17, 1908. Under all her afflictions and sorrows she never complained. She was conscious until the last, and as she neared the river's brink she exclaimed, "O what peace—what perfect peace." She leaves three married daughters, wife of A. L. Slack, of Tallulah, La.; P. C. Mitchell, of Tallulah, Miss.; and C. F. Staples, of the Louisiana Conference, who, with Jessie and India, two single daughters, mourn their loss. All her children, with the writer, were present at her funeral. Brother R. C. George, of the Colorado Conference, conducted the burial services. We laid her to rest beside her precious loved ones in Roselawn Cemetery, Pueblo. Some of us turn away and leave her to rest in that faraway land; we feel to bless God for the resurrection morning, and look forward with glad anticipation to the time when we will meet to part no more. C. F. STAPLES.

The man who rode on the first railroad in New York, the Mohawk and Hudson River, has told the story of his boyhood experiences, and it will be published, with interesting illustrations, in an early issue of "St. Nicholas." A specially timely hot weather feature of the magazine will be a story of Hawaiian water fun, entitled "A Boy's Paradise in the Pacific."

CHURCH DIRECTORY.

New Orleans District, Rev. F. N. Parker, D.D., presiding elder; residence 1[illegible] Olivier St.

Rev. John T. Sawyer, D.D., Conference Missionary Evangelist; residence 1421 Chestnut St.; phone Uptown [illegible].

First Methodist Church, St. Charles Avenue and Calliope St.; Rev. J. E. Wray, pastor; residence [illegible] Prytania St.; phone Uptown [illegible]; office hours at Church, 3 to 5 p. m.; Church phone, Main 1779.

Second Methodist Church, [illegible] Burgundy, near Lafayette Ave.; Rev. A. J. Townsley, pastor; residence [illegible] N. Rampart St.; office hours, 9 to 11 a. m.; phone, Main 971.

Parker Memorial, corner Nashville avenue and Perrier street; Rev. C. D. Atkinson, pastor; residence 734 Nashville avenue.

Louisiana Avenue, corner Louisiana Ave. and Magazine St.; Rev. W. W. Holmes, pastor; residence 2840 Camp St.; phone Uptown 1391.

Rayne Memorial, St. Charles Avenue and General Taylor Streets; Dr. John A. Rice, pastor; residence [illegible] Peniston Street.

Felicity Street Church, corner Felicity and Chestnut Streets; Rev. Albert S. Lutz, pastor; residence [illegible] Chestnut Street.

Carrollton Avenue, corner Carrollton avenue and Elm street; Rev. Henry T. Carley, pastor; residence [illegible] Fern St.; phone Uptown [illegible].

Algiers, Lavergne Street, corner Delaronde; Rev. J. P. Foster, pastor.

McDonoghville and Gretna, Rev. H. Whitehead, pastor; residence [illegible] Magazine Street; phone Uptown 2459.

Epworth Church, corner Banks and Scott Streets; Rev. L. A. Sims, pastor; residence 222 South Pierce Street.

Rev. Jno. L. Sutton, Superintendent Orphan Boys' Asylum; residence [illegible] St. Charles Ave.; phone Uptown [illegible].

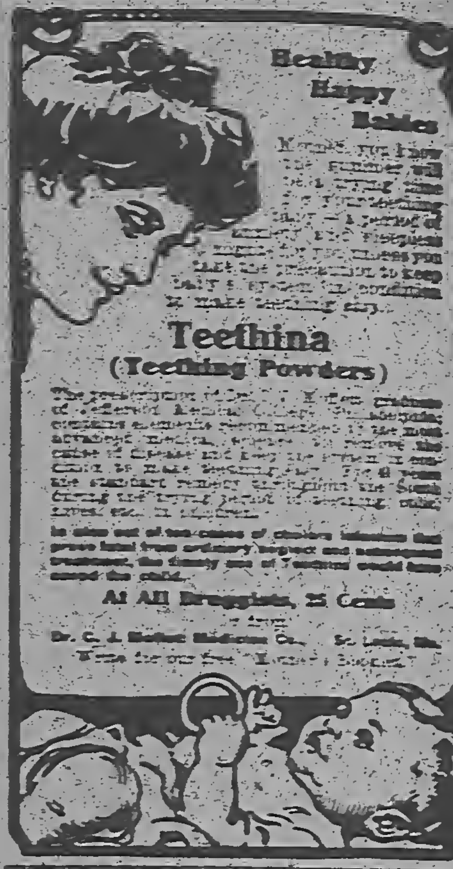
Rev. L. E. Wicht, junior preacher Lower Coast Mission; address [illegible] Board of Trade Bldg., New Orleans.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. [illegible] Address F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio. Sold by Druggists, [illegible]. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

FITS St. Vitus' Dance and Nervous Diseases permanently cured by Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. Send for FREE $2.00 trial bottle and treatise. Dr. R. H. Kline, Ltd., 931 Arch St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Professor Stevens, of Annapolis, has written "The Story of the Submarines" for an early number of St. Nicholas, to be followed in the next issue by A. W. Rolker's account of "The Undersea Sailor and His Boat"—both articles to have a number of pictures.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used for over Sixty-Five Years by millions of mothers for their children while teething, with perfect success. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for Diarrhoea. Sold by Druggists in every part of the world. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Guaranteed under the Food and Drugs Act, June 30th, 1906. Serial Number 1098. An Old and Well Tried Remedy.



Healthy Happy Babies

Mothers, you know the summer will be a trying time for your teething baby—a period of anxiety and sleepless nights for you, unless you take the precaution to keep baby's system in condition to make teething easy.

Teethina
(Teething Powders)

The prescription of Dr. C. J. Moffett, graduate of Jefferson Medical College, [illegible] the standard remedy throughout the South during the trying period of teething. [illegible]

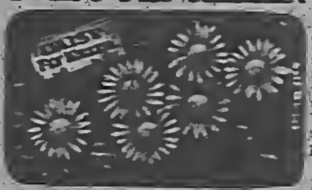
In nine out of ten cases of cholera infantum that prove fatal from ordinary neglect and unskilled treatment, the timely use of Teethina would have saved the child.

At All Druggists, 25 Cents

Dr. C. J. Moffett Medicine Co., St. Louis, Mo.
Write for our free "Mother's Booklet."

HIS CHANCE IS GONE
YOUR CHANCE IS HERE

The question is, are you qualified to hold a responsible position? Have you had a thorough commercial training? Bankers, Merchants and Manufacturers want you if you are competent. Now is Your Chance. Two roads are open to young people. One [illegible] to failure. The other requires training and leads to success. We prepare young men and women [illegible]. Fine climate, board cheap. Write for illustrated catalog and further information.
HATTIESBURG BUSINESS COLLEGE, HATTIESBURG, MISS.



DAISY FLY KILLER placed anywhere, attracts and kills all flies. Neat, clean, ornamental, convenient, cheap. Lasts all season. [illegible] Of all dealers or sent prepaid for 20c.
HAROLD SOMERS
149 DeKalb Ave.,
Brooklyn, N.Y.

BELLS.
Steel Alloy Church and School Bells. Send for Catalogue. The C. S. BELL CO., Hillsboro, O.

"SKYLAND INN."
4400 feet above sea level.
Blowing Rock, N. C.

OPENS June 15th, 1908. Highest location at Blowing Rock; roomy halls, broad verandas, magnificent scenery. Address E. R. Stewart, Prop., Newton, N. C., until June 15th. Rates: From $7.00 to $12.00 a week.

MOXINE CHILL TONIC
Only Tonic—one bottle, one cure.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL
The Double Track Route.

26 Hours to Chicago
21 Hours to St. Louis
22 Hours to Louisville
26 Hours to Cincinnati

Through Sleeping Cars to above points. Dining Cars. Library Cars. Chair Cars and Coaches.
Full Particulars at
City Ticket Office.
141 ST. CHARLES STREET.
Phone Main 3815.

REVIVAL ON WAYNESBORO CIRCUIT.

We have just closed a very successful meeting at Clara, Miss. The meeting began on April 27, and closed May 4. The Lord was with us from the very first service. Several were at the altar the first service. Some of them got through. There was not a single service but what some one was blessed—either pardoned, reclaimed or sanctified. The meeting resulted in about thirty-five confessions, seventeen accessions to the Church (this was a union meeting) and six children baptized. Rev. J. E. Sampley, of Meridian, was with us in this meeting. Yours for Christ and souls,

H. J. MADDOX, P. C.

RANDOLPH, MISS.

Dear Advocate: Last Sunday was a great day for us at Randolph Church. We had an all-day meeting of representatives from each church on our charge. The purpose of the meeting was to discuss and to pray over the question of whether we are doing all we can for our beloved cause.

There were speeches and essays from twenty or more of our most devoted members, and they were just fine. It was a great uplift to the church and town. This was the second meeting of the kind for us this year; the first, which was held at Hunter Chapel in February, was merely to organize and get together, but it almost resulted in a revival.

Our charge (Randolph Mission) is a needy field, but our good people are co-operating with us and praying, studying and planning for a good year. We feel sure of good results.

This is my first year in the itinerancy, and I certainly enjoy the work. Our people have been so good to us thus far, and we love them and have every cause to believe that they love and appreciate us. We are very thankful for the many nice and good things that have been brought to the parsonage for us. Our Sunday schools are doing good work. We have some good, lively prayer-meetings and singings.

We are delighted with our presiding elder, Brother J. E. Cunningham; our people just love him; he has been very kind and helpful to us.

Will send in a good list of subscribers to the Advocate soon.

Our next great all-day rally will be with Sarepta Church, on the third Sunday in June. Will every reader of these lines pray that we have a good and profitable time, that God may be glorified and our people built up, sinners saved and Randolph Mission known far and wide for her good works? Your brother in Christ,

DAVID H. CROWSON.

MOXINE
Cures LAGRIPPE and Colds.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE

CORINTH DISTRICT—SECOND R'N'D.

Marietta Ct., at Blythes C.	May 9, 10
Myrtle Ct., Ebenezer	May 16, 17
Blue Spgs., at Liberty	May 23, 24
New Albany Ct., at Wells C.	May 30, 31
New Albany Sta., at New Albany	May 31, June 1
Booneville Ct., at Blackland	June 6, 7
Jonesboro Ct., at Brownfield	June 13, 14
Rainey, and Faulkner Ct., at Marvin	June 20, 21
Ripley and New Hope, at Wier's	June 27, 28

District Conference will be held at Baldwyn, Miss., July 14, 15, 16.

BEN P. JACO, P. E.

COLUMBUS DIST.—SECOND ROUND

Macon	May 16, 17
Mayhew, at Mayhew	May 9, 10
Mathiston	May 1, 3
Crawford, at New Bethel	May 23, 24
Sturges, at Bethel	May 30, 31
Brooksville	June 6, 7
Hebron	June 13, 14
Cedar Bluff	June 20, 21

District Conference will be held at Mathiston July 1, 2, 3.

L. M. LIPSCOMB, P. E.

OXFORD DISTRICT—SECOND RND.

Paris Ct., at Bruner's	May 9, 10
Water Valley Ct., at Pleasant R.	May 15,
Coffeeville Ct., at Goshen	May 16, 17
Waterford Ct., at Harris C.	May 30, 31

The District Conference will meet in Holly Springs May 19, 20, 21.

J. E. CUNNINGHAM, P. E.

GREENVILLE DIST—SECOND RND.

Cleveland Sta.	May 10, 11
Cleveland Ct.	May 11, 12
Rosedale	May 14,
Gunnison, at Hillhouse	May 16, 17
Friar's Point	May 17, 18
Greenville	May 23, 24
Jonestown, at Belen	May 30, 31
Robinsonville	June 1,
Shaw	June 7, 8
Glen Allan and South Greenville	June 10,

The District Conference will be held at Cleveland May 27-29.

R. A. MEEK, P. E.

ABERDEEN DIST. — SECOND RND.

Houlka, at Asbury	May 9, 10
Palestine, at Ebenezer	May 14,
Pontotoc, at Chesterville	May 23, 24
Pontotoc, at Chesterpille	May 23, 24
Nettleton Ct., at Union	May 30, 31
Okolona Ct. at B. Chapel	June 6, 7
Aberdeen	June 9,
Fulton	June 12,
Smithville	June 13, 14

J. H. MITCHELL, P. E.

SARDIS DIST.—SECOND ROUND.

Pleasant Hill, at Baker's C.	May 9, 10
Wall Hill, at Grubb Hill	May 12,
Hernando and Hinds, at H.	May 16, 17
Coldwater	May 18,
Harrison, at Bethel	May 21,
Courtland, at Wesley's C.	May 23, 24
Batesville	May 31,
Eureka	June 4,
Tyro, at Tyro	June 6, 7
Arkabutla	June 13, 14
Longtown, at Longtown	June 16,
Crenshaw	June 17,

W. M. YOUNG, P. E.

WINONA DIST. — SECOND ROUND.

Inverness, at Lawrence D.	May 9, 10
Ruleville, at Sandy Bayou	May 16, 17
Winona Ct., at Bluff Springs	May 20,
Minter City, at Glendora	May 23, 24
Mar's Hill, at Bethesda	May 30, 31
North Carrollton, at Poplar Springs	June 6, 7
Tom Nolen, at Lebanon	June 9,
Slate Spgs., at Spring Hill	June 10,
Vance, at Marks	June 13, 14

The District Conference will be held in Eupora May 26-28. Opening sermon May 26, 7:30 p.m., by Rev. John Ritchie.

E. S. LEWIS, P. E.

DURANT DIST. — SECOND ROUND.

Ebenezer Circuit	May 9, 10
Vaiden, at Kilmichael	May 16, 17
Black Hawk	May 23, 24
Kosciusko Circuit	May 28,
Sidon, at Tchula	May 30, 31

S. M. THAMES, P. E.

Mississippi Conference.

MERIDIAN DIST.—SECOND ROUND.

Eucutta, at New Hope	May 2, 3
DeKalb, at New Hope, at 11 a.m.	May 6,
North Kemper, at Mellen, 11 a.m.	May 7,
Matherville, at Hiwanee	May 9, 10
Seventh Avenue, 7:45 p.m.	May 13,
Enterprise, at Stonewall	May 16, 17
Pachuta, at De Soto, 11 a.m.	May 22,
Waynesboro Ct., at Big R.	May 23, 24
South Side, 8 p.m.	May 26,
Vimville, 11 a.m.	May 27,
Middleton, at State Line	May 30, 31

VICKSBURG DIST.—SECOND ROUND

Oak Ridge, at Redwood	May 9, 10
Port Gibson, at P. G.	May 13,
Rocky Springs, at Cayuga	May 23, 24
Edwards, at E.	June 1,
Anguilla, at Grace	June 4, 5
Rolling Fork, at Cary	June 6, 7
Vicksburg, C. Street	June 13, 14
Bolton, at Raymond	June 20, 21
Mayersville, at Shiloh	June 27, 28

District Conference will be held at Edwards May 27-30.

G. H. GALLOWAY, P. E.

NATCHEZ DIST.—SECOND ROUND

Percy's Creek, at P. C.	May 16,
Woodville	May 17, 18
Bayou Pierre, at Tabernacle	May 23, 24
Natchez, Pearl Street	May 30, 31
Natchez, Jefferson St.	May 31, June 1
Washington, at Kingston	June 6, 7
Barlow, at Lebanon	June 13,
Fayette, at Ebenezer	June 14, 15
Wilkinson, at Mars Hill	June 20, 21
Meadville, at Nebo	June 27, 28

The District Conference will be held at Woodville May 13-16.

J. T. LEGGETT, P. E.

SEASHORE DIST.—SECOND ROUND.

Gulfport, Twenty-fifth Ave.	May 6,
Gulfport, Twenty-ninth	May 7.
Howison and Saucier	May 9, 10
Carriere, at Nicholson	May 14,
Lumberton	May 15,
Hattiesburg, Broad St.	May 16, 17
McHenry and Wiggins, at McHenry	May 23, 24
Mentorum, at Zion	May 25,
Ocean Springs and Oak St., at Oak Street	May 30, 31
Coalville	June 1,
Wolf River	June 3,
Hattiesburg, Court Street	June 6, 7
Hattiesburg, Main Street	June 7, 8

District Conference at McHenry, May 19-23. Opening sermon at 7:30 p.m. by Rev. J. W. Thompson. Sermon evening of 20th by Rev. D. P. Bradford followed by administration of the Lord's supper.

M. L. BURTON, P. E.

JACKSON DIST.—SECOND ROUND.

Flora, at Bentonia	May 9, 10
Pinola, at Harrisville	May 20,
Terry, at Spring Ridge	May 23, 24
Jackson, Capitol St.	May 27,
Benton, at Tranquil	May 30, 31
Eden, at Phillips	June 2,
Canton	June 6, 7
Lintonia, at Anding	June 13, 14
Mount Olive	June 20, 21

A. F. WATKINS, P. E.

NEWTON DIST.—SECOND ROUND.

Vossberg, at Philadelphia	May 9,
Laurel	May 10, 11
Fifth Avenue	May 10, 11
Rose Hill, at Garlandsville	May 16,
Morton, at P.	May 17, 18
Harpersville, at Contrell	May 23, 24
Trenton, at Trenton	May 30,
Raleigh, at Raleigh	May 31, 32
Hebron, at Hebron	June 6, 7
Ellisville, at Ellisville	June 9,
Decatur, at Neshoba	June 12,
Philadelphia, at Hester's	June 13, 14
Indian Miss., at Philips	June 19,
Edinberg, at Edinberg	June 20, 21
Neshoba, at Mt. Pisgah	June 27, 28
Walnut Grove, at Zion	July 3,
Carthage, at ————	July 4, 5

JAS. M. WEEMS, P. E.

BROOKHAVEN DIST.—SECOND RND.

District Conference at Tylertown	May 6, 10
Tylertown, at China Gr.	May 11,
Monticello, at Sontag	May 16, 17
Beauregard, at N. Wesson	May 17, 18
Wesson	May 23, 24
Summit, at Osyka	May 24, 25
Adams, at Adams	May 30, 31
Pearl River, at W. Chapel	June 3,
Topisaw, at Holmesville	June 6, 7

GEO. H. THOMPSON, P. E.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

NEW ORLEANS DIST.—SECOND RND

First Church	May 17,
Rayne	a.m. May 24,
Carrollton	p.m. May 24,
Covington	June 6, 7
Second Church	June 14,

F. N. PARKER, P. E.

ALEXANDRIA DIST—SECOND RND.

Chicot, at Ward's Chapel	May 16, 17
Opelousas, at Opelousas	May 18,
Alexandria, at First Church	May 23, 24
Alexandria, West End	May 24, 25
Simmsport, at Woodside	May 30, 31
Dry Creek, at Hopewell	June 5,
Glenmora, at Forest Hill	June 6, 7
Natchitoches	June 11,

The District Conference will convene in Natchitoches June 12-14.

N. E. JOYNER, P. E.

Alexandria, La.

SHREVEPORT DIST.—SECOND RND.

Zwolle, at Noble	May 16, 17
Mansfield	May 17, 18
Many	May 23, 24
Ida, at Ida	May 30, 31
Shreveport, Texas Ave.	June 1, 2
Shreveport, First Church	June 3,
Shreveport, Noel Memorial	June 4,
Pleasant Hill	June 6, 7
Greenwood	June 8, 9
Hornbeck	June 13, 14
Leesville	June 14, 15
Bon Ami	June 20, 21
De Ridder	June 21, 22
Mooringsport	June 24, 25
Provencal	June 27, 28

T. J. WARLICK, P. E.

BATON ROUGE DIST.—SECOND RND.

St Francisvill, at Star Hill	16, 17
Pinegrove, at Montpelier	May 23, 24
Liveoak, at Alford's	May 30, 31
East Feliciana, at Clear Cr.	June 6, 7
Melville, at Cottonwood	June 13, 14
Newroads	June 21, 22
Baton Rouge, First Church	June 28, 29
Baton Rouge, Second Ch.	June 28, 29

R. W. TUCKER, P. E.

ARCADIA DIST.—SECOND RND.

Lisbon, at Harmony	May 16, 17
Ruston	May 18,
Minden	May 19,
Ringgold, at Andrew's	May 20,
Lanesville, at Pine Grove	May 23, 24
C. Valley, at C. Valley	May 26,
Winnfield	May 31, June 1

District Conference will be about the last week in July. Preachers, please take notice and make no conflicting appointments.

BRISCOE CARTER, P. E.

MONROE DIST.—SECOND ROUND.

Eros, at Indian Village	May 16, 17
Merrouge, at M.	May 23, 24
Mangham, at Little Creek	May 30, 31
Harrisonburg, at Jonesville	June 6, 7
Florence, at Holly Grove	June 13, 14
Downsville, at Douglas	June 17,
Waterproof, at St. Joseph	June 20, 21
Floyd, at Midway	June 27, 28

J. E. DENSON, P. E.

MOXINE CHILL TONIC
Only Tonic—one bottle—one cure.

The Brookfield Summer School of Music.
The unprecedented success and growth of this school is the strongest argument for its usefulness. The 1908 session will open Wednesday, July 1st, and close Tuesday, August 25th. The daily Class Instruction is divided between Theory, Choral Instruction, Normal Sessions, Recitals, Musicales, Lectures, and Concerts. Room and board for the eight weeks are furnished at the school. Private lessons, optional as to frequency, can be had in all departments. For Prospectus, address,
H. W. GREENE, No. 864 Carnegie Hall, NEW YORK CITY.

W. H. BYRNES, Pres. JOHN T. GIBBONS, Vice-Pres. P. E. BURKE, Sec'y.
Capital.....$200,000.00
Assets.....479,860.90
HIBERNIA INSURNCE CO.,
No. 305 Camp Street,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
LOSSES PROMPTLY PAID.

Pine-Brook Dairy Co., Ltd.
ALL OUR COWS TUBERCULINE TESTED.
Milk and Cream Delivered Morning and Evening.
COR ST. CHARLES & WASHINGTON AVES. Phone 1514 Uptown.

THE AMERICAN PAINT WORKS,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.,
MANUFACTURES EVERYTHING IN PAINTS,
—Guaranteed Strictly Pure—
The Climatic Prepared Paints, Perfecto White and
SOLD SUBJECT TO A CHEMICAL ANALYSIS.
DIRECTORS:
Thos. S. Witherspoon, President. Francis Martin, Vice President.
R. B. Parker. John McCloskey, Geo. A. Hero.
PHONE, MAIN 915. Special Attention to Mail Orders.

GRATEFUL THANKS

"I write you a letter of grateful thanks," says Mrs. Fannie Rogers, of Pages Mills, S. C., "for the good that Cardui has done me. One day, I was taken all of a sudden and truly thought Death had struck me. My head felt like it was frozen and my limbs felt like they were burning up. I kept getting worse and the doctor only gave me temporary relief. I had chills and fever, bad appetite, bad feelings, bad dreams, was irregular, and suffered from other female troubles. At last I began to take Cardui and almost found relief in the first dose. I continued to take it and can truthfully testify that it is worth its weight in gold to any suffering woman. Now I am regular, can eat, sleep, and work every day, and feel good. Oh! What a God-send your medicine was to me!"

Try Cardui. Your druggist sells it. It is a gentle, curative remedy, for women's ills. Cardui cannot do you any harm, and is nearly sure to do great good. Get a bottle today.

DR. MILES' ANTI-PAIN PILLS FOR HEADACHE And Other Pains

25 Doses 25 Cents.
125 Doses $1
NEVER SOLD IN BULK TAKE ONE

of These Little Tablets AND THE PAIN IS GONE.

HEISKELL'S OINTMENT

is the one infallible remedy for all skin diseases. Relief is instant. The cure, quick and permanent. It quickly cures the worst case of

ECZEMA

Use Heiskell's Medicated Soap for bathing the affected parts. Heiskell's Blood and Liver Pills tone up the liver, purify the blood. Ointment, 50c a box; Soap, 25c; Pills, 25c. Sold by all druggists, or sent by mail. Johnston, Holloway & Co., 531 Commerce Street, Phila.

Drives 'Em Out Of House To Die

Get a box of Stearns' Electric RAT and ROACH Paste

If you are troubled with rats or mice. It is sure death, driving them out of the house to die. Easy to use and gives quick and sure results. Sold for 30 years, and never yet failed to kill off rats and mice. Also cockroaches, water-bugs and other vermin. 2 oz. box, 25c; 16 oz. box, $1.00. Sold at druggists and general stores everywhere, or sent direct prepaid on receipt of price.
STEARNS' ELECTRIC PASTE CO. Buffalo, N.Y., U.S.A.

BROOKHAVEN DISTRICT CONFERENCE.

The Brookhaven District Conference met in Tylertown, Miss., May [illegible]. We have not yet received a full report of the proceedings, but the two following reports were of such general interest that they were forwarded for immediate publication.

Financial Report.

To the Brookhaven District Conference Assembled: After having gone over the financial reports made by the several pastors, I am forced to the conclusion that, generally speaking, the stewards are moving along in the "old fashioned" manner, leaving a great portion of the collections until the latter part of the year. The pastors have all spoken hopefully and express the utmost faith in their people. I suggest that all boards of stewards make it a point to meet at least once a month prayerfully, and oftener if necessary, organize and systematize your financial affairs just as you would your other personal business or that entrusted to you by others. One thing that I wish to especially impress upon you: do all you can to make the payment of all claims universal, that is, give everybody an opportunity to pay; they will appreciate the privilege and it will do them good. I advise weekly or monthly assessments and collections, and further recommend that all persons who are able to do so pay their full year's assessment in January. I also wish to recommend that church stewards take upon themselves all collections, thereby relieving the pastor of this duty, thus removing an opportunity for conflict.

Respectfully submitted,
Z. Z. LINTON,
Committee of One.

Resolution.

That whereas the District Conference occasion is a meeting set apart by the M. E. Church, South—as we know as a matter of fact, and have learned from experience—as a season of spiritual refreshing and enduement of power from on high, and deeply lamenting the indisposition on the part of our laymen to attend the said Conferences, thereby depriving themselves of much Spiritual benefit and equipment for work. We tenderly and earnestly urge that our laymen attend and remain throughout the entire session of each Conference.

Z. Z. LINTON.
A. B. CONNALLY.
Tylertown, Miss., May 8, 1908.

MOXINE CHILL TONIC
Only Tonic—one bottle, one cure.

SOME FACTS.

North Mississippi young people are a host and they mean "business for God."

The "grand" organ man has had his day. We must have trained, active, virile leaders for our young people.

* * *

Our purpose is to make the League Conference a permanent inspiration of the body and a generator of enthusiasm.

* * *

Delegates—All pastors, all Senior League presidents, all Intermediate, Junior and Boys' League superintendents, and two elected from each Senior League, one elected from each other League. Let each League elect delegates at once and send names to Mr. J. B. Small, Winona, Miss.

* * *

The Conference Board needs your pro rata assessment. Have you paid it? Send to J. H. Holder, treasurer, Booneville, Miss.

* * *

The League is a league of no other [illegible] of the Church—but a [illegible] of it.

* * *

The League is a training school in Christian work.

* * *

The League teaches spirituality, [illegible] loyalty, earnestness, fraternity, devotion, and [illegible]. Our motto: All for Christ.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI LEAGUE CONFERENCE.

Winona, Miss., July 7-9.

TUESDAY EVENING, JULY 7.

8:00—Devotional Exercises, Rev. G. L. Savage, Iuka.

8:15—Message from the Conference League Board, Rev. R. A. Clark.

8:30—Words of Welcome from Our Hosts.

8:45—Response, Mr. Marvin Brown, Cleveland.

9:00—Introduction and Exchange of Fraternal Greetings from Sister Conferences.

Social Half-Hour.

WEDNESDAY MORNING.

6:00—Quiet Hour, Rev. J. H. Holder.

8:00—Opening Session.

Devotions—Miss Kate Smallwood, New Albany.

Music by Conference Quartette.

8:45—Organization and Enrollment.

9:15—The League as a Training School for Christian Work: (a) In the Activities of the Sunday School, Mission Societies, Etc., Rev. R. P. Neblett. (b) In Official Capacities, Rev. E. S. Lewis. (c) In Soul Winning, Rev. T. H. Dorsey.

10:00—Music by Chorus Choir, led by Rev. R. P. Neblett.

10:15—Departmental Conference, Charity and Help: (a) The Need of such a Department, Mrs. J. W. McClure, Columbus. (b) How to Get Work Done and What We Are Doing as a League, Miss Bessie Richardson, Corinth. (c) This Work a Test of Genuineness of Discipleship, Miss Mattie Reynolds, Booneville.

11:00—Conference Quartette, Rev. J. T. Lewis, Director.

11:15—Christian Citizenship.

WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON.

3:30—Devotions led by Rev. J. W. McCafferty.

3:45—The Boys' League.

4:00—The Call for Laborers, Rev. W. S. LaGrone, Conference Evangelist.

4:30—Conference Quartette.

4:45—Departmental Conference, Literary Work: (a) How May We Reach the Young People for Christ Through the Literary Work of the League, Rev. J. R. Countiss. (b) How to Have a Successful Literary Meeting, Miss Mary Stiles, Columbus. (c) League Library and Literature and Best Ways of Collecting a Library, Rev. I. D. Borders.

5:15—A Reading.

WEDNESDAY EVENING.

8:00—Song Service by Chorus Choir. Reading by Miss Corinne Rogers, New Albany. Male Quartette.

8:30—The Harmless Life, by Rev. H. M. DuBose, D.D., General Secretary, Nashville.

THURSDAY MORNING.

6:00—Quiet Hour, conducted by Rev. W. N. Duncan.

8:00—Devotions led by Rev. W. M. Young.

8:45—Departmental Conference, Devotional Department: (a) The Place and Importance of this Department, Miss Blanche Foose, Tupelo. (b) The Successful Devotional Meeting, Miss Kate Smallwood. (c) Open Conference.

9:45—Music by Chorus Choir.

10:00—Departmental Conference, Junior League: (a) A Model Junior League Meeting, conducted by Miss Mary Sweetman, Winona. (b) Open Conference.

10:45—Conference Quartette.

11:00—Young People and Missions, Dr. [illegible] R. Lambuth, Nashville.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

3:30—Devotions conducted by Rev. J. W. Cain; Music by Chorus Choir.

3:45—Mission Study Class, Mrs. H. P. Gibbs, Grenada College.

4:15—Selecting [illegible] Next Meeting.

4:30—A Model Business Meeting, conducted by Rev. [illegible] Advocate—[illegible]

5:00—Open Conference on Miscellaneous Matters; League Benediction.

EVENING SESSION.

8:00—Devotions, Conference Quartette.

8:15—A [illegible] Rev. T. W. Lewis; Voluntary Expressions; Music and League Benediction.

SHAW'S QUARTET
TOUCHING INCIDENTS DYING TESTIMONIES GOD'S FINANCIAL PLAN
OLD TIME RELIGION
[illegible]
SENT POST-PAID ON RECEIPT OF PRICE
We publish and handle other fast-selling religious books [illegible]
Agents Wanted - Make Money and Do Good by Selling our Religious Books - - Big Commission Given
[illegible]
Shaw Pub. Co. Grand Rapids, Mich.

MOXINE
Cures LAGRIPPE and Colds

THE METHODIST TOOL CHEST—GET ONE.

They will soon be gone, so send 25 cents at once in coin, stamps or money order, and get what every live Methodist preacher and layman needs.

What is the Methodist Tool Chest? you say. It is the Southern Methodist Handbook, which is the only year book in our Church. The Handbook for 1908 has circulated in the United States, South America, Mexico, Japan and China.

With the Handbook you need not hunt all over Southern Methodism for information. You find it at once in the Handbook which answers about every question you can think of in connection with Methodism and other Churches.

You need such a Tool Chest. It is a book of nearly 200 pages, profusely illustrated, costs only 25 cents. We will return your money if you do not feel that the book is worth one dollar. Address Thos. N. Ivey, Editor Christian Advocate, Raleigh, N. C.

Minorcas & Leghorns, HATCHING Eggs 50c. doz.

Eggs delivered to families at 30c. per doz. Want to buy young chickens for broilers or fryers. C. M. FUSH,
2434 Jena St., cor. Freret,
New Orleans, La.

Use Allen's Foot-Ease

A powder to be shaken into the shoes. If you have tired, aching feet, try Allen's Foot-Ease. It rests the feet and makes new or tight shoes easy. Cures aching, swollen, sweating feet. Relieves corns and bunions of all pain and gives rest and comfort. Try it to-day. Sold by all Druggists and Shoe Stores, 25c. Don't accept any substitute. For FREE trial package, also Free Sample of the FOOT-EASE Sanitary CORN-PAD, a new invention, address Allen S. Olmsted, LeRoy, N. Y.

HUMAN HANDS DO NOT TOUCH IT.

From the time the raw materials reach our factory they are handled entirely by machinery, kept scrupulously clean. No chance for to become contaminated. It is strictly pure and wholesome. Our factory is as clean as your kitchen.

Jell-O ICE CREAM Powder

ICE CREAM is Easy to Make.

1 quart milk.
1 package JELL-O ICE CREAM Powder.
Mix, and freeze without cooking.
Simple, isn't it!

This makes two quarts of smooth, velvety ice cream, deliciously flavored, in 10 minutes at cost of about 1 cent a plate.

Flavors: Chocolate, Vanilla, Strawberry, Lemon and Unflavored.

Sold by your grocer 2 packages for 25c. "Enough for a gallon."—or by mail if he does not keep it.

The Genesee Pure Food Co., Le Roy, N. Y.

EPWORTH LEAGUE CONFERENCE.

Presiding Elders, Pastors and League Presidents of the Mississippi Conference:

Please elect your delegates to the Mississippi Conf. Epworth League, Gulfport, Miss., June 18-21, 1908, at once and forward their names to Miss Georgia Rohrer, Gulfport, Miss., and entertainment will be provided for them. All churches that have no Leagues will be entitled to two delegates and the pastors are requested to see that such churches are represented and that their names are forwarded to the above address. The programme is nearly ready for the printer, and hope to have it ready to mail by the 25th.

It will be the best programme we have ever had. The trip by steamer to Ship Island will be made at 1:30 Saturday afternoon, and return 7:30. All delegates are expected to go. Reduced rates have been granted on all the railroads on the certificate plan, which is one and one-third fare plus twenty-five cents; provided one hundred are in attendance, and this time they have agreed to allow us to count the preachers' permit or round trip tickets, or in fact, just so that they have paid railroad fare.

Be sure that you observe the Mississippi Conference League Day (May 31). If you need programmes write me and I will mail them to you. Several Leagues have already notified me that they were going to observe the day. You might do likewise.

We have made Friday of the Conference "Presiding Elders' Day." All of them have been requested to address the Conference that day.

May I count on each and all of you to take an interest in the approaching Conference to make it a great success? And this can be done if all of us will contribute our part to its success. You can help by talking to your young people, and get them to attend, by observing Conference League Day, by attending the Conference yourself, and in other ways not to be mentioned here. Let us all do all we can to make this truly a great Conference.

W. D. HAWKINS, President.

P. S.—If possible, get the names of your delegates to Miss Georgia Rohrer by June 5.

LETTER FROM HAYESVILLE, LA.

I thought a word from the extreme northern limit of our Conference line might be of interest to your readers. We arrived on the work Christmas Eve, at 4 o'clock. From the time we came to the present we have been receiving tokens of appreciation from the people. A better people cannot be found this side of Simmsport and Woodside.

Mr. Editor, I am not going to starve on this circuit. We have reorganized the Epworth League, and it is doing fine work. Dr. Riggin, of the Little Rock Conference, was with us in March and preached his sermon on "What Does Methodism Stand For?" and addressed the Epworth League in the evening. He said it was ahead of his League at Magnolia, Ark.

We have organized Sabbath schools at Colquitt, New Salem and Dykesville. All three are doing an excellent work. In the three schools we have 138 pupils, Dykesville leading in number. My Dykesville members claim they have not had such interest in a long time in Church work as now exists there. New Salem is doing fine work with Prof. T. W. Shields as superintendent. Colquitt is all the time alive. Haynesville Sunday school is much larger since Christmas. We have a fine adult class with Mr. R. F. Allen as teacher. Mr. Toni Camp is a live, aggressive, faithful superintendent.

We commence our protracted meeting here Sunday, 17th. Brother Walter G. Harbin will be in on the 23rd. We are looking forward to a great meeting.

Please allow me to make a correction in my piece published week before last, as to numbers of the M. E. Church and M. E. Church, South, respectively, viz: M. E. Church, 82,345, and M. E. Church, South, 50,042; making a total, 132,387 members received last year (1907). You number Mississippi Methodists at 99,913 members and preachers, and it is 101,479. In Louisiana we have, members and preachers, 32,722. Yours in Christ,

W. T. WOODWARD, P. C.

GENERAL NEWS.

The new morning paper of New Orleans. The Morning World, has gone into the hands of a receiver. The reason is said to be that on account of the financial stringency they have been unable to collect all their stock subscriptions.

* * *

Louisiana has had another cyclone. There has been a strange series of destructive storms, causing large loss of life and property, and while all the neighboring States have suffered, it seems that the greatest damage has been wrought in this State.

* * *

One of the new battleships authorized by Congress will be built at the Brooklyn Navy Yard. A collier will be built at the Mare Island Navy Yard in California. The second battleship will be built by contract. Congress expects to adjourn on the 23rd.

* * *

The Southern Baptist convention is now in session at Hot Springs, Ark. This convention represents 21,266 churches and a total membership of 2,015,080. Last year they contributed for missions, $1,134,695; contributed for all purposes, $7,863,416; value of church property, $30,861,438; number of Sunday schools, 12,923; enrollment of Sunday schools, 959,795.

* * *

On the 13th a conference of all the governors of States assembled in Washington, D. C., in response to the call of the president. There was a very free discussion of the legislation for which the States are responsible, and in many matters an agreemen was reached as to the things which the several governors would recommend to the legislatures. Provision was made to perpetuate this gathering, and a permanent organization of the governors of States was perfected, and arrangements made for future meetings.

* * *

The plans seem to be slowly maturing for a great cotton warehouse in New Orleans that shall handle cotton much as the elevators handle grain. This would call for a vast initial expense for a series of fire proof warehouses, divided into fire proof compartments, with all modern machinery for handling the heavy bales at minimum of expense. Many minds are at work upon the problem and while nothing tangible and definite has as yet been developed, it is more than likely that ultimately such an enterprise will be carried through.

Montrose Preparatory College.
MONTROSE, MISS.

REV. C. M. CHAPMAN, B. L., President.
COURSES: Graded, High School, College, Teachers, Music.
SESSION OPENS SEPTBER 1st. TUITION, $30. BOARD, $10.
This is the place for your boys or girls to have home influence. The Only School of its kind in the State of Mississippi. 250 Students. Write for Catalogue. On the M. J. & K. C. R.R., 14 miles south of Newton, Miss.

17 JEWEL ELGIN $14.50 — ON — CREDIT

ELGIN
1908 MODEL
HAND ENGRAVED CASE
17 JEWELS GENUINE RUBIES
GOLD FINISHED JEWEL SETTINGS FACTORY TESTED MOVEMENT STEM WIND
STEM SET
REGULATED TO TEMPERATURE
PATENT MICROMETRIC REGULATOR
COMPENSATING BALANCE
HAND HAMMERED IMPORTED MAIN SPRING
PATENT STEEL PINIONS

NO MONEY DOWN $2.00 A MONTH
Write Today for OUR BIG FREE CATALOG. It tells how we send everywhere on Free Trial without deposit. Elgin's 19 and 23 J Railroad Watches.
BIG SPECIAL THIS MONTH--
A High Grade 17 Jewel Elgin, in hand engraved case like cut,
ONLY $14.50 AT $2.00 A MONTH.
No interest, no security. So easy you won't miss the money, and really the only safe way to buy a good watch and you wear it while paying for it. You cannot afford to buy a watch anywhere until you have our fine catalog, as we are the Largest Watch House in America. It is fully illustrated and contains the True Factory Description of nearly every high-grade watch made by the Elgin Company.
JUST NAME AND ADDRESS WILL DO
NAME
TOWN STATE
1167
Write or send coupon today.
HARRIS-GOAR CO.
1167 Grand Avenue, KANSAS CITY, MO.
NOTICE—This house is perfectly reliable.—Editor,

* * *

October 1 to 10 will be celebrated as the 225th anniversary of the founding of the city government of Philadelphia, Pa. Sunday the 4th will be celebrated as the religious day of the programme by all the denominations of the city. Monday will be military day, with twenty-five thousand troops in line. Tuesday the police and fire departments will parade. Wednesday will be given up to industrial parades. Thursday there will be a naval review. Friday there will be a historic pageant, and Saturday the Knights Templar will parade. There are not a great many cities in this nation that could celebrate the 225th anniversary, and while this may seem young in Europe, it seems quite ancient to us.

EUGENE B. TROY,
PLUMBER.
Sewer Connections on the One Profit Plan
4721 PERRIER ST.
Phone, Uptown 2591.

TAPE WORMS expelled alive with head. Guaranteed. No poisonous drugs. Free booklet. GLOBE REMEDY CO., Birmingham, Alabama.

"LOVE YOUR ENEMIES."

By many this is considered the hardest command that came from the lips of the Savior. The vast majority of men and women, when wronged in any way, will in weakness seek revenge. They are ready to return injury for injury, "an eye for an eye, and a tooth for a tooth."

It is sometimes said that "revenge is sweet." It is not so to the person whose heart has been renewed by the saving grace of God. There is sweetness in revenge only for demons, and those who possess the spirit of the wicked one. The Christian who, when overcome by his old nature, sometimes returns injury for injury, is always sorry afterward. I have no doubt that we all, when grievously wronged by some fellow creature, felt at first that we would like to inflict a severe punishment. Too often do we act in such cases before taking thought, and dishonor Christ and make ourselves miserable.

Revenge is bitter in the end, and will never satisfy the human conscience. Far better are we satisfied if we can look back and see that we have shown mercy and pity to our offenders, and return good for evil.
—George P. Endy.

Sunday School

By W. B. Campbell.

LESSON FOR MAY 24.

JESUS' DEATH AND BURIAL.

John xix. [illegible]-42.

Golden Text: "Christ died for our sins according to the Scriptures." 1 Cor. xv. 3.

Many times while Jesus was yet with his disciples he spoke of the positive requirement that the Scriptures must be fulfilled. God's purpose to that end must be served even though it be the death of his only begotten Son. Jesus' advent on the earth was to "bruise the serpent's head." All of Jesus' acts were in accord with what had been written of him in olden time. So now when it is revealed in what manner he should be offered up we need wonder, never, why Isaiah called him "A Man of sorrow and acquainted with grief." What a wonderful chapter is that liii of Isaiah! It tells of the great mission, the character and the great blessings to man in the Messiah—speaking of him as already come—so sure was the eye of prophecy that saw "as seeing him who is invisible." We are not now observing an ordinary mortal as life is yielded up in obedience to the sentence pronounced when man fell from his first estate, entailing death upon all mankind. But we stand awe-struck and bewildered as we look upon the death of One who in dying satisfied the law, and washed away the stain of sin by his own blood. To this great event God had pointed by every act of his providence, and the types and shadows had even referred to "The Lamb slain from the foundation of the world."

When sin and death, by sin, has come upon the human race by the act of one man, why should it be so hard to understand that eternal life comes to us by the act of One, and he the Son of God, sent down from heaven for that one purpose? The unconverted of the world cannot understand these things, and because it is not easily comprehended by the carnal mind they will have none of it. The attitude of the Christian, he who has been drawn to Jesus by the love of the Father, is settled in his own mind, believing the same love of the Father is the moving power in the death of his only Son; and as the godly prophets of old searched into the suffering of Christ, and the glory that should follow, the spirit of Christ being in them then, so does the faithful Christian desire to know more and more of the great mysterious sacrifice that even "angels desire to look into." Not in a general way, as applied to a fallen race, do we wish to meditate on the death and burial of our dear Lord; but let us each stand alone, there on Calvary, before "one hanging on a tree," and as the sun is darkened, and nature shudders, let us feel that as so great a sacrifice is made for us, the least we can do in a whole life-time is to serve him in reverence and godly fear. We love him, and in love have we followed him as he went about doing good. The three short years of his earthly life [illegible] not seemed enough [illegible] as we cling to him, and now we follow, some of us as Peter did—[illegible] we follow through the mockery of the trial, the shameful persecutions, the painful bearing of the cross, and there on Golgotha we stand near John and the mother, because we love him so. We recall the last hours of some departed friend and try to remember every word that was uttered by the dear one, and often we live over again those painful moments. So with this sorrow in our hearts—we shrink from the scenes surrounding our crucified Lord. Sufficient it for us that we know that in all that happened on that day was a fulfillment of Scripture even to the least particular of casting lots for his vesture. "It is finished" were the last words and he died, and his friends mourn him as gone forever. They are afraid to touch his body, but they linger near. Who are these two that come bearing every preparation for his burial? Nicodemus and Joseph of Arimathea have been reminded by the Holy Ghost that they have their part in fulfilled Scripture in placing the body of the true Messiah with the rich in his death.

On that sad day, when we laid mother away, when we laid her to rest in the old graveyard, to rest beside other loved ones, to rest until the resurrection morn, we turned away and the world seemed as dark to us as it was on Calvary from the sixth to the ninth hour. It was such sorrow that his disciples suffered as they went away and gathered themselves together in that sacred upper room, trying to comfort one another in recalling past events. They sorrowed as those who have no hope—not as we, for our sorrow is brightened by the blessed hope of another life yet to come. They did not know that the death of Christ on the cross was the signal to sound the gospel trumpet-blast. Each sorrow-burdened follower of the Master was, not many days hence, to arise and bestir himself, for his duties began as a herald of the kingdom of God. They had heard "It is finished" come from the lips of the expiring Lord, and they were prone to believe that all was at an end, when it was only the beginning of their part in the formation of the earthly body of Christ—the Church. The work of atonement was finished—God's part of the salvation of man was finished, and they were to tell men of their part: to "Arise and be baptized and wash away their sins," worshipping God always in singleness of heart and purpose.

As it was with Jesus—the good suffering for the evil—so it follows in all forms of life. It is the good that bear the burden, and it is so to teach men that he came to "Carry our sorrows" and to "Bear our infirmities."

While we sadly study this lesson of the death of the friend of sinners as it is according to the Scriptures, we are also commissioned by the same Word of God to live and preach a risen, living Christ.

DON'T SUFFER WITH SKIN DISEASES

Itching, redness and pain are quickly relieved and the germs of skin and scalp disease destroyed by the use of TETTERINE, the fragrant antiseptic and healing ointment, following baths with Tetterine Soap. This splendid remedy is a boon to sufferers from Eczema, Tetter, Itching Piles, and all diseases of the skin and scalp. Costs 50c at your druggist's or by mail. Address The Shuptrine Co., Savannah, Ga.

BLYMYER CHURCH BELLS.
UNLIKE OTHER BELLS SWEETER, MORE DURABLE, LOWER PRICE. OUR FREE CATALOGUE TELLS WHY.
Write to Cincinnati Bell Foundry Co., Cincinnati, O.

ALTAR CHAIRS, SUNDAY School Seats, School Desks, Portable Chairs, Collection Plates, Communion Tables, Lodge Furniture, etc. Ask for big Catalog No. 66. E. H. Stafford Mfg. Co., Chicago, Ill.

MOXINE
Cures LAGRIPPE and Colds.

REVIVAL AT WEST POINT, MISS.

Mr. Editor: Our pastor, Rev. T. E. Dorsey, has just closed a very remarkable protracted meeting of about [illegible] weeks' duration, following the [illegible] District Preachers' Meeting. He did all the preaching himself. His sermons were pointed in many respects. None but a brave, consecrated man can preach as he did, attacking sin in high places, such as club life, and on the highways, and we believe he has planted seed that will bring forth much good fruit in the future. At the close of the meeting there were thirty-eight who joined the Church on profession of faith and several by letter. Brother Dorsey is in great favor with his people here—good attendance; the Church is full every Sunday and sometimes to overflowing. Yours truly,

S. B. WHITE.

BLOOD POISONING POSITIVELY CURED

Hereditary, primary, secondary and tertiary, Scrofula, Eczema, Blood and Skin Disease. If you have exhausted old-time methods and want to get well, write me in fullest confidence for proof of cures. Take my treatment and get well. A. A. BROWER, M. D., San Antonio, Tex.

MANSFIELD COLLEGE COMMENCEMENT MAY 21-27.

Thursday evening, May 21, Seniors entertained by the Juniors.

Friday evening, Entertainment by the Primary Department.

Saturday evening, [illegible] by the Art Department.

Sunday, 11 o'clock a. m., Commencement Sermon by Rev. J. H. Wray, of New Orleans.

Sunday, 8 o'clock p. m., Missionary Sermon; speaker to be selected.

Monday, 10 o'clock a. m., Sophomore Entertainment.

Monday, 3 o'clock p. m., Art Display.

Monday, 8 o'clock p. m., Junior Entertainment; Annual Commencement Address by Rev. Frank Barrett, Texarkana, Ark.

Tuesday, 9 o'clock a. m., Meeting of Board of Trustees.

Tuesday, 10 o'clock a. m., Alumnae Exercises.

Tuesday, 3 o'clock p. m., Art Display.

Tuesday, 8 o'clock p. m., Grand Concert by Music and Expression Departments.

Wednesday, 10 o'clock a. m., Graduating Exercises, Baccalaureate Address and Delivery of Diplomas.

ANGELL PHARMACY COMPANY,
2300 Baronne Street, corner Philip.
PRESCRIPTIONS OUR SPECIALTY. Phone Main 4263.
Pure Drugs, Chemicals, Toilet Articles, Perfumery, Stationery, etc.
TRY ANGELL'S COUGH & WHOOPING COUGH SYRUP
Price 25 and 50 cents. Sold by all Druggists.
HOMŒPATHIC DEPARTMENT.
Homœopathic Medicines, Books, Cases, Globules, Sugar of Milk, Etc.
Prices: 1-2 ounce vial 15 cents, 1 ounce vial 25 cents.
PROMPT DELIVERY.

A GOOD PIANO, PIANO PLAYER or PLAYER PIANO see the Grunewald's
Before You Buy.
Agents for the Latest Improved and best Instruments on the Market.
FISCHER

YOUR SUMMER VACATION IS NEAR AT HAND
THE Southern Pacific
SOUTHERN SUNSET ROUTE PACIFIC
WILL HAVE MANY ATTRACTIVE ROUTES TO OFFER BY RAIL OR WATER
To CALIFORNIA
GO ONE WAY ---- RETURN ANOTHER THROUGH THE MOST BEAUTIFUL SCENERY IN THE WORLD
To NEW YORK
ON ONE OF OUR MAGNIFICENT STEAMSHIPS --- FIVE BIG BOATS
"CREOLE," "MOMUS," "ANTILLES," "PROTEUS," "COMUS."
ASK YOUR AGENT FOR LITERATURE, OR WRITE
G. E. GUEDRY, Div. Pass. Agt. LAKE CHARLES
F. E. BATTURS, Gen. Pass. Agt. NEW ORLEANS

Epworth League

PRAYER-MEETING TOPIC.

May 2. Unseen Protection. Second Kings vi. 14-19; Luke xii. 4-12.

(Psalm xxxiv.)

The Psalmist has written, The angel of the Lord encampeth round about them that fear him. This unseen protection is made the subject of our lesson.

1. Elisha at Dothan.

A border warfare was carried on between Syria and Israel, very similar to that which for centuries was carried on between England and Scotland. The prophet Elisha, who performed many miracles, was enabled to warn the king of Israel as to where the bands of Syrians would be. This enraged the king of Syria, and he sent a company of men to capture the prophet. When the servant of Elisha looked out one morning, he saw the place surrounded by the Syrian army. In terror he cried out to his master. Then, in answer to the prayer of Elisha, he saw the hosts of God encamped about them. Mark you, it does not say that these forces were sent in answer to prayer, but that the eyes of Elisha's servant were opened that he might see those who were there.

2. Peter imprisoned by Herod.

From the New Testament we have an account of deliverance that might well go with this one from the Old Testament. Herod laid hold on James and put him to death, that he might please the Jews. Then he arrested Peter, and would have put him to death also. When the time had almost come that he should be executed, he was brought out by an angel, without giving any warning, either to prisoners or guards. (Acts, xii. 1-10.)

3. From the two incidents given above, we would draw the lesson that God is always able to deliver his people out of the dangers that threaten. Whether angelic hosts are round about us all the time or not, we cannot tell; but we do not doubt that the Father's care enters into the smallest details of our lives, and that not even a sparrow can fall to the ground without his consent.

4. A close study of his word shows that even seeming ill may be good in the eyes of the Father. A shepherd boy went out to his brothers. Angered by the things he had said and tales he had carried, they sold him into the hands of a passing band of Midlanites. Through many trials this boy passed unsullied. If after years, when all the hardships lay behind and he could see with clear vision, he said, "Ye thought evil against me, but God meant it unto good." (Gen. xx. 1-20.)

The Master warned his disciples that many of them should die for him, and yet that he would not forsake them, and that he should bring his glory and their welfare out of even this. Death is not the worst that can come. It may be for you the opening of the door to glory, and you may render your best service in dying. Some years ago a Methodist preacher, who had never been a brilliant man, was sent to an unhealthy post. He was heard to say: "If I go to that place, I will die, but I am going to go." He went to the charge and died there. His words were repeated at the memorial service the next year. There is little doubt that his death inspired other men to do far more than this faithful servant had ever done, and he himself was simply called to his rest a little sooner.

5. Fear not.

No matter what danger threatens, the King can keep his own. If at last he should permit you to share in his sacrifice for others, he will give strength and receive you into his glory. If he has a harder task (the patient living of a long life for his glory) he will keep you through all that may come. The armies of God encamp about you. Trust in God. Fear not.

THE CHOCTAW MISSION.

Dear Dr. Boswell: I beg space in your valuable paper to say something of our Choctaw people. We are having some good meetings. We are still having very good attendance at two churches, Tallachulak and Phillip Chapel. Both of these places have Sunday school every Sunday; both are missionary schools and pay some money every month.

Some few of the Choctaws danced out of the Church during Christmas. With the exception of that, the Church is getting along nicely. The territory at large is more ready to receive the gospel than it has been during the last three years.

We have preaching every Sunday: First Sunday at Phillip Chapel; second Sunday at Tallachulak; third Sunday at Ishmore's home, a Choctaw; fourth Sunday at Tom Tubby's home, another Choctaw. We are also going to have a camp-meeting, beginning the second Sunday in July. It will take something to carry on this meeting. I will kindly ask all who will help us a little to send it to Brother J. M. Weems, at Newton, Miss. I will get it all right. The purposes of this meeting are to win souls for Christ, and see where to build a Choctaw high school, and how much money can be made up, and when to begin work on same. I hope all who have an interest in the Choctaw mission work will begin to plan to help us.

I am not ashamed of my work. I hope that God will bless me. I am going over more ground than ever before, looking after my people. I hope Brother Weems, our presiding elder, will urge this matter, as I believe he understands it. I hope Newton District will stand by the Choctaw mission work. I know we have men in the Mississippi Conference who love the Choctaw mission work. But since the moving of the Choctaws West, I will mention a few who know the present condition of the work: Brother J. M. Morse, Brother W. W. Moore, Brother T. J. O'Neil, Brother J. C. Long, Brother J. M. Weems and Brother Hightower. You all know something of the condition of the Choctaw mission. I ask you all for advice and help. But don't be too free to advise and not help; it takes both advice and help to get along. Pray for me. Yours in Christ,

SIMPSON J. TUBBY.

MOXINE CHILL TONIC
Only Tonic—one bottle—one cure.

Use A
NEW PERFECTION
Wick Blue Flame Oil Cook-Stove

Because it's clean.
Because it's economical.
Because it saves time.
Because it gives best cooking results.
Because its flame can be regulated instantly.
Because it will not overheat your kitchen.
Because it is better than the coal or wood stove.
Because it is the perfected oil stove.

For other reasons see stove at your dealer's, or write our nearest agency.
Made in three sizes and fully warranted.

The Rayo Lamp cannot be equaled for its bright and steady light, simple construction and absolute safety. Equipped with latest improved burner. Made of brass throughout and beautifully nickeled. An ornament to any room, whether library, dining-room, parlor or bedroom. Every lamp warranted. Write to our nearest agency if not at your dealer's.

STANDARD OIL COMPANY
(INCORPORATED)

THE BEST MADE.
Angell's Cough and Whooping Cough Syrup
For Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Coughs, Colds and Throat Trouble.
CONTAINS NO OPIUM OR MORPHINE,
All Druggists, Price 25 and 50 Cents.

SCROFULINE
The Wonderful Healer

Unsurpassed for tetter, ezcema, skin and scalp troubles, old sores, ulcers and piles, any nature or duration. Goes to the very seat of the trouble, kills the germs and extracts all foreign matter. Sold under a positive guarantee, 25c, 50c and $1.00 per jar. Mail orders promptly filled. Stamps accepted. Liberal sample upon request. Address,

THE SCROFULINE COMPANY, Waco, Texas.
SOLE OWNERS AND MANUFACTURERS.

Louisiana Railway and Navigation Company.

PASSENGER SERVICE.

Daily Passenger Trains between Shreveport and New Orleans. Daily Passenger Trains between Shreveport and Winnfield.

FEIGHT SE VICE.

Exceptional good time on carload traffic. Special attention given less than carload shipments all of which moves in

DAILY THROUGH PACKAGE CARS.

CLARENCE ELLERBE, Assistant to President.
H. B. HELM, General Superintendent.
E. C. D. MARSHALL, General Freight & Passenger Agent.
Shreveport, La.

Wanted Salesmen
We want a reliable lady or gentleman in every community to act as resident representative. Write us to day if you mean business and send us three good references.
PENTECOSTAL PUBLISHING CO., Incorporated, LOUISVILLE, KY.

A PICTURE OF GOD.

It is fairly pathetic what a stranger God is in his own world. He comes to his own, and they who are his own kinsfolk keep him standing outside the door while they peer suspiciously at him through the crack at the hinges.

To know God really, truly, is the beginning of a normal life. One of the best pictures of God that I ever saw came to me in a simple story. It was of a man, a minister, who lived in a New England town. He had a son about fourteen years of age going to school. One afternoon the boy's teacher called at the home and asked for the father, and said:

"Is your boy sick?"

"No. Why?"

"He was not at school to-day."

"Is that so?"

"Nor yesterday."

"You don't mean it!"

"Nor the day before."

"Well!"

"And I supposed he was sick."

"No, he's not sick."

"Well, I thought I should tell you."

And the father said, "Thank you," and the teacher left.

And the father sat thinking. By and by he heard a click at the gate, and he knew the boy was coming, so he went to open the door. And the boy knew as he looked up that his father knew about those three days. And the father said:

"Come into the library, Phil." And Phil went, and the door was shut. And the father said: "Phil, your teacher was here this afternoon. He tells me you were not at school to-day......nor yesterday......nor the day before. And we supposed you were. You let us think you were. And you do not know how badly I feel. I have always trusted you. I have always said, 'I can trust my boy, Phil.' And here you've been a living lie for three whole days. And I can't tell you how badly I feel about it."

Well, that was hard on Phil to be talked to quietly like that. If his father had spoken to him roughly, or—had asked him out to the woodshed for a confidential interview, it would not have been nearly so hard. Then, after a moment's pause, the father said, "Phil, we'll get down and pray." And the thing was getting harder for Phil all the time. He didn't want to pray just then. And they got down. And the father poured out his heart in prayer. And the boy knew as he listened how badly his father felt over his conduct. Somehow he saw himself in the mirror on his knees as he had not before. It's queer about that mirror of the knee-joints. It does show so many things. Many folks don't like it.

And they got up. And the father's eyes were wet. And Phil's eyes were not dry. Then the father said:

"My boy, there's a law of life that where there is sin, there is suffering. You can't detach those two things. Where there is suffering there has been sin somewhere. And where there is sin there will be suffering. You can't get those two things apart. Now," he went on, "you have done wrong. And I am in this home like God is in the world. So we will do this. You go up to the attic. I'll make a pallet for you there. We'll take your meals up to you at the regular times, and you stay up there as long as you have been a living lie—three days and three nights."

And Phil didn't say a word. They went upstairs, the pallet was made, and the father kissed his boy and left him alone with his thoughts. Supper-time came, and the father and mother sat down to eat. But they couldn't eat for thinking about the boy. The longer they chewed upon the food the bigger and drier it got in their mouths. And swallowing it was clear out of the question. Then they went into the sitting-room for the evening. They picked up the evening paper to read and she sat down to sew. Well, his eyes weren't very good. He wore glasses. And this evening he couldn't seem to see distinctly—the glasses seemed blurred. It must have been the glasses, of course. So he took them off and cleaned them very deliberately, and then found he had been holding the paper upside down. And she tried to sew. But the thread broke, and she couldn't seem to get the needle threaded again. You could see they were both bothered. How we do reveal ourselves in the details!

By and by the clock struck nine, and then ten, their usual hour for retiring. She said, "Aren't you going to bed?" And he said, "I think I'll not go yet a bit; you go." "No; I guess I'll wait a while, too." And the clock struck eleven, and the hands worked around to twelve. Then they arose, and locked up, and went to bed, but—not to sleep. Each one made pretend to be asleep, and each one knew the other was not asleep. By and by she said (women are always the keener), "Why don't you sleep?" And he said gently, "How did you know I wasn't sleeping? Why don't you sleep?"

"Well, I just can't for thinking of the boy up in the attic."

"That's the bother with me," he replied. And the clock in the hall struck twelve, and one, and two. Still no sleep came.

At last he said, "Mother, I can't stand this any longer; I'm going upstairs with Phil." And he took his pillow and went softly out of the room, and up the attic stairs, and pressed the latch-key softly, so as not to wake the boy if he were asleep, and tiptoed across the attic floor to the corner by the window, and looked—there Phil lay, wide awake, with something glistening in his eyes, and what looked like stains on his cheeks. And the father got down in between the sheets with his boy, and they got their arms around each other's necks, for they had always been the best of friends, father and boy, and their tears got mixed up on each other's cheeks. Then they slept. And the next night when sleep-time came the father said, "Good-night, mother, I'm going upstairs with Phil." And the second night he slept in the attic with his boy. And the third night again he said, "Mother, good-night. I'm going up with the boy again." And the third night he slept in the place of punishment with his son.

You are surprised to know that to-day that boy, a man grown, is telling the story of Jesus with tongue and life of flame in the heart of China.

Do you know, I think that father is the best picture of God I ever saw. God could not take away sin. It's here. He could not take away suffering out of the heart of man. For suffering is sin's index-finger saying, "There's something wrong here." So God came down in the person of his Son, and lay down alongside of man for three days and three nights. That's God—our God. And he suffers as he comes, and puts his life alongside yours and mine, and makes us hate the bad and long to be pure. To be on intimate terms with him, living in the atmosphere of his presence, spending time day by day with him—that is the true normal life.—The Methodist Recorder.

NEW ORLEANS PREACHERS' MEETING

The preachers' meeting discussed the subject of street preaching, and appointed a committee of three, consisting of F. N. Parker, A. S. Lutz and A. J. Townsley, to confer with the layman's meeting on Friday night.

A committee, composed of W. W. Holmes, A. S. Lutz and C. D. Atkins, was appointed to collect and tabulate statistics for the use of the commission which will visit New Orleans within a few weeks.

It was announced that the General Board of Missions has appropriated $1,000 for use in New Orleans during the next ten years. This meets a similar appropriation by the Woman's Home Mission Board. The Annual Conference Board made a pledge of $500 and the Laymen provided $500 for next year. This means something like $3000 to use in meeting the problems in this city.

CALENDAR OF IMPORTANT EVENTS.

STATES OF LOUISIANA AND MISSISSIPPI.

Oxford District Conference, at Holly Springs, Miss., May 19-21.

Seashore District Conference, at McHenry, Miss., May 19-23.

Durant District Conference, at Kilmichael, Miss., May 21-23.

Winona District Conference, at Eupora, Miss., May 27-28.

Commencement Mansfield Female College, Mansfield, La., May 24-26.

Commencement Grenada College, at Grenada, Miss., May 24-26.

Crowley District Conference, at Jeanerette, La., May 29-June 1.

Greenville District Conference, at Cleveland, Miss., May 27-29.

Vicksburg District Conference, at Edwards, Miss., May 27-30.

Whitworth College Commencement, Brookhaven, Miss., May 31 to June 2.

Millsaps College Commencement, Jackson, Miss., June 7-9.

Aberdeen District Conference, at Houlka, Miss., June 3-5.

Alexandria District Conference, at Natchitoches, La., June 12-14.

Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the North Mississippi Conference, at Senatobia, Miss., June 13-17.

Mid-Year Meeting of the Mississippi Conference Board of Missions, at Centerville, Miss., June 17-19.

Mississippi Conference Epworth League, at Gulfport, Miss., June 18-21.

Missionary Institute, Philadelphia, Miss., June 23.

Meridian District Conference, Buckatunna, Miss., June 23.

Columbus District Conference, at Mathiston, Miss., July 1-3.

North Mississippi Epworth League Conference, July 7-9.

Newton District Conference, at Montrose, Miss., July 8-10.

Corinth District Conference, at Baldwin, Miss., July 14-16.

NEW ORLEANS
CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE

Millsaps College Library

REV. JOHN W. BOSWELL, Editor.
REV. H. WHITEHEAD, Ass't Editor.

NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, MAY 28, 1908.

CHAS. O. CHALMERS, Publisher,
Office, 512 Camp St., New Orleans.

VOL. 55—No. 22.

"PROVE ALL THINGS; HOLD FAST THAT WHICH IS GOOD."

WHOLE No. 5401.

BEGINNINGS OF METHODISM IN LOUISIANA.

BY REV. P. M. BROWN.

The boundary lines of the first circuit formed in Louisiana by Wm. Lassley, as given in Mc-Tyeire's history, are practically those of the present Alexandria District.

The beginnings of Methodism in the Alexandria District are the same as the beginnings of Methodism in Louisiana. The first Methodist preacher to set foot on Louisiana soil, and as far as we know, the first to cross the Mississippi river, was Lorenzo Dow. He (using his own words) "visited several settlements, holding religious meetings......procured three Spanish horses, which had been foaled wild in the woods and had been caught out of the gang by climbing and dropping a noose over the head, it being made fast to a bough."

This was the beginning of an acquaintance between Methodist preachers and Attakapas ponies, which has lasted to this day. Having thus replenished his evangelistic equipage, Dow returned and reported to Learner Blackman, who was presiding elder of the Mississippi Territory, and urged that steps be taken to occupy Louisiana.

The next year, 1806, saw Elisha Bowman scouting Louisiana on a $50 pony. He roamed through the swamps, across the prairies and over the hills from New Orleans to Prairie Merrouge in search of American settlers, and reported 17 members as a result of his year's labors. He left us no lecture on "Through Louisiana on Horseback," but some of his correspondence reads with thrilling interest. Those 17 charter members of Louisiana Methodism! Who were they? Where were they? How we would like to know! But Louisiana Methodists have been too busy making history to take much time in writing it.

After Lassley came the eccentric Axley. According to McTyeire, Axley built largely with his own hands the first Methodist Church in the State. To purchase the flooring for this building Mr. Axley used money which had been given him by some friends to replenish his wardrobe. The location of this building is not given by any historian accessible to this writer. However, it must have been somewhere within the original Opelousas circuit.

Axley sowed in Louisiana soil for a twelvemonth, watering his seed with his tears, as we are told, and then left for more hopeful fields, as did most of his contemporaries in those early years of Louisiana Methodism. Until this day it has been true of Louisiana Methodism (whether fortunately or unfortunately, we leave the reader to judge) that many of her pulpits have been filled by a transient ministry. And how they came and went, did those early itinerants, as the early years of the century slipped away, until Nolly found a grave under the pines of western Catahoula, and Schrock a home somewhere amid that congregation of early Alexandrians to whom he showed his brawny arm that Sunday morn of long ago and who hailed him as the man for the times.

Bowman, Lassley, Axley, Edge, Heminger, Nelson, Wimberly, Griffin, Schrock, Lott, Owen, all wrought in the old Opelousas, or as it was afterwards called, the Rapides Circuit. Many and worthy have been their successors, but none of them have wrought with greater zeal or a more consuming passion for souls, and their work abides in the foundation of our present day Methodism.

Did the limits of this paper allow, we believe it can be easily shown that Methodism in the bounds of the Alexandria District has a longer continuous history than that of any other part of the State.

No easy task did these early fathers have in laying the foundation of our Methodism. Besides the difficulties incident to bridgeless streams and pathless swamps, and the vice and immorality generally attendant upon frontier life, the spirit of the Spanish Inquisition lingered in the land and harassed their steps.

What these men and their successors have contributed to the make-up of our present day civilization eternity alone can tell. God help us, as their successors, to stand in our lot as they did in theirs, and some day we who reap shall rejoice with those who have sown.

PRESERVATION OF NATURAL RESOURCES.

BY H. H. WHITE.

Nothing more vitally affects the material, and, therefore, indirectly the moral, welfare of a people than the conservation of natural resources.

The States, through their legislatures, and the Federal Government, through Congress, are awaking to the importance of the principle above stated. So important is the subject that the President of the United States but a few days ago invoked a Council of the Governors of all of the States to take advice together on the matter. The Governor of Louisiana took a leading part in the deliberations and in drafting the conclusions, as expressed in resolutions, of that body.

The chief application of the idea to Louisiana relates to the preservation of the forests, and to the reforestation of denuded lands. The pine, cypress and hardwood timbers of the State are rapidly disappearing under the wasteful methods of lumbering now in vogue. It is high time that radical action should be taken by the State authorities to prevent the absolute destruction of this the greatest natural resource of the State. Both Governor Blanchard and Governor Sanders, while he was lieutenant-governor, approved the Lee Bill, which was drafted by the writer of these lines, and is now the only forestry statute on our law Books. The Lee Bill was simply intended as an entering wedge and should be followed by much more stringent legislation on the subject.

The bill proposed by Mr. F. S. Zacharie should receive the support of all lovers of the State. As cited in the Times-Democrat of May 18, its salient features are as follows:

"It prohibits the felling, cutting down, girdling or deadening, whether upon public or private lands, of the smaller and younger timber less than twelve inches in diameter at the base, and punishes any violation of the law. An exception is, of course, made in the case of clearing ground for the erection of houses."

It is to be hoped that this bill, or a similar one, will be passed by the present legislature and that it will also be rigidly enforced. It is to the interest of all the people of the State, both of this and of succeeding generations. It is fortunate that our leading men, from the President of the United States down through all the official grades, are awake on the subject.

The land of Palestine, formerly flowing with milk and honey, now largely an arid waste, is an example of a land where the people wasted the natural resources of the land which God had given them for a heritage. Let us be warned and take preservative measures in time.

Alexandria, La.

THE STEREOPTICON AND MISSIONS.

Having had some experience as a missionary in Mexico, I am trying to use my knowledge of that country to arouse the Alexandria District to a livelier interest in world-wide missions. Brother P. M. Brown has let me have his first-class stereopticon, and, with some ninety beautifully hand-painted slides, representing every phase of Mexican life and landscape, it is not difficult to give an interesting lecture. For the slides I am indebted to Rev. F. S. Onderdonk, President of Colegio Wesleyano, our training school in Mexico, and to Mr. J. S. Kendall, literary editor of the Picayune. The former sent me a collection of negatives; the latter made most of the slides, and taught me how to make the rest of them.

So far as is possible, these pictures will be shown in each church in the district. The preachers are enthusiastic about missions, and are giving me every assistance, and the campaign will no doubt prove successful. The district has, in fact, already responded splendidly, and we expect the good beginning to end in triumph.

N. E. J.

Christian Advocate.

Published for the Louisiana, Mississippi and North Mississippi Conferences, Methodist Episcopal Church, South.

DIRECTIONS

Correspondents will please direct all communications intended for the Editor [illegible] New Orleans. [illegible] communications relating to the business department [illegible] addressed to the Manager of the New Orleans Christian Advocate. Write plainly and only on one side of the paper. [illegible]

The printed date on [illegible] paper shows the date to which subscription is paid. [illegible] a written request [illegible] the paper will be continued unless subscribers order discontinued.

For Advertising Rates Apply to

Religious Press Advertising Syndicate

JACOBS & CO., CLINTON, S. C.

Home Office Clinton, S. C., who have charge of the advertising of the paper.

ADVERTISING REPRESENTATIVES.

J. F. Jacobs, J. F. Jacobs Home Office, Clinton, S. C.
[illegible] Louisville, Ky.
[illegible] Jacobs, [illegible] Bldg., Nashville, Tenn.
[illegible] Bldg., Richmond, Va.
[illegible] LaSalle St., Chicago, Ill.
[illegible] Nassau St., New York, N. Y.
[illegible] LaSalle St., Chicago, Ill.
[illegible] Birmingham, Ala.
[illegible] New Orleans, La.
[illegible] Atlanta, Ga.
[illegible] Clinton, S. C.
[illegible] Houston, Texas.
[illegible] Boggs, Greensboro, N. C.
F. A. Wynne, Cor. [illegible] & [illegible] Sts., Dallas, Texas.

THE MISSIONARY IDEA—OBJECT AND OBLIGATIONS

BY DR. [illegible] PEEKE.

The missionary idea is not peculiar to the Christian dispensation, but stands related to it much as "Moses and the prophets" do.

In calling Abraham out of his native land and leading him into a strange country, the primary design seems to have been the organization of a people to whom might be committed "the oracles of God." We thus judge because from this movement sprang the Media through which all Divine revelation has come down to us—the evident consummation of the divine purpose in the call of this "father of the faithful."

In their office and functions Moses and Aaron were no less missionaries than diplomats at the court of Pharaoh. While it was a part of their mission to negotiate a treaty with the king releasing the descendants of Abraham from bondage, it is evident that at least one purpose of God was to show forth his power in this heathen nation.

Jonah's duty to the Ninevites was in the nature of missionary work, pure and simple. It was also in the nature of a foreign missionary movement. A man from among God's people sent to a heathen people, charged to preach to that people the doctrine of repentance and remission of sins.

One fact to be observed in all divine interposition is that, in all his dealings with men, he has worked through material agencies. Elijah was relieved from hunger by a raven. Naaman was washed through a [illegible]; the woodman's axe was brought to the surface of the water through a "twig," and so in all his providences.

In the nature of things the machinery for these early missionary operations was very simple. There were no boards nor secretaries to direct operations. The movement was in all cases personal or individual. As knowledge increased, however, the methods of operation were greatly amplified, and under the personal ministry of our Lord a new impetus was imparted.

"The twelve" were taken under the tutelage of the Master for a period of more than three years, during and preparatory [illegible] personal observation and instruction, to bear witness [illegible] to a generation [illegible] ever [illegible] to the nations of the earth.

When the Master sent out from among his followers seventy chosen men and charged them [illegible] would [illegible] the greatest movement of missionary character in the history of the world. With all the vast mechanical [illegible] thought [illegible] movement [illegible] such [illegible] has been made in the Church [illegible] consecrated men going out [illegible] starting at the same time from the same place has not been paralleled in any age of the world.

In [illegible] of Christian seventy were sent out from among [illegible] the Master were [illegible] personal command [illegible] more than [illegible] follower [illegible] would [illegible] start [illegible] suffering.

[illegible] missionary movement were in accordance with the Almighty plan to extend his kingdom [illegible] repentance and [illegible] giving [illegible] a knowledge of his Son and salvation through him.

[illegible] great [illegible] material agencies [illegible] used [illegible] demand [illegible] administration of his [illegible] seem [illegible]

There is [illegible] member [illegible] passage of Scripture as [illegible] Peter [illegible]

God has given to us a revelation [illegible] riches [illegible] in Christ Jesus, and as we have freely received we are required to "freely give."

Whether or not our hope of heaven is firmly based [illegible] Christ [illegible] we enjoy the unspeakable gift [illegible] send the knowledge [illegible] to others is a serious question. We should not [illegible] our [illegible] selfish salvation—an expectation of being saved while doing nothing to save others. The [illegible] law which God promulgated among men concerning sin was a warning against doing nothing. [illegible] does not well [illegible]

The seventy were called out of the world to give to others a knowledge of Christ [illegible] have been called to "let your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father which is in heaven."

"No man liveth to himself," but each lives for others. Preachers of the gospel must go into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature, but "how can they preach unless they be sent," and who will send them if you do not [illegible] send them.

The other sheep which are not of this fold must be brought to a state of preparedness for [illegible] Lord. They are scattered over the earth, [illegible] waiting and [illegible] understanding [illegible] the knowledge [illegible] will be saved [illegible] without [illegible] but [illegible] saved [illegible]

"How shall they call on him in whom they have not believed? and how shall they believe in him of whom they have not heard? and how shall they hear without a preacher? and how shall they preach except they be sent?"

[illegible] time to save from [illegible]
The souls for whom the Lord his life laid down;
Beware lest [illegible] should [illegible] fulfil his mission,
Nor lose the [illegible] that should bedeck his crown.

Simmsport, La.

THE PREACHER.

BY REV. [illegible]

The fundamental requirement [illegible] a preacher is that he be a converted man, [illegible] that he has had experience in the saving power [illegible] that at the time he is making any preparation for a sermon he should have the Spirit bearing witness [illegible] the fact that he is a child of God. God's Word is always thorough, but not always abiding. [illegible] may have had the witness of sonship at one time and at some future time not have it. The preacher should have it all the time. Without it he is not qualified to study the Word and get from it the true teachings of the Word, for the Word is divinely inspired, [illegible] the Spirit only [illegible] knoweth the things of God. The witness of the Spirit should be clear [illegible] preacher and [illegible] child of God [illegible] with Christ [illegible] immortal and eternal life [illegible] fellowship with [illegible] should [illegible] that [illegible] dispensation [illegible] committed unto him [illegible] preach [illegible] message—one [illegible] important because it is a message from God [illegible] sinners. I have found [illegible] experience that the best way [illegible] clear and [illegible] understanding [illegible] with earnest [illegible] prayer to God [illegible] is to use what I have named the seven [illegible] handles, viz.: Who? Whence? What? Where? When? Why? and How? [illegible] these questions I am [illegible] able to get a very clear [illegible] the text of Scripture under investigation.

After using these questions and putting down the answers I have all the text teaches. [illegible] Scripture that may refer to the subject treated [illegible] the text, and I am ready to get other help from commentaries, and any other help. Never lose sight of the fact that [illegible] preacher [illegible] ambassador for Christ," and that not only temporal things [illegible] interests hang [illegible] message [illegible] eternal interest for himself and those that hear [illegible] Word.

[illegible] methods [illegible] used for [illegible] own sake [illegible] simplest language he can [illegible] present the message [illegible] the people [illegible] with a heart filled with love [illegible] for God and love for the people [illegible] his own [illegible] conversant with the Scriptures is very essential, that [illegible] correctly. Never make God say what he did not say [illegible] misquotes Scripture. A sermon should be born of prayer [illegible] God has [illegible] spoken as well as [illegible] speaker. He [illegible] unquestioning faith in what he preaches, and, like the great Exemplar, he should speak as one having authority. His language should be simple, yet fearless, telling [illegible] sinfulness [illegible] of sin, and the results of a sinful life.

Successful and effective preaching must secure the attention of the people and make them realize that the message they hear is a message from God, and that they must accept it as such and [illegible] blessed [illegible] or reject it and be lost. But all the preaching, as far as preaching merely is concerned, [illegible] unless the sermon is backed up with a life such as a child and an ambassador of God should live. In his mingling with the people he should be prayerfully careful to impress them with the fact that he lives out of the pulpit the life he recommends to them in the pulpit. He should be humble, but brave. [illegible] about [illegible] as though he had lost his last friend, but with cheerfulness mingle among the people; he should be cordial and affable with every one, but always on his guard lest his language or deportment should lower him in the estimation of the people as a messenger of God. He should be a man, a gentleman, a Christian gentleman; a "light of the world," letting his light so shine that others, seeing his good life, may glorify God.

SAW-MILL TOWNS.

BY REV. H. ARMSTRONG.

For generations past unbroken forests of waving pine timber have ornamented parts of Louisiana, and these forests have been all of that time utterly worthless, and doubtless would yet have been had not capital and enterprise projected saw-mills. By the introduction of these mills these forests have been broken and slain, and converted into marketable lumber. By these industries thousands of immigrants have been brought in and given employment, and many thriving commercial towns have been built, called "saw-mill towns." The people of these towns are, as a rule, from all points of the compass, consequently strangers to each other. Neither do they seem to care to become acquainted. They are transient—only at the mill for awhile to make money. Some of them were consistent, working Christians at their former homes, but on coming to the mill they left that behind, and prefer that it be unknown.

For no other reason except that they live at a saw-mill they are willing to be unknown, and forego the enjoyment of society and all religous privileges. Saw-mill people, as a rule, are difficult to get acquainted with. The men are particularly so. They are at home a short time for dinner, and after supper often spend an hour or more at the commissary, or at the company office. On Sunday, if they do not work, they sleep late, and lie around home the remainder of the day. The ladies, in the main, do their own work. They are "cumbered with much serving," and ministerial calls are not often convenient.

It is plain from these facts that this kind of a pastoral charge is difficult and undesirable. Such towns are missionary fields, and a preacher appointed to such places must be a lover of souls and "a fisher of men."

A young man preceded the writer a few years ago at a saw-mill, and I was told that he counted the months, and weeks, and days that would pass before his year would be out and he could get away.

I felt very much as he did all through my first year. I felt so lonely and destitute of sympathy. While we are commissioned by the Lord, and go forward trusting in him, we love to hear words of cheer as we go. Failing to get encouragement in town, I often spent a half-day at a time in the forest crying to God to give me access to the houses and hearts of the people. My cry was heard. The way opened up. The company paid me $200 each year after the first, and the people about $300 more, and many poundings and donations extra. Revivals occurred each year. I gathered members from them, but took in more, I believe, from learning of ex-members, and getting them to renew their membership.

Brothers J. S. Sanders and S. L. Riggs rendered the cause valuable assistance at that mill town (Bon Ami). For about three years there was no permanent prayer-meeting. But the fourth year Bible reading was introduced, and the membership persuaded to run the prayer-meeting, and it was after that a great success. I told them that "my appointments were on Sunday, and that Wednesday night belonged to them." Pretty soon four ladies and four gentlemen would lead in turn. Their mouths were unlocked. They would discuss the subject in hand, often closing with experience meetings, and exclamations of joy.

The writer has this year Standard, a new mill town. The work there to date is like boring in rock, but the officials and some of the people are in sympathy with the work, and we know that "all things are possible to him that believeth." If the preacher can live, in the near future, with much prayer, the way will open up and God's name will be honored and souls will be saved.
H. ARMSTRONG.
Olla, La.

THE DEVOTIONAL LIFE OF THE PREACHER.

BY REV. R. H. HARPER.

Once I heard a well-trained violinist play the most difficult pieces fautlesly so far as execution was concerned. The deft fingers were now quivering over the strings, now gliding up near the bridge, while every play of the arm that drew the bow was the perfection of grace. But there was no soul in the music, such as there was in the thrilling tones of an untrained violinist, an old schoolmate of mine.

A president of the school once said to an aspiring youth, "There is an 'indefinable something' you must have to be an orator." So there must be, the soul we may call it, in this instance too, for want of a better name. Of all things that depend largely upon the emotions preaching has most need of that indefinable something; orthodoxy, faultless diction, rhetoric, apt illustration, climax—all will fall flat if, by that mysterious sense without a name, the hearers perceive there is not a man in the pulpit. So the best preparation to preach is not so much the training we have had, or what we have got together for a certain hour, but what we are then and all the time. What we are is dependent upon our relation to God. What we are may be largely measured by our devotional life.

Then, too, you have seen one who lacked the indefinable something as he went among his people. He was faithful in his pastoral visiting, but somehow he did not draw the people to him. In sorrow he used kind words, but there was more of comfort from an humbler brother, who took the burdened one's hand and tried to say something and failed, for the words he had only a vague idea of himself, died in his throat. Perhaps the former had lost real sympathy by too little communion with God.

There will come times in your experience when you will suffer great discouragement, without a constant touch with God; when you look upon many empty pews; when you urge a brother to "come to church to-morrow," and he replies every time, "I'll try to get out," and you hear of his visiting friends instead; when the meeting seems a failure; when you can't raise the collections, and your salary is behind; when you reap such little things, when they might be so large; your heart will sometimes bleed and break without a closer walk with God.

And while we are intent upon saving others we must keep ever burning the "flames of sacred love" in our own hearts. See the Master, as his custom was, going into the synagogue; see him as he goes into the mountain apart, or as he lies prostrate under the gnarled old olives one sorrowful night; and as he lived close to the Father all the way; so let us live, and we shall be all the better for it in the pulpit, in pastoral work, and in our own souls.

If all the lawless elements in the country were combined they would not form a force sufficient to defy the law, if all law-abiding men would stand together. The thought is worthy of consideration.

OUR DEBT TO THE FUTURE.

BY REV. H. P. THOMASSON.

We are amazed at the wonders brought to light during the past third of a century, and can but speculate concerning what the present century will unfold. The achievements of the immediate past inspire confidence that the future has much in store. It is easy to believe that the tides sweep irresistibly onward. Pessimism is almost impossible.

And who does not wish to live and behold that unknown, yet enticingly near future? Perhaps a lifting of the veil would bring a disappointing disclosure. Would our delightful anticipations and dreams be realized? If the future generation should pass before us in review, would there be satisfaction or disappointment? Would truth and honor be borne aloft and purity and love be emblazoned on the banners of the moving hosts? Would we see the Church triumphant and heathen races marching under Christian banners? Or would the reverse be true, and graft, greed, fraud and their attendant train be seen? Would law be trampled underfoot and vice exalted? And this eternal question, the mystery of it, makes the future enchanting.

How easy to thrust it aside and say, "That depends upon the people who shall live in those coming years; that depends upon the teachers, the parents, the preachers, the press of that future time. What is that to me? I have quite enough to do in minding my own affairs. Let others care for the future." But thou speakest not wisely. These are responsibilities that cannot be shirked. They press down upon thy shoulders. The answer to this question can and must be given, in large part, by the present.

We, ourselves, are weaving the future, and its warp and woof will be ours. The future will be what we make it. It depends upon our conduct in the home, in the mart, in the pulpit. The boy is father to the man, the present is parent to the future. To-day, moment by moment, we are making the future, its successes, its failures, its men good and evil, so far as training and godly example may go, and we shall stand in judgment, and give an account.

When our Lord comes, shall we each be able to say, "Lord Jesus, I have done what I could to advance thy kingdom and to make the world a better, brighter place in which to live?"
Boyce, La.

The Canal-Louisiana Bank and Trust Company

CORNER CAMP AND GRAVIER STS.

Embraces every function of financial business. It solicits your deposit account subject to cheque. It solicits your SAVINGS ACCOUNT upon which will be allowed INTEREST at the rate of 3 1-2 per cent. per annum, compounded semi-annually.

It will safeguard your securities in its BURGLAR and FIRE-PROOF SAFETY DEPOSIT VAULTS. It will collect Bonds, Rents, Mortgages, Interest, Dividends, Coupons and every class of income. It will pay Taxes and Insurance, sell property and undertake the care and management of Estates. It will act as Executor, Administrator, Guardian or Trustee under will or by appointment of court.

DURING YOUR LIFETIME IT WILL ACT AS YOUR AGENT AND AT YOUR DEATH IT WILL ADMINISTER YOUR ESTATE.

Its Foreign Exchange Department buys and sells Drafts and Cable Transfers; Issues Commercial and Travelers' Letters of Credit available in all parts of the world, makes collections and does a general foreign exchange business.

Accounts of Individuals, Firms, Banks and Corporations Respectfully Solicited.

Every Accommodation Offered Consistent With Safe and Legitimate Banking.

TO WHITWORTH COLLEGE.

BY [illegible] HOWARD BENTON.

Within thy dear old walls, Whitworth,
Maidens fair as any on earth
Have dwelt awhile beneath thy roof,
Of wisdom all to learn the proof;
[illegible] is all its knowledge—
'Tis for this we go to college.

Within thy classic halls, Whitworth,
Many a thought has had its birth;
Not thoughts, of course, that move the world,
Like those from brain of Milton hurled;
But thoughts that beautify a life,
Make future homes with blessings rife.

Within thy old class-rooms, Whitworth,
Many a girl has proved her worth;
Many the problems hard she solved,
Round which masculine brain revolved;
Many a page of Cæsar well read,
O'er which many a boy has scratched his head.

Under thy dear old trees, Whitworth,
The sound of laughter and of mirth
Has often rung at close of day;
Has chased the home-sick sigh away,
And given to memory sweet store
Of happy schoolgirl fun and lore.

Many daughters of thine, Whitworth,
Have gone the way of all the earth.
Many still all o'er this Southland
Scattered are. We sing thy praise and Wish for thee glory yet greater,
Dear Whitworth, our Alma Mater.

Leesville, La., May, 1908.

THE ALEXANDRIA DISTRICT.

SOME OF MY EXPERIENCES AND OBSERVATIONS.

BY REV. J. D. HARPER.

My first appointment in the Conference, 1873, was Washington (then in the Opelousas District), a small station, 37 members, most of them poor, salary small; so I was sexton, Sunday school superintendent and pastor, all in one. There was not a dearth of preachers then, and appointments were made to supply places for them.

In January, 1875, with six others, I traveled from the northern part of the State to the Conference in Alexandria, Bishop Paine presiding. The sessions were held in the courthouse, as our church was burned during the war, and had not been rebuilt. The Bishop preached in the Pineville church on Sunday, and as the weather was intensely cold he kept on his overcoat. The Alexandria District embraced about the same territory then as now, but most of the charges were poor, and salaries small. One of the preachers, when he heard his appointment (Montgomery), asked for a location, because, he said, he could not get a support there.

I served the "Alexandria and Pineville" charge in '80 and '81. It was a circuit of four appointments, including "Howerton Hill," on Bayou Rapides, and Lamourie. The plan was to preach in one of these country churches at 11 a. m. once a month, drive back to one of the towns and preach at night, and alternate between the two town churches the other Sundays. I mention these facts to show changes that have occurred since then. The roads were bad and traveling difficult, but the presiding elder traveled from Columbia to Spring Creek, most of the time in the saddle. J. H. Stone, Fred White, Silas H. Cooper and Judge Marshall were presiding elders by turns. The first three named have "crossed over the river," and Judge Marshall, I believe, lives on Sicily Island.

In [illegible] there were [illegible] white members and seventy-one colored in the District, and the salary of Christian Keener at Alexandria and Pineville was $800. Of the fourteen pastors in the district the salaries of four are not given, and of the other ten the average salary was $[illegible]. Fifty-nine dollars was paid for missions, an average of about three and one-third cents per member. In 1907 there were [illegible] members, and the average salary paid preachers, including presiding elder, was $[illegible], and for missions, foreign and home, the average was about forty cents per member.

I note an interesting incident at the District Conference held in Pineville in 1881. A plan was adopted for sending deputations consisting of two preachers and one layman to the several charges to preach and deliver addresses on missions, and to assist the pastor in taking collections, and that year the district paid for Foreign Missions $300, for Home $[illegible]—about sixteen and one-half cents per member. In '82, with no definite plan, it paid for Foreign Missions $125, Home $43.40—about six and one-half cents per member.

These contrasts show what agitation and enthusiasm may do.

The Alexandria District planned and established Pointe Coupe Mission.

When I think of the hard work of these self-sacrificing and poorly-paid preachers of the past who did so much to plant Methodism in the bounds of our territory, and left so rich a heritage into which we have entered, I can but say, "What a goodly company!" and inspired by these heroic lives, like Paul, we ought to "Thank God" and take "courage."

Bunkie, La.

FIRST CHURCH, ALEXANDRIA.

BY REV. H. R. SINGLETON.

Methodism had its beginnings in Alexandria beyond the memory of the "oldest inhabitant." Its first services were held under the trees by a preacher who came over from the Natchez country.

Among the earliest pastors of whom there is any record, appear the names of Harmon, Craven, Lacey, and Linfield. The latter, Dr. Linfield, later of the Mississippi Conference, was pastor of the church at Alexandria during the War. During his pastorate the church was burned by the Federal troops. He got upon the roof to extinguish the flames, and some of the soldiers went with him for the ostensible purpose of assisting him, but in reality were spreading the fire by putting cotton, soaked in oil, under the shingles.

After the War, the first pastor was Rev. H. O. White, now pastor of our church at Columbia, La. Following him came J. A. Ivy, John C. Marshall, Samuel Armstrong, Christian Keener, J. W. Medlock, Christian Keener (again), J. L. P. Sheppard, J. D. Harper, J. M. Johnston, J. M. Beard, B. F. White, T. K. Faunt-leroy, Robert Randle, T. J. Upton, L. F. Jackson, W. J. Roberts, A. D. McVoy, C. C. Miller, Glenn Flynn, N. E. Joyner and H. R. Singleton.

If the records at hand are correct, the only pastors who ever served this charge the full four years were J. M. Beard and B. F. White, though C. C. Miller was well on his fourth year when he was taken away and put in charge of Centenary College.

Until the last year the congregation has always worshipped at Third and Washington Sts., and so was known as the Third Street Methodist Church, though its official title has for some time been First Methodist Church.

The church which was torn down last year was erected by Rev. B. F. White and dedicated by Bishop Galloway. The preceeding building was erected by Rev. Christian Keener. During the pastorate of Rev. N. E. Joyner the agitation for a new church became so strong that a committee was appointed to [illegible] and see if the old property could be sold to advantage. Then came a change in pastors, and [illegible] the property on Third Street was sold and a new lot and parsonage secured in the very centre of the city. An architect was engaged who drew up plans for a building to cost $20,000.00, but the lowest bid secured was some $[illegible] and the building will run a little above this, which price does not include the lot, which cost $5,500.00, nor the furnishings, which will cost as much more.

The new building is of St. Louis [illegible] pressed brick with Bedford stone trimmings. It is 80 by [illegible] feet and has an auditorium that seats 450 and a Sunday School room that seats nearly as many, connected by rolling partitions, so that it can all be thrown into one room, and more than 800 people can see and hear the speaker. This will make it the most commodious auditorium in Alexandria. There are separate class rooms for seven classes, a kitchen, toilet rooms, study, and every modern convenience have been installed.

The organ will be twenty feet high and twenty feet wide, and have 18 stops. The pews are of Colonial design, in harmony with the rest of the building. The windows are as beautiful a lot as ever went into a church, many of them being memorials, some very costly. The windows cost $[illegible]. The building is heated in winter and cooled in summer by a system of mechanical ventilation.

The building is to be opened for worship on the second Sunday in June, the sermon of the occasion being preached by Dr. W. F. McMurry, of the Church Extension office. It is expected at that time there will be but a very small debt upon the building—in fact, none on the building itself, and only a little on the furnishings.

The membership of the church at present is 575, a gain of some 60 during the present pastorate. Owing to the unsettled state of the congregation there has been no revival this year as yet, but the members are looking forward to a good meeting under the leadership of Rev. Clarence B. Strouse as soon as the new building is completed.

The present Stewards are H. H. White, R. L. Roberts, T. W. Holloman, [illegible] Lin, and J. T. Butler.

The Trustees are H. H. White, R. H. McGimsey, Ed. Rand, W. C. Roberts, [illegible] M. Nu-

"Dat aint no Angel!
BUT, hit's de bornment uh goodness es de same; An' tells you, when you gits a taste uh dat dar LUZIANNE COFFEE you feels mighty close to de Good Place."
25 CENTS PER POUND
THE Reily-Taylor Co.
NEW ORLEANS, U.S.A.

gent; L. P. Whittington, Wm. Hill, and T. W. Holloman, who is also Sunday School Superintendent.

The Building Committee is composed of H. H. White, Ed. Rand, J. M. Nugent, W. C. Roberts, and T. W. Holloman.

The Woman's Home Mission Society, under the presidency of Mrs. L. B. Baynard, is doing a splendid work and is a great factor in the prosperity of the church.

NATCHITOCHES—AN OPPORTUNITY.

BY REV. M. C. HOLT.

Natchitoches, the parish-site of Natchitoches Parish, is situated on Cane River, seventy miles southeast of Shreveport. It is said to be the third oldest town in the United States, and is noted for the education, refinement and culture of the inhabitants.

The population of about 3,500 is largely—perhaps two-thirds—of French descent; therefore nominally Catholic. The rest of the population is Jewish and Protestant. There is a broad, liberal spirit among the membership of the various churches—a tolerance for each others' opinions which is commendable. The Catholics, Methodists, Baptists, Episcopalians and Jews have church organizations and houses of worship. All of these are doing their part in the cause of morality and religion. They work with little or no friction, and the Baptists and Methodists join forces twice a month in evening services, which are largely attended and prove very helpful.

The State Normal School is located here, consequently students from all parts of the State come to prepare themselves to be trained teachers. They are an earnest body of young people, who are striving to equip themselves for effective service in life. The annual enrollment is about 750, and they are at the formative period, as they vary in age from 15 to 25.

The Methodist students number about 150. They come to us for Biblical knowledge, for ideals of Christian service, for the moulding and the development of Christian character.

The opportunity is two-fold: First—There is a gradual breaking away from Church authority, and a demand for the "religion of the Spirit;" hence there is an opportunity for an aggressive, spiritual Church and ministry to proclaim the unsearchable riches of Christ to the townspeople. Our Church has a special mission because of its liberality of view, its breadth and freedom of thought and its special emphasis upon the value of the individual Christian experience.

Second—A mission to the students. The work of the Sunday school is of special importance, for the students should be trained in the Bible, as they will go out over the State and be teachers and superintendents of Sunday schools. The Sunday school here is striving to be true to its obligation and has a corps of well-trained officers and teachers; it has provided a four years' systematic course of study, which will give them a knowledge of the Bible. Then, too, the Church and ministry are striving to present to the students a practical, sane, spiritual view of life. They are trying to make Christ so attractive to them that he will become the inspirer of their lives, which will express itself in Christian service and the development of a Christian character.

The needs are:

First—A deepening of the spiritual life of the Church and ministry. A church spirit should be aroused, which will cause all to work earnestly for the cause of Jesus Christ and live the true life as it is in him.

Second—A modern church building centrally located. Individual class-rooms are needed for effective Sunday school work, as the present overcrowded condition makes it impossible to obtain the best results. No better investment could be made by the Methodists of Louisiana than to assist the local congregation in putting up a suitable building and thus establishing Methodism firmly at this strategic point.

SHREVEPORT DISTRICT MISSIONARY INSTITUTE.

Mr. Editor: I had the opportunity of attending the Missionary Institute at Mansfield, May 18-20. As Rev. Perry O. Lowrey was secretary, and took full notes of all that was done, he will likely report to the ADVOCATE the proceedings in detail. I may, however, say that the speeches made and papers read were of a high order, and the opening sermon of Rev. W. H. Benton was most excellent. Our ever young brother, the Rev. Robt. J. Harp, pastor of Noel Memorial Church, in Shreveport, was requested to send his splendid paper on "The Divine Purpose of the Church" to the NEW ORLEANS ADVOCATE for publication.

The guest of President Dean, I was pleased to note the perfect management and happy conditions existing at our college for girls. Prof. Dean's paper on "The Laymen's Movement" was a thoughtful and strong presentation of the origin, development and encouraging outlook of this wonderful rallying of the laity in behalf of world-wide missions and other vital interests of our Church. Brother Dean's paper should have a place in your columns for the benefit of your readers throughout Louisiana and Mississippi.

President W. L. Weber, of Centenary College, delivered several addresses on missions during the session, and his lay sermon at 11 o'clock on Wednesday electrified all; and at its conclusion we had a veritable feast of love for our blessed Lord and his cause, and for one another. I am convinced that our boys at Centenary and our girls at Mansfield are in safe hands under the instruction and example of such men of ability and piety as are Weber and Dean. The fall openings should show at each institution a large attendance of Methodist youth.

JOHN T. SAWYER.

LOUISIANA METHODIST ORPHANAGE

This worthy institution has been caring for children since 1905. At that time two little girls were sent to the Baton Rouge Orphanage and boarded at the expense of the Louisiana Methodist Orphanage for one year. In 1906 a temporary home was installed at Bunkie, La., where children were cared for until September, 1907, when they were all transferred to a rented cottage in Ruston, the permanent headquarters of the Louisiana Methodist Orphanage.

The Orphans' Home building is located in south Ruston, on a beautiful plot of forty acres of land. We hope to move into one wing of our new building some time in July, and expect to have the building completed next fall.

The children who are large enough have attended the public school in Ruston during the past session. They were all advanced a grade at the close of school. Only one child in the Home was old enough to attend the Industrial School.

The new building the Board is constructing is to be modern in all departments. The plan of the building is after the cottage plan under one roof. It is divided into sections. Each little dormitory cares for eight children; each has a reading-room and bathroom. The building is to be heated with hot water and lighted by electricity.

C. C. WIER.

Don't quarrel over circumstances, nor fret over impossibilities. It's far better to climb mountains than curse them.—Exchange.

NEW ORLEANS PREACHERS' MEETING

The meeting of May 25 was given over to hearing reports from the local churches. Additions to membership during the month: First Church, 26; Carrollton Avenue, 10; Louisiana Avenue, 8; Epworth, 1; Felicity, 3; Werlein Mission, 2; Parker Memorial, 1.

Special services have been the feature in several of the local churches during this month. Louisiana Avenue has a people's service on Friday evenings. It seems that the attendance has gone beyond all expectations. Felicity Church has had a programme on the subject of "The Problems of the Day" for several Sunday evenings past.

Rev. J. E. Wray preached the commencement sermon last Sunday for Mansfield Female College, and Rev. A. I. Townsley preached the commencement sermon for the High School at Covington, La.

Some interesting items were reported on Sunday School work. Werlein Mission has a lady superintendent. Carrollton Avenue held Children's Day service, with eight uniting with the Church. First Church reached the 246th mark in attendance on May 3.

Rev. C. C. Weir, agent for the Orphanage of the Louisiana Conference, was a welcome visitor, and spoke encouragingly of his work.

The preachers listened to an interesting address by the Conference Missionary Evangelist, Dr. J. T. Sawyer.

The following resolution was adopted:

"Whereas we realize the great present need of our Parker Memorial Church, we, the Preachers' Meeting of New Orleans, urge upon Dr. W. F. McMurry to come and look over the situation, in order to fully grasp the importance of the problem and the imperative need of aid at this time for this work."

ROYAL PRINCES LEARN TRADES.

The two sons of Prince Frederick Leopold, of Prussia, have been sent to attend the military academy at Gross Lichterfelde.

At the same time, in accordance with an old custom of the Hohenzollern family, they are being taught trades. Fifteen-year-old Prince Frederick Carl is learning the art of locksmithing, while Prince Frederick Sigismund is being taught carpentering, which was the trade learned by the Kaiser when a boy.

For each dreamer, of all the young pilgrims across the world of time, there waits the angel ladder. Beside each one of us the bush in the desert burns with fire. The difference between those who see and those who do not see these things lies in their devotion or disobedience to truth, so far as they know it.—F. B. Meyer.

Harness and Saddles
E. G. AWCOCK,
333 BARONNE STREET,
Phone Main 4467. New Orleans, La.
Repairs Neatly and Promptly Done.

ESTABLISHED 1891
JOHN DAVID BURGHARDT CO.,
"THE RELIABLE" PLUMBERS and GAS FITTERS.
Agency: Born's Patent Steel Ranges. Hygeia Water Filters.
613-615 Bienville St. Phone Main 2026.
Jobbing and Repair Work a Specialty. New Orleans, La.

Our line of Stoves, Kitchen Furnishings, and General Household Supplies is full of interest to all Good Housekeepers.

Suppose you take a look at it for yourself—

UNITED HARDWARE CO.,
LIMITED.

[illegible]

[illegible]

The [illegible] of the [illegible] which [illegible] the [illegible] of the [illegible] [illegible].

[illegible] the [illegible] Mission work. The charge [illegible] Board of Missions [illegible] and the [illegible] [illegible] a [illegible] missionary.

The policy [illegible] toward [illegible] the [illegible] which the [illegible] taken. The policy of [illegible] that [illegible] does practically nothing toward relieving the [illegible] situation and encourages a [illegible] and [illegible] set of church officers [illegible] it as a salary for their [illegible] and the work remains a mission perpetually. Contrast this with the policy of the General Board and you will see its folly. When a man is wanted for Brazil, China or Japan he may be going to minister to the most ignorant of men and to the most unpromising field. Yet no candidate will be accepted who has not had a good grammar school education, and those men are preferred who in addition to a college and university training, have had several years of actually successful experience in the work at the home field. This is a wise policy, for the formation of a church in a new field needs to be done with a master-hand.

As we come to adopt more of this plan in the home field our work will be more successful. Even if the old method had solved the old problem, the work is becoming so complex that the method must be changed or we must give up the field.

The old problem was simply a question of meeting the tendencies of the English, German and other British and European Protestants and gathering them into churches and building on the foundations laid by the early reformers. It was comparatively easy to assimilate ten per cent of immigration in one generation when the majority of them were of the same nationality and religious traditions with ourselves. But the French Huguenot and the British Covenanter with the throng of immigrants induced by motives of gain and dominated by the morals of Southern Europe, who have been the victims of centuries of Romanism, together with the immediate prospect of an Asiatic immigration that have been for ages under paganism, and are in their morals as far below the Italian Romanist as the Italian Romanist is below the British Protestant. The ends of the earth have been brought to our doors, and the Home Mission problem is a composite of all the problems of all the fields that the Church through its missionaries is occupying. The general looseness with which our people have come to regard the once strict moral standards shows the effect of this immigration on our country.

But though the problem is a difficult one the Church can solve it. If she can enter the strongholds of paganism and eventually overthrow the foundations of non-Christian society, surely she can deal with the situations as they arise in the land where she has first claim. But we cannot do so by using a method that was never intended to meet this situation, and is not adapted to it.

The work of Home Missions to-day is in two fields:

First.—There is the country church, which [illegible]

[illegible] the Church [illegible] a good congregation [illegible] There are Italians enough in [illegible] a flourishing Italian [illegible] The [illegible] are numerous and more than [illegible] The German work has been left almost entirely to other communions, though we have had two German churches in New Orleans.

These are [illegible] and should be [illegible] by the General Board at an early date. The [illegible] of [illegible] a [illegible] for the Church should have [illegible] It is a great opportunity, for now we may evangelize them and [illegible] our home field at the same time.

SELMA, LA.

Selma, La., is a thriving saw-mill town [illegible] miles north of Alexandria, La. This town is comparatively a new one, numbering in all 800 people, about 500 white and 300 colored.

Its only enterprise is that of manufacturing lumber, pine lumber. As a manufacturing center for this enterprise, Selma [illegible] in the State. The [illegible] sawmill plant is owned and operated by the Grant Timber & Lumber Co., and has a capacity of 250,000 feet daily. [illegible] the finest grades of lumber [illegible] the world's market are [illegible] and loaded on board of cars at the planing mills and shipped to every part of the [illegible]. The daily shipment from this great plant is equal to that of [illegible] fact that [illegible] the latest and up-to-date [illegible] and hauling material [illegible] of material [illegible] by electricity [illegible] one man can do the work of ten men with much greater ease and satisfaction. It is one of the twentieth-century wonders to see an electrical [illegible] from the ground to a single rail whizzing through space carrying a load of lumber containing from 800 to 1000 feet, placing it right at the mouth of the machine that is ready to put the marketing touch upon it. The electric plant of the company is one of the most modern inventions of the age. All the planing machines are operated by electricity. In addition to the manufacturing plant this company carries on a large mercantile business, [illegible]

[illegible] the M. E. Church, South, [illegible] Baptist Church [illegible] The M. E. Church, South, [illegible]

[illegible] we have an excellent Sunday school with [illegible] hundred children and adults [illegible] baseball team, Ladies' Aid Society and [illegible] in fact we are a [illegible] people. E.

GET SOLID PROTECTION AND INSURE WITH
LEON IRWIN & CO.
Fire and Casualty Insurance.
833 GRAVIER STREET. PHONE MAIN 585

W. W. Carre Co., Ltd.
Manufacturers and Exporters of
LUMBER,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Phone Main [illegible]
ROOMS and BOARD
634 and 636 SOUTH STREET LAFAYETTE SQUARE
CORNER ST. CHARLES ST., NEW ORLEANS
UNLIMITED MEALS. ALVIN PORTER, Manager.

W. F. M. S.

CARROLLTON AUXILIARY TO HOLD A PUBLIC SERVICE.

At a recent meeting of the Carrollton Avenue Auxiliary of the W. F. M. S. an "echo" of the recent General Board session was held after the business routine of the Auxiliary. Several took part, and, in their own way, told how they were impressed by that great mass of missionary intelligence and inspiration gained from the presence of the Woman's Board of Foreign Missions in New Orleans. This meeting was a blessing to those present.

On May 31, 1908, the Ninth Anniversary of the Carrollton Auxiliary will occur, and arrangements are being made to hold our usual public meeting in Carrollton Avenue Church, at 7:45 o'clock in the evening. It is planned to have a specially interesting service, and Rev. George D. Parker, soon to sail for Brazil, will preach the annual sermon, which will be his farewell address. Friends and members are cordially invited to attend.

INGREE PETERSON.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

OUR MISSIONARIES AND MISSIONARY CANDIDATES.

The following letter was read at the last session of our W. F. M. Conference by the corresponding secretary, Mrs. A. F. Watkins:

"To the President and Members of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the Mississippi Conference—

"Dear Friends: Knowing that our annual meeting is fast approaching, we think you may be glad to have a message from the Training School.

"First of all, we must tell you something of what it has meant to us personally. A few months ago it was a cross to us to give up the work we were doing and enter a new field. We had learned to love the children under our care and our associates in the work. We wondered if in our new field there would be any relationship so close and so dear as that we severed when we said good-bye to our pupils. But we find that the love we felt for those nearest to us has enlarged to embrace all mankind. We find our work satisfying to the deepest longings of our souls. We cannot tell you how full of inspiration and of joy the year has been. We would that we might give you a picture of the life of the School; but it must be seen to be appreciated. It is certainly a place for the development of a young woman's highest capabilities. We wish that every girl of our acquaintance might take the course here. Considered from an intellectual standpoint, the work is a valuable training. A student who has studied in the universities of Nashville and Chicago says that the teachers here compare favorably with those of these institutions.

"The spirit of the School is truly Christian. A band of truer, nobler women we have not seen. To see almost a hundred persons, coming from such varied conditions, representing so many different interests, yet working together in harmony of spirit, has given us a new conception of the power of Christianity. To live in contact with the members of the Faculty is an education in itself. We count it a great privilege to know them.

"Your interest and prayers have been a constant source of strength to us. We feel deeply the responsibility that you have placed upon us in making us your representatives, and we long more and more to prove faithful to our trust, that our united efforts may not fail to accomplish our Father's purpose.

"Hoping that the annual meeting may mean much to those who attend, and to our whole Conference, we are, Yours with love,

NEVADA MARTIN,
HALLIE BUIE."

Miss Nell Drake, writing from Laura Haygood Memorial, January 26, 1908, tells of the commencement exercises just preceding the Chinese New Year holidays.

"Our commencement was held Friday afternoon, and we had quite a crowd of Chinese present. They seemed to enjoy the entertainment, and those who had daughters were as proud of them as American parents would be. Our girls were very proud of themselves, and much pleased to receive an encore when they had the drill. The Chinese do not applaud, but there were enough missionaries here to make quite a respectable noise.

"On Thursday afternoon the father of two of our girls brought a graphophone over and gave us a concert. The music was Chinese, of course, and somewhat excruciating, but I was interested in hearing Chinese music. We are invited to their house to a feast during the holidays, and as it is a heathen home the visit will be one of special interest."

In a letter of March 15 she encloses a little water-color made by one of the girls. A number of them draw nicely, and seem fond of the work. "The line of girls walking to church is quite a long one now. I have been teaching them to march, and most of them keep step well."

She looks forward to planting flower seeds from the dear home-land. "Janie (Watkins) has planted lettuce and radish seed, and so we hope to have some vegetables. Miss Fish—a Presbyterian missionary, sent us over a good many strawberry plants yesterday, which we have set out. Our space for a garden is quite limited."

March 22. "Yesterday afternoon I walked over again to the Confucian Temple with Mr. Gee. I did not see any change in its appearance since my first visit. Possibly things were a little cleaner. Mr. Gee says they offer animal sacrifices in the temple twice a year—I suppose to Confucius."

"There are many missionaries here in Soochow because of the two hospitals and two schools. Nearly all of them do a great deal of country work. They go away in the little boats and are absent several days at a time, distributing literature and preaching at different places. Mr. Burke is the only one of our mission who can do this work, as the rest of us are either teachers or doctors."

March 29. "One of our girls, the president of the Y. W. C. A., has a brother in Cornell University. Last year the Chinese government offered to send ten boys and girls to America to be educated, paying all their expenses. Those were sent who stood highest in the examination. This boy was one of the ten. He is the son of a poor Methodist local preacher, so it is a great opportunity for him. He sends his sister postcards and writes to her quite often. She is wearing a Cornell pin, and he has sent her his photograph taken in American dress, adorned with what seems to be either a society or fraternal pin. I think most of our girls would like to go to the United States to study."

April 5. "One of our students died last week. She had gone home sick, and we did not know of her death till the amah came to get her things. Her mother was dead; she had no sisters, and her father was away from home. I think she was almost alone, except for the servants. The amah had cared for her since her babyhood. She was a Christian, having been converted some years ago through Mary Culler White's influence. At the last she asked the old heathen amah to pray for her, but she didn't know how. Miss Pyle regretted that she did not hear of her illness and could not be with her in her last hours. We had a little memorial service here, and I think the girls were quite impressed. Miss Pyle had some of the students to write a letter of sympathy to the family. In this letter one of them said, "We sorrow for ourselves, but we know that she is happy with the Creator of all things," using the same word for Lord that the Christians do. We think this girl is becoming more interested in Christianity, because once or twice she has come to our little Y. W. C. A. meetings, and attendance is voluntary.

"Another one of our girls left us this week. The viceroy insisted that she come and teach his children, and as her father is his friend, she had to go. Of course, it was an honor, but she did not want to leave school a bit and wept over the change. She says she is coming back another year.

"Last Sunday night fourteen joined the Church, twelve from Miss Atkinson's school."

With this cheering news we close the record for this issue.

CLARA B. DRAKE,
Supt. Press Work, Miss. Conf. W. F. M. S.

THE GENERAL MINUTES.

The minutes of all the Annual Confernces are published every year by Smith & Lamar. Bound together, they make a volume of over three hundred pages, and, in paper cover, the volume sells for fifty cents. Preachers who desire information concerning every Annual Conference and the numerical strength of every pastoral charge can get it nowhere else than in this volume, unless he goes to the trouble and expense of securing separate copies of the minutes from Conference secretaries.

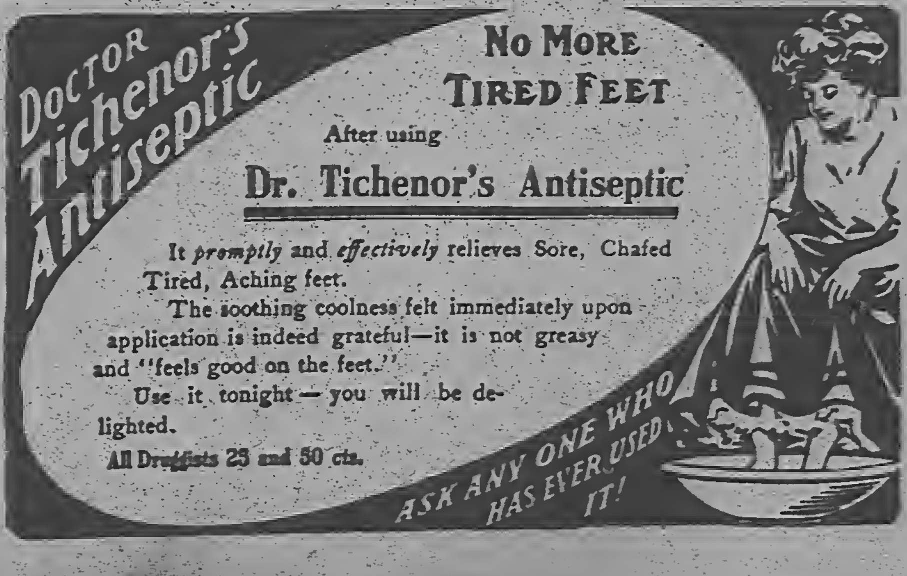
The agents, Smith & Lamar, brought out the minutes for 1907 in good time, and in good shape. They have our thanks for a copy. It is a book of almost daily reference in our office.

Zion's Herald admits that the Rev. R. J. Campbell of the City Temple, London, knows something of "social order," but says: "When it comes to theology, Mr. Campbell simply flounders, and great is the splash thereof."

Those whose lives are governed by principle rather than policy can well afford to bear patiently the criticisms of designing and wicked men. Their thrusts will do them no harm.

BELLEVUE POULTRY SUPPLY CO.

Everything in the poultry line: Chickens, Parrots, Guinea Pigs, Rabbits and Pet Stock of every description; Cyphers, Incubators and Feed at Factory Prices, may be had by writing us at 740 Camp St., New Orleans, La. Catalogue sent free.



Doctor Tichenor's Antiseptic

NO MORE TIRED FEET

After using

Dr. Tichenor's Antiseptic

It promptly and effectively relieves Sore, Chafed Tired, Aching feet.

The soothing coolness felt immediately upon application is indeed grateful—it is not greasy and "feels good on the feet."

Use it tonight—you will be delighted.

All Druggists 25 and 50 cts.

ASK ANY ONE WHO HAS EVER USED IT!

Christian Advocate.

REV. JNO. W. BOSWELL, D.D., Editor.
REV. H. WHITEHEAD, Ass't Editor.
CHAS. O. CHALMERS, Publisher.

ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT NEW ORLEANS AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

OFFICE 511 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS

TERMS:
One Copy, one year, $2; six months, $1. To Preachers of all Denominations, half-price.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEES:
LOUISIANA CONFERENCE—Rev. W. W. Drake, Rev. N. E. Joyner, Rev. J. M. Henry.
MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE—Rev. M. L. Burton, Rev. W. H. Lewis, Rev. C. W. Crisler.
NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE—Rev. W. T. J. Sullivan, D.D., Rev. J. T. Murrah, Rev. W. W. Woollard.

OUR INNOVATION.

The Alexandria District, Louisiana Conference, counts itself fortunate. Dr. Boswell and Brother Chalmers have graciously granted us a whole edition of the ADVOCATE as "The Alexandria District Number," and this issue is the result.

Of course, the old readers will be lenient with us. The old saw about new brooms does not apply to a novice in an editorial chair. Even this bit of experience convinces us that a recruit cannot readily acquire the ways of a veteran. But we feel a little confident in regard to our contributions. The preachers and laymen of the district are well represented in the articles appearing in other columns.

A word as to what is attempted in this special edition. In addition to giving a full account of the work of the district, the occasion will be used to put the ADVOCATE into all of the homes of the district. We have arranged with the publisher for one thousand extra copies to be spread broad-cast in the territory covered by the district, the 10 central parishes of the State of Louisiana.

During the month of June, we propose to make an active campaign for a big district club of new subscribers. So much by way of explanation.

We must express our appreciation of the courtesies shown by everybody connected with the ADVOCATE, from the editor and publisher, down to the compositors. Alexandria District salutes them, and invites them to a meeting with dinner on the ground!

THE FINANCIAL STRINGENCY.

We have all busied ourselves about its causes. What are its lessons? Many things, doubtless, were contributory to the panic of the banks and the tightening of purse-strings. We have all been to blame in part. What big men, bad men, if you will, did in a large way, small men did in their little way. Watering stock, juggling millions, and living beyond the bounds of a small income are of a kind, though differing in size. Furthermore, we are not so badly hurt as we imagined. Let us look around and learn what we may.

Even a cursory view reveals the fact that money means much to us—far too much. We know how to make and to have, how to abound; but what a face we make when want pinches. The Church has not been altogether free in this matter. The sixty dollars allowed our fathers in the ministry seems to us a beggarly sum indeed. Nor have we taught our people the responsibility that comes with money. Too frequently we have left them to give out of their abundance. If now they have less to give, the opportunity to prove their love is the greater. Love prompts the sacrifice. Take care that your economy begins not at the Lord's treasury.

We have been too extravagant. We love the best things. Money must not be hoarded; it should not be wasted. Spending money is not always "laying up treasure in heaven." Let us hope the present financial crisis will lead to simple living. Perhaps the Master referred to the dinner when he said, "One thing is needful."

We have mistaken the power of money. Money does not readily lend itself to the making of men. Prosperity has not much character stuff in it. Hard times are better character builders than days of plenty. As a Church we have believed in the power of money. Full collections, great donations brought confidence. Prayer is far more potent. Money has its place in the kingdom, but the place is secondary.

We have had much money, but poor methods. We were rich, but not good financiers. This is true in Church and State. Our banking system needs revision, and our Church should learn to give more systematically. Our benefactions should not fluctuate with the markets. Our Board of Missions announced a shortage of $38,000 in the collections. This was occasioned by the financial stringency, but the cause was the late collection. And not a few preachers went to Conference without having received their usual salary, not so much for a lack of money as for a lack of energetic stewards. It is unjust to the pastor and demoralizing to the Church for the stewards to make no special effort until the end of the year. It is right for the minister to share the poverty of his people, but he is entitled to his share. Let us, as a Church, thank God for the times—they are good enough—and stand by our duty.

N. E. J.

THE STEWARD.

The average steward has not yet discovered his place in the Church. He does not take his election by the fourth Quarterly Conference as a very serious matter. He does not know that his work is as sacred and as vitally a part of the life and activity of the kingdom as is the work of his pastor. He is not accustomed to attend the Quarterly Conference. When he does come he does not know how much the pastor has received during the quarter until the historic eighth question is called and the pitiful odds and ends have been got together. He likes good sermons, but hates to collect money. He is more anxious to take a part in making the assessment than in raising the amount assessed. He usually pays his own part and he lets it be known, using this as his excuse. He expects his pastor to be on hand shortly after Conference and stay on hand until the end of the year; but he is persuaded that he cannot and will not make any special effort to raise the preacher's salary until the week before the preacher leaves for Conference. Sometimes he catches the preacher at the train, and I have known him to send a telegram after the preacher has left, making vain promises. This is the average steward.

Of course, there are stewards above this standard — as many as there are below it. Good men there are in the stewardship. Not infrequently the good steward is at Conference and hugs the preacher as soon as the appointments are read out. He is on the ground before the preacher arrives. His buggy is at the station when the preacher alights from the train. Wood is in the yard, bread is in the pantry and sometimes he has collected a little money to start the preacher off with. He not only goes to the Quarterly Conference, but he attends prayer-meeting and never lets question eight slip out of his sight. I have even known him to pray with people in their homes when he goes to collect money. If he dislikes to ask for money he remembers that he is doing it for the Lord, and he believes the Lord will reward him.

What shall I say of the steward who is below par? Bear with him awhile, admonish him, and if he repent not, nominate someone else at the next fourth Quarterly Conference.

N. E. J.

OUR ADVERTISERS.

We call attention to advertisements in this number of firms in Alexandria, and to the special advertisement of Seashore Camp Ground. The business men of Alexandria are always alert, and they believe in the church paper as an advertising medium. We commend them to our readers. As to the Seashore, we advise you to go and see for yourself. It is a good place.

ALEXANDRIA DISTRICT PERSONALS.

The First Church at Alexandria will be opened by Dr. W. F. McMurry on Sunday, June 14, instead of the 7th, as formerly announced.

Rev. G. D. Purcell is in the midst of a revival at Tioga, La. Rev. T. M. Finley is assisting him.

Rev. M. C. Holt, of Natchitoches, is planning for a new church. He has just finished a complete renovation of the parsonage.

Rev. H. R. Harper, of Lecompte, preached the Commencement Sermon for the Bunkie High School on Sunday, May 24th.

Dr. J. A. Biggs, who is supplying Master's Chapel, is a member of the present Legislature, and may be expected to be on the right side of all live issues.

Rev. A. W. Turner is meeting with fine success at the old "Mother Church," in Opelousas. He recently assisted Brother Elliott in a gracious revival at Selma.

Rev. N. E. Joyner is giving a stereopticon lecture on Mexico all over his district, enlivening Quarterly Conference occasions and creating a more intelligent interest in our work in Mexico.

Alexandria District is planning for a big Laymen's Rally during the Summer. A large attendance is expected, and prominent business men from all over the State will be on the programme.

Seven of the charges have already paid the Foreign Mission Assessment in full—First Church, Alexandria; Le Compte, Bunkie, Opelousas, Colfax, Chicot, Trout and Jena. Two other charges have paid in part.

Rev. P. M. Brown, Trout and Jena, reports a revival at Jena. There were many conversions; about twenty joined the church and one young man will apply for license to preach. A good meeting, that!

Brother Henry Harper and wife, of Lecompte, have been called to mourn the death of their only child, a sweet little boy who, for eighteen months, made their home joyous and bright. We mourn with them.

We call attention to the article by Hon. H. H. White on our front page. Brother White, in addition to his large law practice, is a wide-awake churchman, doing full duty as steward, trustee and Bible teacher.

Two of our princely laymen have recently gone to their reward—Judge R. J. Bowman, of Alexandria, and Hon. E. J. Joffrion, of Marksville, La. They were men of rare gifts, and their memories are an inspiration.

First Church, Alexandria, is receiving the finishing touches and will be opened for service on June 14th, by Dr. McMurray. There is not a prettier Methodist Church in Louisiana, thanks to Pastor Singleton and his Building Committee.

Rev. R. R. Orne, of Atlanta and Verda, has been very busy completing two new churches and is enthusiastic. In spite of hard times, he has raised money and carried on his work, and is now ready to begin a revival service at Verda. Brother M. C. Holt is to assist.

Rev. A. W. Turner, of Opelousas, has been inviting a number of prominent laymen to address the men of his congregation. Col. Nicholson, of the State University, Hon. H. H. White, and Judge Lewis, of Opelousas, are among the speakers who have already been heard.

PERSONALS.

The Vicksburg District Conference will be held at Bolton, Miss., June 10-14, instead of Edwards, the last of May, as previously announced.

Dr. W. L. C. Hunnicutt, whom the editor pro tem highly esteems, having been in his classes at old Centenary College, in past years, dropped into the ADVOCATE office on his way to Edwards, Miss., where he goes to take charge of the church.

Everett Leech, next to the oldest son of Rev. J. A. Leech, was suddenly killed by machinery in a brickyard, at Durant, Miss., on the 21st. We extend to the bereaved ones our sympathy and pray that they may be comforted and strengthened.

Rev. A. P. Sage, of Houston, Miss., passed to his reward the afternoon of May 25, at 1:55. For many months he had waited, confined to his room, the call to come above. He was ready and peace attended his departure.

On the last Sunday night in May, in the Carrollton Avenue Church, in this city, Rev. Geo. D. Parker will deliver his farewell address before sailing for Brazil. This will be part of the Anniversary Service of the Carrollton Avenue Auxiliary of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society.

We learn that Rev. A. Clark, of Okolona, Miss., is the proud possessor of a fine girl, who was born on the morning of the 19th, whose name is Mary Charlotte Clark. Mother and daughter doing nicely, and father happy. We congratulate the parents, and pray that this girl may be a benediction in their home, and that in the coming years she may render good service for the Master.

Dr. W. L. Lipscomb, of Columbus, Miss., passed away in great peace the morning of May 22. He was a great and good man. He leaves behind him his efficient representatives in the Master's work, Mrs. Mary Hargrove, of the Scarritt Bible and Training School, and Mrs. Sula Waters of Japan, being his daughters, and Rev. E. W. Lipscomb, of the Mississippi Conference, and Rev. T. H. Lipscomb, of the North Mississippi Conference, being his sons.

The Seashore District Conference convened in McHenry, Miss., May 19, with Rev. M. L. Burton, the presiding elder, in the chair. The weather was delightful, the breath of the pines was in the air, and the cheer of the King lighted the faces of the members of the Conference. The reports showed aggressive and successful work. When it was reported that 204 persons had joined the Church by letter, and 224 on profession of faith, the Conference stood and sang the doxology. The representative of the ADVOCATE received a cordial welcome, and was delightfully entertained. A full report of the Conference will appear next week.

AN APPEAL FOR AID.

On Wednesday evening, May 13, Gilliam was swept away by a terrific tornado. It would be useless for me to try to describe the horrors, for the papers have told the story to the world, but with all the loss that was sustained there, we lost our church. It is impossible for me to raise anything here for the rebuilding of the church, as every one has given all they are able to give to the storm sufferers.

The inhabitants of Gilliam were mostly planters and merchants. Their stocks were carried away or ruined, and their farms were so badly damaged that they cannot expect to clear expenses this year. Now, brethren, you must come to our aid, or we will have to do without a church. I am sure it will not take much from each of you to help us out in this matter. I ask you to consider this matter prayerfully, and appeal to your congregations for something for the rebuilding of our church.

Send all money to J. T. Means, Ida, La.

Yours fraternally,
HENRY T. YOUNG, P. C.

AN APPEAL.

As the cyclone that swept Amite, La., destroyed, not only many of the homes of our people, but their Church as well, and in their destitution they are not able to rebuild their Church; and further, as both the General and Conference Boards of Church Extension are without money, hence unable to help, and the need is great and urgent, we make an earnest appeal to our members and friends throughout the State to help these stricken people by special personal contribution, and as quickly as possible send all contributions to W. G. Wadley, treasurer, Shreveport,

J. D. HARPER.
P. O. LOWRY.
W. G. WADLEY.
Executive Board, in Behalf of Louisiana Conference Board of Church Extension.

NOTICE.

To the Preachers of the Meridian District—Will you please send me the names of the Delegates who will attend District Conference.

Fraternally, W. B. LEWIS.

In the conduct of life, habits count for more than maxims, because habit is a living maxim, becoming flesh and instinct. To reform one's maxims is nothing; it is but to change the title of the book. To learn new habits is everything, for it is to reach the substance of life. Life is but a tissue of habits.—Exchange.

Confidence

when eating, that your food is of highest wholesomeness—that it has nothing in it that can injure or distress you—makes the repast doubly comfortable and satisfactory.

This supreme confidence you have when the food is raised with

ROYAL
Baking Powder
Absolutely Pure

The only baking powder made with Royal Grape Cream of Tartar

There can be no comforting confidence when eating alum baking powder food. Chemists say that more or less of the alum powder in unchanged alum or alum salts remains in the food.

CONFERENCE BOARD OF MISSIONS,

March 23 to May 15, 1908, Received for

FOREIGN MISSIONS.

Louisiana Avenue, Rev. W. W. Holmes	$ 30.00
Pollock, Rev. G. D. Purcell	11.50
Carrollton Avenue, Rev. H. T. Carley	67.00
McDonoghville, Rev. H. Whitehead	10.00
Algiers, Rev. J. F. Foster	40.50
Second Church, N. O., Rev. A. I. Townsley	52.00
Amite, Rev. L. C. Wilson	20.00
Rayne Memorial, Rev. J. A. Rice	125.00
Bunkie, Rev. J. D. Harper	70.00
Donaldsonville, Rev. E. P. Craddock	60.00
Colfax, Rev. C. V. Briethaupt	62.00
Eros, Rev. J. J. Kelly	15.00
Port Vincent, Rev. H. C. Murphy	11.00
Patterson, Rev. J. F. Patterson	14.00
Total	$588.00

DOMESTIC MISSIONS.

Donaldsonville, Rev. E. P. Craddock	$ 43.25
Carrollton Avenue, Rev. H. T. Carley	45.00
Ponchatoula, Rev. W. Schuhle	20.00
Mary Werlein, Rev. R. F. Harrell	12.25
Eros, Rev. J. J. Kelly	15.00
Port Vincent, Rev. H. C. Murphy	10.00
Minden, Rev. R. H. Wynn	100.00
Tallulah, Rev. R. A. Davis	38.00
Total	$283.50

W. B. THOMSON, Treas.

New Orleans, La.

BOARD OF MISSIONS, NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

Treasurer's Report for Month of April, 1908.

	Domestic.	Foreign.
Sardis District—
Batesville, Rev. C. P. Moss	$ 50.00	$61.50
Greenville District—
Shelby and Merigold, Rev. R. P. Neblett	42.00	.....
Coahoma, Rev. D. L. Cogdell	.....	35.00
Winona District—
Greenwood, Rev. J. C. Park	90.00	100.00
Belzoni, Rev. H. M. Young	30.00	50.00
Durant District—
West, Rev. W. L. Storment	35.00	.....
Ackerman, Rev. J. D. Simpson	44.00	56.00
Columbus District—
Starkville, Rev. R. H. B. Gladney	.....	75.00
Corinth District—
New Albany, Rev. W. C. Harris	.....	112.00
Total amount collected from pastors' charges, April	291.00	489.50
Total amount collected by W. S. Lagrone to date	275.75	.....
Total amount collected for April, 1908	566.75	489.50
Amount previously reported	853.70	389.00
Total collected this Conference year to date	1420.45	878.50

RECAPITULATION.

	Ass'm't.	Paid.	To be paid.
Domestic missions	$6,260.00	$1,420.45	$4,839.55
Foreign missions	11,475.00	878.50	10,596.50
	$17,735.00	$2,298.95	$15,436.05

The figures above show that much remains to be done. The call is urgent. Will we not give heed?

Fraternally,
W. E. M. BROGAN,
Secretary Board of Missions.

VERDA AND ATLANTA CHARGE

I well remember a remark of Bishop Ward's just before he read the appointments last year: "No charge is so small but what there is more work on it than one man can do." My charge is small—less than 100 members—but I have had no time to idle away.

A brief summary will give the reader an idea of what we are doing. December and January were spent in looking over the ground, getting acquainted, and so on. The first Sunday in February Brother Joyner came up and organized our church at Verda. This movement had been started last year, and a $1,000 church got well under way. This year we have put in a fine new organ, given the building three coats of white paint and added a fine study in the rear. This latter is well furnished and equipped in every way. It is one that would do credit to any church and the people are justly proud of it.

I have received twenty-one members into the Church, baptized three adults and thirteen children since Conference. We have Sunday schools at all points now, and all are in good running order. The school at Verda is an especially good one. There are thirty children in the Primary Department alone. Then, the young men have an active Bible class, one of the working kind. In their three months' existence they have already donated over $125 in work and money to the building of the Church; and what is better still, the boys are living better lives morally. To put it in one of the boys' own words, "the Bible and meanness don't mix well." Many a home has been blessed through the influence of the class. I find that if I can get people to study the Bible, they can't help living better lives. Truly, he is the Light of the world.

I feel that we are going to have a successful year on the charge. The interest is good, the congregations large, and the people live and working. The good ladies at Verda have been especially helpful. Three of them raised $75 in one day by subscriptions. It is such workers that give me courage to go on. A live, working church, full of the Spirit of God, cannot help but succeed. I feel that I will be able to report many conversions and finances in full when I go to Conference next December. Pray for us, brethren, that we may press on to victory.

Fraternally yours,

ROLAND R. ORNE.

New Verda, La.

POLLOCK AND TIOGA.

Our work includes a large territory, with six appointments. We have four saw-mill villages, and chiefly that unsettled class of people that frequent those places. How to reach these people who drift with the lumber and other business of similar character is a problem of great moment to the Church in our Conference. I find many perplexing hindrances connected therewith, and shall greatly appreciate any help in their solution. Some of them I mention here.

The people are inaccessible to the pastor, not through their own fault, but by reason of their employment. For six days in the week from dawn till night their task affords no opportunity for a personal interview. One expressed it to me that they are not here for their health or spiritual interest, but to make money. So the man goes without Christ in all his thoughts. The preacher may speak a few passing words as the busy man is thinking of other things. Amid the rush of work and buzz of saws there is no time for counsel or prayer. To visit the home during the day means only to find the wife and children—frequently not one. When Sunday comes the man recruits for the following week's labor by remaining at home, playing ball, or doing odd jobs, moving, etc., and seldom attends divine worship.

The proprietors of these mills often live elsewhere, and, if identified with any church, it is in some other locality, and they do not encourage their men to attend religious services, or do so themselves.

Another difficulty which obtains is the unsettled condition of the people. Even the average man whose name is on some church register when he drifts into a saw-mill community leaves his certificate behind, and often all his better traits with it. He feels he is not at home, and will not long remain in that place. Should he identify himself with God's children, and be an able superintendent of some department of church work, he is unlikely to stay long enough for that work to develop.

Another difficulty is the distance between points of worship make it very hard for the pastor to reach all regularly, even once a month. All departments of church work present a crying need for leaders equipped to carry them on, especially in the absence of the pastor.

With all these conditions and a salary that threatens to admit the wolf at the door, unless the pastor devotes part of his leisure (?) time to keeping him out, there is abundant opportunity to walk by faith. When we remember it is for His sake who gave himself to redeem us, we are glad to share in this privilege.

Since Conference I have made about three hundred pastoral visits, preached about sixty times, held one meeting, and am to begin another today; have received twenty-three into the Church, baptized several infants and a few adults. We are hoping, trusting, working and praying for greater things before the year shall close. Yours in the work,

G. D. PURCELL, P. C.

MOXINE CHILL TONIC
Only Tonic—one bottle—one cure.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

Brookhaven District—Third Round.

(In Part.)

Prentiss, at Bassfield	June 13, 14
Sumrall	June 14, 15
Hub, at Oakvale	June 20, 21
Silver Creek, at New Hebron	June 21, 22
Hazlehurst	June 27, 28
Crystal Springs	June 28, 29
McComb and Fernwood, at McComb	July 4, 5
McComb-Centenary	July 5, 6
Oloh, at Baylis Chapel	July 11, 12
Columbia	July 12, 13

GEO. H. THOMPSON, P. E.

RAPIDES BANK
ALEXANDRIA, LA.
G. W. Bolton, President.
J. W. Bolton, Cashier.
Bertrand Weil, Vice Pres.
F. P. Bolton, Ass't Cashier.
Capital $90,000.00
Surplus and Undivided Profits 200,000.00
We Do A Progressive but Conservative Business and Solicit Your Account on This Basis.

Hemenway Furniture Co., Ltd.
WHOLESALE and RETAIL
ALEXANDRIA, LA.
Corner Third and DeSoto Streets.
Mattress Manufacturers.
PIANOS : ORGANS.
Stoves: Crockery: Matting.
UNDERTAKING A SPECIALTY.
F. S. Hemenway, President. A. Wettermark, V. Pres.
L. J. Coleman, Secy. F. L. Skinner, Treas.

ALEXANDRIA HARDWARE COMPANY,
LIMITED.
CAPITAL STOCK, $150,000.00
Successors to I. C. Miller and Roberts Bros.
WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALERS IN HARDWARE AND TINWARE.
MILL SUPPLIES.
1103-1105 SECOND STREET
1102-1106 FRONT STREET
Alexandria, La.

A. V. Neilson Co.,
LIMITED.
WHOLESALE GROCERS
ALEXANDRIA, LA.

Lake Charles Planing Mill Company,
LIMITED.
MANUFACTURERS OF AND DEALERS IN
All Kinds of Mill Work, Fine Office Fixtures, Counters, Show Cases, Store Fronts, Stair Work, Sash, Doors, Blinds, Cisterns, Mantles, Shingles, and Glass.
Long Distance Phone 449 P. O. Box 38.
WRITE US FOR PRICES.
LAKE CHARLES, LA.

COLFAX, LA.

Editor Christian Advocate: As this is our special edition of the Advocate, of course the pastor of the Colfax and Montgomery Charge, who thinks he has one of the best works in this district, desires to show up in its columns.

It makes my heart glad to be in a position to write you from the bounds of the Alexandria District, and especially as pastor of the above mentioned work.

At Montgomery six weeks ago we had a fine revival, at which Brother P. M. Brown, of Jena, and Brother J. B. Turner, of Pineville, did splendid work, resulting in thirteen accessions and forty or fifty glorious conversions.

I have not had my revival meeting at Colfax as yet, but have had twelve accessions, and am looking forward to having a most excellent meeting at this place.

My Sunday schools are doing fine work. Brother J. W. Ethridge is the superintendent at Montgomery, while Brother H. G. Goodwin is the Colfax superintendent. The latter has been continuously in the Sunday school work at this place since April, 1883, now a little more than twenty-five years.

Our Woman's Home Mission Society at Colfax is one of the best the Conference can afford. Last year over $300 was raised by the Society and put to judicious use by them. This year they have raised about $150, of which $147.35 has been expended. One of the items of expenditure this year is $25 sent to Brother Wilson, at Amite City, to be used for the relief of the late sufferers of the storm.

We have five prayer meetings at Colfax and Montgomery, which greatly tend to keep up the spirit of both of these places.

At Montgomery they have a splendid Epworth League, which is doing fine work with a good membership.

The W. C. T. U. is also in fine working order at both places. As delegates to the State Convention Montgomery elected Mrs. G. L. Ethridge and Miss Minnie Ethridge, while Colfax elected Miss Ethel Goodwin, and I am glad to learn that all of the ladies are attending the state convention of the W. C. T. U. at Jennings this week.

We have sent in our foreign mission assessment of $62 (total assessment), and, of course, feel good over that.

May God especially bless our entire district and make this year one never to be forgotten for its great works in the history of Methodism.

C. V. BREITHAUPT, P. C.

GLENMORA CIRCUIT.

There are five appointments and four organized churches in the Glenmora Circuit, all located in the southwestern part of Rapides Parish.

Glenmora is a little town on the Watkins Railroad. There are three churches in the town. The Methodist Church was built, we understand, and given for the worship of God by Prof. John Evans and wife. They are living here, and render good service. One Sunday school, under the superintendence of Mrs. J. D. Phillips, is growing. Major Dean, a Confederate Veteran, is our faithful steward. It takes a soldier to make a good steward in these parts. Brother J. W. May, agent for the Calcasieu Pine Company, has resided here for several years, and he and his family lend a helping hand to the preacher. But I shall not name others who also are faithful.

At Spring Creek, six miles from Glenmora, we have a church standing in the midst of a beautiful grove of great oak trees. It is a good place in which to worship. The Sunday school is in charge of Brother A. G. Havens. At Melder we have an intelligent and devout congregation, and a splendid Sunday School, with Brother P. Swann as superintendent.

Forest Hill is a railroad town. While we have only a few members, the congregation is large. At Woodworth, a saw-mill town, we have ten or twelve members.

This is a fine, healthy country, and while there are difficulties, there are also evidences of improvement. With the prayers of God's people, we look for God's blessing.

W. R. WHATLEY, P. C.

MOXINE
Cures LAGRIPPE and Colds.

CHICOT CIRCUIT.

Chicot Circuit is possibly the largest circuit in the Louisiana Conference, and the very name has become to the preachers that know a synonym of much hard and laborious toil and little pay; not that there is not many true and noble characters, both men and women, for there are such here and there on the work who love our church and doctrines and support her institutions. Such are they that are friends of the postor, not in thought and word, but in deed and in truth. We have been able to meet all of our appointments, and believe the work is in a fairly prosperous condition. Our congregations have improved all along the line. The Sunday school work has been revived, and the schools which closed for the winter have reorganized and are going ahead with the good work.

It is worthy of note that we have raised our foreign mission assessment in full. This was accomplished during the early days of March. It was not done by the pastor alone; his labors were supplemented by other willing hands, namely, Sister Andrus, of Waxia; Sister Daniel, of Bethel, and Misses Jessie and Lottie Nugent, and Minnie and Lise Morrison, of Whitechapel. The Christian Endeavor Societies of Whitechapel and Chicot had a part in it, and what was lacking was made up by that princely layman, S. H. Kelley. So the thing was done, and we all rejoice in the victory for God and the Church, for it is truly the consummation of the work and gifts of many.

Our new elder, Rev. N. E. Joyner, has left with us the impress of his personality and brought us a blessing in his administration. Sincerely,

S. S. BOGAN.

MOXINE CHILL TONIC
Only Tonic—one bottle—one cure.

E. J. ILES,
Real Estate Agent.

Alexandria is the coming city of Louisiana. It is situated on Red River, and has, therefore, both railroad and water facilities.

It has a population of 18,000—a growth of 300 per cent. in the last six years.

It has railroads, and more coming.

It has a $500,000 hotel, absolutely fire-proof—none better in the South.

It has 14 miles of paved streets, and over 30 miles of concrete sidewalks, an electric street railway, 4 banks with over $3,000,000 deposits.

The surrounding country has as fine alluvial soil as there is in the South, and especially adapted to truck raising.

It has 75 saw mills in a radius of 50 miles.

You will make no mistake in buying property either in or near Alexandria. I have for sale all kinds of city property, suburban property, plantation, and timber lands, cheap and on easy terms.

E. J. ILES,
First National Bank Bld'g
ALEXANDRIA, LA.

GEO. T. STATHAM W. R. LEWIS B. T. LEWIS
GEO. T. STATHAM & CO.
REAL ESTATE AND INSURANCE
ALEXANDRIA, LOUISIANA.

LUBBOCK TEXAS

The Great PANHANDLE of Texas is astonishing the world in productiveness. What was once called the "American Desert" is now called the "GARDEN SPOT OF THE SOUTHWEST." Two or three years ago this country was practically unknown. To-day all eyes are centered this way, especially on LUBBOCK, TEXAS. Lubbock is in the center of this great country. Our geographical situation, with five railroads chartered, two of which are already under construction, promises great things for Lubbock, I have platted what is known as the Overton Addition. It is already spotted with nice residences. I am offering 200 lots at $50 each; $10 cash, balance $5 per month without interest. This is the chance of a life time to make a little investment that promises big returns in a short time.

WATCH LUBBOCK GROW
Write for Illustrated Folder and Big Map.
Address Dr. M. C. Overton, Lubbock, Tex.

Epworth League

PRAYER MEETING TOPIC.

May 31. God's Revelation to the Awakened Understanding. Eph. 1:15-23. Hos. 11: 1-4. Education Day.

The object of our lesson is Christian Education, or as it is written in the topic card, "God's revelation to the awakened understanding."

1. Who are you?

Who are you? Have you ever asked yourself this question. Your name shows this. You are a personality and have your own identity that shall last through all the ages and all the changes of time and eternity. Your character may change, your features may be marred or beautified, your body may be laid aside and a spiritual body substituted for the one that you now wear; but your own identity as a spirit, made in the image of God, will always be the same. This identity you cannot affect.

2. What are you?

What you are is in some measure determined by your inheritance, your surroundings, and the opportunities which are given to you; but in a very large measure it depends upon yourself. You may eventually become one of the associates of the lost spirits in hell, or you may dwell close to the throne of God. Not only does that which men sometimes call the spiritual determine your place, but the capacity which you have to receive the gifts that God is willing to give to you. This faculty to receive is far more a development of the gifts which most men possess than we like to confess. What are you making of the gifts which God has given to you?

3. What may you become?

The thought suggested leads to another question that will in some form confront at one time or another, almost every person: What are the possibilities which are before you? You can develop the mind until it can grasp the world problems. Most of us have seen the mental life of some boy or girl transformed. If, with it the heart is open to the things of God, the vision of the soul will broaden with each new lesson learned until he who was once a weakling may become a strong man or woman, fitted for the largest places in the service of the King.

No boy or girl need despair. Patient, plodding, persistent, prayerful endeavor will enable you to develop as others have done before. If, however, you are to receive visions of God, put manifestly that you may be able to serve, and that your trained mind and soul shall be a blessing to others, and not that you shall simply acquire for your own selfish purposes.

4. The result of the enlightened understanding.

Humble faith and love can see things which highly developed selfishness and skepticism cannot see. But when the soul that struggles to develop the God-given mind holds fast in self-forgetting service to the hand of the Master, he will lead out on the mountain tops where you may have visions of God and his wondrous ways. Satan has cursed the world with one of his falsehoods: "Ignorance is the mother of devotion." It is the mother of superstition, but true devotion and the highest spiritual attainments have come to souls that have used every talent of body and mind as given of God. You must not simply render an account of what you are, but of what you might have made yourself if you had rightly developed your God-given powers. The trained mind dreams of wondrous things for God, and then in trusting faith and enlarged vision goes forward together with the Elder Brother until his dreams become realities.

As of old, the Master has many things to say to every man as soon as he has reached the point where he can bear them, where his eyes will not be blinded by the wondrous things which the Lord of Life would unfold.

O, Leaguer, develop to the utmost every talent you possess, walking with the King while you study.

MOXINE CHILL TONIC
Only Tonic—one bottle—one cure.

Not nearly so much is being heard of the Russian Douma as in other years, but they really seem to be doing the work of a legislative body. They are not doing so much denunciation, and have reached a working agreement with the government, and yet have courage enough to oppose the things which they deem wrong. The Douma is slowly working out the problem of its existence, and is advancing on the path of popular rights for the Russian people. They have ample space ahead of them.

MOXINE
Cures LAGRIPPE and Colds.

USE WHAT YOU HAVE.

"What is in thine hand, Abel?"

"Nothing but one wee lamb, O God, taken from the flock. I purpose offering it to thee, a willing sacrifice."

And so he did. And the sweet smell of the burning has been filling the air ever since, and constantly going up to God as a perpetual sacrifice of praise.

* * *

"What is it thou hast in thy hand, Moses?"

"Nothing but a staff, O God, with which I tend my flocks."

"Take it and use it for me."

And he did, and with it wrought more wondrous things than Egypt and her proud king had seen before.

* * *

"Mary, what is that in thine hand?"

"Nothing but a pot of sweet-smelling ointment, O God, wherewith I would anoint thine only One called Jesus."

And so she did, and not only did the perfume fill all the house where they were, but the Bible-reading world has been fragrant with the memory of this blessed act of love, which has ever since been spoken of "for a memorial of her."

* * *

"Poor woman, what is it that thou hast in thine hand?"

"Only two mites, Lord. It is very little, but then it is all I have, and I would put it into thy treasury."

And so she did; and not only were the suffering poor of Jesus relieved, but ever since it has wrought like a charm, prompting others to give to the Lord.

* * *

"What is it that thou hast in thine hand, Dorcas?"

"Only a needle, Lord."

"Take it and use it for me."

And so she did, and not only were the suffering poor of Joppa warmly clad, but, inspired by her loving life, "Dorcas Societies" even now continue their tender mission to the poor throughout the earth.

THE REMEDY FOR SKIN DISEASES.
Tetterine, the fragrant, antiseptic and healing ointment, following baths with Tetterine Soap, is the finest treatment ever discovered for Eczema, Tetter, Ring Worm, Scalp Diseases and Itching Piles. It relieves the worst itching in a few seconds and destroys the germs, thus curing the disease permanently. Costs only 50 cents at druggists or by mail. The Shuptrine Co., Savannah, Ga.

Minorcas & Leghorns.
Eggs 50c. doz.
Eggs delivered to families at 50c per doz. Want to buy young chickens for broilers or fryers? C. M. FUSH.
2434 Jena St., cor. Freret.
New Orleans, La.

Keep Out Flies
Rust Proof Wire Screens.
Call on W. O. Johnson, 2512 Valence Street, or Phone Uptown 2336, New Orleans, La. 17 years' experience.

EUGENE B. TROY,
PLUMBER.
Sewer Connections on the One Profit Plan
4721 PERRIER ST.
Phone, Uptown 2591

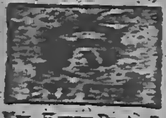
TAPE WORMS expelled alive with head. Guaranteed. No poisonous drugs. Free booklet. GLOBE REMEDY CO., Birmingham, Alabama.

MOXINE
Cures LAGRIPPE and Colds.

BLYMYER CHURCH BELLS. SWEETER, MORE DURABLE, LOWER PRICE. OUR FREE CATALOGUE TELLS WHY. Write to Cincinnati Bell Foundry Co., Cincinnati, O.

BELLS.
Steel Alloy Church and School Bells. Send for Catalogue. The C. S. BELL CO., Hillsboro, O.

The Guaranteed Exterminator
Stearns' Electric RAT and ROACH Paste
is guaranteed to rid the house, barn or store of cockroaches, rats, mice, water bugs, etc. Sold at druggists or general stores everywhere, or sent prepaid on receipt of price.
2 oz. box, 25c; 16 oz. box, $1.00.
STEARNS' ELECTRIC PASTE CO., Buffalo, N.Y., U.S.A.



EYE DISEASES,
[illegible] ARNTZ EYE CURE [illegible] ARNTZ OPTICAL CO 1?? Sixth Ave., Des Moines, Iowa, and PEERLESS OPTICAL CO. Jobbers, Chicago, Ill.

MOXINE
Cures LAGRIPPE and Colds.

Wagon Wheels turn easy—haul more and teams work with less effort when axles are coated with
MICA Axle Grease
Best lubricant for the purpose ever used. Powdered Mica in the grease forms a glass-like coating on axle which practically destroys friction. Ask the dealer and don't be without Mica Axle Grease for a day.
STANDARD OIL COMPANY, Incorporated

Heiskell's
The most obstinate case of Eczema can be quickly and completely cured by the application of Heiskell's Ointment. It also cures Blotchy, Rough and Pimpled Skin, Erysipelas, Tetter, Ulcers, and all other skin diseases. Before applying the ointment, bathe the parts affected, using Heiskell's Medicinal Soap. Heiskell's Blood and Liver Pills tone up the liver and purify the blood. Your druggist sells these preparations. Ointment 50c a box. Soap, 25c a cake. Pills, 25c a bottle. Send for book of testimonials and learn what these wonderful remedies have done for others.
JOHNSTON, HOLLOWAY & CO.,
531 Commerce Street, Philadelphia, Pa.
Ointment

FITS St. Vitus' Dance and Nervous diseases permanently cured by Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. Send for FREE $2.00 trial bottle and treatise. Dr. R. H. Kline, Ltd., 931 Arch St., Philadelphia, Pa.

WANT TO SELL OR EXCHANGE YOUR FARM OR CITY PROPERTY?
YOUR WARRANTY DEED — EXCHANGED FOR CASH
Send for my free book which fully explains how [illegible]
L. G. BYERLEY.
402 Commerce Bldg. Kansas City, Mo.

HIS CHANCE IS GONE
YOUR CHANCE IS HERE
The question is, are you qualified to hold a responsible position? Have you had a thorough commercial training? Bankers, Merchants, and Manufacturers want you if you are competent. Here is Your Chance. Two roads are open to young people. One requires no training and leads to failure. The other requires training and leads to success. We prepare young men and women and start them on the road to success by securing them high-salaried positions. Four courses, board cheap. Write for illustrated catalog and further information.
HATTIESBURG BUSINESS COLLEGE, HATTIESBURG, MISS.

ARE YOU SURE

That the ice cream you buy is strictly PURE!

Do you know that the makers' hands were clean, flies excluded from the factory, and freezers and other utensils kept in Sanitary Condition?

Why take any chance where your health is concerned! Why not

MAKE AND FREEZE YOUR OWN ICE CREAM
In 10 MINUTES
FOR 1c. A PLATE with

Jell-O ICE CREAM Powder

It is so easy. Simply stir contents of one 13c. package into a quart of milk and freeze, without cooking, heating or the addition of anything else. This makes two quarts of ice cream, clean, pure and wholesome. A good ice cream freezer can be bought for a dollar or two which will last for years, and will soon save its cost.

2 packages JELL-O ICE CREAM Powder for 25c.

Flavors:—Chocolate, Vanilla, Strawberry, Lemon and Unflavored.

Sold by all good grocers.

The Genesee Pure Food Co., Le Roy, N. Y.

DRY CREEK CIRCUIT.

Dry Creek Circuit is in the midst of the great pine belt of West Louisiana, taking a part of two parishes, Calcasieu and Vernon. The circuit was a number of years a part of a large circuit, including Glenmora and several other points further north. It has six preaching places, and covers nearly fifty miles of territory. Until recently it was at least twenty miles to the nearest railroad, but now the Colorado Southern brings us a little nearer to civilization. The work is difficult, not well organized, and the people poor, but we are not without hope of success. Our parsonage is located at Dry Creek. The parsonage, the schoolhouse and Brother J. A. Grant's store make up the village. Our Church was burned down in December last. The school building, where we now worship, is not large enough to hold our congregation, many standing outside of the house during our service. The church seems to have been deliberately set on fire by someone. We have no immediate prospects of rebuilding.

J. A. TAYLOR, P. C.

MOXINE CHILL TONIC
Only Tonic—one bottle—one cure.

CHURCH DIRECTORY.

New Orleans District, Rev. F. N. Parker, D.D., presiding elder; residence, 241 Olivier St.

Rev. John T. Sawyer, D.D., Conference Missionary Evangelist; residence, 2421 Chestnut St.; phone, Uptown 1832.

First Methodist Church, St. Charles Ave., near Calliope St.; Rev. J. E. Wray, pastor; residence, 5830 Prytania St.; phone, Uptown 329; office hours, at Church, 2 to 3 p. m.; Church phone, Main 1779.

Second Methodist Church, 2531 Burgundy, near Lafayette Ave.; Rev. A. I. Townsley, pastor; residence, 2728 N. Rampart St.; office hours, 9 to 11 a.m.; phone, Main 978.

Parker Memorial, corner Nashville avenue and Perrier street; Rev. C. D. Atkinson, pastor; residence 734 Nashville avenue.

Louisiana Avenue, corner Louisiana Ave. and Magazine St.; Rev. W. W. Holmes, pastor; residence 2903 Camp St.; phone, Uptown 1391.

Rayne Memorial, St. Charles Avenue and General Taylor Streets; Dr. John A. Rice, pastor; residence, 1101 Peniston Street.

Felicity Street Church, corner Felicity and Chestnut Streets; Rev. Albert S. Lutz, pastor; residence 2321 Chestnut Street.

Carrollton Avenue, corner Carrollton avenue and Elm street; Rev. Henry T. Carley, pastor; residence, 1125 Fern St.; 'phone, Uptown 1238.

Algiers, Lavergne Street, corner Delaronde; Rev. J. F. Foster, pastor.

McDonoghville and Gretna, Rev. H. Whitehead, pastor; residence 5208 Magazine Street; phone, Uptown 2459.

Epworth Church, corner Banks and Scott Streets; Rev. L. A. Sims, pastor; residence, 232 South Pierce Street.

Rev. Jno. L. Sutton, Superintendent Orphan Boys' Asylum; residence, 5220 St. Charles Ave.; phone, Uptown 128.

Rev. L. E. Wicht, junior preacher Lower Coast Mission; address, 509 Board of Trade Bldg., New Orleans.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Address: F. J. CHENEY & CO.,
Toledo, Ohio.

Sold by Druggists, 75c.
Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

MOXINE CHILL TONIC
Only Tonic—one bottle—one cure.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE

CORINTH DISTRICT—SECOND R'N'D.

Booneville Ct., at Blackland	June 6, 7
Jonesboro Ct., at Brownfield	June 13, 14
Rainey, and Faulkner Ct., at Marvin	June 20, 21
Ripley and New Hope, at Wier's	June 27, 28

District Conference will be held at Baldwyn, Miss., July 14, 15, 16.

BEN P. JACO, P. E.

GREENVILLE DIST—SECOND RND.

Cleveland Sta.	May 10, 11
Cleveland Ct.	May 11, 12
Rosedale	May 14,
Gunnison, at Hillhouse	May 16, 17
Friar's Point	May 17, 18
Greenville	May 23, 24
Jonestown, at Belen	May 30, 31
Robinsonville	June 1,
Shaw	June 7, 8
Glen Allan and South Greenville	June 10,

The District Conference will be held at Cleveland May 27-29.

R. A. MEEK, P. E.

ABERDEEN DIST. — SECOND RND.

Houlka, at Asbury	May 9, 10
Palestine, at Ebenezer	May 14,
Pontotoc, at Chesterville	May 23, 24
Pontotoc, at Chesterplile	May 23, 24
Nettleton Ct., at Union	May 30, 31
Okolona Ct. at B. Chapel	June 6, 7
Aberdeen	June 9,
Fulton	June 12,
Smithville	June 13, 14

J. H. MITCHELL, P. E.

SARDIS DIST.—SECOND ROUND.

Eureka	June 4,
Tyro, at Tyro	June 6, 7
Arkabutla	June 13, 14
Longtown, at Longtown	June 16,
Crenshaw	June 17,

W. M. YOUNG, P. E.

WINONA DIST. — SECOND ROUND.

North Carrollton, at Poplar Springs	June 6, 7
Tom Nolen, at Lebanon	June 9,
Slate Spgs., at Spring Hill	June 10,
Vance, at Marks	June 13, 14

The District Conference will be held in Eupora May 26-28. Opening sermon May 26, 7:30 p.m., by Rev. John Ritchie.

E. S. LEWIS, P. E.

Mississippi Conference.

VICKSBURG DIST.—SECOND ROUND

Edwards, at E.	June 1,
Anguilla, at Grace	June 4, 5
Rolling Fork, at Cary	June 6, 7
Vicksburg, C. Street	June 13, 14
Bolton, at Raymond	June 20, 21
Mayersville, at Shiloh	June 27, 28

District Conference will be held at Edwards May 27-30.

G. H. GALLOWAY, P. E.

NATCHEZ DIST.—SECOND ROUND

Natchez, Jefferson St.	May 31, June 1
Washington, at Kingston	June 6, 7
Barlow, at Lebanon	June 13,
Fayette, at Ebenezer	June 14, 15
Wilkinson, at Mars Hill	June 20, 21
Meadville, at Nebo	June 27, 28

The District Conference will be held at Woodville May 13-16.

J. T. LEGGETT, P. E.

JACKSON DIST.—SECOND ROUND.

Eden, at Phillips	June 2,
Canton	June 6, 7
Lintonia, at Anding	June 13, 14
Mount Olive	June 20, 21

A. F. WATKINS, P. E.

NEWTON DIST.—SECOND ROUND.

Hebron, at Hebron	June 6, 7
Ellisville, at Ellisville	June 9,
Decatur, at Neshoba	June 12,
Philadelphia, at Hester's	June 13, 14
Indian Miss., at Phillips	June 19,
Edinberg, at Edinberg	June 20, 21
Neshoba, at Mt. Pisgah	June 27, 28
Walnut Grove, at Zion	July 3,
Carthage, at ———	July 4, 5

JAS. M. WEEMS, P. E.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

SHREVEPORT DIST.—SECOND RND.

Shreveport, Texas Ave.	June 1, 2
Shreveport, First Church	June 3,
Shreveport, Noel Memorial	June 4,
Pleasant Hill	June 6, 7
Greenwood	June 8, 9
Hornbeck	June 13, 14
Leesville	June 14, 15
Bon Ami	June 20, 21
De Ridder	June 21, 22
Mooringsport	June 24, 25
Provencal	June 27, 28

T. J. WARLICK, P. E.

BATON ROUGE DIST.—SECOND RND.

St Francisvill, at Star Hill	16, 17
East Feliciana, at Clear Cr.	June 6, 7
Melville, at Cottonwood	June 13, 14
Newroads	June 21, 22
Baton Rouge, First Church	June 28, 29
Baton Rouge, Second Ch.	June 28, 29

R. W. TUCKER, P. E.

MONROE DIST.—SECOND ROUND.

Harrisonburg, at Jonesville	June 6, 7
Florence, at Holly Grove	June 13, 14
Downsville, at Douglas	June 17,
Waterproof, at St. Joseph	June 20, 21
Floyd, at Midway	June 27, 28

J. E. DENSON, P. E.

Where Will You Spend Your Summer?
WHY NOT GO TO THE Seashore Camp Ground

This is one of the most delightful places on the Gulf Coast. It has convenient railroad service. There is magnificent Artesian water and a perfect system of water works.

THE BATHING FACILITIES ARE UNEXCELLED.

There are several cottages still for rent on the Camp Ground. You can reduce the cost of living to a minimum; have little railroad fare to pay; take your comfort where style is not an object, and be in easy reach of the outside world.

For particulars apply to

R. G. PRICE,
Biloxi, Miss.

Dr. Brown's Magic Liniment

This bottle for you---FREE

Those who seek relief from rheumatism, sciatica, neuralgia, headache, backache, lumbago, sprains, sore muscles, and other pains—Read carefully.
We want to help you. We know the marvellous curative power of Dr.
Brown's Magic Liniment; how wonderful it is; that when it is poured on a piece of cloth and pressed closely to the place where the pain exists the pain instantly vanishes. It is different from other liniments which need rubbing. You simply smother the cloth under your hands and the liniment penetrates to the source of the pain and instantly relieves it. It soothes the nerves, produces warmth, and starts up the circulation.
We know it does all these things—AND WE WANT YOU TO KNOW IT.
Send for the sample bottle and try it. Write to

BROWN CHEMICAL CO., Dept. A. Nashville, Tenn.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL

The Double Track Route.

26 Hours to Chicago
21 Hours to St. Louis
22 Hours to Louisville
26 Hours to Cincinnati

Through Sleeping Cars to above points. Dining Cars, Library Cars, Chair Cars and Coaches.

Full Particulars at

City Ticket Office,
141 ST. CHARLES STREET.
Phone Main 3618

MOXINE CHILL TONIC
Only Tonic—one bottle—one cure.

Obituaries.

Obituaries not over two hundred words in length will be published free of charge. All over two hundred words will be charged at the rate of 1 cent a word. Count the words and send the amount necessary with the obituary. That will save trouble all around.

MRS. NANNIE BROWN, whose maiden name was Burk, was born in Tuscaloosa County, Ala., March 5, 1858, and died suddenly in Shuqualak, Miss., May 1, 1908. Her death was caused by a dose of cocaine, administered by a dentist to relieve the pain of extracting some teeth. She had spent most of her life in Shuqualak, Miss., and adjacent section, having moved with her parents when about eight years old from Alabama. She was happily converted and joined the M. E. Church, South, when twelve years old, and ever after led a consistent life, and was a valued and honored member. She was wedded to Mr. T. J. Brown Jan. 11, 1873, and became the mother of a large family, several of whom preceded her to the grave. Her husband and four children still live to mourn the loss of wife and mother. She was a true Christian, faithfully meeting all the obligations, as far as she was able, of a noble and devoted life. She was a kind and sympathetic neighbor, a true wife, and devoted mother. Honored and respected by all who knew her, perhaps no one ever lived in the section she died who had more testimonials for purity and nobility of life than have been given her. Her death was indeed saddening to her family and friends, and shocking, because so unexpected. She was a robust woman, in the prime of life, and seemed more than in usual good health, and in the most jovial mood and good spirits up to the very moment she became unconscious from the effect of the deadly drug. She was unable to leave any dying testimony, but, much as it would be gratifying and valued by loved ones, it was not needed. Her life was more effective and impressive than any words she could have uttered, had she been able to do so. The funeral services were conducted from the Shuqualak Methodist Church, by the writer. She had been a member of Shuqualak Church about 15 years, and the large audience that gathered in the church to witness her funeral was an evidence of the high appreciation in which she was held. We then laid her to rest with her children in the old Mohican Cemetery to await the glorious resurrection morn. The following devout prayer, written in her day-book on the occasion of a family re-union, a very short time before her death, will show her spirit of devotion and faith: "Our Father in heaven, I thank thee that we are permitted to gather once more. I thank thee that thou hast looked over us during the past, and I pray, Heavenly Father, that thou wilt continue thy watchful care, not that we are worthy of thee, but that thou hast said, 'He who asks in faith shall receive.' O gracious God, I humble myself this morning, and ask thou to guide and direct us all through the coming year. Help us to study thy Word, and understand it, and each of us to live a better and fairer life than we have in the past. Help, guide and when done with us here receive and crown us in heaven. Amen." Truly her loved ones are left behind to weep, but they weep not as they that have no hope.

Q. A. OATS.

W. J. SIMS was born April 21, 1838, in the State of Tennessee, and moved to Mississippi at the age of 15 years; was married to Miss Mary A. Mobley in the year 1862, and died at his home near Mantachie, April 14, 1908, leaving a wife, two sons, four daughters and other relatives. Uncle Billie, as he was called, embraced in early life the faith that ever afterward prompted him to be a consistent follower of the meek and lowly Lamb, enduring privations, afflictions and vicissitudes to which he was heir with that fortitude found only in the life of a loyal Christian. At conversion he at once united with the M. E. Church, South, and lived a consistent member till death. He died as he had lived with his faith firmly grounded in the merits of a crucified Savior. He enlisted in the cause of the Confederacy in the year 1860, and did valiant service for his country for four long years. Returning after the surrender to his home, and as was characteristic of the man, he took a stand with his defeated comrades in the South to rehabilitate his home and country with the principles and policies that sets Mississippi out in the galaxy of States to-day as one of the grandest in the union. We will greatly miss his presence and example, but we will not weep over his demise since we realize that this sainted soul is at rest with God.

J. A. BONDS.

CALLIE HUNTER, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Hunter (of the North Texas Conference,) was born Feb. 5, 1882, and died in the home of her parents in San Antonio, Texas, April 25, 1908. She was converted and joined the M. E. Church, South in 1890. Twenty-six years, a short time when we look back—a long time when we look ahead. A short time when life is full of health and pleasure—a long time when full of toil and suffering. That is the view the world takes of it. But thanks be to our Heavenly Father, he has given his children a higher view than the world can give. And this young life demonstrated this fact. Her life to the world was one of suffering in the flesh. But every pain gave her spirit a new sight into the life of her suffering Lord, and enabled her to be more like him, and thereby thrilled her life with joy and peace, so that, when the time of her departure came she simply stepped into the chariot and like her Blessed Lord ascended, and went "Sweeping through the gates into the New Jerusalem." All things being ready, she called papa, mama, brother and sister to her bedside, and taking each one by the hand, cheerfully and triumphantly admonished them to meet her in heaven. She was not only willing to die, but as soon as her Lord had seen she had suffered enough she wanted to go. Such a victory she won is out of the power of human calculation to estimate. She is not dead, she lives, shouts and praises God with angels, archangels, with her suffering Lord, with a host of friends and loved ones who have gone before. And those whom she leaves behind are only looking forward with great faith when they, too, shall meet her and join her in praises to the Lamb of God. Thank God for such a life as she lived. She is missed from the Sunday School, League, church and home. But they think of her not as dead, but only gone to receive her reward and in a home where toil and suffering will be no more.

ROBERT KEMP was born in Cambridge, Md., Feb. 20, 1845, and died in Greenville, Miss., May 7, 1908. In early manhood Brother Kemp came to Canton, Miss., where he married and united with the M. E. Church, South, of which he was a leading months of his life, which may truly years. His father was a faithful itinerant and the son ever kept his fondness for the Methodist preacher and his parsonage home. His life was quiet and reserved and his religion of a very unostentatious sort. How [illegible] his piety ran was evidenced [illegible] the last four months of his life, which may truly be said to have [illegible] months of prayer. Having been attacked by grip in the autumn of [illegible], he kept at his work till January [illegible], when he was forced to give [illegible] an attack of paralysis which gradually spread to his entire left side [illegible] him confined till death came as his release. During all his trying illness, no word of complaint was heard from his lips. He was uniformly [illegible] to nurse and physician. He [illegible] to depart and be with Christ, but ever prayed that he might be patient to suffer till the Master's call should come. The home life of Brother Kemp was exceptionally beautiful. For more than thirty years he nursed an invalid wife with the tenderness and courtesy of a bridegroom, [illegible] to gratify her every wish and to provide for her every comfort. He was happy with her and spent his evenings in reading to her and with her, rather than in clubs and lodges. Now that he is gone may the Heavenly Father abundantly bless and comfort her in her sore bereavement. There is pain in this present separation, but joy forevermore in the reunion beyond the grave.

J. H. COUNTISS.

ANGELL PHARMACY COMPANY,
2800 Baronne Street, corner Philip.
PRESCRIPTIONS OUR SPECIALTY Phone Main 4281
Pure Drugs, Chemicals, Toilet Articles, Perfumery, Stationery, etc.
TRY ANGELL'S COUGH & WHOOPING COUGH SYRUP
Price 25 and 50 cents. Sold by all Druggists.
HOMŒPATHIC DEPARTMENT.
Homœopathic Medicines, Books, Cases, Globules, Sugar of Milk, Etc.
Prices, 1-2 ounce vial 15 cents, 1 ounce vial 25 cents.
PROMPT DELIVERY.

A GOOD PIANO,
PIANO PLAYER or PLAYER PIANO see the
Grunewald's
Before You Buy.
Agents for the Latest Improved and best Instruments on the Market.

YOUR SUMMER VACATION
IS NEAR AT HAND
THE Southern SOUTHERN SUNSET ROUTE PACIFIC Pacific
WILL HAVE MANY ATTRACTIVE ROUTES TO OFFER BY RAIL OR WATER
To CALIFORNIA
GO ONE WAY ---- RETURN ANOTHER THROUGH THE MOST BEAUTIFUL SCENERY IN THE WORLD
To NEW YORK
ON ONE OF OUR MAGNIFICENT STEAMSHIPS --- FIVE BIG BOATS
"CREOLE," "MOMUS," "ANTILLES," "PROTEUS," "COMUS."
ASK YOUR AGENT FOR LITERATURE, OR WRITE
G. E. GUEDRY, Div. Pass. Agt. F. E. BATTURS, Gen. Pass. Agt.
LAKE CHARLES NEW ORLEANS

Sunday School

By W. B. Campbell.

LESSON FOR MAY 31.

JESUS RISEN FROM THE DEAD.

John xx: 1-18.

Golden text: "I am he that liveth and was dead and, behold, I am alive forevermore." Rev. 1-18.

Many have read the Scriptures, being attracted by a love for any collection of ancient historical events, also tracing the history of the Hebrew race. Among these there have been some who have become followers of the Prince of the house of Israel. After a closer walk with God and a growth in grace, and a spiritual study of God's Word, there is as much force and power in the words of our golden text as there is in anything said by the Lord to Mary or to the other disciples on the day of his resurrection. Heaven has contributed to the earthly fulfillment of Scripture. For this the grave gave up him who was the first fruits of them that slept. We know all this in our day and time, but in the days of Jesus' life on earth it was so hard for his followers to understand that he called them "Fools and slow of heart." Over and over again he told them that after three days he would rise again, and none seemed to remember his words, but his enemies who asked Pontius Pilate to take some measure to prevent a molestation of the sepulcher. They themselves sealed the door of stone and set a guard near to make sure as they said of "a last error being worse than the first." On Sunday morning, early, before it was light, Mary Magdalene came to be the first witness of the greatest truth in Christianity. She had no fear, for to be near one who had driven all evil out of her was a sense of safety best understood by her. She had not been away from the tomb very long; for after Joseph of Arimathea had finished putting away the body of the Lord he went away, and left Mary Magdalene and Mary the mother of Jesus sitting near the sepulcher. She was the last to leave, and she was first in the early morning to come again. Her great love for Christ drew her near to him, even though she was at that time sorrowing as do those who have no hope. It was not long that she would sorrow thus, for she was the first mortal to whom Jesus spoke in his immortal body. When Mary drew near the grave she saw that it had been opened. She did not know of the great shaking of the earth, and of the angel descending to roll away the stone that told the ever-living truth, that henceforth the grave could not hold the disciple of Christ. As soon as Mary saw the sepulcher open she ran back and told Peter and John, who were then on their way to the grave.

They were all looking for a dead Christ. "Him who was dead, but alive, now forevermore." See how the smallest incident is related, like gathering evidence for a fact likely to be afterwards disputed. As the two faithful men approached their intense eagerness caused them to run. John being the younger and most active, outran Peter. Peter had a weight on his heart that John did not have. Perhaps poor Simon began to think he was not worthy to come so near to him that he bad so strenuously denied. John did not go in the sepulcher, only looked in, and Peter then came up and went directly in and saw, not the Lord, but the burial clothes in which they had seen him laid away. At tbis juncture John records his own testimony of faith, saying: "He saw and believed?"

Mary remained still as John and Peter went to tell the others of what they had seen. She could not understand, and she only wept. Her tears drew forth the pity of the two angels, and made them visible to her. They asked, "Why weepest thou?" She had hardly answered them when she was asked the same question by the Lord himself, but Mary did not know him. Jesus saw the great load of sorrow she was carrying, and her great love, and he could not remain longer unknown to her. He only called her name. O, to think that some day, in that blessed palace where we shall be with him, he will know us all by name! In her joy Mary wanted to show her great love by clinging to him. No Mary, you must not approach me as when I was mortal. "Go tell my bretbren "that I go to my Father and your Father, my God and your God." And this from the Savior of mankind to her, out of wbom he had cast seven devils! He was her brother! Our brother, and we are joint-heirs with him. What more clear would me have in bis expression of his humanity? We have the tender love of him, the loving Father of us all, we also have our elder brother, ever making intercession for us. It is this same Jesus that came out of Joseph's new tomb and lived again among those that needed to see in order to believe, and then to preach to the world the resurrection of the dead. O glorious hope of eternal life! We come, O, all ye who have gone before, for the light of resurrection dispels the gloom, and makes bright even through the dark valley, being lead by him that was dead, but is evermore our living Lord.

MOXINE

Cures LAGRIPPE and Colds.

"OUR BARBAROUS FOURTH."

Mrs. Isaac L. Rice, founder and president of the New York Society for the Suppression of Unnecessary Noise, declares—basing her claim on reliable, if grim, figures—that our Fourth's statistics "probably furnish a sadder commentary on human folly than that afforded by any other celebration in the world." The June Century will publish her condemnation of "Our Barbarous Fourth," with her suggestions for a saner and safer observance of the national holiday. Dr. R. O. Beard, of the University of Minnesotta, will have an article in the same number on the pathological aspects of "Noise" and an editorial article will treat of "Offenses to Ear and Eye."

W. H. BYRNES, Pres. JOHN T. GIBBONS, Vice-Pres. P. E. BURKE, Sec'y.
Capital $200,000 00
Assets 479,860.90
HIBERNIA INSURNCE CO.,
No. 305 Camp Street,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
LOSSES PROMPTLY PAID.

The Brookfield Summer School of Music.
The unprecedented success and growth of this school is the strongest argument for its usefulness. The 1908 session will open Wednesday, July 1st, and close Tuesday, August 25th. The daily Class Instruction is divided between Theory, Choral Instruction, Normal Sessions, Recitals, Musicales, Lectures, and Concerts. Room and board for the eight weeks are furnished at the school. Private lessons, optional as to frequency, can be had in all departments. For Prospectus, address,
H. W. GREENE, No. 864 Carnegie Hall, NEW YORK CITY.

Pine-Brook Dairy Co., Ltd.
ALL OUR COWS TUBERCULINE TESTED.
Milk and Cream Delivered Morning and Evening.
COR ST. CHARLES & WASHINGTON AVES. Phone 1514 Uptown.

THE AMERICAN PAINT WORKS,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.,
MANUFACTURES EVERYTHING IN PAINTS,
——Guaranteed Strictly Pure——
The Climatic Prepared Paints, Perfecto White
and
SOLD SUBJECT TO A CHEMICAL ANALYSIS
DIRECTORS:
Thos. S. Witherspoon, President. Francis Martin, Vice President.
R. B. Parker, John McCloskey, Geo. A. Hero.
PHONE, MAIN 915. Special Attention to Mail Orders.

THE BEST MADE.
Angell's Cough and Whooping Cough Syrup
For Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Coughs, Colds and Throat Trouble.
CONTAINS NO OPIUM OR MORPHINE,
All Druggists, Price 25 and 50 Cents.

SCROFULINE
The Wonderful Healer
Unsurpassed for tetter, ezcema, skin and scalp troubles, old sores, ulcers and piles, any nature or duration. Goes to the very seat of the trouble, kills the germs and extracts all foreign matter. Sold under a positive guarantee, 25c, 50c and $1.00 per jar. Mail orders promptly filled. Stamps accepted. Liberal sample upon request. Address,
THE SCROFULINE COMPANY, Waco, Texas.
SOLE OWNERS AND MANUFACTURERS.

Louisiana Railway and Navigation Company.
PASSENGER SERVICE.
Daily Passenger Trains between Shreveport and New Orleans. Daily Passenger Trains between Shreveport and Winnfield.
FREIGHT SERVICE.
Exceptional good time on carload traffic. Special attention given less than carload shipments all of which moves in
DAILY THROUGH PACKAGE CARS.
CLARENCE ELLERBE, Assistant to President.
H. B. HELM, General Superintendent.
E. C. D. MARSHALL, General Freight & Passenger Agent.
Shreveport, La.

LETTER FROM REV. NOLAN B. HARMON.

Dear Dr. Boswell: I have a piece of news which has rejoiced my own heart so much that I am sure my brethren in Mississippi will rejoice with me. A great revival has swept through my church here at Prospect Hill. Our church building being utterly inadequate to seat the crowds which gathered, we pitched the City Mission tent on a vacant lot near my church, and for two weeks we held two services a day, preaching to great crowds. At night we were never able to seat the crowd and there would be two and three hundred people standing on the outside of the tent. Rev. Percy Rivers Knickerbocker, of Oklahoma City, did the preaching. He can easily be classed as one of the best pastor-evangelists among us to-day. He has developed wonderfully as a preacher.

He is eloquent, versatile, deeply pious and one of the most untiring workers in Southern Methodism. The results of the revival are sixty or seventy conversions, fifty additions to our membership, which now numbers 400, and a great collection for a new church building. The first Sabbath of the meeting I took my Conference collections, securing the $400 which is the total of my assessment. The second Sabbath I first took a free-will offering for Brother Knickerbocker, and in ten minutes they gave $150. At the close of the sermon of the morning Brother Knickerbocker opened the question of subscription for a new church. The Home Mission Society, Mrs. J. T. Brown, president, subscribed $2000. Mr. A. P. Sale, a large real estate owner here, put $1500. Mr. Frank Allen, another real estate owner, gave $1500. The whole amounted to $11,500, and a number of the wealthiest men of my church have not yet subscribed. I mention Brothers Allen and Sale because the one is known in Alabama and the other is known in Louisiana.

The building committee is now calling for a $25,000 plan. I have already outlined an architect the plan of our beautiful McComb City church. If I could, with a few alterations, I would reproduce in this historic Alamo City that splendid Mississippi Church.

This short note is simply to convey this (to me) joyous news to my beloved Mississippi brethren and to my friends. The Lord has blessed us graciously here, but my heart often longs for the homeland and the homefolks. May I ask all my dear brethren to pray for us in this great work in which I am now engaged? The blessings of God upon every one of my dear Mississippi brethren and friends.

NOLAN B. HARMON.

San Antonio, Texas.

LAYMEN'S MEETING.

A mass meeting of the Laymen of the New Orleans District was held in First Church on May 22d. Brother J. A. Woodville, District Leader, presided. The delegates to the Chattanooga Convention, W. W. Carre, H. H. Ahrens, Chas. O. Chalmers and Dr. J. W. Adams, gave their impressions of that great gathering. The question of organization in the individual church was then taken up, and five articles were adopted as a basis for concerted action in the matter.

First—That each leader proceed at once to organize in his church a Laymen's Union (name to be given later) to consist of all male members, with regularly elected officers and committees, to engage in such church work as may appear practicable and helpful to the Church.

Second—That in each church organization a committee of five be appointed for the purpose of increasing the interest in our Foreign Mission work and other Church benevolences, the organization of this committee being ordered by the Chattanooga Convention.

Third—That a committee of three be appointed called the "Follow Up" committee, for the advancement of the regular services of the church with a special effort to increase the attendance of men at them.

Fourth—That a committee of three be appointed for ministering to our brother in distress or sickness, this committee to be called the "Committee on Sickness and Distress."

Fifth—That a committee of three be appointed called the "Social, Fraternal and Entertainment Committee," for the encouragement of the social and fraternal spirit among our men through social meetings, lecture courses, banquets, etc.

What is a Christian? This is something more than being a churchman. It is a larger word than any denominational name. A man can be a Catholic, or an Episcopalian, or a Presbyterian, or a Methodist, or a Baptist without being a Christian; and a man can be a Christian without being any one of these. A creed, a sect, a denomination is simply the paraphernalia with which men would dress Christianity, but it is not Christianity itself. That individual, that sect is too narrow and bigoted to deserve serious consideration who would at this day attempt to shut up the saving grace of God to their own little clique and clan. A Christian is a man who believes in Christ as his Savior, who loves God and his fellow-man—he is the one who goes to the original source for his life and hopes of immortality and not to any earth-born and man-made authority.—The Evangelist (Baptist).

THE KING'S BROKEN PROMISE.

Victor Emanuel, King of Italy, is fond of hunting, and goes to the mountains to enjoy this sport. He often is far in advance of his party and meets with adventures that amuse him greatly. One day he found himself alone on the mountains, and with a stream to cross that was turbulent. He was too good a hunter not to recognize the danger of wading in a stream so deep and which he did not know. While looking at the stream, and questioning what he would do, a very tall, strong man came through the woods to the stream. "You must carry me over!" said the king. The man refused unless he was paid. They agreed on the price, the man stipulating that his passenger must sit perfectly still. If he moved, he would throw him in the water.

The king agreed. The man stooped, the king mounted his shoulders as the baby does papa's, and they started across. When in midstream the king got troubled about his dog, lest he should not follow, and turned to look. The man was very angry, and declared he would drop his passenger into the water. The king was contrite and the man went on. When they reached the other side, the man demanded double pay. "For," he said, "you put both our lives in danger when you turned." The king thought the demand was just, and paid it.

"Is there anything else I can do for you?" asked the king.

To this the man replied: "I have long wanted a donkey. If I had a donkey I could sell my vegetables in Turin. It is a good market."

"Would not a horse be better?" queried the king.

"No," was the man's reply. "The donkey could live in the cow shed. The horse must have a stable. I have no money." The next day the man was working in his fields, when his wife called to him that the king had sent him a horse and a bag of money. The man laughed at the idea. "Why, the king did not know him."

The wife insisted that the man should come to the house. There the king's messengers told him who it was he carried over the stream; that the king realized the danger he had placed the man in when crossing the stream, and the horse and the money to build a stable were the king's recompense for forgetting for a moment his promise.

Long afterward, on an occasion of state, the king was in Turin. The man to whom the king had given the horse and the money for a stable waited till the king's carriage came, when he rushed out into the street and thanked the king and pointed to the horse harnessed to a cart filled with vegetables.—The Outlook.

Some men sing of the peace that passeth understanding, whose faces fail to show any signs of peace.

The Christian religion is the only religion for the wretched. It descends to the lowest, and makes whole the sick ones of earth. The light shines the clearest where the darkness is most dense.—Exchange.

Why should we burden ourselves with superfluous cares, and fatigue and worry ourselves in the multiplicity of our ways. Let us rest in peace. God invites us to cast our anxieties on him.—Madame Guyon.

CALENDAR OF IMPORTANT EVENTS.

STATES OF LOUISIANA AND MISSISSIPPI.

Crowley District Conference, at Jeanerette, La., May 29-June 1.

Greenville District Conference, at Cleveland, Miss., May 27-29.

Whitworth College Commencement, Brookhaven, Miss., May 31 to June 2.

Millsaps College Commencement, Jackson, Miss., June 7-9.

Aberdeen District Conference, at Houlka, Miss., June 3-5.

Vicksburg District Conference, at Bolton, Miss., June 10-14.

Alexandria District Conference, at Natchitoches, La., June 12-14.

Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the North Mississippi Conference, at Senatobia, Miss., June 13-17.

Mid-Year Meeting of the Mississippi Conference Board of Missions, at Centerville, Miss., June 17-19.

Mississippi Conference Epworth League, at Gulfport, Miss., June 18-21.

Missionary Institute, Philadelphia, Miss., June 23.

Meridian District Conference, Buckatunna, Miss., June 23.

Columbus District Conference, at Mathiston, Miss., July 1-3.

North Mississippi Epworth League Conference, July 7-9.

Newton District Conference, at Montrose, Miss., July 8-10.

Corinth District Conference, at Baldwin, Miss., July 14-16.

THE SAFEST AND QUICKEST WAY

—TO—

TRANSFER MONEY

—is By—

Long Distance Telephone

FOR RATES APPLY TO LOCAL MANAGER

Cumberland Telephone & Telegraph Co.,

INCORPORATED.

NEW ORLEANS
CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE

Millsaps College Library.

REV. JOHN W. BOSWELL, Editor.
REV. H. WHITEHEAD, Ass't Editor.
NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, JUNE 4, 1908.
CHAS. O. CHALMERS, Publisher,
Office, 512 Camp St., New Orleans.
VOL. 55—No. 23.
"PROVE ALL THINGS; HOLD FAST THAT WHICH IS GOOD."
WHOLE No. 5402

Glances at the World.

Acting Governors and Lieutenant-Governors sometimes do strange things. In Arkansas, for instance, the officer who became acting Governor in consequence of the long continued illness of the Governor, went to Washington in answer to the call of President Roosevelt for a conference with all the Governors. While he was gone the officer who took his place for the time being (for no State must be without an executive) took the liberty of calling the legislature together in extra session. The absent Acting Governor hurried home and rescinded the call. Many of the legislators gathered at the capital, but not a sufficient number to form a quorum. After short conferences they resolved to adjourn and go home. In doing this they recognized the authority of the Acting Governor. Again, in Mississippi, while her Governor had likewise answered the President's call and was in Washington, the Lieutenant-Governor granted a pardon to a man who had been convicted of wrecking a bank by using its funds in speculation. The man had served less than two years of his term. The Lieutenant-Governor pardoned him because he thought the man had been sufficiently punished. Possibly both these "Acting Governors" acted inside the law, but we fail to see that the exigencies in either case justified the exercise of such far-reaching authority. But there is no telling what a man will do when moved by politics or tears.

* * *

A lively row, which called forth a desire to fight, was brought about in the General Conference of the African Methodist Episcopal Church, now in session in Norfolk, Va. The Rev. W. D. Chapelle, secretary of the Sunday School Union, was defeated for Bishop, and two or three days afterwards was defeated for re-election to the secretaryship. This naturally stung him, and ugly rumors got afloat. Rising to a question of personal privilege, he denied there was any truth in the rumors, but added: "If the Church can stand turning down a man who has done something for some one else who was an unknown quantity, I can stand it. I will go back to South Carolina, and will come to the next General Conference and be elected Bishop by the laymen of the Church. I will help them to get every general office in the Church. South Carolina will take any Bishop the General Conference may send there, or it will take all of them, if necessary, even Bishop Gaines, the modern Cataline." After this explosion Dr. Ransome, of New York, urged the Conference to discipline Mr. Chappelle, whereupon the irate member retorted that he would retract nothing, and turning to Dr. Ransome, said: "If you want to fight, I will accommodate you." Among these colored Methodists there are often avowed candidates for office, Bishops, secretaries, etc. In at least one instance we knew a candidate to solicit testimonials from his white friends in the Church, South. They believe in going after a thing when they want it.

* * *

One of the foremost leaders of the Western Federation of Miners has come to grief—W. D. Haywood. It will be remembered that he was recently on trial for his life, charged with complicity in the murder of prominent men, one an ex-Governor. The testimony was explicit, but the witness was discredited, and Haywood escaped. The Federation stood by him through all the trial, but the burden imposed on it was too heavy, and Haywood was overthrown, as will be seen by the following extract from the Commoner: "William D. Haywood, for many years secretary-treasurer of the Western Federation of Miners and organizer of that body, has been removed from all official connection with that organization. Shortly after the Boise trial Haywood was relieved of his duties as secretary-treasurer and was succeeded by Ernest Mills. Haywood, however, continued as a member of the executive board and as an organizer. On April 25 Vice-President Mahoney gave official notice in the Miners' Magazine that Haywood had been removed from the executive board and his services as organizer in the field terminated. Since the first of the year Haywood has been putting in his entire time making socialistic addresses throughout the country. His removal from all official connection with the Western Federation of Miners is an indication of a change of policy in the management of that organization."

* * *

No little curiosity, not to say anxiety, has been felt as to the attitude of Gov. Sanders toward the liquor traffic. No doubt the liquor dealers believed he was committed entirely to their cause. Many others also believed it. In his inaugural address he made himself clear. In this address he came much nearer pleasing the prohibition element than he did the saloon men and their friends. On the liquor traffic the Governor spoke as follows: "Those who have observed the trend of the times cannot fail to be impressed by the growing and just demand for more effective control of the liquor traffic in communities where its sale is authorized by law. There are abuses in this connection which must be corrected, and the duty of the General Assembly is to enact such legislation as will afford a more certain and more effective enforcement of the law, the protection of the people against the business of operating places where liquor is sold as cloaks for various forms of lawlessness and to eliminate, as well as may be, the vice and crime so often connected with its sale. Prohibition has worked well in those sections of the State where popular sentiment is behind the law, and some of the most prosperous towns and Parishes are those where prohibition has prevailed for a period long enough to afford fair tests of its merits. On the other hand, the obstacles in the way of enforcing such a law in portions of the State where it is not demanded by public sentiment are so great as to render the task practically impossible. In such cases experience has demonstrated that the best results are obtainable by effective regulation of the traffic. The insufficiency of our laws dealing with the liquor traffic and the persistent opposition to the enactment of sane and reasonable laws relating to that business have been responsible in large measure for the widespread sentiment now existing in favor of extreme legislation. The conservation of the public interest and the protection of the public require the enactment of legislation that will meet the reasonable demands of the people. A higher license for the State and a minimum license of $500 for Parishes and municipalities would appear to be not an unjust demand. Much dissatisfaction is caused by the combination of the saloon and grocery business, which places temptation in the path of the young and engenders vice and crime and the commingling of the vicious of both races, thereby constituting a menace to society. The issuance of saloon license to women is a source of evil, as is also the practice of women and girls serving in barrooms or drinking therein. Public decency demands the suppression of the practice of selling intoxicating drinks in the same building to whites and negroes. License to conduct barrooms should be given only to applicants who before competent authority make oath that they are citizens of the State, law-abiding and of good character. Bond should be required of them, forfeitable upon conviction of the violation of any of these suggested provisons, and a second conviction should carry with it permanent disqualification from obtaining license to sell liquor and from being interested, directly or indirectly, in such business. Gambling, games of chance of all descriptions, immodest, vulgar and obscene pictures, papers and books, and all mechanical contrivances designed to appeal to gambling and other vicious instincts, should be strictly prohibited in barrooms and all public places. Officers, directors and stockholders in corporations engaged in the manufacture or in the general distribution and sale of intoxicating liquors, being interested in the extension of the traffic and in the multiplication of saloons, should not, as a matter of sound public policy, be pecuniarily interested in or connected with licensed barrooms. In consonance with the principle of local option, the power might well be given to municipal authorities to enact ordinances excluding the liquor traffic from specific districts in their respective municipalities. If thus suggested laws for the regulation and control of the liquor traffic are not enforced and lived up to, then the prohibition of the traffic is the only remedy for the evils complained of."

Christian Advocate.

Published for the Louisiana, Mississippi and North Mississippi Conferences, Methodist Episcopal Church, South.

DIRECTIONS.

Correspondents will please direct all communications intended for the Editor to 512 Camp St., New Orleans, La. Communications intended for the Business Department should be addressed to the Manager of the New Orleans Christian Advocate. Write with ink and only on one side of the paper. No attention will be paid to rolled manuscripts.

The Printed Label on a paper shows the date to which a subscription is paid. It is as good as a written receipt. When renewal is made, if the date is not moved forward after two weeks notify us and we will make it right. Papers will be continued unless subscribers order otherwise.

For Advertising Rates Apply to

Religious Press Advertising Syndicate,

JACOBS & CO. CLINTON, S. C.

Home Office, Clinton, S. C., who take charge of the advertising of this paper.

ADVERTISING REPRESENTATIVES.

J. F. Jacobs & J. D. Jacobs, Home Office, Clinton, S. C.
E. J. Ritter, 418 W. St. Catherine St., Louisville, Ky.
Thornwell Jacobs, 1021 Stahlman Bldg., Nashville, Tenn.
C. C. Little, 140 Mutual Bldg., Richmond, Va.
D. J. Carter, 132 LaSalle St., Chicago, Ill.
Miss M. E. Middleton, 150 Nassau St., New York, N. Y.
Barton E. Buckman, 132 LaSalle St., Chicago, Ill.
J. H. Rich, Birmingham, Ala.
E. J. Barrett, New Orleans, La.
J. E. Keough, Atlanta, Ga.
J. B. Gentry, Clinton, S. C.
H. E. Ewbank, Houston, Texas.
W. L. Boggs, Greensboro, N. C.
F. A. Wynne, Cor. Ackard & Elm Sts., Dallas, Texas.

DESTINY AND DUTY.

BY WM. RICE SIMS.

As to the control of man's destiny two opposing theories have been held: One, that man is absolutely and merely the victim of circumstance; that he is wholly limited by conditions of genealogy, heredity, birth, environment and accident. The other, that he is the sole arbiter of his own destiny, the architect of his own fortunes.

The first of these theories teaches that "there's a divinity that shapes our ends, rough-hew them how we will." The second maintains that man possesses the absolute power of choice; that "honor and fame from no condition rise;" that each man creates his own opportunities; that he has the power to cancel from his vocabulary all such words as failure and impossibility; and that no matter how arduous the task, no matter how steep the acclivity, no matter how tangled the skein, no matter how intricate the problem, man is sufficient; that

"So near to glory is our dust—
So nigh to God is man—
When Duty whispers low, Thou must,
The soul replies, I can."

The real truth lies betweeen the two extremes. Man comes into the world without his own volition. He usually leaves it involuntarily, even unwillingly. His temperament, impulses, inclinations, prejudices, superstitions are handed down to him from long lines of ancestry. His early surroundings are not of his own choosing, and in later life he is often thrust into situations against which he vainly protests.

The outcome is not unlike a certain well-known principle in physics, called the "resultant of forces," to illustrate which a diagram is drawn showing two sides of a square and the diagonal. Draw this figure for yourself, and suppose a body of any kind placed at the angle or corner where the three lines meet. The upright or perpendicular line will then represent a force tending to draw the body directly upward. The horizontal line will represent an equal force tending to draw the body in that direction. Now, if these two forces act simultaneously on the body it will pursue a path midway between the two, that is, along the diagonal. Both forces act to influence the body. It moves in obedience to both, yet in absolute obedience to neither. One counteracts the other, and as a result the body moves neither straight upward nor straight forward, but in an incline upward at an angle of forty-five degrees.

Yet while thus deflected by the various forces that play upon him and within him, man's free moral agency is unimpaired. No matter at what tangent he may be made to move by heredity and environment, he still has the power to govern his conduct, and is still under moral obligation precisely commensurate with existing opportunity and actual possibility.

Taking into account man's privilege of calling on God for help, his own ability is the measure of his responsibility. Infinite justice will ultimately see that while he is excused from no known duty, yet at the same time he is held accountable for no impossible task.

THE PREPARATION OF THE SERMON.

The first and most important work of preparation for the sermon is to get the soul in right relation to God. It is not enough to have a vague call to the ministry. There must be an initiation into the mysteries of the spirit realm, an entering into the holy of holies, and there is no fixed rule or royal way by which to enter this sacred relation to God. Every one must find it for himself, and it must be found before the life is possessed of divine power.

He who would marshal the moral forces of any age, people or country, and build up a spiritual kingdom, must feel himself inspired of God as truly as Alexander felt that he was inspired of the mythical hero, Achilles. The true preacher must feel that he is a child born of God—yea, not only a child of God, but a man grown up in the strength of God. The spirit of the preacher needs to be brought into such harmonious relation to God that he can read "the hand-writing on the wall." The spiritual relation does not come to us unbidden, but is the sure result of a vital faith and much earnest prayer. He who enters the pulpit without this preparation goes there without authority and without power.

More than anything else the preacher at all times must be a man of God, and feel that the divine power abides in his life. He is a man called of God to deliver a message which is not to be a lecture, as is often the case, about religion, but a message from God to the people; the burden of which is death and life, sin and salvation. So the preacher becomes a prophet of God, revealing his word and will.

After getting the life right with God, the next thing is to educate. A call to the ministry is a call to get as good an education as possible. The preacher is a specialist whose vocation extends to all that concerns man. He should glean in all the fields of literature, and drink at all the fountains of knowledge. He should especially study theology, history and rhetoric. It is only by the study of theology—natural, Biblical and systematic—that he can arrive at a knowledge of God: who he is, what he does, and how he does it. By a study of history he can trace the progress of the human race; mark the instances of deterioration, and note the influences that make and mar life.

Thus, with a knowledge of God and his providence on the one hand, and of man and the forces salutary and destructive on the other, the preacher can descry the cloud in the distance and sound the alarm of approaching danger. So he becomes as truly a prophet of God as the prophets of old; only under different circumstances and in another age, with a message suitable to his time and people—a message, perhaps, more distinct and clear. He is God's evangel. What God has spoken to him in secret, by that still small voice, which none can hear but those whose souls are in accord with high heaven's holy will—that he must proclaim from the pulpit.

Next, the preacher [illegible] and in order to clearly and forcibly [illegible] the message, he needs to study the art of speech. In this school he should be [illegible] learning.

After the study of the [illegible] named, I would suggest the constant reading of high-class literature in both prose and poetry. Among the poets, I think Milton, Dante, Young's Night Thoughts, Tennyson, especially In Memoriam, Montgomery, Longfellow, [illegible] and [illegible] should have a place in the preacher's library, and be often referred to. Some good authorities recommend Shakespeare, but I think he is too [illegible] human, and I have never been much helped by even his best [illegible].

In the field of prose I would advise the reading of Scott for style, [illegible] history, and as a model of literary art. For a clear insight into human nature I know of nothing better than Dickens' works. For the enlargement of the vocabulary and the imagination, there is nothing perhaps better than Poe's works and Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress. The reading of some fiction of later and less distinct type will be helpful for most preachers; such books as Barabbas, St. Elmo, Les Miserables and In the Sign of the Cross, are all inspiring and instructive.

The preacher, if possible, should be able to read his text in the originals. With the helps that can now be had, a little time given daily to the study of them will doubtless unlock the mysteries of the Hebrew and Greek languages.

I would advise the reading of such able authorities as "The Modern Pulpit," by Bristow; "The Preacher and His Models," by Stalker; "The Theory of Preaching," by Phelps, and "The Way of the Preacher," by Kern. For general reference, there is nothing that I know of that excels McClintock and Strong's Biblical Theological and Ecclesiastical Cyclopedia, a work of twelve volumes consisting of more than sixteen thousand pages.

With the foundation laid and the material at hand, the next thing is to erect the structure—that is, make the sermon. In its development every sermon passes through two periods: first, there is the period of accretion, when the sermon grows from what is gathered from without by what is heard, seen and read; second, the period of increment, when it grows from within from what the soul feels and thinks. The first phase of the sermon might be well compared to the time of gestation—that is, when it takes hold of the soul and fastens itself on the life. At this time the preacher needs to be much engaged in gathering knowledge from all sources. The second phase is the period of growth and maturity; at this time he should be much alone. But few preachers know the value of solitude, and still fewer know how to use it. No man can be truly great till he has spent much time in communion with God, nature and his own heart. A man that is not great cannot produce a great sermon; for no being can make a thing greater than himself. Amos must spend a large portion of his life on the lonely hills of Judea before he is prepared as a messenger for God; Isaiah must suffer ostracism before he receives strength to pass through the streets of Jerusalem with bare feet and bare head in imitation of the carrying away of the people captive; Jeremiah must be an exile before he can weep over the ruin of his people and country; Moses must spend forty years in the solitude of Midian before he is prepared to lead the people of Israel out of bondage; John, the forerunner of Christ, must be moved from the scenes of the temple to the desert before he is called to be the herald of his illustrious kinsman, and the Lord himself must be alone in the wilderness forty days before he begins his ministry. The immortal Milton must lose his sight and his property and be moved to an isolated country home before he can produce the poems "Paradise Lost" and "Paradise Regained."

Bunyan must be committed to the silent confines of a Bedford jail before he can conceive of his heaven-bound pilgrim. Time fails us to speak of all the great souls of earth that through solitude have received strength and inspiration to do great things for God and man. Well does Emerson say:

Think me not unkind and rude,
That I walk alone in grove and glen;
I go to the god of the wood
To bring his words to men.

Chide me not ye laborious band,
For the idle flowers I brought;
Each aster I hold in my hand
Goes home laden with a thought.

Perhaps we are not producing the great preachers that other days could boast of; if so, it is likely due largely to this one cause: Under our present regime we have not time to be alone. With the ever-increasing demand for pastoral work, and the multiplied financial duties, with all the extra meetings and social duties, the preacher hardly has time to read the great mass of matter that he feels should be read to keep up with "the times."

It so turns out that there is little real soul-thought given to the sermon. Then what is the result? The ever-enticing homiletic is resorted to, and the books of outlines of sermons is drawn upon, and with these things the preacher is degraded in his high and holy calling and shorn of his power. I denounce such helps as positive hindrances and degrading to an honest ministry.

I would say to the preacher: Get your message from God, and get it for your own time and people. The professional theologian cannot get it for you. Be your own producer, and if you cannot produce anything you are not called to preach, for to every called messenger God gives a message.

Read for information, write for correctness, pray for inspiration, study the Word of God for all light and revelation. Try to put yourself in Christ's stead, and feel toward the people as he felt and you will preach and sinners will be converted and God will be glorified.

J. A. Poe.

Mayhew, Miss.

AMERICAN CITIZENSHIP.

It is beyond question that a preacher should abstain from entering the political arena of his pastorate, but this should not prevent his earnest study of the civic questions that affect his people. In fact, the man of God can most substantially build up the kingdom of God by informing his charge as to the political dangers, needs and opportunities of the day. There is no limit to this field of usefulness and effectiveness. To serve the cause of Christ in this way demands as careful preparation as in the other parts of the work. Should the library of either layman or minister be lacking in literature on this line ample supplies can be had by writing our Rev. Dr. A. J. Lamar, at Nashville, Tenn., who has made a careful selection of works on this subject which are well worthy the perusal of thousands of our people. If these are carefully read and their suggestions put into practice there will be a mighty awakening of both pastor and charge to a sense of neglected work.

There is one thing sure that if this land of ours is to be saved from the grasp of demagogues and infamous scheming politicians, it will be by the masterful strokes of the well-informed middle class. Our own denomination is numerically strong enough, if aroused to a sense of its responsibility, to be the saving power of the United States. It can and should be stimulated to put forth its utmost righteous strength in this worthy cause. Its large-hearted and broad-minded membership ought to be rallied to the white flag of her Master in behalf of civic righteousness. Its households should be well instructed in the fundamental principles of government, not for the purpose of merely securing votes, but especially for informing one another of their rights and privileges. The mothers and fathers in Israel should discuss at their own firesides all the political questions that make for the good or ill of the home, even the boys and girls should early be made to understand matters of municipal, County, State and national concern which bear upon the home even remotely. The wisdom or the unwisdom of each political question should be most carefully investigated in these home-centers of power.

In many of our cities and towns there have been organized civic societies for the purpose of securing information in these matters. Where practicable our people of both sexes would do well to unite with these organizations and push their efforts to broadest extent.

Some of these civic associations are under the control of the best women and are doing excellent progressive work. Their labors have made beneficial changes in the schools, improved the streets, secured better lights; in one of our large Southern cities a woman's club took up the abandoned work of sewerage and after years of struggle succeeded in forcing the city council to wisely spend an enormous sum for this purpose.

Mississippians have great encouragement for enlarging her work on the line of civic effort, for their recent victory in securing statutory prohibition was largely won by the earnest and untiring labors of thousands of Methodist men and women. We know of one of our most influential preachers who litterally stumped his charge in this cause, addressing multitudes whenever and wherever he could congregate the people.

There are several other as gross and threatening evils remaining to be combated which will require as constant and wise labor to lead to this grand victory. The basal work must be originated in our home-centers if we expect permanent success. Indeed, we are not through with the whisky fight, for the saloonists will renew their efforts and seek, as they did fifty years ago, to drive States that enact prohibition laws back into their power. That they succeeded to an alarming extent is only too plain a fact in many of our strongest States at this time. Methodism cannot afford to stay her hand in this and like labors until Satan be driven from our land.

A Civic Leaguer.

EXTRACTS FROM A GREAT SPEECH.

Mr. Editor: The following is taken from a speech delivered in the national House of Representatives by Hon. Robert Lamar, of Missouri. The occasion was the introduction of a bill for a Sunday law. It will doubtless be a surprise to some Americans to know that there was no such law in the District of Columbia. The thought is so lofty and timely and the expression so perfect that I am sure many will enjoy reading it. Mr. Lamar said:

Within the last few years we have had a curious type of woman, a kind of prodigy; 'the new woman,' who thinks home-life and motherhood a disgrace; whose highest ideal seem to be to check and smother and utterly eliminate from her nature all those attributes of tenderness and modesty which have ever been the chief charm of her sex and have always inspired a spirit of reverence and chivalry in manhood. The chief ambition of the new woman seems to be to spend as much time as possible at the club and as little as possible in the home; to clamor for the ballot and the lecture platform, and bestow her affections on a poodle dog. The woman who calls to our minds the thoughts of angels and heaven is not the new woman on the lecture platform, the one asking the ballot, nor the modern club-woman, but the one around the hearth-stone. The purest altar from which a prayer ever ascended was a mother's knee, and the holiest, sweetest recollections man ever had were of home, chilhood and mother. If anything on earth within the range of human possibilities can move an angel to rejoice and strike the golden harp with a sweeter refrain, it is the mother singing lullabies around the cradle of infancy, and making the home what the dear old simple homes of the land were to many of the present generation, a heaven on earth, a paradise of sweet memories for all coming years.

"But forever and forever,
As long as the river flows,
As long as the heart has passions,
As long as life has woes!"

Such memories, in after years, when careworn and heartsick, carry us back to the sunny days of childhood and prompt the plaintive cry of the tired soul:

"Turn backward, turn backward, O time in thy flight,
Make me a child again, just for to-night!"

We may for a passing moment admire the tinsel and glitter of the fashionable belle, but we worship and revere, and would die for the mother who taught our infant lips to lisp their first prayer. It is an enigma why women aspire to be masculine. All experience and all history teach us that it is the womanly woman who commands the admiration and respect of her own and succeeding generations. It is that type of woman whom the artists have delighted to paint, and whom the poets have been inspired to describe.

Mrs. Browning's "Aurora Leigh," Tennyson's "Dora," "Ami," "Maud" and "The Princess;" Owen Meridith's "Lucile;" Longfellow's "Evangeline;" Whittier's "Maud Muller," and Burn's "Highland Mary," could never have been conceived or written of the "new woman."

If the "new woman" had been in fashion when Byron lived, instead of writing the lovely lines:

"She walks in beauty like the night,
Of cloudless climes and starry skies," he probably would have written:

"She walks in bloomers sorter tight,
The cynosure of staring eyes."

If Whittier were writing Maud Muller now,

The Canal-Louisiana Bank and Trust Company

CORNER CAMP AND GRAVIER STS.

Embraces every function of financial business. It solicits your deposit account subject to cheque. It solicits your SAVINGS ACCOUNT upon which will be allowed INTEREST at the rate of 3 1-2 per cent. per annum, compounded semi-annually.

It will safeguard your securities in its BURGLAR and FIRE-PROOF SAFETY DEPOSIT VAULTS. It will collect Bonds, Rents, Mortgages, Interest, Dividends, Coupons and every class of income. It will pay Taxes and Insurance, sell property and undertake the care and management of Estates. It will act as Executor, Administrator, Guardian or Trustee under will or by appointment of court.

DURING YOUR LIFETIME IT WILL ACT AS YOUR AGENT AND AT YOUR DEATH IT WILL ADMINISTER YOUR ESTATE.

Its Foreign Exchange Department buys and sells Drafts and Cable Transfers; issues Commercial and Travelers' Letters of Credit available in all parts of the world, makes collections and does a general foreign exchange business.

Accounts of Individuals, Firms, Banks and Corporations Respectfully Solicited.

Every Accommodation Offered Consistent With Safe and Legitimate Banking.

instead of saying:

[illegible]

[illegible]

we would [illegible] write:

[illegible]

From such [illegible] we turn [illegible] and [illegible] the university [illegible] football [illegible] Europe [illegible] into the heart of society and the material world; but they are [illegible] into the domain of the [illegible] invading the sanctuary and laying [illegible] upon the very horns of the altar.

I noticed in one of the metropolitan papers not many months ago that one of the fashionable churches in New York city had adopted a rule that at each Sunday evening service all the worshippers must appear in full evening dress. At the congress of religions held in Buffalo during the Pan-American Exposition a divine of the city of Chicago said:

"I believe in dancing and card-playing. I would turn the church and vestry [illegible] other place with a hall for dancing. I [illegible] have billiard and pool tables and I'd have [illegible] ing under the auspices of the church."

And so, today, in a short while we will hear from some other exponent of modern religion that a saloon in the basement, and a poker-table in the attic are valuable adjuncts to a modern church.

I am sincerely glad that in the rural districts few of these tendencies and influences are found anywhere else. I am glad that there, at least, the old simplicity and the old-time virtue that gave strength and vigor to our fathers and mothers are yet honored and not forgotten; that the old songs and the old religion and the old faith are not yet relegated to the realms of experiment; and if our nation is to endure and our inheritance to be handed down unimpaired to the coming generations, it is from these sources that our national vigor and our individual strength must be fed and nourished. It has been and will ever be from these sources that the great, brawny, sturdy, independent individualities who leave their mark upon the nation and mold the history of the world will come.

GEO. H. THOMPSON.

PORT GIBSON FEMALE COLLEGE

The session 1907-8 of Port Gibson Female College has just closed, this being the most successful and prosperous in all its history in number of students, in work and in general advancement. The number of students was in excess of the capacity of our buildings, necessitating crowding, and the securing of places for twelve in the home of our Port Gibson pastor, Brother H. W. Lewis. To meet this contingency for the coming year the Board of Trustees bought a desirable piece of property across the street from the College, which will increase the boarding capacity of the College twenty-five. From present indications this will be filled by the opening of the next session.

The reports from the various teachers show a [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] that all was good.

After a careful study of President [illegible], his methods, and his executive ability, [illegible] thoroughness of [illegible] the intelligence [illegible] method, and [illegible]

If the people of our State desire a school for their girls where the quality [illegible] of instruction, where the girls are cared for [illegible] and where [illegible] discipline is maintained [illegible] Port Gibson Female College.

[illegible]

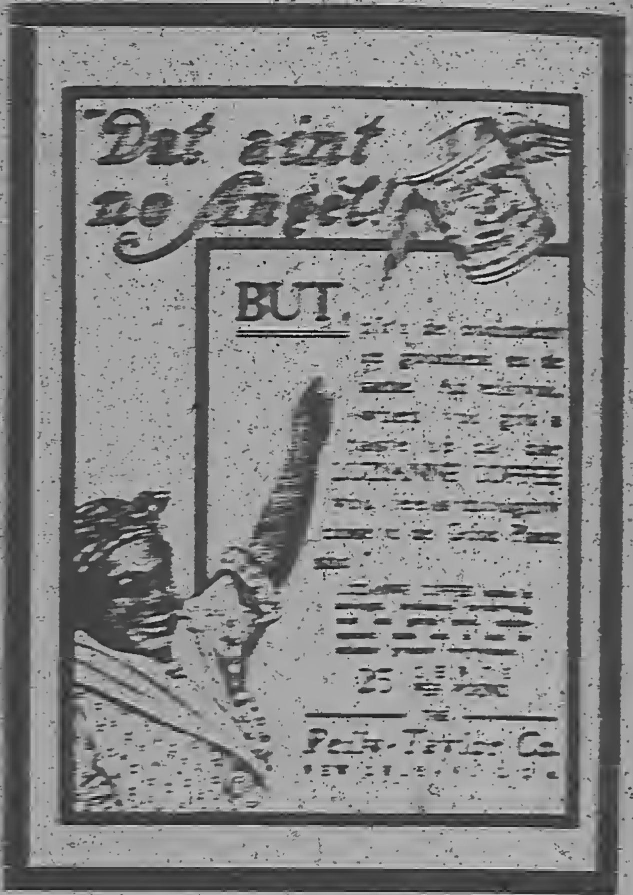
CENTENARY COLLEGE

The friends of our College will be glad to know that the prospect for a satisfactory opening are good. Wherever I go kind words are spoken concerning this work of our whole Church. Nobody is willing to think of Centenary as a local enterprise.

I have been in labors abundant. I have talked with many parents. I have addressed schools, helped in protracted meetings, in preaching [illegible] and have [illegible] pulpits. All the people who love our Church express themselves as glad that September [illegible] to see a new opening day for Centenary.

In a few weeks our [illegible] will come from the hands of the printer. Let all our people who know of young people who will attend College send names of such to me. Suppose our Epworth Leagues have a meeting devoted to our Church schools. Send for catalogues and inform our young people what our Church is doing for Christian education. Let the secretary of the League send in a list of boys and girls who ought to be in our Church schools.

Brother pastor, how many young people have



"Dat aint no Angel!"
BUT,
25
Penn-Tyrrell Co.

[illegible]

[illegible]

Dear Dr. [illegible]: Thinking perhaps that a few lines from this part of our great Church would be of interest, I pen the following. [illegible]

[illegible]

It is wonderful how our pastor [illegible] has ingratiated himself into the hearts and affections of the people [illegible] the young people that [illegible] that is uplifting [illegible] I hope the time will soon be when our Church will give more attention to our country people. But for them our [illegible] Church would soon be a thing of the past.

Brother [illegible], our pastor, made a very fine report to the Quarterly Conference, having preached thirty-five times the past quarter and received a number into the Church. He will ask the District Conference to recommend him to the Annual Conference for admission on trial. Another young man will go up for license to preach; both these, and the only two in the district, from mission charges.

With many kind wishes to the Editor and Advocate family, I remain your brother,

D. M. Gean.

Altus, Miss.

METHODISM IN MISSISSIPPI.

Dear Doctor: In your issue of the 14th inst. appear two intensely interesting communications in connection with the early history of Methodism in Mississippi and the Southwest. The article from the pen of Brother Bachman is a study in statistics and facts, which should cause every reader to take courage and go forward. Indeed, it would suggest that he who has not the spirit of aggressiveness will be left far behind in the race.

The communication from the pen of Brother Richard Reed on "Lorenzo Dow's Deeds to Church Lots," while full of suggestions as to the early settlement of the Natchez Country, and the eccentricities of this erratic character, is the more interesting to me from the fact that I have handled the original paper in one instance and read the other in the book of records of Adams County. These two articles call to mind the writings of Rev. John G. Jones, long time member of the Mississippi Conference, in his "Protestantism in the Southwest," and his "History of Methodism in the Mississippi Conference." The former of these books has long since gone out of print, but should, if possible, be put on the market again that the present generation, not only of Methodists, but of others as well, might be informed of the beginnings and the struggles of those who planted the gospel of Jesus Christ under its different names within the States of Mississippi and Louisiana.

I have just finished the second reading of the "History of Methodism in Mississippi," having read it first some fifteen years ago, and find it a confirmation of the statement often made, that "truth is stranger than fiction." Beginning with the arrival of Tobias Gibson, in 1799, and running through 1817; reciting the organization of the first society of six white and two colored members in the town of Washington in Adams County; the coming of re-enforcements from the Eastern Conferences; the increase of membership; the hardships of the transfers as they made their way through the Indian nations and the "wilderness;" the oppositions by the Catholic clergy; the formation of new works, extending to the Alabama country on the East and to the Washita settlements on the West, we have a recital of facts which fairly bristle on every page. One chapter completed only intensifies the desire to know the contents of the next.

In this volume we have the names of many, both clerical and lay, who will ever receive honor at the hands of the future historians of our great Church. The second volume of this work, which carries us through the eventful 1846 is now in the hands of the printers, having been provided for by the Mississippi Methodist Historical Association, and which, with another issue of volume one, will soon be on the market. It was the writer's pleasure to assist in the revision and arrangement of the manuscript for this second volume, which contains, if possible, facts and incidents which will commend it to the public, and especially our Methodist people, more highly than those of the first. In this we come upon names and places which are household words within the territory of the States of Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana—incidents in connection with the early settlements and neighborhoods, and, also, of men and families which will prove of greatest interest to those whose fathers and grandfathers figured so conspicuously in the settling of the country, and the planting of our glorious Church within these regions.

Bishop McTyeire, in his "History of Methodism," which has become a standard in our Church, pays high compliment to the material contained within these volumes, from which he obtained much that enriched his masterly work. I am not informed as to the price which shall be charged for this work, but to him who would become acquainted with the history of Methodism in the Southwest these volumes seem to this writer almost indispensable, and to quote the lamented Bishop Keener, "one which a man might well part with his shirt to buy."

T. B. Holloman.

Hattiesburg, Miss.

A GREAT MEETING.

Mr. Editor: Being one of the delegates from the Newton District, Mississippi Conference, to the Layman's Missionary Conference at Chattanooga, Tenn., I made preparation to go. On the evening of April 21, at 3:15, we (Rev. J. E. J. Ferguson, Brother Ewing and myself) left Meridian on the A. G. S. fast train for Chattanooga. I believe it is said that this is one of the fastest trains in the South. It seemed that we went about as fast as steam could carry us. We arrived at Chattanooga at 11:30 p. m., but too late to be present at the first service. The next morning (Wednesday) we were at the auditorium in due time for the first service of the day. The auditorium seats about 4000, and was about filled at each service.

The first on the programme for the day was an address on "The Educational Movement in Missions," by Rev. E. F. Cook, of Nashville, Tenn. Dr. D. L. Anderson, of Soochow, China, spoke on "China, The Gibraltar of Missions." Rev. J. L. Gerdine, of Seoul, Korea, talked on "Korea: A Great Religious Awakening." The gospel of Christ is certainly doing a wonderful work in Korea, bringing light to many that sat in darkness. Then we had an address by Bishop A. W. Wilson, on "The One Great Mission of the Church." This was one of, if not the best, addresses made during the Conference. This brought us to the "Quiet Hour" service, led by Rev. W. W. Pinson, of Nashville. This "Quiet Hour" service was held at noon of each day and proved to be refreshing from the presence of the Lord. We felt that it was good to be there. In the afternoon we had the report of the Committee on Permanent Organization, read by W. W. Carre, of New Orleans, chairman. The report was ordered printed and distributed in order that members of the Conference might read it before voting on it. The next day, with some amendments, the report was adopted, and the Layman's Missionary Movement became an organization and subject to the authorities of the Church.

While the women of our Church have been organized for work in the various societies, the children in the Sunday school and the young people in the Epworth League, the men have had no systematic way of doing anything. Hence, the need of the Layman's Movement. Time and space will not admit the mentioning of all that we heard and saw in this great meeting; but it was all uplifting and strengthening in its effect, and enjoyed by all who attended as the opportunity of a lifetime.

Among the most noted who spoke during the Conference were Bishops Candler and Hendrix; Dr. Josiah Strong, of New York; Hon. S. B. Capen, of Boston; W. T. Ellis, a newspaper-man from Philadelphia, Pa.; and J. Campbell White, of New York.

The physicans, who were present as delegates, met together and organized a Medical Missionary Society, with Dr. J. F. Staley, of Bristol, Tenn., as president, and Dr. Scales, of Louisiana, vice-president. It was very appropriate for the Conference to unanimously elect Mr. J. R. Pepper president of the Layman's Missionary Movement, who so ably presided at the Chattanooga gathering.

E. B. Partin, M. D.

A GOOD LETTER FROM WATER-VALLEY.

Dear Dr. Boswell: The finances of our Church is another "item" which I have puzzled over considerably, and I never have an intense desire for money, unless there is an earnest appeal, such as Brother T. W. Lewis is sending out in clarion notes through the Advocate for our great college at Jackson, Miss., or when our consecrated missionaries make an imperative call for help in their grand work for the Master. So many of them are occupying miserable, cramped quarters, which a few hundred dollars would render commodious and healthful, thus enabling them to work more successfully for the salvation of those benighted ones, steeped as they are, in superstition and idolatry! Yes, when I heard these urgent appeals, I thought I would like to have one million dollars to endow Millsaps and to send large gifts across the ocean to our faithful missionaries who have left home and loved ones to carry the glorious news of a risen Savior to heathen lands. They have obeyed the great command, "Go ye into all the world and preach my gospel to every creature," and it seems a small part for us to furnish the means to carry on this noble work.

Why is it, Doctor, that the finances of our churches and schools are such problems that it is so difficult to support the former or endow the latter? I believe it can be traced in a large measure to an error in parental training. We do not, as a rule, educate our children in the important lesson of contributing liberally to the cause of God. Many parents of large means will divide a nickle into pennies and give the child a penny for the Sunday school, the missionary-box, or the League, thus minifying their offering to God at the lowest rate, and give them nickles, dimes and quarters to purchase confections or other things of little value, and in this way impressing their young minds with the idea that the least gift will do for our Lord! What base ingratitude when he has lavished upon us his richest blessings!

I believe in the old Levitical law of tithing. It was God's command to his people, "Thou shalt give one-tenth of thine income," and I believe it to be just as binding on every one who professes to be his child now as it was then, and I have never yet heard a tither speak of it in any other way but that they had been so greatly blessed since obeying this command that they never intended to cease tithing! I think we would do well to impress this command on the minds of our children and try to induce them to lay by one-tenth of all they make, or that is given them, for God's cause, which includes also the needy and helpless ones of our town or community, and I believe in a few years we would see large results accruing therefrom.

Well, Doctor, the dear old Advocate has just put in its appearance, and the editorials caught my eye, and I ceased writing to read them, and I think every one so interesting, not even omitting the first! After perusing the first page I turned the leaf and found Brother Wollard's fine article, "The Layman's Missionary Conference," and, of course, I had to read that, and, I tell you, it advanced my estimate of my pastor, of the "Movement," and of that grand layman, John R. Pepper! Yours, Mrs. M. W. Morrison.

Watervalley, Miss.

ESTABLISHED 1891

JOHN DAVID BURGHARDT CO.,

"THE RELIABLE" PLUMBERS and GAS FITTERS.

Agency: Born's Patent Steel Ranges. Hygeia Water Filters.

613-615 Bienville St. Phone Main 2086.

Jobbing and Repair Work a Specialty. New Orleans, La.

W. H. M. S.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

As the first quarter of our fiscal year in the Woman's Home Mission Society is near its close we are reminded anew of our obligations. We resolved at our last Annual Meeting that with God's help we would make this the best year in the history of our work in Louisiana. We promised more consecrated service and more faithful, earnest prayer. We have covenanted together to go forward in his name and in the strength of the promise, "If ye shall ask anything in my name, I will do it." In view of the thousands of immigrants coming to our Gulf-coast, the Board, at its recent meeting in Louisville, Ky., appropriated nearly $20,000 more than at any previous session.

The obligation is upon us. As Methodist women we cannot afford to shirk our responsibility. We must double our membership. Instead of 1400 members in Louisiana we must have 2800 before our next annual meeting.

Why is it that every Methodist woman is not a member of the Woman's Home Mission Society? I am sure it is because you do not think. Do you not realize what you are helping to do with your dues? With the mite contributed each month you are helping to build homes for those who have left all for the kingdom of heaven's sake. Our ministers, like their Master, have no homes unless we provide them one, and our dues are devoted to that purpose.

Do you realize what the call for that extra dollar, above dues, means? Literally, it means "help for the helpless." Read statistics, black with the touch of sin and ignorance:

"Twenty-one per cent of the women wage-earners are totally illiterate; twenty-nine per cent of the women in houses of sin have been in domestic service; thirty-two per cent of the women who enter lives of shame go directly from their own homes; only thirty-two per cent of the women of this country belong to any Church, either Protestant or Roman Catholic."

With these facts shall we shirk our responsibility? The Woman's Home Mission Society is seeking to bring the healing touch of the Master to these lives, to bring to them a broader out-look and higher ideals by its schools and missions and rescue homes, and Wesley Houses, and immigrant homes. O, my sister, the Master is calling you, the opportunity is here and time is passing rapidly by. Now is the time for service and sacrifice.

"There comes a time in the future new,
When this life has passed away;
When these needy ones shall stand with me
In the light of a judgment day;
When the angel reads from the Book of Life
My deeds for that great review;
If these should speak and accuse me there,
I wonder what I would do?"

MRS. E. R. KENNEDY.

SEASHORE DISTRICT CONFERENCE PROCEEDINGS.

At 9 o'clock Wednesday morning, May 20, Rev. M. L. Burton, presiding elder, called the Seashore District Conference to order, and Rev. W. B. Jones was elected secretary. However, before the session adjourned it developed that the body was fortunate in having a half-dozen or more who could take hold of the duties at the table and proceed without a break. Being a strict constructionist of St. Paul's teaching of those at Thessalonica that "if any would not work, neither should he eat," our beloved laid hands on a visiting brother, and even called his excellent talent as a recorder into use.

This was the most largely attended District Conference this writer remembers ever to have attended. First and last the enrollment reached nearly or quite eighty, and the spirit was in keeping with the numbers. Few, if any, were of the Quaker disposition. At times the discussions were live and participated in by laymen.

Four hundred and eighty were reported as having connected themselves with the churches in the district, half of which were by conversion. Three were granted license to preach, making a roll of local preachers reaching up into the thirties within the district. The greater part of one session was given to hearing from these brethren, and renewing their papers. That Methodism is moving upward and substantially on the Seashore there is every sign.

As their names came, the following were selected to represent the laymen at the session of the Annual Conference: Jas. Hand, John A. McLeod, A. W. Griffin and R. B. Ballew.

Mosspoint was selected as the place for next meeting.

Last, but not at all the least item of business, was the passage of resolutions expressive of our appreciation of the generous hospitality of the good people of McHenry, and of the seeming inspiration of Brother Carley in giving to each one the best home and most congenial surroundings.

It would be an oversight unpardonable should I close this without a word congratulatory of the ADVOCATE in having so cheerful and hopeful a representative in the person of Brother Whitehead. He knows how to tell his wants and point an anecdote. We were gald to have him and hear his speech for our paper. In conclusion, let me say that the Seashore is advancing on all lines. She has the largest territory in the State; is famous for the largest circuits; has a record for the biggest "beloveds;" has a roll of more ex-presiding elders, or more good-looking, eloquent preachers, and can furnish more material for the biggest fish stories than any other.

T. B. HOLLOMAN.
(By Appointment.)

NOTES FROM SARDIS DISTRICT.

The second Quarterly Conference of the Olive Branch charge was an inspiring occasion. The work has made marked advancement along all lines under the leadership of the enthusiastic and aggressive pastor, Rev. K. P. Foust. He writes: "Have organized one Sunday school and reorganized another; organized one new prayer-meeting; congregations large; 60 per cent of my Conference collections secured; will report everything in full. I have a fine people; my membership is arousing from the state of indifference and lethargy to a fuller realization of its duty. Expect fine meetings this summer."

Brother Young writes: "Brother C. W. Baily, of the Pleasant Hill Circuit, is moving on with vigor." The people of that charge say that the second Quarterly Conference was the greatest occasion of the kind for many years. A large crowd, four excellent sermons, splendid reports and a sumptuous dinner were some of the pleasant features.

We have some "first-hand" information that Rev. W. R. Williams has things well in hand on the Cockrum Circuit. He claims that he is serving the most delightful people in the Conference and has driven his stakes down for four years. His people are very appreciative of his labors and do not hesitate to express themselves accordingly. While he has demonstrated his ability as a necrologist in the passing of the Holly Springs District, we dare say there will be no occasion for him to write an obituary of Cockrum Circuit or any other charge while he is pastor.

"Rev. J. M. Huggin is doing a spendid work on the Wall Hill charge," so writes his presiding elder. Though the charge has recently lost some of its most substantial members, an excellent financial report was made at the second Quarterly Conference. Many of us who are serving country charges are experiencing the same trouble as Brother Huggin—the removal of members to town. But the crisis will pass and the tide will turn back to the country, and these charges will be much better populated than ever before. And if the immigrants continue to come at the present rate, the turning of the tide will not be far distant. Then if we are successful in holding our own and building up our Zion it will be largely due to the faithfulness of these men of God who are serving them through years of trial, ministering to the remnants and holding the ground.

Rev. J. C. Curtis has been on the sick list for the past three weeks, but is able to be at his work again. While he was confined to his bed one of his appointments was filled by Rev. Mr. DuBois, a local Baptist preacher, and one by Rev. B. P. Whitten, the pastor of the Baptist Church at Coldwater.

V.

ST. LOUIS LETTER.

Dear Doctor: We have just closed a great meeting at Centenary Church, St. Louis. We had between 300 and 400 professions. The pastor has received about 200 into the Church as a result of the meeting, and expects to receive 150 more. Centenary, in many respects, is the greatest church in Southern Methodism. Dr. Andrews is the pastor, and if Bishop Key had searched the whole of Southern Methodism he could not have found a man better suited for this charge.

Some of our leading men think it will be necessary to elect six Bishops at our next General Conference, and I would like to nominate Dr. Andrews as one of those six. He is a scholarly man, and has in him a big heart. Then, too, he is so well acquainted with every phase of Methodism. "Give me a man for Bishop that knows by experience more than one special line of church work." Then, too, he is a great preacher, loves the Church, and having known him for years I do not hesitate to say that every interest of the church would be safe in his hands.

I feel sure that your readers will be glad to hear that Rev. Theo. Copeland is pastor of one of our leading churches in St. Louis. He is a brilliant man and can fill any station in the Church.

Doctor, pray for us. We are having the best meeting of our life. Yours fraternally,

W. M. MCINTOSH.

"She thought to herself," writes a modern novelist, "how delightful it would be to live in a house where everybody understood and loved and thought about everyone else." She did not know that her wish was just for the kingdom of heaven.—F. W. Farrar.

GET SOLID PROTECTION AND INSURE WITH
LEON IRWIN & CO.
Fire and Casualty Insurance.
[illegible] GRAVIER STREET. PHONE, MAIN [illegible]

W. W. Carre Co., Ltd.
Manufacturers and Exporters of
LUMBER,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Phone Main
ROOMS and BOARD
634 and [illegible] SOUTH STREET LAFAYETTE SQUARE
CORNER ST. CHARLES ST., NEW ORLEANS
UNLIMITED MEALS. ALVIN PORTER, Manager.

The Home Circle.

MISUNDERSTOOD.

BY KATHERINE O. VAN KUREN.

Misunderstood! Ah, yes, that's it—
The heart cries out its bitter pain;
Laughed at, and ridiculed, and why?
Misunderstood! the sad refrain.

We have our motives misconstrued,
By those who cannot understand
The deeper feeling hidden 'neath
The seemingly frivolous plan.

When we try to do our best
How often then we fail the most!
Men seem to tell us with a sneer,
"Our trying is an idle boast."

We grow discouraged; but take heart—
No night but yields its place to day;
Then men will see us as we are;
But we must patient be, and pray.

So when our days are going wrong,
And trials come—for come they will—
We'll bravely think of others' wrongs
And learn to suffer and be still.

—Christian Intelligencer.

OLD FASHIONED NEIGHBORS.

"There are no neighbors in this ultilitarian age," said Mrs. Norton, impatiently, when some one had said—in fun, of course:

"The very best way to have a good time is to invite in the neighbors." And she went on still impatiently, "I am tired of not knowing the name even of the people next door. I wish we could leave this congested city and go to live in the country, where one may have old-fashioned neighbors."

"You must remember that the country, in New England, even, is in a state of transition," said her husband, who was apt to say, when his home-keeping wife rebelled, that New York was good enough for him. "Wherever you went you would probably find an Italian family on one hand and a Bohemian on the other, a Norwegian across the field and down the lane a colony of Irish or French, all very good in their way, no doubt, but not like the old-fashioned Yankee element with which your childhood was familiar."

"But there are still places where old-fashioned New England neighbors make life worth the living," put in Aunt Martha, and as her nephew looked incredulous she took a small white envelope from the dainty work basket on the small stand at her elbow, saying, "Listen to this, received yesterday:"

"You will be sorry to know that poor grandma has been suffering from her annual attack of influenza. For several days she was seriously ill, in bed, then the fever left and an appetite developed, and, of course, it was for something I did not have in the house and could not procure, on the instant, at least, and for an hour I heard all the changes rung on chicken broth.

"The snow was falling in big flakes and the wind was howling. I was alone in the house with her, and we do not keep fowls, as you know, and there is no near-by market, every one depending on the regular 'cart' from town, and at this season would not bring chicken unless ordered to do so.

"After a while she fell asleep under the influence of a quieting powder, and I knew it would be safe to leave her for ten minutes. Wrapping myself in a blanket shawl, I ran across the garden to Mrs. ———, our near neighbor, you know, and told her my trouble. She keeps a flock of fowls and often has chicken on her table.

"'No,' she said, 'I have no broth in the house. I haven't had a chicken for a couple of weeks. My table fowls are nearly all killed off; there is one, however, that I have been saving, in case I should have unexpected company. Couldn't your grandma eat this, or that, or the other?' and she mentioned several things she would be glad to prepare for her, but I tried to laugh, and said 'chicken broth or nothin, she is so set,' and I ran home, discouraged, making sure that before I could gratify her, her appetite would be gone and her strength with it.

"In a couple of hours I heard my neighbor's pantry window open and a call. It sounded like, "Come over and get the broth;" but the wind was a gale by that time, so rigging out my feet again in boots and enveloping myself in the blanket shawl, I made my way across the garden, being greeted by the savory smell of stewing chicken as I opened the door of the cheerful kitchen.

"'Did Mr. ——— come home, dismayed by the storm?' I asked. 'Oh, no,' she replied, 'I managed it.' And I found she had dressed for the undertaking, been through the wild storm to the poultry house, caught the fowl she was holding in reserve, brought it in, cut its head off—I have no doubt she asked its pardon and assured it that she would be so quick about it that the pain would be merely nothing—scalded, picked, drew it, cut it up, and set it to soak in ice water for half an hour, and there was the broth ready for grandma's supper.

"I was so astonished that I had to cry a little, and when I tried to thank her she said it was what either of her grandmothers or her own mother would have done, and she didn't want the family record for neighborliness to be broken while it rested with her. 'Tell your grandma,' she said, 'that I am glad that I had the fowl; that I was well enough to go and get it; for grit to cut its head off, that I knew how to dress it and cook it, and most of all I am thankful for the disposition to help a neighbor in need, so the thankfulness is all on my part, if now she accepts and eats it in the spirit of neighborliness in which it was offered.' And she did; she took it with relish and it lasted for two days, and she is sure it saved her life, and she says with her characteristic assertiveness that she guesses she knew what nature craved."

"That sounds like a made-up story," said the nephew, "although it is an enjoyable one."

"It is as true as truth," said Aunt Martha. "That is what we mean when we talk of good, old-fashioned neighbors, your wife and I."—Mrs. Annie A. Preston.

CALENDAR OF IMPORTANT EVENTS.

STATES OF LOUISIANA AND MISSISSIPPI.

Millsaps College Commencement, Jackson, Miss., June 7-9.
Aberdeen District Conference, at Houlka, Miss., June 3-5.
Vicksburg District Conference, at Bolton, Miss., June 10-14.
Alexandria District Conference, at Natchitoches, La., June 12-14.
Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the North Mississippi Conference, at Senatobia, Miss., June 13-17.
Mid-Year Meeting of the Mississippi Conference Board of Missions, at Centerville, Miss., June 17-19.
Mississippi Conference Epworth League, at Gulfport, Miss., June 18-21.
Missionary Institute, Philadelphia, Miss., June 23.
Meridian District Conference, Buckatunna, Miss., June 23.
Columbus District Conference, at Mathiston, Miss., July 1-3.
North Mississippi Epworth League Conference, July 7-9.
Monroe District Conference, at Monroe, La., July 7.
Newton District Conference, at Montrose, Miss., July 8-10.
Corinth District Conference, at Baldwin, Miss., July 14-16.

A propensity to hope and joy is real riches, one to fear and sorrow, real poverty.—Hume.

It was no passing form of meaningless words when Jesus said, "Peace I leave with you; my peace I give unto you; not as the world giveth, give I unto you."

Realized peace in the heart has enabled men to live unmoved by trials that had driven others to despair, and to die as unmoved as men lie down to sleep when the day's tasks are done.

BELLEVUE POULTRY SUPPLY CO.
Everything in the poultry line: Chickens, Parrots, Guinea Pigs, Rabbits and Pet Stock of every description; Cyphers, Incubators and Feed at Factory Prices, may be had by writing us at 740 Camp St., New Orleans, La. Catalogue sent free.

Dr. Tichenor's Antiseptic
The appearance and usefulness of many good animals are ruined by neglected Saddle or Harness Galls.
A few applications of Dr. Tichenor's Antiseptic takes out the "fever" and stops all inflammation—in a day or so your horse is well.
Always keep a bottle in the stable.
AT ALL DRUGGISTS - 25 and 50 Cents
ALSO IN QUART BOTTLES
FOR SADDLE or HARNESS GALLS

Christian Advocate.

REV. JNO. W. BOSWELL, D.D., Editor.
REV. H. WHITEHEAD, Ass't Editor.
CHAS. O. CHALMERS, Publisher.

ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT NEW ORLEANS AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

OFFICE, 111 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

TERMS:
One Copy, one year, $2; six months, $1. To Preachers of all Denominations, half-price.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEES:
LOUISIANA CONFERENCE—Rev. W. W. Drake, Rev. N. E. Joyner, Rev. J. M. Henry.
MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE—Rev. M. L. Burton, Rev. W. H. Lewis, Rev. C. W. Crisler.
NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE—Rev. W. T. J. Sullivan, D.D.; Rev. J. T. Murrah, Rev. W. W. Woollard.

ABUSES THAT SHOULD BE CORRECTED.

A thoroughly healthy moral wave is flowing all through our land. Louisiana is feeling its force. There can be no doubt that the State legislature now in session will deal vigorously in some way with the liquor business. Race-track gambling will be suppressed, and a law for the punishment of miscegenation will be enacted. All these speak progress towards better morals. But we hear nothing of laws for the protection of the Sabbath. Until something is done in this matter other laws, however good, will not produce the best results. A well-kept Sabbath is worth far more than many suppose.

We know of no amusement, however demoralizing, that is not lawful on Sunday: hunting, fishing, cock-fighting, ball-playing, professional and amateur, charging gate fees, etc. According to our observation nothing is so demoralizing to boys, not excepting the open saloon, as Sunday base-ball. The ball players and those who are enthusiastic over the Sunday game have absolutely no respect for the Sabbath, nor for the feelings and opinions of those who are aggrieved over the desecration of the day.

Can nothing be done to stay this tide of evil? The matter should command serious thought.

THE TIME LIMIT.

Methodism in about one hundred and seventy years has become world-wide. It has made its conquests with an itinerant ministry operating under a time limit. It is as healthy and prolific to-day as at any period of its history. Notwithstanding, there rises up one now and then who tells us that the Church is not as progressive and productive as it should be, all because the preachers, subject to a time limit, must be changed at least every four years.

First, we are told that the time limit tends to arrest the intellectual development so that preachers fail to come to their best. No preacher, it is affirmed, "capable of the highest possible development, can attain that development under the time limit." This statement is based on the supposition that a preacher, like a school boy, will do no more for self-development than he is compelled to do. That is to say: A preacher will not study any more than the law requires or the necessity of the case demands. During the four years he is pursuing the course of study he is filling a pastorate and preparing sermons. If perchance he serves a charge four years, which forces him to study, he develops, but when his time is up and he goes to another charge, not realizing the necessity for continued study, he preaches his old sermons and, of course, ceases to grow. All this may be true, but we are of opinion that in every such case the man is without the right kind of ambition, else developed all that was in him during the four years of his former pastorate.

Not many of us are capable of making great preachers. No amount of hard work can make us such, and the longer some of us stay in a place the less we are respected for preaching ability. Our sermons are simply heard as a "matter of course," and put up with because we have qualities of another and useful kind. "He is a poor preacher, but a good pastor, and a man of fine executive ability," is a remark often heard. And we undertake to say that it requires tact, judgment and hard work as a pastor to succeed in any place, and that as a rule our preachers succeed, notwithstanding they are moved from place to place, a few of them at the end of four years, the majority at the end of two. The statistics tell of their great success.

The argument worked out on the basis herein set forth is plausible, but it is contradicted by the facts of history. It is well known that Methodism has produced some of the greatest preachers of the ages—learned, eloquent, successful, and every one was trained and developed under the time limit. The Church boasts to-day of many preachers who stand in the very front, commanding the respect and admiration of the country, and all save the young men of the Methodist Episcopal Church, were made what they are under the time limit.

To read the wailings of some who plead for the elimination of the limit it would appear that the majority of preachers are actually shriveling up to invisible proportions, and that the churches, especially in the cities, are dying on their hands. The fact that other churches around them, whose pastors have been with them many years, are no more prosperous than Methodist churches, with changeable, short-time pastors, makes no impression. And they overlook the fact that very many of these churches, supposed to be unhampered by a time limit, change pastors quite as often as do the Methodists. We have known a few to change oftener, and some to be without pastors for months. Such does not occur in Methodism, thanks to an itinerant system with a time limit.

Next, we are informed that the coming of the Institutional Church makes the elimination of the time limit a necessity, it being conceded that "if we succeed with this kind of work, the Bishop must have the authority to appoint the same man to it from year to year for an indefinite number of years." There is no reason why this thing should be universally conceded. We heard such talk as that long years ago. We have known men to plead with the Bishop saying: "Our church will be ruined if you move our preacher." But the preacher was moved, and the church lived right on. And it lives to-day.

We grant the difficulty of building up and sustaining a great Institutional church, but no matter how difficult, Methodism is not so scarce of suitable and well-equipped men that if one is removed another, equally competent, cannot be found. The Lord has always provided the men. It is too early to abandon a popular and successful policy for the sake of an institution that is but an experiment. The Institutional church has yet to present its credentials as a soul-saving agency. We have not a word to say against such churches, but we do not deem them of sufficient importance to justify the abandonment of a usage that has been the life of our beloved Methodism.

DR. WINTON AND THE RESTATEMENT.

A short time since Dr. Winton printed a paragraph expressive of surprise that any one should oppose a new statement of Methodist faith. We paid our respects to the paragraph in an editorial. Dr. Winton's notice of our editorial is as follows:

> "The editor of the New Orleans Christian Advocate says in regard to the proposed statement of faith: 'Had the proposition been to set before the Church a declaratory statement of the cardinal doctrines of the Christian faith in brief and convenient form, * * * it would not, we dare say, have stirred up such strenuous opposition.' But that is the proposition exactly. No proposal has been made to change anything, either Articles or Standards. It has only been insisted that the Articles are incomplete and the 'Standards' undefined. Therefore something more compact and modern is needed. The New Orleans Christian Advocate mentions our 'Standards' as apart from the Articles, and as if they were well known. Would the editor mind specifying just what those Standards are? Dr. Blackwell and Dr. Tillet do not need a declaratory statement to teach them the doctrines of Methodism, but to put into the hands of students. Every missionary and most pastors have experienced the same need."

In reply to the above we beg leave to say:

1. Dr. Tillett's proposition must be interpreted in the light of his intention. That intention was clearly set forth in his speeches before the General Conference, and are authoritative. Those speeches are recorded, and justify us in saying that, whatever else he intended, he certainly meant that our Articles of Religion should be substituted by a new statement of faith acceptable to ecumenical Methodism. We know he says "the Articles are to remain just as they are, and where they are," but if they are inadequate, out of date, with one-third of them useless, then this "sop to Cerberus" must pass for nothing.

2. Dr. Winton knows something about the "Standards," sufficient at least to affirm that they are "undefined." He asks us to "specify just what those 'Standards' are." We respectfully refer him to The Christian Advocate (New York), of May 7, 1908, article "Unnecessary and Hazardous," page 741.

3. To be sure, we know that "Dr. Blackwell and Dr. Tillett do not need a declaratory statement to teach them the doctrines of Methodism," but Dr. Tillett did say that, in the absence of such a statement of Methodist doctrines as he was contending for, he felt embarrassed in the presence of a class of theologues whenever he undertook to teach them. And Dr. Blackwell said the same.

IN NORTH MISSISSIPPI.

It was our pleasure last week to attend the Winona District Conference at Eupora, one of the rising towns on the great Southern Railroad. We found the young presiding elder, Rev. E. S. Lewis, in the chair, conducting the business in an easy and satisfactory manner. Brother J. R. Bingham was secretary. He is an old hand and fully understands the work. All the preachers were present except two. Why they were absent we did not learn. The laity was not so well represented, owing to the continued rains of the past few weeks, which have so seriously retarded all kinds of farm work. The work throughout the district is in fine condition, the preachers all at their posts, and having the earnest co-operation of the membership. The presiding elder is held in high esteem. He is young and vigorous, preaches well, has no old sermons to fall back on, such as used to be called "sugar-sticks," and looks well after every interest committed to his hands. Brother Lewis' work on the district, his hold upon the people, and his great influence—the same that can be said of others of whom we know—assures us that, at least in all these parts, our people are not ready to do away with the presiding eldership, nor to change the title to "District Superintendent." A live presiding elder is yet a man of power among Southern Methodists.

The Conference was more than half through its work when we reached Eupora, so we are unable to give any of the details. This will be attended to by the secretary, who never fails to send good notes to the ADVOCATE. We had the opportunity of attending only two preaching services. Thursday morning Rev. J. A. Hall preached, and in the evening Rev. J. T. McCafferty. Both sermons were full of good gospel meat and fed the souls of the people. They were impressive. These are young brethren, and have before them the promise of long life, and the Church will hear from them a good account in the years to come.

Among the livest institutions in the district are the two Women's Missionary societies—the Home and Foreign. Both were in full evidence in Eupora, and held a joint meeting on Thursday afternoon. It was largely attended by the ladies of the town. We cannot give an account of it, because, like all the brethren, we had to take a back seat, and though we used our eyes we could hear nothing. These saints in bonnets—no, in hats, many of (not whom) which were "merry widows"—are desperately in earnest. Mrs. Trotter, of Winona, and Mrs. T. H. Bingham, of Carrollton, led the Foreign Mission forces, and Mrs. Dr. Harris, of Rome, led in the Home Mission work. Sister Harris has promised to give us an account of the meeting for the ADVOCATE.

Of course we came to Eupora in the interest of the paper. But our experience is that, so far as work for the ADVOCATE is concerned at District Conference, the time and expense are well nigh wasted. Those who attend District Conferences are already subscribers and friends. Sometimes we are told that "the sight and presence of the editor is worth all the visit costs." This we steadfastly do not believe. We have known more than one editor to help his paper by staying at home.

Another great Southern State has been swept into the prohibition ranks. On Tuesday the 26th ult. North Carolina voted prohibition into her constitution by an overwhelming majority. The vote in one respect at least was peculiar. Every large town and city in the State, except two, voted by big majorities for prohibition. Heretofore the cities have voted the other way. This vote indicates that the cities, as well as the country districts, are tired of the rule of the saloons. From an anti-prohibition paper we quote the following dispatch: "The prohibition ticket has carried seventy-eight out of the ninety-eight Counties by majorities approximating 48,500. The anti-prohibition ticket has twenty Counties by majorities approximating 5,600. The prohibition leaders say it is possible for the prohibition majority to reach 50,000. A close estimate of the vote would give a prohibition majority of about 45,000." From another source, the report is that all the Counties except five, went for prohibition. We cannot say which is correct. Tennessee is now in what is called "a whirlwind campaign" with Gov. Patterson standing for re-election on a "local option" platform, and ex-Senator Carmack against him on straight-out prohibition. The issue is to be determined by a primary election during this month. If what the Commercial-Appeal says is true, the campaign is waxing exceedingly bitter. This we are sorry to note.

The Memphis Commercial-Appeal is sorely distressed over the conduct of women and children in taking active part in prohibition campaigns and elections. To the Commercial-Appeal, joining in parades, and influencing votes at the polls is a horrid thing for a woman to do. Up to this time, it says, such conduct is confined to small towns, but fears the ugly thing will appear in Memphis. This enlistment, it declares, "of the women and children to fight for that which many of them, in their unfamiliarity with political issues, know not of, is one of the distressing and pitiful practices of the prohibition party. * * * Nor can we believe that the wives, mothers and maidens of Memphis are willing to mingle their pure and sacred social and home influences with the coarser and soiling influences of the ward politicians." We infer from such language that the editor of the Commercial-Appeal prefers to give over the city of Memphis and State of Tennessee to the liquor politicians, and the rum sellers, rather than see a good woman, moved by conscience, undertake to turn a vote against the demon destroyer of home and happiness. Everybody who will, knows that the issues involved in such campaigns are not political. They have nothing in common with what is called politics. They are purely moral, and designed to suppress the greatest foe to God and man with which the world has to contend. The Commercial-Appeal is not the only paper that looks at the matter as a political one, contending for the regulation, rather than the suppression of the liquor traffic. Our women are helpers in the fight, and we do not care how much they march under banners, nor how generously they supply voters with sandwiches and hot coffee, nor how many men they may persuade to wear the white ribbon, and vote the clean ticket.

PERSONALS.

The address of Rev. J. A. Alford for the summer will be Brandon, Miss.

Rev. Geo. D. Parker and wife sail for Brazil, via Havre, this week. They will accompany Bishop Hoss.

Dr. W. J. Dawson, an Englishman now lecturing in this country, will spend a week in November lecturing for Rayne Memorial Church.

The men of Second Church, New Orleans, have organized a "Brotherhood for Men," which will emphasize the question of Foreign Missions, social issues and good-fellowship among our men.

Rev. J. A. Rice, D.D., pastor of Rayne Memorial Church, New Orleans, La., has been away two weeks. While out of the city he delivered the commencement addresses for Athens Female College, Athens, Ala., and at Wofford College, Wofford, Ga.

A college man, well qualified and of long experience, would like to secure a position in college or high school as assistant in any department. We will gladly put principals or trustees in correspondence with him. Letters addressed "To Prof. M.," care of this office, will be forwarded.

It was our pleasure during the District Conference at Eupora to be entertained at the home of Brother and Sister W. G. Taylor. In connection with Rev. B. H. Malone, and Mrs. Dr. Harris, of the Home Mission Board, we shared their hospitality for two days. The association was pleasant and we trust also profitable.

Rev. F. Zito, our missionary to the Italians in New Orleans, is beginning a most promising work among that priest-ridden people. In addition to his regular pastoral work he has a large number of Italians in his night school. Mrs. Zito has several Italian girls in her sewing school. Brother Zito's address is 537 St. Ann Street.

One of the most interesting talks before the Winona District Conference was by Miss Willingham, a consecrated Christian teacher, in which she detailed her experience in teaching Italian children in one of the Parishes of Louisiana. She says the children, in numbers, readily respond to religious instruction, and regards the field as full of promise. She loves the work.

The Port Gibson Female College has added to its Faculty, for the session beginning next September, Miss Claribel Drake, a graduate of Randolph-Macon College, who is to teach French and Latin. There has been added also a teacher of Vocal Music, Miss Otta J. Stephens, of Missouri, who is now in the New England Conservatory.

ROYAL
Baking Powder
The only Baking Powder made with Royal Grape Cream of Tartar
—made from grapes—
Insures healthful and delicious food for every home—every day
ROYAL BAKING POW

KEEP COOL For Refrigerators and Gas Stoves go to United Hardward Co., Ltd.,
1005-1007 Canal Street, New Orleans.

The Crowley District Conference was held at Jeanerette, La., May 30 to June 1. There was a large attendance, both of preachers and laymen. Rev. J. M. Henry, Presiding Elder, was much encouraged because of the interest shown. Five candidates were licensed to preach, and will serve as assistants to our French Missionary, Rev. M. Hebert. Rev. W. L. Doss, pastor, and the good people of Jeanerette afforded delightful entertainment for the delegates. Our publisher spent Saturday and Sunday attending the sessions of the Conference, and regretted that he could stay no longer. A full report of the proceedings will be published in our next issue.

We learn with deep regret of the death of our dear old friend and brother, the Rev. A. P. Sage, of the North Mississippi Conference. He has been on the retired list for eight or ten years, and received a slight stroke of paralysis three or four years ago, from which he never fully recovered. In our boyhood days we attended the same school. He was a young man preparing for the ministry and gave great promise of usefulness. We do not know the exact length of time he served in the itinerancy, but it was near fifty-five years. His was an unblemished and fruitful life. We trust some one well acquainted will give us a memoir for our columns. Blessings on his memory.

GILLIAM NEEDS HELP.

Dr. Boswell: I have received letters from our pastor on the Ida Circuit describing the great cyclone of last week in which the whole town of Gilliam was wiped out, including the church. Acting upon his request, I herewith appeal to the generous people of Louisiana for assistance to rebuild that church.

The Gilliam church was built in the main by the leadership of Brother J. T. Gardner, who, as steward, trustee and Sunday school superintendent, has given the last ten or more years to the work there. In the great cyclone his house was destroyed, wife killed, children wounded, as was also himself. Many preachers can testify to the gracious hospitality of the Gardner home. To think of such a tragic death! But God still lives, and the sun will shine again in Gilliam!

Others there, the Houstons, Lays, and Mr. R. T. Douglas, all our friends, if not all members, lost heavily. Brethren, help! Yours in Christ,

H. S. JOHNS.

Baton Rouge, La.

MAKE ICE CREAM FROM WATER

and a small quantity of condensed milk, if fresh milk cannot be had.

RECIPE.

½ can condensed milk costs . . . .06c.
Add enough cold water to make one quart 00
One 13c. package JELL-O ICE CREAM Powder. . . . . . .13c.
Total . . . . .19c.

Mix all together thoroughly and freeze. Don't beat or cook it; don't add anything else. This makes two quarts of delicious ice cream in 10 minutes at very small cost.

AND YOU KNOW IT'S PURE.

Five kinds: Chocolate, Vanilla, Strawberry, Lemon and Unflavored.

2 packages 25c. at all grocers.

Illustrated Recipe Book Free.

The Genesee Pure Food Co., Le Roy, N. Y.

A FINE TRIP AND A GREAT REVIVAL.

My Dear Dr. Boswell: I have just returned from an interesting trip and a gracious revival. On Monday, the 20th of April, I left home for Purcell, Oklahoma, to hold a revival meeting where one of my brothers is in business. He is the president of the board of stewards and Sunday school superintendent, and it was through him that I had the invitation to hold the meeting. I went by the way of St. Louis and Kansas City, spending a day in each place.

While in St. Louis I visited several of the churches of different denominations, among which was our Centenary. I went carefully through the Jacoby Art Glass Company, from which concern I had only a few weeks before given an order for nearly $1200 worth of windows for our new church.

In Kansas City I visited our Training School, the Institutional Church, the new Central Methodist Church, the branch Publishing House of the M. E. Church, and also called for a few minutes at the home of our beloved Bishop Hendrix.

I took charge of the meeting in Purcell on Thursday night, the 23rd, and in a few days the meeting began to take hold of the town. We tried to close on the night of May 5, in order for me to go to St. Joe while the Board of Church Extension was in session, but they demanded that the meeting continue. I ran up to St. Joe, a distance of nearly 500 mlies, and then went back to continue the meeting. I was out of the meeting two nights and three days, getting back on Thursday, and continuing through Sunday night, the 10th. Before I left for St. Joe there had been eighty conversions and forty additions to our Church. From the time I got back until Sunday night there were about twenty more conversions, making 100 conversions in all. More than fifty joined our Church, and about twenty joined the other Churches of the town. Truly, the Lord was with us. Most of those converted were the grown people, many of them being heads of families. The banks, stores, barber shops, pool-rooms and all places of business closed for the day services after the first few days. To God be all the glory for this wonderful victory.

While out in that country I spent two or three hours in the rapidly growing town of Oklahoma City, visited Epworth University, jointly owned by the M. E. Church, South, and the M. E. Church, and that University is being wonderfully felt already. It was also my pleasure to go into the new church in the city which is being pushed to completion, which indeed will be a handsome structure when finished.

Now a word or so about our own new church at Okolona. The carpenters finished their work yesterday. Nothing to do now except put in windows and do the inside painting. Windows will be shipped next week. We hope to worship in our new church by the last of June anyway. We have cause to be proud of the church here, which will be one of the best in North Mississippi Conference.

The Lord continue to bless us. May God bless you, Doctor. Fraternally,

ROBT. A. CLARK.

Okolona, Miss.

REVIVAL AT LIBERTY.

Our long-looked-for meeting has been held. There was much talk between God and the few faithful ones of Liberty about the meeting. Now there is much talk between man and man about the visible results of the meeting. Brother Harbin, of Greenville, Miss., came to us in the fullness of the blessing of the gospel of Christ. He stayed with us eight days. We were all sorry he could not stay a week longer. He captivated our town and community—men, women and children, Baptists, Presbyterians and Methodists—all alike took a lively interest in the meeting. Merchants closed their doors at half-past 10 every morning, and all, with few exceptions, together with their clerks, went to church.

Rev. J. M. Lewis, of Oakridge, Miss., led the singing. Miss Ethel Whittington, of Salem, Miss., presided at the organ. Brother Magee and Weathersby, of the Presbyterian Church, with their musical instruments, rendered valuable service in the choir.

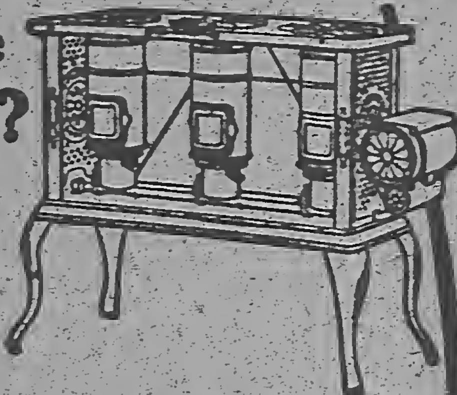
The music was grand, the preaching as good as could well be. Marked attention was given by the people, who flocked in crowds to hear the gospel. Sin, such as gambling, drunkenness, adultery, false swearing, blasphemy, Sabbath-breaking, etc., was handled without gloves. His sermon to men only on Sunday at 4 p. m. was one of his best. Not anything was said that could not with propriety have been said in the presence of women and children.

About thirty applied for Church membership — fifteen joined our Church; the others will go to the Presbyterian and Baptist Churches.

Pastors of the other Churches in town co-operated with us. All Christian people here are working in perfect harmony with each other. We have a union prayer-meeting here that is largely attended. Many family altars have been established since our meeting began. Perhaps there never was a time when Christian people of all Churches were so near together in feeling, purpose and sentiment as at presnt. This is as it should be. Our Sunday schools in the Liberty charge are doing well.

God bless our dear old Advocate and its Editor. Your brother,

H. P. LEWIS, Sr.



What Stove for Summer?

Nothing adds to kitchen convenience in summer weather like a New Perfection Wick Blue Flame Oil Cook-Stove. Anything that any stove can do the "New Perfection" will do, and do it better. Bakes, roasts, boils, toasts; heats the wash water and the sad irons, and does it without dissipating its heat through the room to your discomfort. The

NEW PERFECTION

Wick Blue Flame Oil Cook-Stove

actually keeps the kitchen cool—actually makes it comfortable for you while doing the family cooking, because, unlike the coal range, its heat is directed to one point only—right under the kettle. Made in three sizes, fully warranted. If not with your dealer, write our nearest agency.

The Rayo LAMP affords a mellow light that is very grateful to tired eyes—a perfect student or family lamp. Brass, nickel plated, hence more durable than other lamps.

If not with your dealer, write our nearest agency.

STANDARD OIL COMPANY
(Incorporated)

WARD SEMINARY

Purpose The purpose of the school is to do serious and honest work in the Christian education of girls and young women.

Courses Seminary, Special, and College Preparatory Courses. French and German under native teachers. Art, life model. Expression, three years' course.

Conservatory of Music. Seven piano teachers, two voice teachers, etc. Thirty new pianos.

Advantages Nashville excels in climate, healthfulness, and social culture. It is the educational center of the South, and affords unusual advantages in lectures, recitals, and other opportunities for practical education.

Every facility for physical culture is afforded. Tennis, bowling, etc. Beautiful city campus of ten acres, and suburban camp"s of forty acres.

Only one hundred and seventy-five boarding pupils are received.

Indorsement Nearly half a century of increasing public favor and success. Patrons say: "Ward Seminary is an ideal Christian home." "The work done in Ward Seminary is of an unusually high order, and the religious tone the best." "The social life of the Seminary is of the very highest order." "My daughter has enjoyed in your school the best health she has had since she was twelve years old." "We can scarcely find words to thank you for what you have done for our daughter."

The Forty-fourth Year Begins September 24. Early Application is Advised.

For Catalog, Address J. D. BLANTON, President, Nashville, Tenn.

LOW NOW ON SUMMER RATE

The place to get a good BUSINESS EDUCATION, to prepare for a GOOD POSITION, and to get ready for THE RUSH of the fall business is AT

DRAUGHON'S PRACTICAL BUSINESS COLLEGE

INDORSED by business men from Maine to California. Catalogue FREE; ask for IT. Shreveport, Jackson (Miss.), Waco, Fort Worth, Dallas, Nashville or Washington, D. C.

God trusts the honor of his own name to our keeping, and with it also our neighbor's reputation. Speaking evil of our neighbor is an easy method of dishonoring God.—Ex.

MOXINE
Cures LAGRIPPE and Colds.

MOXINE CHILL TONIC
Only Tonic—one bottle—one cure.

LIFE A BURDEN

Pains, from which women suffer, often make living unendurable.

If you are a victim, do not remain one. No need. Most of such pains are preventable, curable.

Others have obtained relief, through Cardui. Why not you?

At least it can do no harm to give Cardui a fair trial.

It may be the very medicine you need.

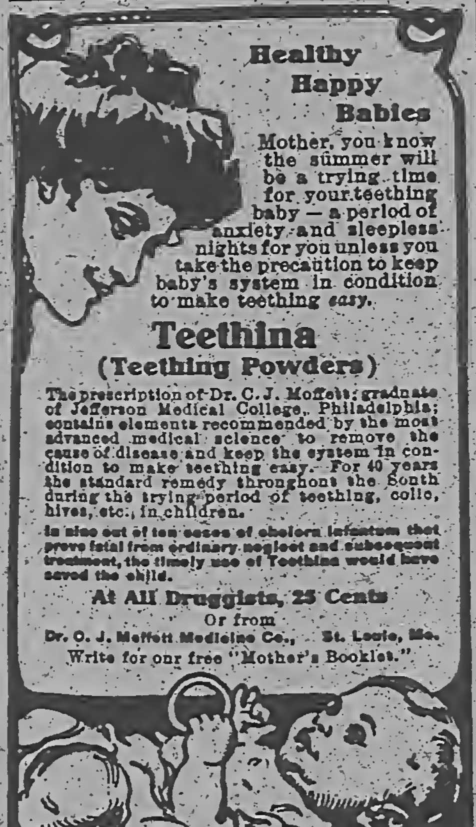
Hearken to the words of Mrs. Mattie Campbell, of Ratcliff, Tex. She says: "Two years ago my health was very bad. I suffered untold misery every month. I ached all over. Life was a burden to me. At times, I wished for death, to end my suffering.

"At last I decided to try Cardui. I took one bottle and it helped me so much, I bought $5.00 worth. That kept me in health for one year, and saved a large doctor's bill. I took six more bottles and now I can say that Cardui has stopped my suffering and made life worth living. I would not be placed back where I was, two years ago, not for this whole world rolled at my feet."

Try Cardui.



Healthy Happy Babies

Mother, you know the summer will be a trying time for your teething baby — a period of anxiety and sleepless nights for you unless you take the precaution to keep baby's system in condition to make teething easy.

Teethina
(Teething Powders)

The prescription of Dr. C. J. Moffett; graduate of Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia; contains elements recommended by the most advanced medical science to remove the cause of disease and keep the system in condition to make teething easy. For 40 years the standard remedy throughout the South during the trying period of teething, colic, hives, etc., in children.

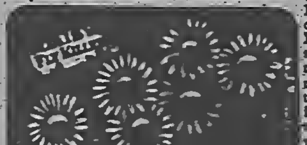
In nine out of ten cases of cholera infantum that prove fatal from ordinary neglect and subsequent treatment, the timely use of Teethina would have saved the child.

At All Druggists, 25 Cents

Or from

Dr. C. J. Moffett Medicine Co., St. Louis, Mo.

Write for our free "Mother's Booklet."



DAISY FLY KILLER placed anywhere, attracts and kills all flies. Neat, clean, ornamental, convenient, cheap. Lasts all season. Absolutely harmless, cannot spill or tip over, will not soil or injure anything. Guaranteed effective. Of all dealers or sent prepaid for 20 cents.

HAROLD SOMERS
149 DeKalb Ave.
Brooklyn, N. Y.

ALTAR CHAIRS, SUNDAY School Seats, School Desks, Portable Chairs, Collection Plates, Communion Tables, Lodge Furniture, etc. Ask for big Catalog No. 60. E. H. Stafford Mfg. Co. Chicago, Ill

"SKYLAND INN."

4400 feet above sea level.

Blowing Rock, N. C.

OPENS June 18th, 1908. Highest location at Blowing Rock, roomy halls, broad verandas, magnificent scenery. Address E. R. Stewart, Prop., Newton, N. C., until June 15th. Rates: From $7.00 to $12.00 a week.

MOXINE CHILL TONIC

Only Tonic—one bottle—one cure.

REVIVAL AT GREENVILLE.

Evangelist Jno. B. Andrews, of Siloam Springs, Ark., has just closed a meeting here which lasted for a little over two weeks, and accomplished much good. Brother Andrews is simple, direct, strong, Scriptural in his presentation of salvation. He preaches a repentance that is evidenced by turning from all sin and a conversion that is attested by the witness of the Holy Ghost. He does not lower the standards to increase the number of "converts." Under his searching messages, many backsliders were reclaimed, and many Christians who were in doubt came to a gracious sense of their acceptance with God. There were more than a hundred professions of faith in Christ. The singing was led by Brother R. E. Huston, who travels with Brother Andrews. He is a devout and gifted gospel singer and is doing an excellent work.

The weekly prayer-meeting is now better attended than ever before and there are more adults in the Sunday school. I believe that the church has received a great and abiding uplift as a result of this meeting. Fraternally,

J. R. COUNTISS, P. C.

Greenville, Miss.

WESSON, MISS.

Dear Dr. Boswell: We closed a good meeting in Wesson on the 5th inst. Brother J. J. Smylie, of Flora, Miss., did the preaching. About ninety professed conversion or reclamation. Have received forty-five on profession of faith and others have given their names for membership.

Brother Smylie did faithful work, and his ministry was richly blessed. Our membership is much revived, attendance at Sunday school increased and all departments of Church work have taken on new life. We have some excellent people here.

F. A. GRIMES, P. C.

IMPROVEMENTS AT LAKE, MISS.

Mr. Editor: The church at Lake has in the last few months received improvements and repairs costing about $800. A vestibule and steeple have been added, painted outside and inside, seats, pulpit, etc., and a nice set of new lamps. Besides the above, Mrs. John McKeague, a member, formerly from Pennsylvania, presented the church with a table, four chairs and a rug for the pulpit. The Ladies' Aid Society has taken the lead in getting up the money and looking after the improvemnts. We cannot praise them too highly.

C. McDONALD.

Lake, Miss.

DON'T SUFFER WITH SKIN DISEASES

Itching, redness, and pain are quickly relieved and the germs of skin and scalp disease destroyed by the use of TETTERINE, the fragrant antiseptic and healing ointment, following baths with Tetterine Soap. This splenndid remedy is a boon to sufferers from Eczema, Tetter, Itching Piles, and all diseases of the skin and scalp. Costs 50c at your druggist's or by mail. Address, The Shuptrine Co., Savannah, Ga.

MOXINE CHILL TONIC

Only Tonic—one bottle—one cure.

CHURCH DIRECTORY.

New Orleans District, Rev. F. N. Parker, D.D., presiding elder; residence, 241 Olivier St.

Rev. John T. Sawyer, D.D., Conference Missionary Evangelist; residence, 2421 Chestnut St.; phone, Uptown 1832.

First Methodist Church, St. Charles Ave., near Calliope St.; Rev. J. E. Wray, pastor; residence, 5830 Prytania St.; phone, Uptown 329; office hours, at Church, 2 to 3 p. m.; Church phone, Main 1779.

Second Methodist Church, 2531 Burgundy, near Lafayette Ave.; Rev. A. I. Townsley, pastor; residence, 2728 N. Rampart St.; office hours, 9 to 11 a.m.; phone, Main 978.

Parker Memorial, corner Nashville avenue and Perrier street; Rev. C. D. Atkinson, pastor; residence 734 Nashville avenue.

Louisiana Avenue, corner Louisiana Ave. and Magazine St.; Rev. W. W. Holmes, pastor; residence 2903 Camp St.; phone, Uptown 1391.

Rayne Memorial, St. Charles Avenue and General Taylor Streets; Dr. John A. Rice, pastor; residence, 1101 Peniston Street.

Felicity Street Church, corner Felicity and Chestnut Streets; Rev. Albert S. Lutz, pastor; residence 2321 Chestnut Street.

Carrollton Avenue, corner Carrollton avenue and Elm street; Rev. Henry T. Carley, pastor; residence, 1125 Fern St.; phone, Uptown 1238.

Algiers, Lavergne Street, corner Delaronde; Rev. J. F. Foster, pastor.

McDonoghville and Gretna, Rev. H. Whitehead, pastor; residence 5208 Magazine Street; phone, Uptown 2459.

Epworth Church, corner Banks and Scott Streets; Rev. L. A. Sims, pastor; residence, 232 South Pierce Street.

Rev. Jno. L. Sutton, Superintendent Orphan Boys' Asylum; residence, 5220 St. Charles Ave.; phone, Uptown 128.

Rev. L. E. Wicht, junior preacher Lower Coast Mission; address, 509 Board of Trade Bldg., New Orleans.

THE METHODIST TOOL CHEST—GET ONE.

They will soon be gone, so send 25 cents at once in coin, stamps or money order, and get what every live Methodist preacher and layman needs.

"What is the Methodist Tool Chest?" you say. It is the Southern Methodist Handbook, which is the only year book in our Church. The Handbook for 1908 has circulated in the United States, South America, Mexico, Japan and China.

With the Handbook you need not hunt all over Southern Methodism for information. You find it at once in the Handbook which answers about every question you can think of in connection with Methodism and other Churches.

You need such a Tool Chest. It is a book of nearly 200 pages, profusely illustrated, costs only 25 cents. We will return your money, if you do not feel that the book is worth one dollar. Address Thos. N. Ivey, Editor Christian Advocate, Raleigh, N. C.

The mire of sin may be deep, but the fountain of cleansing is deeper.—Exchange.

BLOOD POISONING POSITIVELY CURED

Hereditary, primary, secondary and tertiary. Scrofula, Eczema, Blood and Skin Disease. If you have exhausted old-time methods, and want to get well, write me in fullest confidence for proof of cures. Take my treatment and get well. A. A. BROWER, M. D.
San Antonia, Tex.

Prolong Life

In hundreds of instances Dr. Miles' Heart Cure has prolonged life many years, after all hope had been abandoned. It is a heart tonic. By its strengthening influence upon the heart nerves and muscles, the heart action is increased.

"My heart was weak and at times I thought I would die. I lost consciousness one morning, and did not recover for hours. My wife gave me whiskey and applied mustard. A friend advised Dr. Miles' Heart Cure. I took two or three bottles and it keeps the old heart going right along. Have never had one of those spells since. I should have been dead years ago had I not found relief in this valuable remedy."

W. H. SOULE,
18 Mount Joy St., Portland, Me.

If first bottle fails to benefit, money back.

MILES MEDICAL CO., Elkhart, Ind.

An Eczema Hand

should not be covered by a glove. A fresh antiseptic bandage every day after applying Heiskell's Ointment is all that is needed to cure the trouble, no matter how old or stubborn it may be.

Heiskell's Ointment

goes right to the spot. It cools the skin, stops the burning and itching, and cures. There is no case too obstinate. All skin diseases yield to its magical influence. Used successfully for half a century.

In all cases it is best to bathe the part affected with Heiskell's Medicinal Soap, before applying the Ointment. To make the blood pure and clean up the liver take Heiskell's Blood and Liver Pills.

Ointment 50c. a box; Soap 25c. a cake; Pills 25c. a box. Sold by all druggists, or sent by mail.

JOHNSTON, HOLLOWAY & CO.,
531 Commerce St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Drives 'Em Out Of House To Die

Get a box of
Stearns' Electric RAT and ROACH Paste

If you are troubled with rats or mice. It is sure death, driving them out of the house to die. Easy to use and gives quick and sure results. Sold for 30 years, and never yet failed to kill off rats and mice. Also for cockroaches, water-bugs and other vermin. 2 oz. box, 25c; 15 oz. box, $1.00. Sold at druggists and general stores everywhere, or sent direct prepaid on receipt of price.

STEARNS' ELECTRIC PASTE CO. Buffalo, N.Y., U.S.A.

BELLS.

Steel Alloy Church and School Bells. ☞ Send for Catalogue. The C. S. BELL CO., Hillsboro, O.

MOXINE

Cures LAGRIPPE and Colds.

Obituaries.

Mrs. MARTHA EUNICE LEE.—On May 11, 1908, occurred the death of Mrs. Martha Eunice Lee, wife of Reuben Lee, Sr. She was 73 years of age, and all her long life was spent in the service of her native State. She was born in Washington Parish, La., and at the age of four years her parents moved to St. Helena Parish, where she was married, and of this union nine children were born, six of whom survive her. Judge Louis W. Frank, of Texas, was taken in the home when at the age of 9, an orphan, and raised with the family. Sister Lee joined the Methodist Church at "Day's Church," St. Helena work, over twenty years ago. She has lived a consistent member since her connection. On moving to Kentwood, La., she placed her membership here, and while she was so afflicted she could not attend services, yet she lived a quiet, gentle Christian life. She never complained of her sufferings. She has raised a very devoted family, one son a steward at Kentwood. There survives her six children and her devoted husband, who is now 85 years of age. The Church loses a devoted Christian mother, but her prayers and life will live in her family. The funeral services were conducted at Kentwood Cemetery by her pastor, Brothers D. E. Kelly and J. W. Jelks, on the afternoon of May 12, 1908.

S. L. RIGGS, P. C.

Mr. R. H. HUMBER.—After a long and useful life Brother R. H. Humber passed quietly away, surrounded by friends and loved ones, on Tuesday morning, May 12, 1908, at the home of his granddaughter, Mrs. Walter Hindman, Tishomingo, Miss. Brother Humber had reached the ripe old age of 89 years and 10 months when it pleased God to call him home. He had been a consistent member for over sixty years of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. His loving wife had preceded him eight years ago to that house of many mansions which the Father has prepared for the faithful. Since her death he had lived with the children and grandchildren. He was always a welcome visitor in any home. He was truly a man of God. He was ever ready to lend a helping hand to any one in need. The Church has lost a pillar, the country a noble citizen, and the children a true and loving father. As we stood and watched the last fleeting moments of Brother Humber we could not help saying, Oh, God, we thank thee that some lamps never go out. Death cannot quench them. But the wave of influence set in motion will move on and on through time to eternity. May the children, who are left behind, be true to God and at last meet those who have gone before, is my prayer.

W. L. BROOM, Pastor.
Tishomingo, Miss.

Mrs. MARGARETTE SOUTHWARD HARVEY.—On Friday afternoon, May 15, 1908, the death angel visited the home of Brother Wesley Harvey and claimed for its victim his loving companion. She had been a constant sufferer for several years; yet she bore her sufferings with Christian fortitude and patience. Our hearts go out in sympathy to the loved ones. Though Sister Harvey had not been permitted to mingle with her friends for a long time, she will be greatly missed in her home. Her voice will be hushed, her chair will be vacant, and her counsel and advice can be had no more. No more will the welcome voice greet the aged husband as he moves around the home. But while we will miss her so much we should not forget that our loss was her gain. She is free from her sufferings. She pillowed her head on the Savior's breast and quietly went to sleep. Sister Harvey has been a Christian for many years, having joined the Methodist Episcopal Church in the bloom of youth, and remained a consistent member until she died. Truly we can say she died as she lived, trusting in our heavenly Father. After services conducted at her old home by the writer, the remains were quietly laid to rest in the family graveyard, where they await the resurrection morn. May our heavenly Father comfort the burdened hearts, is the prayer of her pastor.

W. L. BROOM.
Tishomingo, Miss.

Miss LUELLA BOOTHE, eldest daughter of Quin and Ella Boothe, was born in Natchez, Miss., Jan. 5, 1891, and died March 14, 1908. She joined the Methodist Church Nov. 24, 1901, and during the few short, happy years God permitted her to live she faithfully kept her vows. Luella was a very lovable girl, of a bright, sunny disposition that carried happiness wherever she went. Her winsome ways and loving, thoughtful deeds won her a host of friends. Her heart was light because her life was so pure and innocent. Truly her presence was like a ray of sunshine. Her friends and loved ones are deeply grieved because her loving smiles and cheery greetings are no longer bestowed upon them. But, O, what a comfort to know that she had consecrated her life to the Savior! She loved her Church, and took pride in its success; was devoted to the Sunday school and League. Just three days before her death her fellow-Leaguers elected her to the office of third vice-president, thus attesting their faith in her ability to make a success of that department. But she did not live to exercise the gift of the office bestowed upon her. Her death came as an awful shock to her friends, and God alone knows the severity of the blow to her dear parents, brothers and sisters. Without a moment's warning God took her to himself. While we cannot understand why one so young and joyous, and whose life was so full of promise for the future, both in her home and in the Church, should so suddenly be cut off in such a tragic manner, we do know that God does all things well; so we bow humbly to his will, and, looking up through clouds of sorrow, ask for grace to sustain us. She was one of many others who lost their lives in the dreadful fire which destroyed the Natchez Drug Company store. Her body was rescued from the ruins, and on March 17 we laid away all that was mortal of this precious girl to await the final summons of the Father, when we shall all take on our immortal robes and stand before the throne of God, there to sing his praises forevermore. May the comforting grace of our heavenly Father abound unto the bereaved loved ones.

HER PASTOR.

TRIBUTE OF RESPECT.

Whereas our heavenly Father has called from our midst, in the beautiful spring-time of her life, our dear friend and Leaguer, Miss LUELLA BOOTHE; be it, therefore,

Resolved, That the Pearl Street Epworth League and Sunday school have, in her death, lost a most faithful and beloved member, and one whose bright face and kindly greetings will long be remembered.

Resolved, That we hereby express our deepest sympathy for the bereaved family, and commend them to the heavenly Father, who is the only source of comfort in the hour of sorrow.

Resolved, That these resolutions be recorded in the minutes of our League, and also be published in the Epworth Era and the New Orleans Christian Advocate, and a copy sent the family.

MISS RUBY REED,
MISS PEARL EAST,
Committee.

JOHN SHARP FRIZELL.—The subject of this sketch, John Sharp Frizell, son of J. L. and Leslie Frizell, was born in Minerva, Miss., Sept. 2, 1903, and died in Winona, Miss., May 17, 1908, being 4 years, 8 months and 15 days old. He was sick for five months to a day. During this long sickness he was patient and cheerful. John Sharp was a boy of unusual disposition. He loved his friends ardently and confidingly, and was always fond of flowers. But the patient little sufferer has gone "where sickness and sorrow, pain and death are felt and feared no more," where he will be greeted by friends forever in the city of the blest. Particularly he will be with that Friend who said, "Suffer the little children to come unto me, for of such is the kingdom of heaven;" where the flowers of eternal bloom will cheer him for ever and ever. The Savior said, "Where your treasure is, there will your heart be also." The fond parents' hearts follow the little treasure, and heaven is dearer than before he went. May the Spirit of all consolation cheer them and finally guide them to the home where all the good are going to sing his praise forever.

J. H. SMITH.

MILLSAPS COLLEGE.
Jackson, Miss.

CALENDAR.

Friday, June 5, 11 a. m.—Freshman Declamation Contest.

Friday, June 5, 8 p. m.—Galloway Lamar Debate.

Saturday, June 6, 11 a. m.—Sophomore Oratorical Contest.

Sunday, June 7, 11 a. m.—Commencement Sermon, by Dr. W. F. Tillett.

8 p. m.—Young Men's Christian Association, address by Dr. Alonzo Monk, Louisville, Ky.

Monday, June 8, 10 a. m.—Annual Meeting of Board of Trustees.

11 a. m.—Senior Oratorical Contest and Awarding of Medals.

8 p. m.—Alumni Re-union.

Tuesday, June 9, 10:30 a. m.—Alumni Adress, by Rev. Jno. R. Countiss.

Tuesday, June 9, 11 a. m.—Annual Address, by Dr. W. F. Tillett, Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tenn.

11 a. m.—Conferring of Degrees.

COLUMBIA, MISS.

Columbia Station, Mississippi Conference, has had a gracious revival. Rev. H. M. Ellis, our Conference missionary evangelist, came to us early in April, and spent about ten days with us. Although much hindered by the rains, his work was very effective. Thirty-six came into the church through this revival.

Brother Ellis preaches clear, strong gospel sermons, free from cant or sensation; and his methods are good old-Methodist methods, utterly void of the many objectionable things that have marked too much of the current evangelism. Nevertheless, he is successful, and I am sure that his work will abide.

All of his sermons were of a high order. We did not hear anything tame or stale from him. Brother Ellis has learned what many of us never learn, how to preach to children. He is in his sphere, and it is a marvelously useful one.

Columbia's payment to missions this year will be larger because of the missionary evangelist's work here.

H. W. FEATHERSTUN.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used for over Sixty-Five Years by millions of mothers for their children while teething with perfect success. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain; cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for Diarrhoea. Sold by Druggists in every part of the world. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Guaranteed under the Food and Drugs Act, June 30th, 1906. Serial Number 1098. An Old and Well Tried Remedy.

REAL ESTATE—FOR RENT.

SPLENDID cottage, Seashore Camp Ground; 4 bedrooms; facing beach; completely furnished; $100 from June until October. J. M. OLDHAM, 511 Hibernia Bank Building, New Orleans.

HATCHING
Minorcas & Leghorns,
Eggs 50c. doz.

Eggs delivered to families at 30c. per doz. Want to buy young chickens for broilers or fryers? C. M. FUSH,
2434 Jena St., cor. Freret,
New Orleans, La.

Keep Out Flies

Rust Proof Wire Screens.

Call on W. O. Johnson, 2512 Valence Street, or Phone Uptown 2556, New Orleans, La. 17 years' experience.

EUGENE B. TROY,
PLUMBER.

Sewer Connections on the One Profit Plan

4721 PERRIER ST.
Phone, Uptown 2591

FITS St. Vitus' Dance and Nervous diseases permanently cured by Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. Send for FREE $2.00 trial bottle and treatise. Dr. R. H. Kline, Ltd., 931 Arch St., Philadelphia, Pa.

BLYMYER CHURCH BELLS. [illegible]
Write to Cincinnati Bell Foundry Co., Cincinnati, O.

EYE DISEASES, viz: CATARACTS, CORNEAL ULCERS and GRANULATED EYELIDS for which we doctored for many years without success, have been cured by ARNTZ EYE CURE Mrs. Henry Drehoff and Mr. Peter Moscos, Des Moines, Ia.; Mrs. Josephena Mackill, Crookston, Minn. Cures Conjunctivitis, Pterygium, Pink Eye, Wild Hairs and Closed Tear Ducts—Testimonials free. 50c a bottle or 3 $1.25 at Druggists, Opticians and ARNTZ OPTICAL CO. 103 Sixth Ave., Des Moines, Iowa, and PEERLESS OPTICAL CO., Jobbers, Chicago, Ill.

HIS CHANCE IS GONE
YOUR CHANCE IS HERE

The question is, are you qualified to hold a responsible position? Have you had a thorough commercial training? Bankers, Merchants, and Manufacturers want you if you are competent. Now is Your Chance. Two roads are open to young people. One requires no training and leads to failure. The other requires training and leads to success. We prepare young men and women and start them on the road to success by securing them high-salaried positions. Fine climate, board cheap. Write for illustrated catalog and further information.
HATTIESBURG BUSINESS COLLEGE, HATTIESBURG, MISS.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL
The Double Track Route.

26 Hours to Chicago
21 Hours to St. Louis
22 Hours to Louisville
26 Hours to Cincinnati

Through Sleeping Cars to above points. Dining Cars, Library Cars, Chair Cars and Coaches.
Full Particulars at
City Ticket Office,
141 ST. CHARLES STREET.
Phone Main 3618.

MOXINE CHILL TONIC
Only Tonic—one bottle—one cure.

Sunday School

By W. B. Campbell.

LESSON FOR JUNE 7.

JESUS AND HIS DISCIPLES.

John xx: 19-31.

Golden Text: "Thomas answered and said unto him, "My Lord and my God."" John xx:28.

It must have been early in the morning, our Sunday, that Mary Magdalene hurried away from the garden where Jesus had met and spoken with her. She hastened to bear the message the Lord had sent to the disciples: "Go to my brethren," he had said. O, he was the same loving Master as he had been before they had cruelly crucified him. It was all so strange; she had seen and spoken to one who had been dead. Yes; she had seen his poor lifeless body borne to the tomb; she had mourned for him as gone from her forever; and when she went back to pay a last visit to the dead Christ, she had found a living Lord, alive forevermore. This was the message she flew away to tell.

The disciples were gathered together, weeping and mourning, and when Mary came and told how she had seen the Lord, and that he had talked with her, "They believed not." While they were thinking over the strange words of Mary, all day long they wondered; then came to them Cleopas and his fellow traveler and told them of how the Lord had joined them on their journey, and how Jesus opened to them the Scripture, as their hearts burned within them as they learned how "Christ ought to have suffered these things and enter into his glory." Even while they were telling their strange experience Jesus himself appeared among them, and his words of salutation were, "Peace be unto you." It was just the time for Jesus to come, for their poor, troubled heats were struggling between faith and unbelief. There are so many among the followers of the Lord that cannot believe unless they see. Jesus showed them his hands and his feet, the print of the nails that fastened him to his cross: "It is I myself," said Jesus. "Handle me and see." Yet they believed not for joy, and wondered still as he asked them for food. After eating before them he began to show them how the Scripture of Moses and the prophets had been fulfilled in all that had happened. He showed them that Christ should first suffer and then arise from the dead, and following that in order, repentance and remission of sins should be preached in his name. They should not begin to preach at once; they were not ready, not yet equipped for the great commission. They had to wait for "The promise of the Father;" they must wait and be endued with power from on high. Then, he said, "Receive ye the Holy Ghost." As he "breathed on them" this gift at this time was the seed that would ere long produce the "blade, then the ear, then the full corn in the ear."

During this time not all of the apostles were present. Only a the apostles were present. Only a part of them were there, like a remnant of sheep, huddled together to escape the storm. Thomas was not there, the gospel writers tell us. What we know of his character makes us think he needed most to be present of all, for he was of the kind that need to have their faith given a good start, that afterwards it be enabled to keep going.

That which is next related fastens the eyes of the whole Christian world on Thomas. Was it decreed that there should be a second assembly of the Apostles, and another appearance of the risen Lord in order that all doubt should be removed from the mind of Thomas? There have been many since that time that have needed as strong manifestations of Christ's presence and also the presence of the Holy Ghost to make them believe. A full week had passed and Thomas was present as they were assembled as at the first. Jesus came among them suddenly, as before, and after his salutation he called to Thomas to reach forth his fingers and thrust them into the nail holes, and to put his hands into the wound, the conditions Thomas had named to be fulfilled ere he could believe. Faith rushes into the doubter's heart like a mighty torrent. He could only cry, "My Lord and my God," not only believing in the resurrection, but ascribing to Jesus his full divinity all in one breath. After this he never doubted again.

Unbelief is a sin to all. Thomas had every aid to his faith, and with all reverence we think there was a vein of stubbornness in his character. We have the same aid to our faith, yea, even a stronger help. How much more are we in error if we count the Word of God as not worthy of credence? We have other proofs. Call to mind those numberless answers to prayers. Those times when we can almost see the hand of God as he has made "all things work together for good." "Lord, increase our faith," once prayed the disciples; then let us take up the prayer. Be not "faithless, but believing," remembering that "without faith it is impossible to please God," believing that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God, and that believing we might have life through his name.

$100 REWARD, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address:

F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O.

Sold by Druggists, 75c.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

LELAND, MISS.

We have just closed a good meeting at Leland. We had ten accessions, seven on profession of faith. We have had seventeen accessions since Conference. We have paid our missionary assessments, and will meet all the claims of the Conference. We have one of the best Sunday schools I ever saw, and we have organized a Young Men's Prayer-Meeting. Everything is in good working order.

I was assisted in my meeting by Brother Barrentine, of the White River Conference, and E. B. Ramsey, of Memphis.

J. W. HONNOLL.

PORT GIBSON FEMALE COLLEGE,

Port Gibson, Miss.

68th Session Opens Sept. 23, 1908. Standard of Literary Work High. Music, Elocution, Art, Commerce, Sewing, Special Attention Given Health and Morals. Electric Lights, Artesian Water. Boarding Patronage Steadily Increasing. Trip to National Military Park, Mississippi's New Capitol, and State Fair—a Feature of Next Session.

Henry G. Hawkins, A. B., Pres.

LUBBOCK, TEXAS A few years ago Lubbock, Texas, was unknown; today the "Lubbock Country" is the talk of the Southwest. Lubbock is growing rapidly and in a few years will be the Metropolis of the Great Plains Country. The Overton Addition to Lubbock lies just 1-2 mile west of the courthouse and is the residence part of Lubbock. Lots are selling at $50 cash, $10 cash and $5 per month. These lots will increase in value very rapidly. Write for [illegible] map and illustrated folder. Address Dr. M. C. OVERTON, Lubbock, Texas.

The Birmingham Dental College

OFFERS FINE ADVANTAGES FOR SECURING A DENTAL EDUCATION.

Over a hundred thousand people are in touch with the infirmary, furnishing abundant material for practice. Write at once for our catalogue.

CHAS. A. MERRILL, Dean,

708 First National Bank Building - - - - - - - - - Birmingham, Ala.

LONG DISTANCE TELEPHONES for FARMERS, PHYSICIANS, COUNTRY MERCHANTS, and COTTON GINNERIES~

Private Lines and Exchanges~

TALK WITH YOUR NEIGHBORS

Organize a Phone line We help you

No previous experience or knowledge necessary.

Write To-day

We guarantee our Phones against damage from lightning—something never done before

Get particulars

Write To-day

A phone line is the cheapest servant you could have. In case of fire, danger of any sort, sickness or distress, it brings help instantly

Write To-day

Get our book ALL ABOUT THE TELEPHONE" It tells you everything you need know about telephones How to build, install and operate. Regular price [illegible] cents. We mail it absolutely free if you write and mention this paper.

Write To-day

For a limited time you can secure our famous Mammoth 5-bar Bridging Long Distance Telephone, complete with Batteries and Outfit for installing in house, including Lightning Arrester—the whole outfit warranted and guaranteed for $11.25

REMEMBER THIS OFFER IS FOR A LIMITED TIME ONLY. Write To-day.

THE SUMTER TELEPHONE MANUFACTURING COMPANY, - - Box 63, SUMTER, S. C.

MISSIONARY INSTITUTES ON COALVILLE CIRCUIT.

Rev. H. M. Ellis, missionary evangelist, held two brief missionary institutes, using maps and charts, on the Coalville Circuit. There were two services at Poplar Head church, resulting in the organization of a real Sunday school missionary society, and also of the "Laymen's Movement." Plans were put on foot for the payment of extra missionary money above the assessment. Two splendid young women, one a visitor from a neighboring circuit, offered themselves for the missionary service.

At Coalville there was more of an institute, the services beginning Sunday night last, and running through the next day and a half. Mrs. B. F. Lewis, corresponding secretary of the Woman's Home Missionary Society, and Mrs. Dr. Caraway, district secretary for the Seashore District, were present and made special addresses the last half-day. Several of the ladies of the Coalville church read admirable and stirring papers on appropriate themes. The congregations continued to increase, as did the interest. A large mission study class has been organized, a thorough canvass of the field for subscribers to Go Forward is being made, a goodly number of missionary books were sold, the brethren are laying plans to pay double the amount of their missionary assessments, and a free-will thank offering of $25 was given to the Mississippi Conference Domestic Missionary Reserve Fund Brother Ellis is raising.

In a Pinch use Allen's Foot-Ease.

Ladies can wear shoes one size smaller after using Allen's Foot-Ease. It makes tight or new shoes feel easy; gives instant relief to corns and bunions. It's the greatest comfort discovery of the age. Cures swollen feet, blisters, callous and sore spots. It is a certain cure for sweating, hot, aching feet. At all Druggists and Shoe stores, 25c. Don't accept any substitute. For FREE trial package, also Free Sample of the FOOT-EASE Sanitary CORN-PAD, a new invention, address Allen S. Olmsted, Le Roy, N. Y.

MOXINE CHILL TONIC

Only Tonic—one bottle—one cure.

SEMINARY, MISS.

We are glad to report that Seminary has just passed through a very gracious revival which closed Friday night, May 8.

Rev. E. L. Peebles, the spirit-filled, biblical encyclopedia of the Mississippi Conference, did the preaching. Our church here is new, and so is the present arrangement of the pastoral charge. Methodism has always been weak in this part of the Conference, but the Truth wins its way in the end; hence, the great revival just closed.

Brother Peebles is one of the saintliest men I ever saw. Would to God we had more men like E. L. Peebles. Our people all love him because he is so much like Christ, and because he has done them good.

Well, we organized a Sunday school here in the beginning of the year with but few enrolled, but now we have about one hundred scholars, with efficient officers, and our church well organized for work.

As a result of the meeting here, quite a number were converted, and up to date twenty-two accessions to the Church, with others applying for membership almost daily. We are conscious of the presence and leadership of God in our work.

Rev. O. J. Rainey is our junior preacher, and in that capacity is doing excellent service.

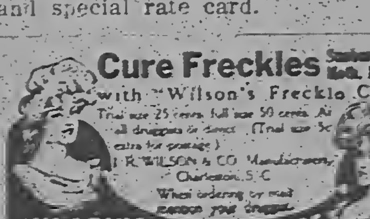
We hope to give a fuller report of our work later, and that other pastors may be fortunate enough to secure the services of Brother Peebles in their meetings. Let the brethren pray for us. Very truly,

J. E. GRAY, P. C.

Seminary, Miss.

LOW SUMMER RATE.

Elsewhere in this issue will be found a notice from Draughon's Practical Business College Company, a chain of 30 colleges in 17 States, making a special low summer rate. Read notice and write for catalogue and special rate card.



Cure Freckles Sunburn, Tan, Moth, Pimples with "Wilson's Freckle Cure."

Trial size 25 cents, full size 50 cents. At all druggists or direct. (Trial size 5c extra for postage.)

T. R. WILSON & CO. Manufacturers, Charleston, S. C.

When ordering by mail mention your druggist.

WILSON'S FRECKLE CURE

Obituaries.

Obituaries not over two hundred words in length will be published free of charge. All over two hundred words will be charged at the rate of 1 cent a word. Count the words and send the amount necessary with the obituary. That will save trouble all around.

A TRIBUTE.

The all-wise Creator claimed for his own the estimable, well-beloved wife of W. O. Johnson April 8, 1908. Mrs. SALLIE JOHNSON was born in Clarke County, Miss., August 9, 1861. Her age at her death was 46 years, 7 months, 29 days. She leaves a husband, five children and a loving and true sister in the person of Mrs. J. H. Martin to mourn their loss. Many friends and relatives attended the last sad rites, but we can truly say of her, a lovely Christian character, a home-lover, a devoted wife and mother, has gone to that beautiful home—"a home not made with hands eternal in the heavens"—to be with Christ, her Savior and God the Father. The writer, who knew Mrs. Johnson well, and enjoyed being in her good home, while I was teaching in that community, can sympathetically say, while she cannot come back to fill her much-missed place in the home, yet we can go to her by living the humble Christian life as she, doing our duty to fellow-man, and then enjoying an eternity with God the Father, where sorrow and worry never come, where the mornings are eternal and the shades of evening never fall. Death bears with it eternity—a word indewas much devoted to her Church and finable—yet how vast in meaning. In the mistery of misteries let loving hearts, fond friends, candid minds consider:

Eternity! Where? Oh, Eternity!
Where?
Friend, sleep not, nor take in this world any share,
Till you answer the question, Eternity! Where?

Sincerely,

J. F. MILLER.

Mrs. MARY ELIZABETH BAIN, daughter of Mr. Austin R. and Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Turner, was born in Silver City, Miss., August 12, 1879, and died at her home, Belzona, Miss., May 14, 1908. She was married to Mr. J. L. Bain March 27, 1907, with whom she lived devotedly until death separated them. Miss Bettie (as she was familiarly called) was a faithful Christian. When she joined the Church in her 18th year she was truly joined unto the Lord. Her life is truly an epistle read and known among the people with whom she has spent her entire Church life. She knew she was ready to lead the public loved her work. All her pastors prayer or any work needed to be done—she was only waiting their bidding. In the absence of the writer, Brother Wiley Ferguson, pastor of Silver City, held the funeral services. Sister Bain's Sunday school class, each bearing a cross decked with beautiful white flowers, preceded the pall-bearers from the home to the church, which was most impressive. God bless the bereaved ones. You know where to find her—she has ascended.

H. M. YOUNG, Pastor.

MOXINE
Cures LAGRIPPE and Colds.

I think we should treat our minds as innocent and ingenuous children whose guardians we are; be careful what objects and what subjects we thrust on their attention.—Thoreau.

Epworth League

TOPIC FOR JUNE 7.

"The Promise of the Father." — Luke xxiv, 44-49; Isa. xliv, 1-8. (Pentecost.)

There is but one God. This conviction is reached by reason and supported by revelation. In the first article of our religion we read: "There is but one living and true God, everlasting without body or parts; of infinite power, wisdom and goodness; the Maker and Preserver of all things, both visible and invisible." To doubt the truth of these words is to deny the dictates of reason and to produce disorder in religious convictions. At the same time it is to be noted that in the Godhead there are three persons. "And in unity of this Godhead there are three persons of one substance, power and eternity, the Father, the Son and the Holy Ghost."

It is impossible for us to separate the work of these divine persons, but it is possible to distinguish between them. It is usually said that the Father plans, the Son executes and the Spirit applies. All this is the work of God, though assigned to different members of the Trinity. If it seems impossible for anyone to believe that God should be one, and be composed of three persons, it may be said that such usage of language is common. The mind is one, yet with it you feel, think and will. These three are in one, yet each has its office. So, also, God is one, though we think of him as Father, Son and Holy Spirit.

1. The atonement had been planned, the Son had suffered and risen, but the work was not done. The sinful men must have the work of Christ applied. To this end the Spirit must come. It was necessary for the Spirit to apply the work of Christ. It is his to bring conviction to the heart of the sinner and to urge him to accept the work of Christ. "He will convict the world of sin," said the Master in speaking of the Spirit's work.

2. There is another work of the Spirit to which Christ referred in telling of his coming. In the fourteenth of John, Christ tells his followers that he will not leave them orphans, and that the Father will send in his name the Holy Spirit. The twenty-sixth verse of this chapter is suggestive of the work of the Spirit. The word "Comforter" does not mean exactly what the words Christ used does. He did not mean that the promised Spirit should smother, or remove, sorrow alone. The work of the Spirit is more like that of an "advocate" or one who stands between two persons. The word "advocate" does not carry the proper idea, since we usually think of an advocate as one who stands between unfriendly parties. This is not the true conception of the Spirit. To reconcile sinners is one object of his work, but it is not the whole of it.

3. The promise of the Father was the gift of the Holy Spirit. He was to bring power into the lives of the believers, aside from working on the hearts of those yet unsaved. How the work of the Spirit is done and where there is no little room for discussion, as little profitable as decisive. There is a suggestion that is worth while, in the twenty-sixth verse of the fourteenth of John, that may be a clue to the answers of the first of these two questions. He shall teach you all things, and bring to your remembrance all that I said unto you." The work of the Spirit is applying the work of Christ. This seems reasonable and sufficient.

4. That the Spirit brings comfort and power into lives does not seem strange when we recognize that he is enforcing or bringing near the work of Christ, who bears our sorrows and is the source of power. The concluding thought is that the Spirit works on the heart of every man, and that he has gifts of comfort, assurance and strength for all who will receive him. Let us desire his presence.—Rev. Wesley M. Smith, in St. Louis Christian Advocate.

ANGELL PHARMACY COMPANY,
2300 Baronne Street, corner Philip.
PRESCRIPTIONS OUR SPECIALTY Phone Main 4268.
Pure Drugs, Chemicals, Toilet Articles, Perfumery, Stationery, etc.
TRY ANGELL'S COUGH & WHOOPING COUGH SYRUP
Price 25 and 50 cents. Sold by all Druggists.
HOMŒPATHIC DEPARTMENT.
Homoeopathic Medicines, Books, Cases, Globules, Sugar of Milk, Etc.
Prices, 1-2 ounce vial 15 cents, 1 ounce vial 25 cents.
PROMPT DELIVERY.

A GOOD PIANO,
PIANO PLAYER or PLAYER PIANO see the
Grunewald's
Before You Buy.
Agents for the Latest Improved and best Instruments on the Market.

YOUR SUMMER VACATION
IS NEAR AT HAND
THE Southern SOUTHERN SUNSET ROUTE PACIFIC Pacific
WILL HAVE MANY ATTRACTIVE ROUTES TO OFFER BY RAIL OR WATER
To CALIFORNIA
GO ONE WAY ---- RETURN ANOTHER THROUGH THE MOST BEAUTIFUL SCENERY IN THE WORLD
To NEW YORK
ON ONE OF OUR MAGNIFICENT STEAMSHIPS --- FIVE BIG BOATS
"CREOLE," "MOMUS," "ANTILLES," "PROTEUS," "COMUS."
ASK YOUR AGENT FOR LITERATURE, OR WRITE
G. E. GUEDRY, Div. Pass. Agt. LAKE CHARLES
F. E. BATTURS, Gen. Pass. Agt. NEW ORLEANS

Wanted Salesmen We want a reliable lady or gentleman in every community to act as resident representative. Write us to day if you mean business and send us three good references.
PENTECOSTAL PUBLISHING CO., Incorporated, LOUISVILLE, KY.

COLPORTAGE NOTES.

A good meeting has recently been held in Winona by the popular pastor, Rev. J. A. Hall, assisted part of the time by the presiding elder, Rev. E. S. Lewis. Children's Day was duly observed in Winona on the third Sunday, with a large attendance and good interest.

This is a busy season with the connectional workers, trying to keep up with the District Conferences and other church meetings.

The Colporter has recently visited Terry, Crystal Springs, Brookhaven and Jackson. Also attended the District Conference at Tylertown and the Sunday School Institute at Durant. At all places and by all the brethren he has been accorded cordial greetings, the right of way and friendly co-operation, and has been enabled to do a satisfactory business.

We are still circulating the books. "The Methodist Hymnal" is going rapidly, and words of praise are being heard for it wherever used. Our newest songbook, "Revival Praises," is deservedly popular, and should by all means be procured by our people, where a new book is wanted. We need not, and should not, go elsewhere than to our own Publishing House for song-books for any use in our churches and homes.

Many of the preachers are getting and reading with delight that truly great book, "Wesley and This Century," by Fitchett. The price is $1.75, postpaid. Also that other valuable book by the same author, "The Unrealized Logic of Religion." The price is $1.25.

The District Conference at Tylertown was an occasion long to be remembered for the liberal hospitalities of the people and the good interest taken in the services by everybody. It was good to be there. This writer was, with others, generously entertained in the good home of Brother Geo. H. Collins.

The new presiding elder, Rev. Geo. H. Thompson, wears his honors with grace and dignity, and is magnifying his office with efficiency.

G. W. BACHMAN.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE

CORINTH DISTRICT—SECOND R'N'D.

Booneville Ct., at Blackland ... June 6, 7
Jonesboro Ct., at Brownfield ... June 13, 14
Rainey, and Faulkner Ct., at Marvin ... June 20, 21
Ripley and New Hope, at Wier's ... June 27, 28

District Conference will be held at Baldwyn, Miss., July 14, 15, 16.

BEN P. JACO, P. E.

GREENVILLE DIST—SECOND RND.

Robinsonville ... June 1,
Shaw ... June 7, 8
Glen Allan and South Greenville ... June 10,

R. A. MEEK, P. E.

ABERDEEN DIST. — SECOND RND.

Okolona Ct. at B. Chapel ... June 6, 7
Aberdeen ... June 9,
Fulton ... June 12,
Smithville ... June 13, 14

J. H. MITCHELL, P. E.

SARDIS DIST.—SECOND ROUND.

Eureka ... June 4,
Tyro, at Tyro ... June 6, 7
Arkabutla ... June 13, 14
Longtown, at Longtown ... June 16,
Crenshaw ... June 17,

W. M. YOUNG, P. E.

WINONA DIST. — SECOND ROUND.

North Carrollton, at Poplar Springs ... June 6, 7
Tom Nolen, at Lebanon ... June 9,
Slate Spgs., at Spring Hill ... June 10,
Vance, at Marks ... June 13, 14

E. S. LEWIS, P. E.

Mississippi Conference.

VICKSBURG DIST.—SECOND ROUND

Edwards, at E. ... June 1,
Anguilla, at Grace ... June 4, 5
Rolling Fork, at Cary ... June 6, 7
Vicksburg, C Street ... June 13, 14
Bolton, at Raymond ... June 20, 21
Mayersville, at Shiloh ... June 27, 28

G. H. GALLOWAY, P. E.

NATCHEZ DIST.—SECOND ROUND.

Natchez, Jefferson St ... May 31, June 1
Washington, at Kingston ... June 6, 7
Barlow, at Lebanon ... June 13,
Fayette, at Ebenezer ... June 14, 15
Wilkinson, at Mars Hill ... June 20, 21
Meadville, at Nebo ... June 27, 28

J. T. LEGGETT, P. E.

JACKSON DIST.—SECOND ROUND.

Eden, at Phillips ... June 2,
Canton ... June 6, 7
Lintonia, at Anding ... June 13, 14
Mount Olive ... June 20, 21

A. F. WATKINS, P. E.

NEWTON DIST.—SECOND ROUND.

Hebron, at Hebron ... June 6, 7
Ellisville, at Ellisville ... June 9,
Decatur, at Neshoba ... June 12,
Philadelphia, at Hester's ... June 13, 14
Indian Miss., at Philips ... June 19,
Edinberg, at Edinberg ... June 20, 21
Neshoba, at Mt. Pisgah ... June 27, 28
Walnut Grove, at Zion ... July 3,
Carthage, at ——— ... July 4, 5

JAS. M. WEEMS, P. E.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

SHREVEPORT DIST.—SECOND RND.

Shreveport, Texas Ave ... June 1, 2
Shreveport, First Church ... June 3,
Shreveport, Noel Memorial ... June 4,
Pleasant Hill ... June 6, 7
Greenwood ... June 8, 9
Hornbeck ... June 13, 14
Leesville ... June 14, 15
Bon Ami ... June 20, 21
De Ridder ... June 21, 22
Mooringsport ... June 24, 25
Provencal ... June 27, 28

T. J. WARLICK, P. E.

BATON ROUGE DIST.—SECOND RND.

St Francisvill, at Star Hill ... 16, 17
East Feliciana, at Clear Cr. ... June 6, 7
Melville, at Cottonwood ... June 13, 14
Newroads ... June 21, 22
Baton Rouge, First Church ... June 28, 29
Baton Rouge, Second Ch. ... June 28, 29

R. W. TUCKER, P. E.

MONROE DIST.—SECOND ROUND.

Harrisonburg, at Jonesville ... June 6, 7
Florence, at Holly Grove ... June 13, 14
Downsville, at Douglas ... June 17,
Waterproof, at St. Joseph ... June 20, 21
Floyd, at Midway ... June 27, 28

J. E. DENSON, P. E.

MOXINE CHILL TONIC
Only Tonic—one bottle—one cure.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

Brookhaven District—Third Round.
(In Part.)

Prentiss, at Bassfield ... June 13, 14
Sumrall ... June 14, 15
Hub, at Oakvale ... June 20, 21
Silver Creek, at New Hebron ... June 21, 22
Hazlehurst ... June 27, 28
Crystal Springs ... June 28, 29
McComb and Fernwood, at McComb ... July 4, 5
McComb-Centenary ... July 5, 6
Oloh, at Baylis Chapel ... July 11, 12
Columbia ... July 12, 13

GEO. H. THOMPSON, P. E.

MOXINE
Cures LAGRIPPE and Colds.

Better the good that we can do,
Than applause that we can win;
Better the lowly deed, when true,
Than the high rewards of sin.
—Exchange.

W. H. BYRNES, Pres. JOHN T. GIBBONS, Vice-Pres. P. E. BURKE, Sec'y.
Capital ... $200,000 00
Assets ... 479,[illegible] 90
HIBERNIA INSURNCE CO.,
No. 305 Camp Street,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
LOSSES PROMPTLY PAID.

The Brookfield Summer School of Music.
The unprecedented success and growth of this school is the strongest argument for its usefulness. The 1908 session will open Wednesday, July 1st, and close Tuesday, August 25th. The daily Class Instruction is divided between Theory, Choral Instruction, Normal Sessions, Recitals, Musicales, Lectures, and Concerts. Room and board for the eight weeks are furnished at the school. Private lessons, optional as to frequency, can be had in all departments. For Prospectus, address,
H. W. GREENE, No. 364 Carnegie Hall, NEW YORK CITY.

Pine-Brook Dairy Co., Ltd.
ALL OUR COWS TUBERCULINE TESTED.
Milk and Cream Delivered Morning and Evening.
COR ST. CHARLES & WASHINGTON AVES. Phone 1514 Uptown.

THE AMERICAN PAINT WORKS,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.,
MANUFACTURES EVERYTHING IN PAINTS,
Guaranteed Strictly Pure
The Climatic Prepared Paints, Perfecto White and
SOLD SUBJECT TO A CHEMICAL ANALYSIS
DIRECTORS:
Thos. S. Witherspoon, President. Francis Martin, Vice President.
R. B. Parker. John McCloskey, Geo. A. Hero.
PHONE, MAIN 915. Special Attention to Mail Orders.

THE BEST MADE.
Angell's Cough and Whooping Cough Syrup
For Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Coughs, Colds and Throat Trouble.
CONTAINS NO OPIUM OR MORPHINE,
All Druggists, Price 25 and 50 Cents.

SCROFULINE
The Wonderful Healer
Unsurpassed for tetter, ezcema, skin and scalp troubles, old sores, ulcers and piles, any nature or duration. Goes to the very seat of the trouble, kills the germs and extracts all foreign matter. Sold under a positive guarantee, 25c, 50c and $1.00 per jar. Mail orders promptly filled. Stamps accepted. Liberal sample upon request. Address,
THE SCROFULINE COMPANY, Waco, Texas.
SOLE OWNERS AND MANUFACTURERS.

Louisiana Railway and Navigation Company.
PASSENGER SERVICE.
Daily Passenger Trains between Shreveport and New Orleans. Daily Passenger Trains between Shreveport and Winnfield.
FREIGHT SERVICE.
Exceptional good time on carload traffic. Special attention given less than carload shipments all of which moves in
DAILY THROUGH PACKAGE CARS.
CLARENCE ELLERBE, Assistant to President. H. B. HELM, General Superintendent.
E. C. D. MARSHALL, General Freight & Passenger Agent. Shreveport, La.

BOYS WANTED.

Will not every preacher in the two Mississippi Conferences sit down right now and send me the names of the boys who are going to college this fall. T. W. LEWIS.

Jackson, Miss.

IN MEMORY OF G. W. CLEARMAN.

A patriarch and prince in Israel has fallen. One of the oldest, truest and best of God's servants has gone to his reward. The subject of this sketch, G. W. Clearman, was an extraordinary man. Had he lived to see three more birthdays he would have witnessed the passing of a century, having been born in South Carolina, Nov. 17, 1812.

As Pilate said of Christ, it might well be said of him, "Behold the man." We see him first as a little boy about thirteen years old, giving his life to God to remain his through a long, eventful existence. He was a consistent member of the Methodist Church for more than eighty-three years; a member of the Sunday School for about seventy years, and steward for more than half a century. He loved his church, and her services were his chief joy. He not only loved the spiritual and social privileges of God's kingdom, but he loved to contribute to her support. He gave liberally to the building of our Publishing House at Nashville, and furnished all the material to build Macedonia Church, and did much toward erecting the house. Besides these, he helped many other churches in various ways, especially to build houses of worship. He loved the doctrines of Methodism, and defended them with great zeal and ability.

He was married in 1838 to Miss Eliza Crawford, who was born in South Carolina in 1818. It is but just to say here that we know that he owed to her much for the success of his life in every way. She was a woman of unusual love and faith. She trusted God implicitly, loved her neighbors as she did herself. I have heard him tell of her faith in God many times. He loved to tell of the time when the oldest son was lost sight of in the tumult of the Civil War, and how, when all was over, and the boys were coming home, no one could give any account of "Emmitt," yet the mother was sure her boy was safe, for she had committed him to God in prayer; and how after weary weeks had dragged by with no news from the lost son, aad all gave him up as lost among the slain, yet the mother was calm and sure he was safe. The family was astonished one day when she said "Emmitt will be home to-day," and began to prepare for his coming, and her faith was rewarded, for that very day the lost boy reached home after many weeks' tramping from a Northern prison. Such faith will make strong the life of any man.

To this man and women of God were born ten children, seven of whom are still living, five sons and two daughters. Their descendants now number more than fifty souls, and all that are old enough, except three or four, are members of the church, and good, honorable citizens. Col. J. F. Drake, who fell while leading the 33d Mississippi Regiment against the enemy's lines before Atlanta, was a son-in-law.

Among their posterity may be found soldiers, scholars, stewards, Sunday school superintendents, and preachers of the gospel. What a great company to rise up and call them blessed!

Brother Clearman was a true husband, a kind, indulgent father, and a generous friend, always cheerful and kind to all about him. His faith in God was beautiful. There was not a cloud over his future. He cheerfully and calmly selected the song and Scripture lesson for his burial service. With a faith that knows no doubt or fear, surrounded by his loving children and grandchildren, he fell on sleep March 7, 1908.

When the dark and gloomy clouds of winter were rolling away and melting into the tender lights, beautiful scenes and sweet songs of lovely spring time, when all nature seemed to be full of new life and hope, he burst the bonds of this mortal coil, laid aside the burdensome mantle of age and decrepitude, triumphantly crossed old Jordan's swelling tide, and, robed in the garments of righteousness, entered the land beautiful to join in the song of Moses and the Lamb, and there to meet his Lord whom he so much adored, and to there meet his lost and loved again. O, what a blessed entrance into the glory world! JAS. A. POE.

IS THE KING'S DAUGHTERS A NON-SECTARIAN ORGANIZATION?

The above question is asked not in caviling, but for information. The eighth session of that body has just closed the most satisfactory convention in the history of the State organization—at least, so said its members. This convention was composed of some of the foremost and braniest women of the State and representatives of every denomination. The business sessions were held in the First Baptist Church in the city at their invitation; yet the communion service of the convention was held in the Episcopal Church and the sacrament administered by the Episcopal rector alone. While I was pastor in Vicksburg this body held its session, by invitation, in the Methodist Church; yet when the Sabbath came the entire body transferred to the Episcopal Church, where the rector preached a special sermon and administered the "holy communion." In Yazoo City, the next year, the sessions were held in the Presbyterian Church, and again, in a body, they transferred to the Protestant Episcopal Church, where the rector preached the sermon and administered the "holy communion."

Now, Mr. Editor, I submit to you, or to any of your readers who may have information, the question, "Is the King's Daughters a non-sectarian organization?" It appears to me that if the above instances suggest anything, it is that it is of the strictest sort a sectarian order. That the secular features should be attended to in one church, and that feature which is most distinctively Christian should be performed in another Church every time, and administered by the clergy of that Church, alone, stamps it as rigidly sectarian, at least to this writer.

To my knowledge, some of the best women and most representative of all of the Churches of my acquaintance are members of this organization. Some of the leading women of the individual Churches to which I have made reference are prominent in the work of the Daughters, yet at this point it seems to me that there is a discrimination and a reflection, which, if not dishonoring, is at least an insinuation which should not be longer allowed, if proper self-respect is to be maintained. There may have been reasons in its early history why such custom should obtain, but when the organization has reached such proportions and is composed of members so largely representing all the denominations that such a distinctive denominational feature should be discontinued.

Indeed, I cannot see how pastors of other denominations will long submit to the evident insinuation that is implied. Not in malace, not in wrath, and neither in the spirit of criticism have I written, but that I may know why such custom has obtained and to suggest, as an humble minister of the Methodist Church, that such custom should be changed in due respect to all the members of the organization. Yours,

T. B. HOLLOMAN.

Hattiesburg, Miss.

We do not use the Word aright until it becomes to us the very gate of our Father's house, through which we enter into the Celestial City, into the very presence of the King. Meditation is that passive condition in which we open the doors and windows of the soul to the blessed influences that gather about us when we sit with the Book before us and wait for the coming of the Lord. Meditation is not an act of the mind only, but of the whole man, so that the Word stirs thought, and thought stirs prayer, and prayer passes into communion, and communion reveals new matter for meditation.—Mark Guy Pearse.

In his autobiography, Robert Louis Stevenson tells of a day in his childhood when he accidently locked himself in a dark room. He could not turn the key to release himself, and he was in terror by reason of imagined enemies, until his father came to the door and called to him. Then he became quiet. In a little while the music of his father's voice made him forget his surroundings and his terrors. And he actually enjoyed the remaining time of his imprisonment before the coming of the locksmith. So we may bear terrors, difficulties, dangers—every untoward thing—as we remember that God is with us, who speaks reassuringly.—Northwestern Christian Advocate.

THE SAFEST AND QUICKEST WAY

—TO—

TRANSFER MONEY

—Is By—

Long Distance Telephone

FOR RATES APPLY TO LOCAL MANAGER

Cumberland Telephone & Telegraph Co.,

INCORPORATED.

NEW ORLEANS
CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE

Millsaps College Library

REV. JOHN W. BOSWELL, Editor.
REV. H. WHITEHEAD, Ass't Editor.

NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, JUNE 11, 1908.

CHAS. O. CHALMERS, Publisher,
Office, 512 Camp St., New Orleans.

VOL. 55—No. 24.

"PROVE ALL THINGS; HOLD FAST THAT WHICH IS GOOD."

WHOLE No. 5403.

Glances at the World.

Reform is everywhere apparent. Great reforms never go backward. They are sometimes slow, but they are sure. Among the measures before the people is one to protect children from the oppression of grasping money-makers and from those who lurk in the secret places to destroy the innocent. The legislature of Massachusetts has just killed a bill which purposed to allow children under fourteen years of age to go on the stage. The Louisiana legislature, now in session, has wisely raised the "age of consent" for girls from sixteen to eighteen years. The Mississippi legislature, not long since adjourned, declined to raise the age, but let it remain at the age of twelve years. This inconsistency is shown and rebuked by the women of the Home Mission Society of the North Mississippi Conference, a report of the action has been furnished us by Mrs. Robert Somerville, of Greenville, and is as follows: "Whereas, the law of Mississippi fixes eighteen years as the legal age of marriage for women; and, whereas, we do not believe that a young woman should have the legal right to lead a bad life at an earlier age than she has to marry; and, whereas, the fixing of the age of consent at twelve years means that a child of that age has a legal right to lead an immoral life; therefore, be it,

"Resolved, That we favor eighteen years as the age of consent, if any age is named, and that we will do what we can to secure the passage of such a law."

* * *

The poor negro is having a hard time in the Republican camp just now. Down South in the State conventions they are largely in favor of Mr. Foraker for president solely because Mr. Foraker has persistently opposed Mr. Roosevelt's action in discharging the negro soldiers who "shot up" the town of Brownsville in Texas. Many negroes from Southern States have been named as delegates to the National Republican convention, and in many instances their seats contested. Every contest, so far reported, has resulted in unseating them, and giving the seats to the Taft delegates. On what grounds we do not know. But in our judgment the negroes will lose nothing by it in the end, even if it should lead them into the Democratic party. But depriving them of their votes for Mr. Foraker is not the worst thing befalling them in these last days. The National Federation of Labor has declared war against them, and will try to force them out of the trades. Many negroes are expert carpenthe trades. Many negroes are expert carpenters, brick-layers and skilled in other occupations, and down South they have, up to this time, enjoyed the privilege of working at their trade, unmolested. This fact has been often mentioned greatly to the credit of the South. These negroes do not stand in the way of white men—they make up the very best class of colored citizens, and to be driven from their occupations would be cruel beyond measure. We hope the aim of the Federation will fail.

* * *

A new fashion in dress has been ordained for the coming season, across the water in Paris, we suppose. It has caused a "commotion," says a New York letter. A secular paper, from which we get the tip, says further: "It is expected that the first one will be seen at one of the Broadway musical shows within a short time. The 'sheath' dress, so-called, will put the 'Merry Widow' battleship hats completely in the shade as an object of public interest, wonder and speculation. The new dress is already causing the fair sex here an endless lot of worry because of the alarming reports from the other side. For to be 'smart' will be to be miserable women will have to change their figures entirely. 'The trouble won't stop there, either,' said a well known authority. 'The dress is bound to become a house question. I expect pulpits will thunder, and even the police will be called on to take a hand.' So everybody is preparing himself for what is to come." If this new fashion in dress is any worse than the regulation dress of amateur base-ballists at some of our colleges, it will be time for the pulpits to thunder and the police to be called in, or ordered to stand at public doors to keep their wearers out. But can it be as much of a nuisance as the "Merry Widow" hats, which are sometimes so large as not to allow admission through doors, as was the case with a young lady who tried to get into the telephone booth and could not without taking her hat off, and that she would not do. But fashion will rule. Fashion is a tyrant pure and simple.

* * *

Not long since we read of a gentleman whose business called him to some point in Louisiana. He is a man who makes no pretension to religion, and who, according to his confession, had lax notions in regard to the Sabbath. During his stay in the State he saw so much of what he had been taught to look upon as lawlessness on the Sabbath, and such an utter disregard of the Lord's day, that he became, we might say, alarmed for the moral safety of the country, and went back to his home resolved to have more respect in the future for the Lord's day. Is it not time for the good people of Louisiana to wake up when their disregard for Sunday disgusts even an acknowledged sinner. And other strangers also take notice. The Rev. Dr. Foster, of Virginia, was recently called to the First Presbyterian Church, the pastorate of which was made vacant by the resignation of Dr. Palmer. He came to the city, looked over the situation ,and declined the call, the utter disregard of Sunday doubtless having much to do with his determination. At any rate the Sunday lawlessness greatly impressed him. The subject of his first sermon after returning home was, 'Remember the Sabbath Day to Keep It Holy.' Dr. Foster began this sermon by saying that during a recent visit to New Orleans he was struck one Sunday while going to church at the number of stores that were opened and the number of people who were returning from baseball games.". We say with emphasis that Sunday baseball throughout the State and Sunday theatres in the city are the worst enemies of our holy religion.

* * *

Great complaint has been made on account of the rise in the retail price of all kinds of meat, and many persons in consequence have cut down their daily allowance—so much so that the packers are feeling the cut. Why the rise in prices? A writer in the Chicago Tribune says: "The high cost of meat is not the result of freight rates, for since 1890 they have declined 20 per cent. What is true of meat is true of every other article we eat or wear. The freight charge is so small that it cuts no figure whatever in the retail unit." A lecturer at Johns Hopkins University puts the matter thus: "The transportation charge on the material entering into a pair of shoes made in a St. Louis factory averages 1 1-4 cents. The transportation charge to place that pair in the hands of a consumer in any part of the United States is about equal to the postage on an ordinary letter. An ordinary bed that retails at St. Louis at $8, for example, will have paid the railroads about 40 cents. From 10 pounds of nails made in Pittsburg the railroads will have obtained a trifle over 2 cents, and from 10 pounds of wire 2 1-2 cents. An ax made in the Pittsburg district that retails in St. Louis for $1 will have paid the railroad 1 1-4 cents. The freight on a dozen eggs for 1000 miles is less than the postage of a letter, and a pound of Wisconsin butter may be sent to New England or New York for half the cost that the bill for it would go by mail. Poultry From Texas for; less than 1 1-2 cents a pound; beef from Western ranges at less than 1 cent a pound." The lecturer may be right as to the articles mentioned, some of which were live-stock. But what about the charges on puppies? We had one shipped (by express) from near Nashville, Tenn., to Hammond, La.,—a small one, box and all weighing less than ten pounds, and paid tribute to the transportation company to the amount of one dollar and ninety-five cents, or nearly a dollar a pound for the pup, as it weighed not more than two pounds net. We do not wonder that the express companies are so violently opposed to the "parcels post" recommended by the postmaster general. Will anybody come to the defense of the express companies?

Christian Advocate.

Published for the Louisiana, Mississippi, and North Mississippi Conferences, Methodist Episcopal Church, South.

DIRECTIONS.

Correspondents will please direct all communications intended for the Editor to 512 Camp St., New Orleans, La. Communications intended for the Business Department should be addressed to the Manager of the New Orleans Christian Advocate. Write with ink, and only on one side of the paper. No attention will be paid to rolled manuscripts.

The Printed Label on a paper shows the date to which a subscription is paid. It is as good as a written receipt. When renewal is made, if the date is not moved forward after two weeks, notify us, and we will make it right. Papers will be continued unless subscribers order otherwise.

For Advertising Rates Apply to

Religious Press Advertising Syndicate,
JACOBS & CO., CLINTON, S. C.

Home Office, Clinton, S. C., who have charge of the advertising of this paper.

ADVERTISING REPRESENTATIVES.

J. F. Jacobs, J. D. Jacobs, Home Office, Clinton, S. C.
R. J. Ritter, 418 W. St. Catherine St., Louisville, Ky.
Thornwell Jacobs, 1011 Stahlman Bldg., Nashville, Tenn.
C. C. Little, 502 Mutual Bldg., Richmond, Va.
D. J. Carter, 122 LaSalle St., Chicago, Ill.
Miss M. R. Middleton, 156 Nassau St., New York, N. Y.
Barton E. Buckman, 122 LaSalle St., Chicago, Ill.
J. H. Rich, Birmingham, Ala.
E. J. Barrett, New Orleans, La.
J. B. Keough, Atlanta, Ga.
J. B. Gentry, Clinton, S. C.
H. B. Ewbank, Houston, Texas.
W. L. Boggs, Greensboro, N. C.
F. A. Wynne, Cor. Ackard & Elm Sts., Dallas, Texas.

THE MISSIONARY OBLIGATION, AND HOW WE ARE MEETING IT IN KOREA.

By Rev. R. O. Wier.

(Written for the Shreveport District Missionary Institute.)

That I may discuss this subject to the best advantage I have selected a text which is found in the 8th verse of the 1st chapter of the Acts: "And ye shall be witnesses unto me, both in Jerusalem, and in all Judea, and in Samaria, and unto the uttermost parts of the earth."

These words, spoken to the disciples and to Christians of all ages, enjoined upon them the duty of giving the light of the gospel of Jesus Christ to every part of the world, and to every creature. No country, however small or how deeply degraded, was to be overlooked or neglected. They must bear testimony in Jerusalem and in all Judea, but they were not to stop there. They must go even to the despised Samaritan and to the uttermost parts of the earth. To do this it will cost them much self-denial and hardship, and, in many cases, even life itself. But they must do it, for the Master intended that his message of love and salvation should be borne by this testimony to every part of the globe and to every perishing soul.

His love embraced the whole wide world. He intended his gospel should go everywhere there was a perishing soul. The world. The world, from North to South and from East to West, was the field of its intended operations. It had no limits but the boundaries of the globe. When amid the holy hush and the solemn grandeur of the Galilean mount on the morning of the ascension the Master gave his last parting message to his disciples, he uses no time in discussing the forms of church government, modes of baptism or who should be greatest; but that which lay nearest his heart claims his attention. It was the evangelization of the world, and this idea flashed forth in words of living thunder as he gives forth those mighty words, "Go ye, therefore, and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost; teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you; and, lo, I am with you alway, even unto the end of the world." Matt. xxviii: 19-20. In these words we have not merely a commission, which is only authority to preach the gospel to all the world, but leaving the matter optional, but a solemn and binding command; a command as binding as the authority of God could make it; as binding as those commands which flashed forth amid sin's awful thunders.

The Master says: "If a man love me, he will keep my words." In view of the mighty force of these words and the binding force of the obligation, it is strange that the evangelization of the world is so long delayed. The fact that the world needs the gospel needs no argument. It is the only remedy for the evils of the world, the only light to dispel its darkness, the only hope of the human race, the only thing that can civilize and tame savage natures.

Heathenism has long held the largest portion of the world in a darkness that is appalling. The church of God, whose duty it is to give the light of the gospel to the benighted world, has been sleeping; but, thank God, she is waking up and the light of the coming day is dawning. Aroused from her slumbers, she is pushing the battle to the front, and everywhere heathenism and paganism are giving way before the charge of Jehovah's conquering hosts. The Christian, with the mighty gospel of love and power, is bent on taking this world for his Lord, and the foe is giving way. The church has never been so aroused as she is to-day, and victory is crowning her efforts everywhere—in India, in China, in Japan, in Brazil, in Africa and the islands of the sea, and nowhere is this more perceptible than in Korea.

This little kingdom, lying between China and Japan, contains about 12,000,000 souls—souls for whom Christ died. It has been a hard field and has been designated as the hermit kingdom. It has been one of the darkest and one of the most neglected portions of the world. All the evils of heathenism and paganism are to be found there. The people have no idea of home, not even a word for home. They have a house which is the nearest approach to home, and the house usually consists of not more than three rooms of about 8x8 feet. The women know nothing of the sweetness of home. She is only a drudge and a slave. She, it is, who must do all the heavy work, while her master lies up in the shade and smokes his pipe. If she goes out she must be closely veiled, and the women of high class can only visit or travel in a rigidly closed chair. We are told that the women, as a rule, are densely ignorant, vulgar, and overworked. For them there are no schools except such as have been founded by the missionary of the cross. They have no idea of a loving God, but their religion is a slavish dread of evil spirits, which, they think, are everywhere, and to appease them, they hang up about their abodes rags for spirit nests. These women are "unwelcome at birth, unloved in life and unmourned in death."

But their condition is being changed; their bonds are being broken, and their eyes opened. The light of the gospel is at last reaching them. The ears of the Christian church in Europe and America are turning to this little hermit kingdom, and their cry is being heard. Protestant missions are maintained by the Methodists and Presbyterians of the United States, Canada and Australia and the S. P. G. Together they have 600 stations; 158 missionaries; 283 native workers; 175 schools; 3511 scholars; 17 hospitals and dispensaries; 3 publishing houses, and 90,000 professed Christians, of whom 3500 are communicants. With the small force at work, Christianity is making steady and rapid progress.

One of the best and most significant features about the matter is that those who are converted are learning to maintain their own church institutions, and their zeal in trying to win their friends to faith in Christ is a marked characteristic of their religion. He does not have to be urged to go to work. He has found something that is a joy to him, something that has lifted him up and made of him a new creature, and thrills his soul with joy, which inspires him with a consuming desire to share it with his benighted neighbor.

In 1895 Bishop Hendrix went to Korea at the earnest solicitation of Rev. T. H. Yun, a consecrated native Korean who had been educated at Emory College, Oxford, Ga., and at Vanderbilt University, and founded a mission. So we, the M. E. Church, South, have only been at work among the Koreans about twelve years, but from the first our work has been a success.

From every quarter our missionaries are sending the cheering news of success. The people are eager to hear their message. While at home we are gratified if we can get out from forty to sixty people at prayer-meeting, and few do even that well, even in the cities, we are told that in Korea they often have from 1000 to 1500, and at the preaching services they have to preach to men at one hour and to women at another in order to accommodate the crowds that come to hear their message. We have prayed that God would open the door to the missionary, and this prayer has been heard. In Korea the door has been thrown wide open—yea, it has been literally taken from its hinges and they are begging us to enter and teach them the truths of Christianity.

It is not left for the missionary to make opportunities; he has more than he can improve. The usual way with the missionary is for him to go out and hunt for a place to preach and then hunt up the people. But in Korea they build a church, hunt up the missionary and beg him to come to them. Did the church ever before have such an opportunity?

The missionaries tell us that for more than three years a genuine revival has been going on in Korea. It is a revival that brings forth the fruit. Dr. Lambuth tells us in the Go Forward that it is not uncommon for those who have stolen or defrauded to make restitution, nor for those who have wronged others to seek their forgiveness.

He further says: "This conviction that smites like a sword, this sorrow that shakes the soul like a tempest, is followed by a complete transformation of character, bearing the marks of the Spirit's influence. This, too, in a land where a score of years ago they did not so much as have an idea of guilt or forgiveness, and their religion consisted not in love of God but in fear of devils."

The Korean Christian has the genuine spirit of personal evangelism. In this he surpasses the average Christian in America. The gospel brings light and joy to his soul, and his eagerness to tell it to others that they, too, may find this peace overleaps all bounds and sweeps aside all barriers. He is indeed helping to evangelize and save Korea, and this is as God would have it. Andrew, when found by the Master, went and found his brother, Simon, and Phillip went and found Nathaniel. One of our missionaries wrote that there were near him 2050 begging to be taught and secured into the church, but, alas, the missionaries were two few to enter this wide-open door.

John R. Mott said that if the church is faithful to her opportunity Korea will be a Christian nation in ten years, and from the indications now this statement is not unreasonable or extravagant. It is more than a possibility; it is a probability. The different churches in Korea have agreed on a division of the territory, and that portion that falls to us lies between Winson, Seoul and Songdo. For this solid mass of heathenism we alone are responsible. Shall we conquer this territory for our Lord? Can we do it? One of our missionaries has written that if the church will furnish the men and the money it can be done in ten years.

In the short space of twelve years that we have been at work here a marvelous work has been done which encourages us to expect and undertake greater things. With the small force of workers we have gathered 181 groups of converts and built eighty-nine chapels. Forty-eight of these were built last year (1907), and that almost entirely by native Christians. We have 1973 members, and 3025 probationers, and 1881 in our Sabbath schools, and our day schools are doing a fine work. For the last nine months, up to February of this year, the gain was sixty-two per cent in membership. We are told that the rate of gain for each ordained missionary was on an average 112, while in the whole Church the average was two and one-half per cent. While each one of us at home has brought into the Church on an average of two and one-half persons, each missionary has done almost fifty times as much. Had we done as well we would have brought in 1,300,000, which would have almost doubled our membership. In the light of these facts who would dare say that it does not pay to contribute to foreign missions? Does it not pay in Korea? Soon Korea will be a Christian nation, helping to evangelize the rest of the heathen world. We shall then have what Bishop Wilson said some years ago, that the Church needed "the spectacle of a heathen nation redeemed and transformed by the gospel." This nation is fast being redeemed and transformed by the power of the gospel of Jesus Christ. The indications are that in less than a generation the Methodist Church in Korea will be sending missionaries to the rest of the heathen nations, if there be any heathens then.

Rev. E. L. Peermans tells us that "the Christianity of the Korean is of the best type. Many of them, just fresh out of heathenism, give such evidences of entire surrender to Christ as would put to shame many Christians in the home-land. There is no sacrifice too great for them to make for their Master." He says that he has never seen a native Christian enter the Church without at once kneeling in secret prayer, and that they never let the collection basket go by without putting something in it.

In the light of these facts can we not see the dawn of the coming day of the kingdom of our Lord? Is not the morning star already high above the horizon? Can we not see the gleaming rays of the rising sun shooting high in the heavens? Can we not hear the tread of the conquering hosts as with shouts of triumph they wear their palms of victory, and shall we not join in the shout of victory in the language of the poet as he sings:

The morning light is breaking;
  The darkness disappears;
The sons of earth are waking
  To penitential tears.
Each breeze that sweeps the ocean
  Brings tidings from afar
Of nations in commotion
  Prepared for Zion's war.

See heathen nations bend
  Before the God we love,
And thousand hearts ascending
  In gratitude above;
While sinners now confessing,
  The gospel call obey,
And seek the Savior's blessing
  A nation in a day.

Blest river of salvation,
  Pursue thine onward way;
Flow thou to every nation,
  Nor in thy richness stay.
Stay not till all the lowly
  Triumphant reach their home;
Stay not till all the holy Proclaim: "The Lord is come!"

IN THE SOUTHLAND.

BY REV. THEO. COPELAND.

On the night of May 22, I moved out of the great Union Depot at St. Louis, took a berth on the Illinois Central train, and early next morning found myself in Memphis. By reason of modern facilities traveling on the trunk lines of the country is a positive pleasure. The wayfaring man finds the officials, as a rule, considerate and obliging.

The denizens of the "bluff city" claim that the next census will show the population of Memphis to be 200,000. On every hand are signs of enterprise, thrift and substantial growth. After breakfast I boarded the train, and in a short while we were in Mississippi.

Broad acres of corn and cotton greeted us at every turn. The farmers of the South are in a more prosperous financial condition than at any other time since the Civil War. This fact is attested by the great reduction in the number of mortgages, the use of improved farming implements, better dwellings and finer breeds of stock.

To me it was a pure delight to get back once more on Mississippi soil. Reaching Grenada about noon, W. L. Clifton, president of the North Mississippi Female College, met me at the station, and Mr. Dubard, a genial, big-hearted layman, conducted me to his beautiful home, where I enjoyed unstinted Southern hospitality. I was met and welcomed by many friends and parishioners of other days, elect men and women who belong to the true nobility of the world.

The inhabitants claim for Grenada a population of 3500, and it is located in one of the garden spots of the State. It enjoys modern improvements and conveniences, has excellent churches and fine public schools. But the pride of the town and surrounding country is the North Mississippi Conference Female College. Within the last two or three years additions have been made to the buildings.

The furniture and all the other equipments afford first-class facilities for educational work. The Faculty has become stronger and more efficient, year by year, till this is now one of the leading colleges of the South. The several departments of Science, Mathematics, Music, Art and Elocution are in the hands of trained specialists. Under the prudent management of President Clifton the school has made a fine showing, which is gratifying to all concerned. Mr. Clifton is an ideal school-man. Mrs. Clifton is a member of the Faculty, accomplished in many ways, and especially gifted in musical talent.

The Board of College Trustees, of whom the wide-awake J. R. Bingham is president, has contributed materially toward bringing the college to its present status. They are men of broad vision and lofty purpose, who are willing to spend time and money that a worthy cause may be advanced.

During the year just closed every room in the college was occupied, many of the girls coming from the best families of Mississippi. A fine class of young ladies received their diplomas. I was greatly impressed with the discipline, harmony and good cheer which pervaded the student body.

Sunday morning the preacher spoke to a large, intelligent, responsive audience. The music prepared specially for the occasion was very good. On Sabbath evening the Epworth Leaguers of the school conducted a service which was an inspiration to those present, and which convinced me that the work of the college tends to the attainment of Christian character. Monday morning the members of the graduating class read their essays, and the evening was given to a reception in the chapel. Tuesday morning Mr. J. N. Powers, State superintendent of education, delivered an address for the benefit of the graduates.

It is the concensus of opinion that this has been the best year for the college in its history.

I learned that Brother Mitchell, our pastor at Grenada, is in great favor with his flock, and is doing excellent work.

Leaving Grenada, I ran over to Holly Springs, met some friends, took supper and resumed my journey on the Frisco line. Next morning I awoke in Birmingham. Here I spent three days visiting my father and other relatives and friends. This being my first visit to the magic city since the saloons were closed, I was impressed by the marvelous change that has been wrought within a few months. Prohibition has already done great things for Birmingham, and promises larger blessings for the future. If the friends of this gigantic movement will stand bravely by their colors and boldly insist upon the enforcement of the laws, the whole civilized world will receive a forward impulse along the highway of civic righteousness, while good men and women all over the land will rejoice that "the South is going dry."

From Birmingham I returned on the L. & N. Railroad by way of Nashville. It was my pleasure to visit the Publishing House, where the knights of the quill perform their valorous deeds for our Church and her constituency. Installed in their new plant, with all necessary equipment, our editors and publishers are ready to compete with any other publishing establishment in this country.

I wandered again through the beautiful campus of Vanderbilt University, looked again into its classic halls, crowded with students from nearly every part of the Union. What a magnificent opportunity is here for molding the thought, and life, and character of the youth who will largely rule the destinies of the South in the coming years! Leaving Nashville Friday, I returned on the L. & N. and reached St. Louis Saturday morning, having thoroughly enjoyed my ramble through the Southland.

St. Louis, Mo.

GRENADA COLLEGE COMMENCEMENT.

The recent brilliant commencement at Grenada College closed a session that was in all respects the best in the history of the School.

The condition of buildings and grounds was substantially improved. The prospects for the future were never so good as now. More than our material improvements do we value the character of the scholastic work done. That work has found recognition in the columns of our Methodist Review. See "Tennyson and Browning," by Miss Burma May, in the April number. Our graduates have produced other papers of equal merit.

The Faculty remains substantially as it was, and, without disaster, the next session will certainly go beyond the one just closed. The income from the Annual Conference has enabled us to extend aid to the amount of $1600 to girls who otherwise would have been denied the blessings and benefits afforded there.

These excellent results are from the self-sacrificing labors of President Clifton, who puts his entire being into the school. He has wrought marvels, if not miracles, at Grenada. Let all the people of North Mississippi know that Grenada College is the very best place for their girls.

J. R. BINGHAM,
President Board of Trustees.

Do you say, "It is hard to laugh and sing when the heart is breaking?" It is hard, oh so hard! but if we bore our trials more cheerfully and made our religion more agreeable, many more would come into the fold of Christ. Smiles and frowns are but the slight movements of a few facial muscles, but oh, what a tremendous effect they have upon those who receive them as well as upon those who give them.—Exchange.

BELLEVUE POULTRY SUPPLY CO.

Everything in the poultry line: Chickens, Parrots, Guinea Pigs, Rabbits and Pet Stock of every description; Cyphers, Incubators and Feed at Factory Prices, may be had by writing us at 740 Camp St., New Orleans, La. Catalogue sent free.

HIGHER CRITICISM AND SOME OF THE CRITICS.

BY REV. H. W. FEATHERSTUN.

No. III.

There lies before me a dissected Penteteuch. The earlier critics of the kind called "higher" constructed a "polychrome" Bible, printing the parts which they supposed to be the work of an "Elohist" writer in one color, and the parts they credited to a "Jehovist" writer in another color, and so on ad finem. Later critics of the school cut it up, placing parts under P, an "early Elohist," and other parts under E, a later Elohist; others under J, a "Jehovist," and most of Deuteronomy under D, an almost modern "Deuteronomist." The dissected Penteteuch before me adopts still another system of dissection. He tells us that Genesis i. was written by "a late priestly" author, and Genesis ii. by "an early Judean prophetic" writer; while other parts were the works of "an early Ephramite," a "later Judean," "an early priestly," etc. These "higher" gentlemen disagree much among themselves.

Now, what is it all about? Of a piece with the theory of a late writer of Job and an unknown author of John, their theory of the Penteteuch is that Moses did not write it, did not even edit it—indeed, never heard of it, and that none of it was written until after the days of David, and much of it not until the time of the later prophets, and that unknown and irresponsible writers and editors got it up patchwork fashion.

If these gentlemen belonged to the school of Bob Ingersol, we should give them the Psalmist's classification and let them pass, but they are theological professors, with D.D., and Ph.D., and B. D. hung to their names, and they have written a great many portly volumes that preachers read, and that some little fellows call great.

But what of their argument? They undertake very little. They assume much. They tell us that Moses could not write; that there are evidences of various styles in the Penteteuch; that the names sometimes given in one place to the children of a man are different from those given in another; that the laws said to have been given by Moses were not observed by the Israelites, and therefore they were not given by Moses. Much more of the same shallow stuff is set forth as learned deductions.

We read in the Penteteuch that Moses did write, and that he wrote much of that which has so long been ascribed to him. "And Jehovah said unto Moses, Write this for a memorial in a book" (Ex. xvii. 14); "And Moses wrote all the words of Jehovah" (Ex. xxiv.4); "Moses wrote their (the Israelites) going out according to their journeys by the commandment of Jehovah" (Num. xxxiii. 2); "Moses wrote this law" (Deut. xxxi. 9); "And it came to pass when Moses had made an end of writing the words of this law (Deuteronomy) in a book, until they were finished, that Moses commanded the Levites, * * * saying, Take this book of the law and put it by the side of the ark of the covenant." verse 24." (It is easy to understand that the last chapter, twelve verses, which tells of Moses' death, was added, possibly by Joshua, his successor.) Throughout the Old Testament Moses is recognized as the author of the Penteteuch; and in the New Testament the Mosaic authorship is not only tacitly recognized, but emphatically stated, by Christ, by the writers of the Gospels, by Paul, and by Him who spake to John on Patmos. Why should any one suppose that Moses could not write! He was educated in Egypt as an adopted grandson of Pharaoh, and it is well known that the Egyptians of that day could write, and did, and men to-day are reading what they wrote.

We are told that the table of genealogy found in Genesis ix. and x. must be "composite," becaue, for instance, in Gen. x. 7, Havilah and Sheba are set down as the sons of Cush, a son of Ham; while in verses 28, 29, Havilah and Sheba are said to be sons of Joktan, a descendant of Shem. The truth is: according to the R. V., Ham's grandson, Seba, need not be in any way confounded with Shem's remoter descendant called Sheba. If we find that Ham had a grandson named Havilah and that Shem had a great-great-grandson named Havilah, why should we jump to the conclusion that there is some mistake about it? Is there any real evidence that the history is mixed on it? A number of such or similar instances are paraded, all of which can be as easily accounted for as this, and none of which affords the slightest basis for the theory of a "composite" record or mixed genealogy. Men who base a theory on such evidence must have a theory in sore need of evidence.

That Moses, who wrote the Creation and Deluge histories, with the connective annals, more than two thousand years after the days of Adam, should have consulted any documents in existence telling of these events, is a most reasonable supposition. That there were songs and stories of the Creation, of Eden and the Fall and of the Deluge, is more than probable. That Moses quoted from some of these, as Paul did from the Greek poets and the Hebrew prophets, I think may be proved. That this fact should suggest to some sensationalist with a wild imagination the starting of a polychromatic fad, which would ultimate in a patchwork Penteteuch, dated from one to two thousand years too late, is absurd and unfortunate. The writer, whose book is before me, goes on with this fantastic business carving up and patching up Joshua, Judges and Ruth, and gives us to understand that the whole Bible can be thus turned into a literary crazy-quilt. The whole business would be altogether laughable if this author were not a professor of Biblical literature in a great university, from which are going out herds of callow theologues to vex the righteous souls of common-sense Christians with the exploitation of their fad of a many-colored Bible.

Our imaginative author tells us that Deuteronomy was written by some unknown prophet about 620 years before Christ. He does not undertake to prove it, but adopts the ruse of assuming as already proved an unprovable proposition. He says: "It is now generally recognized." Is it indeed? I had not heard of it. Let us see. The book of Deuteronomy unequivocally claims Moses as its author. The claim was unquestioned by all the successors of Moses for a thousand years, and by all Bible students for two thousand more. There is not in it an allusion to any historical event of the past thirty-four hundred years, nor is there in it the slightest hint that its author was acquainted with any custom or mode of thought, any religious service or regulation that has not been known for that length of time. There is nothing about its style that would indicate any other author than Moses.

There are three questions facing us: First—Could any Jew of the time, a thousand years after Moses' time, have produced this book of law so utterly free from the color of his own late day? I am not credulous enough to believe it. Second—Would any later Jewish prophet have deliberately perpetrated a fraud like this, writing a book of laws which strongly condemns the very fraud he was committing? Why should he? I see no motive. Third—Does not the acceptance of a non-Mosaic authorship of Deuteronomy involve vastly more difficulties than the old theory? The whole trend of teaching in both Testaments relative to the law and this book of the law is to the effect that Moses under divine inspiration wrote it. Must we conclude that the whole teaching on the matter is absolutely false? that even Christ and his Apostles perpetuated the age-long fraud? I understand that it is argued that Jesus alluded to current notions that were fictions without taking the trouble to correct the errors; but when I read in Matt. xix. 8, that Jesus credited Moses with the authorship of Deut. xxiv, 1-5, and in Mark xii. 26, that he believed that Moses wrote Ex. iii. 6, and sundry other statements of like import in the various Gospels, I am very much inclined to believe that our Lord did not intend to endorse a fiction; and when John the Baptist tells me that "the law was given through Moses," I am inclined to believe it. When our Lord challenged the Jews of his time, Scribes and Pharisees, "Did not Moses give you the law, and yet none of you doeth the law," every man of them conceded the truth of this statement of the law's origin.

Possibly the weakest argument against the Mosaic authorship of the Penteteuch is that the Jews never observed the law until later times, hence there was no law until the later time. Our Lord in the passage above quoted (John vii. 19) charged that the law was not observed in his day; and yet no critic dares to say that the law did not then exist. We all know that in every state there are laws that some men do not observe, and in some sections hardly any of the laws are kept; and yet we well know that the legislature did pass these laws. Their non-observance does not argue their non-existence.

Dr. W. H. Green, the learned professor of Hebrew at Princeton, says: "The alleged inconsistencies and statements implying a later date than that of Moses are capable of a ready solution. There are only a very few isolated passages which it is necessary to assume have been added or modified at a subsequent time, e. g., Gen. xxxvi. 31-43."

The men of a "polychrome" Penteteuch, patched, crazy-quilt fashion, have undertaken an enormous task. I cannot understand either their logic or their motive. I would not impugn their motive, but my respect for their intellectual ability is almost non est; and their canons of interpretation and criticism would play havoc even with the Declaration of Independence if applied to it as they have applied them to the Penteteuch. Ignatius Donelly's fantastic cryptogram eliminating Shakespeare is a wise production compared to this polychromatic crazy-quilt Penteteuch.

Remarkable
for its fine quality, its delicious flavor, its double strength, and most remarkable for its moderate price.

Luzianne Coffee

is the best value you
can possibly get for your coffee money.

SOLD EVERYWHERE

The REILY-TAYLOR COMPANY,
New Orleans.

ESTABLISHED 1891
JOHN DAVID BURGHARDT CO.,
"THE RELIABLE" PLUMBERS and GAS FITTERS
Agency: Born's Patent Steel Ranges. Hygeia Water Filters.
613-615 Bienville St. Phone Main [illegible]
Jobbing and Repair Work a Specialty. New Orleans, La.

SEASHORE DISTRICT CONFERENCE PROCEEDINGS.

(In last week's ADVOCATE we published an account of the proceedings of the Seashore District Conference, which had been sent us by Dr. T. B. Holloman, but in some way some of the most important items were inadvertantly omitted. The article is below reprinted in full.)

At 9 o'clock Wednesday morning, May 20, Rev. M. L. Burton, presiding elder, called the Seashore District Conference to order, and Rev. W. B. Jones was elected secretary. However, before the session adjourned it developed that the body was fortunate in having a half-dozen or more who could take hold of the duties at the table and proceed without a break. Being a strict constructionist of St. Paul's teaching to those at Thessalonica that "if any would not work, neither should he eat," our beloved laid hands on a visiting brother, and even called his excellent talent as a recorder into use.

This was the most largely attended District Conference this writer remembers ever to have attended. First and last the enrollment reached nearly, or quite, eighty, and the spirit was in keeping with the numbers. Few, if any, were of the Quaker disposition. At times the discussions were lively and participated in by laymen and pastors alike. The greater part of three days were consumed, beginning at 8 in the morning and running till 6 in the afternoon, with an old-field-school recess of two hours at "dinner-time."

Despite the stringency of money matters, all were cheerful, and finances were reported in fair shape. No other than a cheerful note was heard, and no pessimist dared open his mouth. Among the most happy and hopeful were those who came from the storm-swept sections. The spirit of missions was manifest in papers, speeches and resolutions. Up to date nearly $1,500 has been collected for this cause within the district. Brother H. M. Ellis, missionary evangelist for the Conference, was with us and presented his cause well. Unless our colporter, Brother Bachman, meets with some unadvertised work on missions, he'd as well not burden his trunks with literature on this subject, for Ellis is a hustler and an adept at selling books.

The subject of education received extra attention in the three addresses by Brothers T. W. Lewis, Cooper and Selby. All of them did their parts well, and we wished that it could have been possible for all of our constituency to have heard their strong presentations of the claims of the Church upon her parents in the matter of educating their sons and daughters. Tom Lewis, Inman Cooper and Bob Selby make a first-class three-horse team.

Plans looking to the establishing of a Training School on the sea-coast were thoroughly discussed, and so far as our body was concerned, perfected by appointment of Brother W. L. Ellis, of Gulfport, as commissioner to co-operate with others interested in the project. It has become a settled conviction that Methodism must have a school for training purposes on the coast.

Mrs. Carraway, of Long Beach, gave an interesting account of the number of Home Mission Societies within the district and the splendid work they are doing. Mrs. Sallie Smylie Ferguson also reported the work of the women of the Foreign Board, and appealed for a greater co-operation of the pastors in the carrying forward of this department.

The Laymen's Movement was enthusiastically represented by Judge Wood, of Mosspoint, and action was taken by the laymen of the district in conformity with the proceedings at Chattanooga.

Four hundred and eighty were reported as having connected themselves with the churches in the district, half of whom were by conversion. Three were granted licenses to preach, making a roll of local preachers reaching up into the thirties within the district. The greater part of one session was given to hearing from these brethren, and renewing their papers. That Methodism is moving upward and substantially on the "Seashore" there is every sign.

As their names came, the following were selected to represent the laymen at the session of the Annual Conference: Jas. Hand, John A. McLeod, J. W. Griffin and R. B. Ballew.

Mosspoint was selected the place for next meeting.

Last, but not at all the least item of business, was the passage of resolutions expressive of our appreciation of the generous hospitality of the good people of McHenry, and of the seeming inspiration of Brother Carley in giving to each one the best home and most congenial surroundings.

It would be an oversight unpardonable should I close this without a word congratulatory of the ADVOCATE in having so cheerful and hopeful a representative in the person of Brother Whitehead. He knows how to tell his wants and point an anecdote. We were glad to have him and hear his speech for our paper. In conclusion, let me say that the Seashore is advancing on all lines. She has the largest territory in the State; is famous for the largest circuits; has a record for the biggest "beloved;" has a roll of more ex-presiding elders; of more good-looking, eloquent preachers, and can furnished more material for the biggest fish stories than any other.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

To the Members of the Mississippi Conference, and all Whom it may Concern:

Dear Brethren—After due consideration of matters not necessary to mention, it has been decided by the Executive Committee and other members of our Conference Board of Missions that there will not be held this year a Mid-Year Meeting of the Board. The meeting announced for June 19, at Centreville, Miss., is hereby called off. I am fraternally,

J. R. JONES,
Sec. of Miss. Conf. Board of Missions.
Hattiesburg, Miss.

PASTORS, LEAGUE PRESIDENTS, MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

Please report to me at once your success on Mississippi Conference Epworth League Day and remit the collection taken.

W. D. HAWKINS.

A CORRECTION.

Mr. Editor: The list of pastors of the First Church, Alexandria, as made out by Rev. H. R. Singleton is in error by the omission of the name of Rev. S. S. Keener, who was appointed supply Aug. 7, 1878, Rev. Christian Keener having the district. In 1879 the work was divided, Pineville being cut off and made a circuit, and Prof. J. L. P. Sheppard was appointed pastor and Rev. S. S. Keener was appointed to Alexandria Circuit, consisting of Bayou Lamorie, Howerton Hill and Alexandria. During that year, after six weeks of manual labor on the part of the pastor and presiding elder, the church was ceiled, papered and opened for service. Rev. J. D. Harper was appointed to Alexandria Circuit for the Conference year of 1880. If Rev. J. L. P. Sheppard was ever pastor of Alexandria it was at some time after Rev. J. D. Harper was pastor.

* * *

SEASHORE CAMP MEETING

From July 8th to 15th, 1908.

SPECIAL RATES.

No Admission Fee at the Gates of the Grounds During the Camp Meeting.

The management announces the Thirty-seventh Annual Camp Meeting, Seashore Camp Grounds, commencing Wednesday, July 8, and continuing until July 15. The cottages and grounds have been put in thorough order, and other improvements made, looking to the comfort and convenience of those who attend this meeting.

The religious services are under the direction of the Presiding Elders of New Orleans, Seashore and Mobile District Conferences of the M. E. Church, South, and these brethren will be assisted by the best preaching talent that can be obtained.

Preaching under the Tabernacle Grove, and Cottage Prayer Meetings, and other religious services, will be held during each day and evening, to which all persons on the grounds are not only cordially invited, but are expected to attend.

LOCATION.

The Seashore Camp Ground is located on the Mississippi Sound, seventy-nine miles from New Orleans and sixty-two miles from Mobile, on the Louisville and Nashville Railroad, and is one of the most beautiful places on the Gulf Coast. It enjoys a railroad service that is unexcelled for comfort and convenience. Magnificent new Artesian wells furnish cool and life-giving water. By a perfect system of water works the cottages and hotels are furnished with this water direct from the well.

The Grounds are Lighted by Electricity.

A pier twelve hundred and forty feet in length, with a Summer house on the end, extends out into the Gulf, and offers positively the most delightful advantages in the South for a promenade. The bathing is unexcelled by any other point on the gulf. All parties residing on the grounds have the privilege of the bath-houses. Good board can be secured at the restaurant, which is in charge of a competent chef, and in private houses at reasonable rates. The comfort and convenience of all visitors will be carefully looked after.

All Methodist preachers will be admitted into the Grounds and provided with board and lodging free of charge during Camp Meeting.

Persons wishing to secure accommodations before the rush of opening of Camp Meeting should address communications to R. G. Price, Keeper Seashore Camp Ground, Biloxi, Miss., or any of the undersigned officers.

Dr. E. L. McGehee, President, New Orleans, La.,
Sam Meyer, Financial Secretary, New Orleans, La.

SEASHORE ASSEMBLY FOR CHRISTIAN WORKERS.

The ninth session of the Seashore Assembly for Christian Workers (formerly the Seashore Epworth League Assembly) will open Thursday evening, July 25, at the famous Seashore Camp Ground, Biloxi, Miss., and will conclude Sunday evening, August 2. The Assembly offers to Epworth Leaguers, Sunday School workers, and all others who desire to equip themselves for Christian work, courses in systematic Bible Study, Home and Foreign Missions, Epworth League Methods, and Personal Work. Devotional meetings will be held every morning in the Tabernacle and every evening on the Beach. The forenoons will be given to study, the afternoons reserved for recreation, and the evenings for inspirational lectures.

Lodging will be provided in the Epworth Lodge, owned and managed by the Assembly, for as many advance applicants as the Lodge will accommodate at $2.50 for the ten days of the session. Board can be had at restaurant or private table at 75 cents to $1 a day.

For further particulars address F. S. Parker, President, 810 Broadway, Nashville, Tenn., or C. D. Atkinson, Secretary, 734 Nashville Avenue, New Orleans, La.

Temperance.

DOES PROHIBITION HURT BUSINESS?

Every whisky man in wet territory who may read these lines will instantly answer the above question in the affirmative, but every business man in dry territory, who will speak the honest convictions of his heart, will readily give a negative answer.

A revival meeting was recently held in this town by Revs. W. G. Harbin and C. N. Guice. In the afternoon, on the last Sunday of the meeting, a temperance rally was held. One feature of the programme for that service was the reading of written testimonies from the business men of Fayette as to the beneficial effects of prohibition on business. They unanimously testified that since prohibition went into effect about one year ago business has been better and more satisfactory in every way. In giving their testimony they were not biased by religious convictions, for at least one-third, if not half, of our merchants make no profession of religion and are not connected with any Church at all. For the benefit of those in wet towns, counties and parishes who fear the results of prohibition from a business point of view, I give below the testimonials as written by the merchants of Fayette. I am sure these gentlemen would be glad to answer any questions from other business-men who have not been converted from the false doctrine of the saloon tribe that "prohibition hurts business."

McDonald Grocery Company: "Since the County went dry business has been good—some better than before. The trade has been more pleasant and customers more easily waited on."

L. W. Carradine, druggist: "I take pleasure in being able to testify that there has been a manifest improvement in my receipts since the passing of saloons from Jefferson County. I can further state that there has been comparative freedom from annoyance of men under the influence of liquor, formerly so disagreeable as well as injurious to business."

McClure & Harper, general merchandise: "Dear Sir—In reply to your inquiry, wishing to know what effect, if any, the passing out of whisky from our County has had on our business, we beg to say that we find our business in a very satisfactory condition, notwithstanding the fact that for the past four months our country has been in the throes of a money panic. Our cash sales are most satisfactory. We believe that at the end of the year our business will show a handsome gain over last year. In our opinion, a great deal of money that was formerly spent for whisky is now being spent in the stores of our town for wearing apparel and betterments for the home. We are well pleased with the present condition of affairs from a merchant's viewpoint."

Griffin & Strahan, general merchandise: "Judging from past experience, we do not hesitate to say that any town is better off without saloons, both from a business and moral point of view."

J. J. Ledden, general merchant and cotton buyer: "I am at present taking stock and cannot say how much my business has prospered during the year, but I know there has been improvement since the County went dry. My employees, as well as myself, have said repeatedly that it is much more pleasant to do business under the present conditions than in the past."

R. R. Liddell, general merchandise: "This is to certify that I have enjoyed a better business since the County went dry than before. I cannot give the exact percentage of increase, but it has been good."

B. Straas, general merchandise: "As requested I hereby certify that my business has not fallen off any since liquor has been taken out of town, but as it has not been so long I cannot tell what the results will be."

J. E. Briggs, jeweler: "I cannot give a comparative statement in dollars and cents, but my business is better than it was when we had saloons in our town. Considering the question from a purely business standpoint, I much prefer the dry town, and from a moral and law-abiding standpoint, of course, there is no comparison. The improvement is too great not to be observed by every citizen of the land."

The Fayette Hardware Company: "As to business since prohibition has gone into effect in the County, we are glad to testify that business has been better and much more satisfactory to us."

J. H. McBride, merchant and cotton buyer: "This is to certify that after looking over my sales, I find an increase of about twenty-five per cent since prohibition went into effect as compared with the same period in former years."

S. Hirsch, general merchant and cotton buyer: "Having been requested to state my opinion as to what effect prohibition has had on business in our town, I will unhesitatingly say that business is decidedly better and more satisfactory every way."

J. J. Gordon, general merchandise: "I do not hesitate to say that my business has been better since prohibition went into effect than before. My cash sales have been larger and my customers more orderly. I hope we will never have saloons here again."

C. W. Whitney, Jr., druggist: "In compliance with the request for a comparative statement of business conditions with me before and since the sale of liquor was prohibited in town and County, I beg to say that my business is on the increase and trade generally more satisfactory."

F. Krauss & Sons, department store: "In accordance with a request as to our opinion in regard to the condition of our town since the sale of intoxicating liquors has been discontinued, we wish to state that we notice an improvement morally, and have experienced an increase in our mercantile business thereby."

The above testimonials are convincing. No reasonable man will listen to the futile and senseless argument that the sale of whisky promotes financial prosperity.

D. SCARBOROUGH.

Fayette, Miss., June 1, '08.

LOCAL OPTION, PROHIBITION AND LICENSE TERRITORY BY STATES.

The local option and prohibition laws which in recent years have been placed on the statute-books of the various States have left very little territory where the liquor traffic is regulated by license alone. The only States, in fact, which are exclusively committee to license regulation are Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New Mexico, Utah, Nevada, Wyoming, Idaho and Washington.

The State of Arizona has what is called a local option law, which, however, requqires a two-thirds vote in any County to abolish the saloon.

Local option, with the County as the largest unit, prevails in Virginia, South Carolina, Florida, Louisiana, Arkansas, Texas, Kentucky, Ohio, West Virginia, Michigan, Missouri, Montana, Oregon, California and Delaware.

In most of these States municipal and township local option also prevails, but in a few instances the County unit stands alone. The State of Montana, for instance, may vote on local option in the County as a unit, but no municipality, precinct or township can vote as a unit.

In Maryland the legislature has given the local option privilege to several separate Counties and ten entire Counties have excluded the saloon by a majority vote of the people. The State of Maryland, however, has no uniform local option law.

Either township or municipal local option, and in most cases, both, exist in the following States: New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New York, North Carolina, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Illinois and Colorado.

Indiana (by remonstrance), South Dakota, Nebraska and Tennessee, with only four municipalities in the State where saloons are permitted, is provided with practical local option by the law which prohibits a license clause in any new city charter and which gives the right to present wet cities of adopting new charters by majority vote.

North Carolina has prohibition in the rural districts, with dispensaries in the larger cities and with a local option provision for all municipalities, regardless of whether those municipalities operate saloons or dispensaries.

In Iowa the conditions are peculiar in that the State is under prohibition, with the provision that saloons may be installed in any community upon the 65-per-cent vote of that community.

The remaining States, Maine, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Oklahoma, Kansas and North Dakota, are all under State-wide prohibition. In the case of Mississippi, Alabama and Georgia, the provision is statutory, while in Maine, Oklahoma, Kansas and North Dakota the provision is in the form of an amendment to the State constitution.—Anti-Saloon League Bureau.

AN EXPOSITION WITHOUT LIQUORS.

The Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition, which is to be held in the city of Seattle, Wash., next year, will be unique in more ways than one. No intoxicating liquors of any kind will be sold on the grounds, and no such liquors can be offered for sale or disposed of within two miles of the place where the exposition is to be held.

The large, unoccupied campus of the State University of Washington is the site chosen for the exposition grounds, and, under the State law, no liquors can be sold within a radius of two miles of the university. At the time this site was being considered by the exposition board of managers, the liquor forces of the State of Washington urged that some other site be chosen, but the members of the board were practically unanimous in agreeing that the prohibition of the sale of liquors on the grounds or near the exposition would be a splendid advertisement feature, and this site was accordingly chosen.

It is possible that the liquor forces may endeavor to secure a repeal of the two-mile limit law at the coming session of the legislature in Washington, but it is practically certain that such an effort will be unsuccessful, since the business interests back of the exposition would actively oppose any such attempt.—Anti-Saloon League Press.

GET SOLID PROTECTION AND INSURE WITH
LEON IRWIN & CO.
Fire and Casualty Insurance.
736 UNION STREET. PHONE, MAIN 585.

W. W. Carre Co., Ltd,
Manufacturer and Exporter of
LUMBER,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Phone Main
ROOMS and BOARD
[illegible] and [illegible] SOUTH STREET, LAFAYETTE SQUARE
CORNER ST. CHARLES ST., NEW ORLEANS.
UNLIMITED MEALS. ALVIN PORTER, [illegible]

The Home Circle.

THE POWER OF THE BIBLE.

The following story, plainly showing the universal appeal made by the story of Christ when read without the aid of a commentator or notes, is told by an agent of the British and Foreign Bible Society in The Bible and the World:

"In 1903 one of our colporteurs sold a Bible to a Moslem merchant in the town of X—. Later, he found the Moslem greatly annoyed to discover that his purchase was the sacred book of the infidel Christians. After an interval of three years the colporteur, touring in another port, was accosted by the Moslem merchant of X—. After greeting him with the utmost cordiality, the merchant produced a book from the folds of his long robe and said: 'This is the Bible which I purchased from you in X— three years ago. I read it carefully for weeks, my wife being very angry for my so doing. Eventually she agreed to join me in reading, and we read in St. Luke and elsewhere of the birth of Christ, then of his life, his death and resurrection. Turning to the Koran, we carefully compared all this with the birth, life and death of Mohammed. We were slowly drawn to Jesus Christ and to believe in the story as given in this book. We saw that Jesus was holy, Mohammed was a sinner; that while Jesus was from God, Mohammed was not; that while Jesus had the power of God with him, Mohammed had not. We said, This is of a truth the one Savior, and we asked ourselves, Which shall it be, Mohammed or Jesus? And we chose Jesus' "

A PERPLEXING PROBLEM.

The schoolroom was very quiet and as it contained thirty or forty boys and girls the fact proved beyond a shadow of a doubt that something unusual was taking place. That something was the June examination.

In the corner of the room farthest from the teacher's desk sat Maidie Vinton. She was engaged in biting at the end of her pencil and frowning. This was rather unusual for Maidie. She was generally good-natured and smiling; but now she was frowning at the second example, for it would not come out right.

"I can't see where it is wrong," she told herself, "but I know that nine thousand five hundred bricks couldn't cost as much as ten thousand do," and Maidie emphasized her words with a vicious nip at her pencil.

The little girl glanced disconsolately around the room. She wondered if any one else were having the same trouble she had. She felt that it would be a comfort to her if they were. Then she would not feel that she was more stupid than her classmates.

She looked around, but each head was bent industriously over the examination questions—each head but one, the head of Bob Warren, and never was boy more appropriately named. He bobbed from morning to night.

He had seen the unusual frown on Maidie's face and as soon as he could catch her eye he asked her what was the matter.

He did not ask the question aloud; he did not even move his lips; but where is the school-boy who cannot turn his face into an interrogation point?

Maidie answered him by holding up two fingers and frowning more than ever. Then she remembered that the examination rules said there was to be no communication with each other in any way, and she brought her eyes back again to the troublesome example.

Presently something struck her on the arm and then fell to the floor. It was a piece of paper rolled into a little ball, and on looking up Maidie saw by Bob's face that it had come from him.

Maidie shook her head warningly. Such conduct during examination meant serious trouble if detected, and Bob was so good-natured and obliging Maidie did not want him to get into any scrapes.

She glanced towards the teacher's desk and so did Bob, but the teacher was looking in another direction and had not noticed what occurred.

Bob held up two fingers and nodded toward the paper ball. Maidie knew at once what it meant. The example was worked out on that piece of paper. She had only to pick it up and read it. She leaned over to get it and then suddenly drew back.

"That would be cheating," was the thought that came to her. Bob was watching her eagerly, looking first at Maidie and then down at the bit of paper.

With a decided shake of the head Maidie bent once more over her work, and Bob turned away with a look of disgust. It was no use trying to help some people, he thought.

For some minutes more Maidie worked at that example, but with the same result. It would not come out right.

"Oh, dear!" she thought, "wonder where it is wrong. Of course, there is a mistake somewhere, but I can't find it. What good are examinations any way? I've a good notion to leave it and not try it again; but then, suppose I don't get promoted. I wouldn't like that. Oh, dear!"

Her eyes fell upon the paper that was still lying at her feet. It looked very tempting. All would be easy then, and she had tried so hard.

"The others do it," thought Maidie. "They say it's no harm, and it's no worse for me than it is for them. Bob expected me to do it," and she glanced over at the boy, but now he was not looking towards her. "I know he thinks me a goose, but—" with a little sigh, "I'll be an honest one any way."

Just then the sound of some one singing came through the open window. It was a familiar tune, one Maidie often sang in Sunday school, and as she listened she thought of the words:

"Have we trials and temptations,
Is there trouble anywhere?
We should never be discouraged,
Take it to the Lord in prayer."

"I wonder if it would do any good to pray over this example," thought Maidie. "I don't see why it shouldn't. It's a trouble to me."

She leaned her head against her hand and from her heart went up this little prayer, "Lord help me to get this example right. I have tried and I cannot."

Once more she set herself to work, going carefully over each part, and this time she was successful.

"I have been saying nine nines are eighty-seven," she thought. "No wonder it wouldn't come out right. But why didn't I think to pray about it before?"—Daisy Howard, in Christian Index.

WHAT SHE COULD.

The relationship of all those united in Christ carries with it all the obligations of brotherhood. This is the significance of Christ's chosen title, the "Son of man." A very pertinent illustration is found in Mrs. Howard Taylor's book, Pastor Hsi. Mrs. Taylor writes:

"Among the Christians up there at the time of Hsi's visit was one old lady with whom he would feel thoroughly at home. As in the case of his own wife and mother, her baptism had been long delayed, and from a cause that must have especially appealed to him. Converted a year or two before, her love and faith and the consistency of her Christian life were undoubted. And yet she never asked to be received into the Church, and seemed distressed when the subject of baptism was mentioned. This puzzled the missionary ladies, who could not think of any reason why Mrs. Han should hold back.

"At length in a quiet talk one day the old lady unburdened her heart.

" 'Alas,' she said wistfully, 'if only I could be a true follower of Jesus, and be baptized!'

" 'And why not?' questioned the missionary, much interested. 'Is there anything to hold you back?'

" 'Me?' Why, of course there is,' exclaimed the visitor, sadly. 'How could I be his true disciple? I could never accomplish the work.'

" 'But what work?' asked her friend, kindly. 'Did not Jesus do it all?'

" 'Oh, yes! and I do love him, and am trusting him alone for salvation. But I know that the Lord Jesus said that his disciples were to go into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature. Alas, I am not able to do that.'

" 'I do love to tell of him,' she went on, as her missionary friend seemed for the moment unable to reply. 'I have told my son and his wife, and all our neighbors, and in the summer time I can go to several villages near at hand. Oh, I am not afraid to tell of Jesus! It is not that. But I am old and very feeble. I cannot read. My eyes are growing dim. And I can only walk a little way. You see it is impossible for me to go to foreign countries and preach the gospel. If you had come earlier, when I was young—but now it is too late. I cannot be his disciple.'

"With a full heart, the missionary explained the meaning of the Savior's words, and spoke of his perfect sympathy and keen appreciation of every act prompted by love to him. He knew about the widow's offering; and said of another who was not able to serve him much, 'She hath done what she could.'

" 'What she could!' Was that what it meant? Oh, then, it might be after all! And the dear old lady could hardly wait till the following Sunday to be baptized. Full of joy in her new privilege, she was one of the brightest members of the little church, and her earnestness in doing what she could was a frequent incentive to others. She had rightly understood the meaning of Christianity and the gospel."—Exchange.

Dr. Tichenor's Antiseptic

Is the best "accident insurance" in the world.
It relieves Cuts, Bruises, Sprains, Tired and Blistered Feet, immediately upon application. You will be delighted with one test!
At all Druggists.
25 and 50 Cents

Christian Advocate.

REV. JNO. W. BOSWELL, D.D., Editor.
REV. H. WHITEHEAD, Ass't Editor.
CHAS. O. CHALMERS, Publisher.

ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT NEW ORLEANS AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

OFFICE, 512 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

TERMS:
One Copy, one year, $2; six months, $1. To Preachers of all Denominations, half-price.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEES:
LOUISIANA CONFERENCE—Rev. W. W. Drake, Rev. N. E. Joyner, Rev. J. M. Henry.
MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE—Rev. M. L. Burton, Rev. W. H. Lewis, Rev. C. W. Crisler.
NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE—Rev. W. T. J. Sullivan, D.D.; Rev. J. T. Murrah, Rev. W. W. Woollard.

IN NORTH MISSISSIPPI.

After the close of the Winona District Conference we gratified a long-cherished desire to see the "lay of the land" around Montpelier—a village away out in the interior. We had heard much of the good people of that pleasant charge now looked after by Rev. B. B. Sullivan, whom we found to be in great favor with his people. We enjoyed the comforts of his home, as we did also those of the home of Brother and Sister Cross. Besides these, we made other acquaintances, and we trust friends, especially the aged parents of Brother Cross. The services of the Sabbath were very pleasant, and we hope profitable. We went across the country from Woodland on the Kansas City, Jackson and Mobile railroad, to Montpelier, a distance of eight miles east. Montpelier is a delightful place and in a desirable land, but to get there from Woodland—a new and growing town—is like going from Jerusalem to Jericho. There are no thieves on the way, but the road is rough. At Woodland, we enjoyed the hospitality of Brother W. B. Lewis, a near kinsman of our T. W. and E. S. Lewis, and father of Rev. E. D. Lewis, of the Gunnison Charge. It is worth going a long ways to meet two such souls as Brother and Sister Lewis. They are devout Methodists and have reared a fine family. We had the pleasure, on Monday morning, of baptizing Wiley Davidson Lewis, a grandson, a bright and pretty baby-boy. The trip reminded us of the long-time ago when we traveled large, country circuits. We enjoyed it much. And our fellowship with Brother Sullivan was delightful. We thank him for his many courtesies.

RESTATEMENT OF FAITH.

Many of our brethren have been anxious to know what the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church would do with the overture from our Church in regard to the Restatement of Faith. The overture was respectfully received and referred to a committee of fifteen, headed by Dr. W. V. Kelley, editor of the Quarterly Review. The committee was in no hurry to report. The delay evidently occasioned some concern down South among the friends of Restatement. Dr. Winton who was on the ground for a while—looking at the great size of the body and the slowness with which it moved, and noting the absence of full and thorough discussion in the ADVOCATE of June 5, expressed the fear that some great matters would be settled hastily, and likely be settled wrong, as for example, "the matters involved in the retention or elimination of Paragraph 248 on worldly amusements." He says: "Yet the present indication is that it will be disposed of in just that way. Our overture for a Statement of Methodist Faith is in a way to be dealt with in a like inconsiderate manner." Thus Dr. Winton prepared his friends for an easy fall.

The Conference acted on the question at the afternoon session of May 29. The Northwestern Christian Advocate, from which we copy, gives the action of the Conference in full:

"The question of a Restatement of Methodist Faith, which has been agitating our own Church and the Church, South, received a positive settlement, at least for the present. The special committee, to whom the matter had been referred, was unanimous, and the Conference in accepting their report was equally unanimous. The report is worth preserving in full:

"Your committee have pondered with care the gravity of this important proposal and of its possible consequences. We remember with gladness, in this year 1908 especially, our common origin, our common traditions, and our common faith. We desire also to reciprocate most cordially every manifestation of fraternity.

"We are nevertheless compelled, in the presence of this overture to recall the earnest wish of our fathers that our articles of religion and our standards of doctrine should remain unchanged, and, having weighed the arguments in favor of it, we are not convinced of the necessity or the expediency of the proposed new statement of our doctrines.

"Accordingly, we unanimously recommend that this General Conference respectfully decline to take the action requested, at the same time renewing the expression of our fraternal love for the Methodist Episcopal Church, South."

The report was short and adopted without discussion, but it was not dealt with in an "inconsiderate manner." Our Northern brethren had two years to think on the subject, and the leaders, knowing they would be called to act, studied it thoroughly. Our own General Conference was taken by surprise—the question having been sprung upon the body without a moment's notice, and had less than ten days to think it over, and acted hastily.

"SUGGESTIONS FROM A LAYMAN."

The following "suggestions" from a "loyal layman of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, printed in the Christian Advocate (Nashville) of June 5, are curiosities in the way of of proposed legislation. They are for the consideration of our next General Conference, and are presented in time that they may be read, studied and inwardly digested. Let all who expect to vote in the next session of the body take heed:

1. That after this General Conference the Annual Conferences that are held next after its adjournment and the Annual Conferences held every fourth year thereafter shall be composed of an equal number of clerical and lay members, exclusive of the Bishop who presides.

2. That on or before the second day of each such Annual Conference the Conference shall by ballot elect a presiding elder for each district that composes the Conference, and in said election each clerical and lay member shall have one vote.

3. That each presiding elder so elected shall be elected for a specific district of the Conference and for a term of four years next after such election, unless sooner removed by death, resignation, or good cause shown.

4. That after the election of presiding elders by the Conference the Bishop shall nominate and appoint the ministers to all the various charges; and these appointments and nominations, before being valid and made final, shall be submitted to the whole body of presiding elders for their confirmation or rejection; and that each minister and pastor, before he shall be confirmed to the place to which he is nominated and appointed by the Bishop, shall receive the vote of two-thirds of the presiding elders, and if all do not so receive the votes of two-thirds of the presiding elders, then the Bishop shall reappoint and renominate such as are so rejected, changing places with them until they shall be confirmed by the Board of Presiding Elders or entirely rejected by them.

5. That each minister or pastor when so appointed by the Bishop and so confirmed by the Board of Presiding Elders, shall have his charge for the full term of four years unless he shall be changed by death, resignation, or removed for good cause shown.

6. That the next three Annual Conferences next after the ones held every four years as aforesaid shall be composed only of the Bishop and the Board of Presiding Elders, and such chairmen of committees as the Bishop and the said Board of Presiding Elders may deem necessary; and these three Annual Conferences shall meet only to dispose of and take care of such business and reports as may of necessity need the action of the Conference.

7. The Bishop and Board of Presiding Elders shall have power to nominate and confirm by meeting or by letter any new appointments that may have to be made between the Conferences which may be caused by death, removal, or good cause shown.

8. That the Annual Conferences composed only of the Bishop and Board of Presiding Elders, and chairmen of the important committees shall have the power to take care of and pass upon all applications for admission and for passing from one grade to another; and shall have power to try all charges brought before them by appeal against any church member, preacher-in-charge, or presiding elder.

The good brother who offers these suggestions does so solely because he thinks the Bishops have "too much power." He is good enough to say that "they have refrained in the past from improperly using it in most instances," yet the power is there, and he wants "the possibility of the use of such power removed." But this is not the funny part. He calls for the Annual Conferences after the next General Conference, to be held every fourth year, and to be composed of an equal number of clerical and lay members. Just how the relative numbers are to be determined and the laymen provided for, he does not inform us. A little matter like that could be easily adjusted.

Then the Annual Conference that meets every fourth year shall elect a presiding elder for a specific district, and for a term of four years, and no appointment or nominations by the Bishop shall be valid or final until confirmed by a two-thirds vote of the Board of Presiding Elders. This arrangement would take the appointment of the presiding elders out of the hands of the Bishop and put it in the hands of the preachers, who in turn, would be in the hands of the presiding elders. Surely the brother does not know anything about our constitutional restrictions.

The Bishop and, presiding elders who will hold the three meetings between the Annual Confereence that meets every fourth year, with all the work of our Conference Boards, committees, gathering and compiling information for the Church, etc., would have their hands full. Indeed, they would be as busy as ten men working at a 500 horse-power saw-mill.

It is well enough that the brother says: "I offer the suggestions to be acted upon or not by the next General Conference of the Church as it may see fit."

A mountain in labor brought forth a mouse!

DEATH OF MRS. BISHOP WILSON.

The whole Church will sympathize with our Senior Bishop, A. W. Wilson, in the loss of his wife, who after a long illness passed away on Thursday, June 4. Mrs. Wilson for many years past was an active and efficient worker in the missionary cause. She was particularly efficient in the use of the pen, and often instructed and stirred her many co-workers in the cause.

PERSONALS.

The ADVOCATE would like present address of R. L. Ross.

Miss Dora Atkinson, sister of Rev. C. D. Atkinson, who has been living with him for several years past, will leave about the 22nd of this month for a protracted stay in Colorado. She goes on the advice of her physician for the benefit of her health.

Brother D. R. Rogers, writing from Sumner, Miss., says: "I always greet my paper with a deep pleasure. How can any loyal Methodist who loves his church above all other organizations, be otherwise toward his church paper?"

On acount of the poor health of his wife, Rev. J. H. Williams has had to leave his work in the mission field, at Durango, Mex. For a few weeks his address will be Slidell, La. If any of the brethren need help in revivals Brother Williams will be glad to serve them.

The work on the Greenville District is progressing favorably. The presiding elder, Rev. R. A. Meek, says: "I never saw pastors work more faithfully than those of this territory." We hope he will find time to give us some notes on the work and workers.

The Rev. I. W. Hickham, member of North Mississippi Conference, died May 31, 1908, and was buried June 1. He was occupying the superannuate home furnished by the Durant District. Revs. J. W. Raper, J. D. Simpson and Jno. W. Bell took part in the funeral service.

A note from Rev. H. R. Singleton, furnishes the following information: "Dr. Clarence B. Strouse, who was to assist in a meeting at Alexandria, in June, will come in the early fall, instead. While the new church will be opened June 14, it will not be fully ready for a meeting."

Rev. G. D. Parker, who has been at home on vacation for six months past, left last week for his mission field in Brazil. Brother Parker has hosts of friends in New Orleans, where he was reared, who bid him God-speed, and pray for his success. May he and his wife have journeying mercies!

All the nations of the world have been invited by the United States Government to send representatives to the World's Temperance Congress to be held at Saratoga Springs, June 14-23 next. Governors of all the States of the Union have been asked to appoint delegates, and already a large number of them have responded.

The several invitations to "our" birthday party at Rayne Memorial came to hand after the day had passed—too late to do any good. The silk sacks attached were too small to hold a penny for each birthday. We dare say, the good sisters of the Home Mission Society and the young folks had a nice time.

In a notice of the Montrose High School, a week or two since, we reported a graduating class of seventeen. This, we are informed, was a mistake. There were only eight. We made the mistake by counting the nine who were "promoted by certificate from the High School to the Collegiate Department."

An invitation to attend the Trinity College commencement exercises, and the unveiling of the Washington Duke Memorial Statue, Durham, North Carolina, June 7-10 is hereby gratefully acknowledged. The commencement sermon, preached by Dr. H. S. Bradley, of St. Louis, was on Tuesday, instead of Sunday.

In a note to this office Rev. R. H. Wynn says: "Rev. J. M. Davies, of Minden, brother of Rev. S. J. Davies, and formerly a member of the Louisiana Conference, passed away on Tuesday, May 26. Mr. C. E. McDonald, a leading attorney of the Minden bar, and also at one time a member of the Louisiana Conference, passed away on Saturday, May 30."

Owing to absence from the office, we failed at the proper time to note the programme of exercises at Whitworth. Besides the graduating exercises, there was the sermon on Sunday by Dr. F. N. Parker, an address before the Alumnae Association by Rev. T. W. Lewis, on Monday and the Baccalaureate address by Dr. E. B. Craighead, of Tulane University, on Tuesday.

Dr. W. F. McMurry, secretary of the Board of Church Extension, will be in Louisiana for a few days. Sunday he will be with Rev. H. R. Singleton at Alexandria, and preach the opening sermon in the new church. On Monday evening the 15th, he will be with Rev. C. D. Atkinson at Parker Memorial. We hope he will have a large hearing in behalf of this church which is striving hard to complete their new building.

Rev. J. W. Ramsey, is at this writing in a great meeting with Rev. L. E. Alford, South Side, Meridian. The services on Sunday last, were remarkable. Strong men gave their hearts and lives to God. Congregations are immense. The revival is sweeping over this section of the city and its influence is being felt in other portions of the city. Quite a number have already been converted and have come into the church. Brother Ramsey will soon join Rev. W. E. Dickens in a meeting at Chunky Station.

Brother W. D. Brock, of Brock, Miss., mourns the loss of his faithful wife, who died on the 5th of May, after an illness of about two years. She was about sixty-two years of age, and had been nearly half a century a faithful member of our Church. The funeral was conducted at the church by the pastor, Rev. W. L. Storment, and the body laid to rest at old Wheeling Cemetery. She is survived by her husband and four daughters and five sons, who, with numerous relatives mourn her departure. She rests in peace, and the bereaved ones "weep, but not as those who have no hope."

Dr. W. L. Weber, president of Centenary College, honored our office on Monday last with a visit. He is working in the interest of the college, and reports the prospect good for the opening in September. He was with the Second Church, this city, on Sunday last. The pastor, Rev. A. I. Townsley, says, "his address was full of delicate humor, uncommon common sense, and sound logic." By the way, the president has been engaged in evangelistic work. At Campti, he had his first experience in conducting a protracted meeting. The burden was laid upon him, and he preached eleven times in six days, and "heartily enjoyed it."

We had a pleasant call, this week, from Mr. R. E. Toal, member of Felicity Church, this city, who furnished us the following: "On Monday evening, May 14, 1908, the Felicity Laymen's Club held a very interesting meeting, at which all the committees recommended by the Chattanooga Meeting were appointed and are now ready for work, and the brethren feel sure much good will be done. They meet in the lecture-room of Felicity Street Church the second and fourth Mondays of each month, and would be glad to have members of other Laymen's organizations to visit their meetings, as well as other friends. Brother W. S. Felson is president."

Prof. E. H. Randle, of Hernando, Miss., sends us the following appreciation of a sermon by Rev. N. G. Augustus, preached at the recent session of the Sardis District Conference: "For emotional effect in lifting men out of their seats and standing them on their feet, I have heard it surpassed, especially by the sainted Dr. J. B. McFerrin, and by Dr. S. A. Steel, but for grandeur of theological conception and profundity of philosophical thought, I have never heard it surpassed, nor read its better. It was full of originality expressed in the clearest and most concise language, often beautiful and touching. I was by no means alone in my judgment of this sermon, and I think it is due that such merit should be noticed."

The faculty and senior class of Mansfield College cordially invited us to the commencement—May 22-27. A friend has furnished us this short note concerning the occasion: "The commencement exercises of Mansfield Female College were a great success, large audiences attended throughout the entire occasion and every day's exercises were gratifying. The student-body is of unusually fine character and made an excellent impression. Dr. Wray, of First Church, New Orleans, gladdened his hearers with an eloquent discourse on commencement Sunday, and Brother Shankle electrified them with a missionary sermon in the evening. Dr. Barrett, of Arkansas, delivered the annual address. Nine young ladies received literary diplomas; four, diplomas in oratory; three, diplomas in music; four, certificates in music. The occasion was pronounced one of the best in the history of the college."

SEASHORE CAMP MEETING.

The Camp Meeting time draws near. It is always a meeting of interest to those who have cottages on the ground, and also to the hundreds who attend for the double purpose of worship and rest. A tired preacher can find no better resting place. The devout worshiper can have the very best opportunities for spiritual improvement, and those who have gifts and grace for personal work may fully enjoy their time and talents. We have often wondered why every Methodist in reach, who is at all able to get away from home, does not embrace the opportunity to attend Seashore Camp Meeting. The meeting will begin this year on the eighth day of July and will continue more than a week. We trust hundreds of brethren and sisters will attend and give the leaders their prayers and hearty co-operation.

DR. RICE AT MANSFIELD.

Dear Dr. Boswell: You must pardon me for waiting so long to write you about Dr. John A. Rice's lectures. The pressure of commencement work, together with a somewhat run-down nervous condition, has caused me to neglect this pleasant duty. The Doctor spent nearly the entire week with us, much to our delight and enlightenment. His personality refreshed us and by contact with him in the college home we were greatly benefited. His studies in the book of Job, in Proverbs, Ecclesiastes and the Psalms contributed much to our souls—a real feast. He received from our unusually fine student-body a splendid response and we all feel profoundly grateful to him for his valuable services. We would like to have him again next year.

Yours, very sincerely,

OLIN S. DEAN.

ACKNOWLEDGMENT.

I have received a $50 check from a good lady of New Orleans, and a $2 check from Athens, both in response to a call for help for the rebuilding of our church at Amite. May others follow the good start.

W. G. WADLEY,
Treas. Board of Church Extension.

KEEP COOL For Refrigerators and Gas Stoves go to United Hardward Co., Ltd.,
1005-1007 Canal Street, New Orleans.

RECIPE FOR
DIXIE ICE CREAM

Can be made and frozen in 10 minutes at cost of

One Cent a Plate.

Stir contents of one 10c. package

Jell-O ICE CREAM Powder

into a quart of milk and freeze.

No cooking, no heating, nothing else to add. Everything but the ice and milk in the package.

Satisfaction guaranteed.

This makes 2 quarts of the most delicious ice cream you ever ate.

Five Kinds: Chocolate, Vanilla, Strawberry, Lemon and Unflavored.

2 packages 25c. at your grocers, or by mail if he does not keep it.

Illustrated Recipe Book Free.

The Genesee Pure Food Co., Le Roy, N. Y.

Epworth League

PRAYER-MEETING TOPIC.

June 14. The Father's Final Provision for His Children. John xiv: 1-17; Ps. xcvii. (Trinity Sunday.)

The world may give to you riches or poverty, honor and fame or oblivion; it may set before you smooth paths or rugged; you may be surrounded by friends or enemies; but whatever it gives you will not be for long. In childhood a week seems like an endless time; in old age life seems like a troubled dream. The absolute certainly that hangs over every life is that there is a definite limit, and that all men must travel the common road. While every healthy man should want to live as long as possible, yet to each of us comes the uestion concerning the unseen life that is yet to come.

1. The many mansions.

There is an abundance of room for the redeemed. There are many mansions in the Father's house. There are not enough mansions to go around here. Many of God's children are living in hovels and suffering for the things they should have, but there will be no lack over there. We do not know what the home will be like, the Bible does not tell us. It simply lets a light flash for a moment on some of the glories of the life to come, and then we are left to dream.

2. A prepared place.

We do know that the home for the child of God will be specially prepared for him. The Master has gone before for this purpose, and he knows our needs and our desires and he will make ready for us. The home will fit us and will be such as the redeemed man will enjoy.

3. The home for us will be the expression of untrammeled love.

Our Father in heaven loves us. The Christ gave himself for us. And now the unmeasured love that dwells in Father and Son are making ready our home. Here we are like children, easily spoiled. If the Father gave us half the things which we desire our lives would be wrecked. But over there we shall be free from the tempations and weakness of this life and divine wisdom will be free to plan and divine power to execute the things which will make us happy.

4. A perfect fellowship awaits the redeemed.

After all it is more than outward glories. The stories of heaven are told in types and shadows. We are certain that it is a good place, and that all sorrow and pain shall be banished from there. Of the details we may as yet know nothing, but this one thing we do know, we shall dwell with our Lord there. He has said that we shall abide in his presence. We shall be with those who delight in their Lord. There will be a very precious fellowship. Our hearts and our lips shall join in the songs of praise.

"Eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither have entered into the heart of man the things which God hath prepared for them which love him."

GET IT AND READ IT!

Rev. Fitzgerald Sale Parker, D.D., assistant Epworth League secretary, and assistant editor of the Era, has written a booklet for the Epworth League Institute on "Personal Work." It is just out, and I have read it. I have read many books on this subject, but no one so clear, strong, sensible and inspiring as Dr. Parker's little book. I quote two sentences: "The marvelous growth of the Church among the heathen in recent years, especially in comparison with the slowness of its earlier progress, is due to the personal advocacy of the gospel by converted heathen, themselves won by the slow hand-work of the few early missionaries. The bringing of a soul to Christ by every disciple within one year is a perfectly feasible work, and it would double the number of Christians."

Brother pastor, send for a few, a dozen or more, copies of this booklet, and get your people to read it. It will greatly aid you in your revival. It will be worth several of the best sermons you ever preached. It will help you to read it.

It will cost five cents per copy. Smith & Lamar, at Nashville and Dallas, will send them.

H. W. FEATHERSTUN.

The Monitor Florida is being used as a target to test the power of explosives, and the resisting power of armor. A twelve inch gun was fired at the turret at close range, and did not damage it sufficiently to have caused any delay if it had been in actual battle. A new military mast had a number of shots fired through it, and yet still stood firm. A vessel of an obsolete type may still be very valuable. The monitor would not count for much with the later types of battleships, unless they deliberately put themselves within its reach. But time of battle is too late to find out the powers and limitations of ships. Hence, the Florida plays the part of the martyr or the victim.

The hardest battles of the present legislature of Louisiana are being fought about prohibition and gambling. It would be a wise thing for every man to watch the attitude of his representative, and act accordingly in the future. There is little doubt that the liquor men and the gamblers will know their friends and enemies. How about those who oppose these things. Will we know who help and who hinder?

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup

has been used for over Sixty-Five Years by millions of mothers for their children while teething with perfect success. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain; cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for Diarrhoea. Sold by Druggists in every part of the world. Be sure and ask for "Mrs Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Guaranteed under the Food and Drugs Act, June 30th, 1906. Serial Number 1098. An Old and Well Tried Remedy.

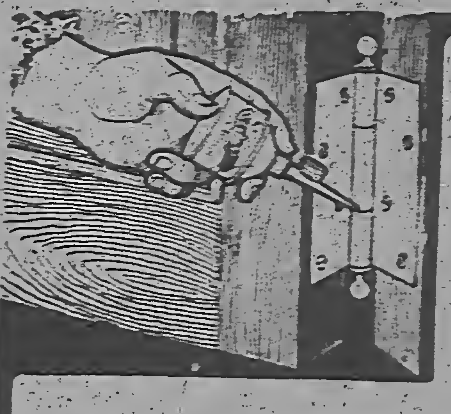
MOXINE CHILL TONIC
Only Tonic—one bottle—one cure.

Within a few weeks we will launch the first of our battleships of the Dreadnaught type. These are the battleships South Carolina and Michigan. The distinctive feature of the new ships will be the elimination of all secondary battery guns. There will be a large number of three-inch guns to keep off torpedo boats.

Birmingham is making big preparations for the annual re-union of the Confederate veterans, June 9, 10, 11.



Ease That Hinge

Household noises stop "quick as a wink" when hinges, locks and the hundred other joints and bearings are kept in condition with

Household Lubricant

Use it on the sewing machine, the washer and lawn mower, typewriter, bicycle or any bearing where oil is a help. Never corrodes or gums. It's all oil. Put up to meet everyday requirements in 4 and 8 ounce tin oilers. Your dealer has it. Ask for it.

STANDARD OIL COMPANY
(Incorporated)

COMPLETE ONLY $15.00

BURNS WOOD OR COAL

JUST SEND ME ONE DOLLAR

and I will ship C. O. D. to any railroad station in the U. S. this fine Willard Steel Range. Anyone can say they have the best range in the world, but I will furnish the evidence and leave the verdict to you. After you examine this range, if you are satisfied in every way, pay Agent $14.00 and freight, and you become the possessor of the best range in the world for the money. The range has six 8-inch lids; 18-inch oven; 15-gal. reservoir; large warming closet; top cooking surface, [illegible] ins. Guaranteed to reach you in perfect order. Shipping weight, [illegible] lbs. Thousands in use and every one of them giving satisfaction. Write for full description and testimonials.

WM. G. WILLARD

[illegible] ST. LOUIS, MO.

LONG DISTANCE TELEPHONES for FARMERS, PHYSICIANS, COUNTRY MERCHANTS and COTTON GINNERS

Private Lines and Exchanges

TALK WITH YOUR NEIGHBORS

Organize a Phone line. We help you.

No previous experience or knowledge necessary.

Write Today

We guarantee our Phones against damage from lightning—something never done before.

Get particulars. Write Today

A phone line is the cheapest servant you could have. In case of fire, danger of any kind, sickness or distress, it brings help instantly.

Write Today

Get our book "ALL ABOUT THE TELEPHONE." It tells you every thing you need know about telephones. How to build, install and operate. Regular price 25 cents. We mail it absolutely free if you write and mention this paper. Write Today.

For a limited time you can secure our famous [illegible] Long Distance Telephone, complete with Batteries and Outfit [illegible] including Lightning Arrester—the whole outfit warranted and guaranteed for $11.5[illegible]

REMEMBER THIS OFFER IS FOR A LIMITED TIME ONLY. Write Today.

THE SUMTER TELEPHONE MANUFACTURING COMPANY. Box 63, SUMTER, S. C.

WARD SEMINARY Nashville, Tenn., offers girls and young women Seminary and College Preparatory Courses. Art, Expression, Conservatory of Music, native teachers of French and German, city advantages, all outdoor sports on beautiful city and suburban campus, mild and equable climate. Only 175 boarding pupils received. Write for Catalogue.

LOW NOW ON SUMMER RATE

The place to get a good BUSINESS EDUCATION, to prepare for a GOOD POSITION, and to get ready for THE RUSH of the fall business is AT

DRAUCHON'S PRACTICAL BUSINESS COLLEGE

INDORSED by business men from Maine to California. Catalogue FREE; ask for it. Shreveport, Jackson (Miss.), Waco, Fort Worth, Dallas, Nashville or Washington, D. C.

LUBBOCK, TEXAS A few years ago Lubbock, Texas, was unknown; to-day the "Lubbock Country" is the talk of the Southwest. Lubbock is growing rapidly and in a few years will be the Metropolis of the Great Plains Country. The Overton Addition to Lubbock lies just 1-2 mile west of the courthouse and is the residence part of Lubbock. Lots are selling at $50 caeh, $10 cash and $5 per month. These lots will increase in value very rapidly. Write for large map and illustrated folder. Address Dr. M. C. OVERTON, Lubbock, Texas.

A typhoon caused the death of over a thousand lives at Hankow, China, and a mining disaster caused the loss of nearly as many at Kwang Sa, where the mine caught fire. Yet after all, how calmly we read of great disasters in the Orient; it seems so far away.

MOXINE
Cures LAGRIPPE and Colds.

It is quite certain the secretary of war, Wm. Taft, will resign if he is nominated for the presidency. It seems to be equally certain that he will be the nominee of the Republican party. There is much speculation as to who will take the vacant place in the Cabinet.

MOXINE CHILL TONIC
Only Tonic—one bottle—one cure.

If one lacks heart impulse, let him cultivate the sense of duty. The pump will reach deeper than the surface spring.—Ex.

A man may be lowered in the opinion of men by the sins of others, but it is only his own sin that lowers him in the sight of God.—Ex.

The man who believes that the world is all wrong, and that he was born to set it right, will probably die with an unfinished job on his hands.—Ex.

Keep Out Flies

Rust Proof Wire Screens.

Call on W. O. Johnson, 2512 Valence Street, or Phone Uptown 2556, New Orleans, La. 17 years' experience.

EUGENE B. TROY,
PLUMBER.

Sewer Connections on the One Profit Plan

4721 PERRIER ST.
Phone, Uptown 2591

PORT GIBSON FEMALE COLLEGE,
Port Gibson, Miss.

68th Session Opens Sept. 23, 1908. Standard of Literary Work High. Music, Elocution, Art, Commerce, Sewing. Special Attention Given Health and Morals. Electric Lights, Artesian Water. Boarding Patronage Steadily Increasing. Trip to National Military Park, Mississippi's New Capitol, and State Fair—a Feature of Next Session.

Henry G. Hawkins, A. B., Pres.

REAL ESTATE—FOR RENT.

SPLENDID cottage, Seashore Camp Ground; 4 bedrooms; facing beach; completely furnished; $100 from June until October. J. M. OLDHAM, 511 Hibernia Bank Building, New Orleans.

TO CURE ECZEMA.

The one infallible method by which Eczema can be quickly and permanently cured is by the use of HEISKELL'S OINTMENT. For half a century this great remedy has been the means of curing skin diseases of every nature. Erysipelas, Tetter, Ulcers, Pimples, Ringworm, Blotchy Skin, Eruptions, Rough Skin, Salt Rheum, Scald Head—all yield as readily to the marvelous curative virtues of HEISKELL'S OINTMENT as the dread disease—Eczema. Before applying the ointment, bathe the affected parts, using HEISKELL'S MEDICINAL SOAP. HEISKELL'S BLOOD AND LIVER PILLS tone up the liver and cleanse the blood. Ointment, 50 cents a box; Soap, 25 cents a cake; Pills, 25 cents a bottle—at all druggists. Send for interesting book of testimonials to JOHNSTON, HOLLOWAY & CO., 531 Commerce Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL

The Double Track Route.

26 Hours to Chicago
21 Hours to St. Louis
22 Hours to Louisville
26 Hours to Cincinnati

Through Sleeping Cars to above points. Dining Cars, Library Cars, Chair Cars and Coaches.

Full Particulars at

City Ticket Office,
141 ST. CHARLES STREET.
Phone Main 3612.

MOXINE CHILL TONIC
Only Tonic—one bottle—one cure.

COALVILLE CHARGE.

We closed our first revival meeting for this year the 15th of May. The meeting was held at Coalville Church. The services were conducted by Rev. C. M. Crossley, of Utica, and resulted in twenty-three conversions and ten additions to the Church.

Brother Crossley is fine help. His work abides. He will never be forgotten in the hearts and minds of this people.

The laymen have organized at two churches on this work, and Dr. B. Z. Welch and Brother R. B. Bellew, our leaders, are at work. Dr. Welch, our leader at Coalville Church, has started a library, and has organized a missionary study class.

Our Woman's Home Mission Society, organized the first of March, is doing a good local work.

We have just closed a missionary institute for this charge. Brother H. M. Ellis led in this work. After preaching at Poplar Head Saturday night and Sunday, he came to Coalville Sunday afternoon and held forth until Tuesday. We feel sure that his efficient work will result in great good. He is filled with knowledge of and enthusiasm for the cause he represents, and we feel that could he hold an institute on every charge in our Conference great things would be accomplished for missions.

After his stirring message at Poplar Head Sunday, two consecrated, intelligent young ladies gave their names as missionaries. Mrs. E. H. Caraway, district secretary of W. H. M. Society, gave us a splendid report of the work done in the district, and Mrs. B. F. Lewis, Conference corresponding secretary, won all hearts with her address on "Home Missions."

The last day of the institute Brother M. L. Burton, our beloved presiding elder, favored us with an inspiring sermon on "Consecration."

We believe that our people are making progress in the religious life, and we are praying for greater things. Pray for us.

J. W. THOMPSON, P. C.

ECZEMA, TETTER AND SKIN TROUBLES.

Tetterine, the fragrant, antiseptic and healing ointment, instantly relieves and quickly cures skin and scalp diseases and tching piles. It is the finest prescription ever dicovered for these conditions. Apply after bath with Tetterine Soap. It s elegantly prepared by The Shuptrine Co., Savannah, Ga. If your druggist cannot supply you, send 25 cents in stamps.

PACHUTA CHARGE.

Dear Advocate: I am now well into the fourth year of my pastorate on this charge. In some respects the work seems to be moving on very well; in others, not so good. We have held our revival at Pachuta, which was the best that has been held since I have been here. Rev. Geo. D. Anders, of McComb City, did the preaching. Many hearts were strangely warmed, and the church strengthened. Our second Quarterly Conference was held May 22. Dr. Black was on hand and preached a good sermon. The attendance was small on account of the Conference being held on Friday. This is a country charge, in the main, and the farmers were busy. I, for one, do not like these week-day Conferences.

We have held three very fine Children's Day services which proved a great blessing to our schools. Our three Epworth Leagues are doing some good work. We will have several delegates to the Gulfport Conference.

We are praying for great things from God during our revival season.

Rev. H. M. Ellis is to be with me the 2nd, 3rd and 4th of this month in the interest of missions, which work is greatly needed. May the great Head of the Church send the life and power in the churches and make them the very doors of the kingdom.

L. F. ALFORD.

CHURCH DIRECTORY.

New Orleans District, Rev. F. N. Parker, D.D., presiding elder; residence, 241 Olivier St.

Rev. John T. Sawyer, D.D., Conference Missionary Evangelist; residence, 2421 Chestnut St.; phone, Uptown 1832.

First Methodist Church, St. Charles Ave., near Calliope St.; Rev. J. E. Wray, pastor; residence, 5830 Prytania St.; phone, Uptown 329; office hours, at Church, 2 to 3 p. m.; Church phone, Main 1779.

Second Methodist Church, 2531 Burgundy, near Lafayette Ave.; Rev. A. I. Townsley, pastor; residence, 2728 N. Rampart St.; office hours, 9 to 11 a.m.; phone, Main 978.

Parker Memorial, corner Nashville avenue and Perrier street; Rev. C. D. Atkinson, pastor; residence 734 Nashville avenue.

Louisiana Avenue, corner Louisiana Ave. and Magazine St.; Rev. W. W. Holmes, pastor; residence 2903 Camp St.; phone, Uptown 1391.

Rayne Memorial, St. Charles Avenue and General Taylor Streets; Dr. John A. Rice, pastor; residence, 1101 Peniston Street.

Felicity Street Church, corner Felicity and Chestnut Streets; Rev. Albert S. Lutz, pastor; residence 2321 Chestnut Street.

Carrollton Avenue, corner Carrollton avenue and Elm street; Rev. Henry T. Carley, pastor; residence, 1125 Fern St.; phone, Uptown 1238.

Algiers, Lavergne Street, corner Delaronde; Rev. J. F. Foster, pastor.

McDonoghville and Gretna, Rev. H. Whitehead, pastor; residence 5208 Magazine Street; phone, Uptown 2459.

Epworth Church, corner Banks and Scott Streets; Rev. L. A. Sims, pastor; residence, 232 South Pierce Street.

Rev. Jno. L. Sutton, Superintendent Orphan Boys' Asylum; residence, 5220 St. Charles Ave.; phone, Uptown 128.

Italian Missionary, Rev. Francesco Zito, Residence, 539 St. Ann St.; Mission Hall, 521 St. Peter St.

Rev. L. E. Wicht, junior preacher Lower Coast Mission; address, 509 Board of Trade Bldg., New Orleans.

R. F. Harrell, pastor, Mary Werlein Mission; also secretary Y. M. C. A., 815 St. Charles.

MOXINE CHILL TONIC
Only Tonic—one bottle—one cure.

The Aldrich-Vreeland bill becomes law. This bill provides for an emergency currency. It will probably give all the relief needed. It is not so much the amount of currency that is actually issued to cover the times of financial stress as the knowledge that money can be provided, that averts panic. The bill has a limited existence, and it is possible that before it expires the doctors of finance will have come together and agreed on permanent legislation.

BLOOD POISONING POSITIVELY CURED

Hereditary, primary, secondary and tertiary. Scrofula, Eczema, Blood and Skin Disease. If you have exhausted old-time methods, and want to get well, write me in fullest confidence for proof of cures. Take my treatment and get well.

A. A. BROWER, M. D.
San Antonia, Tex.

Ship-subsidies have been defeated for this session of Congress. There are a great many people who oppose ship-subsidies, who would like to see the merchant shipping set free from some of the restrictions that now hamper, though nothing should be allowed that will endanger the wellfare of the sailors under the American flag.

HELPED HER SISTER

Young girls, at the critical age, often require the help that Cardui will give.

Cardui acts gently and safely, in a way that will mean much for health in future years.

Cardui has been found to relieve or prevent female pains, such as headache, backache, sideache, etc., and to act effectively on such symptoms as fitful temper, nervousness, tired feeling, and other symptoms that are common to young women.

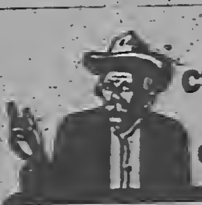
Mrs. Mary Hudson, of Eastman, Miss., writes: "My young sister, while staying with me and going to school, was in terrible misery. I got her to take a few doses of Cardui and it helped her at once.

"I have taken Cardui myself and believe I would have been under the clay, if it had not been for that wonderful medicine. I was in a rack of pain, in my back and low down, but the first dose of Cardui helped me, and now I am in better health than in three years."

Try Cardui. It is a purely vegetable, gently medicinal, extract, especially recommended for female troubles. Sold by all druggists.

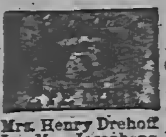
The
GUARANTEED
EXTERMINATOR

Stearns' Electric RAT and ROACH Paste
is guaranteed to rid the house, barn or store of cockroaches, rats, mice, water bugs, etc. Sold at druggists or general stores everywhere, or sent prepaid on receipt of price.
2 oz. box, 25c; 16 oz. box, $1.00.
STEARNS' ELECTRIC PASTE CO., Buffalo, N.Y., U.S.A.



HIS CHANCE IS GONE
YOUR CHANCE IS HERE

The question is, are you qualified to hold a responsible position? Have you had a thorough commercial training? Bankers, Merchants, and Manufacturers want you if you are competent. Now is Your Chance. Two roads are open to young people. One requires no training and leads to failure. The other requires training and leads to success. We prepare young men and women and start them on the road to success by securing them high-salaried positions. Fine climate, board cheap. Write for illustrated catalog and further information.
HATTIESBURG BUSINESS COLLEGE, HATTIESBURG, MISS.



EYE DISEASES,
viz: CATARACTS, CORNIAL ULCERS and GRANULATED EYE LIDS for which we doctored for many years without success, have been cured by ARNTZ EYE CURE Mrs. Henry Drehoff and Mr. Peter Moscos, Des Moines, Ia.; Mrs. Josephena Mackill, Crookston, Minn. It cures Conjunctivitis, Pterygium, Pink Eye, Wild Hairs and Closed Tear Ducts—Testimonials free. 50c a bottle or 3, $1.25 at Druggists, Opticians and ARNTZ OPTICAL CO. 193 Sixth Ave., Des Moines, Iowa. and PEERLESS OPTICAL CO., Jobbers, Chicago, Ill.

BLYMYER CHURCH BELLS.
UNLIKE OTHER BELLS SWEETER, MORE DURABLE, LOWER PRICE. OUR FREE CATALOGUE TELLS WHY.
Write to Cincinnati Bell Foundry Co., Cincinnati, O.

FITS St. Vitus' Dance and Nervous diseases permanently cured by Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. Send for FREE $2.00 trial bottle and treatise. Dr. R. H. Kline, Ltd., 931 Arch St., Philadelphia, Pa.

MOXINE
Cures LAGRIPPE and Colds.

Programme

Mississippi Conference Epworth League.

GULFPORT, MISS.,

June 18-21, 1908.

Thursday, June 18.

8:00 p. m.—Address of Welcome on Behalf of the City, Hon. J. W. Tomas, Mayor.

Address of Welcome on Behalf of the Local League, Miss Laura Rankin, President.

Response—Rev. W. O. Sadler, Meridian.

League Social, under the direction of Miss Edith Reid, Third Vice-President, assisted by Mrs. A. F. Watkins.

Friday, June 19.

"PRESIDING ELDERS' DAY."

Sunrise Prayer-Meeting—On the Beach, conducted by Rev. E. W. Lipscomb, Hattiesburg.

9:00 a. m.—Devotional Talk, Rev. Rev. Robt. Selby, Natchez.

9:15 a. m.—President's Address. Appointing Committees.

9:40 a. m.—Address from each of the Presiding Elders.

11:00 a. m.—Address: "The Opportunities of the Epworth League and the Institutional Church," Rev. Felix R. Hill, Jr., Vicksburg.

Friday Afternoon.

2:30 p. m.—Devotional Talk, Rev. Robt. Selby, Natchez.

2:45 p. m.—Report of Officers and District Secretaries.

3:00 p. m.—Devotional Department (Round Table), conducted by Rev. H. M. Ellis, First Vice-President, Jackson.

4:00 p. m.—Music.

4:05 p. m.—"Charity and Help Department," (Round Table), conducted by Miss Lee Crittenden, New Orleans, La.

4:45 p. m.—Literary Department, (Round Table), conducted by Miss Edith Reid, Third Vice-President, Jackson.

5:30 p. m.—Address, "The Mission of the Church to the Minds and Bodies of Men," Rev. C. W. Crisler, Jackson.

8:00 p. m.—Address by Dr. Frank P. Culver, Birmingham, Ala.

Saturday, June 20.

Sunrise Prayer-Meeting—On the Beach, conducted by Rev. D. E. Kelly, Bogue Chitto.

9:00 a. m.—Devotional Talk, Rev. Robt. Selby, Natchez.

9:15 a. m.—Reports of Committees. Election of Officers. Selection of next meeting place.

9:25 a. m.—The Junior League, (Round Table) conducted by Mrs. T. B. Clifford, Junior League Superintendent, Meridian.

10:20 a. m.—Music.

10:25 a. m.—Address, "Training in Epworth League Methods a Necessary Part of the Work of our Colleges," Rev. H. G. Hawkins, President Port Gibson Female College.

11:00 a. m.—Address, "The Epworth League: the Ideal Evangelistic Agency," Rev. W. M. Sullivan, McComb City.

Saturday Afternoon.

1:30 p. m.—Trip to Ship Island by steamer, returning at 7:30, in time for the evening service. Lunch will be served on the return trip.

8:00 p. m.—Address, "The Boys' League," Dr. H. W. Featherstun, President of the League Board, Columbia.

Sunday, June 21.

Sunrise Prayer-Meeting—On the Beach, conducted by Miss Lee Crittenden, New Orleans.

9:45 a. m.—Sunday school.

11:00 a. m.—Annual Sermon, by Rev. W. B. Murrah, D.D., President Millsaps College, Jackson.

Sunday Afternoon.

3:00 p. m.—Fourth Department (Round Table), conducted by Rev. M. M. Black, Fourth Vice-President, Purvis.

3:35 p. m.—Address, "The Epworth League and the Layman's Movement," by Rev. M. L. Burton, Pass Christian.

8:00 p. m.—Grand Rally; Several Addresses and the Installation of officers.

THE JUNE HOUSEKEEPER.

The romance of the June bride is a living reality in the pages of The Housekeeper for June. "Her Wedding Gown," by Ada B. Rogers, is a clever bit of fiction with a delightful ending. "The Benediction of Service," by Emily Ruth Calvin, is another story of romance. The other stories and special articles are equally attractive. There is also a double-page of answers to the query, "Why Do People Not Want to Go to Church?" Needless to say the symposium will be read with interest. The usual departments are also as full and satisfactory as ever. The Housekeeper Corporation, Minneapolis, Minn. Sixty cents a year.

At the time of this writing the fight over the racing bill is on in the legislature. The outcome is not yet settled. Some race track men were overheard in conversation on one of the New Orleans street cars, and one remarked to the other "They had to let the bill pass the House so that it would be worth buying, but it will be bought off in the Senate." It is to be hoped that these gentlemen have underestimated the pressure of the public sentiment and the character of the men that compose the present legislature.

Ladies Can Wear Shoes

one size smaller after using Allen's Foot-Ease, a powder to be shaken into the shoes. It makes tight or new shoes feel easy; gives instant relief to corns and bunions. It's the greatest comfort discovery of the age. Allen's Foot-Ease is a certain cure for tired, sweating, hot, aching feet. At all druggists and shoe stores, 25c. Don't accept any substitute. For FREE trial package, also Free Sample of the FOOT-EASE Sanitary CORN-PAD, a new invention, address Allen S. Olmsted, Le Roy, N. Y.

THE LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

TO THE PASTORS.

Dear Brethren: Your Sunday School Board has had unusually large demands made upon it for free literature, and has spent for same since the last session of our Annual Conference, $164.53, with an amount now due Smith & Lamar, of $67.97, making a total of expense since Conference, of $232.50, whereas the treasurer of your board has only received one Childrens' Day Offering, from Rev. R. W. Vaughn, for the amount of $8.56. Therefore, we kindly request that every pastor hold Childrens' Day Services and send the offering at your earliest convenience to the treasurer.

Thanking you for your interest and co-operation in the great Sunday School work, and for your attention to this special matter, I remain, Fraternally yours,

W. H. COLEMAN, Treas.

Homer, La.

TAPE WORMS expelled alive with head. Guaranteed. No poisonous drugs. Free booklet. GLOBE REMEDY CO., Birmingham, Alabama.

General News

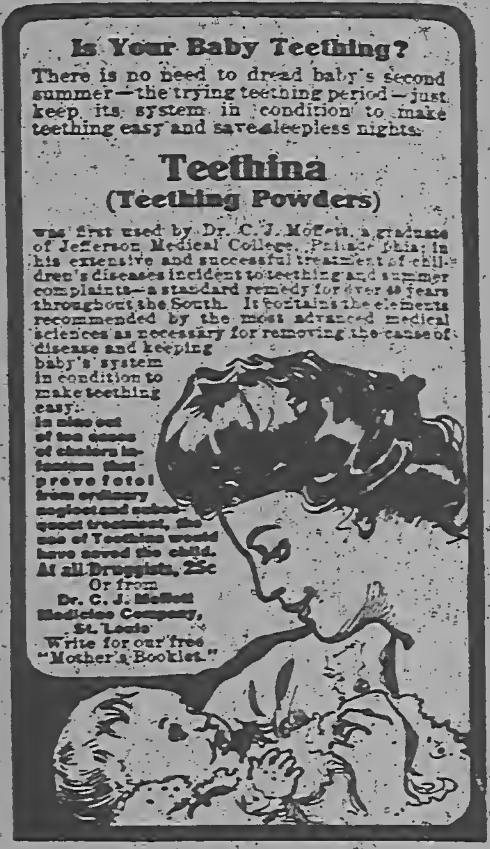
Persia is bordering on a state of anarchy. The Shah is unable to control his rebellious tribesmen, and there may be Russian intervention. This would be a reopening of the troubles that some months since threatened war, and that would possibly involve several nations.

* * *

On Thursday of last week, just at the close of exercises in the Pantheon, enrolling the name of Zola in its lists of famous men, Major Alfred Dreyfous was shot. This has caused intense excitement throughout France. A great variety of motives have been assigned. It seems to be a survival of the bitter feelings that attended the whole Dreyfous controversy.

* * *

The twenty-seventh delegated General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church has become a matter of history, the final adjournment taking place the night of June 1. This session was held in Baltimore, Maryland, where the first delegated Conference held its sessions.



Is Your Baby Teething?

There is no need to dread baby's second summer—the trying teething period—just keep its system in condition to make teething easy and save sleepless nights.

Teethina

(Teething Powders)

was first used by Dr. C. J. Moffett, a graduate of Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, in his extensive and successful treatment of children's diseases incident to teething and summer complaints—a standard remedy for over 40 years throughout the South. It contains the elements recommended by the most advanced medical sciences as necessary for removing the cause of disease and keeping baby's system in condition to make teething easy.

In nine out of ten cases of cholera infantum that prove fatal from ordinary neglect and subsequent treatment, the use of Teethina would have saved the child.

At all Druggists, 25c

Or from

Dr. C. J. Moffett Medicine Company, St. Louis

Write for our free "Mother's Booklet."

The liquor men are raising their time-worn objection to prohibition, and trying to defeat it on the ground that taxes will have to be raised if prohibition passes in Louisiana. Undoubtedly there will have to be some other provision made for some things that are now supported directly by the saloon licenses, but the experience of all places where prohibition has had a fair trial is that ultimately it lowers the tax-rate.

* * *

The Morning World has ceased to turn its searchlight on things wise and otherwise. The courts refused to authorize the receiver to continue to publish it at a loss of $400 a day.

* * *

The British officer, General Buller, who was one of the central figures in the Boer war, died during the past week.

* * *

The English Equal Suffrage advocates have achieved a temporary success in the promise of the government to undertake at an early day a reform of the election laws, and that, when this work was begun the administration would not oppose a proposition for equal suffrage.

* * *

A famine is prevailing in the provinces of Agra Oudh and other districts of Central India, the total area affected being about 150.000 square miles, or more than two and a half times that of the State of Missouri. The population of the famine-stricken district is more than 50.000.000, and although contributions on a very large scale have supplemented the government's relief, the suffering is still acute.

Belmont College For Young Women Nashville, Tenn.

Prepares for colleges and universities. College post graduate courses leading to degrees of B.A. and M.A. Eleven schools comprise the college, and each school is presided over by a trained specialist. Music, Art, Physical Culture and Languages. Unrivalled in the South for location and environment. The college stands in a beautiful park of fifteen acres. Golf, tennis, hockey, horseback riding, and automobiling. Many Northern, as well as Southern families, realizing the benefits to be derived from such a location, and wishing their children educated under inter-sectional influences, are sending their daughters to Belmont. Of the total number of pupils registered last year, representing in all 32 states, 20 per cent. were Northern girls. Early registration is necessary. Catalogue on request. Rev. IRA LANDRITH, D. D., LL.D., Regent. Miss HOOD and Miss HERON, Principals.

Sunday School

By W. B. Campbell.

LESSON FOR JUNE 14.

THE RISEN CHRIST BY THE SEA OF GALILEE.

John xxi:1-25.

Golden Text: "Lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world." Matt. xxviii:20.

Back again in dear old Galilee, the place so dearly connected in the minds of the disciples, with so many of the Master's wonderful and most loving deeds; back where they had first known him; where he had called them, some of them, from being fishermen, to be fishers of men.

It may have been that they had become disheartened again, and had given up the work of the Lord and gone back to their old manner of livelihood. Some time had elapsed since they had seen the Lord, but they must learn to know and believe that, although he was not seen, he was always near them, for they were to preach that "He was not far" from every enquiring soul in the world. Every time he had appeared unto them he had come upon them suddenly and had left them in the same manner. It was in the early morning, and the fishermen had been toiling all night long, and now they were bringing their ship to the shore to rest from their unsuccessful work. There were seven of the disciples in the ship. Peter was there, and he is mentioned first. Does he who denied, with curses, all knowledge of the Lord, deserve such honor? Perhaps the incident related here is written to show how kind and merciful Jesus is, even them that cannot confess him among scoffers and unbelievers. We have heard some hard things said about Peter, but those who said them had much to learn of human nature.

Nathaniel was in the ship, the Israelite in whom was no guile. Thomas was also there, the man who henceforth was to be "not faithless, but believing." John, the disciple whom the Lord loved, and James; these were there with Peter, and if he had been unworthy they would not have allowed him among them. A man is known by the company he keeps. Peter had long since repented; it may have been that very night as he went out from the presence of the Lord, weeping bitterly. We once heard a good brother tell of the Christian conscience as so keen that it would take a flash of lightning to come between sin and repentance. We believe this is so generally true that it is sometimes mistaken for sanctification and perfection.

Jesus stood on the shore waiting until the ship came near, and called, "Children, have ye any meat?" "No," was the reply. "Then, try again on the right side of the ship," said the Lord. Obeying, they were not able to draw the net to the shore until another ship came up and help was given. Then they knew it was the Lord, for they knew his power from often seeing him exert it. John said to Peter, "It is the Lord." Then he, that had wielded the sword that cut off the ear of the high priest's servant, jumped into the sea and swam ashore. If the Scripture had not named him who could not wait until the ship landed, we would have known that it was none other than he, who having started, one time, to walk on the water, began to sink from failing faith, and was saved by the outstretched arm of the Lord. None of the fishermen asked one another about the person who had commanded them to cast their net again in the sea.

They had seen a fire burning, and it seemed a breakfast had been preparing, for fish and bread were cooking. "Come and dine," said the Master. Let us have the spiritual knowledge of Christ as to think of him now, after he has arisen, with a glorified body, as "the same Lord over all, who is rich unto all that call upon him."

After they had eaten, Jesus turned to Peter and began to draw a threefold confession from him, because Peter had three times denied him. Peter, you said once, that though all should flee away, deserting the Master, you would not. Now, do you love him more than these who denied him not? Peter said, "Lord, thou knowest that I love thee." God bless Simon, say we, for he has made it easy for us to say, "Jesus, Master, thou knowest." Look into my heart, and if there is not enough love there for thee, put it there, dear Lord.

Three times did he ask Peter the same question, and Peter, with genial heart, was taught that henceforth he was to be an under-shepherd, feeding the lambs of the flock of God. Thus should he work until the time came for his glorifying God by his death. "Follow me," saith the Lord; but it was not the same "follow me" as two and a half years before he had obeyed. He was to follow now, even to a cross; but many afflictions and persecutions were to be endured first. As the Lord had spoken of what was to come, and as Peter loved John as a younger brother, he wanted to know John's future. "Never mind about him," said Jesus; you must let nothing come between you and your pointed-out duty. John may remain here longer than you, but that does not come within your duty. So let us learn that we must let nothing come between us and the Master's service. Let us also learn from this forty days, from the resurrection to the ascension, that he is always near, as he has promised; and that we must feel that wherever two or three come together in his name, he will be there, "He whom, having not seen, we love."

MOXINE CHILL TONIC
Only Tonic—one bottle—one cure.

It is very pleasant for those who are bound together by ties of blood to visit each other, but when the relatives happen to be members of the royal families of Europe it is very hard to convince the outsiders, or even absent relatives, that there is nothing political in the visiting. King Edward, of Great Britain is on a visit to Russia, and his German relatives are very anxious about it. The German politicians fear that Russia and England will agree on something detrimental to Germany.

Marriages.

On Sunday, April 12, 1908, 10:30 a. m., at the Wabash Hotel, Belzona, Miss., by Rev. H. M. Young, Mr. WADE H. EMBRY, of Belzona, Miss., to Miss MAMIE CAMPBELL, of Collierville, Tenn.

On June 3, 1908, 2:30 p. m., at the residence of the bride's mother, Mrs. E. Bishop, by Rev. H. M. Young, Mr. RALPH B. PARKINSON, of Memphis, Tenn., to Miss LUCY NELL BISHOP, of Belzona, Miss.

On May 28, 1908, at 8:30 o'clock p. m., by Rev. James E. Denison, Rev. SAMUEL WILLIAM BURROW CALVIN to Miss HARRIETTE EMMA PURVIS, both of Mangham, La.

At the Wabash Hotel, in Belzona, Miss., 10:30 a. m., by Rev. H. M. Young, Mr. WADE H. EMBRY, of Belzona, Miss., and Miss MAMMIE CAMPBELL, of Collierville, Tenn.

At the residence of Mr. Lege Leger, of Indian Bayou, La., May 20, 1908, by Rev. F. P. Moss, Mr. BIRDY TARVER and Miss VICTORINE FOREMAN, both of Indian Bayou, La.

CORINTH CIRCUIT.

Dear Advocate: I have just closed a good meeting at our Southside Church. Brother O. L. Savage, of Iuka, was with us and did all the preaching, except three sermons in the beginning, and he did it well. He is a good preacher, preaches a pure gospel in love. The meeting continued two weeks, beginning the 10th of May and closed the night of the 24th. Of course, we cannot reckon up the results of a good meeting—only eternity will tell.

We often felt that we were sitting together in heavenly places. Thirty-four members were added to the Church on profession of faith and otherwise, and more to follow. About $700 in good subscriptions has been secured on the church debt at Southside.

Brother Savage is a fine worker, and is a great help to the pastor that he labors with. I have received forty-three members up to this date, and have four other meetings to hold. The churches all have good Sunday schools.

I have three Epworth Leagues, one Junior and two Senior Leagues. I have sent my Domestic Mission assessment to the treasurer, and am raising my Foreign Missions now. Nineteen new subscriptions and two renewals have been sent to the New Orleans Christian Advocate; and the work moves on. The Lord be praised, and may his blessing be upon all the work. Your brother in Christ,

J. J. GARNER, P. C.

Love can lighten the weight of the suffering which it cannot remove, it can transform what it cannot destroy.—Bishop Westcott.

Wash me thoroughly from mine iniquity, and cleanse me from my sin.—Exchange.

JELLIED VEGETABLES.

"Jellied vegetables are particularly suitable for a luncheon or supper dish to be served as an accompaniment to almost any kind of cold sliced meat," says Fannie Merritt Farmer, in Woman's Home Companion for June. "Remove the jelly to a serving dish, and surround with the slices of the meat overlapping one another; then garnish with celery tips. Cold meat needs to be very thinly sliced to be at its best, therefore, do see to it that the closet can boast of sharp knives, for without them the work cannot be perfectly done. Soak one tablespoonful of granulated gelatine in one-fourth of a cupful of cold water, and dissolve in one cupful each of sugar and vinegar, two tablespoonfuls of lemon juice and one teaspoonful of salt. Strain, cool, and when beginning to stiffen add one cupful of celery, cut in small pieces, one-half cupful of finely shredded cabbage and one and one-half canned pimentoes cut in small pieces. Turn into a mold, and chill thoroughly."

CONCEALING COLORATION.

What is announced as new light on an old subject, "The Concealing Coloration of Animals," will be discussed in the June Century by Gerald H. Thayer, based on the investigations of the artist, Abbott H. Thayer. It is claimed in this article that two main results have been reached by these investigations: "First, the revelation of the great principle of counteracted light and shade, with its corollary laws, by which almost alone the long recognized 'protective coloration' of animals is achieved; and, second, the discovery that most of the colorations which have always been called 'conspicuous,' are purely and potently concealing." There will be a number of reproductions from paintings and photographs illustrating the points discussed.

THE JUNE AMERICAN BOY.

The opening chapters of a splendid serial, "Bred in the Bone, or Born an Electrician," by Edwin J. Houston, one of the foremost authorities on electricity, is given, and promise to be both entertaining and instructive; "That Dillingham Boy" and "Four Boys on the Mississippi" are continued with increasing interest. Among the short stories are: "Boluf, the Wolf-Dog," telling of the trial and dramatic acquittal of a dog charged with attempting to kill a man; "Playing the Game," a baseball story, teaching boys to play always on the square, and "Pierson's Protege," showing how jealousy and crookedness fail of success. "The Boy Who Graduates" contains some wholesome and timely advice; "The Boys of Shakespeare's Time" compares the boys of that far-away period with those of to-day; "The Shortridge Senate" tells of an interesting institution carried on by high school pupils; "Our Flag" is a timely story of the birth of the Stars and Stripes, and how the flag is made; "The Youngest Policeman in the World" surely upholds his title, being only ten years old. One dollar a year. The Sprague Publishing Co., Detroit, Mich.

Obituaries.

Obituaries not over two hundred words in length will be published free of charge. All over two hundred words will be charged at the rate of 1 cent a word. Count the words and send the amount necessary with the obituary and it will save trouble all around.

Mr. WILLIAM ROUSE was born in Jackson County, at the old Bowen homestead, near West Pascagoula, July 12, 1851, and died at his home near Ocean Springs, March 7, 1908, and was laid to rest in the Rouse Cemetery, near the head of Bluff Creek. He joined the Methodist Church when quite young, and lived a consistent member till death. This writer visited him while on his death-bed, and found that as he had been faithful in the past, he was still trusting in the Lord. He said he was ready to go. By his death the wife loses a devoted husband, the children a loving father, the Church a faithful servant, and the country a good neighbor. May the blessings of God rest upon the bereaved family, and, as he cannot come back to them, may they all make preparation to go to him.

ERVIN ROBERTS.
JEFF HAVENS.

Brother G. W. McREE, the subject of this sketch, was born Aug. 6, 1832, in Marion District, S. C., and died in DeSoto, Miss., March 21, 1908. When he was quite young his parents moved to Clarke County, Miss., where he spent the rest of his long life. Brother McRee was converted at the age of 22 at one of those great camp-meetings held in the early settlement of our country. He joined the M. E. Church, South, and those who knew him best testify that he was ever faithful and loyal. He spent four years in the Civil War and maintained his religious character during those trying times. Early in life he was happily married to Miss Carrie Bethea, who survives to mourn his departure. Sixteen children were born to them, nine of whom are still living. Brother McRee loved his Church, and was always at the services when able to get there. He loved his pastor, and it was a benediction to be in his home. In the last few months of his life his health failed rapidly and he felt that he was nearing the end, and often expressed himself as being ready to go. As his pastor for three years, I can truly say that Brother McRee was a good man and have no doubt that when the end came his soul went sweeping through the gates into the heavenly city. May the Father help the loved ones to meet him there.

L. F. ALFORD.

Mrs. NELLIE TURNER, wife of M. E. Turner, was born April 6, 1881. At the age of 12 years she was converted and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, at Liberty Hill, near McCool, Miss. She was married to M. E. Turner in the year 1897. She died on April 25. 1908, leaving a hsuband and two children to mourn their loss. From her youth up she was a zealous, faithful working Christian, true in all of the relations of life, a devoted wife, an affectionate, anxious, loving mother, with a cheerful, happy disposition, a favorite, and beloved by all who knew her. Her sufferings in her last illness were intense and of long duration; but she bore them patiently, without a murmur. While dying she called her husband, two little girls, mother and sisters to her bedside, bidding them good-bye, saying, "Meet me in heaven;" at the same time clapping her hands, exclaiming that the gates of heaven were open unto her, and that loved ones were beckoning her to come up higher. Such a going is not death, but life eternal. Dear ones, live as Nellie lived, and you will meet her in the city above.

J. A. GOAD.

Miss LIZZIE J. ROBERTSON was born April 2, 1824, and died May 13, 1908, aged 84 years 1 month and 11 days. She was the second child and oldest daughter of Rev. John J and Jane Robertson, and sister of Rev. Ira B. Robertson, of the Mississippi Conference. Sister Lizzie was converted and joined the Methodist Church when a child and lived a consistent Christian life until her promotion to her heavenly reward. For many years she was a ministering angel to the sick. An excellent nurse, she was often called to visit the sick, and she never failed to respond to these calls of mercy. Sister Lizzie was noted for patience, purity of heart, and charity. She was never known to speak evil of any one and evidently suffered pain when evil was spoken of others in her presence. The last twelve years of her life were years of sore affliction to her. She was crippled by a fall, and for all these years she was unable to walk. Her aged brother, Rev. Ira B. Robertson, has cared for her and ministered to her faithfully and tenderly during her affliction. May God speak precious words of consolation to his aged servant in this hour of sorrow. As for our deceased sister, we grieve for her not as one without hope, for we are sure that she wears her crown of glory and bears palms of victory in the presence of her Redeemer to-day.

F. E. D. BALDRIDGE.

Rev. J. M. BARNES was born in the State of Georgia, Sept. 3, 1832; was married to Miss Samantha Gatlin 1857; was licensed to preach early in life in the State of his nativity, where he did some work as supply. He came to Western Alabama in 1868, where he remained three years, then came to Lee County, Miss. Brother Barnes was admitted on trial by the North Mississippi Conference, November, 1881, and served faithfully the following pastoral charges: Fulton Circuit, 1882-3; Buena Vista Circuit, 1884; Okolona Circuit, 1885-6-7; Shannon Circuit, 1888-9, 1890-91 and Louisville Circuit, 1892; Prairie, 1893-4-5-6;. After serving out his four years at Prairie he was returned to Buena Vista and spent 1897, Hebron, 1898-99; Tibbee, 1900-01-02. At the close of this year he felt that the weary wheels of life must rest, and was granted a superannuated relation, which relation he honorably sustained until the day of his death. He seemed to be unable to do but little preaching after his superannuation. The unsaddling of his horse, the setting down of his saddlebags were indeed the end of his active warfare, and on March 17, 1908, he calmly passed into that rest that belongeth to the people of God. He died in Nettleton, Miss. (Lee County), in the midst of his friends and family, his good wife preceding him to the glory land but a few days. After her death he seemed to be impatient to follow. He suffered but little. The candle of his life just slowly burned out. He was buried from the Methodist Church at Nettleton, a great concourse of people attending. The following brethren took part in the funeral service: W. S. Shipman, his pastor; J. H. Mitchell, his presiding elder; W. E. M. Brogan, our pastor at Aberdeen; T. J. Durrett, Nettleton Circuit; N. G. Goforth, of Shannon; Brother Alexander, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, and two noble laymen, his old neighbors and friends. Brothers Summer and Turner Clark, had many good things to say of this splendid old neighbor and preacher. He was also buried with Masonic honors, and laid away to rest in Nettleton Cemetery, amidst a wilderness of flowers and a shower of tears. His Nettleton friends loved him and cared for him with great tenderness. To many of them he was a father. One son and two daughters and a number of grandchildren mourn the loss of a good father. It was my pleasure and my profit to know Brother Barnes in the first year of my ministry. He seemed to take special interest in young preachers. He encouraged them to make the very best of their talents and opportunities. Although not a college-trained man himself, he encouraged young men to seek and obtain such training at almost any cost. "Prepare yourselves, my young brethren, for the very best and greatest fields of labor," was the spirit of his admonitions. His was a strong mental grasp which enabled him to analyze and preach comprehensively and strongly to his people. He loved his church and took great delight in defending her doctrines and polity, which thing he could well do. He loved his brethren and attended our annual Conferences with great pleasure, and our last Conference, which was held in the city of Columbus, was the only one he ever missed, and this was a sore grief to him. Talking with him just before Conference, after he had decided he could not go, he looked up at me, through a heavy mist, and said "Well, Shipman, tell the brethren that I cannot come, but I love them." Of course, I was soon to see him after my return from Conference. He wanted to hear from the brethren and the doings of the Conference, and it was on this occasion he told me something of his supply work in Georgia. After the close of the war he went to his circuit, which largely lay upon a fertile valley, and also in the path of Sherman's march to the sea, and the scene that greeted him when he entered that little valley, as far as the eye could see was ruin. The brick pillars upon which the splendid farm houses once stood were like the stumps of a denuded landscape, and the towering chimneys, like the silent monuments of the dead. Here he found his sad, but heroic people dwelling, amidst the memorials of glory and desolation, and their souls were hungering for the gospel of peace. Great results followed. He went to heaven believing and proclaiming the gospel as the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth.

W. S. SHIPMAN.

KENTWOOD, LA.

Dear Dr. Boswell: I have just closed our meeting. We had Brother D. E. Kelly with us, and Brother J. W. Jelks, who conducted the music. We had a fine prospect of a great harvest, but the rains set in and shut us off, and by the time rains ceased the high school exercises began, so we had to conclude before finishing the work. There was much good on all lines accomplished. As it was, fifteen made application for membership, and the Church strengthened, some good conversions and reclamations. Brother Kelly is a good, faithful preacher of the gospel, and Jelks is a splendid singer.

I hope to get up that club of subscribers soon and send it in. We are getting along very nicely every way. With love and prayer, I am yours cordially,

S. L. RIGGS.

If the news from Russia is correct, the indications are that the deadlock between Russia and the Poles is to be broken after a hundred years. Ancient Poland is a dream of the past; it would be a great thing for both Poland and the rest of Russia, if her ancient love for liberty could work harmoniously for the liberty of all Russia's millions.

MOXINE
Cures LAGRIPPE and Colds.

A GOOD
PIANO,
PIANO PLAYER or PLAYER PIANO see the Grunewald's
Before You Buy.
Agents for the Latest Improved and best Instruments on the Market.

YOUR SUMMER VACATION
IS NEAR AT HAND
THE Southern Pacific
WILL HAVE MANY ATTRACTIVE ROUTES TO OFFER BY RAIL OR WATER
To CALIFORNIA
GO ONE WAY ---- RETURN ANOTHER THROUGH THE MOST BEAUTIFUL SCENERY IN THE WORLD
To NEW YORK
ON ONE OF OUR MAGNIFICENT STEAMSHIPS --- FIVE BIG BOATS
"CREOLE," "MOMUS," "ANTILLES," "PROTEUS," "COMUS."
ASK YOUR AGENT FOR LITERATURE, OR WRITE
G. E. GUEDRY, Div. Pass. Agt. LAKE CHARLES
F. E. BATTURS, Gen. Pass. Agt. NEW ORLEANS

THE SHREVEPORT DISTRICT MISSIONARY INSTITUTE.

The above Institute convened upon call of Presiding Elder T. J. Warlick, at Mansfield, May 18, and continued in session for two days, and proved an inspiration and general blessing to all who attended, a number of the preachers being absent for various reasons, and the lay attendance was not large. But the well-prepared programme was carried out and a number of the papers were good, and Brother R. J. Harp's on the "Mission of the Church" was an ecclesiastical state's paper, worthy of the supreme judge of our Louisiana Methodist Church court, who delivered it. Upon a request of the Institute, Brother Harp consented to prepare his paper for the editor of the New Orleans Christian Advocate.

Prof. Dean also kindly consented to allow his well-prepared and interesting paper, on the "Laymen's Missionary Movement," to be given the public through the columns of the Advocate. Another excellently prepared paper was a study of our mission work in Korea, by Rev. R. O. Weir.

Prof. Weber did good service in two lay sermons on mission subjects, and our missionary evangelist, Dr. Sawyer, filled an appreciated part on the programme. Our presiding elder proved an able leader for such a meeting, and was aggessive in his exhortations and plans for a forward move, the preachers all pledging their co-operation in circuit and station. Missionary institutes will be arranged by him for each charge of the district.

P. O. LOWREY,
Secretary.

ARKABUTLA CIRCUIT, MISS.

Arkabutla Circuit is on rising ground. I was appointed to this work over four months ago by our efficient and wide-awake presiding elder, W. M. Young, who visited my charge the last of March and preached us two logical and soul-stirring sermons; so much so that we were made to feel, like Peter on the mount of transfiguration, it was good to be there. We are anticipating with pleasure his return to us at Arkabutla on the second Saturday and Sunday in June, at which time I am praying and working to have everything in order.

Our first Quarterly Conference was a success spiritually; fairly good financially. $76.75 was paid us by the stewards and $565 assessed, and they assured us they would pay every cent, for which we will be thankful. I have a plan on foot by which I expect to get up all of my collections. Since I entered on the work prayer-meetings, Sunday schools, children's day, Advocate, family altars I have urged on the people all over the Circuit.

I am glad to report seven Sunday schools, all doing well, and one prayer-meeting well attended. We had one successful Children's Day and expect to have six more. My congregations are good and attentive. I have a few family altars. Last, but not least, I am trying to get 100 subscribers to our Advocate. God speed the day when it shall be read in all our Methodist homes.

J. W. HALL, P. C.
Arkabutla, Miss.

MEMBERSHIP IN NATIONAL RED CROSS.

Open to All Reputable Americans, Young or Old—The People, Not The Government, Furnish Red Cross Support.

It is true that the Federal government, in 1905, by act of Congress, reincorporated the American National Red Cross, and that it is under governmental supervision as to accounts and expenditures. This is a guaranty that all funds will be accounted for and properly applied. It is not true, as many suppose, that the government furnishes funds. It does not. There are few salaried officers and most of the executives give, not only of their time and service, but of their private means for the good of the cause.

Hon. William H. Taft, president of the American National Red Cross, has publicly urged the patriotic duty of membership. The Japanese Red Cross has 1,300,000 members and nearly $5,000,000 available funds. France, Germany, Austria, Russia and Italy are in like case, relatively, as to membership and finances. The United States (more prosperous and, on occasion, more generous than any of the forty-four nations signatory to the Geneva and Hague Red Cross Convention) has less than 10,000 paying members and practically no resources applicable for emergencies.

The Red Cross is the greatest humantarian organization the world knows, or ever has known. Its flag is the only one held immune from attack in time of war. It aims to avert, or to mitigate, suffering from war, pestilence, famine, earthquake, flood or fire, and its record makes one of the brightest pages in the history of civilization.

Membership in the American National Red Cross has been thrown open to all respectable Americans, irresponsive of age or sex. Thousands have already joined. Membership costs but one dollar and insures enrollment at Washington, a Red Cross badge, the Quarterly Bulletin—a magazine devoted to Red Cross interests—and the first year's dues. The yearly dues are one dollar. Life membership, $25.

If you send one dollar to Hon. W. H. Taft, 341 War Department, Washington, D. C., you will be enrolled at once as a national member and the badge and Bulletin sent you.

For further information, or a copy of the charter and by-laws, together with other explanatory literature, write to Mr. E. R. Johnstone, National Registrar, 341 War Department, Washington, D. C.

EDUCATION.

An old darky in Alabama called across the fence to his neighbor's son, who goes to school at the Atlanta University: "Look hyar, boy, you goes to school, don't yer?"

"Yes, sir," replied the boy.

"Larin' 'rithmetic and figgerin' on a slate, eh?"

"Yes, sir."

"Well, it don't take two whole days to make an hour, do it?"

"Why, no," exclaimed the boy.

"You was goin' to bring that hatchet back in an hour, wasn't yer? And it's been two whole days since you borrowed it? Now, what's the use of your eddycashun if you go to school a whole year an' den can't tell how long it takes to fetch back dat hatchet?"—Exchange.

MOXINE CHILL TONIC
Only Tonic—one bottle—one cure.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

Brookhaven District—Third Round.
(In Part.)

Prentiss, at Bassfield	June 13, 14
Sumrall	June 14, 15
Hub, at Oakvale	June 20, 21
Silver Creek, at New Hebron	June 21, 22
Hazlehurst	June 27, 28
Crystal Springs	June 28, 29
McComb and Fernwood, at McComb	July 4, 5
McComb-Centenary	July 5, 6
Oloh, at Baylis Chapel	July 11, 12
Columbia	July 12, 13

GEO. H. THOMPSON, P. E.

MOXINE
Cures LAGRIPPE and Colds.

W. H. BYRNE, Pres. JOHN T. GIBBONS, Vice-Pres. P. E. BURKE, Sec'y.
Capital..............$200,000.00
Assets.............. 479,860.90
HIBERNIA INSURNCE CO.,
No. 305 Camp Street,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
LOSSES PROMPTLY PAID.

American TELEGRAPH School
ESTABLISHED 10 YEARS
MILLEDGEVILLE, GEORGIA
Largest and best equiped school South. Expert management. Railroad wire connections Positions guaranteed Railroad fares paid. Board at cost Open year around. Write for catalogue C. Great demand for operators.

Pine-Brook Dairy Co., Ltd.
ALL OUR COWS TUBERCULINE TESTED.
Milk and Cream Delivered Morning and Evening.
COR. ST. CHARLES & WASHINGTON AVES. Phone 1514 Uptown.

THE AMERICAN PAINT WORKS,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.,
MANUFACTURES EVERYTHING IN PAINTS,
—Guaranteed Strictly Pure—
The Climatic Prepared Paints, Perfecto White
and
SOLD SUBJECT TO A CHEMICAL ANALYSIS.
DIRECTORS:
Thos. S. Witherspoon, President. Francis Martin, Vice President.
R. B. Parker, John McCloskey, Geo. A. Hero.
PHONE, MAIN 915. Special Attention to Mail Orders.

THE BEST MADE.
Angell's Cough and Whooping Cough Syrup
For Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Coughs, Colds and Throat Trouble.
CONTAINS NO OPIUM OR MORPHINE,
All Druggists, Price 25 and 50 Cents.

SCROFULINE
The Wonderful Healer
Unsurpassed for tetter, ezcema, skin and scalp troubles, old sores, ulcers and piles, any nature or duration. Goes to the very seat of the trouble, kills the germs and extracts all foreign matter. Sold under a positive guarantee, 25c, 50c and $1.00 per jar. Mail orders promptly filled. Stamps accepted. Liberal sample upon request. Address,
THE SCROFULINE COMPANY, Waco, Texas.
SOLE OWNERS AND MANUFACTURERS.

Louisiana Railway and Navigation Company.
PASSENGER SERVICE.
Daily Passenger Trains between Shreveport and New Orleans. Daily Passenger Trains between Shreveport and Winnfield.
FREIGHT SERVICE.
Exceptional good time on carload traffic. Special attention given less than carload shipments all of which moves in
DAILY THROUGH PACKAGE CARS.
CLARENCE ELLERBE, Assistant to President.
H. B. HELM, General Superintendent.
E. C. D. MARSHALL, General Freight & Passenger Agent.
Shreveport, La.

THE EPWORTH LEAGUERS OF NORTH MISSISSIPPI.

The Epworth League Conference of North Mississippi will convene in the Methodist Church in Winona on Tuesday night, the 9th of June. The indications are for a great Conference.

The Epworth League Directory, which we have been working on for several months, is out and we trust that several copies have reached your League already. If your League hasn't received some already, write Brother Holder or myself, either, and we will see that you get them. The book is a complete Directory as far as we could make it so, and we trust will prove a source of great convenience to the Leaguers. We want each charge in the Conference to have some young people at the Conference in Winona, whether they have Leagues or not. Brother pastor, have some of the best young people of your charge to be at this training school of practical methods. We propose to make the Conference practical above everything else.

We are very fortunate in having secured Dr. Wainwright to be with us at the Conference, also three or four young ladies who recently graduated from Scarritt Bible and Training School, two of whom, Miss Kate Smallwood and Miss Julia Wasson, will go to the foreign field in September. Miss Smallwood is from New Albany and Miss Wasson from Kosciusko. We will have Miss Hartwell, from Watervalley, who recently graduated at the Training School and who purposes doing active work in the home field. We will have our own Dr. DuBose, Rev. T. W. Lewis, and, in fact, all the best League pastors of our Conference purpose being there, I think. The chorus choir will be led by Neblett and the book used will be Revival Praises, the new book gotten out by our own Publishing House. The quartette, led by J. T. Lewis, will be another attractive feature of the Conference.

Some of the Leagues are planning to have a dozen there. I am sure I can guarantee entertainment for all who attend. We are expecting all eight of the presiding elders to be there with their enthusiasm and co-operation.

Let no pastor plan a meeting during this Conference, because, brother pastor, you ought to set the example to your young people by being there yourself. Let all plan to be on hand for the opening session Tuesday night to hear the welcome addresses and responses and attend the social meeting and get acquainted. Select your delegates at once and let names be sent to J. B. Small, of Winona, as soon as possible.

The usual reduction will be given, one and one-third fare for the round-trip. Be sure to have certificate given you at purchasing point, so that the secretary of the Conference can sign same and thus enable you to get reduction.

Let each district secretary see to it that his delegation is a large one. Let the presiding elder see to it that his district is well represented. The Aberdeen District is planning to have a special car, and I hope other districts will do likewise. Lets make this a great occasion for our young people. The young people of North Mississippi must be trained to do active Christian work, and in such a Conference is a fine place for them to get enthusiasm, stimulation, information and training; so let's get them there. Yours for a great Conference.

ROBT. A. CLARK,
Pres. League Board, North Miss.

TWENTY-NINTH STREET, GULFPORT.

Mr. Editor: At our District Missionary Institute, held some weeks ago at Biloxi, there was a resolution adopted urging the preachers of this district to send in reports of their charges; and your worthy assistant urged the same thing at our recent District Conference. I would that all should do so, not only from this district, but from the entire territory covered by the Advocate. In this way, it seems to me, there would be created an interest in the paper not now felt by the membership at large; for it is local affairs, after all, that interest us most, especially if it is about ourselves. It is quite stimulating, as well as interesting, to know that people are being converted throughout the Church, and that the interest and zeal of the people called Methodists are not one whit behind that of any other Church. The people like to know what the Church is doing, and they have a right to know. This is the only way your paper can get the news.

After this little exhortation, I want to send you this, my first report, and tell you something about our great meeting recently held.

Brother Geo. D. Anders, of McComb City, came to us on the 11th of May and remained a little more than a week. Then Brother D. E. Kelly, of Bogue Chitto, came and remained about a week. Mr. Jas. W. Jelks, of Macon, Ga., came with Brother Kelly and led the singing. Mr. Jelks is a consecrated, competent young man, and his being with us added much to the meeting.

Brothers Anders and Kelly both came in the spirit of the Master, and were intensely in earnest from the very beginning and seemed to desire nothing but the salvation of souls. They could not be induced to take boating or fishing excursions, or anything of the kind. From the first service it was evident that the Holy Spirit was with us, and it seemed that each service was better than the last. People were hungering and thirsting after righteousness, and happy were they, for many of them were filled. At times it seemed that a modern Pentecost was at hand. The church was made to rejoice because of the scores of testimonies of salvation from sin and a renewing of consecration for better and more faithful service in the future. The Methodist altar seems to have been neglected in some of our churches, and its usefulness discounted, but not so in Brothers Anders' and Kelly's meetings. Here many broken-hearted sinners found Christ precious as a Savior, and here old-time power was manifested. The meeting resulted in thirty-three accessions to the Church, with more applications pending. We are so glad of the help of these brethren. They won the esteem and admiration of all the people, and the large congregation arose en masse when they were asked if they thought the meeting should be continued another week; but Brother Kelly was forced to leave us on account of his own charge and pressing engagements.

W. B. JONES, P. C.

Gulfport, Miss.

WINONA DISTRICT CONFERENCE.

The Winona District Conference met in Eupora May 26-28, under the presidency of Rev. E. S. Lewis, presiding elder. Brother Lewis had a well-prepared programme, which was carried out to the interest and profit of all.

All interests of the Church were carefully considered and they indicated growth in all departments. Souls have been converted, the material interests of the Church strengthened and a good per cent of the collections paid. Considerable contributions have been made in response to special calls.

The preaching during the session was done by John Ritchey, L. W. Pair, T. A. Hall and J. T. McCafferty. It was good and better, all due to the use of edification.

Helpful discussions were had. No one will object to my saying that the paper by Brother Hall, on "The Preacher and Literature," and one by Brother Ritchey, on "Methodism and Education," excelled.

Brother Williams represented the Orphans' Home and Prof. Sullivan Millsaps College. These brethren did themselves credit and their institutions and us good.

Our own G. W. Bachman did us good, as he does always and everywhere.

James Selwyn Duke was granted license to preach; and Charles T. Stepp was recommended to the Annual Conference for Elder's Orders.

J. R. Bingham, J. B. Small, J. J. Beck and T. G. James were elected lay delegates to the Annual Conference, with Rowan Thayer and Chas. T. Stepp as reserve delegates.

Resolutions of brotherly love for Brother J. R. King and Brother W. M. Johnson, who are not in robust health, were passed.

The hospitality of Eupora was abundant and delightful. Schlater, Greenwood and Drew were put in nomination for the next session of the Conference. The pastor at Schlater guaranteed an abundance of fish for all delegates, and Schlater was immediately chosen by an unanimous vote.

Dr. Boswell gained additional favor by his able presentation of the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE and by helpful participation in the discussions of the Conference. No man in our Zion is held in more affectionate regard than is Dr. Boswell, and nowhere is he held in higher esteem than in the Winona District. In his position of opposition to a "New Statement" he has just been sustained by an unanimous vote of the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church. "In union there is strength." With this united putting on of the brakes and sitting back on the breeching the ark is safe, and the cause of "organic union" draws on apace. Or does it?

SECRETARY.

MONROE DISTRICT CONFERENCE.

The Monroe District Conference will convene July 7, at 9 o'clock a. m., in the First Methodist Church, Monroe, La., and continue until the business is finished. Let the preachers see to it that their Quarterly Conference records are kept up for examination. Let the leaders of the Laymen's Missionary Movement of the several charges be on hand that a district organization may be perfected.

COMMITTEES.

For License to Preach—S. J. Davies, W. H. Hatfield and B. H. Sheppard.

For Admission on Trial—J. R. Moore, H. W. May and H. G. Roberts.

For Deacon's Orders—J. O. Bennett, R. A. Davis and J. G. Sloan.

For Elder's Orders—J. J. Kelly, H. G. Davis and B. F. Fulton.

J. E. DENSON, P. E.

Monroe, La.

THE SAFEST AND QUICKEST WAY

—TO—

TRANSFER MONEY

—IS BY—

Long Distance Telephone

FOR RATES APPLY TO LOCAL MANAGER.

Cumberland Telephone & Telegraph Co.,
INCORPORATED.

NEW ORLEANS
CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE

Millsaps College Library

REV. JOHN W. BOSWELL, Editor.
REV. H. WHITEHEAD, Ass't Editor.

NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, JUNE 18, 1908.

CHAS. O. CHALMERS, Publisher,
Office, 512 Camp St., New Orleans.

VOL. 55—No. 25.

"PROVE ALL THINGS; HOLD FAST THAT WHICH IS GOOD."

WHOLE No. 5404.

Glances at the World.

We copy the following from Bryan's Commoner: "Those who, as members of the Audubon Societies, are particularly concerned in birds will be interested in this story from the Kansas City Star: 'It is not generally remembered that the world-wide reputation of Audubon as a naturalist, incidentally, is due to his failure to establish himself permanently as a Missouri grocery merchant and dealer in the best brands of Kentucky whisky. In 1810 he and Ferdinand Rozier, of Ste. Genevieve, loaded a keelboat at Louisville, Ky., with 310 barrels of whisky and groceries and started down the Ohio and Mississippi to Ste. Genevieve to open a grocery store. The trip was made during the winter, and the streams were so full of ice that the boat was drawn up against the bank and winter quarters were established just below Cape Girardeau. When Ste. Genevieve was reached, after the opening of navigation, the firm of 'Audubon & Rozier' opened their store and did a prosperous business. But the business was done by Rozier, for Audubon preferred the woods to the counter, and devoted more of his time to sketching and stuffing birds than he did to marketing the 310 barrels of good Kentucky Bourbon, or any other groceries. This led to a dissolution of the partnership. On April 11, 1811, Audubon, convinced of his unfitness for business, sold out to Rozier and took up the work for which he was better fitted than any one who had lived before or who has lived since, and from a fourth-rate grocer became the great ornithologist.'"

* * *

The session of Congress just ended failed to pass some much needed laws, but it was reckless in the appropriation of public funds, as the facts, pointed out by the New York World, abundantly show: "It not only appropriated $1,008,000,000, but it has raised the total appropriations to $90,000,000 more than the aggregate expenditures for 1908, for which a deficit of over $70,000,000 is now assured. In the six years since 1903 there has been an increase of about forty per cent. in the expenditures, against an increase of only twelve per cent. in population. Taking the two items of the army and navy, which Mr. Roosevelt has used all his influence to have increased, the expenditures for the last six years exceed those for the six years from 1893 to 1898 by $416,000,000 for the army, or over 137 per cent., and by $428,000,000 for the navy, or almost 239 per cent. In six years Mr. Roosevelt has had about one and one-third billions of dollars to spend on the military and naval establishments, and is dissatisfied because he has not had more. Not less startling is the rapid increase in new offices. This year the number was 23,784, costing $16,156,000, and in the six years 1903-1908 the total number of new offices created, aside from many commissions, has been 99,319, entailing an additional expenditure of nearly $70,000,000. By comparison, during the six years of the Cleveland and McKinley administrations from 1893 to 1898 only 10,279 new offices were created, at an expenditure of $6,000,000." As a result of this extravagance "the government is brought within sight of a deficit which in the next year promises to wipe out all the savings of the United States treasury during the long era of unparalleled prosperity since the war with Spain."

* * *

The Washington Star, commenting on the vote in North Carolina which put the State under prohibition, says: "If a few years ago a political prophet had proclaimed that such commonwealths as North and South Carolina, Georgia, Kentucky and Alabama would bar their doors to liquor he would have been rated as a fantastic dreamer. Perhaps it may be said that in dry weather all signs fail, and certainly there is a great drought in the South. The prohibition movement, indeed, in that section of the country is one of the most striking phenomena in all the history of the United States. It is a revolution. It is an uprising against an institution from which the South has suffered tremendously for years, physically, morally, economically. Perhaps here and there will be a reaction, but ultimately there will be a great gain for better living, higher standards of citizenship, better business, better government. The country is in a state of adjustment in this matter of regulating the liquor traffic. That prohibition should be the immediate outcome to numerous communities is only a natural result of the license given to the liquor trade in the past. The South is just now awakening to the fact that many of its social evils are attributable directly to the failure to bring this traffic under reasonable restraint. It is impossible to estimate the benefit that will result from the reform, whether it continues on the plane of total prohibition or finally assumes the form of restrictive license. In most cities business standards are being raised so that temperance is expected from those who take part in the day's work. The demand that sobriety shall be the dominant characteristic is no longer viewed as a mere sensible precaution against disaster. This proposition is now inspiring the South to its work of reform and it is gratifying to find that it is carrying so far and so successfully in its appeal to the voters."

CENTENARY COLLEGE AND THE LEGISLATURE.

Mr. Editor: The following action of the General Assembly is of vital importance to the educational interests of our Methodism. The secular press has given but meager notice of it, and the fact of the introduction of this resolution is not generally known. I take this method of getting it before the Church.

"House Concurrent Resolution No. 17, by A. E. Miller: Be it resolved, That the House appoint a committee of two and the Senate a committee of one, who shall compose a joint committee for the purpose of looking into the records, premises, documents, statutes, etc., relative to Centenary College, located at Jackson, La., to ascertain what is the interest of the State of Louisiana in and to the grounds and buildings thereon and appurtenaces thereto belonging, of the said Centenary College of Louisiana, formerly College of Louisiana."

This resolution has passed both houses and has been signed by the Governor, and the following committee appointed: For Senate, E. L. Irwin; for House, A. E. Miller and C. A. Byrne. Members of the General Assembly recently drove over the College grounds; they are reported to have said that the property was abandoned, no one was in charge of it, buildings were open and exposed to weather and its contents made public use of by everybody. Indignation was expressed by some, it is said, at the shameful neglect of the property by its owners.

I have no reason to believe that the author of this resolution or the members of the committee intend any harm to the Church, but I think it is time for the Trustees and all interested in our claim to the historic grounds to bestir themselves.

Yours Respectfully,
E. K. MEANS.

Baton Rouge, La., June 16, 1908.

Christian Advocate.

Published for the Louisiana, Mississippi, and North Mississippi Conferences, Methodist Episcopal Church, South.

DIRECTIONS.

Correspondents will please direct all communications intended for the Editor to 512 Camp St., New Orleans, La. Communications intended for the Business Department should be addressed to the Manager of the New Orleans Christian Advocate. Write with ink, and only on one side of the paper. No attention will be paid to rolled manuscripts.

The Printed Label on a paper shows the date to which a subscription is paid. It is as good as a written receipt. When renewal is made, if the date is not moved forward after two weeks, notify us, and we will make it right. Papers will be continued unless subscribers order otherwise.

HIGHER CRITICISM AND SOME OF THE CRITICS.

BY REV. H. W. FEATHERSTUN, D.D.

No. IV.

One of the reasons given by these critics for their patchwork Pentateuch is the varieties of style observed. They contend that Moses could have used but one style; hence the change of style indicates a different author. The truth is, any one who does not write constantly is apt, on each occasion, when he does write, to use a style peculiar to the occasion, the mental stress or the emotions of the hour, rather than to the man. The learned Dean Kirkpatrick, himself something of a higher critic, says: "That the difference of style is incompatible with unity of authorship is by no means certain." He is replying to the contention that chapters vi and vii of Micah could not have been written by that prophet because the style of these chapters was so different from that of the rest of the book. Dean Kirkpatrick adds: "There is nothing in the contents of the passage which might not have been written by Micah." These higher critical gentlemen find themselves compelled to make patchwork not only of the Pentateuch, but even of some of the minor prophets, in which there obtain perfect unity of narrative and plot and consistency, because, forsooth, there are changes of style. Thus error runs into absurdity, and consistency proclaims folly.

The contention of these higher gentlemen that the books of Pentateuch, and indeed about all of the Old Testament books, were written at dates much later than those so long claimed for them is based on the excellence of their style—too fine, they say, for the early times claimed for them. They say, for instance, that "the language of Joel plainly bears the character of the latest period of Hebrew literature;" and yet the setting and local color of the book indicate clearly that it was written about 837 B. C.—half a thousand years, at least, too early for these gentlemen. Joel's book deals with current conditions, and yet it does not mention the exile. Why? Simply because it had not occurred when the book was written. Even the higher critic, Dean Kirkpatrick, confesses: "It is extremely difficult to see how Joel can be fitted into any part of the period after the return (from the exile)." But some of these higher gentlemen can see things that reasonable men cannot. If they will apply the same rule to Milton and Shakespeare they will put them into the nineteenth century. They seem not to have learned that "style, if we may judge from modern instances, depends at least as much upon the individual as upon the age."

Why is it that these men of the Polychrome Bible are forced to contend that all of these fine things we find in the Bible must have been written quite recently? Why cannot they concede that there were "holy men of God who spake as they were moved by the Holy Spirit" in that olden time, and wrote it down as we have it? Is it that they are so wedded to the theory of the evolutional descent of man? Are they afraid that to concede anything suggestive of a golden age, even of inspired literature, might be to throw a shade of doubt upon their pet theory? Must we, perforce, agree that every century backward places our race a cycle nearer to savagery—at least a hundred years nearer to the monkey time? I, for one, shall demur. I believe that Moses in "the land of Midian," some thirty-five centuries ago,

"Far from all the noise of cities—
Far from all their idle mirth,
Where God's voice is heard in whispers,
And the heavens are near to earth,"

got such high visions of truth and beauty that he wrote a matchless epic, and we call it the Book of Job, which James Anthony Froude has declared to be "unequaled of its kind * * * far away above all the poetry of the world." Moses may have been more of a monkey than are the men of to-day, but he wrote, I am sure, what none of us could write. He must have been in a very real sense inspired. I have not yet accepted the monkey-ancestry dream.

Concerning all of this matter of a Polychrome Bible, patched from Genesis to Malachi, Prof. W. H. Green, the learned Princeton Hebraist, says: "There is something clearly wrong in a 'Critical Process' which can take a history that in itself is quite consistent and entirely credible and sunder it into distinct documents mutually repugnant and irreconcilable. A purely literary analysis on grounds of diction, style and modes of thought, cannot impair the truth of what is otherwise credible. * * * The fundamental vice in the whole process is that they quietly assume what they undertake to demonstrate."

But in our contempt for these critics who violate all the canons of criticism, and all the laws of logic, and all the dictates of common-sense in upholding their darling theory of a monkey-descended race, and a patchwork Bible, let us not forget that there are others. "Those critics who, by proper literary and historical tests, are trying honestly, reverently and prayerfully to ascertain the exact text of the Holy Scriptures" should have our approval and sympathy. There is nothing wrong with higher criticism; but some of the critics are sadly deficient.

Let it be understood also that the question of authorship is not always a vital one. Job, Esther and Ruth are set down as anonymous. Some one other than Moses wrote Deuteronomy xxxiv, which tells of his death. Malachi may not have been any man's name. The word means My Messenger, and may have been assumed by the prophet modestly hiding himself behind God's message which he delivered. Some of the Psalms do not claim David as their author, although the book is frequently called The Psalms of David. The first thirty-nine chapters of Isaiah deal with current conditions and are carefully dated. The remaining twenty-seven also deal with current conditions at least one hundred and fifty years later. Whether Isaiah forecast the years and wrote, as if he were present, the things talked of in these last twenty-seven chapters, or some one else living at that later time wrote them, is not a vital question. But when I read in the Pentateuch Moses' emphatic declaration that he received the law from God on Sinai, and wrote it down, and then I hear some so-called higher critic declare that Moses did nothing of the kind, but that the law "just growed," like Topsy, and was written down a thousand years after Moses' time, there is something vital involved. Was Moses a myth and his claims utterly false? or is our critic a graceless blunderer, as void of modesty as he is of common-sense?

Fads are generally foolish and short-lived, and therefore not very dangerous; but it is pitiful to see the fads sowing folly in the brains of our fellows.

THE PERSONALITY AND OFFICE OF THE HOLY GHOST

BY REV. S. D. HOWARD.

"Howbeit when he, the Spirit of Truth, is come he will guide you into all truth, for he shall not speak of himself, but whatsoever he shall hear, that shall he speak; and he will show you things to come." St. John xv: 13.

The first thing we notice is the personality of the Holy Ghost, for the personal pronoun "he" is used six times in the foregoing text, and you will find that the sacred writers always address him by the personal pronouns "he" or "him;" they never speak of him as "it," but speak of him as "he" or "him." Some people have a very poor conception of the Holy Ghost and seem to think that he is a kind of a mystical something, a mere influence, floating in the air. But this is very erroneous, for if we consult the Bible closely we will find that he is one of the persons of the Godhead. "For there are three that bear record in heaven, the Father, the Son and the Holy Ghost, and these three are one." We could give many passages to show his personality, but deem it unnecessary, as the foregoing is exceedingly clear. Let us always in our prayers and sermons recognize his personality. We now come to consider his office work in the scheme of human redemption.

First, let me say by way of introduction, that Jesus Christ, by the grace of God, tasted death for every man, and now the Holy Spirit operates co-extensive with the atonement wrought out through the death of the Lord Jesus Christ, and that there is a time in every one's life when salvation is possible. The first office work of the Holy Ghost is to reprove or convince. St John xvi:7-11:

"Nevertheless, I tell you the truth: It is expedient for you that I go away; for if I go not away the Comforter will not come unto you, but if I depart I will send him unto you. And when he is come he will reprove (or convince) the world of sin, and of righteousness and judgment: of sin, because they believe not on me; of righteousness, because I go to my Father, and ye see me no more; of judgment, because the prince of this world is judged." The Holy Ghost convinces men and women of sin, of righteousness and judgment and makes them realize their true condition. Now conviction is not conversion or regeneration, neither does it mean coercion; but it is the work of the Holy Ghost whereby men and women are made conscious of their true condition and see sin in all of its blackness and realize that they are guilty before God. Conviction must precede repentance and faith.

The next office work of the Holy Ghost is to regenerate; for he is the agent in regeneration as seen from many passages in the Bible, and most especially the language used by Christ to Nicodemus: "That which is born of the flesh is flesh; and that which is born of the Spirit is spirit. The wind bloweth where it listeth, and thou hearest the sound thereof, but canst not tell whence it cometh and whither it goeth; so is every one that is born of the Spirit." St. John vi:8.

The next office work of the Holy Ghost is to bear witness, and this he always does in the regenerated heart. "For the Spirit himself beareth witness with our spirit that we are children of God." (Romans viii:16.) The Holy Ghost is the living, abiding witness within, testifying with our spirits that we have passed from death unto life, and are now the sons and daughters of the Lord.

Another office work of the Holy Ghost is to help our infirmities. (Romans viii:26): "Likewise the Spirit also helpeth our infirmities; for we know not what we should pray for as we ought; but the Spirit himself maketh intercession for us with groanings which cannot be uttered."

An infirmity is either a physical or mental malady. Old age, weakness, sickness, may cause infirmities; our dullness of divine truth may come under the head of an infirmity. Infirmity alone is not a sin; otherwise the Spirit would not help it. And it is said that "he helpeth our infirmities." Therefore, it must either be a physical or mental weakness, for the Apostle tells us: "We know not what we should pray for as we ought; but the Spirit maketh intercession for us with groanings which cannot be uttered."

Another office work of the Holy Ghost is to comfort John xvi:16: "And I will pray the Father and he shall give you another Comforter, that he may abide with you forever." In conviction the Holy Spirit made you, as a sinner, feel mean and loathsome. Now, as a Christian, he comes into your heart and brings joy and peace and sunshine. Yea, he floods the soul with joy and gladness.

Another office work of the Holy Ghost is to teach: "But the Comforter, which is the Holy Ghost, whom the Father will send in my name, he shall teach you all things and bring to your remembrance whatsoever I said unto you." (St. John xiv:26.) It is a fact that he teaches all that will allow him, and he can tell you more about yourself and the Word of God than you can learn from any other source. I don't mean that we are to ignore human effort, for we must do our best to obtain knowledge in order to be in an attitude to be taught by the Holy Ghost.

Another office work of the Holy Ghost is to remind: "But the Holy Ghost will bring to your remembrance all things whatsoever I have said unto you." (John xiv:26.) It is a scientific truth that, strictly speaking, we never forget anything, and if we should, the Holy Ghost would remind us. Neglect your duty on any line and see if he won't remind you of it. He is ready to remind and reprove us if we fail to do our duty, or do anything that is wrong. Again, he aids us in preaching the Word of God by bringing to our remembrance the things that Christ has said unto us.

Another office work is to guide into all truth, as seen in the first text of John xvi:13. He will guide into all truth. How glad we ought to be that in this age of skepticism we have a faithful, ever-living, abiding guide to direct us into all truth, and to help us understand the Word of God. The Holy Ghost is the source of spiritual power as seen from many passages. God promised the baptism of the Holy Ghost 800 years before the day of Pentecost. (Joel ii:28-29.) "And it shall come to pass afterward that I will pour out my Spirit upon all flesh; and your sons and your daughters shall prophesy; your old men shall see visions; and also upon the servants and upon the handmaids in those days will I pour out of my Spirit." The promise was made to the Church, for the baptism of the Holy Ghost is for the Church, and the birth of the Spirit for sinners. We must always discriminate between the birth of the Spirit and the baptism of the Spirit. This promise was reiterated by John the Baptist and Jesus Christ, and literally fulfilled on the day of Pentecost. John says: "I indeed baptize you with water unto repentance; but he that cometh after me shall baptize you with the Holy Ghost and fire." Matt. iii:11. Mark, Luke and John say the same thing.

Jesus says: "And behold I send the promise of my Father upon you; but tarry ye in the city of Jerusalem until ye be endued with power from on high." (Luke xxiv:49.) Again, in Acts i:8, he says, "Ye shall receive power after that the Holy Ghost is come upon you, and ye shall be witnesses unto me both in Jerusalem and unto the uttermost part of the earth." We see from the above-named Scripture that the Holy Ghost is the source of spiritual power. What are our songs without him? What are our prayers without him? Yea, what are our sermons without him? Almost failures, if not altogether; but some one says there has been no baptism of the Holy Ghost since the apostolic age. Hold, my brother, my sister—not so fast, for there are several places in the New Testament teaching that disciples received the baptism of the Holy Ghost after the apostolic age, and besides, St. Peter said on the day of Pentecost, "For the promise is unto you, to your children, and to all them that are afar off, even as many as the Lord our God shall call." (Acts ii:39.) The promise comes right on down to us, and we can have him in baptismal power any time we will meet the conditions. Who is it that needs him? I hear some one say the preachers need him. Yes, they need him, and the stewards and elders and deacons need him. The choir needs him. Yea, every Christian needs him. Let us seek him in prayer and consecration until he finds us with his hallowed presence and lifts us above the storms of life to where we can preach and pray and sing and shout and do efficient spiritual work for him who loved us and gave himself for us:

"Come, Holy Spirit, heavenly dove,
With all thy quickening powers;
Kindle a flame of sacred love
In these cold hearts of ours.
In vain we tune our formal songs,
In vain we strive to rise;
Hosannahs languish on our tongues,
And our devotion dies."

Eunice, La.

A QUESTION ASKED.

Dear Dr. Boswell: Please allow me to ask a question through the ADVOCATE, and any information on the subject will be appreciated.

The question is this: What is the difference between a sinner that does not claim to be a Christian and a Christian that claims to sin every day? It has always bothered me to know how these things could be when we read in 1st John ii:1, "My little children, these things write I unto you that ye sin not; and if any man sin we have an advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ, the righteous." This seems to mean that Christ does not intend for us to sin, but if we should sin by mistake or unintentionally he will forgive us. I believe it is our privilege to live above sin by the help of Christ, being obedient to his will. I think that to teach people they will sin every day, and that they cannot help it, is one of the worst beliefs, and doing more to damn the souls of men than any other doctrine on earth; and the sad part of it is that we have ministers who endorse this kind of doctrine, and refer you to Romans iii:10: "As it is written, there is none righteous; no, not one." Why? Because they are sinners and know nothing of God's love. Read Romans iii:11-17, and see what it says. There we have some saying they "cannot keep the ten commandments." To all such please read 1st John ii:4, which says: "He that saith, I know him and keepeth not his commandments is a liar and the truth is not in him." What are we going to do about these facts? No wonder our churches are run down spiritually! There must be a line drawn by our leaders and they must hew to it. You go to a man outside of the church and talk to him about his soul. What will he say? Simply that he does not see any use of going into the church; that he is as good as those in the church (and he tells the truth). Of course, there are some good people in all churches; but there are some men in the church (and some of them official members) who swear, get drunk and dance; and some do worse things than these that I would hate to mention.

I was talking to a preacher not long ago along this line. He said he knew these were facts. Then I asked him "why he did not condemn these things." He remarked, "if he did they would starve him out." Afraid they would not pay! If I were a preacher I would preach the truth, if I had to plow six days every week to support myself and family.

It means something to live as God intended his people to live. There are only two sides to this question. We are either saved or we are not saved; or, in other words, we are Christians or sinners. "Doth a fountain send forth at the same place sweet water and bitter?" (James iii:11.) "Can the fig tree, my brethren, bear olive berries; either a vine figs; so can no fountain both yield salt water and fresh." (James iii:12.) Here is the trouble with us: When we do wrong we try to justify ourselves, instead of acknowledging that we have done wrong. James v:16: "Confess your faults one to another and pray one for another that ye may be healed. The effectual, fervent prayer of a righteous man availeth much." We also read in 1st John i:9: "If we confess our sins he is faithful and just to forgive us our sins and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness." "And she shall bring forth a Son and thou shalt call his name Jesus, for he shall save his people from their sins." (Matthew i:21.) Now, if Christ does not save people from sin he does not save them at all.

T. M. BOYD.

FASHION NOTES.

It has been a self-evident fact for a number of years that "dame fashion" is pursuing a backward track, but until quite recently we little dreamed that her research would extend all the way back to the Garden of Eden. Our American people are said to be "equal to any emergency," and since the "boll weevil" promises to render "cotton growing in the South unprofitable," we predict that "fig culture" will soon be "the fad."

We presume that the twentieth-century Adam's plea in defense of his "track suit" would read something like this: "The woman thou gavest me wore bodiless jackets without any sleeves" till I felt justified in adopting the same with elbow pants, minus socks.

There is one point of difference, however: The first pair were "ashamed and went and hid themselves," while their descendants proudly put themselves on exhibition, with a "gate fee" attached. Verily, diseased nature sometimes breaks forth in strange eruptions. Moses said: "Thou shalt not follow a multiple to do evil," but if it can be said of a thing these days "everybody does," that settles it with both saint and sinner, parent and teacher. "O, Lord, open thou the eyes of thy servants that they may see."

MRS. ALICE CARY MCKINNEY.

GET SOLID PROTECTION AND INSURE WITH
LEON IRWIN & CO.
Fire and Casualty Insurance.
736 UNION STREET. PHONE, MAIN 585.

W. W. Carre Co., Ltd,
Manufacturer and Exporter of
LUMBER,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Phone Main
ROOMS and BOARD
634 and 638 SOUTH STREET LAFAYETTE SQUARE
CORNER ST. CHARLES ST., NEW ORLEANS.
UNLIMITED MEALS. ALVIN PORTER, Manager.

REV. ABNER POTTS SAGE.

Rev. Abner P. Sage, son of Travis and Rachel Sage, was born in Middle Tennessee, Nov. 19, 1827. While he was yet young, the family moved to Marshall County, Miss. Here Abner grew to manhood on a farm, engaged in farm labors, receiving such education as his own diligence and the common schools could afford. At the age of sixteen he was converted at Salem Camp-ground, in Tippah County, Miss. At a Quarterly Conference of the Holly Springs Circuit in 1853 he was licensed to preach, and in October of that year, being then about twenty-six years old, he was admitted on trial in the Memphis Conference at Grenada, Miss. Two years later he was received into full connection and ordained deacon by Bishop Kavanaugh at Memphis, Tenn.; and two years thereafter, in 1857, was ordained elder by Bishop Paine at Holly Springs, Miss.

In those early years of his ministry, before the war, he served the Chulahoma Circuit, Commerce Mission, Concordia, Island and Randolph Circuits. In 1862 he joined the Confederate army and was commissioned a lieutenant in the Twenty-first Tennessee Regiment. Health having failed, he was discharged from the army, and in '63-'64 served the Chulahoma Circuit. The next year he was supernumerary. This year of ill-health he lived with his brother and sisters in Cockrum, Miss. About this time he was married to Mrs. Cotton, a cultured, saintly woman. With the exception of feeble health, she was an ideal wife for a Methodist preacher, a constant source of help, a living inspiration to her husband. In 1866 Brother Sage was for the third time pastor of Concordia Circuit, 1867-68 served Ebenezer and Coldwater, 1869-70 Senatobia and Luxahoma.

At the end of this year, by change of Conference boundaries, he became a member of the North Mississippi Conference. In this Conference he served the following stations: Sardis, Kosciusko, Corinth, Durant, Winona and Carrollton, Vaiden, Senatobia, Batesville, and Wesley, Verona and Tupelo, Wesley Chapel (Watervalley) and Clarksdale. About the year 1887 occurred his marriage to Mrs. Lizzie Cook. This union was felicitous, but lasted only a few years, when the wife died.

From 1888 to 1905 Brother Sage was appointed successively to the following circuits: Lewisburg, Tibby, Starkville and Columbus. In 1896 he was in charge of the Booneville Station. The two years following, 1897-98, he finished his itinerant labors on the Starkville Circuit. Since then he has been superannuated. Forty-two years of effective work.

Some five or six years ago our brother was happily married to Mrs. Shell, of Houston, by whom he is survived. This excellent lady has been the mainstay and comfort of his declining years. Most of the time he has been a confirmed invalid, and most faithfully and conscientiously did she perform her duty in nursing and caring for him. The end came peacefully on the 21st of May, 1908, in Houston, Miss. The span of life was eighty years, six months and three days. From all the information we have, and this is largely from personal acquaintance, we must say that from his youth to the end he was truly honest, sincere, conscientious. He was deeply pious, a man of faith and prayer. Abner P. Sage was a true man. Above medium size, built for endurance, mind clear and comprehensive, he was a vigorous thinker, of decided convictions and fearless in the defense of what he conceived to be right. He was a strong preacher, a faithful pastor. Too bluntly honest to be always popular as a preacher, his sincerity was never questioned. The nobility of his nature commanded respect everywhere. In the cemetery at Starkville he awaits the resurrection of the just.

W. S. Harrison.

COMMENCEMENT AT MERIDIAN COLLEGES.

The Meridian colleges have closed the most successful and satisfactory session they have had since their beginning. Nearly 1000 students have been enrolled in the two colleges from about thirty States, also from Cuba, Mexico and Canada. The student-body has been better in quality, having more mature, earnest students than usual. The class-room work has excelled other years in thoroughness and in extent.

The commencement sermon was preached by Dr. Gross Alexander, editor of the Methodist Review. It was a blessed message on the beatitudes, and went to the hearts of students, teachers and visitors. We all fell in love with Dr. Alexander. He is such a fine type of a true Christian gentleman. He was a blessing to us and was kind enough to say that his stay in the college was both a revelation and a blessing to him. He promised to return and give us a series of lectures on Greek exegesis of the New Testament, a subject he taught so well for eighteen years at Vanderbilt University.

The college pastor, Rev. Joseph H. Smith, delivered the commencement address. It was a great address and expressed the high standard of true education for which these colleges stand.

The recitals by the graduating classes in piano, voice and expression exhibited not only fine talent, but most excellent training. The oratorical contest was interesting, the medal being awarded to Mr. Gillespie, a student from Canada. The Ready Speaker's medals were won by Marvin F. Beeson and Aden P. Williams.

Pentecostal services were held each afternoon, and a great under-current of spirituality was felt throughout commencement. A Sunday School Normal Class programme was given in the afternoon to great profit; and the Missionary Rally Sunday night by the students was an excellent feature of commencement.

The temperance programme Monday morning, the Alumni address by an old student, Mr. Homer Breland, on "Righteous Ambition," and the rendering of the oratorio "St. Paul," added to the already highly spiritual atmosphere. In fact, the spiritual tone of all the programmes made them so unlike the ordinary commencement occasions that it would hardly have been recognized as such by those accustomed to the average commencement. We are praying and striving that nothing shall ever emanate from these colleges that will be antagonistic to the highest that is spiritual. This standard is not a hindrance to the highest intellectual attainments. In proof of this is the fact that a graduate of the male college was the only candidate for the Cecil Rhodes scholarship of Oxford, England, who passed a successful examination in this State this year, though several tried from other colleges.

An A. B. graduate from the Woman's College took her degree in Master of Arts this year in Columbia University in one year this June, the work of this college being accepted the same as from Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Columbia, etc. These instances prove that a highly spiritual atmosphere is not a barrier, but a help to high intellectual development.

These colleges believe the words of Christ when he said: "Seek ye first the kingdom of God and his righteousness, and all these things shall be added unto you." They are striving to put first things first, and are trusting him for the added things.

J. W. Beeson, President.

A REMARKABLE RECORD.

I am on the eve of taking my departure out of this State to my old home in Kentucky to live my days out in this life with my children there.

I have been employed as engineer, and have been in the employ of M. L. & T. R. R. and Southern Pacific Company for the past twenty-seven years and eleven months on passenger run between Lafayette and Alexandria, La. I have now reached 70 years of age, and have been retired on a pension. God has dealt very kindly with me; not many wrecks have I had, not a passenger has been killed, nor one been injured under my care while on the engine. Neither a rule nor an order have I disobeyed to be called to account for. I have killed a few old and young cows and mules, which suddenly, after having been killed, have been discovered to be of "royal blood" and immense value—that's all.

So, Doctor, as I said, I am about to go to my old Kentucky home to be with my children, who live there. Yours in Christ Jesus.

F. H. Gregory.

Lafayette, La.

"Dat aint no Angel!
BUT, hit's de bodiment ub goodness jes de same. Ah tells you, when you gits a taste ub dat dar LUZIANNE COFFEE you feels moughty close to de Good Place sho'."
25 CENTS PER POUND
THE Reily-Taylor Co.
NEW ORLEANS, U. S. A.

KEEP COOL For Refrigerators and Gas Stoves go to United Hardward Co., Ltd.,
1005-1007 Canal Street, New Orleans.

ESTABLISHED 1851
JOHN DAVID BURGHARDT CO.,
"THE RELIABLE" PLUMBERS and GAS FITTERS
Agency: Born's Patent Steel Ranges. Hygeia Water Filters.
613-615 Bienville St. Phone Main [illegible]
Jobbing and Repair Work a Specialty. New Orleans, La.

THE SAFEST AND QUICKEST WAY
—TO—
TRANSFER MONEY
—IS BY—
Long Distance Telephone
FOR RATES APPLY TO LOCAL MANAGER.
Cumberland Telephone & Telegraph Co.,
INCORPORATED.

GREENVILLE DISTRICT CONFERENCE

The Greenville District Conference for 1908 convened at Cleveland, Miss., May 27-29, and was well attended by both preachers and laymen; 17 out of 21 preachers were present (not counting visitors), and about twenty lay delegates.

The Conference was preceded by a Sunday school rally, interesting and profitable, on Tuesday night, in charge of the secretary of our Sunday School Board, Brother R. P. Neblett.

On Wednesday morning, at 9 o'clock, our pesiding elder, Rev. R. A. Meek, called the Conference to order, and after devotions led by himself organization was effected. Extended verbal reports from the pastors of the district were called for. The reports were encouraging and indicated progress at almost every point; but the Cleveland Circuit, under the pastorate of Brother R. I. Collins, is evidently the banner charge of the district in spiritual life and enthusiasm. He reported 25 family altars, a fine childrens' prayer meeting, and that at his regular prayer meetings, which are largely attended, nearly everybody prays. Where is there another charge, even in the hills, of which such a report can be made? Greenville Station also reported a very gracious revival, with over one hundred conversions, and great spiritual uplift to the Church. Brother Cogdell has met also with noteworthy success on his new charge, Coahoma and Dubbs.

T. W. Lewis, W. W. Woollard, W. M. Williams and O. S. Lewis were welcome visitors; the three first-named addressing the Conference concerning the interests which they respectively represent. Reports of the preachers indicated that Brother Williams' Orphans' Home plan is being generally adopted throughout the District. We are looking for Brother Lewis' plan, by which all due but unpaid subscriptions on the Millsaps Endowment Fund can be promptly collected.

Grenada College was heard from encouragingly through a communication from the president of its Board of Trustees, Brother J. R. Bingham; and regret was expressed that there was no representative of the college in person to address the Conference. A communication was received also from Dr. Murrah, regretting his absence, and sending greetings.

Only two sermons were preached during the Conference, by Brothers Wasson and Honnoll, our connectional brethren having been called upon at the other hours of service. Brother Wasson's sermon on "Ye search the Scriptures, for in them ye think ye have eternal life," was able and forceful; and Brother Honnoll's warning against demanding too great educational qualifications for admission into the ministry was strongly put. It was suggested, as a compromise measure, that whether all preachers should be highly educated or not, all could agree that every preacher should be studious.

Lay delegates were elected as follows to the Annual Conference: Percy Bell, J. H. Johnson, J. D. Barbee, C. R. Smith. Alternates: J. H. Sherard and W. M. Connoll. J. H. Sherard was elected Leader of the Layman's Movement for the Greenville District. Mrs. E. D. Lewis addressed the Conference concerning the work of the Woman's Home Mission Society.

Clarksdale was chosen as the place of meeting for 1909. On Thursday night the Conference adjourned, after addresses by Brothers Countiss and T. W. Lewis, with "Blest be the tie that binds" and the benediction by the presiding elder.

THOS. H. LIPSCOMB, Sec'y.

SARDIS DISTRICT CONFERENCE.

The thirty-eighth session of the Sardis District Conference, held at Batesville, Miss., May 27-31, proved to be one of the most interesting ever held in the history of the District.

With the exception of one, all the preachers and a large representation of laymen were present. Brother T. W. Lewis, representing Millsaps College; Brother G. W. Bachman, the Publishing House; and Brother R. P. Neblett, the Sunday School Board, were present and presented their special claims, which added no small feature to the interest and profit of the occasion. Brothers J. H. Ritchy, of Ruleville, and J. R. Roberson, of Toccopola, were present also and took part in the proceedings to the delight of the brethren.

The ladies' meeting on Wednesday was well attended. The various phases of their work—both Home and Foreign—were ably discussed and no little enthusiasm aroused. Thursday morning was devoted to the interest of Sunday Schools and the afternoon to missions. A programme had been carefully prepared and the speakers showed that they had the respective causes on their hearts and had made careful preparation.

Friday morning, the regular business of the Conference was taken up, which was not finished till late Saturday afternoon. The several charges of the District are in excellent condition, as indicated by the pastors' reports. All the reports had a triumphant ring and expressed anticipation of greater success during the Conference year. Presiding Elder Young is no novice in holding District Conferences, as was evidenced by his executive ability and excellent manner in dispatching business. There was not a single session when the interest was lagging but always a demand for more time.

The preaching was done by Revs. O. W. Bradley, N. G. Augustus, R. M. Evans, S. A. Brown, T. W. Lewis and W. J. O'Bryant. All their sermons were strong presentations of Gospel truth and contributed a large part to the deep spirituality of the entire Conference.

This report would not be complete without making prominent mention of the speech in the interest of the Layman's Movement by Mr. T. B. King, of Memphis, who is Leader of the organization in the State of Tennessee. As he presented the different phases of this wonderful movement and told of the enthusiasm and earnestness with which the laymen are rallying to the cause of Christ, we caught new visions and saw new signs in the religious skies. An organization for the District was effected and Dr. A. S. Yarbrough was elected District Leader. All who heard his speech Saturday afternoon can testify that his heart is in the work. We are expecting great things of the laymen of the District under his wise leadership.

Brothers Wildroy, French, Callicott and Houghston were elected delegates to the Annual Conference.

That there was not a single application for license to preach or recommendation to the Annual Conference for admission on trial was the only regretable feature of the occasion.

The people of Batesville provided royal entertainment. Apparently everything else was forgotten in their eagerness to serve their guests. This writer partook of the hospitality of Brothers Price, Vance and O'Bryant. The delegates came away, each boasting, it seemed, that Brother Moss had assigned them to the best home in the town.

The next Conference goes to Coldwater.

While we missed you, Doctor, we assure you the interest of the ADVOCATE was well looked after.

V.

NOTICE.

To the Churches of all Denominations that have Suffered from the Numerous Cyclones this Year:

We are willing to donate one $60 scholarship to assist every church that was injured in any way during the recent cyclones. If any pastor can use one of these scholarships he can secure same and information in regard to it by communicating with us. We are very cordially,

HARRIS BUSINESS UNIVERSITY.

Jackson, Miss.

SEASHORE CAMP MEETING

From July 8th to 15th, 1908.

SPECIAL RATES.

No Admission Fee at the Gates of the Grounds During the Camp Meeting.

The management announces the Thirty-seventh Annual Camp Meeting, Seashore Camp Grounds, commencing Wednesday, July 8, and continuing until July 15. The cottages and grounds have been put in thorough order, and other improvements made, looking to the comfort and convenience of those who attend this meeting.

The religious services are under the direction of the Presiding Elders of New Orleans, Seashore and Mobile District Conferences of the M. E. Church, South, and these brethren will be assisted by the best preaching talent that can be obtained.

Preaching under the Tabernacle Grove, and Cottage Prayer Meetings, and other religious services, will be held during each day and evening, to which all persons on the grounds are not only cordially invited, but are expected to attend.

LOCATION.

The Seashore Camp Ground is located on the Mississippi Sound, seventy-nine miles from New Orleans and sixty-two miles from Mobile, on the Louisville and Nashville Railroad, and is one of the most beautiful places on the Gulf Coast. It enjoys a railroad service that is unexcelled for comfort and convenience. Magnificent new Artesian wells furnish cool and life-giving water. By a perfect system of water works the cottages and hotels are furnished with this water direct from the well.

The Grounds are Lighted by Electricity.

A pier twelve hundred and forty feet in length, with a Summer house on the end, extends out into the Gulf, and offers positively the most delightful advantages in the South for a promenade. The bathing is unexcelled by any other point on the gulf. All parties residing on the grounds have the privilege of the bath-houses. Good board can be secured at the restaurant, which is in charge of a competent chef, and in private houses at reasonable rates. The comfort and convenience of all visitors will be carefully looked after.

All Methodist preachers will be admitted into the Grounds and provided with board and lodging free of charge during Camp Meeting.

Persons wishing to secure accommodations before the rush of opening of Camp Meeting should address communications to R. G. Price, Keeper Seashore Camp Ground, Biloxi, Miss., or any of the undersigned officers.

Dr. E. L. McGehee, President, New Orleans, La.,
Sam Meyer, Financial Secretary, New Orleans, La.

SEASHORE ASSEMBLY FOR CHRISTIAN WORKERS.

The ninth session of the Seashore Assembly for Christian Workers (formerly the Seashore Epworth League Assembly) will open Thursday evening, July 25, at the famous Seashore Camp Ground, Biloxi, Miss., and will conclude Sunday evening, August 2. The Assembly offers to Epworth Leaguers, Sunday School workers, and all others who desire to equip themselves for Christian work, courses in systematic Bible Study, Home and Foreign Missions, Epworth League Methods, and Personal Work. Devotional meetings will be held every morning in the Tabernacle and every evening on thqe Beach. The forenoons will be given to study, the afternoons reserved for recreation, and the evenings for inspirational lectures.

Lodging will be provided in the Epworth Lodge, owned and managed by the Assembly, for as many advance applicants as the Lodge will accommodate at $2.50 for the ten days of the session. Board can be had at restaurant or private table at 75 cents to $1 a day.

For further particulars address F. S. Parker, President, 810 Broadway, Nashville, Tenn., or C. D. Atkinson, Secretary, 734 Nashville Avenue, New Orleans, La.

CROWLEY DISTRICT CONFERENCE.

The Crowley District Conference met at Jeanerette, La., on Friday, May 29. The opening sermon was preached that night to a good congregation by Rev. W. W. Drake, of Crowley.

After devotional services Saturday morning, the Conference was called to order by Presiding Elder J. M. Henry, and organized by electing John Sholars secretary. The call of the roll was answered by sixteen pastors, two local preachers and five laymen. At the afternoon session two more pastors and eleven laymen answered roll-call, a total enrollment for the session of thirty-six members.

The Conference held four sessions and transacted much business. Some of the delegates went home before the close of the session, and this occasioned a protest from the presiding elder against such delinquency, particularly in the case of the preachers.

The devotional spirit of the Conference was strong. Besides the devotional services proper, eight sermons were preached. Not one of them was an indifferent effort, and the most of them showed much thought and ability. The congregations were large, attentive and appreciative. From the presiding elder and the venerable pastor at New Iberia came two deliverances designed mainly for the preachers—the one upon "Apostolic Preaching," the other upon "The Great Commission." Both were of a nature in matter and delivery to evoke thought, consecration, hope and courage.

THREE GREAT QUESTIONS.

Three of the great questions of the day chiefly claimed the devoted enthusiasm of the Conference. These may be stated thus: "A Cleaner and a More Righteous Moral Life for Louisiana;" "Missions—Home and Foreign;" "A Purer and a More Exalted Spiritual Life for the Church."

The question of better morals came before the Conference in the form of two resolutions, one of them offered by Rev. Robert W. Vaughan as a solemn protest of the Conference against the emasculation by House Judiciary Committee "B" of the Louisiana General Assembly of the Hunsicker bill, aimed against miscegenation, and memorializing the General Assembly to enact "a clear-cut anti-miscegenation bill in the interest of race purity," under the conviction that "the white men and the white women of the State of Louisiana will be satisfied with nothing short of such enactment."

This resolution was unanimously and enthusiastically adopted and was signed by twenty-four members of the Conference, and, thus signed, was immediately transmitted to the General Assembly. The next day it was read upon the floor of the House at Baton Rouge and evoked much enthusiasm. It was also immediately wired to the Times-Democrat and was printed. Along with similar protests from other parts of Louisiana, it was worked into a strong editorial by the Times-Democrat. It bore righteous fruit and had its just share in creating the influence that caused the withdrawal of the emasculating substitute bill from the House calendar back to Judiciary Committee "B."

That other cause of moral agitation in Louisiana—the liquor question—came before the District Conference in the report of the Temperance Committee, read by Hon. A. P. Holt, of Crowley, and, after discussion, was unanimously adopted. The Temperance Committee was composed of three prominent laymen.

This report, a copy of which is herewith transmitted to the ADVOCATE for full publication, clearly, properly and fully denounces whisky and all its evils and evil influences, and declares:

(1) For the complete abolition and prohibition of the stuff and its traffic from the whole borders of Louisiana.

(2) If this is not now practicable, it declares for absolute prohibition in the State, exempting New Orleans.

(3) The third section in full is as follows:

If it is impossible at this time to secure such a law, then we advocate the most stringent measures of regulation and restriction of the liquor traffic and the perfection of our local option law, particularly in the following respects—

(a) Making it the duty of the constituted authorities to order a local option election on the petition of a certain proportion of the qualified voters, say 25 per cent.

(b) Providing that whenever an election results in favor of prohibition, another election shall not be called within at least two years.

(c) Prohibiting the shipping of liquors into "dry" territory.

Concluding, the resolution declares its aim to be "the ultimate banishment of the liquor traffic, with all its attendant train of evils, from our fair State."

The Conference ordered a copy of this resolution forwarded to each senator and representative from the parishes in the Crowley District. This has been done.

The discussion of "Missions—Home and Foreign," took more of the time of the Conference than any other one question, and produced more information, instruction, enthusiasm and hope.

Rev. John T. Sawyer, D.D., Conference missionary secretary; Mrs. E. R. Kennedy, Conference president of the Woman's Home Mission Society, and Mrs. A. P. Holt, district secretary of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society, were present and addressed the Conference. Rev. Martin Hebert and his assistants in the French Mission fields of this district were present with every manifestation of consecrated devotion to their work and with reports which were most encouraging.

Rev. W. W. Drake, chairman of the Committee on Missions, had arranged a programme for a missionary rally, which was held on Sunday afternoon. Before this meeting he read the report of his committee, a copy of which is herewith appended. Rev. Martin Hebert and his helpers all spoke. Mrs. A. P. Holt reviewed the work of foreign missionary societies in the district, and Brother Charles O. Chalmers, of the ADVOCATE, who had been in the Laymen's Convention at Chattanooga, delivered a very bright and instructive address on that subject. The enthusiasm aroused by this meeting caused the members of the Conference, for their charges and individually, to subscribe and pledge two hundred and fifty dollars to sustain and help the workers under Brother Hebert in the French Mission.

In her charming address, Mrs. E. R. Kennedy showed that there are eight Home Mission Societies in this district with 200 members, who have raised in the past year $1326.03. Of this amount $487.70 has been forwarded to the Conference treasurer, and $838.33 expended within the district.

The report of Mrs. Holt, district secretary of the Woman's Foreign Missionary work, shows that there are now four adult auxiliaries, one juvenile auxiliary, 141 members, two life-members, 104 subscribers to missionary papers, one scholarship supported. Receipts from all sources for the year past were $624.07.

A significant mark of increasing activity was the licensing and sending forth of four new preachers.

Rev. F. J. McCoy was added to the Sulphur charge as junior preacher.

The characters of the following local preachers were passed: A. C. Huntley, R. P. Howell, I. O. Berwick, G. W. Reeves and W. B. Pilley.

The characters of the following local preachers were passed and their licenses renewed: Ed. Stine, Julius Beedle and A. W. Hoffpauir.

The character of Rev. J. C. Duplantis was passed, his license renewed, and he was recommended to the Annual Conference for admission on trial.

The following were licensed to preach: Robert E. Martin, Samuel R. Henderson, William V. Falcon, Thomas Hoffpauir, Josiah P. Henderson, and Brothers Martin, Falcon and Samuel Henderson were recommended to the Annual Conference for admission on trial.

The committee reporting favorably, the Conference, by ballot, recommended Rev. Judson W. Lagrone, from the Methodist Episcopal Church, to the Annual Conference for recognition of his orders as a local deacon.

The presiding elder announced the following standing committee:

The Licensing Committee—J. M. Henry, presiding elder; C. C. Miller, R. W. Vaughan, J. I. Hoffpauir and W. W. Drake.

Committee on Missions—J. M. Henry, presiding elder; W. W. Drake, W. L. Doss, Jr. and R. W. Vaughan.

Inquiry elicited the information that the aggregate of debts on churches and parsonages in the district is about $3100. In addition to this there is a debt of $1600 on the district parsonage at Lafayette. The presiding elder was authorized to take collections to reduce this and the pastors were requested to assist him.

The following delegates were elected to the Annual Conference—Henry N. Pharr, A. P. Holt, A. M. Mayo and J. Van Carter.

The following alternates were elected—R. W. Beedle, R. W. Freeman, W. L. Doss and Rev. Julius Beedle.

The following visitors were introduced to the Conference—Rev. M. H. Brown, pastor of the Jeanerette Presbyterian Church; Rev. D. T. Brown, agent American Sunday School Union; Rev. C. C. Weir, agent Louisiana Orphanage, and Brother C. O. Chalmers, publisher of the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE. These three last named represented their work before the Conference.

The work of the American Sunday School Union was formally endorsed.

Brother A. M. Mayo, of Lake Charles, was elected keeper of archives for the Conference.

Jennings was unanimously chosen as the place of next meeting.

After the usual resolution of thanks, referring to the great kindness and hospitality of the people of Jeanerette, the Conference adjourned sine die on Monday afternoon, June 1.

JOHN SHOLARS, Secretary.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON MISSIONS.

The impulse and exercise of imparting the gospel are essential elements of vital Christianity. In the plan of the Master this missionary instinct is inseparably bound up with life in the kingdom of God.

It is as impossible to repress this missionary impulse or neglect its active exercise without impairing spiritual vitality as it is to suppress any natural function of the bodily life without physical suffering and loss.

If the Church is not genuinely and earnestly missionary, she is bound to lose in spirituality and power. This statement is borne out by the historic fact that the non-missionary ages, when the Church has spent her energies upon her own selfish life, have uniformly been the periods of stagnation and corruption.

In reviewing the causes of weakness and lack of spirituality in the churches represented by us, it is well to inquire if one of the chief difficulties may not be found in the absence and repression of the missionary spirit.

In making the inquiry as to our interest in missions, the first question is: To what extent are we expressing in service and sacrifice our desire for the evangelization of the world.

Last year this district contributed forty cents per capita for Foreign and Domestic Missions combined. The contributions for Foreign Missions were less than for either of the two preceding years, which is probably, in part, accounted for by the general financial stringency.

Meanwhile, the collections for Domestic Missions increased nearly thirty per cent, owing to a considerable increase in the assessment. Taking the two items together, there has been a small increase, about five per cent, in our missionary contributions in two years.

Another fact, interesting but not gratifying, is that only three charges last year paid their missionary assessments in full, viz: Lake Charles, Lafayette and Patterson, against twice that number the previous year.

In the twenty pastoral charges of the district there are, so far as we can learn, in actual existence, four Foreign and eight Home Mission Societies among the women, which indicates that in half the pastoral charges the women, who are the spiritual front row in our churches, have not enough of the missionary spirit to look beyond the horizon of their local church.

These and other facts indicate that one of the pressing needs of the district is the cultivation of a missionary conscience and an intelligent missionary enthusiasm.

While the inner need of our spiritual life thus calls for the encouragement of missionary zeal, there is no lack of outward opportunities which appeal loudly to every lover of Christ and his kingdom. Aside from the developments of recent years which have made every non-Christian land offer a pressing invitation for immediate evangelization, our own district, at the present time, offers peculiar opportunities and wide-open doors of invitation which ought to stir every heart.

At our last District Conference provision was made for extending the work of our French Mission where the way seemed to be open. Our missionary, by the assistance provided for him, was able to organize a church in Lafourche Parish with a membership of forty-five, besides a number of probationers. This society, with the aid of the Church Extension Board, has erected a neat house of worship where a successful Sunday school is being operated. Another Sunday school has been organized in the same section. Pressing invitations come to our missionaries from many neighborhoods, some of which have never heard the Word of God read or expounded, and large congregations of eager listeners hear them whenever they are able to go.

We desire to express our appreciation of the work being done by the American Bible Society through the labors of their colporteur, Brother Martin, a member of our mission and licensed to preach by this Conference, who has, in two months, visited 572 homes and sold 223 copies of the Word of God. We recognize the fact that the general distribution of the Word of God is the necessary foundation for our missionary work.

We rejoice likewise in the work of the American Sunday School Union in this field in organizing Sunday schools for the study of God's Word.

We appreciate the interest of the Louisiana Conference in this mission expressed in a liberal collection taken during its recent session for the temporary support of our missionary.

We note with pleasure the fact that the General Board of Missions has undertaken for the future the support of our French missionary, Brother Hebert.

Another opportunity involving grave responsibility is found in the fact that a large number of Italians and some of other nationalities have settled in the bounds of this district out of the vast tide of immigration which is constantly reaching our shores. We cannot afford much longer to neglect the evangelization of these people.

Our brethren in New Orleans and in other places are beginning missionary effort among them, which must be followed in the near future by active work in our bounds.

We beg leave to present the following resolutions for adoption by the Conference:

Resolved, first, That we urge upon our pastors their responsibility for the cultivation of the missionary spirit and conscience by frequent instruction from the pulpit, by the circulation of missionary literature, by the organization and maintenance of Woman's Missionary Societies, both home and Foreign, in every charge where it is possible, and by the enlistment of our laymen in the new "Laymen's Movement" for organized and intelligent service.

Second — That we suggest to the presiding elder the employment of as many helpers as may be available in the French Mission work.

Third — That this Conference raise by pledges and subscription not less than $250 to be employed in the prosecution of the French Mission work under the direction of the presiding elder, with the advice of a Mission Committee of three, to be appointed by the presiding elder.

Fourth — That we recommend to that presiding elder and the Mission Committee to study the possibility of initiating work among the Italians of the district in connection with the work being enterprised in New Orleans.

W. W. DRAKE, Chairman.

Following are the Committee on Missions— J. M. Henry, presiding elder; W. W. Drake, W. L. Doss, Jr. and R. W. Vaughan.

DURANT DISTRICT CONFERENCE.

The Durant District Conference was held in Kilmichael, May 21-24. The attendance was not large, some of the preachers being kept away on account of sickness, and the continued rains kept a number of laymen away.

Our beloved presiding elder, Brother S. M. Thames, presided with his usual grace and ability—the only programme being the plan given in the Discipline. The business moved along smoothly; every interest was carefully attended to, and we were through in good time without rushing or slurring over anything.

Kilmichael was delighted with the Conference, the only disappointment being the small attendance, and the Conference was delighted with Kilmichael. The spiritual interest was fine—it was good to be there, and this writer never knew the reports from the charges on the work generally to be better.

The cause of Christ and of our beloved Methodism is growing in our bounds. The next Conference will go to Louisville. The delegates elected to the Annual Conference were—W. M. Commander, J. B. Streater, F. A. Howell and Dr. T. L. Wilburn. Yours in the work,

J. H. SMITH.

WINONA DISTRICT CONFERENCE.

Our efficient secretary will likely give the readers of the ADVOCATE a full account of the recent session of the Conference, but a word from the undersigned will not be out of place, I trust.

One thing I can say of the preaching done during the session, it was up to high-water mark. Three of the preachers were absent, all for good cause. The attendance on the part of the laymen was not large, but quite a number of elect women favored us with their presence.

I gathered these facts from the reports: There are sixty Sunday schools in the district; our work in this department was never in a more flourishing condition than at present; in some places, notably Itta Bena, the Sunday school membership exceeds the church membership; there are ten or twelve Leagues, six Woman's Foreign Missionary Societies, and twenty-two Woman's Home Mission Societies.

One young man, James Selwyn Duke, was licensed to preach. He will assist Rev. L. W. Cain, of the Itta Bena charge, during the summer, preaching at Morgan and Cude.

The new brick church at Mahen is going up rapidly. Eighteen months ago the whole town was storm-swept, many of our people sustaining heavy losses. Our congregation there is an heroic little band, and they are building a house that will be a credit to them.

Sandy Bayou Church, on the Ruleville charge, was totally destroyed by a storm on the night Purvis was such a great sufferer. The house was worth about $1000. They propose to build a better house this time, costing about $1500. They will build a new house at Salem on the Winona Circuit, costing $800 or $1000. A good delegation wos chosen to the Annual Conference: J. R. Bingham, J. B. Small, J. J. Beck and T. G. James.

J. R. Bingham was chosen district leader of the Laymen's Movement.

It was noted that a number of good meetings had been held, some by the pastors themselves and three by the Conference missionary evangelist, Rev. W. S. Lagrone. At no place was there a large increase in membership, but the work was reported as solid and sane.

Among the celebrities present were Dr. J. W. Boswell, Dr. J. M. Sullivan, Rev. W. M. Williams and Rev. G. W. Bachman. All these brethren were welcome, and none more so than the editor of the ADVOCATE.

The next session will be held at Schlater, on the banks of the beautiful McNutt Lake, celebrated in story and tradition, but the best days of this lovely country are in the future, and not in the past. Schlater's genial pastor will see to that.

E. S. LEWIS.

BELLEVUE POULTRY SUPPLY CO.

Everything in the poultry line: Chickens, Parrots, Guinea Pigs, Rabbits and Pet Stock of every description; Cyphers, Incubators and Feed at Factory Prices, may be had by writing us at 740 Camp St., New Orleans, La. Catalogue sent free.

FLESH WOUNDS

Whether Cuts, Bruises or Burns cannot and will not inflame if treated promptly with

Dr. Tichenor's Antiseptic

The cooling effect stops the pain at once—and a prompt cure, without swelling or suppuration, will follow in each instance.

A bottle in the house is your best safeguard against accidents.

All druggists 25 and 50 cts.

Dr. Tichenor's Antiseptic

ASK ANY ONE WHO HAS EVER USED IT

Christian Advocate.

REV. JNO. W. BOSWELL, D.D., Editor.
REV. H. WHITEHEAD, Ass't Editor.
CHAS. O. CHALMERS, Publisher.

ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT NEW ORLEANS AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

OFFICE: 512 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

TERMS:
One Copy, one year, $2; six months, $1. To Preachers of all Denominations, half-price.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEES:
LOUISIANA CONFERENCE—Rev. W. W. Drake, Rev. N. E. Joyner, Rev. J. M. Henry.
MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE—Rev. M. L. Burton, Rev. W. H. Lewis, Rev. C. W. Crisler.
NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE—Rev. W. T. J. Sullivan, D.D.; Rev. J. T. Murrah, Rev. W. W. Woollard.

THE DULL SEASON.

The dull season is again upon us, and the ADVOCATE will soon begin to feel its effects—that is, in money matters. We have everything else just now that we need. We ask the brethren not to forget us. We cannot expect any preacher at this time to do a great deal in the way of securing cash subscribers, but every one can do a little, and especially those in the country, who from now until way in the Fall will be engaged in revival meetings, which not only offers good opportunities to see the people, but, according to our experience as a circuit preacher, is the very best time to canvass for church enterprises. If not the best time to obtain cash, it is to secure promises, and our people generally pay what they subscribe. We beg the preachers to secure us subscribers—and get the money, if possible.

Any amount of help during the hot months will be greatly appreciated by the publisher, who is the burden-bearer of the office. Knowing from experience what he has to bear, we plead his cause. THE EDITOR.

THE PROHIBITION BILL DEFEATED.

The bill before the Louisiana Legislature calling for the submission of the question of prohibition to the voters of the State was defeated in the lower house last Monday evening. It was lost on a motion for indefinite postponement by a vote of 58 to 47. The prohibitionists made a strong fight, but we suppose only the most ardent and enthusiastic entertained any hope of winning at this session of the Legislature, the liquor business, with headquarters in New Orleans, being too strongly entrenched. Twelve months ago there appeared no hope at all—the only thing expected being the winning of a parish occasionally through the efforts of the Anti-Saloon League. Now there is hope, and the fight will be renewed with energy. In the contest just ended there were two bills before the law-makers: the one calling for submitting the question to the people, and the other a high-license bill with stringent regulations. This last measure was voted on first and was supported almost solidly by the prohibitionists, who preferred that measure to nothing. It appealed loudly to the house because it proposed large revenue and better control of the saloon business.

The great interest in the cause of prohibition now being manifested throughout the State, and the strong anti-liquor vote in the Legislature, serve notice on the whisky party as to what they may expect when the people again go to the polls to choose their lawmakers.

The prohibitionists are not discouraged.

SPEAKER CANNON AND THE LIQUOR INTEREST.

We are not prepared to affirm that Mr. Cannon, Speaker of the House of Representatives at Washington, is dominated by the brewers and distillers, but his attitude towards their business is one of protection. He persistently and doggedly stands between the people and the enactment of any measure which he supposes will injure the liquor traffic. It might be more charitable to say that Mr. Cannon poses as the champion of "personal liberty," but it does not look that way to us. But allowing that he is, and that he is perfectly sincere in his opinions, it does seem that, in the interest of fairness, he would allow measures for the relief of the people who have voted the liquor trade out of their towns and counties and States to come before Congress for discussion and settlement. This he will not do. This is saying much, for it implies a vast amount of power in the hands of the Speaker. But it implies the possession of no more power than Mr. Cannon actually employs—legally, or merely assumed, we undertake not to say.

Judged by the manner in which he presides over the House he is as much of a despot as the autocrat of Russia ever was. He recognizes whom he will, and those who fail to meet his favor must keep their seats. It is his province to appoint committees, and it is charged that matters to be considered which he does not favor he places in the hands of men he knows will fail to report, or report unfavorably.

Mr. Cannon presumes not only to pass judgment on the merits of proposed measures, but also on their constitutionality. At the late session of the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church a committee was appointed to go to Washington to urge the Speaker to allow certain bills before the House, having for their object the protection of prohibition territory against the liquor traffic, to come up for action. This committee was composed of men of the highest standing, and undertook their work in a becoming manner. Dr. Levi Gilbert, of the Western Christian Advocate, says Mr. Cannon received the committee "none too courteously." Instead of giving audience and a dignified reply, such as a committee from a large and honorable body, representing more than two millions of citizens, was entitled to, he entered into a discussion of the questions, and declared to the committee that the bills they desired enacted into law were unconstitutional. In this he utterly ignored the fact that other men quite as intelligent, and holding office quite as high, entertained a different opinion.

We can come to but one conclusion: Mr. Cannon is a friend of the liquor business as conducted in the United States. And Mr. Cannon is a candidate for the Presidency!

THE PASTORAL TIME LIMIT.

The several memorials before the late General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church praying for the restoration of the pastoral time limit were referred to the appropriate committee, but for some reason the committee made no report. This is declared to be "a distinct misfortune to us of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South." It is said that as "We must soon face the question of the abolishment of the pastoral limit, we ought to have the benefit of the opinion of the most judicious observers among those who have already tried the experiment."

The reader will infer from the above quotation that the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, has never faced this question. The General Conference of 1866 faced the question rather boldly, and along with several other aggressive actions, one at least of a revolutionary character, the time limit was abolished in our church, and would have been given a trial, but for the earnest protest of Bishop Pierce. In deference to his wishes, especially, the action was reconsidered, and the limit fixed at four years instead of two.

At least twice since 1866 our General Conference has faced this question without dodging. The last time was at Birmingham, when a decisive negative vote was recorded—this, too, after our Northern brethren had been operating without a limit, six or ten years. At the General Conference in Los Angeles, four years ago, the effort to restore the limit was about as general and determined as it was at Baltimore, and for the same reason—its unsatisfactory working under an itinerant system. The members of our General Conference at Birmingham, perhaps, never heard any speeches by Northern men on the subject, but they read the papers and had through them the benefit of the opinions of the most judicious observers among those who had tried the experiment, and they voted intelligently on the question.

THE PARKER MEMORIAL CHURCH.

Dr. McMurry, Secretary of the Board of Church Extension, was at Alexandria last Sunday where he formally opened the new church for worship, no notes of which have yet reached our office. From Alexandria he came to New Orleans in the interest of the Parker Memorial Church, which, with a building in process of construction, is without money to proceed further, and burdened with a debt of fifteen hundred dollars. Dr. McMurry, as Secretary of the Church Extension Board, proposes to aid in the work, but asks the church to first wipe out the existing debt. To this end nearly half the amount was secured at a meeting on Monday evening, the 15th. Dr. McMurry's visit greatly encouraged the Parker Memorial brethren. They deserve success, and ought to have the sympathy and help of all the Methodists of the city. As the conditions in New Orleans are peculiar, we are decidedly of the opinion that the Church Extenesion Board should make an exception of the work here, and aid liberally in building this house of worship.

PERSONALS.

Mr. R. L. Ross is no longer an agent of this paper, and we will not be responsible for any money he may collect, or subscriptions he may take, after this date.

Rev. J. E. Cunningham, of the Oxford District, will spend a few days at Harrison, Ark., in the Ozark Mountains. His wife, who has been sick for some time past, is there, hoping to recuperate.

The address of Rev. J. B. Randolph is Nashville, Tenn., R. F. D. No 6. Brother Randolph is serving one of the suburban charges at Jordonia. He will spend one more year in the Biblical department of Vanderbilt University.

The meeting at South Side, Meridian, conducted by Rev. J. W. Ramsey, closed last week. The Meridian Dispatch speaks in high terms of Brother Ramsey's preaching, which was acceptable and successful. About forty persons were added to the church.

Rev. H. M. Ellis, Missionary Evangelist of the Mississippi Conference, is doing some excellent and profitable work. In his addresses he uses maps and charts with great effect. He has recently been with Rev. J. L. Reil, of Eucutta, and Rev. L. F. Alford at Pachuta. With both the brethren, he held profitable Missionary Institutes.

We had the pleasure on Monday last of meeting Dr. Jos. W. Repass, President of Centenary College, Cleveland, Tenn. Dr. Repass is canvassing in the interest of his school which has just closed a very successful term, awarding diplomas to nine young ladies in the various departments. See advertisement in this issue of the ADVOCATE.

The present address of Rev. Walter G. Harbin is Seashore Campground, Biloxi, Miss. Brother Harbin has made our hearts glad by a large list of subscribers from Haynesville, La., and from other points, and he is meeting with success in revival services. At Haynesville sixty-four joined the church; at Aberdeen, Miss., forty-four, and at Shubuta, Miss., up to June 10 there were eleven. Brother Harbin is now with Rev. N. G. Augustus at Como, Miss.

Rev. R. W. Tucker, of the Baton Rouge District, reports everything "as going well." The preachers and delegates are preparing for the District Conference which will be held at Ponchatoula, beginning the first day of July.

The Century Magazine favors us with the following personal note: "Andrew Carnegie's early business life in America, beginning at 14 years as a messenger at a monthly wage of $11.25, will be the subject of a personal sketch by David Homer Bates in the July Century. Mr. Bates, who is the author of 'Lincoln in the Telegraph Office,' has filled his narrative of 'The Turning-point of Mr. Carnegie's Career' with many anecdotes of homely and significant interest."

The Woman's Home Mission Society of the Carrollton Avenue Methodist Church, this city, held a public meeting on the evening of June 12. A large congregation was on hand. Mrs. D. J. Bryson presided, and interesting talks on the work of the Society were made by Mrs. S. A. Montgomery, Miss Lee Crittenden, Miss Ethel Jackson, Mrs. D. C. Worrell, Mrs. Jacob Cohen and Mrs. J. H. Carter. After the meeting the congregation repaired to the lawn, where a reception was tendered their pastor, Rev. H. T. Carley, and wife in honor of their first wedding anniversary. Brother Sam Stone explained the purpose of the reception, and, on behalf of the ladies, presented the pastor and his wife with fitting tokens of love. After a feeling response by Brother and Sister Carley, refreshments were served, and those present spent a profitable hour in a social way.

MILLSAPS COMMENCEMENT.

Believing most heartily in the theory that publicity will always be serviceable to a good cause, I write these few lines to tell the Advocate readers about Millsaps College commencement. The orations and speeches of the boys were up to high-water mark. Dr. W. F. Tillett said to a friend that he had never heard better speeches on any commencement occasion than was delivered by the Millsaps boys. On Sunday Dr. Tillett gave us a great sermon on "God's Method of Making the Perfect Man." At night Dr. Alonzo Meek pleased a great audience as he preached on "Fidelity Plus Crowns."

A class of eighteen were graduated from the literary department, and a class of twenty-one from the law department. Dr. Tillett delivered the annual address, his subject being "Ethics and Altruism."

This has been a very successful year; 296 pupils have been enrolled, and we have reason to believe that we will have 350 or more next year. Already the names of 120 new boys have been sent in.

The Board of Trustees had a satisfactory meeting. They increased the salary of the President of the College to $2,500 per annum, and the salaries of each of the professors to $1,500 per annum.

Our endowment fund now amounts to $203,000, exclusive of scholarships, and we have every prospect to hope that $22,000 will be added to this amount within the next year. It was reported that the Agent had an uncollected subscription list of $37,000, and that $4,000 was due now. If all our friends will rally to the College, we can collect sufficient funds to secure an additional $50,000.

The vacancy in the Chair of Mathematics, caused by the death of Dr. J. A. Moore, will be filled soon. An assistant to Profs. Ricketts and Huddleston in the preparatory department will be employed at a salary of $1,000.

We begin the year under the most hopeful conditions. While the past of our existence is full of satisfactory recollections, the future is bright with great promise. Let it be remembered that in the fourteen oratorical contests participated in by the four colleges of the State Millsaps' representatives have received the highest mark on manuscript in every contest. Please read the foregoing sentence again. Let our Methodist people inform themselves concerning their own College, and not only be able to silence all criticisms, but to give good and substantial reasons for patronizing it.

It is earnestly desired that the Alumni shall be brought more vitally into contact with the progressive plans of the College.

Rev. J. R. Countiss gave us an admirable address on "The Monk, the Minister, the Man," as illustrating the various phases or conceptions of life.

T. W. LEWIS.

FOR GILLIAM CHURCH.

Dear Dr. Boswell: Please give me space to acknowledge a gift of $50 for Gilliam Church from Mrs. Ella Christian Keener, of New Orleans, which will be sent at once to J. T. Means, Ida, La., who was designated by the pastor to receive these moneys. I thank Sister Keener in behalf of a cyclone-stricken people. "The love of Christ constraineth her."

Yours in Christ, H. S. JOHNS,
Chaplain State Penitentiary, Baton Rouge, La.

BATON ROUGE DISTRICT CONFERENCE.

The Baton Rouge District Conference will convene at Ponchatoula, La., at 8 p.m., July 1. The opening sermon will be preached by Rev. J. P. Haney on Wednesday night, at 8 p.m. Let all come expecting and praying for a gracious revival. We can have it, brethren, if we will. R. W. TUCKER, P. E.

COLUMBUS DISTRICT CONFERENCE.

Dear Doctor Boswell: Our District Conference will convene at Mathiston, July 1, and continue through three days. Programmes have been mailed to all the pastors, who will please distribute them to their respective delegates and members of District Conference, and the pastors will also please call the attention of members to the time and Conference and urge them to come. Let every pastor do his utmost to get a full attendance from his charge to the District Conference. If our District Conferences are to accomplish more for the church, we must get more of our people there.

Brother Goudelock writes me that he is having no trouble providing homes and can get homes for 85 people. The good people at Mathiston have their hearts and homes open for all who will come. Let us have a record-breaking and epoch-making Conference.

Prominence will be given to the spiritual and religious feature of the Conference. Let us make it a great spiritual power in Mathiston. Let all come with prayer and faith.

The Layman's Missionary Movement will have special attention and will be projected by organization:

COMMITTEES:

License to Preach—J. E. Thomas, T. H. Dorsey and Q. A. Oats.

On Orders—Dr. J. W. Shoaff, T. C. Wier and A. P. Leach.

Admission on Trial—D. W. Babb, S. L. Pope and W. V. Connell.

General State of Church—J. A. Poe, W. H. Carter and W. R. Goudelock.

Sunday Schools—T. J. Hopkins, John C. Golden and J. A. Watson.

Epworth League—W. C. Galceran, J. L. Nabors and W. C. Gunter.

Education—R. H. B. Gladney and Prof. Dabney Lipscomb.

Missions—T. M. Brownlee and T. H. Hopper.

In order to have a full attendance on opening session, Wednesday morning, July 1st, it will be necessary for all to come the day before. So Brother Gladney will preach opening sermon on Tuesday night, June 30th. Let pastors urge their delegates and members to come.

L. M. LIPSCOMB, P. E.

TO PASTORS OF COLUMBUS DISTRICT.

Please urge all your delegates to attend the District Conference at Mathiston, July 1. We have made ample preparation for entertainment of all

W. R. GOUDELOCK, P. C.

VICKSBURG DISTRICT CONFERENCE NOTES.

A good friend furnishes us with the following notes and personals from the Vicksburg District Conference which met in Bolton, Miss., June 10-13:

Rev. W. J. Ferguson preached the opening sermon. The attendance was not large, but a fine spirit of harmony and progress prevailed. Brother Bachman was early on the ground with his excellent books. The special interests were about all represented. Rev. T. W. Lewis, Educational Commissioner; Rev. H. M. Ellis, Missionary Evangelist; Rev. Robert Selby, Conference Secretary of Education, and Rev. T. J. O'Neil, representative of the Trustees of the Conference Endowment Fund, all were accorded hearty wecome and ample opportunity to deliver their messages. It is practically assured now that the Vicksburg District will take care of the salary of Miss Nell D. Drake, the splendid young lady who went out from Port Gibson of that District last year to the work in China. The faithful presiding elder and pastors are almost to a man determined to bring the District up to the full payment of all assessments this year, regardless of the financial situation, and plans are on foot to cover the deficit of any lagging charge. A delightful feature was the presence of Dr. S. A. Steel, enjoying a vacation from his work in Brownwood, Texas, who delivered to a large and delighted audience his magnificent address on "The Pioneers of Methodism."

NOTICE LEAGUERS.

Delegates and preachers coming to the North Mississippi League Conference will please send me their names and addresses at once. J. B. SMALL,
Winona, Miss.

PREACHER WANTED.

I want some one to fill a Charge of six appointments with a small parsonage, situated on railroad in town of about one thousand people, which is one of the six appointments; will pay right man from now until Conference, $325.00. Would be glad to correspond with any one that could fill the Charge.

J. H. MITCHELL, P. E.,
Aberdeen District.

Twelve Good Reasons for Patronizing Grenada College.

First—The unexcelled Home Comforts, unequaled anywhere else in the State.

Second—The Health Conditions; we rarely require the service of a physician.

Third—Our unusually skilled corps of teachers, whom we were able to secure only by paying a salary much above that paid by other girls' schools of the State.

Fourth—The Fine Arts Department, unequaled in the State and unexcelled in the South. Our teacher of Art studied in Germany and France, and our teachers of Music are graduated from the best Conservatories of America.

Fifth—The Descriptive Course of Study, which is conscientiously carried out as indicated.

Sixth—The Lyceum Course, which is superior even to that sustained in the University of Mississippi.

Seventh—The Library, which is fuller and better adapted than that of most girls schools of the South.

Eighth—Strong Christian Influence dominating all instruction.

Ninth—Personal Attention to the Individual Pupil, with a view to develop the best even out of peculiarities of character.

Tenth—A superior Student Body as Associates, since most of the indifferent have been eliminated.

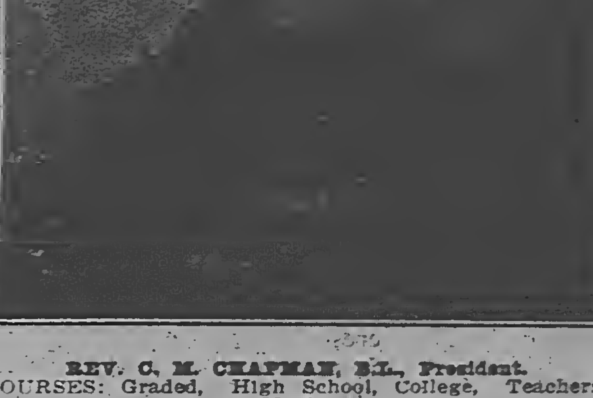
Eleventh—The Rates are lower than those of any other school doing the same grade of work, owing to the Conference Assessment, which gives us an income not possessed by other schools; further, we have no stockholders to whom we are forced to pay dividends, as are some private schools. Our patrons receive back in excellence of service more than they pay in.

Twelfth—All these superior features enable us to turn out a larger percentage of graduates, who take high stand in the educational world, than any other school in the State. It means something to hold a diploma of the Grenada College.

Register for Rooms at Once and Thus Secure Choice of Location.

W. L. CLIFTON, A.B., Ph.B., President.
Grenada, Miss.

Montrose Preparatory College,
MONTROSE, MISS.



REV. C. M. CHAPMAN, B.L., President.
COURSES: Graded, High School, College, Teachers, Music.
SESSION OPENS SEPTEMBER 1st. TUITION, $30. BOARD, $10.

This is the place for your boy or girl to have home influence. The Only School of its kind in the State of Mississippi. 250 Students. Write for Catalogue. On the M. J. & K. C. R. R., 14 miles south of Newton, Miss.

HUMAN HANDS DO NOT TOUCH IT.

From the time the raw materials reach our factory they are handled entirely by machinery, kept scrupulously clean. No chance for to become contaminated. It is strictly pure and wholesome. Our factory is as clean as your kitchen.

Jell-O ICE CREAM Powder

ICE CREAM is Easy to Make.

1 quart milk.
1 package JELL-O ICE CREAM Powder.
Mix, and freeze without cooking.
Simple, isn't it?

This makes two quarts of smooth, velvety ice cream, deliciously flavored, in 10 minutes at cost of about 1 cent a plate.

Flavors: Chocolate, Vanilla, Strawberry, Lemon and Unflavored.

Sold by your grocer 2 packages for 25c. "Enough for a gallon," —or by mail if he does not keep it.

The Genesee Pure Food Co., Le Roy, N. Y.

Sunday School

By W. B. Campbell

LESSON FOR JUNE 21.

REVIEW.

Golden text: "But these things are written that ye might believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God, and that, believing ye might have life through his name." John xx:31.

Our own belief that Jesus Christ is the Son of God is beyond any question. It seems that we have always thought of this great truth as such a sublime fact that no doubt has ever presented itself to us. Our time of doubt is when we wonder if such a saving faith reaches to poor unworthy me. During these seasons, when our souls are disturbed within us, we search for Scriptural assurance that we, ourselves, are included when the words, "whosoever—all," appear in the promises recorded in the holy Word of God.

Notwithstanding this, there is a continual disturbance between the full assurance of faith and a fear lest at any time we let slip the good word of God that we have tasted. It is the greatest of blessings that we can learn from one who leaned upon the breast of the Lord, and there learned the perfect love that casteth out all fear. Having lived so close to the Lord, John learned the lesson of love that ran through all he ever afterwards wrote or spoke. It is said that when he became an old man, too feeble to walk, that he was carried to where the people were assembled, and his sermons often were only the words, "Little children, love one another;" as that was the message of Christ, so he could only repeat it over and over, for the gospel is founded on love.

The Lord said, "I am the door." Many are trying to go to heaven some other way, some other door of entrance; but the word "Jesus" is the pass-word, and the gate will open at none other. He is the good shepherd that cares for the sheep while in the world, thus preparing them for entrance into the eternal fold. He gave demonstration of his power in bringing back Lazarus from the grave, so that his words, "I am the resurrection and the life," should be proved to us before his great and final call to "all that are in their graves and will hear his voice." In one passage connected with a past lesson he tells us that he was with the Father before the world was. His deity is also shown in the wonderful way in which he overcome his enemies by the word of his mouth. The Christian can use the same means today in overcoming all evil, for the "sword of the Spirit is quick and powerful." He was and is truly the Son of God for in him is all Scripture of prophecy fulfilled. He was God because only God can vanquish death and break the bonds of the grave. No merely human writer could write of the Christ that lived and moved among the people, going about doing good, from the beginning of his ministry until the time of his being offered up as a sacrifice for sin; then write of him as the risen Christ that moved among them for forty days in his risen, glorified body. No human mind could conceive an arrangement of acts that prove, beyond a doubt, his resurrection. It is the Holy Spirit that is not only the author, but also the finisher of this foundation of our hope of eternal life. As he came to a doubter, Thomas, and gave proofs to him singly and alone, so to any doubter, honest doubter, will he come now and make it all plain that he is the Christ, the Son of God.

Everything that heaven can do has been done that faith may abound in the world. The call to repentance, with loving pardon, fills all time. Angels desire to look into and help the heavenly Father show the world that he is not willing that any should perish, but that all should come to repentance. It was not an angel, but the Son himself that left his Father's throne and came into the world to make a way for all the sheep to be gathered into the fold. John's message to the world is the divinity of Jesus of Nazareth, and our hearts burn within us as we read his words, thanking our Father for such a Savior. While he is the Savior of the whole world, yet the thought that "he is mine, and I am his," and the sweet personal relationship between him and each of us, make him doubly dear. We will follow in his steps, while it is his will that we remain; so that when we are called to stand before the bar of God to give an account we take courage to look in the face of our Judge, when, behold! the Judge is none other than he who drew us to him when he said, "Come unto me all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest."

The Alaska Packers Association has taken the highest awards at every World's Fair where its Canned Salmon was shown. At St. Louis World's Fair the Red Salmon took the only grand prize ever given to Salmon at any World's Fair. ARGO RED SALMON is packed exclusively by the Association.

The only preparation for the morrow is the right use of to-day.—Rowen.

Character of the divinest sort can always be built with tools right at hand.—Exchange.

The Torture of Itching Eczema

is almost instantly relieved and quickly cured by Tetterine, a fragrant ointment prepared by The Shuptrine Co., Savannah, Ga. It is the finest prescription ever discovered for Eczema, Tetter, Itching Piles and Scalp and Skin Diseases. If your druggist cannot supply you, send 50 cents in stamps to The Shuptrine Co., Savannah, Ga.

MOXINE
Cures LAGRIPPE and Colds.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup

has been used for over Sixty-Five Years by millions of mothers for their children while teething with perfect success. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain; cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for Diarrhoea. Sold by Druggists in every part of the world. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Guaranteed under the Food and Drugs Act, June 30th, 1906. Serial Number 1098. An Old and Well Tried Remedy.

MOXINE CHILL TONIC
Only Tonic—one bottle—one cure.

A GOOD PIANO, PIANO PLAYER or PLAYER PIANO see the Grunewald's
Before You Buy.
Agents for the Latest Improved and best Instruments on the Market.

The Birmingham Dental College
OFFERS FINE ADVANTAGES FOR SECURING A DENTAL EDUCATION.

Over a hundred thousand people are in touch with the infirmary, furnishing abundant material for practice. Write at once for our catalogue.

CHAS. A. MERRILL, Dean.
708 First National Bank Building - - - - - - - - - - Birmingham, Ala.

LOW NOW ON SUMMER RATE

The place to get a good BUSINESS EDUCATION, to prepare for a GOOD POSITION, and to get ready for THE RUSH of the fall business is AT

DRAUGHON'S PRACTICAL BUSINESS COLLEGE

INDORSED by business men from Maine to California. Catalogue FREE; ask for it.
Shreveport, Jackson, Miss., Waco, Fort Worth, Dallas, Nashville or Washington, D. C.

Cheapest School on Earth

Because we charge enough to enable us to give something just a little better, just a little more up-to-date, and much more of it in the finished product, than the other "fellow."

Departments; --- Preparatory, Bookkeeping, Shorthand, and Typewriting.

The best system of Bookkeeping, Shorthand, and general routine. The kind that is made up from actual office experience, not from supposition and a smattering book idea.

New typewriters, the touch system, with blanked keyboards.

Write to-day for prices, full particulars and a few souvenir post cards.

WARD SEMINARY

Purpose The purpose of the school is to do serious and honest work in the Christian education of girls and young women.

Courses Seminary, Special, and College Preparatory Courses. French and German under native teachers. Art, life model. Expression, three years' course.
Conservatory of Music. Seven piano teachers, two voice teachers, etc. Thirty new pianos.

Advantages Nashville excels in climate, healthfulness, and social culture. It is the educational center of the South, and affords unusual advantages in lectures, recitals, and other opportunities for practical education.
Every facility for physical culture is afforded. Tennis, bowling, etc. Beautiful city campus of ten acres, and suburban campus of forty acres.
Only one hundred and seventy-five boarding pupils are received.

Indorsement Nearly half a century of increasing public favor and success. Patrons say: "Ward Seminary is an ideal Christian home." "The work done in Ward Seminary is of an unusually high order, and the religious tone the best." "The social life of the seminary is of the very highest order." "My daughter has enjoyed in your school the best health she has had since she was twelve years old." "We can scarcely find words to thank you for what you have done for our daughter."

The Forty-fourth Year Begins September 24. Early Application is Advised.

For Catalog, Address J. D. BLANTON, President, Nashville, Tenn.

LONG DISTANCE TELEPHONES for FARMERS, PHYSICIANS, COUNTRY MERCHANTS, and COTTON GINNERIES
Private Lines and Exchanges

TALK WITH YOUR NEIGHBORS
Organize a Phone line among you.
No previous experience or knowledge necessary.
Write Today.

We guarantee our Phones against damage from lightning—something never done before.
Get particulars.
Write To-day.

A phone line is the cheapest servant you could have. In case of fire, danger of any sort, sickness or distress, it brings help instantly.
Write To-day.

Get our book "ALL ABOUT THE TELEPHONE." It tells you everything you need to know about telephones. How to build, install, and operate. Regular price 25 cents. We mail it absolutely free if you write and mention this paper. Write To-day.

For a limited time you can secure our famous Mammoth 5-bar Bridging Long Distance Telephone complete with Batteries and Outfit for installing in house, including Lightning Arrester—the whole outfit warranted and guaranteed for $11.25.

REMEMBER THIS OFFER IS FOR A LIMITED TIME ONLY. Write To-day.

THE SUMTER TELEPHONE MANUFACTURING COMPANY. Box 63, SUMTER, S. C.

EUGENE B. TROY,
PLUMBER.
Sewer Connections on the One Profit Plan
4721 PERRIER ST.
Phone, Uptown 2591

"SKYLAND INN."
4400 feet above sea level.
Blowing Rock, N. C.

OPENS June 18th. 1908. Highest location at Blowing Rock, roomy halls, broad verandas, magnificent scenery. Address E. R. Stewart, Prop., Newton, N. C., until June 15th. Rates: From $7.00 to $12.00 a week.

PORT GIBSON FEMALE COLLEGE,
Port Gibson, Miss.

68th Session Opens Sept. 23, 1908. Standard of Literary Work High. Music, Elocution, Art, Commerce, Sewing. Special Attention Given Health and Morals. Electric Lights, Artesian Water. Boarding Patronage Steadily Increasing. Trip to National Military Park, Mississippi's New Capitol, and State Fair—a Feature of Next Session.
Henry G. Hawkins, A. B., Pres.

UNLIKE ALL OTHERS
MERIDIAN WOMAN'S COLLEGE
HOME FOR GIRLS SAFE
HIGH CURRICULUM
CHARACTER FACTORY
CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC
LARGEST IN THE SOUTH
WRITE FOR CATALOG TO PRES. J. W. BEESON, A.M. MERIDIAN, MISS.

Belmont College
For YOUNG WOMEN. Nashville, Tenn.
Regular College and Preparatory Courses. Music, Art, Languages, Physical Culture. Beautiful location: Golf, tennis, hockey, all the year. Register now. Catalogue on request.
Rev. IRA LANDRITH, D.D., LL. D., Regent.
Miss HOOD and Miss HERON, Principals.

ASTHMA AND HAY FEVER CURED before you pay. I will send to any sufferer a bottle of LANE'S ASTHMA CURE FREE If it cures you send me $1.00. If it does not, don't. Give express office address. D. J. LANE, Box R. P., St. Mary's, Kansas.

3½ to 200 H.P. Saw Mill Outfits. Steam, Gasoline or Water Power. Planers, Shingle Mills, Corn Mills.
WE PAY FREIGHT. DeLOACH MILL MANUFACTURING CO. BOX 383 BRIDGEPORT, ALA. SEND FOR CATALOG

ALTAR CHAIRS, SUNDAY School Seats, School Desks, Portable Chairs, Collection Plates, Communion Tables, Lodge Furniture, etc. Ask for big Catalog No. 60. E. H. Stafford Mfg. Co., Chicago, Ill.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL
The Double Track Route.

26 Hours to Chicago
21 Hours to St. Louis
22 Hours to Louisville
26 Hours to Cincinnati

Through Sleeping Cars to above points. Dining Cars, Library Cars, Chair Cars and Coaches.
Full Particulars at
City Ticket Office,
141 ST. CHARLES STREET.
Phone Main 2618.

MOXINE CHILL TONIC
Only Tonic—one bottle—one cure.

TYRO CHARGE.

We had our second Quarterly Conference last Saturday and Sunday, and it was, in some respects, the best I ever attended. The financial report was good for the time of year, but the feature that most impressed me was the fact that some of our laymen made speeches in favor of world-wide missions. Ten years ago very few of our laymen seemed to feel any interest whatever in foreign missions, a large per cent positively opposing missions. The Conference appointed a circuit leader of the Laymen's Missionary Movement, besides the Sardis District leader is a member of this charge.

This was the first visit of our presiding elder, Brother Yonng, to Tyro community. He expressed himself as well impressed with the church and community, and I need not add that the people were highly pleased with him and his preaching. May God make him a benediction to every community he visits, as we feel that he was to ours.

We reported about $100 worth added to improvements and furnishings of parsonage, and a similar amount to Tyro Church for carpet, stove, lighting outfit, etc.

Prospects are bright for sweeping revivals at all churches, and full payment of all regular assessments by the end of the year.

One Woman's Home Mission Society has been organized this year, and it is doing good work. To it is due the credit for the new carpet in Tyro Church.

With best wishes for you and the Advocate.

E. E. LANGFORD.

Tyro, Miss.

ARGO, ARGO, ARGO, ARGO, ARGO,
ARGO, ARGO, ARGO, ARGO, ARGO,
ARGO, ARGO, ARGO, ARGO, ARGO,
ARGO, ARGO, ARGO, ARGO, ARGO.

MOXINE CHILL TONIC
Only Tonic—one bottle—one cure.

A GREAT DAY AT BYHALIA, MISS.

Dear Dr. Boswell: Yesterday was a great day with the Methodists of Byhalia. Mr. Thos. B. King, Memphis Conference leader of the Laymen's Movement, spoke to a large congregation at 11 o'clock, and again at 3 p. m. He is a consecrated layman with large business interests. His presentation of this great movement is most felicitous. At the conclusion of the afternoon service the Church Conference elected four lay leaders from Byhalia Church and the pastor appointed the circuit leader. Our laymen are aroused and enthused. We will organize at the two country appointments this round, and thus take our places in line of "onward, march."

Surely, God is leading his Church into greater usefulness and more fruitful joys.

The Children's Day service last night attracted the largest congregation we have yet seen here. The programme was followed to the letter. How could it be improved? The children beautifully presented to us Faith, Hope and Love. Truly, we had a glad day of worship and fellowship.

S. A. BROWN.

June 8, 1908.

BLOOD POISONING
POSITIVELY CURED
Hereditary, primary, secondary and tertiary. Scrofula, Eczema, Blood and Skin Disease. If you have exhausted old-time methods, and want to get well, write me in fullest confidence for proof of cures. Take my treatment and get well. A. A. BROWER, M. D.
San Antonia, Tex.

MOXINE
Cures LAGRIPPE and Colds.

DENHAM SPRINGS, LA.

Dear Dr. Boswell: We are making some progress on the Live Oak Circuit. We have received two members, and two have made application for membership. We are painting the church at this place and arranging for a new fence around the parsonage. Denham Springs is taking on new life. The new railroad coming through here has been a great help to this point. About a dozen new dwellings and new stores are going up, and business of all kinds is opening up. It is a beautiful location, fine water, both artesian and springs; beautiful shade-trees, good land and fine timber.

Our church is weak, but good people are moving in here, and some of them are Methodists. Our camp-meeting begins July 10, and will continue to the 19th. Rev. W. D. Bass, of Corinth, Miss., will lead in the preaching, and Brother R. N. Jeffries will lead the singing. We are looking forward for a great meeting. Yours faithfully,

F. N. SWEENEY.

Argo Red Salmon is sold everywhere by reliable grocers.

CHURCH DIRECTORY.

New Orleans District, Rev. F. N. Parker, D.D., presiding elder; residence, 241 Olivier St.

Rev. John T. Sawyer, D.D., Conference Missionary Evangelist; residence, 2421 Chestnut St.; phone, Uptown 1832.

First Methodist Church, St. Charles Ave., near Calliope St.; Rev. J. E. Wray, pastor; residence, 5830 Prytania St.; phone, Uptown 329; office hours, at Church, 2 to 3 p. m.; Church phone, Main 1779.

Second Methodist Church, 2531 Burgundy, near Lafayette Ave.; Rev. A. I. Townsley, pastor; residence, 2728 N. Rampart St.; office hours, 9 to 11 a.m.; phone, Main 978.

Parker Memorial, corner Nashville avenue and Perrier street; Rev. C. D. Atkinson, pastor; residence 734 Nashville avenue.

Louisiana Avenue, corner Louisiana Ave. and Magazine St.; Rev. W. W. Holmes, pastor; residence 2903 Camp St.; phone, Uptown 1391.

Rayne Memorial, St. Charles Avenue and General Taylor Streets; Dr. John A. Rice, pastor; residence, 1101 Peniston Street.

Felicity Street Church, corner Felicity and Chestnut Streets; Rev. Albert S. Lutz, pastor; residence 2321 Chestnut Street.

Carrollton Avenue, corner Carrollton aveuue and Elm street; Rev. Henry T. Carley, pastor; residence, 1125 Fern St.; phone, Uptown 1238.

Algiers, Lavergne Street, corner Delaronde; Rev. J. F. Foster, pastor.

McDonoghville and Gretna, Rev. H. Whitehead, pastor; residence 5208 Magazine Street; phone, Uptown 2459.

Epworth Church, corner Banks and Scott Streets; Rev. L. A. Sims, pastor; residence, 232 South Pierce Street.

Rev. Jno. L. Sutton, Superintendent Orphan Boys' Asylum; residence, 5220 St. Charles Ave.; phone, Uptown 128.

Italian Missionary, Rev. Francesco Zito, Residence, 539 St. Ann St.; Mission Hall, 521 St. Peter St.

Rev. L. E. Wicht, junior preacher Lower Coast Mission; address, 509 Board of Trade Bldg., New Orleans.

R. F. Harrell, pastor, Mary Werlein Mission; also secretary Y. M. C. A., 815 St. Charles.

MOXINE CHILL TONIC
Only Tonic—one bottle—one cure.

TERRIBLE CRAMPS

"My wife," writes Joe Moorhead, of Archibald, Okla., "had been troubled with cramps, every month, from the time she first came to womanhood. She would be in bed from four to seven days at a time.

"She tried doctor's remedies, but they did her no good, so, after many years of suffering, I gave her CARDUI, as you directed. After she had taken one bottle, she was not bothered any more with cramps, and now she has a fine boy baby.

"We recommend Cardui to all women who suffer from female troubles."

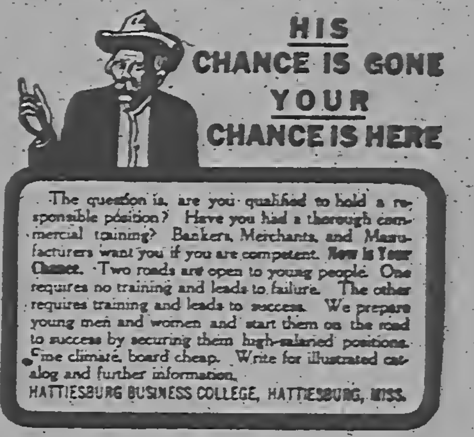
Cardui, as you know, is a popular medicine with women. It is popular because it has been found to relieve their pains, bring roses to pale cheeks, strength to weak bodies and nerves.

Its specific action is on the cause of most female ills, and thus, it is a medicine especially for women, with a record of over 50 years of success in the treatment of troubles peculiar to women.

Cardui is sold at all drug stores, with full instructions for use.
Try Cardui.

Drives 'Em Out Of House To Die

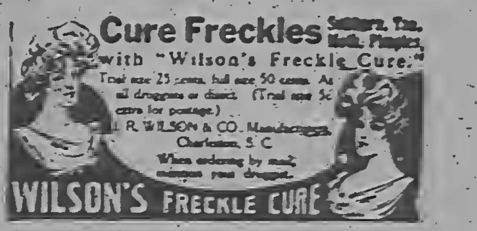
Get a box of
Stearns' Electric RAT and ROACH Paste
If you are troubled with rats or mice. It is sure death, driving them out of the house to die. Easy to use and gives quick and sure results. Sold for 30 years, and never yet failed to kill off rats and mice. Also for cockroaches, water-bugs and other vermin. 2 oz. box, 25c; 16 oz. box, $1.00. Sold at druggists and general stores everywhere, or sent direct prepaid on receipt of price.
STEARNS' ELECTRIC PASTE CO. Buffalo, N.Y., U.S.A.



The question is, are you qualified to hold a responsible position? Have you had a thorough commercial training? Bankers, Merchants, and Manufacturers want you if you are competent. Now is Your Chance. Two roads are open to young people. One requires no training and leads to failure. The other requires training and leads to success. We prepare young men and women and start them on the road to success by securing them high-salaried positions. Fine climate, board cheap. Write for illustrated catalog and further information.
HATTIESBURG BUSINESS COLLEGE, HATTIESBURG, MISS.

BLYMYER CHURCH BELLS. UNLIKE OTHER BELLS SWEETER, MORE DURABLE, LOWER PRICE. OUR FREE CATALOGUE TELLS WHY.
Write to Cincinnati Bell Foundry Co., Cincinnati, O.

FITS St. Vitus' Dance and Nervous diseases permanently cured by Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. Send for FREE $2.00 trial bottle and treatise. Dr. R. H. Kline, Ltd., 931 Arch St., Philadelphia, Pa.



Sunburn, Tan, Moth, Pimples, with "Wilson's Freckle Cure." Trial size 25 cents, full size 50 cents. At all druggists or direct. (Trial size 5c extra for postage.) T. R. WILSON & CO., Manufacturers, Charleston, S. C. When ordering by mail mention your druggist.

MOXINE
Cures LAGRIPPE and Colds.

Obituaries.

Obituaries not over two hundred words in length will be published free of charge. All over two hundred words will be charged at the rate of 1 cent a word. Count the words and send the amount necessary with the obituary. That will save trouble all around.

Mrs. BADGLEY died May 24, 1908, in her 84th year, and her life had been devoted to her church and family. The funeral services were held at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. J. C. Aust in Aust, Vidalia, Miss., conducted by the Rev. Mr. Lewis, who spoke of her long, useful Christian life of nearly four score years coming to such a peaceful end, surrounded by daughter, grandchildren and great-grandchildren, and of the sweet, angelic expression of her face, which gave them blessed assurance that her soul was at peace with her Savior. She was a Methodist for seventy years. A friend.

LAURA L. CHEVALIER.

Mrs. N. B. GILBERT (nee McRae), sister of Dr. McRae and second cousin of Governor McRae, died on April 25, 1908, from a wound received from a flying piece of timber during a cyclone the day before, from which she never regained consciousness, making her death inexpressibly sad. She was born in Wayne County, Miss.; joined the Church of her faith early, and lived a loyal, consistent member; always kind and charitable to the poor. Her remains were interred at Philadelphia Cemetery, surrounded by a large concourse of relatives and friends. Sweet words are a legacy, but the memory of a beautiful life is dearer still. The sweet expression on her face told all was well. May her influences abide with her loved ones always. God bless them and help them to look forward to that happy reunion in heaven.

A FRIEND.

Mrs. SABRA COWART, widow of Dr. N. W. Cowart, died Feb. 22, 1908, at the home of her sister, Mrs. Lucy Fairley, of Basin, Miss. Mrs. Cowart had been an invalid for nearly a year before her death, and had passed through the severe ordeal of having an operation performed on her at an infirmary in Mobile a few months previous to her death. Through all her painful illness she bore her afflictions without murmuring and with a Christian fortitude that revealed a strong and beautiful faith in the supreme divinity of God's will. She had learned the great lesson so hard for many of us to learn: to suffer and be still. She was stricken in the prime of life, but, unmurmuring, surrendered all this life could hold for her, and with a calm, sweet faith, waited patiently for the final summons home. In an interview with her pastor a few days previous to her death she said all was well with her spiritually, that she was prepared to go and did not dread death. She leaves to mourn her two sisters and three brothers, besides many nephews and nieces and a host of friends. Her niece, ANNIE DAVIS.

HENRY SKIPWITH HARPER—At the home of his grand-parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Skipwith, Baton Rouge, La., May 6, Henry Skipwith Harper, only child of Robert Henry Harper and Edna Skipwith. Surely, never, it seems to us, has death sped on a sadder mission than when he took our little darling from us. Only seventeen happy months was our little Henry permitted to gladden the home where he was as the bright sunshine is to the earth, and which is now so desolate without him. Seventeen months! How short the time, and yet long enough to entwine himself so deeply in our affections that he has torn his way out of our hearts, and left them bruised and bleeding. Could skilful physicians, devoted nurses, the love and prayers of devoted parents, grand-parents and a large circle of loved ones have availed, his precious life would have been spared. But it was not to be: "only God knew that he needed home and life's early close." And his little life, so brief, had its mission of tenderness and love; we are all better that he lived, and now that he is gone from us, we have only "sweet memories" of the little sunbeam that has vanished from our sight. Over and over in thought will we live his little life. How hard to go on our way without him; hopes that reached out through the years withered and dead; the "happy circle broken" here; but another "precious tie" on the other shore, and for the hope of seeing again a little golden head, we go forward, the way lovelier, but the desire to reach the city stronger. Grieve not mother; weep not father; he whom you so fondly loved is now "safe in the arms of Jesus." As we left the little flower-covered mound in the City Cemetery for our distant home we thought, "Of such is the kingdom of heaven." May God help us to bow in submission and say, "Thy will be done."

"Fold him, oh, Father, in thine arms
And let him ever be
A messenger of love between
Our human hearts and thee."

GRANDMOTHER.

Mrs. REBECCA BOWEN, wife of Rev. John Bishop Bowen, died May 21, 1908. Her maiden name was Rebecca Millsaps. She was the daughter of Reuben Millsaps and his wife, Mattie Lauverna Clower. These latter were married Aug. 28, 1828, and to them were born nine children, to-wit: William G., a prominent minister in the M. E. Church; Reuben Webster, John Jackson, Rebecca, Purity Ann, Benjamin Franklin, Sarah Eliza Columbia and Louvenia. All these have acted their part and passed away except Major R. W. Millsaps, who lives at Jackson, and Mrs. Johnson, at Harriston. Mrs. Bowen was born March 30, 1838, and her childhood days were spent at the old homestead in Copiah County. Here in early life she made profession of faith and united with the M. E. Church, South. She was married to Brother Bowen June 3, 1856, and was the mother of eleven children. Of these five are living to-day, all of them mothers, training up a goodly number of boys and girls in the way they should go. It is pleasing to put on record a notice of Mrs. Bowen, for she was a true mother in Israel. The tender spirit of Jesus Christ was manifest through all her life. She was modest and unselfish. Life eternal was hers, but in deep humility she claimed no merit of her own. Her trust was wholly in God.

"I'm a poor sinner and nothing at all,
But Jesus Christ is my all in all."

The labor of her heart and hand was ever employed in the service of others. In her tongue was the law of kindness and her price was far above rubies. In her young womanhood Brother Bowen was engaged in the itinerant ministry, and the service made exacting demands upon the minister's wife. Mrs. Bowen measured up nobly to all these demands. She was a good home-keeper, and with wise economy she managed her household and taught all her daughters the tender virtues of family life. In her home there was always the prophet's room, and on her table the prophet's bread was served, and when ministering brethren came and ate of that bread they felt that they had been with the King's children and carried away with them memories of blessing. During the last days of her life, when her strength of body was gone and she had to stay in her room, and later on remain in her bed, her faith and hope grew brighter and stronger, and we all knew that with her dying would be going home. There was no ecstasy nor rapture in her experience; it was the calm victory of faith and trust in Jesus Christ. She was born into the kingdom by faith. She walked by faith and in faith she died. The Spirit of God gave her assurance of things not seen by mortal vision, and so she takes her place in the great army of witnesses, a rain-drop in the mighty cloud. It was fitting that her burial should take place the day that the Quarterly Conference of the old Scotland Circuit was in session. The presiding elder was present. The Presbyterian pastor spoke from the words of King Solomon: "Favor is deceitful and beauty is vain, but a woman that feareth the Lord she shall be praised. Give her of the fruit of her hands and let her own works praise her in the gates." The minister in charge read the tender burial service at the grave, and by the side of her husband, who had been asleep nearly two years, we laid the body of his faithful wife. Close around repose the ashes of many friends, and we look forward with expectant hope to the coming day when their long-silent dust shall burst with shouts of endless praise.

Union Church, June 4, 1908.

C. W. GRAFTON.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

Brookhaven District—Third Round.

(In Part.)

Prentiss, at Bassfield	June 13, 14
Sumrall	June 14, 15
Hub, at Oakvale	June 20, 21
Silver Creek, at New Hebron	June 21, 22
Hazlehurst	June 27, 28
Crystal Springs	June 28, 29
McComb and Fernwood, at McComb	July 4, 5
McComb-Centenary	July 5, 6
Oloh, at Baylis Chapel	July 11, 12
Columbia	July 12, 13

GEO. H. THOMPSON, P. E.

Jackson Dist.—Third Round.

Thomasville, at Forest Hill, 11 a.m.	June 27, 28
Brandon, 8 p.m.	June 28, 29
Jackson, Capitol St., 11 a.m.	July 5,
Jackson, First Ch., 8 p.m.	July 5,
Fannin, at Holly Bush	July 7,
Seminary, at Rawls Spgs.	July 11, 12
Collins	July 17,
Magee, at Pleasant Hill	July 18, 19
Sharon, at Soule's Chap.	July 22,
Canton	Aug. 2, 3

The pastors are requested to give especial attention to Questions 17 and 22, and in both cases to present written reports. A. F. WATKINS, P. E.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE

Greenville Dist.—Third Round.

Hollandale, at Arcola	June 24,
Shelby and Merigold, at S.	June 25,
Greenville	June 28,
Leland	July 5, 6
Boyle, at Skene	July 11, 12
Benoit, at Malvina	July 14,
Clarksdale	July 19, 20
Lula, at Lyon	July 20, 21
Coahoma, at Dundee, 8 p.m.	July 21,
Tunica, at Austin	July 26, 27
Alligator, at Duncan	July 27, 28
Rosedale, at Deeson	Aug. 2, 3
Hillhouse, at Gunnison	Aug. 3, 4
Cleveland Ct., at Lakeview	Aug. 8, 9
Cleveland Station	Aug. 12,
Friar's Point, at Sherard	Aug. 15, 16
Jonestown, at J.	Aug. 17,
Robinsonville, at Pop. C.	Aug. 19,
Glen Allan, at S. Greenv'le	Sept. 13, 14
Shaw, at S.	Sept. 16,
Delta Mission	Sept. 19, 20

R. A. MEEK, P. E.

Oxford Dist.—Third Round.

(In Part)

Grenada	June 7, 8
Oxford	June 9,
Holly Springs	June 11,
Water valley, Main Street	June 13, 14
Water Valley, First Street	June 14, 15
Water Valley Ct., Pine F.	July 11, 12
Randolph Ct., Sarepta	July 18, 19
Toccapola Ct., Tula	July 25, 26

J. E. CUNNINGHAM, P. E.

Winona Dist.—Third Round.

(In Part)

Itta Bena	June 21,
Greenwood, 8 p.m.	June 21,
Carrollton, at Valley Hill	June 27, 28
Winona Station, 8 p.m.	June 28,
Eupora, at Maben	June 30,
Schlater	July 3,
Indianola	July 5, 6
Winona Ct., at Salem	July 11, 12
Moorhead, at Baird	July 19, 20
Belzoni, at Sky Lake	July 25, 26
Webb, at Webb	Aug. 1,

E. S. LEWIS, P. E.

Whitworth College
(FOR YOUNG LADIES)
Brookhaven, Miss.

Conservatory of Art, Music and Expression. Commercial Department. High Curriculum. Officers and Teachers, 22. Students, 225. Next session begins Sept. 23, 1908. Address,

WHITWORTH COLLEGE.

Healthy Happy Babies

Mother, you know the summer will be a trying time for your teething baby,—a period of anxiety and sleepless nights for you unless you take the precaution to keep baby's system in condition to make teething easy.

Teethina
(Teething Powders)

The prescription of Dr. C. J. Moffett, graduate of Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia; contains elements recommended by the most advanced medical science to remove the cause of disease and keep the system in condition to make teething easy. For 40 years the standard remedy throughout the South during the trying period of teething, colic, hives, etc., in children.

In nine out of ten cases of cholera infantum that prove fatal from ordinary neglect and subsequent treatment, the timely use of Teethina would have saved the child.

At All Druggists, 25 Cents
Or from
Dr. C. J. Moffett Medicine Co., St. Louis, Mo.
Write for our free "Mother's Booklet."

HEISKELL'S OINTMENT

is the one infallible remedy for all skin diseases. Relief is instant. The cure, quick and permanent. It quickly cures the worst case of

ECZEMA

Use Heiskell's Medicated Soap for bathing the affected parts. Heiskell's Blood and Liver Pills tone up the liver, purify the blood. Ointment, 50c a box; Soap, 25c a cake; Pills, 25c a box. Sold by all druggists or sent by mail. Testimonials free.

Johnston, Holloway & Co.,
531 Commerce Street,
Phila.

DAISY FLY KILLER placed anywhere, attracts and kills all flies. Neat, clean, ornamental, convenient, cheap. Lasts all season. Absolutely harmless. Can not spill or tip over, will not soil or injure anything. Guaranteed effective. Of all dealers or sent prepaid for 20 cents.
HAROLD SOMERS
149 DeKalb Ave.
Brooklyn, N. Y.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

New Orleans District—Third Round.

Mary Werlein	p.m.	June 17
Parker Memorial		June 21
McDonoghville, at Wesley		June 28
Slidell, at Talley's Chapel		July 4
Seashore Camp Ground		July 12
Plaquemine		July 19
Donaldsonville, at Plattesville		July 26
Algiers		Aug. 2
Louisiana Avenue		Aug. 9
Felicity Street		Aug. 16
First Church	a.m.	Aug. 23
Epworth	p.m.	Aug. 23
Rayne Memorial		Aug. 30
Covington, at Fitzgerald		Sept. 5
Second Church		Sept. 13
Carrollton Avenue		Sept. 20

F. N. PARKER, P.E.

Arcadia Dist.—Third Round.

Homer	July 2,
Haynesville, at Colquitt	July 4, 5
Benton, at Benton	July 8,
Simsboro, at P. Grove	July 11, 12
N. Bossier, at Emma	July 14,
Houghton, at Alberta	July 15,
Bienville, at Bocruk	July 18, 19
Arcadia	July 25, 26
District Conference, at Bienville	July 28, 31
Gibsland, at Mt. Moriah	Aug. 1, 2
Jonesboro	Aug. 4,
Vernon, at Oakridge	Aug. 5,
Minden	Aug. 8, 9
Lisbon, at Tulip	Aug. 11,
Winnfield	Aug. 13,
Bernice, at Summerfield	Aug. 15, 16
Ruston	Aug. 18,
Ringgold, at Gr. Bayou	Aug. 22, 23
Lanesville, at Brushwood	Aug. 25,
C. Valley, at Sp. Hill	Aug. 29, 30

BRISCOE CARTER, P. E.

Shreveport Dist.—Third Round.

Keatchie, at Bellham	July 4, 5
Gr. Cane, at Keithville	July 11, 12
LaChute, at Taylortown	July 18, 19
Pleasant Hill	July 22, 23
Pelican, at Bethel	July 25, 26
Coushatta, at Lake End	July 28, 29
Wesley, at Holly Spgs.	Aug. 1, 2
Many, at Ft. Jessup	Aug. 8, 9
Zwolle, at Lowering	Aug. 12, 13
Mooringsport	Aug. 15, 16
Ida, at M. Chapel	Aug. 19, 20
Mansfield Circuit, at Sloan	Aug. 22, 23
Mansfield Station	Aug. 23, 24
Hornbeck	Aug. 26, 27
Leesville	Aug. 29, 30
Bon Ami	Sept. 5, 6
De Ridder	Sept. 6, 7
Shreveport—First Ch.	Sept. 9,
Noel Tob.	Sept. 10,
Texas Avenue	Sept. 13, 14.
Provencal	Sept 15, 16
Greenwood	Sept. 19, 20

The District Conference will meet at Grand Cane July 7 at 9 a.m. Every preacher and delegate is expected to be present at the beginning and to remain to the close.

T. J. WARLICK, P. E.

Baton Rouge Dist.—Third Round.

(In Part)

Ponchatoula, at P.	July 4,
Hammond	July 5,
Wilson, at Pine Grove	July 18, 19
Clinton	July 19, 20
Ethel, at Tunica	July 26,
Baker, at Deerford	Aug. 1, 2
Zachary and Slaughter, at Slaughter	Aug. 2, 3
St. Francisville	Aug. 8, 9
Jackson	Aug. 9, 10

The District Conference will be held at Ponchatoula beginning July 1.

R. W. TUCKER, P. E.

ARGO RED SALMON being firm in texture and deep red in color, makes the most delicious salad. The recipe is given in the Argo Cook Book.

The sin of detraction is eminently the offense of excellent people.—George Hodges.

Marriages.

At the Methodist parsonage, Marietta, Miss., June 9, 1908, by Rev. L. T. Sargent, Mr. J. M. BURNETT, of Bristol, Tenn., to Miss LOU. NABORS, of near Kirkville, Miss.

At the Methodist parsonage, Blairstown, La., Feb. 27, 1908, by Rev. J. W. Harper, Mr. J. F. CROWDER and Miss HATTIE FLETCHER, both of Livingston Parish, La.

At the residence of the bride's parents, Gilead, La., on April 29, 1908, by Rev. J. W. Harper, Mr. K. L. KNIGHTON and Mrs. ANNA DONEGAN, both of Gilead, La.

In the Methodist Church, Lake, Miss., June 3, 1908, by Rev. C. McDonald, Mr. J. L. ATKINS and Miss FANNIE BELLE McCRACKEN.

FROM BAKER, LA.

Dear Dr. Boswell: Everything moves along well with us on the Baker work. Have taken in several members since Conference. The Baker Church raised the assessment for ministerial support. There is also an increase in the general assessments. For all purposes, we have an assessment of something above $1400, which is about $100 more than has ever been assessed against this charge. But we feel that we shall have a full report at Conference, if crop conditions are favorable.

This is a good work. One country church (Deerford) has only one Sunday in the month, and gives the afternoon of that day to another church, and pays $325 to ministerial support, and her pro rata of the collections besides. I suppose this is explained in the fact of this being the place where the presiding elder lives.

I have been with two of the brethren in this district in meetings this year—at Port Vincent with Brother Murphy, and Second, Baton Rouge, with Brother Purcell. At the latter place we had a most excellent meeting. We had some twenty-five accessions and some bright conversions.

I leave to-morrow for Bon Ami to be with Brother Brown in a two-weeks' meeting. In July I go to Brother Crossley on the Utica work in Mississippi, and in August to J. A. and F. L. Alford. Will have five on my own charge.

I like the Advocate and am trying to do some work for it this year. God bless you, Doctor, and all the brethren. Yours in Christ,

J. M. ALFORD.

The Ingleside House, Hendersonville, N. C. Ideal place to spend the Summer. House just completed, newly and elegantly furnished. Beautiful view from all rooms. All modern conveniences. Special rates to parties or families. Miss Gussie Winter, Proprietress.

TEACHER WANTS POSITION.

A graduate, two degrees, good testimonials, can teach anything in the college course. Prefers languages in a college. Address

MISS ADA HOLLADAY,
Oak Grove, Miss.

HENDERSONVILLE, N. C.

"Pine Grove Lodge" will be open for guests after June 1. Delightful location; special rates for June.

Address, Mrs. E. C. Bedell.

Centenary Female College,

Cleveland, Tenn.

LOCATION—One hour from historic Chattanooga, "Prettiest town in all Tennessee." In mountain valley, above all malaria. Health of girls from South greatly improved.

FACULTY—Best American and European training. Teacher of Modern Languages, now studying in Germany.

RECREATION—Walks, drives, tennis, basket-ball, bowling, gymnasium, 634 ft. covered porches, physical culture, etc.

DEPARTMENTS—Thorough literary courses. Music Department under German Director. Art, Expression, Business.

Write for illustrated catalog to-day.

WESLEYAN COLLEGE, Macon, Ga. Oldest and Best.

WESLEYAN CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC Macon, Ga. Largest and Best.

Schools of ART, EXPRESSION, PHYSICAL CULTURE, and BUSINESS of same standard.

Constantly improved during the last few years in all respects. Additional recent improvement of curriculum entitles it to be in Class A, according to the requirements of our General Board of Education and the classification of the United States Government. Excellent Chemical, Physical and Biological Laboratories. $1,000 will be invested in new books for Library for next school year. Especial attention paid to Physical Culture, for which Gymnasium and Athletic Grounds are ample. Dormitories comfortable, sanitary and safe in all respects. Health record unsurpassed. Rates, notwithstanding recent increase, still lower than those of any institution in the country, of or near the same class. Full literary course, library fee, and board (standard room), $227. Administration and discipline liberal, but careful, and under the control of the North Georgia, South Georgia, and Florida Conferences of the M. E. Church, South. Catalogues free.

DUPONT GUERRY, President.

Atlanta College of Pharmacy

Teaches its students to be first-class pharmacists. The demand for our graduates is greater than we can supply. Address: GEORGE F. PAYNE, Ph. G., Dean, 52 Armstrong St., Atlanta, Ga.

METHODIST BENEVOLENT ASSOCIATION.

The Connectional Mutual Benefit Brotherhood of Southern Methodism.

1. Membership composed of ministers and laymen of the Southern Methodist Church. 2. Benefit payable at death, or Living Benefit on becoming disabled. 3. Over $50,000.00 paid beneficiaries to date. If under fifty and in good health, write for full information.

METHODIST BENEVOLENT ASSOCIATION, Care Methodist Publishing House, Nashville, Tenn.

RHEUMATISM, DYSPEPSIA and DISEASES of the NERVOUS SYSTEM Including Neurasthenia & Paralysis.

Our new natural methods of treatment have been so succesful in the diseases named above and in other chronic ailments that we guarantee satisfaction in every case we accept for treatment. If after one full week's treatment and observance of our instructions, a patient is not convinced that our treatment is just what is needed for the cure of his or her disease, the week's treatment including room and board in the sanitarium will cost the patient nothing whatever.

If other treatment has failed to benefit you, come to us and BE CURED and at the same time learn how to avoid illness in the future.

Illustrated phamphlet and diagnosis blank free.

The Biggs Sanitarium, GREENSBORO, N. C.

Wanted Salesmen We want a reliable lady or gentleman in every community to act as resident representative. Write us to day if you mean business and send us three good references.

PENTECOSTAL PUBLISHING CO., Incorporated, LOUISVILLE, KY.

"Of course," said the tourist, "you know all about the antidotes for snake bites?" "Certainly," replied the explorer. "Well, when a snake bites you, what's the first thing you do?" "Yell."—Exchange.

"I tell you Green is a true friend." "Why do you think so?" "He borrowed money from me and paid it back when I asked him for it without insulting me." — Detroit Free press.

"Before I give you my answer," said the heiress, "you must tell me about your debts." "O," replied the count, "why discuss worldly matters? Let us talk love for the present."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Epworth League

By Rev. H. Whitehead.

GOD'S PROTECTION OF HIS CHILDREN IN PERIL

Lesson for June 2, 1908—Missionary Biography.

The thought of our lesson for this week is that God is not only able to deliver his children, but that we are continually being protected by him. We cannot always see the hand that guards, but we may in many places realize this protection. The writer of these lines followed a good preacher who had angered a rough crowd of young men. One Sunday night they arranged to rock him as he left the church. The crowd were ready with the stones, and this pastor walked out into the dark and through the midst of the crowd unharmed. The ringleader of the company confessed to the whole thing after his conversion, but said none of the boys could ever tell why no stones were thrown, as they were desperately in earnest. The good pastor probably never knew of his escape.

We will illustrate this protection by two illustrations from widely different mission fields:

Qung Te-ts'ang was for many years a student in a boys' school at Peking, and during his course engaged actively in various forms of Christian work. After graduation, contemplating a theological course, he first undertook a year of evangelistic work in the country. When the Boxer massacres began, he fled to a village in the mountains. He narrates his experience as follows:

"I climbed over a mountain and to the top of another. Then I went northeast alone, with a sad heart and weeping incessantly. I prayed, 'O, Lord, keep us until we meet again.' Going on northeast I met a farmer named Li, and arranged with him to begin work. When I laid down my hoe and went to the house to retire for the night, I suddenly met a number of men face to face. One of them asked me, 'Are you an erh mao-tzu?' In his hand he held a long scythe ready to strike me. I said, 'I am a seeker for work. If you do not believe me, ask the farmer in yonder house.' As if he had not heard, he kept saying, 'I'll knock you over, and take your money and your life.' Among the men were some who said, 'Let him go;' but the one named Chang was unwilling to release me, and exchanging his long scythe for a large knife, kept flourishing it right and left above my head, all the time reviling me with his tongue. Suddenly a stroke of the knife on my head felled me to the earth. All the time I was quite at peace in my heart, and had no fear, just as if I were in the Lord's bosom.

"The next day, the people being many, their minds changed, and they proposed to take us to the district city, Chi-chou, and turn us over to the district magistrate to be killed. When I heard this I was still more troubled, and said, 'Better still, kill us outside the gate, and save those forty miles of travel.' Though I did not pray audibly, yet in my heart I felt very near to the Lord. We had gone only part of the way when they said:

"'Give us your money and your clothing, and we will release you and let you escape for your life.'

"I said, 'If you do so, please leave me a little road money, lest I starve to death.'

"So they untied the ropes which bound me, and we sat down and talked. While we were talking it grew late, so we lay down together and slept.

"Early the next morning one of the company led me by a round-about way among the mountains. All day I fled.

"After much suffering and many adventures, I started toward Peking, but, when seven miles from the city, I met three men with sharp spears, who knocked me down, kept my leather boots, and let me go. When I had entered the city, I went first to the mission. When I saw the desolation, I was overwhelmed with sorrow. On inquiring, I learned that the missionaries were living west of the Chien Gate, where I arrived in the evening and greeted my old friends. David said, 'Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil, for thou art with me.' I have received God's unparalleled mercies, have been at peace in my heart, and have believed that God would protect his children at Peking from utter destruction. His greatest goodness is in keeping me, in the hour of pain and peril, from denying him by kowtowing, burning incense, or sacrifice."

In "Soo Thah," by Alonzo Bunker, is told a tale which brings one back to Bible times; it reads like an Old Testament story. It reveals to us how the genuine reliance of the converted Karen upon God as a Shepherd led him out of trouble.

Soo Thah, a native Christian minister, was preaching among a tribe of Karens in Burma. As the prosperity of this tribe increased by right living, the heathen tribes about grew envious and angry. They decided to attack the Christians, and suddenly one morning the heathen rushed through the Christian village and carried off two little boys, who belonged to Christian parents.

The issue between the Yuah (the Karen of God) of the Christians and the gods of the heathen was thus clearly drawn by the heathen themselves. "Which would win?" This was the great question among the native Christians.

"You see," said Soo Thah, "if we could gather our clans with arms in our hands, we could face ten times our number of these heathen; but now we must just be still, pray, and love our enemies, and wait for Yuah to appear in our behalf."

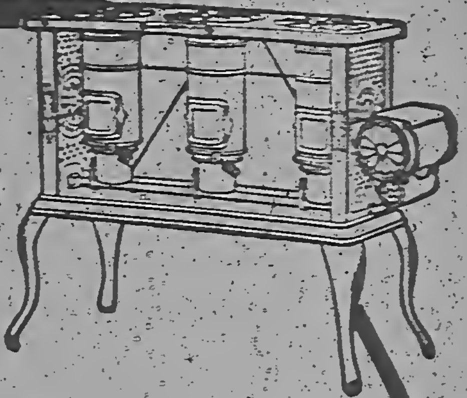
They wrote letters and sent them to all the pastors among the hills, asking them to come to Ho-Wee's village, and help them pray for the deliverance of the boys.

When the time came a great multitude arrived at the appointed place, for the interest in this spiritual battle was very great and widespread. Finally a committee was chosen to go and demand the release of the children.

They not only failed to get the captives, but were driven out of the village in shame by the old chief, who led this attack upon the Christians.

At last the old chief sent word that if the chief of the other village and the parents of the children would come to him he would return the boys. Some thought this was merely a trap to catch them, but Soo Thah and several of the Christians volunteered to go. Armed with a Bible and hymn-books, they started on their errand. When they reached the village the dogs barked and the war-drums sounded. The people in terror ran away. The old chief rose and stood among his armed followers. Soo Thah opened his hymn-book and then the Christians all sang together, "Father, I stretch my hands to Thee." Then Soo Thah prayed earnestly, beseeching Yuah to give back the children. Then he commanded them all to be seated and he preached a sermon. While he was talking the old chief drew nearer and nearer to the speaker, listening intently to him. His face softened, his whole bearing changed, and when the doxology had been sung he arose, facing Soo Thah, and said with a smile, "Take them, take the boys." The chief gave up the boys and received the pastor's present in return.

Plan for Summer Comfort



Don't add the heat of a kitchen fire to the sufficient discomfort of hot weather.

Use a New Perfection Wick Blue Flame Oil Cook-Stove and cook in comfort.

With a "New Perfection" Oil Stove the preparation of daily meals, or the big weekly "baking," is done without raising the temperature perceptibly above that of any other room in the house.

If you once have experience with the

NEW PERFECTION
Wick Blue Flame Oil Cook-Stove

you will be amazed at the restful way in which it enables you to do work that has heretofore overheated the kitchen and yourself.

The "New Perfection" Stove is ideal for summer use. Made in three sizes and all warranted. If not at your dealer's, write our nearest agency.

The Rayo Lamp gives perfect combustion whether high or low—is therefore free from disagreeable odor and cannot smoke. Safe, convenient, ornamental—the ideal light. If not at your dealer's, write our nearest agency.

STANDARD OIL COMPANY
(INCORPORATED)

W. H. BYRNE, Pres. JOHN T. GIBBONS, Vice-Pres. P. E. BURKE, Secy.
Capital $200,000.00
Assets 479,566.90

HIBERNIA INSURNCE CO.,
No. 305 Camp Street,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.

LOSSES PROMPTLY PAID.

YOUR SUMMER VACATION
IS NEAR AT HAND

THE Southern Pacific

SOUTHERN SUNSET ROUTE PACIFIC

WILL HAVE MANY ATTRACTIVE ROUTES TO OFFER BY RAIL OR WATER

TO CALIFORNIA

GO ONE WAY ---- RETURN ANOTHER THROUGH THE MOST BEAUTIFUL SCENERY IN THE WORLD

TO NEW YORK

ON ONE OF OUR MAGNIFICENT STEAMSHIPS --- FIVE BIG BOATS
"CREOLE," "MOMUS," "ANTILLES," "PROTEUS," "COMUS."

ASK YOUR AGENT FOR LITERATURE, OR WRITE

G. E. GUEDRY, Div. Pass. Agt. F. E. BATTURS, Gen. Pass. Agt.
LAKE CHARLES NEW ORLEANS

REVIVAL AT FAYETTE, MISS.

Dear Dr. Boswell: The following account of a revival recently held in this church will be of interest to some of your readers. The meeting began on the first Sunday in April and closed on the third Sunday. Rev. W. G. Harbin did all of the preaching, and Rev. C. N. Guice led the singing. The unanimous verdict was that it was one of the best meetings ever held in Fayette. Thorough preparation for the meeting had been made before the services began. Committees had been appointed and were at work, circulars had been distributed, a house-to-house canvass of the town by the pastor had been made, and special prayer for a revival had been offered. For two or three months the meeting was kept before the minds and on the hearts of the people, and the entire membership of the Church were together in the movement.

Before the preacher arrived on the ground every merchant in town had signed a written statement agreeing to close their stores during the hours for service throughout the meeting. Everything was ready for work when Brother Harbin arose before the audience on the first day of the meeting. The congregation was so large that the Sunday school room had to be thrown open in order to seat every one who came. The meeting started off enthusiastically and continued so to the end. The visible results were forty-three conversions, thirty-two accessions (one to the Baptist, four to the Presbyterian and twenty-seven to the Methodist Church), seventeen family altars were set up, several new subscribers to our Church papers secured, and the Church generally revived.

Brother Harbin is a splendid revivalist. He is a strong preacher, an energetic worker and a polished Christian gentleman. He did fine work here.

I heartily endorse Brother Guice as a competent leader of song. He was quite an attraction in our meeting here. He readily secured the co-operation of the choirs in Fayette, and succeeded in getting the congregation to sing. His solos greatly delighted and edified our people.

All who read the Advocate are requested to pray for us that the good work begun in this meeting may continue until every sinner in this town shall have been saved.

Since the meeting was held a destructive tornado swept through this charge and completely demolished old Bell Grove Church. The membership is small and weak, but we are going to make an effort to rebuild. No appeal has been made to the outside for help, but if any one should feel disposed to assist us their contribution will be highly appreciated.

It is our purpose to have the church building here in Fayette dedicated in the near future. A more extended notice will be given later.

D. SCARBOROUGH, P. C.

Fayette, Miss.

ARGO RED SALMON is cleaned and packed entirely by machinery, and not touched by hand.

MOXINE CHILL TONIC
Only Tonic—one bottle—one cure.

COUSHATTA AND CAMPTI.

Dear Dr. Boswell: Perhaps a few notes from our charge will not be out of place. I spent twenty-one days indoors and in bed with lagrippe just after I reached my work; but God, in his goodness, gave me back my health and I took hold of my work with all the energy I had.

We are making some advances. There has been six accessions to the Church at Coushatta, and our Sunday school has more than doubled in numbers; our prayer-meeting is reasonably good, and we expect to hold a revival meeting here soon.

We sold the old church at Campti, and have built one of the prettiest churches in Shreveport District in a much better and more central location. We have a Sunday school department, preacher's study and all modern improvements. We organized a Sunday school the first of the year at Campti, which is now permanently domiciled in our new church. The school has a roll of sixty-five members, and is growing constantly in size and good works.

I began a protracted meeting in our new church the third Sunday in April, ran four days and was called away on account of my mother-in-law's sickness and death. There had been sixteen accessions and many were seeking salvation at that time. We resumed the meeting with our second Quarterly Conference the second Sunday in May. Our presiding elder preached us several strong sermons, and Dr. Weber, president of Centenary College, preached for us, to the delight of all. The rest of the week we had some old-time power and services. We have had thirty-eight accessions and baptized eight children up to date. To God be all the glory.

C. F. STAPLES.

$100 REWARD, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address:

F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O.

Sold by Druggists, 75c.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

ROCKY SPRINGS CHARGE.

We reported at our second Quarterly Conference $90 paid on our $146 Conference collections assessment; $22 paid on Children's Day fund; and seventeen members added to the Church. The preacher and presiding elder have almost one-half paid on their assessment. We lead the circuits of this district thus far. These are excellent and generous people that we have the pleasure of serving this year. May God greatly bless them in material and spiritual things for their good deeds.

We could write many more good things of our people, but modesty causes us to decline, and only say: their lights are not out, but are shining with a Christian splendor. Cordially yours,

E. L. WHIDDON.

MOXINE
Cures LAGRIPPE and Colds.

SHAKE INTO YOUR SHOES

Allen's Foot-Ease, a powder. It cures painful, smarting, nervous feet, and instantly takes the sting out of corns and bunions. Allen's Foot-Ease makes tight or new shoes feel easy. It is a certain cure for sweating, callous swollen, tired, aching feet. Try it today. Sold by all druggists and Shoe Stores. By mail for 25c. in stamps. Don't accept any substitute. For FREE trial package, also Free Sample of the FOOT-EASE Sanitary CORN-PAD, a new invention, address Allen S. Olm-

MOXINE CHILL TONIC
Only Tonic—one bottle—one cure.

Belmont College For Young Women
Nashville, Tenn.

Prepares for colleges and universities. College post graduate courses leading to degrees of B.A. and M.A. Eleven schools [illegible] the college [illegible] presided over by a trained specialist. Music, Art, Physical Culture and Languages. Unrivaled [illegible] for location and environment. The college stands in a beautiful park of [illegible] acres. [illegible] horseback riding and automobiling. Many Northern as well as Southern families [illegible] from such a location and wishing their children educated [illegible] sectional [illegible] of the total number of pupils registered last year, representing [illegible] were Northern girls. Early registration is necessary. Catalogue on request. Rev. IRA LANDRITH, D. D., LL.D., Regent. Miss HOOD and Miss HERON, Principals.

American TELEGRAPH School
ESTABLISHED 10 YEARS
MILLEDGEVILLE, GEORGIA
Largest and best equipped school South. Expert management. Railroad wire connections. Positions guaranteed. Railroad fares paid. Board at cost. Open year around. Write for catalogue C. Great demand for operators.

Pine-Brook Dairy Co., Ltd.
ALL OUR COWS TUBERCULINE TESTED.
Milk and Cream Delivered Morning and Evening.
COR. ST. CHARLES & WASHINGTON AVES. Phone 1514 Uptown.

THE AMERICAN PAINT WORKS,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.,
MANUFACTURES EVERYTHING IN PAINTS,
—Guaranteed Strictly Pure—
The Climatic Prepared Paints, Perfecto White
and
SOLD SUBJECT TO A CHEMICAL ANALYSIS.
DIRECTORS:
Thos. S. Witherspoon, President. Francis Martin, Vice President.
R. B. Parker. John McCloskey. Geo. A. Hero.
PHONE, MAIN 915. Special Attention to Mail Orders.

THE BEST MADE.
Angell's Cough and Whooping Cough Syrup
For Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Coughs, Colds and Throat Trouble.
CONTAINS NO OPIUM OR MORPHINE,
All Druggists, Price 25 and 50 Cents.

SCROFULINE
The Wonderful Healer

Unsurpassed for tetter, ezcema, skin and scalp troubles, old sores, ulcers and piles, any nature or duration. Goes to the very seat of the trouble, kills the germs and extracts all foreign matter. Sold under a positive guarantee, 25c, 50c and $1.00 per jar. Mail orders promptly filled. Stamps accepted. Liberal sample upon request. Address,

THE SCROFULINE COMPANY, Waco, Texas.
SOLE OWNERS AND MANUFACTURERS.

Louisiana Railway and Navigation Company.

PASSENGER SERVICE,
Daily Passenger Trains between Shreveport and New Orleans. Daily Passenger Trains between Shreveport and Winnfield.

FREIGHT SERVICE,
Exceptional good time on carload traffic. Special attention given less than carload shipments all of which moves in

DAILY THROUGH PACKAGE CARS.

CLARENCE ELLERBE, Assistant to President.
H. B. HELM, General Superintendent.
E. C. D. MARSHALL, General Freight & Passenger Agent.
Shreveport, La.

W. F. M. S.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

DELAYED GREETINGS.

The following letters from our dear young missionaries should have reached Mrs. Watkins in time to be read before our Conference in Brookhaven, but for some cause were long on the way.
MRS. CLARA B. DRAKE,
Supt. Press Work.

Soochow, China, Jan. 28, 1908.

My Dear Sisters: Last year your meeting was held several months earlier, which prevented my sending you a letter. I am sure you did not miss it with all the delightful visitors you had, but I was sorry to miss the pleasure of writing, and all the year I have felt there was something lacking. I saw a copy of the Minutes, however, and read with a deep interest all that you did.

This year your meeting is to be in Jackson, I understand. I send a loving, prayerful greeting from this side of the world. We do not forget the dear women at home who make the unseen sacrifices that the work may be carried on, and the thought of that and your trust in us tends to make us humble and anxious that we may be faithful.

Of course, Miss Drake's coming has been a great blessing to us. And she comes so well-fitted to do the kind of work the Laura Haygood needs. And then she brings a sweet spirit of helpfulness, of sharing both the hopes and responsibilities of the school, which makes for her a warm place in our hearts.

Next year Miss Pyle will be in America, and I hope she can attend your meeting, telling you more fully of the school.

We are having our Chinese New Year vacation now, and this gives Miss Drake and me more time to put on our language study. She is making good progress. The girls went away to their homes last week after our commencement exercises. They are so bright and responsive: it is a privilege to be among those who direct their minds and thought, and, consequently, their lives. Miss Pyle found them sitting up talking together the last night. They begged permission to "talk things over," and wanted her to stay with them. She told us next morning of their conversation. They were speaking of the great difference in the lives of the Chinese women now and in the past, and of how they used to be almost as slaves in their husbands' homes.

And then they said: "When we first came to this school and you talked to us about love we did not know what you meant, but now even the outside people are preaching love." Sometimes our Father lets us get a glimpse behind the scenes, which reveals to us what the gospel is doing in China. I am sure you are praying for us here. You have invested too much time, thought and money in the work of the Laura Haygood to fail to remember us in prayer.

Miss Drake and I speak often together of you, and we will be thinking of you during the meeting. It will not be so very long before I come back.

With many good wishes for you in the meeting and the service of the year, your missionary,
JANIE H. WATKINS.

Soochow, China, Jan. 30, 1908.

My Dear Friends: This time last year I was making my plans to go to our Conference to be with all of you. To-day I am representing you in China, and I feel sure that you are praying for me.

I remember with so much pleasure the time I spent with you last year. All of you were so kind to me, and you made me feel that you were so interested in the work that I am trying to do.

Of course, I am glad to be here, and to feel that I am beginning to have a little part in the work. I spend three hours and a half a day studying the Chinese language. I find it difficult, of course, but it is also interesting, and I hope, by patiently persisting, I may learn to speak it after a while. I have two teachers, neither of whom can speak English. We have quite an amusing time occasionally trying to understand each other.

I also teach a portion of the day, and this is the pleasantest part of my work. The girls are so sweet and attractive, and very ambitious. Only sixteen of them are Christians, but we are praying for the others and we hope the daily study of God's Word will convince them of the truth of the message we bring. Some, I think, already believe, but are afraid to confess, fearing persecution in their homes. It means much more to a Chinese girl to disobey her parents than it does to American girls. If they are driven from home they have nowhere to go.

Miss Watkins and I are so glad to be together, and we often speak of our Conference and our mutual friends. She is doing such a good work, and the girls love her very much. Her heart and soul are certainly in this work.

I know that you will pray for us during the meeting, and that you will also pray for "our girls."

Praying God's blessings on each one of you, I am sincerely your friend. NELL D. DRAKE.

A JOINT MEETING.

Dear Dr. Boswell: By previous arrangement between the secretaries of the two Societies and Rev. E. S. Lewis, the presiding elder of Winona District, the Woman's Home Mission and the Woman's Foreign Missionary Societies met in District Conference at Eupora, May 28, at 3 p. m. The district secretaries, Mmes. W. C. Harris and T. H. Bingham, presided in joint session. The devotional service was conducted by Miss Fannie Willingham, followed by a solo by Rev. Mr. Duke.

A most fitting welcome address was given by Miss Ellie Willingham. It was responded to by Mrs. Neblett, of Grenada College.

The roll was called and reports from the auxiliaries of the Home and Foreign Societies were made by delegates present. Mrs. Arnold, of Eupora, read an instructive paper on "God's Tenth." Eupora is the banner auxiliary of the district on tithing, every member being a tither.

"The Alabaster Box," a paper written by Miss Ritchie, of Ruleville, portraying the beautiful work done by the Home Mission Society, was read by Mrs. Staneill, of Drew.

Mrs. Trotter, the Conference president of the Home Mission Society, read an instructive paper on "The Home Mission Work."

Mrs. T. H. Bingham made a strong plea to the preachers and representatives present for the organization of more auxiliaries in the Foreign Missionary Society, there being only six at present in the district, while there are twenty-six adult auxiliaries in the Home Mission Society.

Rev. E. S. Lewis made an urgent appeal to the ministers to interest themselves in behalf of both societies, calling attention to the benefits accruing to all other church work from the influence exerted by their work.

Rev. J. T. McCafferty spoke in behalf of the official organ of the Woman's Home Mission Society, "Our Homes," calling special attention to the May number. He advised every one, both ministers and members of the Society, to subscribe for it.

It was decided by vote, after discussion, to hereafter hold the meetings of the Societies separate from the District Conference, for lack of time to give the work that consideration commensurate with its importance.

After adjournment the members were given a pleasant reception at the home of Mrs. DuBerry. Mrs. Bingham grasped "opportunity by the forelock" and organized a strong auxiliary at the reception.

At the evening service a collection was taken and the proceeds were divided between the two Societies.

The hospitality of Eupora was abounding and hearty. Each one felt that she had been under the influence of a spiritual atmosphere and expressed herself as having a delightful home. All left for home asking blessings on the town where they had been so happily entertained.

Sincerely, MRS. W. C. HARRIS.
Rome, Miss.

W. H. M. S.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI.

The 17th Annual Meeting of the North Mississippi Woman's Home Mission Society convened in Clarksdale May 16-20.

The members were accorded a royal welcome by the citizens of this Delta town, where the Conference had never been entertained before, but where they were made to feel such true hospitality that no doubt they will want to go again.

The addresses of welcome and response were the order of the first evening service.

Rev. J. A. Hall, of Winona, preached the Annual Sermon. It was a masterly effort. Services for the children were conducted Sunday afternoon by the third vice president, Mrs. Walter Price, assisted by Mrs. E. D. Lewis and Miss Head, the associate secretary of the Woman's Board. Her various talks during the time of her stay were very instructive and claimed the strict attention of the audience.

The citizens showed great interest. No set of delegates ever manifested greater interest or were more regular in their attendance on every session.

A splendid reception was tendered the visiting body on Tuesday afternoon at the elegant home of Mrs. Cutrer. These Clarksdale people are big-hearted and know how to entertain. One of the sweetest features of these annual meetings is the genuine hospitality that characterizes their entertainment wherever they go.

The election for officers was held on Tuesday afternoon, so that the full strength of the delegation might be obtained before the members began to scatter to their homes. There were a few changes in the personnel of the officers. Much regret was expressed at losing the retiring officers, but the system of itinerancy obtains in this, as in other departments of work in Methodism.

Reports showed gratifying progress along all lines of work. Fifteen new auxiliaries were the result of the year's work, with a membership of more than two thousand.

Six auxiliaries have been added since January, due to the efforts of the Sardis district secretary, who received as a token of appreciation of her services a call to a higher position where her energies will have a wider field.

Much interest was added to the proceedings by the presence of the young graduate from the Training School, our "Lily of the Valley"—Miss Lillie Hartwell, of Watervalley—whose utterances were an inspiration to old and young.

The Scholarship was awarded to a young girl from Clarksdale. May this call be from the Lord. It is hoped the local auxiliary will safeguard her until she enters the sacred precincts of Scarritt.

The Treasurer's report showed that the financial pressure had not seriously affected the purses of the devoted members.

The deep spiritual feeling that pervaded the entire session was received at the first noontide devotional service, which was one of personal testimony and reconsecration.

Invitations for next year were received from several places. The lot fell upon Corinth.
MRS. A. C. YEAGER.

NEW ORLEANS
CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE

Millsaps Co

REV. JOHN W. BOSWELL, Editor.
REV. H. WHITEHEAD, Ass't Editor.

NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, JUNE 25, 1908.

CHAS. O. CHALMERS, Publisher,
Office, 512 Camp St., New Orleans.

VOL. 55——No. 26.

"PROVE ALL THINGS; HOLD FAST THAT WHICH IS GOOD."

WHOLE No. 5405.

Glances at the World.

Gov. Hughes, of New York, after a heroic struggle on his part and others got his anti-gambling measure through the legislature. In the regular session his measure was lost by a tie-vote—one member having died. But a special election was ordered to fill the vacant seat, the governor canvassing the district in favor of his man, and he was elected. When the day appointed for the vote in the extra session arrived, one of the supporters of his measure was at home, sixty miles away, having undergone an operation for appendicitis. But notwithstanding his weakness, he traveled to Albany and answered "yea" when his name [illegible] vote saved the day and Gov. Hughes triumphed. But the work does not seem to be complete. The race-track gamblers continue their work and have determined to test the law. Every device known to gamblers will be resorted to to get around the law, and every technicality that can be discovered by shysters will be urged in opposition. So the issue is to be determined by the courts. In the hands of judges righteous enough to ignore quibbles the law will triumph. If not, it will be "knocked out." In either case, the matter will probably go to the supreme court of the State.

* * *

Some years ago, in White County, Ark., about three miles from Searcy, there was gathered a crowd of fanatics, men and women, who daily looked for the end of the world. They were duped by an intelligent and educated villain. A citizen of Searcy, prompted by curiosity, went out to see what was going on. The crowd caught hold of him; an old woman brought an ax and they cut his head off and put it on the gate-post as a warning to others who might intrude. The leaders were arrested, tried by a jury, and cleared on the ground of "emotional insanity." Now comes a report from Ft. Smith, Ark., to the effect that one Skaggs claims to be Elijah, "come to destroy the second death." He likewise has folowers; among them a woman who has just sworn out a warrant charging Skaggs wise has followers, among them a woman who hung that he might rise from the dead. But at the trial the woman swore that the assault was not physical, but spiritual, and Skaggs declared that he had assaulted the woman only in his heart, which made him guilty, and therefore he ought to be hung. The woman was committed to jail under the charge of perjury. The man will be set at liberty, the judge charging the jury to ignore the testimony given at the preliminary trial, and to consider only that given before the court. In a frenzy of fanaticism a man can commit many innocent crimes (?).

* * *

Colored men and women in New York, it is announced, have effected an organization for "the sole purpose of liberating the race from all political troubles resulting from slavery, war, and reconstruction." This means, if it means anything, that these colored people and all others who will co-operate with them, have made up their minds to break loose from [illegible]trol, at least to such an extent as to make them the willing tools of the party. That very many have shown themselves friends of the negro by helping them in their religious and educational work cannot be denied. But the politicians have not helped them. They have simply used them for their own advantage. Not one in a thousand of the negroes, though they have been faithful to the party, has ever received any good at their hands. It is time they were breaking away, and seeking to ally themselves with men who have no Federal patronage to distribute. These men down South, though they have no offices to give out, and can make no promises, can reward the negroes by helping to establish better relations between the races. This would be a distinct advantage both to white and black. We shall watch the development of this organization with some interest. We can expect but little, however, until the excitement of the presidential canvass has passed away.

* * *

A correspondent of one of our Advocates gives the following facts in regard to one of the great daily papers of New York, which recently celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of the present management: "The spacious office-building had been recently enlarged and now covers an entire block. The anniversary edition contained 300 pages—in it 900 columns of advertising; it consumed 900 tons of paper, or 1,552 rolls, requiring forty-five twenty-ton cars to transport it from the mills and 141 six-ton trucks to haul it to the press-room. Paper enough used for one day's paper run in a strip twenty-one and one-half inches wide, the length of a page, this edition would make a path wide enough for one man to walk on 17.878 miles long, or more than half-way round the world. To cover this, twenty tons of printing ink were used, equivalent to 3.200 gallons—enough to paint 300 ordinary houses, and equal to covering a printed surface of six square miles. The enlarged building has a floor space of 136,000 square feet. These figures are amazing and the reader must be astounded at the revelation. The paper referred to has a daily circulation of 800,000." Is it any wonder that the forests of the country are being consumed in paper-making, and that paper-making timber is growing scarce, and that publishers are calling for the removal of the tariff on paper pulps? The above daily is only one of many, besides the thousands of weekly papers, that is using hundreds of tons of [illegible] late been a matter of interest to the public. Leading secular papers have taken special pains to put before the public the fact that Cardinal Gibbons, the leading and most influential prelate in the United States, and Archbishop Blenk, the head of the Church in Louisiana, openly espoused the cause of high license. This is equivalent to saying that these dignitaries favor the saloon under strict regulation. Naturally, the people take it for granted that this is the attitude of Roman Catholics generally. But this is not the attitude of the Church. "A Catholic Layman" in the Times-Democrat of June 14 sets forth what he takes to be the position of the Church. He tells us that the third Plenary Council of the Church in the United States, held in Baltimore in 1884, discussed the liquor evil fully and made a deliverance which was submitted to the Pope and approved by him. In the report to the Pope the Council said: "It is with sorrow that we make known to you the many miseries which our people are suffering from the effect of the liquor traffic, and we admonish with all the authority that we possess all Catholics in this country who are engaged in the liquor business to give up such a calling as being most dangerous to themselves and to those depending on them, and to take up some less dangerous and more honorable way of making a living; and we further order that this letter of warning be read in all the churches in the United States for three successive Sundays." That is a fair deliverance, but the great mass of Roman Catholics in the country never paid any attention to it, and to-day the great majority of saloon keepers in the cities are members of that Church, and "Catholic Layman" says "we do not hear one word of warning from those in authority as to what the Church has said in regard" to quitting the business and going into a "more honorable way" of making a living.

Christian Advocate.

Published for the Louisiana, Mississippi and North Mississippi Conferences, Methodist Episcopal Church, South.

DIRECTIONS.

Correspondents will please direct all communications intended for the Editor to 512 Camp St., New Orleans, La. Communications intended for the Business Department should be addressed to the Manager of the New Orleans Christian Advocate. Write with ink and only on one side of the paper. No attention will be paid to rolled manuscripts.

The Printed Label on a paper shows the date to which a subscription is paid. It is as good as a written receipt. When renewal is made, if the date is not moved forward after two weeks, notify us and we will make it right. Papers will be continued unless subscribers order otherwise.

HIGHER CRITICISM AND SOME OF THE CRITICS.

BY REV. H. W. FEATHERSTUN, D.D.

No. V.

The Babylonians and other pagan peoples of antiquity have left us grotesque stories of Creation, and the Fall, and the Deluge. Some of the so-called higher critics place these stories on a level with the records of the great events they shadow, which we find in Genesis. There lie before me various translations of the Babylonian and Chaldean stories, and the one thing about all of them that is most striking is their grotesqueness. They are evidently patched up from various sources, very "primitive," as we say—more properly very crude—utterly wanting in consistency. The Hindoo stories covering the same field are quite as silly and senseless. The stories of old Greece were only a little better. The stories we find in Genesis, on the other hand, are consistent and perfectly [illegible] and would class them along with the Assyrian and Babylonian, Hindoo and Chinese cosmogonies must be mentally deficient. It would be as reasonable to put Mother Goose's rhymes and Milton's Paradise Lost in the same category. Some of them suggest also that the creation story found in Genesis i. and that in chapter ii. are contradictory. It is hardly necessary for me to take time to prove, as can easily be done, that such a contention indicates an inability to comprehend simple English, to say nothing of ancient Hebrew. For such a man to assume to be a higher critic and proclaim himself blind to the beauty of the stories in Genesis and deaf to their mighty melody is to advertise his marvelous obtuseness.

It is the fashion among these gentlemen to assume that these pagan stories of Creation, Eden, the Fall and the Flood are older than those found in Genesis, and that the Genesis stories are simply later versions of the others, borrowed from them. Now, what is the ground for this contention? Simply this: The Hebrew literature—meaning the Pentateuch specially—came into existence long after Moses' day, and the others are known to have been written earlier. The late origin of the Pentateuch has been shown to be a mere dream, as false as it is baseless; but, if Moses and his compeers should be shown to be false witnesses, and that he did not write the books he claims, even yet the other contention remains unproved. It is generally understood that Moses found among his people these stories of Creation, Eden and the Flood, then between two and three thousand years old, and under the guidance of a divine inspiration put them into the Pentateuch, where we find them. They were doubtless in some written form. He may have translated them—may have edited them, cutting down or enlarging to suit his purpose. No one supposes that he invented them. It would be as wild to suppose that he constructed them out of the grotesque and utterly senseless Babylonian versions. Is there any reason at all to suppose that the Hebrew stories are not as old, at least, as the Babylonian? Why not contend that the Babylonian are degenerate and distorted versions of our Genesis stories?

Why should not any thoughtful critic conclude that the chronology worked out of the hieroglyphs on the ruins and from the uncertainly translated clay tablets of old Babylon and Nineveh should be more accurate than that we deduce from the Pentateuch? Here we have an unbroken genealogy that runs back to Noah, and over the flood back to Adam. The scrappy literature of Babylon, or of Egypt, or of Persia, or of any other people presents us nothing of the kind. We may not know just how to read with utmost accuracy these old Hebrew genealogical tables. We know far less about translating correctly the fragments we have of the writings of the Babylonians. Why should we throw away our Pentateuchal chronology and history and build theories to contradict them on the uncertain Babylonian fragments? Is such a course at all reasonable? It seems that these gentlemen do not care to be reasonable. Faddists are never reasonable.

Let it be distinctly understood that when we speak of the stories of Genesis, we do not mean myths or legends, but true stories—histories. There is a difference between a myth and a legend. Canon Rawlinson says: "The myth is pure and absolute imagination; the legend has a basis of fact, but amplifies, abridges or modifies that basis at its pleasure." A tradition is a story or statement unwritten and passed down from generation to generation. The stories of Creation, Eden, the Fall, and the Flood, as we have them in Genesis, may have been at one time traditions; but I think that there are evi- [illegible] there is no real evidence of any element of legend in them. Most assuredly they are not myths. Let us be accurate. A mythic Genesis is unthinkable—a dream without a single suggestion of basis in fact. Any system of criticizing which can relegate it to the realm of myth must, to be consistent, rob us of about all of the history we have, and leave us a past wrapped in Egyptian darkness.

INDIVIDUALITY.

BY HON. W. A. BELK.

Individuality makes leaders of men. No man can be a leader without individuality. Emerson has well said, "I must be myself." It was he who also said, "Imitation is suicide."

Men often lose their own individuality by not cultivating that particular faculty and by copying from and imitating others. A young man in starting out in public life too often borrows, at his own expense, too freely from other sources. It were far better that he deliver an ordinary address, or preach an ordinary sermon of his own make, than to make a great show on borrowed capital. Let him depend upon himself and do his own thinking and in a short while he will surprise himself at his ability at originality. His efforts at first may be poor, but they are his own. Just let him continue along that line and it will not be long before he will be a leader.

So much has been said and written on any and all subjects that the temptation to borrow is great. By referring to our library, we can relieve ourselves from hard study, and make a magnificent show. It must be understood, however, that we are not condemning good libraries, nor the constant use of the same, but the point we are trying to press is that there is great danger lest we depend entirely upon what we read from others and not enough on what we can think out ourselves.

No one in this day can ever become learned without being a student. He must read, but he must also think. What he reads, when once read, becomes his own, and he may use it legitimately, but it is not legitimate to use it to his own injury. No two men can look alike nor walk alike, neither can they act alike. God has set his "ear marks" upon us all. Each was intended to be himself. There is a place for each to occupy. The blade of grass never assumes to be an oak, but is content at being a successful blade of grass. It fills the place for which nature intended it. All men cannot be be judges, governors, nor Bishops; but each man can be "himself." Let us study other men. But let us not study them to ape them. Pope has well said, "The proper study of mankind is man," and it has always occurred to us that the "man" to be studied is ourself. "Know thyself" is good advice. So let us then not forget to be ourselves. We will thus last longer, go further and wear better.

Holly Springs, Miss.

THE FAITH ONCE DELIVERED TO THE SAINTS.

BY E. B. PARTIN, M. D.

In the Epistle of Jude, 3, we are exhorted to "Earnestly contend for the faith that was once delivered to the Saints."

In every denomination there have been those who were leaders and promoters of standards of doctrine based upon the teachings of the Bible. They were men of deep piety, great learning and thorough consecration to the service of God. Especially was this true of John Wesley, the founder of Methodism. He was a man of [illegible] of his powers to the service of God. So that we might truthfully say of him that he was one of the saints of God. I do not suppose that there was ever any one, excepting the apostles themselves, who lived any nearer his Lord than did Wesley. Evidently the Lord raised him up to accomplish the great work which he did. The manner in which he learned the truths that he taught, as given in his preface to his sermons, ought to be read by his critics of to-day, and let them ask themselves the question, "Do I thus study the Word of God?" He says in the preface to his sermons, p. 5: "I have thought I am a creature of a day passing through life as an arrow through the air. I am a spirit come from God; just hovering over the great gulf; till a few moments hence, I am no more seen; I drop into an unchangeable eternity: I want to know one thing, the way to heaven; how to land safe on that happy shore. God himself has condescended to teach the way; for this very end he came from heaven. He hath written it down in a book! Oh, give me that book! At any price, give me the book of God! I have it; here is knowledge enough for me. Let me be homo unius libri. Here then I am, far from the busy ways of men. I sit down alone; only God is here. In his presence I open, I read this book; for this end, to find the way to heaven. Does anything appear dark or intricate? I lift up my heart to the Father of Lights. * * * I then search after, and consider parallel passages of Scripture, comparing spiritual things with spiritual. I meditate thereon with all the attention and earnestness of which my mind is capable. If any doubt still remains, I consult those who are experienced in the things of God; and then their writings whereby, being dead, they yet speak. And what I thus learn, that I teach."

When the Lord wanted to bring about the great Reformation in the dark ages, he raised up Martin Luther, who restored to the world the doctrine of justification by faith. And when he again wanted to bring an apostate world back to the primitive doctrines of the Gospel, he raised up John Wesley, who taught the doctrines of the witness of the Spirit, Salvation by Faith, Sanctification, etc. These doctrines, restored to a benighted world, can never be improved on, or changed, or modernized. No! Let them stand, for they are the true teachings of the Word of God, and will stand the test of time and eternity. Many millions have been brought into the kingdom of God through the preaching of these doctrines, and many millions more will be brought in. And when the end shall come, many will rise up and call these blessed, because they neither added to nor took away from the Word of God.

VOTE AS YOU PRAY.

BY DR. JOHN T. SAWYER.

We are told that a man should vote as he prays, and how impossible it is to gainsay the truth of the statement—and yet, how much of the voting done does not tally with the voter's prayers. A few years ago in a certain city an election was held on the question of license or no license of the sale of liquor, and the result showed an overwhelming defeat of the dry ticket. Upon investigation, it was found that, had the Presbyterians, Methodists, Baptists and other Christians who were voters stood together and voted dry, there would have resulted a crushing defeat of the "saloonatics." Almost the entire church vote was polled, scarcely a church member refusing or neglecting to deposit his ballot. There can be no doubt as to the parties who were responsible for that city's remaining under the dominion of the "whisky devil." Church members are rightly presumed to be praying people, and that, whatever else may be the subject matter [illegible] do not forget to pray for the destruction of all evil and the enthronement of all good, that Christ's kingdom may indeed come and God's will be done on earth as it is done in heaven.

Before the Lord's kingdom can come upon earth and his will be done here below as it is on high, the open saloon and the licensed liquor traffic, clogging human progress, blighting homes, crushing hearts, blasting hopes, damning souls, must be destroyed. King Alcohol must be dethroned from his places of power and prohibition, pure and simple, must signally and completely triumph.

To pray for a consummation so devoutly to be wished and then, at the beck of a political party dominated by the liquor power, march forth and deposit a ballot that continues the license system, be it high, low or middling, is unquestionably an act of stupendous inconsistency, if not amazing hypocrsy. Whatever other men may think about it, the man who prays to God for the coming of the better time, and from his heart uses the words or the substance of our Lord's Prayer, is forced to realize that his ballot is indeed a sacred weapon of power, for the right casting of which he is directly accountable to his Maker.

Most any bright day the "liquor devil" and his minions could be made to bite the dust, if the men of our land who pray would carry enough religion into their politics to cast clean ballots that would actually back up their prayers. We are indeed rejoicing that many men are getting to think and act that way and that more and more they are putting conscience into their voting.

Let the tarriff or other public questions, supposed to be vital, be determined as they may, the true welfare, if not the very life, of our Republic, is bound up in great measure in the proper settling of the liquor question. Prohibition clubs should be everywhere organized and on the one basis of the total destruction of the liquor power. All can stand shoulder to shoulder on that platform—Catholic and Protestant, Jew and Gentile—all alike fighting "For God and Home and Native Land."

Then, in "the good time that's coming" in the near future, this glorious land of ours, her beautiful limbs freed from "the body of this death," now hanging upon her, shall, passing all others, move with easy grace to her rightful place as peerless queen among the nations.

THEN AND NOW.

BY REV. H. P. LEWIS

This, to me, seems to be a fast age in more respects than one. I know it takes 60 seconds to make a minute, 60 minutes to make an hour, 24 hours to make a day, 7 days to make a week, etc., just as it did fifty years ago, or when I was young in the ministry. Yet time gets away so fast, it keeps one busy all the while to round up things in proper shape. When I was a boy-preacher, on my first circuit or mission, I had thirteen preaching places, besides at times several side appointments, which required me to travel from 250 to 300 miles in order to fill all my appointments, visit my people, and so on; yet I found time to visit outside my charge, go fishing and hunting, and in various ways seek rest and recreation, help other brethren in revival work, visit my dear, good parents now and then. It is different now. I have only four regular preaching places, about 125 members to visit and look after, yet I am kept busy.

Again, when I was young in the ministry, forty and fifty years ago, it was out of the usual order of things to send for an evangelist when you wanted a good meeting. The first protracted meeting I held in 1858, fifty years ago, was at Coalville, where [illegible] on the 15th of May. In the meeting I held in 1858 two local preachers, Bros. W. G. Evans and A. Scarboro (good and true men, both of them with the Savior now), together with a few consecrated laymen, some good women, some of them yet living, was all the help I had—no, not all, for the Holy Spirit was present in great convicting, converting and reclaiming power. The meeting ran nine days, in spite of the fact that the schooner had not been up the bayou (Biloxi) for many days, and the people complained of being scarce of something to eat. Sixty-six professed faith in Christ and joined the church, or, rather, applied for membership on six months' probation. In some instances whole families joined. Just what percentage of the sixty-six were baptized and received afterwards I shall never know in this life.

When I was their presiding elder ten years afterward I met several of them, most of whom seemed to be getting on quite well religiously. I had been in the ministry over thirty years before I thought of getting anyone except a neighbor preacher to help me in a meeting. In those days we had local preachers, exhorters, class leaders and others, consecrated women, and so on, who were good help in meetings. But times and circumstances have changed. We have, in this country, but few local preachers, no exhorters, no class leaders, and but few earnest workers among the laymen.

One of the best revival meetings I was ever in was in the month of May, 1855. Brother George Wade, late of North Mississippi Conference, was our pastor. Nothing had been said about a protracted meeting until the time came; yet a vast amount of earnest knee work had been going on for quite a while on the part of the faithful few, among them being my parents.

The good people were hungry for a revival. They looked to God for it; they expected it; they asked for it; they got it. That was fifty-three years ago. The good results of that revival are being seen and felt in many places in our Conference to-day. Fifty years ago it was not necessary to send one hundred or five hundred miles to get a man to hold revival meetings. It is different now, at least in many localities. I wish it were otherwise. I shall never regret sending for Brother W. G. Harbin, of Greenville, Miss., to hold a meeting for me here in Liberty. He proved to be the right man for the place. The Liberty Male and Female College is located here. We have, in the main, intelligent people here. Most of them are church-going people. We wanted a strong man to hold our meeting. We found such a man in Brother Harbin. He endeared himself greatly to our people. Yet I feel sure, if we all, preachers and people, were what we ought to be, it would not be necessary to send for an evangelist to hold meetings.

Liberty, Miss.

LAYMAN'S MOVEMENT.

To the Pastors and Laymen, M. E. Church,
South, Brookhaven District:

This is to advise you that I am ready and anxiously waiting to call on you and assist you in organizing your District and Missionary Committees, "Layman's Missionary Movement."

We have a grand work to perform during 1908, and in order to properly attend to this work it is very important that we organize promptly and lose no further time in commencing in the performance of our duty.

In order to cover the District it will be necessary that some of the charges shall hold meetings during the week; the railroad stations can best do this; and I will suggest that pastors communicate with me at once, suggesting a time for holding meeting. Be certain that you are prepared to furnish a good audien [illegible]

THE GREAT POWERS UNITING FOR NATIONAL PROHIBITION OF OPIUM.

A special cable from the British Anti-Opium Society to the International Reform Bureau announces the suppression of opium dens in Hong Kong and Ceylon by order of the British Government. In Hong Kong forty per cent of the revenues have until now been derived from the sale of opium, and probably a similar proportion in Ceylon. An International Anti-Opium Commission is now being formed, with the cordial assistance of the United States Government, in which Great Britain, Italy, France, Holland, China and Japan will, it is expected, unite for the complete prohibition of opium in all their territorial possessions in eastern Asia and adjacent islands. The speedy world doom of the opium traffic is foreshadowed in these events.

GET SOLID PROTECTION AND INSURE WITH
LEON IRWIN & CO.
Fire and Casualty Insurance.
736 UNION STREET. PHONE, MAIN 585.

W. W. Carre Co., Ltd,
Manufacturer and Exporter of
LUMBER,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Phone Main
ROOMS and BOARD
634 and 638 SOUTH STREET LAFAYETTE SQUARE
CORNER ST. CHARLES ST., NEW ORLEANS.
UNLIMITED MEALS. ALVIN PORTER, Manager.

THE SUPERANNUATE'S MITE.

Among the contributions from Mississippi in response to the call for an increase in the Church Extension Loan Fund capital $5 has been received from Rev. P. Howard, of Holmesville, Miss., accompanied by the following letter:

"Dear Brother—I have just read your appeal and the Kansas City letter, and am reminded of a purpose formed some time since to send you $5 for the Loan Fund, not the "widow's mite," but the superannuate's dividend. I am seventy-eight years old, and feel that I have done but little good in the world and can do little or nothing more, and make this self-denial and start this small amount on its perpetual mission that it may live and work after I am gone and forgotten. May the Lord bless it in its work."

This, with other remittances from the State of Mississippi, are greatly appreciated. We hope to hear from many more individuals and churches in that State soon. Yours sincerely,

W. F. McMURRY.

A GENEROUS CONTRIBUTION.

Dear Dr. Boswell: Since appealing to the brethren throughout the State, for aid toward rebuilding our church that was destroyed by the cyclone that swept away Gilliam, I have received a check for fifty dollars from a lady in New Orleans. She is the widow of a Methodist preacher, too. Now I am sure if you will mention this fact in the ADVOCATE that some of the wealthy brethren will awake to the fact that they are stewards for God down here.

RESOLUTIONS

ADOPTED BY THE ABERDEEN DISTRICT CONFERENCE

Whereas, under the economy of our Methodism, the presidency of our beloved Presiding Elder, Rev. J. H. Mitchell, shall have expired at the next session of our Annual Conference; and whereas the work of the Church, in her several departments, shows marked improvement during the present quadrennium; and whereas the relation of presiding elder to preachers and laymen has been brotherly and pleasant, and marked by the exhibition of the Christ spirit throughout the entire quadrennium: therefore be it

Resolved by the preachers and laymen of the Aberdeen District, North Mississippi Conference, in District Conference assembled:

First—That we recognize, with profound gratitude to Almighty God, the magnificent progress of the District during the present quadrennium; and that we attribute this progress to the wise, capable, and efficient management of Rev. J. H. Mitchell more than to any other human agent.

Second—That while it seems to be the rule for the Episcopal authorities of our Church to return a man to the pastorate after he has served a quadrennium in the presiding eldership, we believe that the interest of the Church would be more truly advanced by the retaining of Rev. J. H. Mitchell in the presiding eldership, which for twelve years he has filled with conspicuous ability and with unswerving devotion to the Church.

Third—That we assure Brother Mitchell that our prayers shall follow him into whatsoever department of labor the Great Head of the Church shall call him, and that he shall always be remembered by us as a Christian gentleman, a wise and efficient leader in the council of the church, and Southern Methodism's best presiding elder.

Fourth—That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the NEW ORLEANS and Nashville Christian Advocate for publication.

Signed by W. E. M. Brogan and twenty-five others.

SISTER CAMPBELL REPLIES.

I wonder if the readers of the ADVOCATE have forgotten that Sister Perritt wrote an article which was published in the ADVOCATE of March 26, in which she asked me a question. I presume she thinks that I am taking my time about answering; and so I am; but I am ready to answer now.

There is always more than one side to a thing, and sometimes the sides are vastly different. I don't think that Sister Perritt and myself are "two sisters not of the same mind;" we are just looking at different sides, or possibly she did not understand me. If she will read my article again, carefully, she will find that I use the words "possibly," "sometimes," "generally," and "as a rule," or their equivalents. Now, "possibly" is not very positive; "sometimes" and "generally" do not mean always, and there are exceptions to every rule. Sister Perritt's friend's case may be one of the exceptions, and there are probably others who could relate a like expe[illegible] lived on more than one "poor country charge" where I was thankful for a box to use, and where the people seemed to be indifferent (but they were not) to the needs of their pastor and his family; but I did not consider those conditions "flies in my pot of ointment"—no, not even gnats, nor did I blame the Woman's Home Mission Society, the people, or my predecessor for the condition that I found the parsonage in, because I always believed that people do the best they can under existing circumstances, of which, possibly, I knew nothing about. So I just take things as I find them, and do all I can to make them as I think they ought to be. I don't think that any of us ever find things so bad but what they could be worse. So let us try to be considerate, and deal with such cases in the spirit of love; remembering that the promises of God are sure; that what he says is true; and he says that all things work together for good to them that love him, and that his grace is sufficient for us. Then too, let us not forget that we are laboring together with God; and that all things are possible with him; but we must not expect to be carried to the skies on flowery beds of ease. There are battles to be fought, victories to be won, but we can do all things through Christ, which strengtheneth us. So let us trust in his strength, remembering that "every cloud has a silver lining;" and when we feel that we have been neglected and no one cares for us, remember that Jesus cares, that he understands, that all his ways are best, and that he has said, "If we suffer, we shall also reign with him."

MRS. J. W. CAMPBELL.

Rolling Fork, Miss.

LOCKE ANTI-RACING BILL PASSED.

The Locke Anti-Racing Bill passed the Senate of the Louisiana Legislature on last Tuesday, 21 voting yea and 19 nay. There has been a very strenuous fight made against this bill by the racing fraternity. They have ascribed to it all manner of flaws, but the people at large know that they opposed it.

Race track gambling has been a disgrace to New Orleans and the cause of the downfall of many young men. It has had a demoralizing influence, helping to break down the Sabbath and to lower the standard of morals.

It is a cause for rejoicing that a serious blow has been struck at it by our Legislature, and it is to be hoped that the law will prove effective in banishing the evil from the state of Louisiana.

There were several sensational incidents in the last hours of the fight in the Senate, and it was even alleged that one of the Senators had been poisoned to prevent his being on hand to vote on the final passage of the bill. This hardly seems probable; but the final fight was at least exciting, and the margin for the bill was narrow.

The passion for gambling is as terrible in its power over a man as the passion for strong drink. While men will always love fine horses, and those who own them will be sure to sometime race them, yet racing as a profession is absolutely dead the minute you take gambling out of it. The bill passed by the Legislature sought to kill the gambling element of racing.

Luzianne Coffee

[illegible] the goodness of any other brand of coffee on the market.

SOLD EVERYWHERE.

Try it on our guarantee that it will please or you get your money back. After that LUZIANNE will speak for itself and you'll use no other.

The Reily-Taylor Company,
New Orleans, U. S. A.

THE SAFEST AND QUICKEST WAY
—TO—
TRANSFER MONEY
—IS BY—
Long Distance Telephone
FOR RATES APPLY TO LOCAL MANAGER.
Cumberland Telephone & Telegraph Co.,
INCORPORATED.

A POINTED SERMON.

"Alexander the coppersmith did me much evil" (2 Timothy 4:14). This was the striking text which made the big congregation of Calvary Methodist Episcopal Church "sit up and take notice" at a recent Sunday night service. The preacher was the Rev. Dr. Charles L. Goodell, Calvary's new pastor, formerly of Hanson Place Church, Brooklyn.

Doctor Goodell did not preach his entire sermon from the "coppersmith" text. It was reserved for that important part of the service where the ushers pass the collection baskets. Confronting the unsuspecting congregation at the critical moment, Doctor Goodell said: "In the words of Paul as recorded by Timothy, I say that 'Alexander the coppersmith did me much evil.'"

Every sound in the crowded church was stilled as if by magic.

"I am able to state with absolute accuracy," continued the new pastor in a voice of thunder, "that there were 1,700 coppers—cents, pennies—in the collection last Sunday."

While the startled congregation was recovering its nerve, Doctor Goodell pointed the moral substantially as follows:

"This scheme of giving all the pennies to the church is hardly fair—to the newsboys. You gentlemen start down town Monday morning with nothing but dimes, quarters and bills in your pockets. As a result, the newsboys are forced to lose time and expend profitless energy in making change. It would be infinitely better for the boys, and drop your silver in the collection."

There were only a few coppers in the night's collection.

"It was a sort of clerical joke," said Doctor Goodell. "I wanted to touch 'em up just a little. There was nothing of complaint or criticism. The Sunday collection averaged $124, a highly satisfactory figure—but it was perfectly true about those 1,700 pennies."—Exchange.

WHY I HATE THE LIQUOR TRAFFIC.

BY GOV. HANLEY, OF INDIANA.

Personally, I have seen so much of the evils of the liquor traffic in the last four years, so much of its economic waste, so much of its physical ruin, so much of its mental blight, so much of its tears and heartache, that I have come to regard the business as one that must be held and controlled by strong and effective laws.

I bear no malice toward those engaged in the business, but I hate the traffic.

I hate its every phase. I hate it for its intolerance. I hate it for its arrogance. I hate it for its hypocrisy. I hate it for its cant and craft and false pretense.

I hate it for its commercialism. I hate it for its greed and avarice. I hate it for its sordid love of gain at any price. I hate it for its domination in politics. I hate it for its corrupting influence in civic affairs.

I hate it for its incessant effort to debauch the suffrage of the country; for the cowards it makes of public men. I hate it for its utter disregard of law. I hate it for its ruthless trampling of the solemn compacts of State constitutions.

I hate it for the load it straps to labor's back, for the palsied hands it gives to toil, for its wounds to genius, for the tragedies of its might-have-beens.

I hate it for the human wrecks it has caused. I hate it for the almshouses it peoples, for the prisons it fills, for the insanity it begets, for its countless graves in potter's fields.

I hate it for the mental ruin it imposes upon its victims, for its spiritual blight, for its moral degradation.

I hate it for the crimes it has committed. I hate it for the homes it has destroyed. I hate it for the hearts it has broken.

I hate it for the malice it has planted in the hearts of men—for its poison, for its bitterness—for the dead sea fruit which it starves their souls.

I hate it for the grief it causes womanhood—the scalding tears, the hopes deferred, the strangled aspirations, its burdens of want and care.

I hate it for its heartless cruelty to the aged, the infirm and the helpless, for the shadow it throws upon the lives of children, for its monstrous injustice to blameless little ones.

I hate it as virtue hates vice, as truth hates error, as righteousness hates sin, as justice hates wrong, as liberty hates tyranny, as freedom hates oppression.

I hate it as Abraham Lincoln hated slavery. And as he sometimes saw in prophetic vision the end of slavery and the coming time when the sun should to see the end of this unholy traffic, the coming of the time when, if it does not wholly cease to be, it shall find no safe habitation anywhere beneath "Old Glory's" stainless stars.

THE JEWISH MOTHER.

As an instance of heroic faith and resignation, nothing could be more beautiful than the story of the heroic, wise-hearted Jewish mother, who lost her two sons during the absence of her husband, Rabbi Meir. When the rabbi returned to his home, ignorant of the calamity which had befallen him, he was met on the threshold by his wife. "My husband," she said gravely and calmly, "a great Lord once lent me two precious jewels, begging me to keep them for him until he should reclaim them. In your absence he has sent for them; so I gave them up fearlessly. Will you not say that I did well?" "Well, in truth," answered the Rabbi quickly, but without guessing what she meant, "what would you do otherwise?"

Then the mother, full of faith, led her wondering husband into an inner chamber, where her sons lay in the sleep of death, and said: "See our reclaimed jewels! The great Lord has taken them. We cannot murmur, for they were his own."—Exchange.

"BABY BIRDIE'S PRAYER"

is a most beautiful song and chorus, composed by Jane A. Havens. It is simple and very sweet. Everybody can sing and play it. The title page is very pretty, showing a little girl kneeling at her bedside praying. The regular retail price of this song is 50 cents per copy. Our readers will receive a copy postpaid by sending 10 cents in postage stamps to The Globe Music Co., 1155 Broadway, New York, N. Y.

SEASHORE CAMP MEETING

From July 8th to 15th, 1908.

SPECIAL RATES.

No Admission Fee at the Gates of the Grounds During the Camp Meeting.

The management announces the Thirty-seventh Annual Camp Meeting, Seashore Camp Grounds, commencing Wednesday, July 8, and continuing until July 15. The cottages and grounds have been put in thorough order, and other improvements made, looking to the comfort and convenience of those who attend this meeting.

The religious services are under the direction of the Presiding Elders of New Orleans, Seashore and Mobile District Conferences of the M. E. Church, South, and these brethren will be assisted by the best preaching talent that can be obtained.

Preaching under the Tabernacle Grove, and Cottage Prayer Meetings, and other religious services, will be held during each day and evening, to which all persons on the grounds are not only cordially invited, but are expected to attend.

LOCATION.

The Seashore Camp Ground is located on the Mississippi Sound, seventy-nine miles from New Orleans and sixty-two miles from Mobile, on the Louisville and Nashville Railroad, and is one of the most beautiful places on the Gulf Coast. It enjoys a railroad service that is unexcelled for comfort and convenience. Magnificent new Artesian wells furnish cool and life-giving water. By a perfect system of water works the Electricity.

A pier twelve hundred and forty feet in length, with a Summer house on the end, extends out into the Gulf, and offers positively the most delightful advantages in the South for a promenade. The bathing is unexcelled by any other point on the gulf. All parties residing on the grounds have the privilege of the bath-houses. Good board can be secured at the restaurant, which is in charge of a competent chef, and in private houses at reasonable rates. The comfort and convenience of all visitors will be carefully looked after.

All Methodist preachers will be admitted into the Grounds and provided with board and lodging free of charge during Camp Meeting.

Persons wishing to secure accommodations before the rush of opening of Camp Meeting should address communications to R. G. Price, Keeper Seashore Camp Ground, Biloxi, Miss., or any of the undersigned officers.

Dr. E. L. McGehee, President, New Orleans, La.,
Sam Meyer, Financial Secretary, New Orleans, La.

SEASHORE ASSEMBLY FOR CHRISTIAN WORKERS.

The ninth session of the Seashore Assembly for Christian Workers (formerly the Seashore Epworth League Assembly) will open Thursday evening, July 25, at the famous Seashore Camp Ground, Biloxi, Miss., and will conclude Sunday evening, August 2. The Assembly offers to Epworth Leaguers, Sunday School workers, and all others who desire to equip themselves for Christian work, courses in systematic Bible Study, Home and Foreign Missions, Epworth League Methods, and Personal Work. Devotional meetings will be held every morning in the Tabernacle and every evening on thqe Beach. The forenoons will be given to study, the afternoons reserved for recreation, and the evenings for inspirational lectures.

Lodging will be provided in the Epworth Lodge, owned and managed by the Assembly, for as many advance applicants as the Lodge will accommodate at $2.50 for the ten days of the session. Board can be had at restaurant or private table at 75 cents to $1 a day.

For further particulars address F. S. Parker, President, 810 Broadway, Nashville, Tenn., or C. D. Atkinson, Secretary, 734 Nashville Avenue, New Orleans, La.

REPORT OF FINANCE COMMITTEE, SEASHORE DISTRICT.

Mr. Editor: The Committee on Finance at the recent session of the Seashore District Conference, Mississippi Conference, submitted the following report, which was heartily adopted and ordered printed in the ADVOCATE. The Committee is composed of prominent laymen.

Yours truly, W. B. JONES, Sec.

Dear Brethren: We your Committee on Finance, beg to report as follows:

We suggest and recommend:

First—That the stewards in each pastoral charge see to it, and herein fail not, that the pastor's salary be handed him monthly, and in advance, if possible. Realizing that no specific plan or system we could outline would operate with equal force in every charge, we leave it to the several individual Boards of Stewards to earnestly consider and prayerfully adopt such methods as will certainly secure the pastor's monthly financial maintenance and support.

Second—That the presiding elder's salary be paid quarterly, at each quarterly meeting.

Third—That the pastors in each charge be relieved of soliciting the general or Conference collections, and that this duty and responsibility be lodged with and upon the respective Boards of Stewards, thereby leaving the pastor free and unfettered to this extent.

Fourth—That the pastors, at least quarterly, from the pulpit, forcibly remind their membership of their duty and privilege of cheerfully supporting and contributing financially to all the institutions of the Church. (Signed)

J. S. OTIS.
J. H. MINER,
J. W. GRIFFIN,
[illegible]

VICKSBURG DISTRICT CONFERENCE.

The Vicksburg District Conference met at Bolton, Thursday morning, June 11, 1908, Rev. G. H. Galloway, P. E., in the chair and conducting the opening services—exhorting all to exemplify, in daily life and conduct, the love of God.

Reports from the several pastoral charges showed a steady advance along all lines and in every department of church work. No one appeared to be discouraged, but rather resolved to push the work of the Lord. While there has been no great influx of people into the District from other parts of the State, there is every indication that a better report will be made at the Annual Conference than ever before.

Rev. S. A. Steel, D.D., of the Northwest Texas Conference, visited the District Conference and delivered that masterpiece of his, "Pioneer Methodists." For this address the business houses of Bolton closed their doors, and the citizens attended in large numbers. Everyone was well pleased, and no doubt has greater respect for the old-time circuit rider than ever before.

The brethren of the District who preached did so in an able manner that showed not only careful preparation, but hearts fired with zeal for the Master.

The District promises several hundred dollars toward the support of Miss Nell Drake, who went from Port Gibson recently to the China mission field.

Rev. H. M. Ellis, Conference Missionary evangelist; Rev. R. Selby, Secretary of the Conference Board of Education; Rev. T. J. O'Neil, representing the Joint Board of Finance, and Rev. W. M. Williams, of the Orphanage, were present during the Conference and made addresses concerning their special work.

The people of Bolton were not stinted in their liberality in entertaining the Conference, but made each preacher and delegate feel perfectly at home.

Brother James Franklin Campbell, from the Bolton Circuit, was licensed to preach.

Delegates to the Annual Conference were elected as follows: C. S. Elliott, A. I. Orr, W. W. Ellis, and A. K. Barrier, with E. L. Brien and G. W. Ferguson, alternates.

The Church at Bolton has made progress under the ministry of Rev. I. L. Peebles, and shows practically a new parsonage, the old one having been so modified by recent improvements that hardly a trace of the old is discernable. As this is Brother Peebles' fourth year, a number of the preachers were looking at the new parsonage with wistful eyes. It is indeed a credit to the little city of Bolton and the earnest labors of her deserving pastor.

The Conference will meet next year at Utica.

GEO. P. MCKEOWN, Secretary.

NEWTON DISTRICT CONFERENCE.

The Newton District Conference will be held at Montrose, July 8-10. Opening sermon will be preached at 8 p. m. of the 7th, by Rev. W. W. Graves on the "Great Commission." The morning of the 8th will be given to a discussion of missions. At 11 a. m., T. W. Lewis will occupy the pulpit. The afternoon will be given to the W. F. M. Society, the W. H. M. Society and to education. At 8 p. m., we will have talks from our delegates to the Layman's Missionary Conference.

The 9th will be given to hearing reports from the charges, with preaching at 11 a. m. and 8 p. m. The 10th will be occupied with reports from committees and other Conference Minutes, with preaching at 11 a. m. and 8 p. m.

[illegible]—T. J. O'Neil, H. Mellard and T. H. King.

On Recommendations to Conference—C. A. Powell, C. C. Evans, and A. M. Broadfoot.

Deacon's Orders—W. W. Moore, W. E. Dickens and J. J. Golden.

Elder's Orders—C. McDonald, W. L. Hightower and W. J. Dawson.

JAS. M. WEEMS, P. E.

NOTICE FROM THE PASTOR.

Pastors will please send to undersigned, the names of all delegates, local preachers, representatives of missionary societies, etc.

State definitely, if coming by private conveyance, that provision may be made for the care of stock. Any one desiring to attend the Conference and wishing entertainment, will please notify us.

C. H. ELLIS, P. C.

CORINTH DISTRICT CONFERENCE.

The District Conference for Corinth District will be held at Baldwyn, Miss., opening Tuesday morning, July 14, at 9 o'clock, and continuing through July 15th and 16th. All who expect to attend will please notify Rev. W. C. Lester, Guntown, Miss. Free entertainment will be provided.

BEN P. JACO, P. E.

NOTICE.

Editor of ADVOCATE: I will have the time to assist in several meetings during the month of July and a part of August, up to about the 20th, and I will be glad to arrange at once with any of the brethren needing help. I can be with them on Sundays, as well as through the week, as I have a vacation that I would like to spend in revival work. Fraternally,

J. W. LEE.

Melville, La.

BOARD OF CHURCH EXTENSION.

SOME THINGS DONE AT THE ANNUAL MEETING, ST. JOSEPH, MO., MAY 6-8.

Donations were made to churches, amounting to $72,000, and loans amounting to $85,000.

The Corresponding Secretary was requested to prepare a book of church and parsonage plans of moderate cost buildings.

Dr. W. R. Lambuth and the Corresponding Secretary were instructed to raise a special of $6,000.00 to build a Church in Hiroshima, Japan.

A new set of By-Laws were adopted, which does away with the old quarterly meeting of the Board, and provides for a monthly meeting of the Executive and Finance Committee.

The Washington City Church proposition was carefully considered, and the Corresponding Secretary authorized to employ such measures and assistance as in his judgment are needed to do the work.

Rev. N. L. Linebaugh, President of the Conference Board of Church Extension of the Oklahoma Conference, was selected to assist the Corresponding Secretary with special reference to the work in Oklahoma.

Authority was given to call a meeting of the representatives of the Conference Boards of Church Extension at such time and place as the Corresponding Secretary may select for conference on the work of the department.

A proposition to establish in Denver, Col., an institutional church was endorsed. The work is to be done under the supervision and direction of the Bishop in charge, the Corresponding Secretary and Dr. W. R. Lambuth.

Action was taken authorizing the Corresponding Secretary and the Conference Boards of Church Extension, in mill towns and other towns, where it is impossible to secure titles in fee simple, to so relax the rules of the Board as to relieve such cases from embarrassment.

Careful consideration was given to the needs of Oklahoma, Southern Arizona and New Mexico, and a committee, consisting of the Corresponding Secretary and the Bishop in charge, was appointed, and request made that the Secretaries of the Board of Missions co-operate with this committee to raise at the earliest possible date as much as $20,000.00 for supplying the immediate needs of those fields.

A Committee, consisting of the Corresponding Secretary, the Bishop in charge, and Rev. W. J. Johnson, was appointed to act in conjunction with a Committee of the Board of Missions in giving careful study to the Gulf Ports, especially the City of New Orleans, looking to the adoption of a policy by the two Boards with reference to the strengthening of Methodism. This Committee was also instructed to give careful attention to the study of conditions which obtain in the City of Galveston. The President and Secretary of the Woman's Home Mission Society were invited to co-operate with these two Boards in carrying out any plans that may be adopted.

The world is full of idlers who are neglecting the tasks of to-day while they dream of the opportunities of to-morrow. There is no better way to make ready for to-morrow than by doing well the tasks of to-day.

KEEP COOL For Refrigerators and Gas Stoves go to United Hardward Co., Ltd.,
1005-1007 Canal Street, New Orleans.

ESTABLISHED 1851
JOHN DAVID BURGHARDT CO.,
THE RELIABLE PLUMBERS and GAS FITTERS
Agency: Born's Patent Steel Ranges. Hygeia Water Filters.
613-615 Bienville St. Phone Main [illegible]
Jobbing and Repair Work a Specialty. New Orleans, La.

The Home Circle.

HOME.

Year after year, as we schoolgirls work away at our lessons, we look forward to the day when school life shall close, when the friends and teachers who held us to our tasks shall acknowledge—

> "The child is a woman,
> The books may close now,
> For all the lessons are over."

But when that day really comes we stand with half-reluctant feet at the parting of the ways, looking on eagerly, it is true, to the future, yet looking back wistfully over the past. As we call up one scene after another from the days that "are no more" and can no more return, there are some upon which we love to linger, and of all the dear memories the dearest are those of home.

While I was still within its shelter I thought little about either the affection of my parents or the sweetness of the quiet home ways. I took for granted the pure air of my surroundigs and was as happy as I could be. But when once I had left home behind I realized what it had been worth to me. What innocent, happy days those were when everything seemed made on purpose to give me a good time!. There were so many pleasant things to do! Sometimes in the bright, cool mornings I used to hunt for nuts and wild vines in a grove which was at just the proper distance for us both—the white-haired old man and the delicate little child.

When I plucked his sleeve to go he never refused me. I think he liked these excursions fully as well as I. We often asked my mother to fill a tiny lunch basket and then we wandered down to the grove and sometimes on to the hillslope. Even now the crispness of the air, the fragrance of the autumn me.

In hunting nuts I was far more skillful than my weak-sighted grandfather. Quick as a little monkey I gathered the ripened nuts falling with each puff of wind from the rustling treetops. Then we would sit down to empty our basket of its delicious rice-balls and replace them with my heaped up treasures. I remember one time begging my grandfather to take me on to the mountain which looked so lofty from my window. He told me that we were already there, but the ascent had been so gentle and easy that I could not realize that we had climbed it. I cried and cried to go on to the mountain, so all he could do was to put me on his back and carry me home! In the long winter evenings, when the snow was outside, our family spent many happy hours in a warm room, which was none too large to take in the three generations which made up our home circle. In the corner a glowing firebed was kept well supplied with charcoal. The room was always in good order, with decorations arranged by my mother's careful taste. Flowers from the alcove sent forth a summer-like fragrance and often when mother had chosen red blossoms I plucked the prettiest to give to my doll. There were five of us, all told, together round the fire. I, the baby, nestling close to mother's side, would listen to the old, old stories told by others in turn. While grandmother was repeating her favorite fairy legend her wrinkled face shone with tender passion. I always thought her story was the best. When the tale was ended we had our evening prayer, and I can still hear the tones of my father's voice calling down benedictions on the household. Then mother prepared the soft futon and tucked me into bed. How warm it was! How cozy! How soon my heavy eyelids closed on my red cheeks!

On summer afternoons I played outside the door with a group of children now grown into very dignified personages. When we quarreled. I, who was a shy and timid little girl, was always easily conquered. Then off I ran into the house at full speed and never stopped until I found my mother and threw myself into her arms and cried there, believing that the only place for me to weep. Therefore, the saddest times I ever had were when my mother scolded me, for then I knew no place where I could cry. How I love to remember these things! I hardly know why, when they seem so trifling as they are told, yet no other thought ever makes me so happy. When I came away to school I missed these home surroundings sadly, yet I found that when things went wrong the memory of home never failed to cheer me. And whether sad or gay this memory was always in my heart. It clung to me as persistently as a shadow follows substance.

What gives home so powerful an influence? There was nothing grand about our home. All was quiet and simple. But it was home, where I was born, where I learned to speak, to stand, to walk, where I began to know how to love and to be loved. The air was warm with love, the love that comes from the heavenly Father's heart into the hearts of earthly parents. Yes, one who has lived in such a home, bathed in the sweetness of it, is ever followed by the blessed memory. Women are called the world's home-makers, and I like to think that wherever we go we may carry the influence of home.

And I shall end as I began, for I have still another home, the sweetest home of all. There my Father waits providing a place among his many mansions. There the verdure of spring never fades, the whispers of divine music never cease. Whenever I think of that home my eyes are filled with tears.—Selected.

TIRED OUT.

Does the tired little mother know, when she feels as if she could not take another step, and it is almost a question when she closes her those in whose behalf she is so weary, that there is really no occasion for such fatigue as hers? She smiles at the idea. "No occasion" she says. "With my Janey needing this, and Harry wanting that, and Willy suffering for the other thing! With the baby to have his rights, with the house at sixes and sevens, and its dear master demanding and deserving the best and most—no occasion for my fatigue!"

But let her pause and reconsider. Does Janey really need this? Is it not a fancied need merely? Would she not be as well off without it, after all? Is it indispensable to her health and good name, and her soul's welfare? Is it finery, frills and furbelows that made the extra stitches and steps which tire the back and eyes of her that takes them? Would she not be just as happy and wholesome in simpler garments? And if only the ambition to rival her mates causes the work, would it not be a good exercise in moral strength to let her know the trouble, and approve and apply the remedy herself? For if she loves her mother she cannot wish her to tire herself out for her own little vanities or great ones; and if she does not love her enough for that, then she ought not to be considered to such an extent. And does Harry want what he wants sufficiently for him to pay the price of presently having no mother at all, or at best a step-mother, in order to give it to him now? There are some things too costly for her to give; and the price of Harry's gratified desire, added to all the rest, is the price of strength, and it may be of life. And for what can Willy be suffering that his suffering should outweigh hers? And the baby's rights! Ah, we verily believe that there's the rub! The baby must be kept as the first baby was, when all was new and bright, and the strength was new and bright, too. His little gowns must be white; they must be changed daily and sometimes twice a day, and they must be in number for that reason, and if there is no one else to iron the flutings and quillings and insertings and edgings, she must do it herself, or do something else to make things even while that is being done; in order that he shall always look as fresh as a field daisy, as sweet as a white rose-bud. But whose is the baby? Does it give any but a passing pleasure to others than herself and her household; and will not she, will not they, love that baby just the same if he has not a ruffle on him, and in a little gown as brown as the thrushes wear? Will he not be just as sweet, his kisses just as dear, his fair face all the fairer by comparison? And as for the house and its order, does anyone expect a house full of children to be full of order, too? When people waltz long, and wish to restore the equilibrium, they reverse; cannot the children who get things out of order put them back in order? And as for the master of the house—ah, there we will not be of the fools that rush in! Only let the wife and mother think that it is more to one and all of them to have her than to have these things she is pursuing to her ruin, and that she will do husband and children the more good the more she simplifies her life and work.—Harper's Bazar.

THE METHODIST REVIEW.

The contents of the forth-coming issue (July) of the Mehtodist Review have been made public. The leading article is by Mrs. Janie McTyeire Baskerville, a character-sketch of the late Bishop Tigert. The article, designed as a companion-piece to Mrs. Baskervill's sketch of her father, Bishop McTyeire, will amply repay perusal. The Review under the editorial management of Dr. Gross Alexander, fully maintains the high standard it reached under the administration of Dr. Tigert, who went from the editorial chair into the Episcopacy.

The Review should

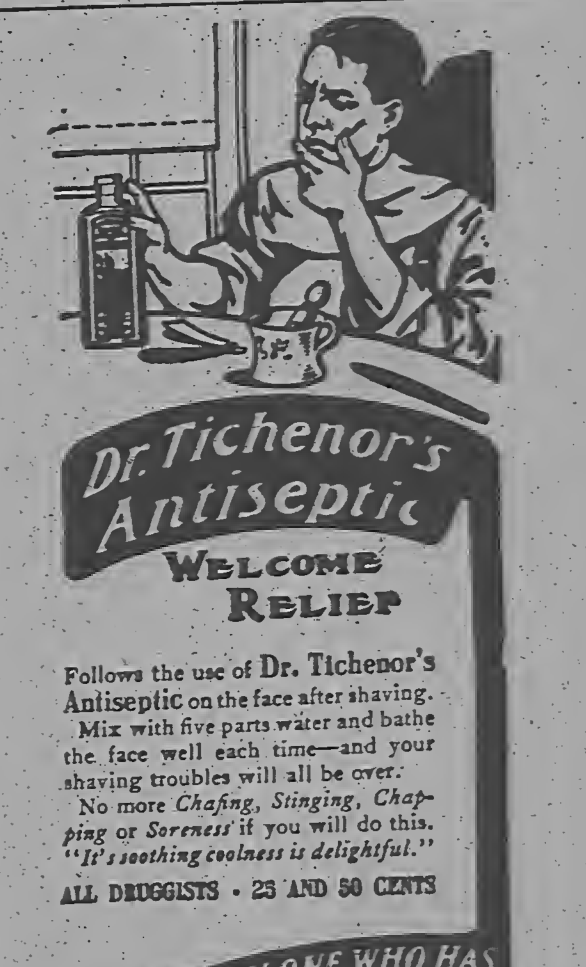
BELLEVUE POULTRY SUPPLY CO.

Everything in the poultry line: Chickens, Parrots, Guinea Pigs, Rabbits and Pet Stock of every description; Cyphers, Incubators and Feed at Factory Prices, may be bad by writing us at 740 Camp St., New Orleans, La. Catalogue sent free.



Follows the use of Dr. Tichenor's Antiseptic on the face after shaving.

Mix with five parts water and bathe the face well each time—and your shaving troubles will all be over.

No more Chafing, Stinging, Chapping or Soreness if you will do this. "It's soothing coolness is delightful."

ALL DRUGGISTS · 25 AND 50 CENTS

Christian Advocate.

REV. JNO. W. BOSWELL, D.D., Editor.
REV. H. WHITEHEAD, Ass't Editor.
CHAS. O. CHALMERS, Publisher.

ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT NEW ORLEANS AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

OFFICE: 512 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

TERMS:
One Copy, one year, $2; six months, $1. To Preachers of all Denominations, half-price.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEES:
LOUISIANA CONFERENCE—Rev. W. W. Drake, Rev. N. E. Joyner, Rev. J. M. Henry.
MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE—Rev. M. L. Burton, Rev. W. H. Lewis, Rev. C. W. Crisler.
NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE—Rev. W. T. J. Sullivan, D.D.; Rev. J. T. Murrah, Rev. W. W. Woollard.

THE CONSISTENT LIFE.

The consistent Christian life is one shaped and pursued according to the will of God as revealed in the Scriptures. God's will only is the standard both as to spirit and practice. It is not specific in every particular—that is, it does not tell what every man shall think and do with reference to everything about which he may be called to act. Some things are left to the dictates of an enlightened judgment and a quickened conscience. It takes into consideration a man's surroundings and religious training, binding him to do in all things according to the light that is in him, with an eye to the glory of God and the good of men. Under no circumstances [illegible] is sin.

Our Lord has made a clear distinction between the Church and the world. Not only has he called his people out from the world and given them clean hearts, but he demands that they change their manner of life and walk circumspectly before men, so as to give them no occasion to blaspheme the "holy name" by which they are called. The elements that enter into the making of the Church are wholly different from the elements of the world. The two elements will not mix. For this reason the Church is called out from the world, and required to be separate. Righteousness hath no fellowship with unrighteousness; light has no communion with darkness, nor has Christ any concord with Belial. It is only in consideration of entire separation from the world that our Lord promises to abide with his people.

Notwithstanding in many things Christians are left to judge for themselves whether they may or may not engage in them with good consciences, the concensus of evangelical Christendom is to the effect that certain things cannot be indulged without hurt to the cause of God. This opinion of Christendom should not be set aside or lightly esteemed, and will not be by those who are purposed in heart to do no wrong. It is one thing for a Christian to satisfy his own conscience, it is another and serious thing to put an occasion of stumbling in his brother's way. One who is so selfish as to do a thing that makes his brother stumble simply because the doing does not hurt his own conscience has not learned the law of sacrifice which lies at the very foundation of our religion. The Master "pleased not himself." Neither should Christians, if it is likely to do harm to others. St. Paul could eat meat of certain kinds and at any time, but he could not do it without hurting the consciences of weaker brethren, and he religiously abstained, saying: "If meat make my brother to offend, I will eat no flesh while the world standeth, lest I make my brother to offend." Thus are we taught the duty to sacrifice for the sake of others.

One Christian, who represents many, says: "I can dance and go to the theatre, and engage in social card playing, without hurt to my conscience." We do not dispute it. But we say this: Either the training of this Christian's conscience has been in the wrong direction, else he has limited conceptions of his relation to the world, and no concern at all for the influence of his example. We say more: Such a Christian may enter into these amusements with a good conscience, but he cannot come out of them without harm to his soul. A party once prepared to enter a coal mine. In the company was a young lady dressed in white. Her companions protested. She could see no reasons for their objections, and, turning to the guide, said: "Mayn't I go down into the mine in a white dress?" The guide answered: "Yes, Miss, but you cannot come out with a white one." The answer was to the point. The moral is plain.

Admitting that these, with other things that might be named, are innocent in themselves, it is nevertheless true that none except such as persistently close their eyes can fail to see that they lead to harm. Consistency and loyalty to

Besides, the vows which Christians assume in joining the Church bind them to "renounce the devil and all his works, the vain pomp and glory of the world, with all covetous desires of the same, and the carnal desires of the flesh, so as not to follow or be led by them." This is the vow of Methodists, and is substantially the vow required by all evangelical denominations. As to Methodists, they specifically agree to take no diversions that cannot be used in the name of the Lord Jesus.

If these conditions necessary to a consistent life are hard—contrary to the natural desires and appetites of men—it must be remembered they are made to rule in the kingdom of God, made up of men and women who are holy in heart and life. Hard as they are on human nature, they lead to glory and to God. Even in this life obedience to them brings peace and happiness, for, when once put on and submitted to, Christ's yoke is easy and his burden is light.

Those who are disposed to think that Methodists and some others are too strict in their interpretations of the Word of God should bear in mind that "God's law cuts relentlessly between right and wrong," and puts every man on the one side or the other. No man can serve two Masters.

THE DEARTH OF PREACHERS.

We do not propose to re-open the discussion concerning the scarcity of preachers, but to call attention to certain facts. Last year we printed many articles on the question in this ADVOCATE. Every writer, as we remember, wrote on the supposition that the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, was the only Church suffering on account of the dearth. Such was not the case. In what we had to say editorially we never argued that a large number of pastorless churches was evidence of a scarcity of preachers, for we had no pastorless churches. Fortunately for us, though we did not have a sufficient number of preachers in connection with the Annual Conferences to supply all the charges, we had a reserve force in our local preachers upon which to draw from year to year to supply the deficiency in the itinerant ranks.

In reading the appointments made at an Annual Conference a stranger to our sources of supply would never suppose that we were lacking in any department. But, as a matter of fact, as our Bishops are compelled from year to year to draw more and more on the local ranks to supply the pastoral charges, and as the number of local preachers is constantly decreasing, and the church membership and pastoral charges increasing, it is only a question of time when the scarcity of preachers among us will be both apparent and real.

As to the cause of the constantly decreasing number of local preachers in our church we have had our say. In our mother church, the Wesleyan Methodists of England, there are more than twice as many local preachers as there are traveling, and all of them preach regularly every Sunday. The Canadian Methodist local preachers outnumber the traveling preachers by several hundred. It used to be so with us. [illegible] 7,100 traveling preachers, but only 4,703 preachers in the local ranks. This matter would not be so serious if every newly licensed local preacher immediately entered the traveling connection. We leave the wise ones to say how the evil is to be remedied.

The facts here recorded prepare us in a measure to sympathize with some of our sister churches which are really suffering the lack of pastors. At the Presbyterian General Assembly (Northern, we suppose), recently in session at Kansas City, it was made known that "the Church has 2,291 vacant pulpits, with but 809 young men in training for them—of whom only 253 came forward as new recruits at the beginning of this year." The most of these vacant churches lie west of the Mississippi, where, it has been suggested, the conditions are not altogether favorable to the Presbyterian Church.

The Board of Education, which presented the facts to the General Assembly, made another statement which possibly throws light on the cause of the dearth of men. It is that the Eastern Presbyteries, which are strongest in membership and wealth, and in everything else necessary to the development and success of the Church, furnish the fewest number of men for the ministry. Why? Because, as some one has said, the preachers in the pulpits of these rich Presbyteries deal too much in "new theology," or try to keep up with the world by preaching on "the topics of the times," plead for a simple creed or no creed at all, and to many plain men they seem to preach everything but the gospel. "The plain truths of the old gospel have become unpalatable to their sophisticated taste. They crave, they cry for, and they set upon their tables all sorts of religious novelties and dainties instead of the Bread of Life." How can such preachers attract educated young men to the ministry?

The Chicago Inter-Ocean says: "It may seem a hard saying, but the longer many Christian laymen study the problem the more convinced they are that the chief cause of the dearth of preachers to be is the number of a certain kind of preachers that are." That is, indeed, a hard saying!

PERSONALS.

Rev. W. W. Holmes will go next week to Minden, La., to assist Rev. R. H. Wynn in a meeting, where we trust he may have great success. He will be absent a week or more.

Rev. John C. Sligh has been transferred to the Northwest Texas Conference, and is in charge of our Church at Eastland. We hear with great pleasure that he is again in good health. We trust he may have abundant success in his new field.

Rev. J. V. Bennett informs us of the death of Rev. Milton Ferrell, a local preacher of his charge. He died at his home June 20, 1908. Brother Bennett promises an obituary for the columns of the ADVOCATE. No particulars were furnished with this notice.

Rev. H. J. Moore, pastor of our Churches at Pearlington and Logtown, Miss., was married at the parsonage, Wesson, Miss., June 16, to Miss Huldah Grimes, Rev. F. A. Grimes officiating. They went next day to their home at Logtown. They have the best wishes of many friends.

We acknowledge the receipt of [illegible] Hoffman, wife of Rev. J. J. Hoffman, minister and manager of the Helping Hand Mission, for rebuilding the Church at Amite, La. We thank her in behalf of the Church, and will see that the money is turned over to the proper authority.

Rev. R. T. Nolen, of Neshoba charge, is busily at work. He has recently made 144 pastoral visits, has held Church Conferences, and looks after six sunday schools. He has engaged good ministerial help for his meetings, which will begin the third Sunday in July. And he also keeps the ADVOCATE in mind.

Mrs. Margaret E. Sangster, in her monthly page in Woman's Home Companion for July, says that "the American woman and the simple life are getting too far apart, and she urges the serious-minded woman to strive against the luxury-loving tendencies of the age." Get the Companion and read the article.

Rev. Theo. Copeland, of St. Paul's Church, St. Louis, has been awarded the honorary title of D.D. It was conferred by the McKendree College, Lebanon, Ill. He preached the commencement sermon for the College on June 7. It goes without saying that his discourse was well received. He will worthily wear the title.

Rev. and Mrs. W. B. Lewis will give in marriage their daughter, Hattie Humphries, to Mr. Charles Robert Ridgway, Jr., on Wednesday evening, July 1, 1908, at 7:30 o'clock, at the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, Mosspoint, Miss. We acknowledge the honor of an invitation to be present on the interesting occasion. Our best wishes are for the happy couple.

Sister T. S. Randle, of Lanesville, La., has this year sent us fifteen subscribers, for which she has our thanks. Brother Randle has added to the value of the Church property by screening the house and putting a new fence around the yard and garden. He has an abundance of vegetables in the garden, and Sister Randle a yard full of beautiful flowers. We thank her for a kind invitation to visit their parsonage home.

Rev. W. J. Wood is highly pleased with his charge, the Paris circuit, which he says is made up of "the most generous-hearted people in the North Mississippi Conference." His aim is "full collections and one hundred souls for the Church." Children's Day was a great day for the Sunday Schools at Paris. He is planning for a Sunday School and Layman's Missionary Rally for the Fourth of July. His people are perfectly delighted with the young presiding elder, Rev. J. E. Cunningham.

Rev. J. H. Mitchell, at the close of the second round of his fourth year on the Aberdeen District, says: "The second round has closed, as well as any previous round; some good meetings have been held, and the brethren are planning for an earnest summer campaign." The brethren at the District Conference heartily approved Brother Mitchell's administration, and express it as their opinion that, though he has been twelve years in the presiding eldership, he should be continued in the office. Twenty-six of them signed a resolution to that effect.

Two letters, one from Rev. Thos. E. Yancy and one from Mrs. Mattie L. Caldwell, announce the death of Rev. T. J. Wilson, of the North Mississippi Conference, and pastor of the Blue Springs charge. He was taken sick on Friday, the 12th of June, and died the next day. His body was taken to Algoma and buried at the Campground Cemetery. He leaves his wife and four small children to mourn. He had endeared himself greatly to the members of his charge, and his sudden and untimely death created much sorrow. The stricken family have the sympathy of the whole community in which he lived.

A pleasant letter from Rev. J. A. Bowen [illegible] date he has received ninety-four persons into membership, and has assisted in fine revivals at Birmingham, at Athens, and Attalla. The Alabama Christian Advocate says "Brother Bowen and his wife have captured Holmes Street membership." Sister Bowen has greatly improved in health. Their son, C. A. Bowen, has completed his course at Vanderbilt, earning the degree of Master of Arts, and will join the North Alabama Conference this fall, having received the proper recommendation from the Huntsville District Conference.

TO THE PASTOR.

If you will send in the names of the postoffices on your charge, we will send you a list of the subscribers on your work. You will find this a great help in securing renewals and new subscriptions. Put the ADVOCATE in the homes of your people, and you will have an assistant, unfailing in its visits, and doing you good all the time.

A NEW BOOK.

LIFE AT ITS BEST. By H. M. DuBose, editor of the Epworth Era.

A glance into the pages of this little book and its outward adorning confirms what Bishop Fitzgerald says in his notice, viz: "In these studies Dr. Du Bose is at his best. The book is suggestive, breezy and bright. It is dainty in its mechanical make-up, and delights the eye of the reader who has a fondness for typographical æsthetics." The chapter on "The Gospel of the Body" is worth the price of the book. Order from Smith & Lamar, Nashville, Tenn. Price 50 cents, postpaid.

SECOND CHURCH, NEW ORLEANS.

Sunday evening, June 9th, at 7:45, a meeting was held at the Second M. E. Church, South, in the interest of the Woman's Home Mission Society of that Church.

Mrs. Townsley very successfully answered one of the objections commonly made, "that the Missionary Society takes away the money from the home Church." That this is a mistaken view, was further proved by the report read of the work done and money expended by the City Board of the Woman's Home Mission Society for local work.

A report was read of the work of the Second Church Society, also; after which a stirring sermon on "Woman's Call to Work," was delivered by the pastor, Rev. A. I. Townsley.

The society held its business meeting Monday, the president presiding. The reports are encouraging and show that the society is active.

A Young People's Brigade has recently been organized through the Junior League. The society meets on the second Monday of each month.

What can you do? The world seeks for the man that can do something.

You can only demonstrate to men what you can do by showing what you have done. At each stage in your development the opportunity to do lingers for the call of the accomplished task.

Patronizing Grenada College.

First—The unexcelled Home Comforts, unequaled anywhere else in the State.
Second—The Health Conditions, we rarely require the service of a physician.
Third—Our unusually skilled corps of teachers, whom we were able to secure only by paying a salary much above that paid by other girls' schools of the State.
Fourth—The Fine Arts Department, unequaled in the State and unexcelled in the South. Our teacher of Art studied in Germany and France, and our teachers of Music are graduated from the best Conservatories of America.
Fifth—The Descriptive Course of Study, which is conscientiously carried out as indicated.
Sixth—The Lyceum Course, which is superior even to that sustained in the University of Mississippi.
Seventh—The Library, which is fuller and better adapted than that of most girls schools of the South.
Eighth—Strong Christian Influence dominating all instruction.
Ninth—Personal Attention to the Individual Pupil, with a view to develop the best even out of peculiarities of character.
Tenth—A superior Student Body as Associates, since most of the indifferent have been eliminated.
Eleventh—The Rates are lower than those of any other school doing the same grade of work, owing to the Conference Assessment, which gives us an income not possessed by other schools; further, we have no stockholders to whom we are forced to pay dividends, as are some private schools. Our patrons receive back in excellence of service more than they pay in.
Twelfth—All these superior features enable us to turn out a larger percentage of graduates, who take high stand in the educational world, than any other school in the State. It means something to hold a diploma of the Grenada College.
Register for Rooms at Once and Thus Secure Choice of Location.

W. L. CLIFTON, A.B., Ph.B., President.
Grenada, Miss.

Silliman Collegiate Institute,

CLINTON, LOUISIANA.

An endowed Christian school for girls and young women. You will find no better school of its grade in the South.

Healthful location in the hill country. Three handsome buildings. Beautiful, well-shaded campus. Electric lights. Steam-heat. All necessary equipment.

Scientific and classical courses leading to degrees. Special advantages in music, art, elocution, etc. For catalogue and information, address the president,

H. H. BROWNLEE, Clinton, Louisiana.

ARE YOU SURE

That the ice cream you buy is strictly PURE!

Do you know that the makers' hands were clean, flies excluded from the factory, and freezers and other utensils kept in Sanitary Condition!

Why take any chance where your health is concerned? Why not

MAKE AND FREEZE YOUR OWN ICE CREAM
In 10 MINUTES
FOR 1c. A PLATE with

Jell-O ICE CREAM Powder

It is so easy. Simply stir contents of one 13c. package into a quart of milk and freeze, without cooking, heating or the addition of anything else. This makes two quarts of ice cream, clean, pure and wholesome. A good ice cream freezer can be bought for a dollar or two which will last for years, and will soon save its cost.

2 packages JELL-O ICE CREAM Powder for 25c.

Flavors: Chocolate, Vanilla, Strawberry, Lemon and Unflavored.

Sold by all good grocers.

The Genesee Pure Food Co., Le Roy, N. Y.

Obituaries.

Obituaries not over two hundred words in length will be published free of charge. All over two hundred words will be charged at the rate of 1 cent a word. Count the words and send the amount necessary with the obituary. That will save trouble all around.

Mrs. SALLIE JOHNSON was born in Clarke County, Miss., Aug. 9, 1861. On April 5, 1908, she heard her Master's call, "It is enough, come up higher." She was a devoted mother and the five little ones who were left to sorrow will feel deeply the lack of the mother's guiding hand. Our hearts burn with sympathy for the lonely husband who is left to bear life's burden alone; but there is comfort in the thought that just over the way she is waiting with [illegible] ilege of being often in her home, and with the tact of loving hospitality, she made her guest to feel "at home," and ever welcome. She will be missed in church as well as home, and her memory will be evergreen in the hearts of those who knew and loved her.

GEO. P. FIKES.

Mrs. MARGARET LENORA FLOID (nee Bales) was born June 23, 1848, in Woodville, Miss. She joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in 1873. Sister Floid lived a devoted Christian until Dec. 29, 1907, when the Lord said, "It is enough, come up higher." We laid her away in the cemetery at Mt. Zion Church in the presence of a great crowd of relatives and friends. She was married Nov. 28, 1867. To this union was born ten children, six girls and four boys, and most of them are following after mother's Christian example. It was said of Sister Floid, "A good woman has gone from among us." May the Lord help those who loved and respected her religion to live to meet her in that land of rest. It was not the writer's privilege to meet Sister Floid, as he had just moved to this country and lived some distance from her home. Her life proved to those where she lived that she was a true Christian, and they could tell the preacher how she lived. May the Lord bless and console the bereaved husband and children, and may this help them to keep close to Jesus!

H. C. MURPHY, P. C.

Mrs. MATTIE A. GREEN BROCK—On the morning of May 5, 1908, after a long and painful illness, which she bore with a patience and fortitude seldom seen, the soul of Mrs. Mattie A. Green Brock wafted its way to the spirit-land. Mrs. Brock was born at West, Miss., July 17, 1846, and was the second daughter of Wm. F. and Temple Green. December 27, 1855, she was united in marriage to Walter D. Brock, which union was blessed with eleven children, five sons and six daughters, nine of whom she reared to maturity and who survive her. Besides these she leaves a husband, one brother and one sister and a host of friends to mourn their loss. At an early age she connected herself with the Methodist Church, of which she remained a consistent and devoted member until her death. Her life was an exemplification of her profession. Though of a retiring and modest nature, she carried her religion into her home and daily life, and stamped it on the character of her children. Of the chiefest of Christian virtues, charity, her life was full; not that charity which vaunteth itself, but that which, seeing only the virtues, was oblivious to the faults of her friends. As a wife she fulfilled her mission perfectly, entering into every joy, every sorrow, every interest of her husband's life, so endearing herself to him during the long years of their married life that her loss is to him a grief inconsolable. As a mother, she was to her children all that the word mother—the most expressive word of any language—implies in its fullest sense, and her watchful and loving kindness will ever be to them life's sweetest remembrance. She will be sadly missed in her church, among her friends, but, most of all, in her home, where she shined resplendent, and the tear of grief will fall from the eyes of all who knew her when they reflect that so sweet and useful a life should not have been spared to continue its radiance of sunshine and joy. But it is not for us to repine at the ways of Providence, for he who gave us her gentle life has called her, and "he doeth all things well." It is a sweet consolation to reflect that our loss has been her gain, and that to her will come no more sorrow, or pain, or sickness.

ROBERT J. BOWMAN, son of Ira Bowman and Marzalie Dubose Shackelford, was born in Woodville, Miss., in 1822, and died in Alexandria, La., April 2, 1908. He moved to Louisiana while quite young and at an early age began the practice of law, and rapidly rose to eminence in his profession, excelling as a civil lawyer. His practice extended through a number of parishes, and he was connected with many important suits in central Louisiana between the years 1870 and 1900. He came to Alexandria from Mansfield in 1870, and here the last thirty-seven years of his life were spent. His high sense of honor, his love of the right, his hatred of wrong and his sympathy for the unfortunate, the troubled and oppressed, were such that the poorest, even the poor negro, found in him a friend, and felt that his interests could safely be entrusted to his care. He was well educated and had an extensive knowledge of the great facts of the past and present, and read their lesson of warning and of hope, and with the eye of a statesman and the ardor of the patriot he watched the changing phases of our social and national life and rejoiced in all that promised good to the people. He was a real lover of good literature and possessed that keen sense of discrimination that enabled him to see the beauties of diction and finer thoughts of the best writers. He read much and studied carefully the best books, and was also a writer of high order, having contributed a number of valuable papers to the different periodicals. His active mind held its imperial power almost to the last, triumphing over the weakness of the body and the decrepitude of age. He wrote on prohibition to within five days of his death, and the last day of consciousness was writing on "Home, Sweet Home," a theme to him so dear; but the time to rest had come, and, laying aside his pen, he said, "I can't write on it to-day," and this work of love for "Home" remains unfinished; the hand that wrote lies inactive and at rest. He has exchanged the earthly for his beautiful home "over there." Modest, gentle, refined in bearing and speech, he tolerated nothing coarse or impure, and was a stranger to "slang." His home-life was indeed beautiful. He had a twin sister, Mrs. E. C. Tail, to whom he was most tenderly attached and who, in a ripe Christian age, preceded him two years. He was an affectionate, devoted husband. No man clung more closely or was more gallant to the woman he loved than he, and his bereaved companion, with whom he lived most happily for many years, nursed and cared for him with the self-sacrificing devotion of woman's deeper, finer nature. By those of the inner circle of his family and friends the beauties of his character were seen at the best and shone with brightest luster. He was a careful, loving father, guiding his children well, "and they rise up and call him blessed." He united with the Methodist Church in Clinton, La., in 1842; was superintendent and teacher in the Sunday school there sixty-six years ago. For thirty-seven years he had been a member of the M. E. Church, South, in Alexandria, and until enfeebled by age was continuously a member of the official board. He often held services as a lay-reader in the absence of the pastor, especially in the days of Brother Christian Keener. He was cheerful, uncomplaining to the last. He never appeared to doubt, but rejoiced in a consciousness of the divine favor and love, and exhorted his household to trust and serve God. An intelligent man who lived in his home for years said, "I consider Mr. Bowman perfect. I have noted defects in the lives of most people. I have known none in his." What a tribute. Truly a prince in our Israel has fallen, but the memory of his good deeds and the benediction of his life abide. This writer had known him for a third of a century, and it seems to me but few men possessed, in so high a degree, the modest but sterling worth, the gentleness, patience and fidelity to duty and faith in God as he. While a young man I was his pastor, and he was my counsellor and friend. I esteem it a privilege to have visited him in the last months of his life and to be called to assist in the sacred service of his funeral. A fitting close is that of the divine record: "He rests from his labors, and his works do follow him."

J. D. HARPER.

Centenary Female College,
Cleveland, Tenn.

LOCATION—One hour from historic Chattanooga. "Prettiest town in all Tennessee." In mountain valley, above all malaria. Health of girls from South greatly improved.

FACULTY—Best American and European training. Teacher of Modern Languages, now studying in Germany.

RECREATION—Walks, drives, tennis, basket-ball, bowling, gymnasium, 634 ft. covered porches, physical culture, etc.

DEPARTMENTS—Thorough literary courses. Music Department under German Director. Art, Expression, Business.

Write for illustrated catalog to-day.

WESLEYAN COLLEGE,
Macon, Ga.
Oldest and Best.

WESLEYAN CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC
Macon, Ga.
Largest and Best.

Schools of ART, EXPRESSION, PHYSICAL CULTURE, and BUSINESS of same standard.

Constantly improved during the last few years in all respects. Additional recent improvement of curriculum entitles it to be in Class A, according to the requirements of our General Board of Education and the classification of the United States Government. Excellent Chemical, Physical and Biological Laboratories. $1,000 will be invested in new books for Library for next school year. Especial attention paid to Physical Culture, for which Gymnasium and Athletic Grounds are ample. Dormitories comfortable, sanitary and safe in all respects. Health record unsurpassed. Rates, notwithstanding recent increase, still lower than those of any institution in the country, of or near the same class. Full literary course, library fee, and board (standard room) $227. Administration and discipline liberal but care- [illegible] free.
[illegible], President.

LOW NOW ON SUMMER RATE

The place to get a good BUSINESS EDUCATION, to prepare for a GOOD POSITION, and to get ready for THE RUSH of the fall business is AT

DRAUGHON'S PRACTICAL BUSINESS COLLEGE

INDORSED by business men from Maine to California. Catalogue FREE; ask for it.

Shreveport, Jackson (Miss.), Waco, Fort Worth, Dallas, Nashville or Washington, D. C.

Classified Advertisements.

EDUCATIONAL.

LOW SUMMER RATE now on at Draughon's Business College, Nashville, Atlanta, Raleigh, St. Louis, Dallas, Little Rock, San Antonio, Memphis, Knoxville. Bookkeeping, Shorthand, Typewriting, Telegraphy, etc., taught. POSITIONS secured or MONEY BACK. Catalogue FREE.

AGENTS WANTED

WANTED.—Men and Women to sell Coffee, Teas, Spices, to Family Trade, in communities of 1,000 to 10,000 population. Cash commission paid. Permanent agents wanted. People wanting steady employment address Bodenheimer Coffee & Tea Co., St. Louis, Mo.

A 5-Minute Revolving Churn—using fruit jars; clean process; cream hermetically sealed till butter is ready for salt. Price $6.50. Butterfly Churn Co. Madison, Fla.

OPPORTUNITIES AND INVESTMENTS.

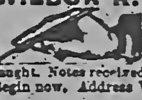
Manufacturer's Opportunity.—Splendid chance to secure $32,800 plant—oil mill and knitting mill combined—at a bargain. one-fourth cash; balance in 1, 2 and years. Address at once Jacobs & Co., Agts., Clinton, S. C.

PORT GIBSON FEMALE COLLEGE,

Port Gibson, Miss.

68th Session Opens Sept. 23, 1908. Standard of Literary Work High. Music, Elocution, Art, Commerce, Sewing. Special Attention Given Health and Morals. Electric Lights, Artesian Water. Boarding Patronage Steadily Increasing. Trip to National Military Park, Mississippi's New Capitol, and State Fair—a Feature of Next Session.

Henry G. Hawkins, A. B., Pres.



WILBUR R. SMITH BUSINESS COLLEGE Medal awarded Prof. Smith at the World's Fair. SUMMER SESSION Bookkeeping and Business, Shorthand, Typewriting and Telegraphy taught. Notes received. Situations—10,000 graduates in business. Begin now. Address WILBUR R. SMITH, Lexington, Ky.

UNLIKE ALL OTHERS

MERIDIAN WOMAN'S COLLEGE

A SAFE HOME FOR GIRLS

CHARACTER FACTORY

CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC

LARGEST IN THE SOUTH

Belmont College

For YOUNG WOMEN. Nashville, Tenn.

Regular College and Preparatory Courses. Music, Art, Languages, Physical Culture. Beautiful location. Golf, tennis, hockey, all the year. Register now. Catalogue on request.

Rev. IRA LANDRITH, D.D., LL. D., Regent.
Miss HOOD and Miss HERON, Principals.

ASTHMA AND HAY FEVER CURED before you pay. I will send to any sufferer a bottle of LANE'S ASTHMA CURE FREE If it cures you send me $1.00. If it does not, don't. Give express office address: D. J. LANE, Box R. P., St. Mary's, Kansas.

3½ to 200 H.P. Saw Mill Outfits. Steam, Gasoline or Water Power. Planers, Shingle Mills, Corn Mills. WE PAY FREIGHT DeLOACH MILL MANUFACTURING CO.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL

The Double Track Route.

26 Hours to Chicago
21 Hours to St. Louis
22 Hours to Louisville
26 Hours to Cincinnati

Through Sleeping Cars to above points. Dining Cars, Library Cars, Chair Cars and Coaches.

Full Particulars at

City Ticket Office.

141 ST. CHARLES STREET.
Phone Main 2618.

MOXINE CHILL TONIC
Only Tonic—one bottle—one cure.

POLLOCK AND TIOGA.

Dear Doctor Boswell: Since writing to the Advocate, I have held another meeting, which was in some respects, the best I ever had.

The preaching was done by Rev. T. M. Finley. During the first service he won the hearts of the people, and the congregations increased continually. He knows how to enlist all classes in the work, regardless of their creed. Various denominations engaged in the services, singing, testifying, praying, and rejoicing together. Brother Finley rode no hobbies, resorted to no "clap-trap methods;" preached sound, Scriptural, powerful sermons, and made propositions that were common-sense and business-like.

People responded heartily; came to the altar, believed, found Christ; joined the church, and went to work. They evidence that kind of religion that makes one dare and do in behalf of the cause he has learned to love. The "go" kind, if you please.

About one hundred gave their hand as a token of having received salvation during the meeting. Twenty united themselves with our Church. I have had meetings where I received a greater number of members, but I never saw a greater awakening to duty along all lines. We now have the leading people of the town in our church, and the membership nearly double its previous record.

Financially, they have done more for the pastor in the past two weeks than for nearly half the year that is past. They have resolved that they will at least pay every cent of their assessment, or more, and that it shall be [illegible] monthly.

The Sunday School has greatly increased, and the prayer meeting is a live issue.

I regard Brother Finley as a fine organizer of forces, and a man who brings people and pastor into closer touch with each other; one who reaches sinners, bringing them to Christ, and Christians, inducing them to live on higher plains, and for nobler purposes.

This is the second time I have had Brother Finley in my meetings, and I find him straight, sound, pious, forcible, attractive to all denominations; deeply spiritual, and one who preaches the Gospel with power. In some points I regard him the best help I have ever had. I heartily recommend his services to any Brother who needs a revival in his church.

G. D. PURCELL, P. C.

BLOOD POISONING POSITIVELY CURED

Hereditary, primary, secondary and tertiary. Scrofula, Eczema, Blood and Skin Disease. If you have exhausted old-time methods, and want to get well, write me in fullest confidence for proof of cures. Take my treatment and get well. A. A. BROWER, M. D.
San Antonia, Tex.

MOXINE CHILL TONIC
Only Tonic—one bottle—one cure.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup

has been used for over Sixty-Five Years by millions of mothers for their children while teething with perfect success. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain; cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for Diarrhoea. Sold by Druggists in every part of the world. Be sure and ask for "Mrs Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Guaranteed under the Food and Drugs Act, June 30th, 1906. Serial Number 1098. An Old and Well Tried Remedy.

MOXINE
Cures LAGRIPPE and Colds.

CHILDREN'S DAY AT DOUGLAS.

Dear Doctor Boswell: The children of Douglas Church, Downsville Charge, observed "Children's Day" the fourth Sunday in May. The Programme of the Publishing House was followed, except the songs. The children did remarkably well.

Much praise is due Brother S. D. Rinehart, the efficient superintendent, and the ladies who assisted him in training the children. Brother Rinehart is rounding up his thirtieth year as superintendent. I wish I had just as good workers in every church within the bounds of my charge.

Brother Chas. Rinehart had charge of the singing and added much to the success of the services. The church was crowded and there was not seating room for every one.

We feel justly proud of our Douglas Sunday School. Fraternally,

H. B. VANDENBURG.

DON'T SUFFER WITH SKIN DISEASES.

Itching, redness and pain are quickly relieved and the germs of skin and scalp disease destroyed by TETTERINE, the fragrant antiseptic and healing ointment. This splendid remedy is an invaluable boon to sufferers from Eczema, Tetter, Itching Piles, and all diseases of the skin and scalp. Costs 50c at your druggist's or by mail. Address, the Shuptrine Co., Savannah, Ga.

CHURCH DIRECTORY.

New Orleans District, Rev. F. N. Parker, D.D., presiding elder; residence, 241 Olivier St.

Rev. John T. Sawyer, D.D., Conference Missionary Evangelist; residence, 2421 Chestnut St.; phone, Uptown 1832.

First Methodist Church, St. Charles Ave., near Calliope St.; Rev. J. E. Wray, pastor; [illegible] Church phone, Main 1779.

Second Methodist Church, 2531 Burgundy, near Lafayette Ave.; Rev. A. I. Townsley, pastor; residence, 2728 N. Rampart St.; office hours, 9 to 11 a.m.; phone, Main 978.

Parker Memorial, corner Nashville avenue and Perrier street; Rev. C. D. Atkinson, pastor; residence 734 Nashville avenue.

Louisiana Avenue, corner Louisiana Ave. and Magazine St.; Rev. W. W. Holmes, pastor; residence 2903 Camp St.; phone, Uptown 1391.

Rayne Memorial, St. Charles Avenue and General Taylor Streets; Dr. John A. Rice, pastor; residence, 1101 Peniston Street.

Felicity Street Church, corner Felicity and Chestnut Streets; Rev. Albert S. Lutz, pastor; residence 2321 Chestnut Street.

Carrollton Avenue, corner Carrollton avenue and Elm street; Rev. Henry T. Carley, pastor; residence, 1125 Fern St.; 'phone, Uptown 1238.

Algiers, Lavergne Street, corner Delaronde; Rev. J. F. Foster, pastor.

McDonoghville and Gretna, Rev. H. Whitehead, pastor; residence 5208 Magazine Street; phone, Uptown 2459.

Epworth Church, corner Banks and Scott Streets; Rev. L. A. Sims, pastor; residence, 232 South Pierce Street.

Rev. Jno. L. Sutton, Superintendent Orphan Boys' Asylum; residence, 5220 St. Charles Ave.; phone, Uptown 128.

Italian Missionary, Rev. Francesco Zito, Residence, 539 St. Ann St.; Mission Hall, 521 St. Peter St.

Rev. L. E. Wicht, junior preacher Lower Coast Mission; address, 509 Board of Trade Bldg., New Orleans.

R. F. Harrell, pastor, Mary Werlein Mission; also secretary Y. M. C. A., 815 St. Charles.

MOXINE CHILL TONIC
Only Tonic—one bottle—one cure.

MIGHTY FINE DOCTOR

"I had a mighty fine doctor," writes Mrs. Hattie Cain, "and he advised me to take Cardui for my troubles."

Mrs. Cain's case was a strange one and rather unusual, in that she had suffered so long before she obtained relief, so it makes it all the more interesting to learn how, at last, Cardui relieved her.

"For 16 years," she writes, "I suffered dreadfully. I would have to have a doctor every three months, and Oh! how I suffered! I would cramp and have convulsions, till it looked like I would die.

"My doctor said an operation was necessary, but I said I would rather die, so he advised me to try Cardui, which I did. I began to mend right away, when taking the first bottle, and now I have been well for 7 years and can do more work and walk and go where I please."

All reliable druggists sell Cardui. It is a standard remedy on their shelves, for which there is a steady demand, due to its genuine merit. Full directions for use accompany every bottle.

Try Cardui.

The GUARANTEED EXTERMINATOR

Stearns' Electric RAT and ROACH Paste

is guaranteed to rid the house, barn or store of cockroaches, rats, mice, water bugs, etc. Sold at druggists or general stores everywhere, or sent prepaid on receipt of price. 2 oz. box, 25c; 16 oz. box, $1.00.

STEARNS' ELECTRIC PASTE CO., Buffalo, N. Y., U.S.A.

I am the Paint Man—Get my Big Free Book, including Big Color Cards to select from—also free Book of Painters' Supplies sold at Direct-to-You Prices. I make Paint to order—sell it on three months' time—allow two full gallons free to try—and pay all freight charges. Write postal for full particulars and FREE Books.

O. L. Chase, The Paintman, Dept. 177 St. Louis, Mo.

HIS CHANCE IS GONE
YOUR CHANCE IS HERE

The question is, are you qualified to hold a responsible position? Have you had a thorough commercial training? Bankers, Merchants, and Manufacturers want you if you are competent. Now is Your Chance. Two roads are open to young people. One requires no training and leads to failure. The other requires training and leads to success. We prepare young men and women and start them on the road to success by securing them high-salaried positions. Fine climate, board cheap. Write for illustrated catalog and further information.

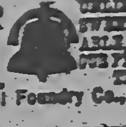
HATTIESBURG BUSINESS COLLEGE, HATTIESBURG, MISS.



BLYMYER CHURCH BELLS. UNLIKE OTHER BELLS SWEETER, MORE DURABLE, LOWER PRICE. OUR FREE CATALOGUE TELLS WHY. Write to Cincinnati Bell Foundry Co., Cincinnati, O.

FITS St. Vitus' Dance and Nervous diseases permanently cured by Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. Send for FREE $2.00 trial bottle and treatise. Dr. R. H. Kline, Ltd., 931 Arch St., Philadelphia, Pa.

MOXINE
Cures LAGRIPPE and Colds.

ONLY A LITTLE CHILD.

The needs of children make a strong appeal to the human heart. Christ made it so when he hallowed every experience of their growing lives. Sometimes the appeal awakens the Christ-spirit in an otherwise fruitless life.

Lillian W. Betts in The Leaven in a Great City tells the following story:

"One day a wealthy woman who had lost a little girl told the president of her club the following incident which, she said, changed the course of her life. For months after the loss of the child she had shut out the world. Nothing interested her; life was empty. She was sitting by the window in her home one November afternoon. It was drizzling and blowing. A little girl without a hat or coat stood shivering and crying against the church railing opposite. As she watched the child her mind reverted to the clothes she handled so constantly, because they had been worn by her child. She sent for the little stranger, and when she went on the street again she was warm, tidy and comfortable. Then came the thought, 'God never meant a woman should be a mother just to one little girl. She must be a mother to every child who needs her.' From that day this woman has given her life and service to children."

[illegible]

[illegible] ists of the century was Dr. Thomas J. Barnardo, who died in 1906. For more than thirty-five years he worked in rescuing little children from the slums of London, and in 1902 he had had over 35,000 boys and girls in his care. The story of how he commenced his work is an interesting one. He had started a ragged school, and one night after all the children had gone home, one little fellow of ten stayed behind.

Dr. Barnardo said, "I must shut up now; so go home."

The boy replied, "Please, sir, I ain't got no home."

"Where do you live?"

"I don't live nowhere."

Dr. Barnardo in talking with the boy learned that he knew nothing of God or of heaven, and had never heard of Christ, but had a vague notion that Christ was the pope. After talking with him, Dr. Barnardo went out into the city in the darkness under the leadership of the small boy. The child took him to a great building with a corrugated iron roof. They climbed to the top of the roof, and there on that cold bitter night, in the gutter of the roof were lying eleven boys. Dr. Barnardo determined to do something for these children, and at once started his various schools.

Many people heard that Dr. Barnardo was gathering children in, and offered him money to go on with his mission. The work, which at first had been merely general rescue work, began to take form. The orphan homes already established had many restrictions as to the reception of children. Dr. Barnardo determined to make a home for every and any child.

In 1902 there were [illegible] homes and branches in operation under Dr. Barnardo's care. Since all children were taken, those suffering from many ills and from contagious diseases were isolated and given the best of medical care. From the night when Lord Shaftesbury saw under a tarpaulin at an old wharf in London seventy-three homeless boys sleeping in the cold, it seems a far cry to the girls' village home at Ilford with seventy-nine cottages around its spacious village green, the babies' castle at Hawkurst, the boys' homes at Stephney, Gorsey, Hackney. Dr. Barnardo says: "I resolved we would make homes, not institutions. There must be love and care and the family, and somebody there whom they would become attached to, and beneath it all was the firm purpose that children should be brought up in the fear of God, and should learn to love him. These children should be won to Christ; that is the truest economy."

Of all altruistic endeavors promoted by the spirit of Christianity, none stands higher than this marvelous work of Dr. Barnardo.

Justice David J. Brewer, of the United States Supreme Court, de- [illegible] yet that this power of the court should be strengthened instead of curtailed. To-day we aim to stay the epidemic and not to cure the ravages of the disease after it has gained headway. The restraining power of the Equity Court is worth vastly more than the punishing power of the Equity Court.

Persia is in a state bordering on anarchy. The Persian parliament seems to have but little conception of the work of a parliament, and less about self-government, and the Shah of Persia is lacking in the ability to control the situation. He has ordered the parliament to disperse and has arrested some of the agitators. It is a very difficult thing for any people to step out of a despotism into a popular government.

OUR FRIENDS.

We give below a list of our friends who have helped us by sending in the largest number of subscribers. In this list the names sent in the last few days have not been included. In a few weeks we will show the list of clubs again.

Those who have sent us between five and ten are:

Rev. L. E. Alford, Meridian, Miss.
Rev. J. H. Bass, Charleston, Miss.
Rev. R. H. Barr, DeKalb, Miss.
Rev. W. J. Newson, Jackson, La.
Rev. F. B. Ormond, Lauderdale, Miss.
Rev. J. A. Parker, Simsport, La.
Rev. J. A. Poe, Mayhew, Miss.
Rev. Ed. Stine, Grand Chenier, La.
Rev. W. L. Storment, West, Miss.
Rev. B. B. Sullivan, Montpelier, Miss.
Rev. E. L. Whiddon, Rocky Springs.
Rev. R. A. Davis, Tallulah, La.
Rev. H. W. Featherstun, Columbia.
Rev. Dennis Fordham, Green, La.
Rev. J. P. Haney, Greensburg, La.
Rev. J. M. Huggins, Wall Hill, Miss.
Rev. B. E. Meigs, Carthage, Miss.
Rev. J. T. McVey, DeKalb, Miss.
Rev. J. L. Neill, Pass Christian, Miss.
Rev. C. McDonald, Lake, Miss.
Rev. J. R. Wilson, Mt. Pleasant.
Miss Mit Doty, Kosciusko, Miss.
Rev. W. G. Harbin, Fayette, Miss.
Rev. L. T. Sargent, Mariette, Miss.
Rev. J. V. Bennett, Auburn, Miss.
Rev. R. I. Allen, Carrollton, Miss.
Rev. H. P. Lewis, Jr., Natchez, Miss.
Rev. H. P. Lewis, Sr., Liberty, Miss.
Rev. J. A. Alford, Jackson.
[illegible] Purvis, Miss.
Rev. D. L. Cogdell, Coahoma, Miss.
Rev. J. M. Carley, Prentiss, Miss.
Rev. J. E. Craig, Tickfaw, La.
Rev. T. J. Durrett, Nettleton, Miss.
Rev. R. A. Ellis, Yazoo City, Miss.
Rev. T. E. Gregory, Tomnolen, Miss.
Rev. W. H. Lane, Monticello, Miss.
Rev. A. H. Parker, Pelican, La.
Rev. R. Randle, Lisbon, La.
Miss Susie Reed, Natchez, Miss.
Rev. B. H. Rawls, Decatur, Miss.
Rev. S. L. Riggs, Kentwood, La.
Rev. J. S. Rutledge, Pinegrove, La.
Rev. R. O. Weir, Bayou Lachute, La.

Those who sent from ten to fifteen are:

Rev. R. H. Wynn, Minden, La.
Rev. D. M. Floyd, Water Valley, Miss.
Rev. R. T. Nolan, Philadelphia, Miss.
Rev. W. A. Clark, Koscuisko, Miss.
Rev. H. C. Edmonson, Slate Springs.
Rev. C. H. Ellis, Ellisville, Miss.
Rev. S. D. Howard, Eunice, La.
Rev. R. T. Nolen, Philadelphia, Miss.
Rev. J. B. King, McComb, Miss.
Rev. J. M. Alford, Baker, La.
Rev. F. A. Lane, Forest, Miss.
Rev. J. M. Massey, Satartia, Miss.
Rev. W. W. Moore, Montrose, Miss.
Rev. A. G. Shankle, Ruston, La.

Those who sent from fifteen to twenty are:

Rev. J. A. Goad, McCool, Miss.
Rev. Isaac L. Peebles, Bolton, Miss.
Rev. P. O. Lowry, Many, La.
Rev. J. L. Lay, Alberta, La.
Rev. W. W. Perry, Leakesville.
Mrs. T. S. Randle, Lanesville, La.
Rev. W. B. Lewis, Mosspoint, Miss.
Rev. W. L. Blackwell, Vicksburg.
Rev. W. W. Graves, Rose Hill, Miss.

Those who sent from twenty to thirty are:

Rev. W. G. Harbin, Greenville, Miss.
Rev. J. J. Garner, West, Miss.
Rev. A. W. Langley, N. Albany, Miss.
Rev. J. W. Rogers, Winona, Miss.
Rev. D. W. Babb, Crawford, Miss.
Rev. E. Blizzard, Myrtle, Miss.
Rev. S. A. Brown, Byhalia, Miss.
Rev. R. W. Evans, Brownville, Miss.
Rev. J. H. Foreman, Hermanville.
Miss M. Higginbotham, Merrouge.
Rev. A. A. Martin, Abbeville, Miss.
Rev. J. F. Mc[illegible], Trenton, Miss.
Rev. W. G. Harris, New Albany.
Rev. R. T. Pickett, [illegible], Miss.
Rev. T. H. Porter, [illegible], Miss.
Rev. O. L. Savage, Iuka, Miss.
Rev. M. L. Ward, Mantachie, Miss.
Rev. W. W. Woolard.
Rev. G. W. Gordon, Myrtle, Miss.

Those who sent over thirty are:

Rev. G. W. Bachman, Winona, Miss.
Rev. C. C. Griffin, Daleville, Miss.
Rev. M. H. Moore, Sharon, Miss.

A GOOD PIANO, PIANO PLAYER or PLAYER PIANO see the Grunewald's Before You Buy.
Agents for the Latest Improved and best Instruments on the Market.
FISCHER

Alabama Polytechnic Institute
Only School of Technology in Alabama.
55 Professors and Instructors. 20 Well-Equipped Laboratories.
CHARLES C. THACH, M.A., LL.D., President.
AUBURN, ALABAMA.
Session begins Wednesday, September 2nd, 1908. Location high and healthful, [illegible] feet above sea level. Attendance, [illegible] students from 13 States and three foreign countries.
Courses of Instruction—Nine four-year degree courses. MINES, ENGINEERING, CHEMISTRY: (1) Mining, (2) Civil, (3) Electrical, (4) Mechanical, (5) Architecture, (6) Chemistry and Metallurgy, (7) Pharmacy. [illegible] professors and instructors. New Engineering Hall occupied. New machines and equipment in all laboratories. Students hold leading technical positions in Birmingham District and throughout the South. Only course of architecture in the South. New Library Building.
(8) History, Latin and Modern Language Course, English (4 years), Latin (4 years), History (4 years), French (2 years), German (2 years), Mathematics (3 years), Physics and Astronomy, Political Economy and Physiology. 18 professors and instructors.
(9) Agriculture and Horticulture. 22 professors and instructors. (1) 2-year course in Pharmaceutical Chemistry, Ph.C. (2) 3-year course, Ph.G. (3) 3-year course in Veterinary Medicine, D. V. M. (only one in South).
New Dining Hall, also board in private families. Tuition free. For catalogue and further information, address the President.

ARGO RED SALMON is standard in quality, quantity, color and price.

WANTED.
Refined Young Ladies as Pupil Nurses.
GULF COAST HEALTH RESORT,
Biloxi, Miss.

The Ingleside House, Hendersonville, N. C. Ideal place to spend the Summer. House just completed, newly and elegantly furnished. Beautiful view from all rooms. All modern conveniences. Special rates to parties or families. Miss Gussie Winter, Proprietress.

TEACHER WANTS POSITION.
A graduate, two degrees, good testimonials, can teach anything in the college course. Prefers languages in a college. Address
MISS ADA HOLLADAY,
Oak Grove, Miss.

HENDERSONVILLE, N. C.
"Pine Grove Lodge" will be open for guests after June [illegible]. Delightful location, special rates for June.
Address, Mrs. E. C. Bedell.

Heiskell's
The most obstinate case of Eczema can be quickly and completely cured by the application of Heiskell's Ointment. It also cures Blotchy, Rough and Pimpled Skin, Erysipelas, Tetter, Ulcers and all other skin diseases. Before applying the ointment, bathe the parts affected, using Heiskell's Medicated Soap. Heiskell's Blood and Liver Pills tone up the liver and purify the blood. Your druggist sells these preparations. Ointment, [illegible] a box; Soap, [illegible] a cake; Pills, [illegible] a bottle. Send for book of testimonials and learn what these wonderful remedies have done for others.
JOHNSTON, HOLLOWAY & CO.,
531 Commerce Street, Philadelphia, Pa.
Ointment

QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

New Orleans District—Third Round.

Mary Werlein	p.m. June 17
Parker Memorial	June 21
McDonoghville, at Wesley	June 28
Slidell, at Talley's Chapel	July 4
Seashore Camp Ground	July 12
Plaquemine	July 19
Donaldsonville, at Plattesville	July 26
Algiers	Aug. 2
Louisiana Avenue	Aug. 9
Felicity Street	Aug. 16
First Church	a.m. Aug. 23
Epworth	p.m. Aug. 23
Rayne Memorial	Aug. 30
Covington, at Fitzgerald	Sept. 5
Second Church	Sept. 13
Carrollton Avenue	Sept. 20

F. N. PARKER, P.E.

Arcadia Dist.—Third Round.

Homer	July 2,
Haynesville, at Colquitt	July 4, 5
Benton, at Benton	July 8,
Simsboro, at P. Grove	July 11, 12
N. Bossier, at Emma	July 14,
Houghton, at Alberta	July 15,
Bienville, at Bocruk	July 18, 19
Arcadia	July 25, 26
District Conference, at Blenville	July 28, 31
Gibsland, at Mt. Moriah	Aug. 1, 2
Jonesboro	Aug. 4,
Vernon, at Oakridge	Aug. 5,
Minden	Aug. 8, 9
Lisbon, at Tulip	Aug. 11,
Winnfield	Aug. 13,
Bernice, at Summerfield	Aug. 15, 16
Ruston	Aug. 18,
Ringgold, at Gr. Bayou	Aug. 22, 23
Lanesville, at Brushwood	Aug. 25,
C. Valley, at Sp. Hill	Aug. 29, 30

BRISCOE CARTER, P. E.

Shreveport Dist.—Third Round.

Keatchie, at Bellham	July 4, 5
Gr. Cane, at Keithville	July 11, 12
LaChute, at Taylortown	July 18, 19
Pleasant Hill	July 22, 23
Pelican, at Bethel	July 25, 26
Coushatta, at Lake End	July 28, 29
Wesley, at Holly Spgs.	Aug. 1, 2
Many, at Ft. Jessup	Aug. 8, 9
Zwolle, at Lowering	Aug. 12, 13
Mooringsport	Aug. 15, 16
Ida, at M. Chapel	Aug. 19, 20
Mansfield Circuit, at Sloan	Aug. 22, 23
Mansfield Station	Aug. 23, 24
Hornbeck	Aug. 26, 27
Leesville	Aug. 29, 30
Bon Ami	Sept. 5, 6
De Ridder	Sept. 6, 7
Shreveport—First Ch.	Sept. 9,
Noel Tob.	Sept. 10,
Texas Avenue	Sept. 13, 14
Provencal	Sept. 15, 16.
Greenwood	Sept. 19, 20

The District Conference will meet at Grand Cane July 7 at 9 a.m. Every preacher and delegate is expected to be present at the beginning and to remain to the close.

T. J. WARLICK, P. E.

Baton Rouge Dist.—Third Round.

Ponchatoula, at P.	July 4,
Hammond	July 5,
Wilson, at Pine Grove	July 18, 19
Clinton	July 19, 20
Ethel, at Tunica	July 26,
Baker, at Deerford	Aug. 1, 2
Zachary and Slaughter, at Slaughter	Aug. 2, 3
St. Francisville	Aug. 8, 9
Jackson	Aug. 9, 10
East Feliciana, at Camp Grounds	Aug. 15, 16
Mt. Hermon, at Pine Ridge	Aug. 22, 23
Kentwood	8 p. m. Aug. 23
Amite City	8 p. m. Aug. 24
Independence, at Red Oak	Aug. 29, 30
Live Oak, at Friendship	Aug. 30, 31
Franklinton, at Angie	Sept. 5, 6
St. Helena, at Darlington	Sept. 12, 13
Pine Grove, at Pipkins	Sept. 13, 14
Melville, at Melville	Sept. 19, 20
New Roads	Sept. 26, 27
Port Vincent, at Meadows	Oct. 3
Baton Rouge, 1st. Church	Oct. 4, 5
Baton Rouge, 2nd Church	Oct. 4, 5

The District Conference will be held at Ponchatoula beginning July 1.

R. W. TUCKER, P. E.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

Brookhaven District—Third Round.

(In Part.)

Prentiss, at Bassfield	June 13, 14
Sumrall	June 14, 15
Hub, at Oakvale	June 20, 21
Silver Creek, at New Hebron	June 21, 22
Hazlehurst	June 27, 28
Crystal Springs	June 28, 29
McComb and Fernwood, at McComb	July 4, 5
McComb-Centenary	July 5, 6
Oloh, at Baylis Chapel	July 11, 12
Columbia	July 12, 13

GEO. H. THOMPSON, P. E.

Jackson Dist.—Third Round.

Thomasville, at Forest Hill, 11 a.m.	June 27, 28
Brandon, 8 p.m.	June 28, 29
Jackson, Capitol St., 11 a.m.	July 5,
Jackson, First Ch., 8 p.m.	July 5,
Fannin, at Holly Bush	July 7,
Seminary, at Rawls Spgs.	July 11, 12
Collins	July 17,
Magee, at Pleasant Hill	July 18, 19
Sharon, at Soule's Chap.	July 22,
Canton	Aug. 2, 3
Pinola, at Rexford	Aug. 8, 9
Florence, at Monterey	Aug. 11
Terry, at Spring Ridge	Aug. 12
Deasonville, at Dover	Aug. 13
Benton, at Zeigierville	Aug. 15, 16
Flora, at Livingston	Aug. 23, 24
Braxton, at Bethany	Aug. 26
Yazoo City	Aug. 30, 31
Lintonia, at Lake City	Sept. 1
Madison, Ridgeland, 11 a.m.	Sept. 5, 6
Jackson, Rankin St., 8 p.m.	Sept. 6, 7
Mount Olive	Sept. 9
Eden, at Lodi	Sept. 12, 13

The pastors are requested to give especial attention to Questions 17 and 22, and in both cases to present written reports. A. F. WATKINS, P. E.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE

Greenville Dist.—Third Round.

Hollandale, at Arcola	June 24,
Shelby and Merigold, at S.	June 25,
Greenville	June 28,
Leland	July 5, 6
Boyle, at Skene	July 11, 12
Benoit, at Malvina	July 14,
Clarksdale	July 19, 20
Lula, at Lyon	July 20, 21
Coahoma, at Dundee, 8 p.m.	July 21,
Tunica, at Austin	July 26, 27
Alligator, at Duncan	July 27, 28
Rosedale, at Deeson	Aug. 2, 3
Hillhouse, at Gunnison	Aug. 3, 4
Cleveland Ct., at Lakeview	Aug. 8, 9
Cleveland Station	Aug. 12,
Friar's Point, at Sherard	Aug. 15, 16
Jonestown, at J.	Aug. 17,
Robinsonville, at Pop. C.	Aug. 19,
Glen Allan, at S. Greenv'le	Sept. 13, 14
Shaw, at S.	Sept. 16,
Delta Mission	Sept. 19, 20

R. A. MEEK, P. E.

Oxford Dist.—Third Round.

Grenada	June 7, 8
Oxford	June 9,
Holly Springs	June 11,
Water valley, Main Street	June 13, 14
Water Valley, First Church	June 14, 15
Water Valley Ct., Pine F.	July 11, 12
Randolph Ct., Sarepta	July 18, 19
Toccapola Ct., Tula	July 25, 26
Abbeville Ct., at Union H.	Aug. 1, 2
Charleston Ct., at Oak G.	Aug. 8, 9
Red Banks Ct., at Mahon	Aug. 15, 16
Paris Ct., at Midway	Aug. 22, 23
Grenada Ct., at Duck Hill	Aug. 29, 30
Waterford Ct., at Pine Mt.	Sept. 4,
Holly Springs Ct., at Sylvestria	Sept. 5, 6
Coffeeville Ct., at Antioch	Sept. 12, 13
Potts Camp Ct., Palestine	Sept. 19, 20
Ashland Ct., at Union H.	Sept. 26, 27

J. E. CUNNINGHAM, P. E.

Winona Dist.—Third Round.

Itta Bena	June 21,
Greenwood	8 p.m. June 21,
Carrollton, at Valley Hill	June 27, 28
Winona Station	6 p.m. June 28,
Eupora, at Mahon	June 30,
Schlater	July 3,
Indianola	July 5, 6
Winona Ct., at Salem	July 11, 12
Moorhead, at Baird	July 19, 20
Belzoni, at Sky Lake	July 25, 26
Webb, at Webb	Aug. 1.
Minter City, Strathmore	Aug. 2, 3
Inverness, at Isola	Aug. 8, 9
Ruleville, at Ruleville	Aug. 9, 10
N Carrollton, at McCarley's	Aug. 15, 16
Vance	Aug. 18.
Mars Hill, at Chapel Hill	Aug. 22, 23
Tom Nolen, at Lebanon	Aug. 29, 30
Slate Springs, at Cross R	Sept. 5, 6

E. S. LEWIS, P. E.

Corinth District—Third Round.

Corinth Ct., at Marvin	July 4, 5
Kossuth Ct., at Kossuth	July 12, 13
Guntown & Baldwyn, at B.	July 15
Wheeler Ct., at Asbury	July 17
Corinth Station, at C.	July 19, 20
Iuka Ct., at Harmony	July 25
Iuka Station, at Iuka	July 26, 27
Tishomingo Ct., at F G.	July 28
Marietta Ct., at Siloam	July 30
Booneville Station, at B.	Aug. 1, 2
Mooreville and Saltillo, at Allen's Chapel	Aug. 7
Blue Spgs. Ct., at Bethel	Aug. 8, 9
Mantachie Ct., at Shiloh	Aug. 15, 16
Belmont Ct., at Mt. Olive	Aug. 18
Booneville Ct., at Edges Chapel	Aug. 22, 23
New Albany Circuit, at Bethlehem	Aug. 29, 30
Ripley and New Hope, at Dumas	Aug. 30, 31
New Albany Station, at Glenfield	Sept. 6, 7
Myrtle Ct., Union Hill	Sept. 8,
Rainey and Falkner	Sept. 12, 13
Jonesboro Ct., Ebenezer	Sept. 15.

BEN. P. JACO, P. E.

Durant District—Third Round.

Sallis	June 20, 21
Kosciusko Station	June 27, 28
Durant Station	July 4, 5
Pickens	July 9,
Akerman	July 11, 12
Rural Hill	July 16,
Louisville	July 18, 19
Chester (South Union)	July 25, 26
Ebenezer	July 31,
Lexington	Aug. 1, 2
Kosciusko Circuit	Aug. 8, 9
Valden	Aug. 15, 16
West	Aug. 18,
McCool	Aug. 22, 23
Black Hawk	Aug. 29, 30
Sidon	Sept. 5, 6
Poplar Creek	Sept. 9,

S. M. THAMES, P. E.

Columbus Dist.—Third Round.

Columbus, First Church	July 4, 5
Columbus, Second Church	July 5, 6
Westpoint	July 7,
Columbus Ct., Flint Hill	July 11, 12
Starkville Ct., Steel's C.	July 18, 19
Starkville	July 19, 20
Shuqualak, Center Valley	July 25, 26
Winstonville, Mashulaville	Aug. 1, 2
Macon	Aug. 8, 9
Mayhew, Kilgore's Chapel	Aug. 15, 16
Mathiston, Providence	Aug. 22, 23
Crawford, Trinity	Aug. 29, 30
Sturges, Buel's Hill	Sept. 5, 6
Brooksville, Xprairie	Sept. 12, 13
Hebron	Sept. 19, 20
Cedar Bluff	Sept. 26, 27

Pastors will please see that Questions 17 and 22 are answered in full.

L. M. LIPSCOMB, P. E.

Sardis Dist.—Third Round.

Senatobia	June 27, 28
Como	July 5, 6
Sardis	July 11, 12
Mt. Pleasant, at N. Salem	July 17,
Olive Branch, at Center Hill	July 18, 19
Byhalia, at Fountainhead	July 25, 26
Coldwater, at Loucas	Aug. 1, 2
Cockrum, at Greenleaf	Aug. 8, 9
Wall Hill, at Marian	Aug. 15, 16
Hernando, at Horn Lake	Aug. 21,
Pleasant Hill, at Indora	Aug. 22, 23
Harrison, at Tillatobia	Aug. 29, 30
Courtland, at Chapel Hill	Aug. 31,
Eureka, at Lovejoy	Sept. 5, 6
Batesville	Sept. 12, 13
Tyro, at Malmaison	Sept. 16,
Crenshaw, at Crenshaw	Sept. 19, 20
Longtown	Sept. 25,
Arkabutla, at Harmony	Sept. 26, 27

W. M. YOUNG, P. E.

Argo Red Salmon was awarded the Grand Prize (the highest ever given) at the World's Fair, St. Louis.

The free employment bureau of Kansas is advertising for men to harvest the immense wheat crop of that State. It is estimated that twenty-one thousand men will be needed and nearly twelve hundred teams. The harvest is practically under way.

The Louisiana Legislature has killed the prohibition bill.

The Hon. William H. Taft, of Ohio, is the Republican nominee for president of the United States, and John Sherman, of New York, is the nominee for vice-president.

Whitworth College

(FOR YOUNG LADIES)

Brookhaven, Miss.

Conservatory of Art, Music and Expression. Commercial Department. High Curriculum. Officers and Teachers, 22. Students, 255. Next session begins Sept. 23, 1908. Address,

WHITWORTH COLLEGE.

Is Your Baby Teething?

There is no need to dread baby's second summer—the trying teething period—just keep its system in condition to make teething easy and save sleepless nights.

Teethina

(Teething Powders)

was first used by Dr. C. J. Moffett, a graduate of Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, in his extensive and successful treatment of children's diseases incident to teething and summer complaints—a standard remedy for over 40 years throughout the South. It contains the elements recommended by the most advanced medical sciences as necessary for removing the cause of disease and keeping baby's system in condition to make teething easy.

In nine out of ten cases of cholera infantum that prove fatal from ordinary neglect and subsequent treatment, the use of Teethina would have saved the child.

At all Druggists, 25c

Or from

Dr. C. J. Moffett Medicine Company, St. Louis

Write for our free "Mother's Booklet."

6 Per Cent GOLD BONDS

OF THE

American Petroleum Co.,

WITH AN EQUAL BONUS IN STOCK.

SOUTHERN TRUST COMPANY OF LOS ANGELES, TRUSTEE.

Absolute 1st Mortgage Security for your surplus money. A dependable income of 6 per cent. with strong profit features.

We invite correspondence.

FIELDING J. STILSON CO., Financial Agents, Los Angeles, Cal.

Reference: Any Bank, Trust Co., or Mercantile Agency in Los Angeles.

Epworth League

By Rev. H. Whitehead.

PRAYER-MEETING TOPIC.

OUR CARE AND PRAYER FOR OUR MINISTERS.

June 22. II Cor. ix, 14; Rom. xv. 30-33; Eph. vi., 17-20.

SUPERANNUATED FUND.

1. Your minister must be a man of the one occupation.

Our lesson is about our care and prayer for our ministers with an especial reference to the superannuates. The man who gives himself to the itinerancy must practically give himself to a vow of poverty. He must let nothing else divert his attention from the one work of winning souls for Christ and extending the bounds of the Church. He cannot engage in the most innocent occupations for the sake of gain, outside of his one chosen calling, without impairing his power to do the work for which he is set. He needs every hour of his time for meditation, prayer, study of the Word, and active aggressive work with his fellow-men. Every man who has tried to do anything that shall add to his income, if he is honest with himself, will admit, that he has not done the work in the ministry that he might. To one who has really been a pastor, the effort to combine anything else with the work of the pastorate is heart-breaking. He needs to cry, "this one thing I do."

2. Your pastor should have your support.

Since his time all belongs to the work of the Church, he must live upon what the Church gives him. The Master has said that the laborer is worthy of his hire. He should have the same support that your own home receives. Young people should learn from the first that there is an obligation to provide for him. So many young people, when they join the Church, are not made to see this. The writer of these lines was a member of the Church for several years, dropping nickels occasionally into the basket, that he did not miss, before he was waked up to give larger amounts that he would miss. Not how much will pass the collection basket by, but how much are you able to give for the support of the one who has given his time for you. Remember that as all members of an organization share in its obligations, so you owe your part of the debt to your pastor, and this debt stands on just the same grounds of obligation as any other debt you may incur.

In addition to the financial support of your pastor, he needs your prayer and sympathy if he is to do the work that lies before him. Pray for him, speak kindly words to him, counsel with him, help him in every way that you can in the work of the Master.

The superannuated pastor has an especial claim upon you. It is almost impossible for a man facing the problems of the itinerancy to save any money. Not a few capable men, who have afterwards proven themselves good financiers, have been forced out of the itinerancy by debts cheerfully incurred under some of its hardships. With a very few exceptions, the ministers of your Church come to old age, with absolutely nothing laid up for the declining years. The Church has doled out a pittance in the form of a charity. It will never do justly, much less charitably, until it provides funds ample to keep them in comfort in their old age—those who have given the best years of their lives, and made no provision for themselves.

The Church is now raising an endowment fund. Two things would this writer impress upon the mind of every Leaguer; first, have something invested in this fund; second, give your influence as the years pass, that the funds of your Church for the support of its worn-out servants shall be dispensed as a right, based on service and not as a charity.

ARGO. ARGO. ARGO. ARGO. ARGO.
ARGO. ARGO. ARGO. ARGO. ARGO.

WOOD LOTS IN JAPAN.

In these times of great drains on the timber supply, caused by the heavy demand for forest products of all kinds, Americans may see in Japan an example of what can be done in growing wood on small plots. That country contains 21 million wood lots, about three-fourths of which belong to private persons and one-fourth to communes.

The average size of the plots is less than nine-tenths of an acre. They usually occupy the steepest, roughest, poorest ground. In this way land is put to use which would otherwise go to waste, and if unwooded would lose its soil by the wash of the dashing rains.

From Japan's wood lots, the yearly yield of lumber is about 88 feet, board measure, per acre, and three-fourths of a cord of fire wood. In many cases the yield is much higher. More than half a billion trees are planted yearly to make up what is cut for lumber and fuel. Assessment for taxation is low, averaging for the 21 million lots less than a dollar an acre.

With all the care in cutting, and the industry in re-planting it is by no means certain that Japan's forests are holding their own. If the preservation of the forests is doubtful there, it is evident that depletion must be alarmingly rapid in other countries which cut unspairingly and plant very little. On the other hand, it is encouraging to see what can be done with rough, steep and poor land. The United States has enough of that kind, without touching the rich agricultural acres, to grow billions of feet of lumber.

PACHUTA, MISS.

Dear Doctor: During a severe wind and rain-storm which visited this County Saturday night, the 13th inst., a cyclone developed in the Orange neighborhood and completely demolished our Church there, besides destroying a saw mill, fences, and growing crops. No dwellings were destroyed and no lives lost.

For the present we will worship in the school-house, and the Church will be rebuilt as soon as the crops are off hand. No insurance was carried.

L. F. ALFORD.

MOXINE
Cures LAGRIPPE and Colds.

Keep Out Flies

Rust Proof Wire Screens.

Call on W. O. Johnson, 2512 Valence Street, or Phone, Uptown 2556, New Orleans, La. 17 years' experience.

BELLS.
Steel Alloy Church and School Bells. ☞ Send for Catalogue. The C. S. BELL CO., Hillsboro, O.

MOXINE CHILL TONIC
Only Tonic—one bottle—one cure.

Pure Refined Paraffine
For Sealing Preserves, Jellies, Etc.

It's the simplest, easiest and surest protection for all the homemade products. After cooling, simply pour a thin layer of the melted paraffine over the jelly or jam, as the case may be. Hardens almost immediately.

Pure Refined Paraffine is odorless, tasteless, harmless. Unaffected by acids, water, mold, moisture, etc. It has many other uses—so many that it has become a household necessity. It is also used for washing, ironing and starching. Full directions with each cake. Sold everywhere.

STANDARD OIL COMPANY
(Incorporated)

PURE
REFINED PARAFFINE
MANUFACTURED BY STANDARD OIL COMPANY
(INCORPORATED)
FULL DIRECTIONS ENCLOSED

WARD SEMINARY Nashville, Tenn., offers girls and young women Seminary and College Fitting Courses, Art, Elocution, Conservatory of Music, native teachers of French and German, city advantages, all outdoor sports on beautiful suburban campus, mild and equable climate. Only 150 boarding pupils received. 43d year. Write for Catalogue.

W. H. BYRNE, Pres. JOHN T. GIBBONS, Vice-Pres. P. E. BURKE, Sec'y.
Capital........................$200,000.00
Assets........................479,860.90

HIBERNIA INSURNCE CO.,
No. 305 Camp Street,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
LOSSES PROMPTLY PAID.

RHEUMATISM, DYSPEPSIA and DISEASES of the NERVOUS SYSTEM
Including Neurasthenia @ Paralysis.

Our new natural methods of treatment have been so succesful in the diseases named above and in other chronic ailments that we guarantee satisfaction in every case we accept for treatment. If after one full week's treatment and observance of our instructions, a patient is not convinced that our treatment is just what is needed for the cure of his or her disease, the week's treatment including room and board in the sanitarium will cost the patient nothing whatever.

If other treatment has failed to benefit you, come to us and BE CURED and at the same time learn how to avoid illness in the future. Illustrated phamphlet and diagnosis blank free.

The Biggs Sanitarium, GREENSBORO, N. C.

YOUR SUMMER VACATION
IS NEAR AT HAND
THE
Southern Pacific
SOUTHERN PACIFIC SUNSET ROUTE
WILL HAVE MANY ATTRACTIVE ROUTES TO OFFER BY RAIL OR WATER
To CALIFORNIA
GO ONE WAY ---- RETURN ANOTHER THROUGH THE MOST BEAUTIFUL SCENERY IN THE WORLD
To NEW YORK
ON ONE OF OUR MAGNIFICENT STEAMSHIPS --- FIVE BIG BOATS
"CREOLE," "MOMUS," "ANTILLES," "PROTEUS," "COMUS."
ASK YOUR AGENT FOR LITERATURE, OR WRITE
G. E. GUEDRY, Div. Pass. Agt.
LAKE CHARLES
F. E. BATTURS, Gen. Pass. Agt.
NEW ORLEANS

Sunday School

By W. B. Campbell.

LESSON FOR JUNE 28.

"TEMPERANCE LESSON."

Ephesians v, 6-20.

Golden Text: "Be not drunk with wine, wherein is excess; but be filled with the Spirit." Eph. v, 18.

This chapter, from which our lesson is taken, begins with an exhortation to be Christ-like in our lives: "Walk in love" is the key-note, for love is the fulfillment of the law. We also learn of a number of evils that must not be once named among us; also that if we are guilty of the evils recounted, we have no inheritance in the kingdom of Christ and of God. There are evils that proceed from an evil heart, and we must war against them with weapons that are spiritual. There are also enemies as fierce and strong that attack us in the flesh; to guard against the same our Lord tells us to "Be wise as serpents and harmless as doves."

St. Paul must have had in mind evil surroundings and evil companions when he wrote the first sentence of the lesson, "Let no man deceive you with vain words." It is well to be social, and a good fellow, and a Christian can be such with consistency; yet Satan has debauched good fellowship to man's destruction. When Jesus first preached the kingdom of God, he chose twelve men, and their following him through his ministry was their school days, in which they were to learn the use of a power given them of God, to gather other men into the kingdom. That power has been used by men everywhere in leading others to Christ—men for men, women for women; young men organize in associations for the conversion of young men. The social feature of these associations is used to great advantage. A good boy or a good girl can influence other boys or girls for good. So in all walks of life the instrumentality of God's children is seen as they "come to the help of the Lord against the mighty," thus obeying a law of God that he has written on every heart he hath created. Satan has taken note of this power of man, and as he comes sometimes "transformed into an angel of light," so he transforms his ministers into agreeable social companions to lure men to destruction. Half the fight against intemperance is won, if the social feature of drinking is eliminated; but as long as the world stands, "Birds of a feather will flock together." Some of the enemies of reform are so because the power for temperance comes principally from the Church of Christ. There are men that never use liquor in any form, and who declare themselves against prohibition, because it is a religious movement. This is not to be wondered at, for a temperance worker has his inspiration from him who gave his life for the lost ones; he loved them so.

The sober man who is against temperance has no love for his fellow-men; is purely selfish. This is the man who, the lesson tells us, will deceive us with vain words. "For ye were sometimes darkness;" our whole country has been in darkness, and it was only after that darkness was such as could be felt that there came an awakening. It is now the light of the Lord, and the Lord using the children of light in bringing about the reign of "goodness, righteousness and truth — the fruit of the Spirit." "Awake thou that sleepest" is the admonition given them that are unconcerned in the great work of temperance—a work so great that it is attracting the attention of the world. "And Christ shall give thee light," for it is his work. It is the saving of men, and he is the Savior of men. "See then that ye walk circumspectly" so that your part be done by you, for unless the reformer is guiltless, there is no reformation. "Redeeming the time," that time that has been spent so listlessly, while men were going to destruction all around us; "Because the days are evil," for Satan knows the power of strong drink to destroy the souls of men. Satan is a spirit, and his most powerful weapon is carnal, tangible; and he must be fought with a force "mighty to the pulling down of strong-holds." One reason, and the most potent, why men combat the great reform wave, is because it is so closely allied to the Church's work against other forms of sin; anything is more acceptable to them than religion.

Laws may be enacted and formally executed, but the drunkard will never be saved but by the grace of God. All political movements are only preparatory for the great work of salvation in the heart of man. It is the skirmish line; the ranks of Satan are completely routed, when the Spirit is poured out in conviction and men call on God for pardon.

As armies march to martial music, then let the soldiers of Christ in advancing on the camp-fire speak to themselves in parables and hymns and Spiritual songs, singing and making melody in their hearts to the Lord.

If you watch for the items on ARGO RED SALMON you will find some very interesting things about Alaska and the Salmon industry, of which very little is known in this country. "ARGO" is a household word wherever this Salmon has been introduced.

MOXINE CHILL TONIC
Only Tonic—one bottle—one cure.

CORINTH DISTRICT.

The second round closes with splendid efforts and continued success. Several church houses have been improved, some built; parsonage debts have been paid; parsonages repaired, and two built.

Some pastors have over half their Conference Collections in cash and balance in subscriptions. A general movement for baptism of children has been made, and numbers have been baptized. Salaries are being paid much more fully than ever before.

Application for license to preach has been made by five persons. Three local preachers have taken part of large charges thus to help the pastors.

Great revivals have been held at several places and hundreds have been reclaimed or converted, while more than 250 have been added to the church. A gospel tent is being used and will be kept busy until winter, which, with such able leaders as W. D. Bass and W. M. McIntosh, can but do much good.

BEN P. JACO, P. E.

In a Pinch use Allen's Foot-Ease.

Ladies can wear shoes one size smaller after using Allen's Foot-Ease. It makes tight or new shoes feel easy; gives instant relief to corns and bunions. It's the greatest comfort discovery of the age. Cures swollen feet, blisters, callous and sore spots. It is a certain cure for sweating, hot, aching feet. At all Druggists and Shoe stores, 25c. Don't accept any substitute. For FREE trial package, also Free Sample of the FOOT-EASE Sanitary CORN-PAD, a new invention, address Allen S. Olmsted, Le Roy, N. Y.

MOXINE
Cures LAGRIPPE and Colds.

TAPE WORMS expelled alive with head. Guaranteed. No poisonous drugs. Free booklet. GLOBE REMEDY CO., Birmingham, Alabama.

Belmont College For Young Women
Nashville, Tenn.

Prepares for colleges and universities. College post graduate courses leading to degrees of B. A. and M. A. Eleven schools comprise the college, and each school is presided over by a trained specialist. Music, Art, Physical Culture and Languages. Unrivalled in the South for location and environment. The college stands in a beautiful park of fifteen acres. Golf, tennis, hockey, horse-back riding, and automobiling. Many Northern as well as Southern families, realizing the benefits to be derived from such a location, and wishing their children educated under inter-sectional influences are sending their daughters to Belmont. Of the total number of pupils registered last year, representing in all [illegible] states, [illegible] per cent. were Northern girls. Early registration is necessary. Catalogue on request. Rev. IRA LANDRITH, D. D., LL.D., Regent. Miss HOOD and Miss HERON, Principals.

American TELEGRAPH School
ESTABLISHED 10 YEARS
MILLEDGEVILLE, GEORGIA
Largest and best equiped school South. Expert management. Railroad wire connections. Positions guaranteed. Railroad fares paid. Board at cost. Open year around. Write for catalogue C. Great demand for operators.

Pine-Brook Dairy Co., Ltd.
ALL OUR COWS TUBERCULINE TESTED.
Milk and Cream Delivered Morning and Evening.
COR. ST. CHARLES & WASHINGTON AVES. Phone 1514 Uptown.

THE AMERICAN PAINT WORKS,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.,
MANUFACTURES EVERYTHING IN PAINTS,
Guaranteed Strictly Pure.
The Climatic Prepared Paints, Perfecto White and
SOLD SUBJECT TO A CHEMICAL ANALYSIS.
DIRECTORS:
Thos. S. Witherspoon, President. Francis Martin, Vice President.
R. B. Parker, John McCloskey, Geo. A. Hero.
PHONE, MAIN 915. Special Attention to Mail Orders.

THE BEST MADE.
Angell's Cough and Whooping Cough Syrup
For Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Coughs, Colds and Throat Trouble.
CONTAINS NO OPIUM OR MORPHINE,
All Druggists, Price 25 and 50 Cents.

SCROFULINE
The Wonderful Healer
Unsurpassed for tetter, ezcema, skin and scalp troubles, old sores, ulcers and piles, any nature or duration. Goes to the very seat of the trouble, kills the germs and extracts all foreign matter. Sold under a positive guarantee, 25c, 50c and $1.00 per jar. Mail orders promptly filled. Stamps accepted. Liberal sample upon request. Address,
THE SCROFULINE COMPANY, Waco, Texas.
SOLE OWNERS AND MANUFACTURERS.

Louisiana Railway and Navigation Company.
PASSENGER SERVICE,
Daily Passenger Trains between Shreveport and New Orleans. Daily Passenger Trains between Shreveport and Winnfield.
FREIGHT SERVICE,
Exceptional good time on carload traffic. Special attention given less than carload shipments all of which moves in
DAILY THROUGH PACKAGE CARS.
CLARENCE ELLERBE, Assistant to President.
H. B. HELM, General Superintendent.
E. C. D. MARSHALL, General Freight & Passenger Agent.
Shreveport, La.

IS THE KING'S DAUGHTERS A NON-SECTARIAN ORGANIZATION?

Mr. Editor: I read in your valued paper of June 4, 1908, a letter from my most esteemed Brother T. B. Holloman, asking for information in regard to the organization of the King's Daughters and Sons.

I am much surprised that so learned a person as Brother Holloman should ask for this information.

Had it been worth his while to read the "Silver Cross" (the official organ of the order) which the "Whatsoever Circle" of Hattiesburg presented him (as well as every minister in town at this time, ten in number), with a year's subscription, he could have gotten the information, or he could have inquired of his next-door neighbor, who is a member of his congregation.

He only speaks of three conventions, ignoring the other five. As for the Vicksburg Convention, he should have inquired of Mrs. R. L. McLaurin, the hostess of the Convention, Mississippi's member of the Central Council, one of the brainiest women in the State, if not in the United States, also a member of his congregation while he was in Vicksburg.

They may have moved their services on Sunday to another church during the Convention in Vicksburg for the same reason that the W. C. T. U. moved their Sunday service while holding the State Convention in his church in this town.

Now, Mr. Editor, I can only speak for the Hattiesburg Convention, as the leader of the "Whatsoever Circle," and hostess of the eighth annual convention.

We have several reasons why the communion service was held in the Episcopal Church:

First—We commune in that Church as a body of Christians, and not as a congregation.

Second—Our State Secretary at this time happens to be an Episcopalian and we paid her the compliment to commune with her in her Church, instead of the Convention going with me to mine.

Third—The locality of the building.

Fourth—Had it been possible to commune in the Baptist Church, we do not feel that we are paying due reverence to the Holy Communion to turn from the Lord's table and take up our regular routine of business; therefore, we always expect to hold our consecration service and business sessions at different places; there are also many other reasons I could mention.

As for the rector administering the sacrament alone, will say he was the only minister in the church, notwithstanding others had been cordially invited.

I wish to say that we have fewer representatives of the Episcopal Church than any other in our Circle, but will have to confess that when the Circle was burdened with work and an empty treasury, we called on the different churches for a donation and the Episcopal was the only Church to respond and has continued to do so, and the Circle has never had to care for a member of their congregation.

There are many other things I might say, but instead will send the brother some King's Daughters literature.

Should you like to know anything further of the order, please call up our dear Sophie B. Wright, [illegible] Camp Street, your city, who is Louisiana's member of the Central Council, and who is not only known and loved in Louisiana and Mississippi, but by every Kings Daughter in the United States.

Now, Mr. Editor, I hope you will give our esteemed Brother the desired information.

Yours, "In His Name."

MRS. S. E. LONGRE,
Leader "Whatsoever Circle."
Chairman State Executive Board.
Hattiesburg, Miss.

WHOSOEVER WILL.

There is nothing shows more completely the power of the Gospel to save than the way in which men on opposite sides of the earth are reached by its telling force.

Christ's mode of salvation in that it meets men in every and any condition of life is shown in a conversation by a group of Chinese which a missionary overheard.

One said: "Chinaman was down in a deep pit and wanted help to get out. Confucius came and said: 'If you had only kept my precepts, you would not have fallen in.' Buddha came to the mouth of the pit, saying: 'Ah, poor fellow, if you were only up where I am, I would make it all right.' The Chinaman replied: 'If I were where you are, I would not want your help.' Then Jesus Christ came along with tears in his eyes, and jumped into the pit, and lifted the poor man right out of it."

That the power of God is universal, able to save the lowest, has been many times shown in rescue work in our large cities. A striking example of this is seen in the story of Pop Lloyd.

Many strange and pathetic scenes have been witnessed in the Old McAuly Mission, but perhaps none like the following which took place one evening there:

On stools in front of the platform rested a coffin, a very respectable one, with three massive handles on each side. A floral anchor lay in the centre and at the foot a sheaf of wheat. Inside the coffin lay the body of Old Pop Lloyd.

Five years before, Old Pop came into the Mission one night and took a seat on the back bench. He was seventy-five years old and covered with rags and dirt and vermin, and bent nearly double. He had not slept in a bed for weeks. When the invitation was given to those who wished to seek the Savior for the pardon of their sins, Mrs. Sarah Sherwood, our missionary, spoke to him and invited him to come forward. He asked her if she thought there was any hope for the worst man in New York. She said:

"Yes, whosoever will may come." He came, and was converted to God, and from that night he never tasted whisky or tobacco, which for years had been his chief articles of diet.

Old Pop had been a great character in his day. He was born on the high seas, and continued to rove there almost all his early life, and once had the reputation of being a pretty successful buccaneer. He was once transported to Van Dieman's land for ten years, and while in Australia would have been hanged for murder, but escaped from prison. He had been quite well-to-do forty years prior to this, and had sailed his own vessel out of this port. For the last three years he could do nothing, and was a charge on the Mission, and kind friends contributed to his support. He had drunk so much bad rum that his vocal chords were burnt out, and he could scarcely make himself understood, often giving his testimony in pantomime, stooping down low to show how the devil had bent him over when he came to the Mission; then raising himself up erect to show how Christ took the load off his mind and soul.

At 7 o'clock in the morning he would come to the Mission and remain all day. We would take him down three square meals each day, as his limbs were too weak to carry him upstairs. Many a time was he seen giving his food to some poor tramp, who had slipped in the door much as a stray cat would do, looking for something to eat. No matter who it was, Old Pop would share his meal with him if he were hungry.

One day I was sent for to go to his room, and when I got there I found Old Pop was sinking fast. I knelt at his bedside and put my arms about his neck. The sick man pulled my ear down close to his mouth and whispered:

"Brother Hadley, I am going fast; but don't be uneasy; Jesus is with me," and with that he breathed out his life and went home to God.—Exchange.

FOUR CENTER SHOTS AT THE WHISKY CURSE.

Dr. J. Wilbur Chapman, the famous evangelist, in a great meeting at Philadelphia last week, thus epitomized the liquor issue:

"A preacher who is afraid to tell his congregation the perils of the saloon should get out of the pulpit.

"Men and women who rent buildings for saloons are as much to blame as are the saloon keepers. I would as soon take live coals in my hands as to take money which saloon keepers give for poor persons. I would say to them: 'Stop making the poor, and then we would not need your money.'

"As an example to the people of this city, I would pave the streets with the broken hearts of mothers and children who have been thrust into misery by the saloons. I am not unkind to saloon-keepers, but their business is as hellish as anything this side of the infernal regions."

If I could destroy to-morrow the desire for strong drink in the people of England, what changes we should see! We should see our taxes reduced by millions sterling. We would see our gaols and workhouses empty. We should see more lives saved in twelve months than are consumed in a century of bitter and savage war.—Mr. Joseph Chamberlain, the Great English Statesman.

I view the uncontrolled condition of the liquor traffic as a serious danger * * *. If the State does not soon control the liquor traffic, the liquor traffic will control the State.—Lord Roseberry, former Premier of England.

Drinking baffles us, confounds us, and mocks us at every point. It outwits alike the teacher, the man of business, the patriot, and the legislator.—The Times, London, England, March 29, 1881.

NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE

Millsaps College Library

REV. JOHN W. BOSWELL, Editor.
REV. H. WHITEHEAD, Ass't Editor.

NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, JULY 2, 1908.

CHAS. O. CHAL[illegible] Publisher,
Office, 512 Camp St., New Orleans.

VOL. 55—No. 26.

"PROVE ALL THINGS; HOLD FAST THAT WHICH IS GOOD."

WHOLE No. 5406.

Glances at the World.

Ex-President Grover Cleveland died at his home in Princeton, N. J., on Wednesday, June 24. He was seventy-one years of age. Mr. Cleveland was a great man—one of the great statesmen of the country. History will give him a place among the best presidents the United States ever had. He was first brought to public notice as sheriff of his county in New York, and then as Governor of the State, in which his services were pre-eminent. He had the distinction of being the only Democrat elected to the Presidency since the war which came to an end in 1865. To this high position he was twice elected, General Harrison coming in between his first and second terms. For certain reasons, one of them being his stand on the money question, there was a rupture between Mr. Cleveland and the leaders of his party, and since his retirement he has not been in accord with the policies of Mr. Bryan. He was a man of strong mind and clear judgment, of iron will, independent in thought and action, and of rugged honesty. These qualities commanded the respect and confidence of the people. The whole country mourns for him as for a noble and patriotic son. Mr. Cleveland married Miss Frances Folsom during his first term as president. She and four children survive him, and have the sympathy of millions in their sorrow.

* * *

The paramount event of last week was the meeting of the Republican National Convention in Chicago. The purpose of the meeting was to formulate a National Republican Platform and to nominate a man for President and one for Vice President of the United States. The platform is a lengthy document containing planks on about all the issues which distinguish the Republican party. The item that elicited greatest interest was in reference to the authority of Federal judges to issue injunctions. There was a widespread demand for the curtailment of the power as now exercised. This was particularly demanded by labor organizations. The plank adopted pledges the Republican party to maintain the integrity of the courts and to define more clearly the law governing a judge's authority. That is about the sum of it. As a reform measure it is nothing. It has angered the labor leaders. Those in the party who wanted an anti-injunction plank profess themselves satisfied. Those who wanted things to remain as they are enter no complaints. The candidates for President were six or eight in number, only one of whom, we suppose, had any hope of nomination. The man who tried hardest for the place got two votes out of nearly one thousand. Mr. W. H. Taft, present Secretary of War, was nominated, one ballot only being required. Hon. J. S. Sherman, of New York, was nominated for Vice President.

* * *

There will be held in Mississippi, at the State University, Oxford, July 6 and 7, an Educational Congress under the auspices of the Mississippi Teachers' Association. This Conference is endorsed and heartily backed up by State colleges, as well as by private and denominational colleges. It is intended to inaugurate an organized and systematically-managed educational campaign for Mississippi. Its results will be more far-reaching than any other movement that has been put on foot in this State for years. Editors, farmers, merchants, lawyers, doctors, preachers, and all other classes of white citizenship in the State that feel an interest in the education of youth and the upbuilding of the State are invited to take part in the Conference. Such questions as the following will be asked: "Is it right that in many counties of this State the schools run only four months, while the average term in the United States is nearly eight months?" "Is it right that of the 260,000 white children in Mississippi only about 80 per cent were in school last year for even one day?" "Is it right that of the number of white children enrolled in our schools last year an average of 36 per cent of them were absent each day?" Thirty-seven states and territories had longer school terms last year than did Mississippi. Forty-six states and territories spent more for the education of each child in 1905-06 than did Mississippi. "Is it right that our country children should be taught by teachers who receive an average of $197 per year, while our town children have teachers who get an average of $475.59 per annum?" Other questions like these will be discussed. For further information address T. P. Scott, president, Brookhaven, Miss.

* * *

If there are any persons in the country who think that the brewers are not cautious and philosophical, they are mistaken. The proceedings of their recent annual association at Milwaukee should satisfy the most skeptical on these points. They see that their craft is in danger, and are trying to ward it off. Their purpose is to "stem the tidal wave of prohibition," but they have but little hope of doing so just now. Their hope is for reaction, and this is to be brought about by a process of education. They are to adopt Mr. Story's methods, and we may expect in due time to hear of the establishment of "bureaus of information" in central localities. They verily believe that prohibition is the result of ignorance. The president of the Association, in his address, declared that this ignorance is the result of "the fact that very few of the men and women who preach prohibition have any first-hand knowledge of the saloons. They do not enter them, even for purposes of observation, and they certainly do not know that by far the large majority of saloons are decent and respectable, and do not tolerate drunkenness and disorder." Possibly the schools for making anti-prohibitionists may bring back a few to the brewers' way of thinking, but there is another set of schools that continue to multiply the number of prohibitionists. These are the lawless saloons themselves. These saloons refuse to be regulated—this, the president of the beer men tells us, is because of the "injustice meted out to them in the guise of laws." This is not the reason. It is because in most cases the saloons are in the hands of bad men, who are determined not to be interfered with in their traffic. This president says further: "It is our duty to hasten universal enlightenment and to spread the conviction that our industry stands for temperance in the best sense of the word, and will neither countenance nor tolerate anything that is not thoroughly in accord with the moral and physical welfare of the people." Well said. When that work is accomplished, either by the critical teaching or actual demonstration by the saloons, the millennium will be here, and everybody will be good and happy.

* * *

The president of the Brewers' Association says: "To keep the saloon out of politics it must first be taken out of politics; and the best way to keep it in politics is to provide by local option laws for the constant agitation of the license question, with the element of harassing uncertainty which this involves." There is some force in this statement, for neither prohibitionists nor saloonists are satisfied if the election goes against them. They try again and again. It will always be so under a local option regime, or statutory prohibition. There is but one remedy—that is to write prohibition into the Constitution. To this end the uncompromising prohibitionist, and many local optionists, perhaps the majority, are working. To-day the saloon is the biggest factor in politics, and will remain such until, by constitutional provision, it is eliminated.

Christian Advocate.

Published for the Louisiana, Mississippi and North Mississippi Conferences, Methodist Episcopal Church, South.

SUBSCRIPTIONS.

[illegible]

[illegible] When renewal is made, if the date is not moved forward after two weeks, notify us and we will make it right. Papers will be continued unless subscribers order otherwise.

For Advertising Rates Apply to

Religious Press Advertising Syndicate.
JACOBS & CO., CLINTON, S. C.

Home Office, Clinton, S. C., who have charge of the advertising of this paper.

ADVERTISING REPRESENTATIVES.
J. F. Jacobs, J. D. Jacobs, Home Office, Clinton, S. C.
R. J. Bruce, 411 W. St. Catherine St., Louisville, Ky.
Thornwell Jacobs, 1111 Stahlman Bldg., Nashville, Tenn.
C. C. Little, 542 Mutual Bldg., Richmond, Va.
D. J. Carter, 131 LaSalle St., Chicago, Ill.
Miss M. R. Middleton, 154 Nassau St., New York, N. Y.
Barton E. Buckman, 132 LaSalle St., Chicago, Ill.
J. H. Rich, Birmingham, Ala.
R. J. Barrett, New Orleans, La.
J. R. Keough, Atlanta, Ga.
J. R. Gentry, Clinton, S. C.
H. R. Ewbank, Houston, Texas.
W. L. Boggs, Greensboro, N. C.
F. A. Wynne, Cor. Ackard & Elm Sts., Dallas, Texas.

THE PREACHER'S VACATION.

(Author Unknown.)

The old man went to meeting, for the day was bright and fair,
Though his step was slow and tottering, and 'twas hard to travel there;
But he hungered for the Gospel, so he trudged the weary way
On the road so rough and dusty, 'neath the sun's hot, burning ray.

By and by he reached the building, to his soul a holy place;
Then he paused and wiped the sweat-drops from off his wrinkled face,
But looked around bewildered, for the old bell did not toll,
And the doors were shut and bolted, and he did not see a soul.

So he leaned upon his pilgrim-staff and said, "What does it mean?"
And he looked this way and that way, till it seemed to him a dream—
He had walked the dusty highway (and he breathed a heavy sigh)
Just to go once more to meeting ere the summons came to die.

Soon he saw a little notice tacked on the meeting door,
So he limped along to read it, and he read it o'er and o'er;
Then he wiped his dusty glasses and read it o'er again,
Till his limbs began to tremble and his eyes were full of pain.

As the old man read the notice, how it made his spirit burn!
"Pastor's off on vacation—church is closed till his return."
Then he staggered slowly backward and sat him down to think,
For his soul was stirred within him till he thought his heart would sink.

So he moved along and wondered—to himself soliloquized:
"I have lived till almost eighty, and was never so surprised
As when I read that oddest notice stuck on the meetin' door—
'Pastor absent on vacation'—never heard the like before!

"Why, when I first jined the meetin', very many years ago,
Preachers traveled on the circuit, in the heat and through the snow;
If they got their clothes and victuals ('twas but little cash they got),
They said nothin' 'bout vacations, and were happy in their lot.

"Would the farmer leave his cattle, or the shepherd leave his sheep?—
Who would give them care or shelter, or provide the food to eat?—
So it strikes me very singular, when a man of holy hands
[illegible] forsakes his
[illegible] Wesley or a
[illegible] from their
[illegible] to lounge
[illegible] they did, Satan would raise a shout.

"Do the taverns close their doors just to take a little rest?
Why, 'twould be the height of nonsense, for their trade would be distressed.
Did you ever know it happen, or hear anybody tell:
Satan absent on vacation, and closed—the doors of hell?

"And shall preachers of the Gospel pack their trunks and go away,
Leaving saints and dying sinners to git along as best they may?
Are the souls of saints and sinners valued less than selling beer?
Or do preachers tire quicker than the rest of mortals here?

"Why, it is I cannot answer, but my feelin's they are stirred;
Here I've dragged my totterin' footsteps to hear the Gospel Word,
But the preacher is a-travelin', and the meetin'-house is closed—
I confess it's very tryin'—hard, indeed, to keep composed.

"Tell me: when I tread the valley, and go up the shinin' height,
Will I hear no angels singin'? Will I see no gleamin' light?
Will the golden harps be silent? Will I meet no welcome there?—
Why, the thought is most distressin'; 'twould be more than I could bear!

"Tell me: when I reach the city over on the other shore,
Will I find a little notice tacked upon the golden door,
Tellin' me, 'mid dreadful silence, writ in words that cut and burn:
'Jesus off on vacation—Heaven closed till his return!'"

HIGHER CRITICISM AND SOME OF THE CRITICS.

BY REV. H. W. FEATHERSTUN, D.D.

No. VI.

The critics who think that the Pentateuch is too good to be true, that its superior literary excellence indicates that it could not have been written until about a thousand years later than it claims to have been, would have us believe that the patriarchs before Moses, Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, and back of them to the Flood and beyond, were veritable pagans, worshiping sundry gods and goddesses, among whom was one named Yahweh, or Jehovah. The only argument brought forward to prove this is their theory of evolution. All peoples, they say, were once savages, with low morals, low religious conceptions, and low intellectual capacities and achievements; hence the lowest form of religion was the first form. Fetichism being the lowest form, primitive man's religion was necessarily this. This notion of fetichism is the logical conclusion of the theory of the evolutional origin of religion, but is now being abandoned by them. Next came polytheism, the worship of many gods—a step higher, yet low enough. Out of this polytheism, the worship of one God, finally evolved. As a matter of course, Genesis tells a story far different from this; hence our critics would relegate Genesis to the realm of myth and legend.

Now, what was man's first religion? The so-called higher critics—even Menzies, in his popular History of Religion—say that it was polytheism. Genesis says that it was monotheism. The prophets also say that it was monotheism. Our critics urge that the prophets of the eighth century before Christ were the real founders of "ethical monotheism," but Dean Kirkpatrick says very truly: "The careful study of their writings affords the most convincing refutation of this theory." It is a fact very apparent that almost every one of the prophets bent his energies to call the people of Israel back to a monotheism they had backslidden from. In no one case does one of them assume the attitude of an innovator, a teacher of new doctrine. They all plead for "the old paths," the old worship, the forsaken God.

Universal history joins with Genesis and the prophets in declaring that man's first religion was the worship of the one only God. The learned Canon Rawlinson, in an elaborate tract prepared more than twenty years ago, shows beyond all question that back of all the polytheisms of the various peoples of earth there was a positive monotheism. He carefully considers the religious history of the Phœnicians, the Syrians, the Assyrians, the Arabians, the Moabites, the Ammonites, the Babylonians, the peoples of India, Persia, Greece and Rome, the Celts or ancient Britons, the Germans, the Turanian tribes, the Egyptians and other African peoples, the Chinese and other Mongolians. He thus states his conclusions: "With one exception, we have found everywhere monotheism, either absolute or qualified, and that in most cases we have found it most distinctly and clearly present in the earlier stages of the religion. Even in the one exception, that of the Romans, there is * * a lingering reminiscence of a monotheistic period through which the nation had passed." The learned Canon did not include the American Indians in his investigation, but we all know that they were almost, if not altogether, monotheistic. Thus history speaks with a clear, sure voice, telling us that every polytheistic religion on earth is a backsliding from man's first religion given him from heaven; that behind every form of paganism there stands in the shadows of a remote era sometimes the grand outlines of a primitive monotheism given by the great All-Father to all of his human children. Yet the so-called higher critics say that it cannot be so, because it would not quadrate with their fad, the theory of a monkey ancestry and a steady evolution away from that simian beginning. The learned and world-famous Canon Rawlinson, in England, and Profs. James Clement Moffat of Princeton and Samuel Henry Kellogg of the Western Theological Seminary, in America, have written carefully and learnedly to prove that Genesis and the Old Testament prophets are clearly right when they declare that our race's first religion was the pure, true worship of the one and only God; yet these "critics" toss it all aside—ignored, not answered, not even replied to—because, forsooth, their monkey ancestry fad has no room in it for such a mighty fact. Faddists do not reason much.

Canon Rawlinson concludes his book, "Religions of the Ancient World," with these modest but well-considered conclusions: "The theory to which the facts appear on the whole to point is the existence of a primitive religion, communicated to man from without, whereof monotheism and expiatory sacrifice were parts, and the gradual clouding over of this primitive revelation everywhere, unless it were among the Hebrews. * * * The only theory which accounts for all the facts—for the unity as well as the diversity of ancient religions—is that of a primeval revelation, variously corrupted through the manifold and multiform deterioration of human nature in different races and places." No man, dead or living, has given the question deeper, broader and more intelligent research than Rawlinson gave it. I prefer the conclusions of Rawlinson, Genesis and the Prophets to the callow utterances of these higher critical faddists, who claim a simian ancestry.

A SABBATH IN CORI [illegible]

No day for a long time h[illegible] quite so pleasantly as was Sun[illegible] incidentally passed in Corinth. This tow[illegible] always impressed me as a town made up of country people. Let not some over-proud urban dare laugh at the Corinthians because they cause one to think of the country; for the problem of civilization is to combine the virtues and advantages of town and country. In the above statement, I merely mean that Corinth seems to be successfully solving this problem.

On finding that I should be in Corinth on the Sabbath, I had expected to slip in upon my good friend, the Rev. L. M. Broyles, and hear him in one of his "non-occasional" sermons. I heard something better—the Children's Day exercises. These exercises were better than the sermon would have been, because they meant more to and for those rendering the programme; again, because children before an audience will more nearly affect every auditor than will the greatest speaker on our planet; still again, because these exercises were the result of the efforts of Mrs. Broyles and some other good women of the church, and you know that I think women do better work than men—when they do.

The beautiful programme sent out by the Publishing House was effectively and splendidly executed. The eagerness, zeal and enthusiasm that entered into all the children did and the spirit that saturated the songs they sang were enough to put to shame the perfunctory performances of many of us older people supposed to be drilled in the service of our Savior. Our church is truly wise in giving the children more and more to do instead of promulgating pious prohibitions and preparing propitiatory penances. What impressed me especially while visiting First Church, at Corinth, was what I believe cannot be found in any other congregation of the Conference. This was a young men's (not boys') Sunday school class, now numbering over sixty. On account of the absence of the teacher, I was given the great pleasure and distinguished honor of standing before this class. The marked patience with which they heard me made me have great faith in their power of self-control, which is the crowning virtue of any individual who possesses it. Were I to attempt to characterize the members of this class, I should find myself using such words as clean, intelligent, practical, aggressive, progressive and religious. You will agree with me in this estimate when I mention their "purpose" as set forth on their membership card: First, the Mutual Acquaintance of the Class Members; Second, the Improvement of the Higher Christian Life of its Members; and third, to Render Material Aid to its Members When Necessary. Hear, ye church members of fourteenth century ideals! Will you allow yourself to think longer that it is foolish and almost sinful to educate women? This class of strong, vigorous, intellectual, common-sense young men has chosen for its teacher a young woman, Miss Elizabeth Kilpatrick. This class means business. They said to me that, if I would go away—they saw that I had a notion of staying—and come again, I should have at least one hundred to talk to. That they have faith in this promise is attested by the fact that they have already paid, in cash, to the amount of $470 to enlarge the pastor's study (which they use also as class-room) sufficiently to accommodate that number.

The impression made on me by this class put me on the alert, and I found out other things. The whole church is alive and awake. I passed several groups on the street and I could hear that they were talking about Sunday School work, the prayer meeting, and other matters concerning the church interests. I learned that the prayer meeting is largely attended, large crowds attend the Sunday services, and the organizations of the church are active. I found [illegible] like Brother Broyles; better still, they [illegible] He has much influence with [illegible] appeal from him in the [illegible] crowd to hear me [illegible] he has been [illegible] as I be[illegible] pectancy [illegible] been used to hear[illegible] As I closed, they still [illegible] expectancy. Brother Broyles [illegible] The people were satisfied.

Mr. President: I move, sir, that a com[illegible] be named to receive and carefully weigh all arguments for and against the time-limit; and, if at all feasible, let this commission propose some basis upon which we may have an enactment making inoperative, in certain peculiar cases, the law bearing on this question. Let us have this, please, before Brother Broyles' four years' term is out.

W. L. CLIFTON.

WHITWORTH'S COMMENCEMENT.

The commencement exercises of Whitworth College were held from May 21 to June 2, and on account of their unusual excellence, they are worthy of special mention. The sermon on Sunday morning was preached by Dr. F. N. Parker, of New Orleans, and made a deep impression on the large body of hearers present. Dr. Parker fully maintained his reputation as a thoughtful and eloquent preacher. At night Rev. J. W. Crisler preached before the Epworth League to the pleasure of those who heard him. Rev. T. W. Lewis, on Monday morning, made the Alumnæ address, talking in an interesting way on "Friendship," taking as a basis the tender relations between Naomi and Ruth.

The art exhibit in the afternoon showed in many instances decided progress and genuine talent.

The evening of Monday was devoted to the grand concert and contests in Expression, furnishing the highest pleasure by means of the skilled music, the pure rendering of pieces, and the rhythmic movements of the occasion.

The annual address on Tuesday morning by Dr. Craighead, the distinguished president of Tulane University, was strong and even great.

The degree of A.B. was conferred on seven young ladies, Eva Crisler, Marion Alice Decell, Margarett Eula Granberry, Olive Watkins Lipscomb, Willard Aurelia Pigford, Jemmie Lavinia Vardaman and Hattie Merwin Watkins.

Five young ladies received the degree of B.L., Georgia Isabella Brumfield, Bessie Chichester Cooper, Ella Crisler, Grace Dorothy Leighton and Pauline Purser.

Diplomas in Piano were awarded to Lois Cooper and Jemmie Vardaman, a diploma in Voice to Ella Crisler, in Expression to Lucile Lynch, and in Commercial Course to Mabel Adams, certificates in Bookkeeping to Maggie Curry, and in Stenography to Ruby Enochs, Bessie Ott, Eulice Honard and Ora Rawley.

The Senior Scholarship Medal was won by Pauline Purser, the Junior Medal by Wessie Brumfield, the Sophomore by Nettie Morris, the Freshman by Sadie Matthews, the Sub-freshman by Maybel Evans, Preparatory by Essie Sistrunk. Music by Jemmie Vardaman, Elocution by Leontine Magrath, Art by Annie Decell, and the prize of half-tuition in Art in free-hand drawing by Wessie Brumfield.

The Trustees were highly gratified with the great success of the College during the session, and commended Dr. Cooper's administration in the warmest terms. More than 250 pupils were in attendance, and more than 170 of these were in the boarding department. This patronage was widely distributed, and from the best families in the land. Dr. Cooper has come to be among the great college presidents of the country, and he is ably seconded by wise and thorough teachers. Mrs. Lipscomb, Miss Drake, Miss Ragsdale, Miss McVoy, Mrs. Bolton and others assure the best and most faithful instruction. The religious influences also are of the highest character.

The last matin prayer service of the session, on Monday morning, conducted by the girls, was tender and pure and beautiful.

[illegible] meeting of the Board of Trustees a [illegible] done in the election of Hon. [illegible] former treasurer [illegible] devoted [illegible] of the [illegible] and the grounds mos[illegible] othing in the State to equal them [illegible] expended during the year $2500 in perma[illegible] improvements. Whitworth is to-day the seat of sound learning, of genuine religion and of gentle manners. Her history of near fifty years makes her honored and classic, while her unabated vigor gives the promise of usefulness for years to come.

It is also a matter of importance that the completion of the Mississippi Central Railroad from Natchez to Hattiesburg, and crossing the Illinois Central at Brookhaven, gives the easiest access to the College from all directions.

I take pleasure in saying that the degree of A.M. pro causa honoris was conferred on Mrs. B. W. Lipscomb and Miss Janie H. Drake.

E. H. MOUNGER.

A BAPTIST PREACHER ON MISSIONARY COLLECTIONS.

"I have some respect for the Baptist Church (not much, but some) that says it believes in the principle that "If the Lord is going to convert the heathen, he will do it, young man, without your help and mine," but for the Baptist Church that wants the name of being missionary, and that shies at a special missionary plea, or a special opportunity to give—well, friends, it may be part Christian, but the Lord only knows where to draw the line in some of these cases.

"You know there are two ways of judging dogs. One is the bench show, in which the judges go along and note their points. The other way is the field trial. Some of the dogs that are best in the bench show fail when it comes to the field trial. There is a dog, fine in the muzzle, that has all the seven points of perfection, but in the field trial he was gun-shy, or would run off on a rabbit-trail when he was after birds. Do you know that these are just the complaints—that Christians show up well in the bench show, in the church and at the communion table—but in the field trial some of them will shy at a missionary collection?"—Rev. Emery W. Hunt (Baptist), President Denison University, at the Young People's Missionary Movement Convention.

GET SOLID PROTECTION AND INSURE WITH
LEON IRWIN & CO.
Fire and Casualty Insurance.
736 UNION STREET. PHONE, MAIN 535.

W. W. Carre Co., Ltd,
Manufacturer and Exporter of
LUMBER,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Phone Main
ROOMS and BOARD
634 and [illegible] SOUTH STREET LAFAYETTE SQUARE
CORNER ST. CHARLES ST., NEW ORLEANS.
UNLIMITED MEALS. ALVIN PORTER, Manager.

FAITH.

By Margie Howard Benton.

Walking on the beach one summer day,
My mind filled with doubt, the burden lay
Heavy, and my heart was sad and sore;
[illegible] as if I could trust no more.
[illegible]
[illegible]

Then [illegible]
My eyes [illegible]
I knew there were [illegible]
Who [illegible]
Whether they'd [illegible]
Or be carried down to watery grave.

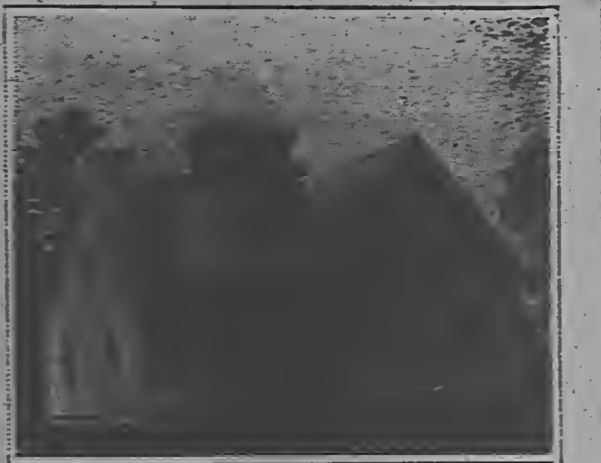
Then, quick as a flash, did this thought come:
Why should I in doubt and darkness roam?
If the sailors trust the ships they steer,
With never a doubt nor single fear,
Cannot I, far better, trust the Lord,
Whose promise is written in his Word?

Nay, I will not doubt, but cast each fear
And burden that my heart has to bear
At the feet of Christ, the sinner's friend,
Whose willing ear does ever attend
The cry of lost souls for mercy free.
My heart, dear Lord, I now give to thee.

Yea, I'll now launch out on life's broad main—
God's Word my bark—and if I refrain
From sin, and to my helm, faith, stand fast,
I need fear no wave nor tempest's blast.
And though rough seas around me may roll,
I'll reach at last the Home of the Soul.
Leesville, La., July, 1908.

THE CAMPTI (LA.) CHURCH.

We present herewith an excellent picture of the church recently completed at Campti, La., Rev. C. F. Staples, pastor. It is a beautiful and well-built house. The walls and ceiling are beautifully and tastefully papered, while the wainscoting and window and door facings are hard-oil finished. It has an inclined floor, and a Sunday school room separated from the auditorium by rolling doors. The auditorium seats 170 persons. The Sunday school accommodates sixty. The house cost $2,000; the pews cost $500. It is carpeted, lighted with electricity, and is in every respect a well-finished house of worship.



We congratulate Brother Staples and his excellent people on their achievement. The building and equipment of this church Brother Staples regards as the best work of his life.

LAYMAN'S MOVEMENT.

At a meeting of the laymen of the New Orleans District held May 22, 1908, the following was adopted:

That the Church Leader elected by the Quarterly Conference in each charge proceed at once (if he has not already done so) to organize in each charge a Layman's Missionary Movement, to consist of all male members, with regularly elected officers and committees, to engage in such church work as may appear practicable and helpful to the Church, and with that in view, the following committees should be appointed:

Foreign Missions—A committee of five, for increasing the interest in our Foreign Mission work and other church benevolences, and also to [illegible] and the establishment of mission stations in [illegible]

[illegible] of three to attend [illegible] of the Church, with special efforts to increase the attendance of men at them, and look up those members who have stopped attending and those who are irregular.

Lookout—A committee of three, who are to adopt a system for reaching strangers coming to our city, with a view to identifying them with our churches and welcoming them.

Sickness and Distress—A committee of three, who are to see to it that our brother, in sickness or distress, is ministered to.

Social and Fraternal—A committee of three who are to look after the social and fraternal needs of our laymen.

It was decided also that the District Committee (composed of the District Leader, as chairman, and the Church Leaders in the district) hold meetings regularly once every three months (or as often as practicable) for the purpose of prosecuting such work as may be of aid to the general interests of Methodism in the district, and to arrange for holding district meetings of all the laymen in the district as often as practicable, when reports from each charge should be made, and for the encouragement of the co-operative spirit among the various congregations in Methodism and bringing them closer together.

I think the plan as adopted by the New Orleans District can well be applied to all the districts of our State, and would, therefore, ask the Leader of each district to proceed at once to organize along the same line, which, however, might be changed in some districts to meet its special conditions, but in a general way it can be adopted.

I specially call your attention to the 25 per cent increase for this year in the Foreign Mission fund, as agreed upon by the Chattanooga Convention. Please endeavor to have this increase raised throughout your district.

I hope each Church Leader in your district has organized his laymen; if not, have him do so without further delay.

I shall write Mr. G. W. Cain, our general secretary, in Nashville, to send you such printed matter bearing on the Layman's Movement as he may have. This you can distribute among your Church Leaders. Endeavor to get as many of your laymen as possible to subscribe to "Go Forward," our official organ.

The publication, "God's Call to Men," which contains the proceedings of the Chattanooga Convention, would be valuable in the hands of each layman. It costs only $1, and I would recommend your urging your laymen to get it.

I earnestly request and urge you, as District Leader, to push the work of the Layman's Movement in your district. The Church at large expects a great deal as a result of this movement, and has a right to. Let each one of us do our share towards making it a success.

Yours fraternally,
W. W. CARRE, State Leader.

LETTER FROM OKLAHOMA.

Dear Dr. Boswell: When I bade my friends and parishioners in old Mississippi good-by last November I assure you there were some misgivings on my part as to the wisdom of the move; but having been informed by Brother W. F. Dunkle, who is now my presiding elder, that a nice station, composed of many elegant and [illegible] people was at my destination, and further assured of the fact that it was a healthful region, I, like Cæsar, [illegible] that the die had been cast and I must [illegible] vast throng that was ever moving toward the great West. After having been born and [illegible] on the soil of Mississippi, my people having been citizens of the Magnolia State for more than three quarters of a century, it was but [illegible] that when the time came for us to take our departure we should feel that perhaps it might be better to remain in the land of our nativity. Tennyson says, "Things seen are mightier than things heard," and I think the expression [illegible] be very aptly used when referring to the greatness of this new State.

Oklahoma lies south of the center of the United States. Oklahoma City, which is not far from the geographical center of the new State, is about 200 miles south of the geographical center of the United States and 800 miles south of the Canadian line. It is about equi-distant from New York and San Francisco, being 1300 miles from each, and about 450 miles north of Galveston, the nearest point on the Gulf of Mexico.

Oklahoma has a greater variety of natural resources than any other State in the Union. At the present time not more than one-third of the agricultural resources of the State have been developed. The greater part of the most fertile land in the State has not yet been put into cultivation. The mineral resources of the State, which are very great, are practically undeveloped. To convince the incredulous I shall give a few figures to show the greatness of the State from a commercial standpoint. The yearly dairy productions are worth $2,750,000; in 1906, [illegible] bushels of corn, valued at $65,000,000, were raised; the wheat crop for the same year was 21,554,000 bushels, valued at $13,000,000; 14,500,000 bushels of oats were raised in the same year, valued at $5,700,000; the number of bales of cotton produced was 918,000, valued at $48,500,000; the income from the orchards is more than $2,000,000 annually, and the fruit crop is destined to become one of the most important productions of the State. Alfalfa, Bermuda grass, broom corn, tobacco, water melons, Castor beans and many other products are successfully grown. Oklahoma contains 70,430 square miles, or 45,075,200 acres, enough land to make 281,720 farms of 160 acres each. The population of the State, according to the census recently made by order of the President, was 1,414,177. There are ninety-six towns of over 1,000 population each. Those who have not been here are apt to think because this is a new country, it not having been open to settlers but a few years, that the citizenship does not compare very favorably with that of the older States. But this is a mistaken idea. After having met a number of the professional men of the State, and having found them to be highly educated, polished gentlemen, I am thoroughly convinced that they would be recognized as men of intelligence, honesty and sobriety in any of the old States. It is with great pleasure that we Mississippians have watched the career of United States Senator T. P. Gore, formerly of Mississippi. I had the pleasure of knowing him when he was quite a young man and lived at Walthall, Miss. Well do I remember when he used to captivate his audiences when he was but a [illegible] that his mental growth ar[illegible] more than transcended the [illegible] tations of those who knew him [illegible] boy. I predict for him a future [illegible] mighty victories and great achievements.

We are comfortably and happily domiciled in the beautiful and progressive little city of Sallisaw, which has a population of about 3,500. It [is] the county site of Sequoyah County, named in [hon]or of the great Cherokee Indian, who, it is [said,] invented an alphabet for his people, and is reputed to have been one of the wisest [of] the Cherokees. Our people have recently [voted] for the issuance of $60,000 worth of bonds [for the] purpose of putting in water works. Our [illegible] School, which requires ten teachers, does [illegible]ent work, and is the pride of the town. [To m]eet the growing demands, our people voted [last w]eek to issue bonds to the amount of $25,-[000 f]or the purpose of erecting a more commo[dious] school building, and the Board hopes to [have] it ready for occupancy by the 1st of Octo[ber]. There are three strong banks in the town, [in] a prosperous condition. We have ten law[yers] and seven physicians, the greater number of [the]m are from the best families of Mississippi [an]d Tennessee. The business streets, which are [b]uilt of brick and stone, are very attractive, and the watchword of every merchant is progress. The resident portion of the town is laid out in beautiful streets, some of which are lined with poplars, elms and maples, which serve the twofold purpose of adornment and protection from the sun's rays. We have a nicely-furnished church at the corner of Wall and Choctaw Streets, the parsonage being on an adjoining lot. The brethren who have preceded me have wrought well, as their works testify. Our membership is composed of the leading families of the town, men and women who are desirous of seeing our church grow and prosper along all the lines, and they give of their time, talent and means liberally and cheerfully.

I watch eagerly for the coming of the ADVOCATE each week to catch some of the news from my friends and brethren of the North Mississippi Conference.

With best wishes for the continuation of the success of your paper, I am fraternally,

JNO. H. ROGERS.

Sallisaw, Okla.

A GREAT MEETING AT BOND, MISS.

Some two months ago six or eight persons covenanted together to fast once a week and spend one hour each day in prayer for a revival. The result of this was in the teachers' meeting in the evening of the fourth Sunday in May, as they talked and prayed, the Holy Spirit fell upon them and it was a Pentecost to their souls. Here in the church on that Sunday evening the revival started. The week was observed as a season of prayer for the revival.

On the fifth Sunday Brother Howse came to us and remained for two weeks, preaching with power. In the beginning of the meeting about twenty of us agreed to fast every morning and spend one hour in prayer for the unsaved of the town.

We had three services a day for several days. Brother Howse preached three times a day for a few days, and then twice each day. At 4 o'clock we held at the Baptist Church a special service for men, and at the Methodist Church special service for women. These were services of deep interest and great power, and much freedom. The result was a deep spirit of conviction fell upon the entire town, and men and women were saved by the score. We estimated that [illegible] hundred persons were converted and [illegible] [fa]thers and mothers, sons and [daugh]ters, [neighbors] and friends were born into [illegible] [illegible] meeting so [illegible] in results. [illegible] the church, som[e] [illegible] joined the Baptist Ch[urch] [illegible] were erected. Many will no[t] [illegible] and a large number are subscribing fo[r the AD]VOCATE. Bond will be a strong, efficient church now in the Master's service.

We have had a meeting at Brooklyn, but results were not so gracious. There were seven accessions. Brothers Harbin and Howse did excellent service. We are planning to have a great revival at Brooklyn in August.

Our Epworth Leagues are doing good work at each of the churches. May the Lord come in mighty power and save the lost.

W. D. DOMINICK.

FROM THE COLPORTEUR.

After a strenuous itinerary of several weeks among District Conferences and other meetings, the colporteur has enjoyed a brief outing.

I cheerfully accepted an offered trip to Nashville, Tenn., whither I went June 13, and spent a delightful week attending the exercises of Vanderbilt commencement and the Bible Institute, and visiting and inspecting our great Publishing House. During my stay I was invited guest of the home of Brother I. G. Campbell, who was the genial representative of the house to our Conferences last December.

This was my first visit to the new Publishing House, and I can truly say that it fully measures up to my highest conceptions of building, capacity, equipment, work and variety of stock kept in store. It is certainly worthy of all honor and patronage of the Church.

Several of the office men were absent, but all with whom I met treated their visiting fellow-laborer with every token of brotherly kindness and courtesy.

Since this visitation and insight into this great institution of ours, I feel that I can better represent it than ever before, and I trust more efficiently. We are glad to announce the appearance of the second volume of Jones' "History of Methodism in Mississippi." It is ready for sale, as is also a new edition of the first volume. I am prepared to fill orders. Let them come rapidly. Surely every preacher and many others will get it without delay. "Revival Praises" is the song book for the revival meeting. A good stock is on hand. Let your orders be sent in due time for your meetings. G. W. BACHMAN.

Winona, Miss.

DISTRICT CONFERENCE.

The Arcadia District Conference will convene at Bienville, La., July 28-31, 1908. Preachers and delegates will please come to the church as soon as they get off the train.

S. P. DAVIS, P. C.

TO THE PASTOR.

If you will send in the names of the post-offices on your charge, we will send you a list of the subscribers on your work. You will find this a great help in securing renewals and new subscriptions. Put the ADVOCATE in the homes of your people, and you will have an assistant, unfailing in its visits, and doing you good all the time.

SEASHORE CAMP MEETING

From July 8th to 15th, 1908.

SPECIAL RATES.

No Admission Fee at the Gates of the Grounds During the Camp Meeting.

The management announces the Thirty-seventh Annual Camp Meeting, Seashore Camp Grounds, commencing Wednesday, July 8, and continuing until July 15. The cottages and grounds have been put in thorough order, and other improvements made, looking to the comfort and convenience of those who attend this meeting.

The religious services are under the direction of the Presiding Elders of New Orleans, Seashore and Mobile District Conferences of the M. E. Church, South, and these brethren will be assisted by the best preaching talent that can be obtained.

Preaching under the Tabernacle Grove, and Cottage Prayer Meetings, and other religious services, will be held during each day and evening, to which all persons on the grounds are not only cordially invited, but are expected to attend.

LOCATION.

The Seashore Camp Ground is located on the Mississippi Sound, seventy-nine miles from New Orleans and sixty-two miles from Mobile, on the Louisville and Nashville Railroad, and is one of the most beautiful places on the Gulf Coast. It enjoys a railroad service that is unexcelled for comfort and convenience. Magnificent new Artesian wells furnish cool and life-giving water. By a perfect system of water works the cottages and hotels are furnished with this water direct from the well.

The Grounds are Lighted by Electricity.

A pier twelve hundred and forty feet in length, with a Summer house on the end, extends out into the Gulf, and offers positively the most delightful advantages in the South for a promenade. The bathing is unexcelled by any other point on the gulf. All parties residing on the grounds have the privilege of the bath-houses. Good board can be secured at the restaurant, which is in charge of a competent chef, and in private houses at reasonable rates. The comfort and convenience of all visitors will be carefully looked after.

All Methodist preachers will be admitted into the Grounds and provided with board and lodging free of charge during Camp Meeting.

Persons wishing to secure accommodations before the rush of opening of Camp Meeting should address communications to R. G. Price, Keeper Seashore Camp Ground, Biloxi, Miss., or any of the undersigned officers.

Dr. E. L. McGehee, President, New Orleans, La.
Sam Meyer, Financial Secretary, New Orleans, La.

SEASHORE ASSEMBLY FOR CHRISTIAN WORKERS.

The ninth session of the Seashore Assembly for Christian Workers (formerly the Seashore Epworth League Assembly) will open Thursday evening, July 25, at the famous Seashore Camp Ground, Biloxi, Miss., and will conclude Sunday evening, August 2. The Assembly offers to Epworth Leaguers, Sunday School workers, and all others who desire to equip themselves for Christian work, courses in systematic Bible Study, Home and Foreign Missions, Epworth League Methods, and Personal Work. Devotional meetings will be held every morning in the Tabernacle and every evening on thqe Beach. The forenoons will be given to study, the afternoons reserved for recreation, and the evenings for inspirational lectures.

Lodging will be provided in the Epworth Lodge, owned and managed by the Assembly, for as many advance applicants as the Lodge will accommodate at $2.50 for the ten days of the session. Board can be had at restaurant or private table at 75 cents to $1 a day.

For further particulars address F. S. Parker, President, 810 Broadway, Nashville, Tenn., or C. D. Atkinson, Secretary, 734 Nashville Avenue, New Orleans, La.

ALEXANDRIA DISTRICT CONFERENCE

The thirty-eighth session of the Alexandria District Conference met at the Methodist Church in Natchitoches, La., June 11, 1908.

The [illegible]

[illegible] everywhere.

Despite the hard conditions of the present time the reports of the pastors were good. Several reported improvements made in church property. The host of the Conference reported that the parsonage at Natchitoches had been completely repaired and some additions made. Many of the pastors pleasantly tested the truthfulness of this report in visiting the well-appointed home of Brother Holt. The house is on a sloping hill-side, neatly mowed by much sweat of the pastor's brow, an admiring parishioner told the writer. On the east end the house is well above the ground. Here is the new addition, the pastor's study, and it would be a haven of rest to any preacher in the Louisiana Conference. Into this study the breezes come softly from Cane River.

Rev. R. H. Cross reported an expenditure of $800 on the church at Atlanta.

The pastor at Lecompte reported that the church at Cheneyville had been painted and furnished with factory-made pews, pulpit and chancel.

The beautiful new building of First Church, Alexandria, was said to be ready for the opening on the Sunday following by Dr. McMurry.

Several pastors reported good meetings and many added to the church as a result. Especially does the cause of the Master seem to be furthered at Tioga, in the Pollock charge, where the pastor was recently assisted in a gracious revival by Brother Finley. A total of about 200 were reported as received by profession of faith and certificate over the district. On the whole, reports showed that Sunday schools are doing well [illegible] district.

The cause of missions has not been neglected. Doubtless much of the interest along this line resulted from the Missionary Institute held at Alexandria in the early spring. The brethren there resolved prayerfully and earnestly to present the cause of missions more faithfully to their people. As a result seven charges reported their assessments for foreign missions paid in full, while others reported money collected, and a few said their assessments for domestic missions were paid or subscribed.

While the district is suffering great adversity, the brethren refuse to be discouraged. With the greatest flood, perhaps, ever known on the Red River, and thousands of fertile acres and promising crops under water, the outlook is, indeed, gloomy. Some of the pastors present actually met with difficulty and annoyance in getting to the Conference. If the time had been a week later, it would hardly have been possible for the Conference to meet at Natchitoches, for a large section of the Texas and Pacific Railway is washed away above Alexandria. Returning pastors, at one point, saw water splashing from the car-wheels. Alexandria itself is threatened, and men and mules are working hard to save the town and the rich Bayou Boeuf country below. Surely a sheet of water, tenement houses deserted, while here and there rows of corn tassels just above the encroaching water are trying still to wave a defiance in the face of the flood. But while our hearts are troubled and anxious, we are trying to be brave and trust in God, like the early preachers of this section who picked their way through the swamps and swam the swollen streams.

Apropos to this, the Conference passed a resolution [illegible] of the effort [illegible] Methodism [illegible] at present [illegible] Bowman [illegible] it should [illegible] early history of his charge and report to the Historical Commission of the Louisiana Conference.

The Committee on Resolutions brought in, in part, the following report:

1. We have carefully considered the subject of domestic missions in the bounds of the district and offer the following:

Whereas for a number of years the West Alexandria Church has received aid from our Conference Board of Missions, and whereas the building of First Church in its present site has largely obviated the necessity of the West Alexandria Church where it now stands, and whereas the removal of said church is not feasible at this time; therefore be it

Resolved, That it is the sense of this District Conference that the First Church and the West Alexandria Church should be consolidated, and that whatever work is necessary to be done in West Alexandria should be done under the auspices of the consolidated church, and that the property now held by the West Alexandria Church, or the proceeds from the rent or sale of same, should be set aside and reserved for the extension of Methodism in West Alexandria.

Resolved further, That this District Conference recommend to the presiding elder and to the pastors and the quarterly conferences of our churches in Alexandria that they confer and agree upon a plan whereby said consolidation shall be effected without friction or injury to Alexandria Methodism.

2. Whereas the domestic missionary problem of the Alexandria Conference is largely connected with saw-mills, and whereas these communities present grave and peculiar problems, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the presiding elder be instructed to name four members of this Conference, two clerical and two lay, who, with himself as chairman, shall constitute a commission, whose duty it shall be to gather data necessary to a thorough understanding of this subject, and formulate a plan of operation to be presented to the Conference Board of Missions as the recommendation of this District Conference.

3. Whereas many of the members of this Conference, both clerical and lay, have been kept at home by personal affliction, sickness in their families and other afflictions; therefore, be it

Resolved, That this District Conference express to them our sincere regret at their inability to be present with us, and our heart-felt sympathy with them in their affliction.

Resolved further, That, in view of the many disastrous circumstances that confront our people, we urge upon them that they and we shall accept these things as an urgent call for a closer walk with God and more self-denying effort for the interest of the kingdom of God among us, and that we all pray that the trial of our faith, being much more precious than gold, which perisheth, may be found unto praise and honor and glory.

5. Whereas there are pending before the present Legislature various measures for the moral reform of our State, therefore be it

Resolved, That the secretary of this District Conference be instructed to telegraph our representatives in the Legislature, urging them in the name of 2000 Methodists represented by this Conference to pass said measures.

6. Resolved, That we tender Rev. M. G. Holt and the people of Natchitoches our heartfelt thanks for their Christian hospitality, and that we heartily thank the authorities of the State Normal for an invitation to visit that institution, and express our appreciation of courtesies extended upon the occasion of our visit.

The members composing the committee making the above recommendations were Revs. [illegible] Harper, S. S. Bogan and R. M. Brown.

The presiding elder made an appeal for the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, and urged the pastors to raise their [illegible] during the month of June. He also recommended a mass meeting of laymen to be held in Alexandria, and asked the opinion of the Conference. It was decided to call upon each charge to elect delegates to a Laymen's Movement convention to be held at Alexandria in August.

Rev. J. D. Harper presented the cause of church extension, and Rev. [illegible] spoke in behalf of his chosen work, the Orphanage.

The licenses of local preachers were renewed, and D. [illegible] Bodin licensed to preach and recommended for admission into the Annual Conference.

The following delegates were elected to the Annual Conference: Hon. [illegible] and Brothers G. A. Hood and R. E. Boddie. Alternates, Brother R. F. Harrison and Rev. W. R. Whatley.

Jena was unanimously selected as the next meeting place of the Conference.

The report of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society was read and the pastors were urged to help further the work of this useful society.

Barring the small attendance, the meeting of the Conference was a delightful one. The preaching was good. Rev. S. S. Bogan preached the opening sermon; Rev. [illegible] Harper preached Friday night; Rev. H. [illegible] White Saturday morning; Rev. N. E. Joyner Sunday morning, and Rev. R. M. Brown Sunday night. On Saturday night the presiding elder delivered his instructive illustrated lecture [illegible].

The weather was fine, and people were never more hospitable than Brother Holt and the good folk of Natchitoches. While in their midst we were more and more impressed that Natchitoches is a strategic point in Louisiana Methodism. Students from all over the State come there to the Normal School, and our church at that point has a great opportunity for state-wide work. A great number of the Normal students regularly attend the Methodist Church, and were present during the Conference. The pastor is doing a great work in the Sunday school, and in other lines, but their present equipment is inadequate. They hope to build a brick church on a better site. But they cannot do this alone. They must have help. As this is clearly a matter of importance to the whole Conference, they expect help, and the writer has taken this space to speak of it. So we commend to the whole Louisiana Conference for consideration in the meantime a resolution by the District Conference endorsing the application of the Natchitoches Church for a loan of $2000 and a donation of $1000, and memorializing the Louisiana Conference to endorse said application.

Our visit to the Normal School was a pleasure, our stay in Natchitoches was thoroughly enjoyed, and as we looked back from the train upon the town, quaint and old—yes, the oldest in the United States—built upon the hills overlooking Cane River, we carried away only pleasant memories.

R. H. HARRIS, Sec'y.

Lecompte, La.

KEEP COOL For Refrigerators and Gas Stoves go to United Hardward Co., Ltd.,
1005-1007 Canal Street, New Orleans.

ESTABLISHED 1881
JOHN DAVID BURGHARDT CO.,
THE RELIABLE PLUMBERS and GAS FITTERS.
Agency: Bork's Patent Steel Ranges. Hygeia Water Filters.
612-616 Bienville St. Phone, Main 2000
Jobbing and Repair Work a Specialty. New Orleans, La.

Th[illegible]

THIS—ANOTHER D[illegible]

By Ruth Brooks.

Oh, beautiful morning, the emblem of another day,
In whose swift course we speed in silence on our way,
In thy path drift the shadows of darkness;
In thy folds are hidden the last of yesterday's ray,
And with the coming of the rosy dawn is born
This—another day!

And while the day is ours,
Fresh as the rose sparkling with dew,
So many are the buds of promise, radiant in their glorious hue!
Let not in idleness be spent these golden hours,
For quite too soon comes the evening of life,
And withered are the buds,
Gone is the dew.
All must be done in strife,
Lest before our tasks are through,
There break, through the horizon of time,
To-morrow—another day.

Time is a mighty river,
And as it moves on in its silent way,
Broken only by the birth of another day,
Many are the changes that are wrought;
But all we, His creatures, can do
Is to ask His tender guidance through
This—another day.

Port Gibson Female College, May, 1908.

"NO IF."

There was a knock at the door of Aunt Fanny's pleasant kitchen one morning, and on the steps stood a little girl with a basket on her arm.

Don't you want to buy something?" she asked as she came in. "Here are some nice home-knit stockings."

"Surely you did not knit these stockings yourself, little girl?" said Aunt Fanny.

"No, ma'am; but grandma did. She is lame, and so she sits still and knits the things, and I run about to sell them; that's the way we get along. She says we are partners, and so I wrote out a sign and put it over the fireplace, 'Grandma and Maggie.'"

Aunt Fanny laughed and bought the stockings, and as she counted out the money to pay for them, Maggie said: "This will buy the bread and butter for supper."

"What if you had not sold anything?" asked Aunt Fanny.

"You see, we prayed, 'Give us this day our daily bread,' and God has promised to hear when folks pray; so I guess there wasn't any 'if' about it. When he says things, they're sure and certain."—Selected.

THE MISSING FIVE CENTS.

Holding out his hand for the change, John's employer said: "Well, my boy, did you get what I sent you for?"

"Yes, sir," said John; "and here is the change, but I don't understand it. The lemons cost 28 cents, and there ought to be 22 cents change, and there's only 17 according to my count."

"Perhaps I made a mistake in giving you the money?"

"No, sir; I counted it over in the hall, to be sure it was all right."

"Then, perhaps, the clerk made a mistake in giving you the change?"

But John shook his head. "No, sir; I counted that, too. Father said we must always count our change before leaving a store."

"Then how in the world do you account for [illegible]ing 5 cents? How do you expect me to [illegible] story as that?"

[illegible] but his voice was [illegible] I can't. All I [illegible] to be sure [illegible] 5-cent piece that is [illegible] sleeve?"

John looked down quickly, and [illegible] the gleaming bit with a cry of pleasure. "Here you are! Now it is all right. I couldn't imagine what had become of that 5-cent piece. I was certain I had it when I started from the store to return."

"There are two or three things that I know now," Mr. Brown said, with a satisfied air. "I know you have been taught to count your money in coming and going, and to tell the exact truth, whether it sounds well or not—two important things for an errand boy. I think I'll try you, young man, without looking farther."

At this John's cheeks grew redder than ever. He looked down and up, and finally he said, in a low voice: "I think I ought to tell you that I wanted the place so badly I almost made up my mind to say nothing about the change if you didn't ask me."

"Exactly," said Mr. Brown; "and if you had done it, you would have lost the situation, that's all. I need a boy about me who can be honest over so small a sum as 5 cents, whether he is asked questions or not."—Pansy.

CHARLIE'S PRAYER.

Charlie's grandmother went often to the Old Ladies' Home to visit the inmates and cheer their hearts with little gifts of flowers or fruits, a sympathetic word or a whispered prayer.

Charlie had fallen in the way of going with her, until at last every week saw him helping grandma up the front steps of the Home. To be sure, the top of his head only came to grandma's elbow, but he felt very large and strong.

The dear old ladies in the Home grew very fond of their little visitor, and watched for his coming eagerly. His bright face was like sunshine to them in their quiet, uneventful lives.

One day old Mrs. Adkins fell sick, and she lay in her little room a long time. Because she suffered very much and grew no better, she found it hard to be patient; so grandma went often to see her.

One week grandma wasn't well, so Charlie went alone to see their friends. He went about from room to room, making a little call in each till he came to No. 19, where Mrs. Adkins lay. His heart ached with sympathy as he stood beside her and saw the tears in her eyes.

"Could I hold your head?" he asked, anxiously. "Mamma likes to have me when her head [illegible]ches."

"[illegible]hank you, deary. Your soft little hand [illegible] my pain. No one but God can [illegible]

[illegible] re[illegible]

"Sha[illegible] he had heard [illegible]

Even in her pain [illegible] but she only said, "I should be very gl[illegible]

Down went Charlie on his knees; his chubby hands were clasped and his blue eyes reverently closed as he said, "Dear Jesus, she is very sick, and she's suffering worse than if she had a bad headache. If she's too sick to be cured, please let her go to sleep and wake up in heaven. Amen."

Much relieved, he stood up and reached for his cap. Mrs. Adkins put her arm about him as she said, tenderly, "I think Jesus has helped me already, and I just want to tell you I'd rather God would answer that prayer than any other you could have thought of. I have so many dear ones waiting for me in heaven, and no one here any more. Good-by, little comfort."

The next time Charlie and grandma visited the Home the little room was empty, for Mrs. Adkins had gone to sleep a few days before and wakened in heaven.—Christian Work.

BELLEVUE POULTRY SUPPLY CO.

Everything in the poultry line: Chickens, Parrots, Guinea Pigs, Rabbits and Pet Stock of every description; Cyphers, Incubators and Feed at Factory Prices, may be had by writing us at 740 Camp St., New Orleans, La. Catalogue sent free.

THE SAFEST AND QUICKEST WAY

—TO—

TRANSFER MONEY

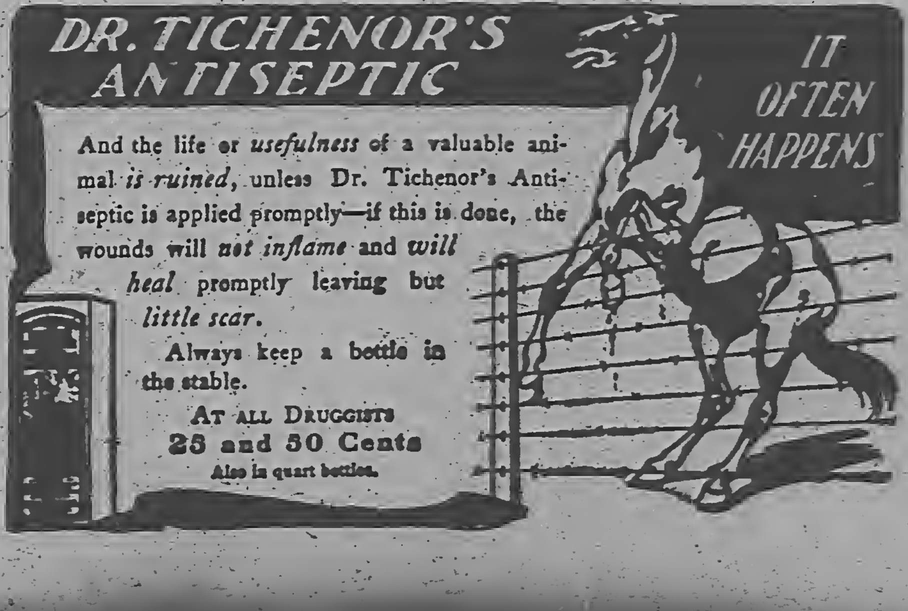
—IS BY—

Long Distance Telephone

FOR RATES APPLY TO LOCAL MANAGER.

Cumberland Telephone & Telegraph Co.,

INCORPORATED.



DR. TICHENOR'S ANTISEPTIC

IT OFTEN HAPPENS

And the life or usefulness of a valuable animal is ruined, unless Dr. Tichenor's Antiseptic is applied promptly—if this is done, the wounds will not inflame and will heal promptly leaving but little scar.

Always keep a bottle in the stable.

AT ALL DRUGGISTS
25 and 50 Cents
Also in quart bottles.

Christian Advocate.

REV. JNO. W. BOSWELL, D.D., Editor.
REV. H. WHITEHEAD, Ass't Editor.
CHAS. C. CHALMERS, Publisher.

[illegible]

TERMS

One Copy, one Year, [illegible] to Preachers of all Denominations, half-price.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEES:

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE—Rev. W. W. Drake, Rev. N. E. Joyner, Rev. J. M. Henry.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE—Rev. M. L. Burton, Rev. W. H. Lewis, Rev. C. W. Crisler.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE—Rev. W. T. J. Sullivan, D.D., Rev. J. T. Murrah, Rev. W. W. Woollard.

THE PRESIDING ELDERSHIP.

In the hurry of the last hours of the recent session of the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church the term "presiding elder" was changed to "district superintendent." The duties of the office remain unchanged, save the superintendent is relieved of the obligation of attending the second and third Quarterly Conferences. Of all this, however, we are not so sure, since, as one authority has said, as "presiding elder" is substituted by "superintendent," it is possible to appoint a layman to the place. Judging by intimations which are seen in some of the ADVOCATES, the superintendents will not have time to hold the Quarterly Conferences, were they ever so much disposed. The districts will probably be enlarged, and the number reduced to the minimum.

Is there any significance in this change? Those who favor it say that "superintendent" is more in accordance with the nature of the office than "presiding elder." This is not apparent to one fully acquainted with the polity of Episcopal Methodism. To us it seems to be the beginning of the end of the office itself. Under the regime as outlined, with doubling already large districts to twice their present size, the office will break down of its own weight; and circuits and stations which can do without the superintendent at the second and third quarterly meetings will naturally conclude, as some city charges have already concluded, that they can get along without his presence and help altogether. The change is the result, in part, of the fight that for years past has been waged against both the presiding eldership and the Episcopacy.

But it is really wonderful what beauty and adaptation some of the brethren find in the name "district superintendent." The term "presiding elder," they say, never did describe the office. May be so. District superintendent, likewise, would be meaningless, if the Discipline did not define the duties of the man.

The Congregationalist, alluding to this action, says: "There will be no more Methodist officials known as presiding elders, for the last General Conference, against some opposition it is true, decided to change the name to district superintendent." The Congregationalist presumes that the Methodist Episcopal Church is the whole of Methodism. It ignores the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, else does not know that it is a separate and independent jurisdiction, with 11,891 preachers, local and traveling, and more than 1,700,000 members, who still retain officials known as presiding elders. It is such indifference towards the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, to use as soft a word as possible, that causes so many Methodists in the North to [illegible] of superiority. Even some Meth- [illegible] North, judging by the way they write, [illegible] that such a thing as the Methodist [illegible] Church, South, is in existence.

PREACHER FINED IN COURT.

A bit of news comes to the public through the Associated Press dispatches to the effect that a celebrated evangelist, and a very popular one, was indicted by a grand jury and prosecuted for "using profane, obscene and vulgar language" in the presence of ladies—that, too, in the pulpit. He was found guilty and fined $200 and costs. We hope, for the sake of our Gospel and for the sake of our common humanity, that the report is exaggerated, or wholly false. But the circumstances, as related, look suspicious. A meeting was announced for "men only." The ladies, not knowing "they were not wanted," attended. It was in asking them to leave that the objectionable language was used. The preacher declares that he "will not rest under the verdict of the jury, and will carry the case as high as there is a court to be found in the effort to vindicate himself."

This incident will confirm the idea entertained by many that in these meetings for "men only" it is the purpose of the preacher to say things that women ought not to hear. That is the impression made on us, and, as we are of the opinion that women need the gospel—strong gospel—as much as men, and that a preacher has no right to say anything in the pulpit to men that he should not, or could not, with a good face, say before women, we have always kept away from meetings for "men only." To our mind such meetings, considering society as at present constituted, are not in accordance with the fitness of things.

It was never our misfortune to be afflicted by dirty talk but once. We happened to spend a night in a town in which a big evangelist was holding forth. He was in our church, and there presumably, to help our pastor. We attended the service. We got a seat near the pulpit, facing a packed audience in a big house. While the talk was in progress we heartily wished to be away, but we could not have left without making a noise and attracting attention. We grinned and endured it, but, like the pastor, we dropped our head for very shame. The pastor, dear, good man, like every other pastor who hires a bullying evangelist, had to sit still and say nothing. The man in the pulpit poured out slang in a stream—time and again saying things he would not have dared to say in the social circle. Any husband or friend of ladies would have resented such talk in private. What right had that man, as a minister of the gospel, to shield himself behind the pulpit to pour out slang and vulgarity before men and women? And that man held meetings for "men only."

If that man talked as he did before men in the presence of women, we dare say the manner of his talk before "men only" was unprintable. May his tribe cease to grow!

A PRACTICAL PROTEST.

At the Triennial Convention of the Protestant Episcopal Convention in 1907 a rule, or canon, was adopted, whereby, with the consent of the Bishop, a rector may invite non-churchmen to deliver addresses in his pulpit on special occasions. In adopting the rule, the authorities have taken pains, in a delicate way, to inform non-churchmen that they are to be invited, not as ministers, but as laymen. The action of the Convention was only a small concession to the prevailing spirit of Protestantism, but it was far too much for some ultra ritualists, and they have protested in the most practical way possible. They have bolted and gone over to Rome, where they will neither care nor be allowed to exercise anything like Christian liberality. Five or six clergymen, all in Philadelphia, if we mistake not, have united with the Roman Catholic Church, one of the number carrying with him about forty of his parishioners. The clergymen have been baptized, and, it is said, will prepare themselves for orders in the church. Their going created no sensation.

PERSONAL.

We have received a card announcing the marriage of Rev. J. S. Purcell, pastor of Second Church, Baton Rouge, La., to Miss Lessie May Harper, June 24, at Stark, Miss. The bride and groom have our best wishes.

Rev. A. C. Anderson, late a student at Millsaps College, has been appointed to the pastorate of Blue Springs, North Mississippi, made vacant by the death of Rev. T. J. Wilson. He will occupy until the meeting of Conference.

We note with great pleasure the election of our friend and brother, H. H. White, of Alexandria, La., to the Board of Trust of Vanderbilt University. This election will be heartily confirmed by the General Board of Education.

Since our notice in a recent issue of the great success of Rev. J. A. Bowen in his Holmes Street Charge, Huntsville, Ala., he has received more members into the church, making an even hundred since appointment to that charge. We greatly rejoice with our dear brother.

We had the pleasure on Monday last of a good talk with the venerable Rev. T. J. Upton, who was passing through the city on his way to Jackson, La. He is in fine health, spiritual and bodily, and, of course, in good humor. His is a sweet and serene old age. He is looking forward.

We have received from Rev. W. S. Harrison a sketch of the life of Dr. T. C. Wier, of the North Mississippi Conference. It is as well to weave garlands around the head of a man while he lives as to wait to put flowers on his grave. The sketch was prepared by Brother Harrison for a book to be published. It will be read with interest by the hundreds of friends of Dr. Wier.

"Go away from home to hear the news." This old adage came to mind when we read in the Wesleyan, of Atlanta, June 25th, of the election of Dr. A. F. Watkins, of Jackson, Miss., as assistant secretary of the Board of Education. We congratulate the Board. Dr. Watkins is able to fill any office or order in Methodism. If he accepts the position our best wishes will go with him.

A good sister, who appreciates the ADVOCATE, writes as follows: "I thought I would be forced to discontinue my subscription, and I knew how I would miss the ADVOCATE. It is a good deal of company for me when I get through with my duties. I find pleasure in having it to read. So, rather than do without it, I [illegible] of laundry work every week [illegible] all he can do because of th[illegible] warm to do laundry, but I need [illegible] VOCATE." Such friends are greatly ap[illegible]

Dr. W. L. Watkinson, who has given [illegible] years of service to the Master in the Wesleyan Methodist Church of England, will visit the United States this summer. His first appearance will be at the Moody Institute, Northfield, Mass. He will then visit the west, closing his public work at the Winona Conference. Though not college-bred, Dr. Watkinson is not a "self-made man." He read books and studied men, and is far ahead in education and everything else of thousands who were more fortunate than he in early life.

We never read any paper (the Christian Advocate of New York not excepted) that we do not find typographical errors. We never let them escape our eyes and appear in the paper without a sense of shame, especially when they glare in proper names. We do not blame those who write for calling attention to errors when they occur, as does Brother T. W. Lewis, who, in his notice of Millsaps College, wrote "Dr. Alonzo Monk," not "Dr. Alonzo Meek," as we printed it. Notwithstanding, Dr. Meek sounds just as well as Dr. Monk. But we beg pardon, for nodding, all the same.

Dr. J. M. Weems, presiding elder of the Newton District, Mississippi Conference, in a note to this office, says: "The preachers are hard at work and are hopeful of splendid success. Brother J. W. Chambers' health failed several weeks ago, and his work is being supplied by his son, J. C. Chambers. Brother Chambers is now at Longbeach, and is recovering his health slowly. Brother B. H. Rawls' health gave away, and his work is being supplied by Brother J. O. Ware. Let the Church remember these faithful servants in prayer to our Father for their recovery."

Rev. Walter W. Jones found things in good shape on Kossuth Circuit. He followed Rev. E. C. Sullivan. He likewise found good people —"no better people anywhere," he says. And he has been at work organizing Epworth Leagues, Woman's Home Mission Societies and prayer meetings. He looks after the Sunday schools, one being in operation at each of his six churches, and works for the ADVOCATE. Rev. J. D. Wroten is serving two of the churches, and they are doing well. Brother Jones is expecting a great revival this year. May his brightest expectations be realized!

ITEMS FROM PREACHERS' MEETING.

The New Orleans Preachers' Meeting met in regular session last Monday at 11 a.m. The Secretary furnishes the following notes:

Epworth Church needs a larger house of worship.

Rev. Mr. Zito, the Italian missionary, reports a successful night school, as well as a healthy Sunday school.

Second Church has organized a Layman's Brotherhood, with two-thirds of its male members enrolled.

Children's Day at Rayne Memorial was a great success, one of the features being the oral examination and promotion of the pupils to higher departments.

Rev. W. W. Holmes, of Louisiana Avenue, reports an attendance of 150 to 200 at his Sunday evening services.

First Church has had ten additions during the past month.

Rev. J. L. Sutton addressed the Preachers' Meeting on the Prison Reform Association work, and secured the name of nearly everyone present for membership in the Association.

Rev. Geo. Jackson, of the Louisiana Confer[illegible] was a welcome visitor to the Preachers' [illegible] and gave an interesting history of his [illegible]

[illegible] gave an echo of the recent [illegible] School Conference at [illegible]

[illegible] Louisiana Sunday School [illegible] talk to the prea[illegible]

Parker Memorial Sunday [illegible] the largest and best sc[illegible]

The Church House, under [illegible] is making progress.

Carrollton Avenue laymen are getti[illegible] to become a great power in that church.

SEASHORE CAMP MEETING.

Active preparations are now going forward for the Annual Camp Meeting at the Seashore Camp Grounds. The outlook for the meeting is encouraging. Some of the best talent in Southern Methodism has been engaged for the pulpit work. The music promises to be unusually fine under the direction of Prof. T. O. Adams, of New Orleans.

All gate fees have been abolished during the Camp Meeting services, from July 8 to 16, inclusive. By recent action of the Board of Trustees the season ticket, good for the entire six months, has been reduced to $1.

It is now contemplated by the management to secure a number of canvas tents, so as to enable them to offer an outing to children of charitable institutions during the heated term.

CHURCH EXTENSION.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

Mrs. Mary E. Jenkins, of Bowling Green, Durant District, North Mississippi Conference, has given $500 for church extension. The amount will go into the permanent Loan Fund, and will build churches annually to the end of time. When the Master shall return he will find this noble benefaction at work. Who can estimate the vast amount of good that will be accomplished by this timely gift? Like that other Mary, our sister "hath wrought a good work."

J. R. BINGHAM,
Treasurer Board of Church Extension.

GOOD NEWS.

Mrs. Mary E. Jenkins, of Lexington, an old friend, sends me, through Brother Dorman, $500 for Millsaps College, $500 for Church Extension and $500 for the worn-out preachers. May her generous example prompt others to do likewise.

T. W. LEWIS.

HISTORY OF METHODISM.

Another edition of Vol. I, and the first edition of Vol. II, of the "History of Methodism as Connected with the Mississippi Conference, Methodist Episcopal Church, South," by Rev. John G. Jones, is now ready for sale by Smith & Lamar, Nashville, Tenn., and Rev. G. W. Bachman, colporteur, Winona, Miss.

"The shareholders have the privilege of receiving the amount of their paid-up stock in books." Order through the secretary of the Association.

Vol. II has 556 pages and brings the record to A.D. 1846. History of persons, churches and communities, valuable to all denominations, safely treasured in these two volumes, that cannot be obtained elsewhere. For further information write to J. A. B. JONES,
Sec'y M. M. H. P. A., Magnolia, Miss.

CAMP MEETING NOTICE.

The Bethel Camp Meeting will commence Aug. 6 and continue ten days. All preachers are cordially invited.

W. W. SIMMONS.

TREASURER'S REPORT,

Board of Missions, North Mississippi Conference, for May, 1908.

	Missions— Domestic.	Missions— Foreign.
[illegible]	$81.72	....
Gr[illegible]
[illegible] and [illegible]
[illegible]		....
[illegible]
B[illegible]		$15.00
Shelby [illegible]
Neblett		68.00
Durant District—
Lexington, J. W. Dorm[illegible]	.00	51.00
West Circuit, W. L. Stormen[illegible]	....	25.00
Kosciusko Circuit, W. H. Clarke.	.5.00	....
Corinth District—
Corinth Circuit, J. J. Garner......	31.00	....
Iuka, O. L. Savage	25.50	....
Winona District—
Inverness, R. A. Ellis	14.00	27.05
Webb, T. H. Porter	28.00	40.00
Sardis District—
Wall Hill, J. M. Huggins	15.00	17.10
Mount Pleasant, J. R. Wilson.....	23.00	....
Aberdeen District—
Verona, D. M. Geddie	....	5.00
Reported by W. S. Lagrone, Conference Evangelist	136.00	....
Total for month of May.......	$495.22	$248.15
Previously reported	1420.45	878.50
To date this Conference year...	$1915.67	$1126.65

RECAPITULATION.

	Assessment.	Paid.	To be p'd.
Domestic missions.....	$6,260.00	$1,915.67	$4,344.33
Foreign missions	11,475.00	1,126.65	10,348.35

W. E. M. BROGAN,
Secretary Board of Missions.

Twelve Good Reasons for Patronizing Grenada College.

First—The unexcelled Home Comforts, unequaled anywhere else in the State.
Second—The Health Conditions; we rarely require the service of a physician.
Third—Our unusually skilled corps of teachers, whom we were able to secure only by paying a salary much above that paid by other girls' schools of the State.
Fourth—The Fine Arts Department, unequaled in the State and unexcelled in the South. Our teacher of Art studied in Germany and France, and our teachers of Music are graduated from the best Conservatories of America.
Fifth—The Descriptive Course of Study, which is conscientiously carried out as indicated.
Sixth—The Lyceum Course, which is superior even to that sustained in the University of Mississippi.
Seventh—The Library, which is fuller and better adapted than that of most girls schools of the South.
Eighth—Strong Christian Influence, dominating all instruction.
Ninth—Personal Attention to the Individual Pupil, with a view to develop the best even out of peculiarities of character.
Tenth—A superior Student Body as Associates, since most of the indifferent have been eliminated.
Eleventh—The Rates are lower than those of any other school doing the same grade of work, owing to the Conference Assessment, which gives us an income not possessed by other schools; further, we have no stockholders to whom we are forced to pay dividends, as are some private schools. Our patrons receive back in excellence of service more than they pay in.
Twelfth—All these superior features enable us to turn out a larger percentage of graduates, who take high stand in the educational world, than any other school in the State. It means something to hold a diploma of the Grenada College.
Register for Rooms at Once and Thus Secure Choice of Location.
W. L. CLIFTON, A.B., Ph.B., President.
Grenada, Miss.

Silliman Collegiate Institute,

CLINTON, LOUISIANA.

An endowed Christian school for girls and young women. You will find no better school of its grade in the South.
Healthful location in the hill country. Three handsome buildings. Beautiful, well-shaded campus. Electric lights. Steam-heat. All necessary equipment.
Scientific and classical courses leading to degrees. Special advantages in music, art, elocution, etc. For catalogue and information, address the president,
H. H. BROWNLEE, Clinton, Louisiana.

MAKE ICE CREAM FROM WATER

and a small quantity of condensed milk, if fresh milk cannot be had.

RECIPE.

½ pint condensed milk costs . . . .06c.
Add enough cold water to make one quart 00
One 13c. package JELL-O ICE CREAM Powder

[illegible]

AND YOU KNOW IT'S PURE.

Five kinds: Chocolate, Vanilla, Strawberry, Lemon and Unflavored.

2 packages 25c. at all grocers.

Illustrated Recipe Book Free.

The Genesee Pure Food Co., Le Roy, N. Y.

Obituaries.

Obituaries not over two hundred words in length will be published free of charge. All over two hundred words will be charged at the rate of 1 cent a word. Count the words and send the amount necessary with the obituary. That will save trouble all around.

MY NEIGHBOR'S LITTLE BOY.

In memory of little Robert Martin, son of Rev. Geo. P. and Mrs. Mary R. Fikes, died at the age of 6 years and 10 months, at Daleville, Miss.

When the birds sang sweet and the roses bloomed
A sorrow came my way,
A stinging sorrow that touched my heart
And lingered many a day.

But the whispered "peace, be still," did soothe
The heart that was robbed of joy—
'Twas only the angels that sweetly claimed
My neighbor's little boy.

I was proud of my neighbor's little boy,
For his was a spirit true:
And I pictured a future bright for him
When he to manhood grew.

I fancied he'd join the workers brave,
And glean in the fields of love,
Where reapers the sweet old story tell
A cause divine to prove.

To a tender memory my sorrow's grown,
And my heart knows peace and joy;
And life is "brighter for having known"
My neighbor's little boy.

ADA CHRISTINE LIGHTSEY.

Mrs G. A. F. WIMBERLY was born June 15, 1837, and died March 2, 1908. She was raised by Methodist parents, joined the Methodist Church when a child, in which she remained till her death. She was first married to James S. Pittman in 1857. He was killed in the Civil War, 1863. Ten years afterwards she married Ezekiel Wimberly. After he died she remained a widow till her death. Reared in affluence, she learned that life required Christian fortitude to meet its vicissitudes. Her last words were "Jesus my Savior." She was stricken and died suddenly with paralysis. She never had any children of her own, but raised one, a daughter of her sister. She had many friends. Written by one who loved her.

JOSIE S. COOK.

On March 9, 1908, God brightened the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Jobe with a darling little babe, but as it pleased him to give such joy to the home, it also pleased him to take the little one to heaven on the night of the [illegible] of May. This little one left two brothers and one sister, besides two good parents, who mourn the loss of the loved one. These parents are members of the M. E. Church, South, located at Pleasant Hill, six miles west of Corinth, Miss., and have the sympathy of a host of friends. The parents were very much [illegible] bereaved family.

JAS. D. WROTEN.

On Thursday, April 30, 19[illegible], the death angel visited the home of B. J. and Sister M. L. Garlington and claimed for its victim their loving daughter, MARY A., [illegible] years of age. She was a devout Christian, having united with the M. E. Church, South, at 11 years of age. She lived true to the Master up to the day of her death. She leaves a father and mother, two brothers and two sisters and a host of friends to mourn their loss. She was loved by all who knew her. She died in triumph of the living faith. Her suffering was great, yet she never murmured. She said she was glad to suffer for she knew it was for a purpose. She told those around her bedside she could see the heavenly host, and spoke two or three times during the day of its being a bright morning, and asked if she was not in heaven. We laid her away in the graveyard near Hopewell Church. May the comforting grace of our Heavenly Father abound unto the bereaved loved ones.

JAS. A. TAYLOR, P. C.

ELIZABETH A. GOODE (nee Rochester) was born Feb. 5, 1820, and died Dec. 26, 1907; was married to T. J. Goode, Dec. 24, 1837, her lifelong companion, who is in his 91st year. He went to her when she had breathed her last and leaning upon his staff, kissed her and spoke words of hope, saying that soon he would meet her in heaven. Seventy years of married life they had borne each others burdens and enjoyed each others pleasures. They reared nine children; two of them have crossed over the river. Mother Goode joined the M. E. Church, South, when she was young. She loved the church and was a devoted member—a good mother, a faithful companion and a kind and obliging neighbor. She is gone; but her Christian influence still lives to encourage us in our efforts to live for God and for heaven. The first song I learned was from my dear mother when I was a little child. She would sing, "Remember sinful youth, you must die," and another was, "Attend young friends, while I relate the danger you are in." Brothers and sisters, don't look down in the cold grave for mother, but look up higher and let us strive to meet her in the saints' bright home, where parting will be no more.

T. J. GOODE, JR.

HOW'S THIS?

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligations made by his firm.

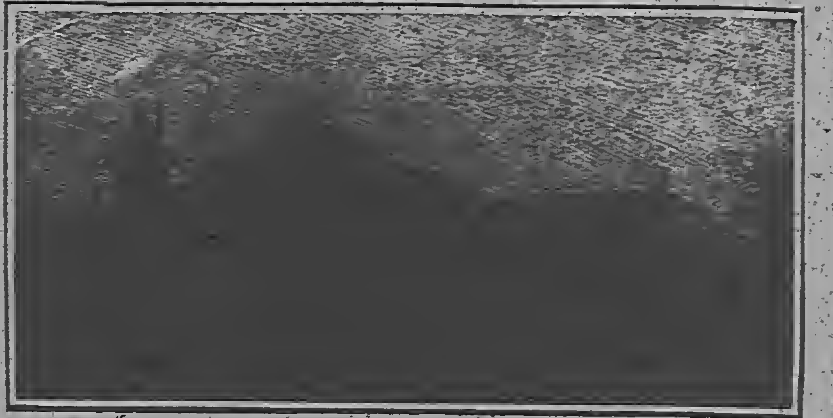
WALDING, KINNAN & MARVIN,
Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, Ohio.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Testimonials sent free. Price, 75c. per bottle. Sold by all Druggists.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

MOXINE CHILL TONIC
Only Tonic—one bottle—one cure.

Centenary Female College,
Cleveland, Tenn.



LOCATION—One hour from historic Chattanooga. "Prettiest town in all Tennessee." In mountain valley, above all malaria. Health of girls from South greatly improved.

FACULTY—Best American and European training. Teacher of Modern Languages, now studying in Germany.

RECREATION—Walks, drives, tennis, basket-ball, bowling, gymnasium, 634 ft. covered porches, physical culture, etc.

DEPARTMENTS—Thorough literary courses. Music Department under German Director. Art, Expression, Business.

Write for illustrated catalog to-day.

Alabama Polytechnic Institute

Only School of Technology in Alabama.

55 Professors and Instructors. 20 Well-Equipped Laboratories.

CHARLES C. THACH, M.A., LL.D., President.

AUBURN, ALABAMA.

Session begins Wednesday, September 2nd, 1908. Location high and healthful, 826 feet above sea level. Attendance, [illegible] students from 23 States and three foreign countries.

Courses of Instruction—Nine four-year degree courses. MINES, ENGINEERING, CHEMISTRY: (1) Mining, (2) Civil, (3) Electrical, (4) Mechanical, (5) Architecture, (6) Chemistry and Metallurgy, (7) Pharmacy. 35 professors and instructors. New Engineering Hall occupied. New machines and equipment in all laboratories. Students hold leading technical positions in Birmingham District and throughout the South. Only course of architecture in the South. New Library Building.

(8) History, Latin and Modern Language Course: English (4 years), Latin (4 years), History (4 years), French (2 years), German (2 years), Mathematics (3 years), Physics and Astronomy, Political Economy, and Physiology. [illegible] professors and instructors.

(9) Agriculture and Horticulture. 22 professors and instructors. (1) 3-year course in Pharmaceutical Chemistry, Ph.C. (2) 2-year course, Ph.G. (3) 3-year course in Veterinary Medicine, D.V.M. Only one in South.

New Dining Hall, also board in private families.

For catalogue and further information, address the President.

The Birmingham Dental College

OFFERS FINE ADVANTAGES FOR SECURING A DENTAL EDUCATION.

Over a hundred thousand people are in touch with the infirmary, furnishing abundant material for practice. Write at once for our catalogue.

CHAS. A. MERRILL, Dean.

708 First National Bank Building . . . . Birmingham, Ala.

Belmont College For Young Women

Nashville, Tennessee

[illegible] that education is not all from books [illegible] that character is in[illegible] surroundings [illegible] Belmont College.

[illegible] Preparation for all Colleges and Universities [illegible] course leading to degree of M.A. Music, Art, Physical Culture and Languages. Director of Music EDOUARD HESSELBERG, the eminent Russian pianist and composer.

[illegible] minutes by trolley from the center of Nashville [illegible] Many Northern as well as Southern [illegible] representing in all thirty-two States [illegible] Catalogue on request.

Rev. IRA LANDRITH, D.D., LL.D., Regent Miss HOOD and Miss HERON, Principals

LOW NOW ON SUMMER RATE

The place to get a good BUSINESS EDUCATION, to prepare for a GOOD POSITION, and to get ready for THE RUSH of the fall business is AT

DRAUGHON'S PRACTICAL BUSINESS COLLEGE

INDORSED by business men from Maine to California. Catalogue FREE; ask for IT.

Shreveport, Jackson (Miss.), Waco, Fort Worth, Dallas, Nashville, or Washington, D. C.

Classified Advertiseme

EDUCATIONAL.

LOW SUMMER RAT now on at Draughon's Business College, Nashville, lanta, Raleigh, St. Louis, Dallas, Little Rock, San Antonio, Memphis, Knoxville. Bookkeeping, Shorthand, Typewriting, Telegraphy, etc., taught. POSITIONS secured or MONEY BACK. Catalogue FREE.

AGENTS WANTED

PICTURE AGENTS. Portraits 40c.—16 x 20 Enameled Picture and Frame ready to hang 20c. Large line of subjects; 30 days credit. Catalogue FREE. S. M. FRIEDMAN & CO., Box 510, Martinsburg. Mo.

Sunday School

By W. B. Campbell.

LESSON FOR JULY 5, 1908.

Subject—"Israel asks for a king."—1st Samuel, viii.

Golden Text: "By me kings reign and princes decree justice."—Proverbs viii, 15.

The subject of our last lesson in the Old Testament was "Samuel, the upright judge." It was in December that we were learning of how God chooses a man for a particular work. Samuel was trained from his early childhood to be a judge of Israel, and his life and conduct in office throws a light behind him on the management of predecessors, which had been otherwise—yea darkness itself. Samuel had brought order out of chaos in the affairs of the children of Israel. It was a mighty task to accomplish, but it was the work of the Lord by the hands of a godly man. Samuel's administration would have been endowed by his being allowed a voice in the selection of a successor, but there was a drawback—a dark spot, a page of neglect in the history of Samuel. He had not done his whole duty in rearing his sons, and perhaps the people were afraid for the office of high priest to remain in Samuel's family.

It is a sad thought that so good a man should have so serious a charge against him; however, it is the only blemish on record in the life of this servant of God. Samuel's sons had shown themselves unfit to succeed their father, and a strong government was needed for the people. Perhaps none other but a monarchy would control a people so prone to fall into error. If that was really the case, there was no cause for them to neglect to seek the guidance of their God, who had so wonderfully led and preserved them in the past.

Samuel was displeased that the people should desire a king; yet he could not have been ignorant of his own failure to properly prepare a successor to himself.

Let us not pass over this lesson to parents as to training their children. It is well to take it seriously to heart in this day and time, when facilities for acquiring knowledge are so much enhanced, and the proneness to live is keeping pace with opportunity for doing good.

The children of Israel sinned in two ways: first, they did not seek the counsel of God; and, second, by desiring a king they were virtually dethroning God, who had been to them more than king. Yet the Lord did not abdicate his throne. He who was at any time king was so under the reign of the Almighty. It might have been God's will and purpose to provide a king over Israel, but he does not ask the aid of any to designate the time, opportune or otherwise. Israel was presumptuous, and the people were punished by having their prayer answered, as we will see. "Let them have a king," the Lord told Samuel to tell them, and also tell them the kind of a king they would have.

Their prayer had been made, not in submission to God's will. It is often disastrous to pray for anything that we hesitate to ask God to bless. Jesus taught us the spirit of prayer when he wanted the cup to pass from him that night as he prayed in Geth- [illegible] ther, not as I will; [illegible] That is the safest [illegible] to pray. [illegible] of God [illegible] danger of [illegible] their [illegible] choosing. [illegible] God's [illegible] teach [illegible] letting them have their [illegible] There is an abounding [illegible] be self-willed, in face [illegible] solemn and reasonable war[illegible]

Samuel delivered the message [illegible] by the Lord, and his closing words were: "In that day, when you find all I have said relative to a king of your choosing, and you cry unto the Lord for relief, the Lord will not hear you, for the choice is your own, not God's." "Nay," said the people, "we want a king; we want to be like the nations around us."

God had named Israel a peculiar people, in that they were not to be as the other nations. They were to be known as a nation having God as their King. There are many among those styled by the world as religious who are not peculiar enough to condemn wrong. Shall we be members of the Church of Jesus Christ and be nothing different from worldly people, with whom we associate? "Be not conformed to this world, but be ye transformed," was written to all Christians everywhere. It takes a man of courage these days to live every day, in business and out of it, a life close to the Lord Jesus—a man who cannot be overcome by scoffers, and one who has the courage to confess his Lord among those who call his name more often than he does, but, alas, in blasphemy.

Israel did not want to be peculiar; neither does the nominal Christian. The restraint of keeping the Sabbath and abstaining from worldly pleasures tends to make them too conspicuous. Nicodemus and Joseph of Aramathea believed in Christ, but not openly for fear of persecution. The same kind of fear affects some, who dislike large congregations on Sundays, when they must publicly confess the Lord "meekly kneeling on their knees;" only the persecution is self-afflicted in their case.

O for more of the old-time experience meetings, when God's peculiar people assembled to tell the world what great things the Lord had done for their souls. If the children of Israel were granted a king, he must come of God's choosing after all, for by him kings reign, whether they be good kings or no. So if the rules of discipline do not circumscribe the actions of church members, whatever events transpires in their lives are still directed by the same Lord they have been prone to leave. Though these grow cold and stray far away, there comes a time when they "would fain feed on the husks the swine eat," and they can arise and go to the Father whom Jesus said sees them a great way off. God's long-suffering kindness is presumed on by many to the danger line, where they might hear, "I never knew you."

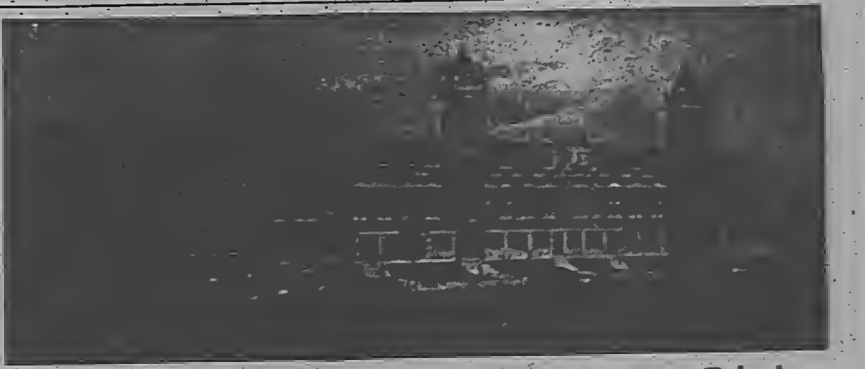
"O that men would praise the Lord for his goodness, and his wonderful works to the children of men," was the oft-repeated prayer of David, and that is our prayer now and always. Now, when so many seem galled under the righteous rule of Godly living, they want to be like others who seem to owe allegience to no one. Let us not be as these, but rather let us say, "For me to live is Christ;" for the world knows a man to be religious sooner than it is expected. Let us learn more of the length and breadth of God's love, and then our contentment will be founded on his promise: "All things work together for good to them that love God."

Argo Red Salmon was awarded the Grand Prize (the highest ever given) at the World's Fair, St. Louis.

MOXINE
Cures LAGRIPPE and Colds.

GOOD COFFEE
DEPENDS UPON
QUALITY – FRESHNESS – BLENDING
ROASTING – MAKING
[illegible] YOU BUY
LUZIA[illegible] COFFEE
You are [illegible] upon the
First Fou[illegible]
You can't possibly ma[illegible]
if you use LUZIANNE
Sold Everywhere 25¢ 1 lb. Can
THE REILY-TAYLOR CO.
NEW ORLEANS, U.S.A.

LUZIANNE
COFFEE
LUZIANNE
COFFEE



The Blackstone School for Girls

Has since 1894 given "Thorough instruction under positively Christian influences at the lowest possible cost."

RESULT: It is to-day with its faculty of 32, its student body of 403, and its plant worth $125,000

The Leading Training School for Girls in Virginia

$150 pays all charges for the year, including table board, room, lights, steam heat, laundry, medical attention, physical culture, and tuition in all subjects except music and elocution. For catalogue and application blank address

JAMES CANNON, Jr., M. A., Principal, Blackstone, Va.

WARD SEMINARY

Purpose The purpose of the school is to do serious and honest work in the Christian education of girls and young women.

Courses Seminary, Special, and College Preparatory Courses: French and German under native teachers. Art, life model. Expression, three years' course.

Conservatory of Music. Seven piano teachers, two voice teachers, etc. Thirty new pianos.

Advantages Nashville excels in climate, healthfulness, and social culture. It is the educational center of the South, and affords unusual advantages in lectures, recitals, and other opportunities for practical education.

Every facility for physical culture is afforded Tennis, bowling, etc. Beautiful city campus of ten acres, and suburban campus of forty acres.

Only one hundred and seventy-five boarding pupils are received.

Indorsement Nearly half a century of increasing public favor and success. Patrons say: "Ward Seminary is an ideal Christian home." "The work done in Ward Seminary is of an unusually high order, and the religious tone the best." "The social life of the Seminary is of the very highest order." "My daughter has enjoyed in your school the best health she has had since she was twelve years old." "We can scarcely find words to thank you for what you have done for our daughter."

The Forty-fourth Year Begins September 24. Early Application is Advised.

For Catalog, Address J. D. BLANTON, President, Nashville, Tenn.

Randolph-Macon
Woman's College
Lynchburg,
Virginia.

Classed by the U. S. Commissioner of Education as one of the fifteen "A" colleges for women in the United States. Four Laboratories; Astronomical Observatory; Gymnasium; boating course, etc. Fifty acres in the campus. Endowment reduces cost to students to $200 a year for full literary courses. For catalogue, address WM. W. SMITH, A. M., LL. D., President.

[illegible]rth College

(FOR YOUNG LADIES)

It is a w[illegible] the house. [illegible] reason, woman [illegible] on a woman, th[illegible] man.

This explains why s[illegible] Miss. are wrecks before 30 an[illegible] graves before 50.

[illegible]

WH[illegible] COLLEGE.

PORT GIBSON [illegible] COLLEGE,

Port Gibson, Miss.

68th Session Opens Sept. 23. 1908. Standard of Literary Work High. Music, Elocution, Art, Commerce, Sewing. Special Attention Given Health and Morals. Electric Lights, Artesian Water. Boarding Patronage Steadily Increasing. Trip to National Military Park, Mississippi's New Capitol, and State Fair—a Feature of Next Session.

Henry G. Hawkins, A. B., Pres.

BELLHAVEN COLLEGE

FOR YOUNG LADIES

JACKSON, MISSISSIPPI.

J. R. PRESTON, A. M., President.

Fifteen highly qualified instructors. Ten-acre campus and all modern comforts. Excellent table and courteous management. Patronage solicited from cultured homes. Sound instruction and satisfactory progress guaranteed. Fifteenth session opens Sept. 16, 1908.

BELVIRINO

A PROGRESSIVE COLLEGE FOR YOUNG LADIES.

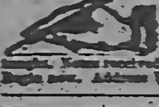
WEST POINT, MISSISSIPPI.

EDWIN W. DORAN, Ph., D., PRESIDENT.

Fine buildings, accommodating 200 boarders. Cultured Teachers in Literary Department, Music, Expression, Art, Commercial Branches, Physical Culture, etc.

REDUCED RATE FOR 1908-9, $175.

Next term opens Sept. 8th. Send for Catalogue.



WILBUR R. SMITH BUSINESS COLLEGE

Medal awarded Prof. Smith at the World's Fair.

SUMMER SESSION

Bookkeeping and Business, Shorthand, Typewriting and Telegraphy taught. Ladies received. Situations—10,000 graduates in business. Begin now. Address WILBUR R. SMITH, Lexington, Ky.

MERIDIAN WOMAN'S COLLEGE

CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC

LARGEST IN THE SOUTH

Young's Business College, Vicksburg, Miss.

If you are interested in business education send your name NOW for a booklet we are getting out; entitled, "For They Themselves Have Said It."

The Health Board of the City of New Orleans is planning to carry on a wholesale campaign against rats. They expect to infect a number of rats with a disease that is fatal to them, and then turn the infected rodents loose, expecting them to carry the contagious disease into rat headquarters and cause a plague among them.

There are mutterings of revolution all over India. The principal factor that preserves peace is the fact that India is not a unit as we ordinarily consider it. There are many diverse nations, with many different languages. There are several thousand different [illegible] [illegible]ue and the breaking down of the lines of prejudice may some day produce an India that can throw off the British rule. It is also doubtful if they would want to, when they have reached the point of development that would give them the power to break the yoke. When that time comes, it is likely that the leaders among the natives will prefer such a relation to the British Empire as Canada now holds, rather than absolute independence.

BLOOD POISONING POSITIVELY CURED

Hereditary, primary, secondary and tertiary. Scrofula, Eczema, Blood and Skin Disease. If you have exhausted old-time methods, and want to get well, write me in fullest confidence for proof of cures. Take my treatment and get well. A. A. BROWER, M. D. San Antonia, Tex.

Once more there is no living ex-president. Grover Cleveland, who died the 24th of June, was laid to rest in Princeton, N. J., on the 25th. The funeral services were marked by extreme simplicity. The president of the United States was there, and many notable persons, but there was no attempt at display. A strong man has gone. Whether men agreed with his views or not, all must agree that he was not a reed shaken by the wind.

The civil troubles in Persia are quieting down. The Shah has granted a general amnesty to all except those now under arrest. Those who are now awaiting trial will be tried by a commission. The Persian Minister to Germany claims that while the Persian Parliament may have erred on many occasions, owing to the manner of its election, yet constitutional government has come to stay. He believes that the Parliament is the only guarantee of national independence for Persia.

ARGO, ARGO, ARGO, ARGO, ARGO
ARGO, ARGO, ARGO, ARGO, ARGO

A partial eclipse of the sun on last Sunday morning brought out all the smoked glasses. The moon was too far away from the earth for this eclipse to be total at any point, so that the scientists did not pay the attention to it that they do to a total eclipse.

THE UPPER ROOM.

Who Condemneth Not Himself.

Happy is he that condemneth not himself in that thing which he alloweth.—Rom. xiv. 22. Apply that rule to your daily life and you will soon settle the questions about a pleasure or business. Can I go into partnership with one who serves man and the devil? How can Christ have fellowship with Belial? Do not deceive yourself with the idea that you are going to do good. If you make yourself one with the world on the plea of raising the world to God, you know that you will have to pay for it in the day of the Lord's settlement.—H. W. Webb-Peploe.

A few agitators and anarchists are trying to stir up trouble in Mexico, and are using the protection of the border to further their plans. Mexico has asked the United States to help preserve the peace.

A GOOD PIANO, PIANO PLAYER or PLAYER PIANO see the Grunewald's Before You Buy.

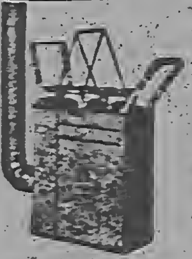
Agents for the Latest Improved and best Instruments on the Market.

METHODIST BENEVOLENT ASSOCIATION.

The Connectional Mutual Benefit Brotherhood of Southern Methodism.

1. Membership composed of ministers and laymen of the Southern Methodist Church. 2. Benefit payable at death, or Living Benefit on becoming disabled. 3. Over $50,000.00 paid beneficiaries to date. If under fifty and in good health, write for full information.

METHODIST BENEVOLENT ASSOCIATION, Care Methodist Publishing House, Nashville, Tenn.



Can Fruits and Vegetables at Your Home!

THE WILSON CANNER pays for itself promptly in the price of canned goods saved. Gives better results, saves time and fuel. It is the perfection of clever mechanism, easily operated in doors or out, needing neither cook stove nor furnace; cannot rust or burn out. Write at once for circular.

The Wilson Canner Co., 2d St., Cochran, Ga.

DICKSON COLLEGE, DICKSON, TENN.

A select home school for both sexes; ideal location on the summit of the Highland Rim of Middle Tennessee. No malaria; pure air, crystal waters, splendid buildings, strong faculty. A practical school that makes practical men and women who do things. The school for the masses. Gives everybody a chance. Literary. Commercial. Telegraphy. Music. Elocution. New year begins Tuesday, Sept. 1, 1908. Expenses lower than anywhere else in the world. Write postal card for beautiful catalogue. Address,

T. B. LOGGINS, A. M., President, Dickson, Tenn.

DANDRUFF

Is a form of skin disease peculiar to the scalp. Properly treated it is as easily cured as any other skin trouble, but you must have an agent that will not only kill the germ and assist nature in healing the sores, but will lift the scales and tiny germs from the pores and channels of the skin so that the surface shall be clean for nature's action.

Tetterine does all this; it not only kills the germs but breaks up the cake like formation on the scalp and leads to a permanent cure. Try it.

Tetterine is an unequaled remedy for eczema, pimples, tetter, ringworm and other skin diseases. 50c at your drug store or by mail on receipt of price. Shuptrine Co., Savannah, Ga.

WANTED.

Refined Young Ladies as Pupil Nurses,

GULF COAST HEALTH RESORT, Biloxi, Miss.

The Ingleside House, Hendersonville, N. C. Ideal place to spend the Summer. House just completed, newly and elegantly furnished. Beautiful view from all rooms. All modern conveniences. Special rates to parties or families. Miss Gussie Winter, Proprietress.

TEACHER WANTS POSITION.

A graduate, two degrees; good testimonials, can teach anything in the college course. Prefers languages in a college. Address

MISS ADA HOLLADAY, Oak Grove, Miss.

HENDERSONVILLE, N. C.

"Pine Grove Lodge" will be open for guests after June 1. Delightful location; special rates for June.

Address, Mrs. E. C. Bedell.

"THE DEVIL OF TO-DAY."

His work in the Home, Church, Society, Business, Politics and every walk of life. A book portraying the grave dangers found in all conditions of life. Pitfalls and methods of escaping them. A warning note to save young men and women from wreck and ruin. This great work contains more than 500 pages. A single copy will be mailed to any address on receipt of the price, $1.25. We want agents to sell the above book with a full line of standard subscription books, Red Letter Family and Teacher's Bibles. Catalog will be sent free. This is your opportunity to make money. Write to-day.

MENTION THIS PAPER.

PHILLIPS-BOYD PUBLISHING CO., ATLANTA, GA.

Do You Hear Well?

The Stolz Electrophone—A New Scientific and Practical Invention for Those Who Are Deaf or Partially Deaf—May Now be Tested in Your Own Home.

Deaf or partially deaf people may now make a month's trial of the Stolz Electrophone on payment of a small deposit. This is unusually important news for the deaf, for by this plan the final selection of the one completely satisfactory hearing aid is made easy and inexpensive for everyone.

This new invention U. S. Patents Nos. [illegible] and [illegible] renders unnecessary such clumsy, unsightly and frequently harmful devices as trumpets, horns, tubes, ear drums, fans, etc. It is a tiny electric telephone that fits on the ear, and which, the instant it is applied, magnifies the sound waves in such manner as to cause an astonishing increase in the clearness of all sounds. It overcomes the buzzing and roaring ear noises, and also so constantly and electrically exercises the vital parts of the ear, that usually, the natural UNAIDED hearing itself is gradually restored.

MRS. C. LIDECKA [illegible] Ave., Maywood, Ill., wears an Electrophone less conspicuous than eye glasses.

A Business Man's Opinion.

STOLZ ELECTROPHONE CO., Chicago.—I am pleased to say that the Electrophone is very satisfactory. Being small in size and great in hearing qualities make it PREFERABLE TO ANY that I know of, and I think I have tried them all. I can recommend it to all persons who have defective hearing.—M. W. HOYT, Wholesale Grocer, Michigan Avenue and River Street, Chicago.

Write or call at our Chicago office for particulars of our PERSONAL TEST on deposit offer and list of prominent endorsers who will answer inquiries. Physicians cordially invited to investigate. Address or call (call if you can).

Stolz Electrophone Co., 996 Stewart Building, Chicago.

CHURCH ELECTROPHONES.

We also make permanent installations of a special hearing apparatus in churches. This inexpensive device—Stolz Church Electrophone—enables every deaf member of congregation to hear the proceedings perfectly in any part of the edifice. Write for special booklet on Church Electrophones.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

New Orleans District—Third Round.

Slidell, at Talley's Chapel....July 4
Seashore Camp Ground.......July 12
Plaquemine ....July 19
Donaldsonville, at Plattesville July 26
Algiers ....Aug. 2
Louisiana Avenue ....Aug. 9
Felicity Street ....Aug. 16
First Church ....a.m..Aug. 23
Epworth ....p.m..Aug. 23
Rayne Memorial ....Aug. 30
Covington, at Fitzgerald......Sept. 5
Second Church ....Sept. 13
Carrollton Avenue ....Sept. 20
F. N. PARKER, P.E.

Arcadia Dist.—Third Round.

Haynesville, at Colquitt ...July 4, 5
Benton, at Benton ....July 8,
Simsboro, at P. Grove.......July 11, 12
N. Bossier, at Emma ....July 14,
Houghton, at Alberta ....July 15,
Bienville; at Bocruk ....July 18, 19
Arcadia ....July 25, 26
District Conference, at Bienville ....July 28, 31
Gibsland, at Mt. Moriah...Aug. 1, 2
Jonesboro ....Aug. 4,
Vernon, at Oakridge ....Aug. 5,
Minden ....Aug. 8, 9
Lisbon, at Tulip ....Aug. 11,
Winnfield ....Aug. 13,
Bernice, at Summerfield ..Aug. 15, 16
Ruston ....Aug. 18,
Ringgold, at Gr. Bayou....Aug. 22, 23
Lanesville, at Brushwood..Aug. 25,
C. Valley, at Sp. Hill ....Aug. 29, 30
BRISCOE CARTER, P. E.

Shreveport Dist.—Third Round.

Keatchie, at Bellham ....July 4, 5
Gr. Cane, at Keithville .....July 11, 12
LaChute, at Taylortown.....July 18, 19
Pleasant Hill ....July 22, 23
Pelican, at Bethel ....July 25, 26
Coushatta, at Lake End....July 28, 29
Wesley, at Holly Spgs.......Aug. 1, 2
Many, at Ft. Jessup ....Aug. 8, 9
Zwolle, at Lowering..........Aug. 12, 13
Mooringsport ....Aug. 15, 16
Ida, at M. Chapel ....Aug. 19, 20
Mansfield Circuit, at Sloan.Aug. 22, 23
Mansfield Station ....Aug. 23, 24
Hornbeck ....Aug. 26, 27
Leesville ....Aug. 29, 30
Bon Ami ....Sept. 5, 6
De Ridder ....Sept. 6, 7
Shreveport—First Ch. ......Sept. 9,
Noel Tob. ....Sept. 10,
Texas Avenue ....Sept. 13, 14
Provencal ....Sept. 15, 16
Greenwood ....Sept. 19, 20

The District Conference will meet at Grand Cane July 7 at 9 a.m. Every preacher and delegate is expected to be present at the beginning and to remain to the close.
T. J. WARLICK, P. E.

Baton Rouge Dist.—Third Round.

Ponchatoula, at P. ....July 4,
Hammond ....July 5,
Wilson, at Pine Grove ....July 18, 19
Clinton ....July 19, 20
Ethel, at Tunica ....July 26,
Baker, at Deerford ....Aug. 1, 2
Zachary and Slaughter, at Slaughter ....Aug. 2, 3
St. Francisville ....Aug. 8, 9
Jackson ....Aug. 9, 10
East Feliciana, at Camp Grounds ....Aug. 15, 16
Mt. Hermon, at Pine Ridge.Aug. 22, 23
Kentwood ....8 p. m..Aug. 23
Amite City ....8 p. m..Aug. 24
Independence, at Red Oak.Aug. 29, 30
Live Oak, at Friendship..Aug. 30, 31
Franklinton, at Angie.....Sept. 5, 6
St. Helena, at Darlington.Sept. 12, 13
Pine Grove, at Pipkins....Sept. 13, 14
Melville, at Melville.......Sept. 19, 20
New Roads ....Sept. 26, 27
Port Vincent, at Meadows..Oct. 3
Baton Rouge, 1st. Church..Oct. 4, 5
Baton Rouge, 2nd Church..Oct. 4, 5
R. W. TUCKER, P. E.

Monroe Dist.—Third Round.

Winnsboro, at B. Prairie ..July 1,
Rayville, at Oak Ridge ....July 4, 5
Monroe, at Monroe ....July 10,
W. Monroe, at Desaird.....July 11, 12
Farmerville, at Greenville..July 15,
Bastrop, at Humphries C...July 18, 19
Brookland, at Lapine ....July 22,
Gilbert, at Magnolia ....July 25, 26
Eros, at Calhoun ....July 29,
Bonita, at Jones ....Aug. 1, 2
Merrouge, at Collinston.....Aug. 2, 3
Downsville, at Wilhite ......Aug. 5,
Mangham, at Union ....Aug. 8, 9
Florence, at Ferriday ....Aug. 10,
Harrisonburg, at Vidalia....Aug. 11,
Floyd, at Midway ....Aug. 15, 16
Tallulah, at T. ....Aug. 16, 17
Lake Providence, at L. P...Aug. 17,
Waterproof, at Wesley......Aug. 22, 23

District Conference will convene July 7 at First Church, Monroe, La.
J. E. DENSON, P. E.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

Brookhaven Dist.—Third Round.

McComb and Fernwood, at McComb ....July 4, 5
McComb Centenary ....July 5, 6
Oloh, at Baylis Chapel.....July 11, 12
Columbia ....July 12, 13
Beauregard, at Matthew's..July 18, 19
Adams, at Ebenezer..Wed., July 22,
Bogue Chitto and Norfield, at Bogue Chitto ....July 25, 26
Magnolia ....July 26, 27
Pearlhaven, at Pleasant Grove ....Wed., July 29,
Brookhaven ....Aug. 1, 2
Gallman, at Georgetown...Aug. 3,
Monticello, at Tilton ....Aug. 6,
Tylertown, at Summers C..Aug. 8, 9
Summit, at Muddy Spgs....Aug. 12,
Topisaw, at Sartinsville....Aug. 15, 16
Pearl River, at P. Chapel..Aug. 23, 24
Wesson ....Aug. 30, 31

Pastors will please give attention to questions 17, 20 and 22.
GEO. H. THOMPSON, P. E.

Jackson Dist.—Third Round.

Thomasville, at Forest Hill,
Jackson, Capitol St., 11 a.m.July 5,
Jackson, First Ch., 8 p.m...July 5,
Fannin, at Holly Bush .....July 7,
Seminary, at Rawls Spgs...July 11, 12
Collins ....July 17,
Magee, at Pleasant Hill....July 18, 19
Sharon, at Soule's Chap....July 22,
Canton ....Aug. 2, 3
Pinola, at Rexford............Aug. 8, 9
Florence, at Monterey.....Aug. 11
Terry, at Spring Ridge....Aug. 12
Deasonville, at Dover.....Aug. 13
Benton, at Zeiglerville.....Aug. 15, 16
Flora, at Livingston.........Aug. 23, 24
Braxton, at Bethany.........Aug. 26
Yazoo City ....Aug. 30, 31
Lintonia, at Lake City....Sept. 1
Madison, Ridgeland, 11 a.m.Sept. 5, 6
Jackson, Rankin St., 8 p.m.Sept. 6, 7
Mount Olive ....Sept. 9
Eden, at Lodi ....Sept. 12, 13

The pastors are requested to give especial attention to Questions 17 and 22, and in both cases to present written reports. A. F. WATKINS, P. E.

Natchez Dist.—Third Round.

Gloster ....July 5, 6
Centerville ....July 12, 13
Liberty, at Glading ....July 18, 19
Hamburg, at McNair ....July 25,
Homochitto, at W. Chapel..July 26, 27
Caseyville, at Bethesda ....Aug. 2, 3
Wilkinson, at Rosetta ......Aug. 8, 9
Bethel, at Bethel ....Aug. 11,
Meadville ....Aug. 15, 16
Barlow, at Brandywine ....Aug. 22, 23
Bayou Pierre, at Pleas. R..Aug. 24,
Fayette, at Fayette ....Aug. 26, 27
Washington, at Pinegrove..Aug. 29,
Natchez, Pearl Street ......Aug. 29, 30
Natchez, Jefferson Street..Aug. 30, 31
Woodville ....Sept. 5, 6
Percy Creek, at P. C.........Sept. 7,
J. T. LEGGETT, P. E.

Vicksburg Dist.—Third Round.

Utica, at Learned ....June 27, 28
Harriston, at Martin ....July 4, 5
Edwards, at E. ....July 11, 12
South Warren, at Asbury..July 18, 19
Vicksburg, S. Washington Street ....July 24, 26
Vicksburg, Crawford St....July 25, 26
Hermanville, at Carpenter..Aug. 1, 2
Oak Ridge, at Bradleys C..Aug. 8, 9
Angullia, at Sunflower .....Aug. 15, 16
Bolton, at Brownsville ....Aug. 22, 23
Satartia, at Wesley Chapel.Aug. 29, 30
Rockey Springs, at Hickory Ridge ....Sept. 5, 6
Port Gibson, at P. G. ....Sept. 12, 13
Rolling Fork, at R. F. ....Sept. 19, 20
Silver City, at Holly Bluff..Sept. 26, 27
Mayersville, at Brunswick..Oct. 3, 4
G. H. GALLOWAY, P. E.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE

Greenville Dist.—Third Round.

Leland ....July 5, 6
Boyle, at Skene ....July 11, 12
Benoit, at Malvina ....July 14,
Clarksdale ....July 19, 20
Lula, at Lyon ....July 20, 21
Coahoma, at Dundee, 8 p.m..July 21,
Tunica, at Austin ....July 26, 27
Alligator, at Duncan ....July 27, 28
Rosedale, at Deeson ....Aug. 2, 3
Hillhouse, at Gunnison .....Aug. 3, 4
Cleveland Ct., at Lakeview.Aug. 8, 9
Cleveland Station ....Aug. 12,
Friar's Point, at Sherard ..Aug. 15, 16
Jonestown, at J. ....Aug. 17,
Robinsonville, at Pop. C....Aug. 19,
Glen Allan, at S. Greenv'le.Sept. 13, 14
Shaw, at S. ....Sept. 16,
Delta Mission ....Sept. 19, 20
R. A. MEEK, P. E.

Oxford Dist.—Third Round.

Water Valley Ct., Pine F...July 11, 12
Randolph Ct., Sarepta .....July 18, 19
Toccapola Ct., Tula ....July 25, 26
Abbeville Ct., at Union H.Aug. 1, 2
Charleston Ct., at Oak G..Aug. 8, 9
Red Banks Ct., at Mahon..Aug. 15, 16
Paris Ct., at Midway.......Aug. 22, 23
Grenada Ct., at Duck Hill.Aug. 29, 30
Waterford Ct., at Pine Mt.Sept. 4,
Holly Springs Ct., at Sylvestria ....Sept. 5, 6
Coffeeville Ct., at Antioch.Sept. 12, 13
Potts Camp Ct., Palestine.Sept. 19, 20
Ashland Ct., at Union H.Sept. 26, 27
J. E. CUNNINGHAM, P. E.

Winona Dist.—Third Round.

Schlater ....July 3,
Indianola ....July 5, 6
Winona Ct., at Salem.......July 11, 12
Moorhead, at Baird..........July 19, 20
Belzoni, at Sky Lake........July 25, 26
Webb, at Webb ....Aug. 1,
Minter City, Strathmore..Aug. 2, 3
Inverness, at Isola...........Aug. 8, 9
Ruleville, at Ruleville.......Aug. 9, 10
N. Carrollton, at McCarley.Aug. 15, 16
Vance ....Aug. 18
Mar's Hill, at Chapel Hill.Aug. 22, 23
Tom Nolen, at Lebanon...Aug. 29, 30
Slate Springs, at Cross R.Sept. 5, 6
E. S. LEWIS, P. E.

Corinth District—Third Round.

Corinth Ct., at Marvin...July 4, 5
Kossuth Ct., at Kossuth..July 12, 13
Guntown & Baldwyn, at B.July 15
Wheeler Ct., at Asbury....July 17
Corinth Station, at C.....July 19, 20
Iuka Ct., at Harmony.....July 25
Iuka Station, at Iuka.....July 26, 27
Tishomingo Ct., at F G...July 28
Marietta Ct., at Siloam...July 30
Booneville Station, at B..Aug. 1, 2
Mooreville and Saltillo, at Allen's Chapel.... Aug. 7
Blue Spgs. Ct., at Bethel..Aug. 8, 9
Mantachie Ct., at Shiloh..Aug. 15, 16
Belmont Ct., at Mt. Olive..Aug. 18
Booneville Ct., at Edges' Chapel ....Aug. 22, 23
New Albany Circuit, at Bethlehem ....Aug. 29, 30
Ripley and New Hope, at Dumas ....Aug. 30, 31
New Albany Station, at Glenfield ....Sept. 6, 7
Myrtle Ct., Union Hill...Sept. 8,
Rainey and Falkner.......Sept. 12, 13
Jonesboro Ct., Ebenezer..Sept. 15,
BEN. P. JACO, P. E.

Durant District—Third Round.

Durant Station ....July 4, 5
Pickens ....July 9,
Akerman ....July 11, 12
Rural Hill ....July 16,
Louisville ....July 18, 19
Chester (South Union).....July 25, 26
Ebenezer ....July 31,
Lexington ....Aug. 1, 2
Kosciusko Circuit ....Aug. 8, 9
Vaiden ....
West ....
McCool ....
Black Hawk ....
Sidon ....
Poplar Creek ....
S. M.

Columbus D

Columbus, F.
Columbus
West
Col
S
S
Shuquala..,
Winstonville, Mashu.........Aug. 1, 2
Macon ....Aug. 8, 9
Mayhew, Kilgore's Chapel..Aug. 15, 16
Mathiston, Providence ....Aug. 22, 23
Crawford, Trinity ....Aug. 29, 30
Sturges, Buel's Hill ....Sept. 5, 6
Brooksville, Xprairie ....Sept. 12, 13
Hebron ....Sept. 19, 20
Cedar Bluff ....Sept. 26, 27

Pastors will please see that Questions 17 and 22 are answered in full.
L. M. LIPSCOMB, P. E.

Sardis Dist.—Third Round.

Como ....July 5, 6
Sardis ....July 11, 12
Mt. Pleasant, at N. Salem.July 17,
Olive Branch, at Center Hill ....July 18, 19
Byhalia, at Fountainhead...July 25, 26
Coldwater, at Loucas ....Aug. 1, 2
Cockrum, at Greenleaf.....Aug. 8, 9
Wall Hill, at Marian ....Aug. 15, 16
Hernando, at Horn Lake...Aug. 21,
Pleasant Hill, at Indora...Aug. 22, 23
Harrison, at Tillatobla.....Aug. 29, 30
Courtland, at Chapel Hill..Aug. 31,
Eureka, at Lovejoy..........Sept. 5, 6
Batesville ....Sept. 12, 1
Tyro, at Malmaison ....Sept. 16,
Crenshaw, at Crenshaw...Sept. 19, 2
Longtown ....Sept. 25,
Arkabutla, at Harmony....Sept. 26, 27
W. M. YOUNG, P. E.

Newton Dist.—Third Round.

Montrose ....July 11, 12
Shiloh, at Clear Creek ....July 17,
Forest ....July 19, 20
Lake, at Conehatta ....July 21,
Taylorville, at Ocoha ....July 24,
Bay Springs ....July 25, 26
Raleigh, at Cedar Grove, by W. W. M. ....July 25, 26
Morton, at Lindsey ....July 28,
Laurel ....Aug. 2, 3
Kingston ....Aug. 2, 3
Homewood, at Gasque .....Aug. 7,
Trenton, at New Prospect..Aug. 8, 9
Hebron, at Pleasant Ridge.Aug. 15, 16
Ellisville, at Richton........Aug. 22, 23
Chunkey, at Sageville .....Aug. 27,
V. and H., Sandersville ...Aug. 29, 30
Decatur, at Good Hope....Sept. 12, 13
Newton ....Sept. 16,
Neshoba, at ——...........Sept. 18,
Philadelphia ....Sept. 19, 20
Indian Mission ....Sept. 21,
Edenberg, at Mt. Zion....Sept. 22,
Harpersville, at Good H...Sept. 24,
Carthage, at —— ....Sept. 25,
Walnut Grove, at—— .....Sept 26, 27
Rose Hill, at —— ....Sept 30,

Pastors will please give attention to questions 17, 20 and 22.
JAS. M. WEEMS, P. E.

Aberdeen Dist.—Third Round.

Aberdeen St. ....June 21, 22
Houston ....June 28, 29
Shannon ....July 4, 5
Tupelo ....July 6,
Buena Vista, at Ebenezer..July 11, 12
Okalona Sta. ....July 13,
Verona, at Plantersville....July 19, 20
Amory and Nettleton, at N..July 26, 27
Prairie, at Paln Chapel....Aug. 1, 2
Houlka, at Concord ....Aug. 6,
Palestine, at P. ....Aug. 8, 9
Pontotoc, at Harmony .....Aug. 10,
Montpelier, at Palestine...Aug. 15, 16
Vardaman, at Sharon ......Aug. 19,
Bounds, at Pleas. Ridge...Aug. 21,
Pittsboro, at Chapel Hill....Aug. 22, 23
Smithville, at P. Memorial.Aug. 29, 30
Aberdeen Ct., Riggan's C..Sept. 3,
Okalona Ct., at Tranquil...Sept. 5, 6
Nettleton Ct., at Shiloh ...Sept. 10,
Fulton, at Hopewell ....Sept. 12, 13
J. H. MITCHELL, P. E.

Women
Tenn.
B.A. and M.A. Eleven ... in Art, Physical Cul- ... beautiful ... Northern ... as well as ... their children educated ... number of pupils registered ... registration is necessary. Cata- ...
OD and Miss HERON, Principals.
GRAPH School YEARS

WOMAN'S WORK

It is a woman's work to look after the house, but, for some strange reason, woman's work is much harder on a woman, than man's work on a man.

This explains why so many women are wrecks before 30 and in their graves before 50.

[illegible] work—too [illegible] Cardui [illegible]

[illegible] and other distressful [illegible] result of female ills, [illegible] overwork.

Having cured thousands of other sick, miserable women, why should it not cure you?

Just read what Mrs. Sarah J. Hoskins, of Cary, Ky., says, in a recent letter: "I believe that Cardui saved my life. I suffered from various troubles for 9 years. I was irregular and would nearly cramp to death, every month. My back and side would nearly kill me. I tried everything to get relief, but failed, till I took Cardui. Now I can wash all day and do my housework with all ease." Try Cardui.

Epworth League

By Rev. H. Whitehead.

PRAYER-MEETING TOPIC.

July 5. Spiritual Vision and National Vitality. Prov. xxix. 18; Ps. xlvi.; Matt. iii. 5-12. (Independence Day; or, Christian Citizenship Anniversary.)

1. God in our National History. The Israelites learned through their prophets that Jehovah was directing their national affairs. To him they looked for guidance. To him also they looked for defense. The Christian citizen of this land should also learn the same lesson. The story of our national development is one long account of providential guidance. We see the marks of divine wisdom in the long process which made Protestantism the dominant religious force of the nation, which gave control of its political development to the descendants of liberty-loving Englishmen, which cemented our union and carried it through the stress of the Civil War, and which in these later years has so wondrously led our country forth unto world-wide responsibilities. Surely Americans are permitted to say in the Psalmist's words, "The Lord of hosts is with us; the God of Jacob is our refuge."

2. The Essentials of National Permanence. Our topic suggests a great truth. That truth is written large in the history of the world. The vitality of any nation is closely related to its moral and spiritual ideals. The guarantee of national permanence is to be found not in physical defenses, not in mighty armaments, not in fertility of soil, not in financial strength, but in the things of the spirit. We owe it as patriots to see that our own country shall not lack that which guarantees permanence to our institutions. God has greatly blessed us with advantages beyond those of other nations; but these will not avail unless we carefully nourish all our Christian institutions and seek to [illegible] above that which is purely material.

3. The Power of Fait[illegible] business of the C[illegible] magnify the [illegible]

[illegible] unless men are ready to see [illegible] than material possessions and [illegible]ward defenses.—New York Christian Advocate.

HOW THE SPIRITUAL VISION HELPS.

In the "Epworth League Notes" Harry F. Ward uses this fitting illustration of how spiritual vision helps: "In England, at the time of the great Chartist agitation, occasioned by the effect of governmental policies on the price of bread, a great army of workmen marched to London with a monster petition to present to Parliament the cause of the poor. The government was prepared to meet the slightest disorder with force. The troops slept on their arms with shotted cannon ready. The temper of the Chartingmen was threatening. Everybody looked for the streets of London to run with blood, as did the streets of Paris at the great Revolution. But there came hurrying to London two preachers who had the cause of the working people at heart, and had spiritual vision. With a few friends they worked all night preparing a placard which appealed to the workers to use no violence, but to trust in the righteousness of their cause. The next morning the streets of London were covered with these placards. The Chartists read them and were convinced. There was no violence, and England was saved a bloody convulsion because there were in the church two men, Kingsley and Maurice, who had spiritual vision and could apply it to practical affairs."

SUB-TOPICS SUGGESTED IN THE "EPWORTH ERA."

(1) What are the signs of an awakening to civic righteousness?

(2) How may we assist in bringing about the rule of God in the national affairs?

(3) Should the Epworth League not make itself felt when moral issues such as prohibition are voted upon?

(4) A new Independence Day: righteousness in public life.

MOXINE
Cures LAGRIPPE and Colds.

A WORLD-LANGUAGE.

If English ever becomes a world-language it will be—in the judgment of Professor [illegible]—simply because it had to be. Why this is so is one of the phases of "English as a World-language" which Professor Matthews writes of in the July Century. He will explain why other languages have not succeeded in the struggle forever going on for such supremacy, and will give the reasons in favor of English becoming a universal tongue.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used for over Sixty-Five Years by millions of mothers for their children while teething with perfect success. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain; cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for Diarrhoea. Sold by Druggists in every part of the world. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup" and take no other kind. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Guaranteed under the Food and Drugs Act, June 30th, 1906. Serial Number 1098. An Old and Well Tried Remedy.

MOXINE CHILL TONIC
Only Tonic—one bottle—one cure.

Wh[illegible] Stove [illegible] Summer?

[illegible] adds to [illegible] [illegible] weather [illegible] Perfection Wick [illegible] Oil Cook-Stove. [illegible] stove can [illegible] on" will [illegible] Bakes, [illegible] heats the wash water and the sad irons, and does it without dissipating its heat through the room to your discomfort. The

NEW PERFECTION
Wick Blue Flame Oil Cook-Stove

actually keeps the kitchen cool—actually makes it comfortable for you while doing the family cooking, because, unlike the coal range, its heat is directed to one point only—right under the kettle. Made in three sizes, fully warranted. If not with your dealer, write our nearest agency.

The Rayo LAMP affords a mellow light that is very grateful to tired eyes—a perfect student or family lamp. Brass, nickel plated, hence more durable than other lamps.

If not with your dealer, write our nearest agency.

STANDARD OIL COMPANY
(Incorporated)

W. H. BYRNE, Pres. JOHN T. GIBBONS, Vice-Pres. P. E. BURKE, Sec'y.
Capital $200,000.00
Assets 479,560.90

HIBERNIA INSURANCE CO.,
No. 305 Camp Street,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.

LOSSES PROMPTLY PAID.

YOUR SUMMER VACATION
IS NEAR AT HAND

THE
Southern Pacific
SOUTHERN PACIFIC SUNSET ROUTE

WILL HAVE MANY ATTRACTIVE ROUTES TO OFFER BY RAIL OR WATER

TO CALIFORNIA

GO ONE WAY----RETURN ANOTHER THROUGH THE MOST BEAUTIFUL SCENERY IN THE WORLD

TO NEW YORK

ON ONE OF OUR MAGNIFICENT STEAMSHIPS --- FIVE BIG BOATS
"CREOLE," "MOMUS," "ANTILLES," "PROTEUS," "COMUS."

ASK YOUR AGENT FOR LITERATURE, OR WRITE

G. E. GUEDRY, Div. Pass. Agt.
LAKE CHARLES

F. E. BATTURS, Gen. Pass. Agt.
NEW ORLEANS

CHILDREN'S DAY AT LONGTOWN.

The 7th of June was a red letter day in Longtown, a day of religious services and social pleasure, when everyone enjoyed "a feast of reason and a flow of soul." The toils of the past were forgotten, the burdens of coming time were left to the days that shall bring them. Morn, noon and night brought each its hour of entertainment. The Sabbath school, with its throng of joyous boys and girls, was followed by an entertaining and instructive lecture on Missions by Mrs. O'Bryant, of Batesville. The assembly was led over the seas and through lands near and far away, while the social and moral lives of the people were depicted. The conditions of heathen lands were contrasted with the light that glows where the story of the cross is told. Facts were narrated and figures produced which show that the world is growing better; that the Christ is "claiming the heathen for an inheritance." The sublime truth was emphasized that no one is foreign to the Christ and his followers; that seas may roll between one and his neighbor.

When the nightfall came down the church was filled to overflowing to witness the pleasing exercises of Children's Day — children's day, indeed, when each child, unfettered and unburdened, sang its song of joy. Beautiful decorations adorned the church; draperies and wreaths and festoons of flowers; golden words that fell from the lips of him who "spake as never man spoke," arranged with artistic taste, invited children to come unto him. Faith, Hope and Charity, the three deathless sisters, hung about the cross, now stainless and garlanded with flowers. Time was when it crushed to earth the hope of the world, fainting beneath the too heavy load. Time was when it was stained with blood, while a ruthless throng gazed with tearless eye upon him who hung in agony thereon. Oh, well for the young, if they kneel at its foot and offer the frankincense of faith and the myrrh of love, ere the heart has sown to garner its bitter fruits. And well for the old, if they come to its protecting shadow and seek the peace that flows like a river, ere the sun of life goes down. The cross is rest. The cross is peace. Under the shadow of the cross lies the road to heaven. Would to God that all mankind would linger under the shadow of the cross more, and thereby be reminded of the great sacrifice that was made for us all. Would to God that mankind would say, "I love the Lord because he hath heard my voice and my supplications. Because he hath inclined his ear unto me, therefore will I call upon him as long as I live." You can and will do so, if you will but keep close to the foot of the cross.

Respectfully and cordially,

W. V. SHEARER,
Pastor Longtown Charge.

HOUSTON, MISS.

Dear Advocate: We have just closed a great revival in our church at Houston. It was a meeting of most wonderful interest and power. The whole town was affected by it. There were about sixty conversions and reclamations. Thirteen new members were added to our church.

Rev. R. A. Clark, of Oklahoma, Miss., did the preaching and he not only delighted the people with excellent sermons, but also impressed them with a broad, sympathetic Christian spirit. Fraternally,

W. L. GRAVES.

ARGO RED SALMON is standard in quality, quanlty, color and price.

MOXINE
Cures LAGRIPPE and Colds.

GREAT WORK AT HAYNESVILLE, LA.

Dear Dr. Boswell: We closed what was termed by our oldest citizens here the best all-round meeting ever held in this community. I preached one week preparatory to the coming of Revs. Walter G. Harbin and C. N. Guice. We had the closing exercises of our High School here to go up against, and thereby missed two services of the ten days Brother Harbin was with us.

We had a great many conversions; sixty-three applications for church membership—fifty Methodists, nine Baptists and four Presbyterians. Some more of these are about to come to our church. We had seven new family altars erected; twelve new subscribers to the New Orleans Christian Advocate.

Brother Harbin is a fine preacher and one of the most earnest workers I have ever had with me. Any brother wanting good help will not make a mistake in securing Brother Harbin.

Brother H. W. Bowman will be my help in my other meetings. Our Sunday School here has gone over one hundred—103 last Sabbath (June 14). Our prayer meetings have doubled in attendence. The preacher is growing, too.

Pray for us.

W. T. WOODWARD, P. C.

MOXINE CHILL TONIC
Only Tonic—one bottle—one cure.

THE TECHNIQUE OF HOME MAKING.

"Cook, sweep, dust and sew, these four words will never make a happy home," writes the editor in Woman's Home Companion for July. "They do not make sympathy, and love, and ambition, and faith; but they go a long way toward making room for these things. The average bride has a trunkful of ideals, and maybe two trunkfuls of clothes. Her cook book—if she has one and the leaves are cut at all—opens easily to 'fudge.' But unless she has mastered enough pages of this book to get three meals a day, without exhausting her own body and soul, and her husband's, too, she will have little time for clothes and none at all for ideals. She finds herself involved in the mastery of the merest technical details. In spite of her best endeavors, her husband loses his enthusiasm for badly cooked food poorly served. Perhaps she tells him that he couldn't do it so well himself, and then he tells her about what he can do—perhaps it's soldering a joint or adding up a column of figures or drawing a straight line between two given points—but anyhow he can do it, because it is his business and he has perfected himself in it, and if she— And then Cook and Sweep and Dust and Sew fling wide the doors of that house, and Sympathy and Love and Ambition and Faith make their escape."

FITS St. Vitus' Dance and Nervous diseases permanently cured by Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. Send for FREE $2.00 trial bottle and treatise. Dr. R. H. Kline, Ltd., 931 Arch St., Philadelphia, Pa.

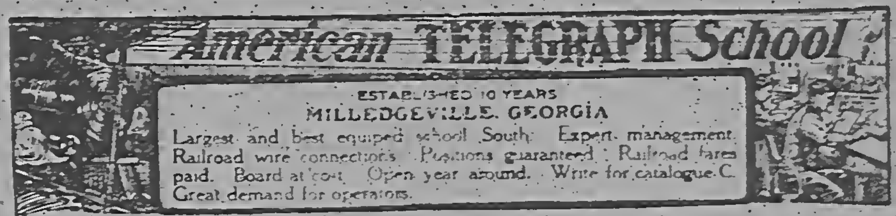
MOXINE CHILL TONIC
Only Tonic—one bottle—one cure.

Belmont College For Young Women
Nashville, Tenn.

Prepares for colleges and universities. College post graduate courses leading to degrees of B.A. and M.A. Eleven schools [illegible] the college and [illegible] Art, Physical Culture and Languages. [illegible] location and environment. The college stands in a beautiful park of fifteen acres. [illegible] horseback-riding and automobiling. Many Northern as well as Southern families [illegible] their children educated [illegible] number of pupils registered last year, representing [illegible] registration is necessary. Catalogue on request. Rev. IRA LANDRITH, D. D., LL.D., Regent. Miss HOOD and Miss HERON, Principals.



American TELEGRAPH School
ESTABLISHED 10 YEARS
MILLEDGEVILLE, GEORGIA
Largest and best equiped school South. Expert management. Railroad wire connections. Positions guaranteed. Railroad fares paid. Board at cost. Open year around. Write for catalogue C. Great demand for operators.

Pine-Brook Dairy Co., Ltd.
ALL OUR COWS TUBERCULINE TESTED.
Milk and Cream Delivered Morning and Evening.
COR. ST. CHARLES & WASHINGTON AVES. Phone 1514 Uptown.

THE AMERICAN PAINT WORKS,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.,
MANUFACTURES EVERYTHING IN PAINTS,
Guaranteed Strictly Pure
The Climatic Prepared Paints, Perfecto White and
SOLD SUBJECT TO A CHEMICAL ANALYSIS.
DIRECTORS:
Thos. S. Witherspoon, President. Francis Martin, Vice Pesident.
R. B. Parker, John McCloskey. Geo. A. Hero.
PHONE, MAIN 915. Special Attention to Mail Orders.

THE BEST MADE.
Angell's Cough and Whooping Cough Syrup
For Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Coughs, Colds and Throat Trouble.
CONTAINS NO OPIUM OR MORPHINE,
All Druggists, Price 25 and 50 Cents.

SCROFULINE
The Wonderful Healer
Unsurpassed for tetter, ezcema, skin and scalp troubles, old sores, ulcers and piles, any nature or duration. Goes to the very seat of the trouble, kills the germs and extracts all foreign matter. Sold under a positive guarantee, 25c, 50c and $1.00 per jar. Mail orders promptly filled. Stamps accepted. Liberal sample upon request. Address,
THE SCROFULINE COMPANY, Waco, Texas.
SOLE OWNERS AND MANUFACTURERS.

Louisiana Railway and Navigation Company.
PASSENGER SERVICE,
Daily Passenger Trains between Shreveport and New Orleans. Daily Passenger Trains between Shreveport and Winnfield.
FREIGHT SERVICE,
Exceptional good time on carload traffic. Special attention given less than carload shipments all of which moves in
DAILY THROUGH PACKAGE CARS.
CLARENCE ELLERBE, Assistant to President.
H. B. HELM, General Superintendent.
E. C. D. MARSHALL, General Freight & Passenger Agent.
Shreveport, La.

6 Per Cent GOLD BONDS
OF THE
American Petroleum Co.,
WITH AN EQUAL BONUS IN STOCK.
SOUTHERN TRUST COMPANY OF LOS ANGELES.
TRUSTEE.

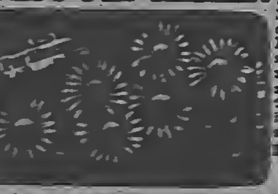
Absolute 1st Mortgage [illegible] your surplus money [illegible] income [illegible]

FIELDING [illegible] CO., Financial Agents, Los Angeles, Cal.

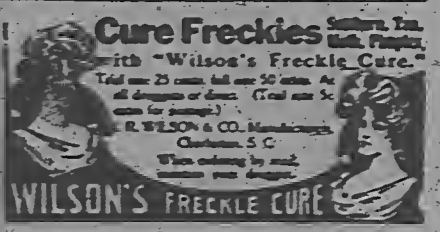
[illegible] Bank [illegible] Mercantile Agen[illegible], Los Angeles.

HIS CHANCE IS GONE
YOUR CHANCE IS HERE

The question is, are you qualified to hold a responsible position? Have you had a thorough commercial training? Bankers, Merchants, and Manufacturers want you if you are competent. Here is Your Chance. Two roads are open to young people. One requires no training and leads to failure. The other requires training and leads to success. We prepare young men and women and start them on the road to success by securing them high-salaried positions. Fine climate, board cheap. Write for illustrated catalog and further information.
HATTIESBURG BUSINESS COLLEGE, HATTIESBURG, MISS.



DAISY FLY KILLER placed anywhere, attracts and kills all flies. Neat, clean, ornamental, convenient, cheap. Lasts all season. Absolutely harmless, cannot spill or tip over, will not soil or injure anything. Guaranteed effective. Of all dealers or sent prepaid for 20 cents.
HAROLD SOMERS
149 DeKalb Ave.
Brooklyn, N. Y.



Cure Freckles Sunburn, Tan, Moth, Pimples, with "Wilson's Freckle Cure." Trial size 25 cents, full size 50 cents. At all druggists or direct. (Send one 5c stamp for postage.)
T. R. WILSON & CO., Manufacturers, Charleston, S. C.
When ordering by mail, mention your druggist.
WILSON'S FRECKLE CURE

BLYMYER CHURCH BELLS. UNLIKE OTHER BELLS SWEETER, MORE DURABLE, LOWER PRICE. OUR FREE CATALOGUE TELLS WHY.
Write to Cincinnati Bell Foundry Co., Cincinnati, O.

BELLS.
Steel Alloy Church and School Bells. Send for Catalogue. The C. S. BELL CO., Hillsboro, O.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL
The Double Track Route.

26 Hours to Chicago
21 Hours to St. Louis
22 Hours to Louisville
26 Hours to Cincinnati

Through Sleeping Cars to above points. Dining Cars, Library Cars Chair Cars and Coaches.
Full Particulars at
City Ticket Office,
141 ST. CHARLES STREET.
Phone Main 3612

MOXINE
Cures LAGRIPPE and Colds.

TRIBUTE TO BROTHER FERRELL.

Dear Dr. Boswell: I see my dear Brother Milton Ferrell is no more. A good man has gone home. I[illegible] been just thirty years [illegible] met him. He [illegible] the [illegible] eral Baptists. [illegible] ell was one. I was his pastor several years. I found him a good and true man. He was afterwards licensed to preach, and he proved true to his calling. About one year ago he visited our home in Liberty. While at the dinner table I asked about his conversion, etc. He said he was converted during the meeting I held at Adams in 1879; that up to that date, though a member of the Baptist Church (had been for years), he had never experienced regenerating grace. He was a good preacher.

H. P. LEWIS, Sr.

REVIVAL AT ABERDEEN.

Dear Dr. Boswell: We closed last night what many pronounced to be the best meeting in the history of our splendid little city. At any rate, measured by whatever standard of excellence, the meeting was a great success from the very beginning. Its influenced upon the town is widespread in its reach and emminently redemptive in its effects. The church has been quickened into new life, and with a broader vision of its mission to the world, it is already planning greater things for its Lord.

The preaching was done by Brother W. G. Harbin, of Greenville, Miss. To those who know Brother Harbin, and who have had the pleasure of sitting under his ministry as the writer has had, it is needless to particiularize as to the character of the preaching done. Suffice it to say that the preaching was strong, Scriptural, pointed, and attended with power sent down from God. Out of the depth of a full and rich experience of the power of God to save, sinners were warned to flee from the wrath to come. No sort of compromise gospel marked Brother Harbin's ten-day ministry among us. Sin was unsparingly condemned, while the sinner was tenderly besought to become reconciled unto God.

The singing was led by Rev. C. N. Guice, of the Mississippi Conference, who is now associated with Brother Harbin in his evangelistic labors. He completely captivated all who heard him.

The results of the meeting are forty-five added to the several churches; five new family altars, three family altars rebuilt, and more than two score men and women pledged to a higher life of service.

The writer acknowledges, with gratitude to Almighty God, the splendid spirit of fraternity and fraternal cooperation on the part of the pastors and people of the other churches. All worked in harmony together for one common cause. Fraternally,

W. E. M. BROGAN.

NERVOUS HEADACHE.

You are tired, nervous; your brain is over-worked—and your head aches. Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills act gently on the nerves, soothing and allaying the irritation which causes the pain in your head and in a few moments you are entirely cured. 25 doses, 25 cents. Never sold in bulk.

CALENDAR OF [illegible]

States [illegible]

[illegible] Conference, at Mon[illegible], July 7.

[illegible]ewton District Conference, at Montrose, Miss., July 8-10.

Corinth District Conference, at Baldwyn, Miss., July 14-16.

Arcadia District Conference, at Bienville, July 28-31.

If you watch for the items on ARGO RED SALMON you will find some very interesting things about Alaska and the Salmon industry, of which very little is known in this country. "ARGO" is a household word wherever this Salmon has been introduced.

THE VALUE OF DOCTRINE.

There is sometimes a disposition to disparage Christian doctrine and to contrast it unfavorably with practical Christianity, as it is called. Some go the length even of holding that the spiritual force emanating from Jesus Christ, the dynamic of Christianity, they term it, does not depend upon the views entertained of his person. Those who have searched deeply into the springs of character cannot admit any such position. An English poet, voicing false popular notions, once said:

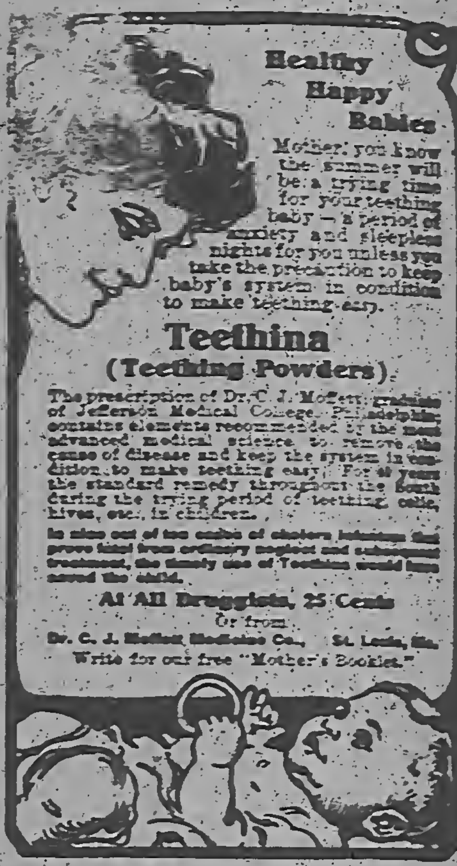
"For modes of faith let senseless bigots fight,
He cannot be wrong whose life is in the right."

This sounds smart and plausible; but it is shallow and erroneous. It assumes that there may be a right life proceeding from a wrong belief. But what does experience tell? Is it not that what a man really believes ultimately shapes his conduct into conformity with itself, whether it be God's truth, or the devil's lie? It confounds all our notions to admit that it can possibly yield good to believe a lie. "No lie is of the truth," says the apostle John, that is, it cannot yield the same results as truth; and it follows that truth cannot be promoted by crookedness, or that good can come out of doing evil.—Canadian Presbyterian.

We have heard many direful things about what would happen when the coal supply failed, but the indications are that alcohol will at last come to its own and serve man, instead of destroying him. Alcohol can be manufactured in unlimited quantities almost everywhere, and for heat and power may furnish a more available source of supply than coal. Alcohol engines are being perfected that will produce the same power as gasoline, and, as it is, alcohol can be burned in the present gasoline engines.

Brazil is spending $27,000,000 on the new fleet. As all the present Brazilian vessels are nearly obsolete, this is not such a large sum for a nation of 20,000,000.

MOXINE CHILL TONIC
Only Tonic—one bottle—one cure.



Healthy Happy Babies
Mother: you know the summer will be a trying time for your teething baby — a period of anxiety and sleepless nights for you unless you take the precaution to keep baby's system in condition to make teething easy.
Teethina
(Teething Powders).
The prescription of Dr. C. J. Moffett, graduate of Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, contains elements recommended by the most advanced medical science to remove the cause of disease and keep the system in condition to make teething easy. For [illegible] years the standard remedy throughout the South during the trying period of teething, colic, hives, etc., in children.
In nine out of ten cases of cholera infantum that prove fatal from ordinary neglect and subsequent treatment, the timely use of Teethina would have saved the child.
At All Druggists, 25 Cents
Or from
Dr. C. J. Moffett Medicine Co., St. Louis, Mo.
Write for our free "Mother's Booklet."

FEARFUL BURNING ITCHING
Relieved by Heiskell's Ointment
Eczema Quickly Cured

Even the old, stubborn cases of long standing, with their attendant aggravations—itching, burning skin, splotches and raw eruptions can be immediately relieved, finally and permanently cured by the regular use of Heiskell's Ointment.

The first application practically dries up the raw sores, instantly cools and soothes the skin and stops the irritating itch.

The hands should be washed in lukewarm water, carefully rinsed and dried, then Heiskell's Ointment applied, being gently rubbed in with the fingers. Fresh antiseptic bandages should be used after every application. One or two applications according to the above directions will produce a wonderfully grateful relief and improvement. Any kind of skin diseases and humors are amenable to Heiskell's Ointment. It readily soothes and heals where other preparations fail, and there is no skin disease, no matter how stubborn or long standing, not constitutional, that it will not cure. Its effectiveness is proven by the instant relief following its first employment.

Cures Erysipelas, Prurigo, Eczema, Milk Crust, Itching Piles, Scald Head, Tetters, Ringworm, Black Heads, Psoriasis, Pimples, Freckles, Sunburn, etc.

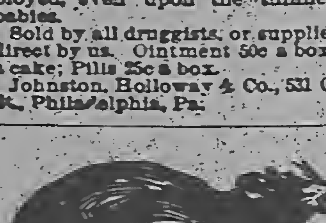
In some cases it is necessary to give constitutional treatment with Heiskell's Blood and Liver Pills, as in eczema and erysipelas, to tone up the liver and purify the blood.

Cure is hastened in all skin diseases by frequently bathing the affected parts with Heiskell's Medicinal Soap and toning up the blood with Heiskell's Blood and Liver Pills. In mild skin disorders, such as rashes, eruptions, pimples, etc., Heiskell's Medicinal and Toilet Soap is particularly effective, and its constant use not only insures a delightfully clean and luxurious bath, but its medicinal qualities, those of the ointment in a mild form, will prevent many diseases and disorders that the skin is heir to.

Heiskell's preparations are free from injurious properties and can be safely employed, even upon the thinner skin of babies.

Sold by all druggists, or supplied by mail direct by us. Ointment 50c a box; Soap 25c a cake; Pills 25c a box.

Johnston, Holloway & Co., 531 Commerce St., Philadelphia, Pa.



Drives 'Em Out Of House To Die
Get a box of
Stearns' Electric RAT and ROACH Paste
If you are troubled with rats or mice. It is sure death, driving them out of the house to die. Easy to use and gives quick and sure results. Sold for 30 years, and never yet failed to kill off rats and mice. Also for cockroaches, water-bugs and other vermin. 2 oz. box, 25c; 16 oz. box, $1.00. Sold at druggists and general stores everywhere, or sent direct prepaid on receipt of price.
STEARNS' ELECTRIC PASTE CO. Buffalo, N.Y., U.S.A.

NEW ORLEANS
CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE

Millsaps College Library

REV. JOHN W. BOSWELL, Editor.
REV. H. WHITEHEAD, Ass't Editor.

NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, JULY 9, 1908.

CHAS. O. CHALMERS, Publisher,
Office, 512 Camp St., New Orleans.

VOL. 55—No. 27.

"PROVE ALL THINGS; HOLD FAST THAT WHICH IS GOOD."

WHOLE No. 5407.

Glances at the World.

The Democratic National Convention, in session this week at Denver, was the center of interest to men of all parties, the Democrats being not only interested, but greatly excited. The leading candidate, of course, was Mr. Bryan. For several weeks past much opposition was expressed against the Nebraskan, but to little purpose. The opposing candidates were Judge Gray of Delaware and Governor Johnson of Minnesota. The opponents of Mr. Bryan would doubtless have been much more formidable had they been united, but they were divided. The majority of the leaders appear to be very enthusiastic, but at heart they are not confident. While they have confidence in Mr. Bryan's integrity, and admire his genius, they look upon him as a chronic seeker of the Presidency, and, having made two unsuccessful, though brilliant canvasses, for the place, they feel that these are against him. But they say, twelve years having elapsed since the first canvass, he has gained much experience, and, having traveled over the world much, he has considerably broadened. These are in his favor, and, with new issues, the situation is hopeful. Personally, we are unable to form an opinion. We note only what we see in the papers.

* * *

A national spelling bee occurred in Cleveland, Ohio, June 29th. Five or six "teams" contested, including one composed of fifteen of the best spellers from the New Orleans public schools. The New Orleans spellers came out third in the contest. The representatives from the Cleveland schools included one or more negroes, one of whom, a girl of thirteen, won the prize, a gold medal. When the New Orleans children learned that negro children were to enter the contest they were inclined to back out, but finally concluded, inasmuch as they had gone to much trouble and expense, and had traveled such a long distance, to lay aside their prejudices and go through. The New Orleans spellers were not at all pleased at being beaten by a colored child. They should have prepared themselves for such contingencies before leaving home. Nobody blames the children, but not a few blame Mr. Easton, the city school superintendent, who had charge of the children.

* * *

Swindlers have tricks as well as traders. The latest of which we read was that of a trick to pass off counterfeit bills. The man posed as a would-be bridegroom. He had with him a well-dressed, beautiful young woman to whom he desired to be married. He visited about twenty clergymen a day, in a large city, and was duly married by each one of the preachers. He expressed willingness to pay for the service, but each time plead poverty. His offer was to pay five dollars, and handing the clergyman a twenty-dollar bill, received fifteen dollars in change. The fifteen dollars was that much clear gain, for the twenty-dollar bill was counterfeit. In this way, about twenty Newark preachers suffered at the hands of this trickster in one day, netting him and his much-married bride about three hundred dollars. He took the train to another city, but whether he took the "matrimonial line of march" and swindled other clergymen, we have not yet learned. A man so sharp as that would likely take a new tack at the next place.

* * *

For some time past—how long we do not know—there has been printed in our city a paper called the Weekly Gossip. Its name indicates its character, in sustaining which, if the action of the Mayor and Police Commissioner be any indication, it has gone beyond the bounds of decency. The Mayor ordered the Police Commissioner to have it suppressed, and the Commissioner notified the publisher that should he attempt to publish the paper he would be arrested, as would also anyone attempting to sell it. The paper must be scandalous indeed, else there is a spirit of genuine reform, compelling our officers, if they cannot rid the city of evil-doers, at least to see that they do as little harm as possible. How to express ourself in regard to the men who would send out vile stuff to poison and taint society, we do not know. Language fails us. If we had it at command perhaps it might not be prudent to use it. We commend our city officers for their promptness in thus suppressing a nuisance.

* * *

Much has recently been said about the religious convictions of Mr. Taft, the Republican candidate for president. Many persons have entertained the opinion that he is a Roman Catholic, or inclined to that faith. How the idea became current we do not know, unless because in dealing with the Filipinos he has shown a friendly spirit. The matter has been deemed of such importance at the White House as to require a plain statement on the subject, and it was given out "officially" on June 16, that Mr. Taft is a Unitarian. His wife is a member of the Protestant Episcopal Church, and he often goes with her to public service. It is well enough that the question has been settled. Were it certain that Mr. Taft is a Roman Catholic his chances for the presidency would be greatly lessened—possibly wiped out entirely. The people of our country are exceedingly tolerant—allowing public men to exercise their religious views freely; but they are not ready, as we think, to elevate a Roman Catholic to the chief magistracy of this country. Mr. Taft is an honest, upright man, but as a Roman Catholic, in the president's chair, he would have brought to bear upon him a pressure of irresistible force. The pressure is strong enough even with a strong Protestant in the place. What would follow the elevation of a Romanist no man can safely predict.

OUR CHURCH AT AMITE, LA.

Dear Dr. Boswell: Your readers know that our church was destroyed and the parsonage badly wrecked in the cyclone of April 24th, and doubtless there are some who would like to know what progress is being made toward recovery. Plans have been accepted for a frame church building to cost about $5000, and we hope to begin work on same within the next thirty days. The parsonage has been raised, straightened (in part), braced, and is being repaired. When repairs are completed the house will be stronger than it was before the cyclone; but a mechanic soon discovers that the walls are not altogether straight. Our people have lost heavily, and as all the churches were destroyed, each denomination has to stand alone and meet its own financial burdens with such assistance as may be secured from the outside. The people here received generous help in their time of distress, but it should be remembered that our churches received nothing out of the general relief fund. Several pastors have taken collections to help restore our property, and a few Sunday schools, Epworth Leagues, and individuals have also sent us contributions. The pastor has been helped in a substantial way by friends, for which he feels grateful; but the larger part of the money received so far has been required to put the parsonage in order, and the church is yet to be built. We expect to do all in our power to help ourselves, and will not ask others to do for us what we can and ought to do. But it will be some time before our people recover from the effects of the storm, and generous help will be needed in erecting our house of worship. Pastors who feel disposed to take collections to help us are requested to send same to G. W. Wadley, treasurer Conference Board of Church Extension, Shreveport, La.

Fraternally, L. C. Wilson.

Christian Advocate.

Published for the Louisiana, Mississippi and North Mississippi Conferences, Methodist Episcopal Church, South.

DIRECTIONS.

Correspondents will please direct all communications intended for the Editor to 512 Camp St., New Orleans, La. Communications intended for the Business Department should be addressed to the Manager of the New Orleans Christian Advocate. Write with ink and only on one side of the paper. No attention will be paid to rolled manuscripts.

The Printed Label on a paper shows the date to which a subscription is paid. It is as good as a written receipt. When renewal is made, if the date is not moved forward after two weeks, notify us, and we will make it right. Papers will be continued unless subscribers order otherwise.

For Advertising Rates Apply to

Religious Press Advertising Syndicate,

JACOBS & CO., CLINTON, S. C.

Home Office, Clinton, S. C., who have charge of the advertising of this paper.

ADVERTISING-REPRESENTATIVES.

J. F. Jacobs, J. D. Jacobs, Home Office, Clinton, S. C.; R. J. Ritter, 418 W. St. Catherine St., Louisville, Ky.; Thornwell Jacobs, 1011 Stahlman Bldg., Nashville, Tenn.; C. C. Little, 502 Mutual Bldg., Richmond, Va.; D. J. Carter, 132 LaSalle St., Chicago, Ill.; Miss M. R. Middleton, 150 Nassau St., New York, N. Y.; Barton E. Buckman, 132 LaSalle St., Chicago, Ill.; J. H. Rich, Birmingham, Ala.; E. J. Barrett, New Orleans, La.; J. B. Keough, Atlanta, Ga.; J. B. Gentry, Clinton, S. C.; H. B. Ewbank, Houston, Texas; W. L. Boggs, Greensboro, N. C.; F. A. Wynne, corner Ackard and Elm Sts., Dallas, Tex.

A BIT OF REFLECTION.

BY HON. W. A. BELK.

The older I get the more I am impressed with the great responsibility of living. The very fact that we live imposes innumerable duties upon us. To the lower animal, living is simply existing. The cow browses upon the meadow, slakes her thirst at the brook, lies down under the shade of some friendly oak and cares not for the future. But to a vital, intelligent human being, living is but inviting duties, pleasures, hardships, sadness and all the vicissitudes incident to being a live man or woman. To-day we rise high upon the tide of success and to-morrow we recede upon the ebbing waters of misfortune.

> "Sometimes the shadows are deep,
> And rough seems the path to the goal,
> And sorrows how often they sweep,
> Like tempests, down over the soul!"

Nothing like unto that sentiment ever comes to any of God's creatures except unto mankind. Therefore, to be a living human being is to meet at every turn of the road a vehicle laden either with success or disappointment, either with joy or pleasure, or with love or hate. God seems to have so arranged it. He has made us strong to meet adversities, and weak to remind us of our frailties. When I admit that I am a man, I declare in the same breath my greatness and my nothingness. I am strong and at the same time I am weak. I am paradoxical. I must be up and at my work with resoluteness, yet I must be submissive and obedient. As it would be a poor sailor who had gained his entire experience on smooth water, so it would be but a poor man who had never met opposition. As it would be a poor sailor who had never looked amid the mist for the lighthouse on the beach, so it would be a poor human being who had never felt the necessity of a haven for his safety. Thus on through life we go, being made the better and stronger by adversities and victories, and the sweeter and gentler by sorrows and disappointments.

Holly Springs, Miss.

LETTER FROM GILDEROY.

After a delightful visit to New Houlka, where the Aberdeen District Conference was held, I took a turn of two or three hundred miles around over North Mississippi to visit some of our children and to see some old friends, and everywhere I went they were asking me about some new doctrine that is being promulgated by three or four evangelists and quite a number of pastors of a sister denomination of Christians. The people seem to think that because my hair is growing white I ought to be wise and able to answer all sorts of questions, but I am not.

The main point on which they seek information is this: These evangelists and some pastors are saying that it is sinful and false to teach children to pray "Our Father who art in heaven"—that God is the father of no one who has not been born of the Spirit, and to teach unregenerate persons to pray that prayer is to teach them falsehood. It would be helpful to take a good unabridged dictionary or a good concordance, and turn to the word "father," "our father," "my father" and see in how many senses God is said to be the father of all souls, of all nations, of all men, of all living, of beasts, birds and fishes.

These evangelists and pastors show their ignorance and littleness by whitling the term father down to one sense, one meaning only, and then mounting their hobby and riding it to death all over the country. Even in their sense of it, it is right and proper to teach orphan children to say, "our father," for God says "I will be a father to the fatherless." The Bible says, "Have we not all one father? hath not one God created us?" God is the common father of the whole human race. The word father is a term of respect and reverence, and may be properly used by the vilest sinner living when he comes before God in prayer.

It is a pity and a shame for earnest men, professedly called of God to preach the Gospel, to fool away their time and strength on such nonsense as this. They make apes of themselves in public while trying to appear extra smart and critical. They get themselves talked about and talked to, and, being small, they think they are doing wonders and making a following for themselves. It matters not how much harm is done, how many minds are disturbed or unsettled, so they attract attention. This is the thing they are after.

I asked one sensible, earnest pastor of that faith and order how his church put up with that kind of teaching. He said, "Well, when it first began, we tried for some years to cure it and found we could not cure it and then we agreed to endure it, hoping it would get well of itself. We saw that if the matter were pressed it would result in a division of the church—it did so in some places, and I believe this doctrine is spreading among us."

Just so, my brother, and so it always has been and always will be while men are men. This leaven of unsound doctrine will keep on working until the whole lump, or church, is leavened. Leaven is corrupting, and it will taint and spoil the whole barrel of meal. This is not a new doctrine as so many think. It is as old as the hills. It was about killed once, but your people, some of them, are nursing it back to life again. It is neither new nor true doctrine, but an old error revamped and exhibited as brand new. The only way to get rid of such is to expel it. It leaves a taint of leprosy in the camp and on everything it touches. Yours,

GILDEROY.

Strong, Miss., June 25, 1908.

THE VALUE OF THE CHURCH PAPER AND ITS CIRCULATION.

BY REV. P. O. LOWREY.

Whether "the pen is mightier than the sword" is no longer a debatable question, for, along with the preacher and the teacher, the newspaper holds a distinctively important place in directing the purposes and destinies of men. People read, and what they read they are or become. The press elects presidents and dethrones kings, and the rule is, what it says is done. We note these facts:

First—What we read indicates what we are. One reads the daily paper for the "want ads," another for the sporting news, another for the politics, another for the commercial movements, another for the criminal records, and others for various and sundry reasons, each reading out what is really in him. So it is with the reading of books. The blue-back novel finds its complement in its reader, as does the elevating poem, the complicated discussion of science, or the record of epoch-making history—all these discovering, drawing out, and adding to what is already within their readers.

Second—What we read determines what we shall be. "As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he," and reading makes one think. To read after the libertine means to think his thoughts, and to read the words of the Christ means to be lifted by his pure ideals and touched by his divine character. The child who studies nature pictures becomes a lover of nature, and the one who studies the slangy cartoons of the vulgar becomes like the author he studies. It is no wonder that from the home where the only picture on the wall was the famous "Robert E. Lee" and "Natchez" steamboat race every boy should become a sailor. Mentally and morally, we become like the thoughts upon which we feed, and to place a book or a paper upon the center table of our homes is like saying to the members of the household, "this is what I want you to be," and whatsoever we sow that shall we also reap. A preacher left a good book in a home and reaped Bishop McTyeire as a convert to Christ, and through him Vanderbilt University, as a blessing to the Church. Reading a sermon on the stars made one of our greatest American astronomers, and a yellow-backed detective story bore as its legitimate fruit a murderer and a train-robber. This is simply the operation of the common law of cause and effect expressed in the moral realm. A rattle-snake, then, should as readily be admitted to our nursery playground as an impure piece of literature to our home reading-room. The moral poison left by the one will be as certain as the physical venom of the other.

Third—Our reading also determines our interest in the several lines of Church activities. Those who read only the Sunday School literature come to think the Sunday School the one important thing about the Church; the readers of the Epworth League literature only get to thinking the same of the work of the League; and so with the readers of the literature of the Woman's Missionary Societies. Those who read the independent religious papers only are likely to get to think that denominational affiliation or loyalty may be unnecessary, or even sinful, according to the paper read. Some of this class of readers seem to think that all that is necessary to maintain the Christian life is to attend an annual camp meeting led by those who are free from the complication of Church alliances and get enough spiritual blessings to last twelve months, and that at a minimum cost, and that the height of religious obligation is to support these independent enterprises. But the well-rounded, loyal, intelligent and steadfast Christian for twelve months in the year, who believes in and supports all the institutions of the Church, is the one who is a habitual attendant upon the means of grace and a reader of his denominational Church paper.

Every pastor has or will find out that ignorance of the Church's enterprises and of the moral and religious movements of the day is one of the chief hindrances to the Lord's work in the several pastoral charges. Along with the need for grace is the demand for intelligence, and it is not the pastor's business to grind out encyclopædic knowledge to the people, but to preach Christ to them. It is the editor's work to give miscellaneous instruction in the ever-increasing list of achievements and undertakings of the Church. If some new department of work, such as a Woman's Missionary Society or an Epworth League, is to be enterprised, no one can be found who knows or cares anything about it, and some will oppose it, because of pure ignorance, and before anything can be done the pastor must turn everything into a "lovey lovey" society, and teach the nursery of babes in understanding a siege before even a foundation can be laid. That such a state of affairs exists in so many places there are two prominent persons to blame —the pastor, on the one side, and the editor and publisher of our church papers, on the other, and these are mutually dependent thereon upon the other.

Before anything can be done, the editor must make a paper worth reading, made with open eyes, a level head, and a sympathetic heart. As the great questions of the social, political, commercial and ecclesiastic worlds in turn present themselves to the denominational family, the editor must be on hand, as a representative of the Church, to put her interpretation upon them. But if the Church paper is prosaic, lifeless and asleep, serving no special purpose, then there is no special reason why it should be read in preference to the multitude of secular papers that can be bought cheaper and are of easier access. Not only should the editor give the people his own well-digested editorials, but he should be on the lookout for those who are especially qualified to discuss special questions—sometimes social and political, but more often theological and ecclesiastical—and have them give the Church at large the benefit of their superior knowledge. But how often we look in vain for articles from such personages! Those of our preachers that the Bishop's cabinet brand as "two thousand men" seem to be the last that we hear from in our Church papers. Whether this line of work is too belittling to their high office or whether the editor never asks or encourages them to write is for them to say.

But it would seem that the country people, both lay and clerical, would have a right to some of their superior wisdom and experience. And to think of the gray-headed saints, mature in mind and rich in the wisdom of experience that are felt only in their own communities, when the Church at large would be so greatly blessed by their saintly and well-digested messages. Some of these preachers, who are known far and near, and their spiritual children would feast upon a pastoral message at large from them; some are the laymen who have served the Church faithfully and long, and through their own eyes have seen things, and with their own minds have been thinking—and keeping all to themselves. To see a public discussion from many of these would almost create a sensation. Should not the editor draw them out, discover them, and use them, despite the fact that their bad grammar and faulty rhetoric may need correcting, and give their readers their product, rather than miscellaneous clippings in our Church papers? When such shall be the case, then the readers and subscribers will multiply many fold, and their support will be genuine, and not because of Church loyalty only.

And the publisher should be as wise as is the children of this world in finding subscribers—through all legitimate agencies go out after them, and not wait for them to come by chance.

Recognizing the place of the pastor, either on circuits or stations in our connectional Church, we must concede that he is the recruiting officer of the subscription list, and, without his loyal and co-operative support, the paper must soon suspend. The presiding elder, likewise, has a responsibility to meet in circulating the Church's literature. Many of our pastors are young and inexperienced; some are ignorant; all are heavily worked, and the Church pays a liberal salary for the elder to further its interests. But when did one ever go beyond simply inquiring into the subject of circulating our Church literature, and send up a list of subscriptions to the Advocates, The Review, Go Forward, or to the Epworth Era?

No pastor during one pastorate can develop all his people into intelligent readers of our Church periodicals: but by building upon what his predecessor did and by being succeeded by another, who will carry the work forward, in time we shall have a reading membership.

At the beginning of our present pastorate we found one family reading the Nashville Advocate, two reading the New York Advocate, and two reading the NEW ORLEANS ADVOCATE, and no other Methodist literature whatever, except through the Sunday Schools. We began a campaign for Go Forward, Our Homes and the Epworth Era, the two latter through the organizations that they represent. Later in the year we took trial subscriptions to the Nashville Advocate.

All together, aggregating about sixty-two Church papers in the homes of the members of our circuit, this year, up to date, we have fifteen cash and ten future payment subscribers to the NEW ORLEANS ADVOCATE on the club rate proposition, and we expect to make this a part of our summer revival work, believing that here much permanent good may be accomplished.

Our method is to begin in a local church by publicly urging the need, and then have the stewards take a collection of subscriptions from the congregation, just as we do for the benevolent claims, and follow by individual work in pastoral visiting. In addition to this, we distribute missionary and doctrinal tracts, as the occasion demands.

More and more are we convinced that our people should be developed in the reading habit, and that pastors should diligently strive to cause it to be so, and that all our people should be encouraged to write their helpful experiences for the Church papers for the encouragement and edification of their brethren in Church-fellowship.

MERIDIAN DISTRICT CONFERENCE.

The Meridian District Conference convened at the little town of Buckatunna, on the M. & O. Railroad, about sixty-five miles south of Meridian, June 23, 1908.

The opening sermon was preached by Rev. J. W. Ramsey, of Scooba, Miss., on Tuesday evening, at 8 o'clock. The sermon was a clear exposition of the doctrine of Regeneration. Immediately after the sermon the presiding elder, W. C. Black, called the Conference to order, and after the calling of the roll, L. E. Alford was elected secretary. The attendance upon this Conference was not as large as we hoped to see. Comparatively few of the lay delegates attended, and of those who did come, some returned home before the two days' session ended.

The following pastors of the district did not attend the Conference at all: W. O. Sadler, R. A. Allums, J. L. Red, W. A. Hays, J. T. McVey and James A. Wells. Because of the absence of so many preachers, the following resolution was adopted, with the request that it be published in the ADVOCATE:

"Resolved, That we, the members of the Meridian District Conference, now in session, believe it to be a violation of pastoral duty and ministerial obligations for any preacher to fail to attend the Conference, unless providentially hindered, and deserves to be censured by the presiding elder." (Signed by C. C. Griffin, R. H. Barr and B. W. Lewis.)

The reports from the sixteen pastors present showed the work of the district to be in fairly good shape. They reported about 500 accessions to the Church by vows and certificates since the Annual Conference. Shubuta and South Side, Meridian, reported the largest numbers on profession of faith—the former 28, the latter 35.

The preaching during the Conference was done by Revs. J. W. Ramsey, W. M. Williams, F. B. Ormond and H. M. Ellis.

The visitors to our Conference were as follows: Mrs. Bessie W. Lipscomb, representing the work of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society and also Whitworth College; Mrs. Clara H. Cope, representing the W. H. M. S. She is our city missionary here in Meridian. Rev. W. M. Williams represented the Orphans' Home; Robt. Selby, of Natchez, our educational interest, and T. J. O'Neil, the Joint Board of Finance.

A resolution was passed requesting the District Trustees to deed the Superannuate Home of Waynesboro, Miss., to the Trustees of the Conference Endowment Fund, giving the latter Board full control in the management of said property.

One young man, John Powell Simpson, was licensed to preach. There were no recommendations to the Annual Conference for admission on trial.

The following local preachers in orders had their characters passed by the Conference: Revs. R. A. Breeland, J. D. Crymes, W. W. Hopper, J. N. Broadway, A. C. Flowers, R. Zachary and E. T. Breeland. The following had their characters passed and licenses renewed: M. J. Matheny, W. W. Nelson, Alex Trotter, J. T. Griffin, H. K. McKee, R. B. Chisolm, Lewis Moore and Fred Moore.

Rev. J. N. Tucker and Rev. E. C. Stearns were recommended to the Annual Conference for recognition as local preachers in elder's orders.

W. D. Hawkins was elected Leader of the Layman's Missionary Movement in the Meridian District. D. W. Heidelberg, B. B. Davis, Dr. H. F. Tatum and L. P. Brown were elected lay delegates to the Annual Conference.

Shubuta was selected as the next meeting place of the Conference.

The missionary sermon on the last night of the Conference by Rev. H. M. Ellis was full of information, encouragement, and inspiration. Brother Ellis is making full proof of his ministry in his special field of labor.

The Conference, as a whole, was harmonious and helpful to all. L. E. ALFORD, Secretary.

GET SOLID PROTECTION AND INSURE WITH
LEON IRWIN & CO.
Fire and Casualty Insurance.
736 UNION STREET. PHONE, MAIN 585.

REV. T. C. WIER, A.M., M.D.

BY REV. W. L. HARRISON.

Rev. Thomas Coke Wier was born in Green County, Ala., Dec. [illegible], 18[illegible]. His father, Rev. William Wier, was born in Ireland [illegible]. In 17[illegible] the family came to America and settled in South Carolina. Here William grew to manhood and married Elizabeth Lipscomb, of South Carolina, a sister of Dr. Dabney Lipscomb, long an esteemed citizen of Columbus, Miss.

William Wier and wife joined the Methodist Church, he from a Presbyterian and she from a Baptist family. They finally settled in Green County. In 18[illegible], William Wier was licensed to preach, and in 18[illegible] was admitted into the traveling connection. He was one of the faithful band of men who wrought mightily under God to establish Methodism in Alabama and some of the border counties of Mississippi. He died in the faith in 18[illegible], and, with his wife, sleeps in Odd Fellows' Cemetery, Columbus, Miss.

Thomas Coke Wier graduated in Lagrange College, Ala., in 18[illegible]. Later he received the honorary degree of A.M. from the same institution. He remained in the College two years after graduation in charge of the Primary Department. In the spring of 1854 he graduated in medicine in Charleston, S. C.

While pursuing his medical studies he was deeply impressed with a call to the ministry, and in the fall of that year, George Shaeffer being presiding elder, was licensed to preach. In December following, 1854, he was admitted into the traveling connection in the Alabama Conference at Talladega. Of the large class admitted at that time only one besides himself is now living, Rev. F. T. J. Brandon, of the North Alabama Conference. Dr. Wier's first appointment was Montevallo Station, with no house of worship and but few members. He remained here two years, the then time limit. At the close of the second year there was a gracious revival, and on the last Sunday of the Conference year a new Methodist Church was dedicated by Dr. T. W. Dorman, of the Alabama Conference.

His second appointment was Wesley Chapel, Mobile. In the second year of his pastorate there, May 4, 1858, he was happily married to Miss Mary L. Baker, whose father, Colonel R. A. Baker, was a prominent layman in Alabama Methodism before the days of lay delegations.

In 1859 Dr. Wier was stationed at Livingston, with a small church attached several miles in the country. In 1860 he was presiding elder on the Macon District, and continued in this work till he became chaplain in the Confederate Army in 1862. He was chaplain for two years; then, as agent for the Soldiers' Tract Association, he labored with Rev. R. J. Harp till the close of the war.

By change of Conference boundaries Dr. Wier was now in the Mobile Conference, and for two years (1867 and 1868) he was stationed in Greensboro. The next two years (1869 and 1870) he was presiding elder of the Columbus District, still in the Mobile Conference. At the end of this year (1870), by change of Conference boundaries, Dr. Wier became a member of the North Mississippi Conference. For eight years he was president of the Verona Female College. During this time he was pastor at Verona six years, and at Okolona one year. In 1879 he was presiding elder on Holly Springs District; in 1880 he was principal of Grenada Institute, and from April till Conference supplied Winona and Vaiden. The next four years, from 1881 to 1884, he was presiding elder on the Columbus District. Dr. Wier was delegate to the General Conference at Nashville in 1882. From 1884 to 1888 he was pastor of Sardis and Davis Chapel. Again delegate to the General Conference at Richmond, Va., in 1886. In 1889 he was teaching in North Mississippi College and pastor at Okolona. The next two years (1890-91) he was pastor of Starkville Station, and four years, 1892-95, was presiding elder on Columbus District. Then followed four years (1896-9[illegible]) on the [illegible] District. From 1900 to [illegible] he was stationed at Lexington and [illegible], and [illegible] at Booneville. In 1906 he was stationed at [illegible] and [illegible]. This was his last regular work. At the end of this year he was given the superannuated relation, having been in the effective ranks fifty-two years.

At [illegible] the faithful wife closed her beautiful, consistent Christian life. For more than forty-eight years she was the loving and sympathetic companion, the helpful comrade of her husband. Ten children blessed their union. One died in infancy. Seven sons and two daughters lived to be grown. One son, Baker A. Wier, died some years ago in Fort Smith, Ark. The six living sons are Howard Baker and William Benson, of Fort Smith, Ark.; Frank [illegible] and R. K., of Starkville, Miss.; John Stuart, professor in Texas A. and M. College, and [illegible], of [illegible], Okla. The daughters are Mrs. A. E. Bonnell and Mrs. R. M. Rowe, of Oklahoma.

Dr. Wier was blessed in advantages far above many of his brethren in the ranks of Methodist preachers. He was well born, well reared, well educated. As a result he had the self-mastery which gave him the poise in any presence, before any congregation. With pleasing manner, unfailing good humor and [illegible] for his kind, he has been always the ideal of the fraternal gentleman. Rather below medium size, erect, alert, he is the embodiment of health and activity. His voice is clear, strong, disciplined, and of extraordinary compass. Needless to say he is a strong preacher, delivering his sermons in well-wrought thinking and precise language. Even now, past fourscore, he preaches with great vigor, scarcely below the efforts of his palmy days.

At the last Conference he was placed, at his own request, in the supernumerary relation. He is in frequent demand by the pastors near Starkville, where he now resides. In response to such requests, he preached fifty-two times last year.

LAYMAN'S MOVEMENT.

The committee appointed by the Layman's Missionary Conference, held recently in Chattanooga, to consider the proposition of providing for the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, a great assembly ground for the gathering together of the armies of the church for business, instruction, inspiration and recreation, met at Tate Springs, Tenn., June 13, 1908, and after carefully canvassing the matter, decided to present to the Church the following resolutions:

First—That we believe that it is the general feeling in our Church that such an assembly ground should be provided as a rallying place for all the armies of the service, such as the General Conference, the Bishop's Meetings, General Board of Missions, Woman's Board of Missions, Sunday School Board, Epworth League, Young People's Missionary Societies, Layman's Missionary Societies, Layman's Missionary Movement, and all other important bodies of the Church, at such times as they may desire to meet at this place, and a place where the Church may provide Bible Conferences, Sunday School Institutes and all other helpful institutions and associations.

Second—That our Church needs such a place for the gathering together of our families where our young people may have proper outing, recreation and amusement, and at proper times have the benefit of various helpful institutions of the Church and the services of the most helpful talent of our Church.

Third—That this should be the great Methodist Chautauqua of the South.

Fourth—That the place to be selected should embody the following features:

(1) Other things being equal, accessibility to the whole Church should be considered a prominent feature.

The Centenary College of Louisiana,
Shreveport, La.
For Announcement or other information
Address:
President W. L. WEBER,
Shreveport, La.

W. W. Carre Co., Ltd,
Manufacturer and Exporter of
LUMBER,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Phone Main [illegible]
ROOMS and BOARD
[illegible] and [illegible] SOUTH STREET LAFAYETTE SQUARE,
CORNER ST. CHARLES ST., NEW ORLEANS
UNLIMITED MEALS. ALVIN PORTER, Manager.

THE SAFEST AND QUICKEST WAY
—TO—
TRANSFER MONEY
—IS BY—
Long Distance Telephone
FOR RATES APPLY TO LOCAL MANAGER.
Cumberland Telephone & Telegraph Co.,
INCORPORATED.

(2) That it should be a health resort where the Church may be benefited physically as well as mentally and spiritually.

(3) That curative mineral waters, mountain air and scenery are to be considered prominent features; and it is also essential that there be a body of water, which will furnish facilities for fishing, rowing and other aquatic recreations.

Fifth—That the committee is fully aware that to establish an institution of the kind indicated herein it will require a large investment, and that it must be founded and conducted strictly on the best business principles. It should be remembered in subscribing that it is not a donation, but an investment.

The committee has under advisement the question of location, and as soon as this has been decided upon a prospectus will be issued, outlining the business plans.

Following are the Annual Conference Leaders:

Alabama—Judge A. E. Barnett, Opelika, Ala.
Arkansas—F. W. Furry, Van Buren, Ark.
Baltimore—F. B. Thomas, Roanoke, Va.
Columbia—J. J. Lamb, Coquille, Ore.
Florida—T. J. Watkins, Orlando, Fla.
Holston—Maj. A. D. Reynolds, Bristol, Tenn.
Kentucky—J. L. Gaugh, Wilmore, Ky.
Little Rock—Judge J. S. Steele, Lockesburg, Ark.
Louisiana—W. W. Carre, New Orleans, La.
Louisville—C. M. Phillips, Louisville, Ky.
Memphis—T. B. King, Memphis, Tenn.
Mississippi—Judge A. G. Norrell, Florence, Miss.
Missouri—Judge B. J. Casteel, St. Joe, Mo.
New Mexico—Judge D. G. Grantham, Carlsbad, N. Mex.

North Alabama—Dr. S. C. Tatum, Center, Ala.
North Carolina—Gen. J. S. Carr, Durham, N. C.
North Georgia—L. M. Pennington, Eatonton, Ga.
North Mississippi—Judge F. A. Critz, West Point, Miss.
North Texas—E. G. Knight, Dallas, Texas.
Northwest Texas—Judge W. E. Williams, Ft. Worth, Texas.
Oklahoma—Dr. A. E. Bonnell, Muskogee, Okla.
St. Louis—Dr. J. W. Vaughan, St. Louis, Mo.
South Carolina—J. B. Carlisle, Spartanburg, S. C.
South Georgia—R. F. Burden, Macon, Ga.
Southwest Missouri—
Tennessee—Prof. Wm. Hughes, Spring Hill, Tenn.
Texas—R. D. Hart, Texarkana, Texas.
Virginia—J. P. Pettyjohn, Lynchburg, Va.
West Texas—R. H. Wester, San Antonio, Texas.

CENTENARY COLLEGE.

I have mailed a copy of our announcement to every member of the Louisiana Conference and one to every friend of Christian education in Louisiana whose name I had secured. It will be a great help to me in our work if our pastors will send me the names of boys who are planning to attend college, or who ought to be making such plans.

I wish to make a special appeal to the Alumni and former students of Centenary to help us in putting our claims before prospective students. It has been my good fortune to meet only those former students who are loyal to Centenary College wherever it may be domiclied.

Will not those to whom this appeal is addressed help us at once? W. L. WEBER.

Personal

Rev. J. H. Williams is still free to help in meetings, and will be glad to hear from the brethren desiring his assistance. Address him at Slidell, La.

COLUMBUS DISTRICT NOTES.

Dear Dr. Boswell: I have completed the second round of Quarterly Conferences for the Columbus District. The work is active throughout and progressing nicely. All the preachers are earnestly and faithfully at work and making things tell. They are planning the summer revival campaign with care and prayer. Some have already held revival services with good results.

Brother Thomas was assisted at Macon by Brother E. B. Ramsey, of old North Mississippi fame, now of Memphis Conference.

Brother Dorsey held his own revival, and received fifty-odd into his church.

The great Cates revival is now going on in Westpoint, and all the moral and religious forces of the community are on the field to take the city for Christ and the right.

Rev. W. C. Galceran has been quite ill for weeks, and a good deal of the time in the hospital in Columbus. His trouble has been a chronic stomach trouble and typhoid fever. He is now better and slowly convalescing. Let prayers be made that he may be permanently restored. Brother Galceran is a true and valuable man, and serves as royal and noble people as can be found anywhere. This is his fourth year in Columbus District, and he is the most universally loved and popular man I have ever known. Not by a single word or even innuendo have I ever heard a single man, woman or child give expression derogatory to him as a man, or a Christian minister. On the contrary, his name is a household word in all the homes of his people. They love him, and love him truly and ardently. I truly believe they would be glad to take him four years more if they could get him.

I have been fortunate, indeed, to secure the services of Rev. L. C. Brannon, of the Southern University, to take charge of Columbus Circuit for the summer months, as the physicians will not allow Brother Galceran to do any more work for two or three months.

Brother Brannon comes with the highest recommendation as a man of ability, consecration and zeal. He is just from the Students' Missionary Conference at Asheville, N. C., and is full of missionary enthusiasm. He will be in revival meeting most all his time on the work, as he has six to hold.

I have also secured a splendid young man, Rev. J. A. Coleman, of the Southern University, for Cedar Bluff work. He has entered upon his work with heart and promise. The people have received him with open and hungry hearts.

Brother Pope has had a fine and very effective revival at Second Church. Rev. I. F. Bilbro, of the Alabama Conference did the preaching, and it was good and abiding. L. M. LIPSCOMB.

COURSE OF STUDY FOR UNDERGRADUATES.

(PAGE 317, DISCIPLINE, EFFECTIVE, 1908.)

For Admission on Trial.—English Grammar; Rhetoric; Geography; Arithmetic, with special reference to bookkeeping; "Outlines of World's History" (Swinton); "Manual of Christian Doctrine" (Banks); Wesley's Sermons on "Justification by Faith" and the "Witness of the Spirit"; The Book of Discipline; Written Sermon.

First Year—"The Cyclopedic Handbook of the Bible" (Angus-Green); Chapters xvii-xxi; "Personal Salvation" (Tillett); "Ministry to the Congregation" (Kern); Wesley's "Doctrinal Standards," Sermons 1-26; The Book of Discipline; "The Apostolic Age" (Purves); Written Sermon on Repentance.

To be Read: Telford's "Life of John Wesley"; Broadus on the Preparation and Delivery of Sermons; "The Tongue of Fire" (Arthur); "Ecclesiastical Architecture" (Martin).

Second Year—"The Cyclopedic Handbook of the Bible" (Angus-Green), Chapters i-x; "System of Christian Dictrine" (Sheldon), Parts I, II, III; Wesley's "Doctrinal Standards," Sermons 27-52; "How to Conduct a Sunday School" (Lawrance); "The Kingdom in the Cradle" (Atkins); "The Training of the Twelve" (Bruce); Written Sermon on Justification by Faith.

To be Read: Schaff's "History of the Christian Church" (Volume VI); "The Doctrine of the Prophets" (Kirkpatrick); "Short History of the English People" (Green); "Life of Alexander Duff" (Smith); Manual of the Discipline.

Third Year—"The Cyclopedic Handbook of the Bible" (Angus-Green), Chapters xi-xvi; "System of Christian Doctrine" (Sheldon), Parts IV, V; "History of Methodism" (McTyeire); "Elements of Psychology" (Davis); "The Pastor and Modern Missions" (Mott); Written Sermon on the Witness of the Spirit.

To be Read: Paine's Life of McKendree"; Peabody's "Christ and the Social Question"; Bernard's "Progress of Doctrine in the New Testament"; Sanday's "Life of Christ"; The Methodist Review.

Fourth Year—"History of the Christian Church" (Fisher); "Constitutional History of American Episcopal Methodism" (Tigert); Jevons' "Elements of Logic"; "Elements of Ethics" (Davis); "Grounds of Theistic and Christian Belief" (Fisher); Written Sermon on Regeneration.

To be Read: Conybeare and Howson's "Life and Epistles of St. Paul"; "The Son of Man" (Alexander); "The Hymn Book and the Modern Church" (Gregory); "The World as a Subject of Redemption" (Freemantle); The Methodist Review.

SEASHORE CAMP MEETING

From July 8th to 15th, 1908.

SPECIAL RATES.

No Admission Fee at the Gates of the Grounds During the Camp Meeting.

The management announces the Thirty-seventh Annual Camp Meeting, Seashore Camp Grounds, commencing Wednesday, July 8, and continuing until July 15. The cottages and grounds have been put in thorough order, and other improvements made, looking to the comfort and convenience of those who attend this meeting.

The religious services are under the direction of the Presiding Elders of New Orleans, Seashore and Mobile District Conferences of the M. E. Church, South, and these brethren will be assisted by the best preaching talent that can be obtained.

Preaching under the Tabernacle Grove, and Cottage Prayer Meetings, and other religious services, will be held during each day and evening, to which all persons on the grounds are not only cordially invited, but are expected to attend.

LOCATION.

The Seashore Camp Ground is located on the Mississippi Sound, seventy-nine miles from New Orleans and sixty-two miles from Mobile, on the Louisville and Nashville Railroad, and is one of the most beautiful places on the Gulf Coast. It enjoys a railroad service that is unexcelled for comfort and convenience. Magnificent new Artesian wells furnish cool and life-giving water. By a perfect system of water works the cottages and hotels are furnished with this water direct from the well.

The Grounds are Lighted by Electricity.

A pier twelve hundred and forty feet in length, with a Summer house on the end, extends out into the Gulf, and offers positively the most delightful advantages in the South for a promenade. The bathing is unexcelled by any other point on the gulf. All parties residing on the grounds have the privilege of the bath-houses. Good board can be secured at the restaurant, which is in charge of a competent chef, and in private houses at reasonable rates. The comfort and convenience of all visitors will be carefully looked after.

All Methodist preachers will be admitted into the Grounds and provided with board and lodging free of charge during Camp Meeting.

Persons wishing to secure accommodations before the rush of opening of Camp Meeting should address communications to R. G. Price, Keeper Seashore Camp Ground, Biloxi, Miss., or any of the undersigned officers.

Dr. E. L. McGehee, President, New Orleans, La.,
Sam Meyer, Financial Secretary, New Orleans, La.

SEASHORE ASSEMBLY FOR CHRISTIAN WORKERS.

The ninth session of the Seashore Assembly for Christian Workers (formerly the Seashore Epworth League Assembly) will open Thursday evening, July 25, at the famous Seashore Camp Ground, Biloxi, Miss., and will conclude Sunday evening, August 2. The Assembly offers to Epworth Leaguers, Sunday School workers, and all others who desire to equip themselves for Christian work, courses in systematic Bible Study, Home and Foreign Missions, Epworth League Methods, and Personal Work. Devotional meetings will be held every morning in the Tabernacle and every evening on thqe Beach. The forenoons will be given to study, the afternoons reserved for recreation, and the evenings for inspirational lectures.

Lodging will be provided in the Epworth Lodge, owned and managed by the Assembly, for as many advance applicants as the Lodge will accommodate at $2.50 for the ten days of the session. Board can be had at restaurant or private table at 75 cents to $1 a day.

For further particulars address F. S. Parker, President, 810 Broadway, Nashville, Tenn., or C. D. Atkinson, Secretary, 734 Nashville Avenue, New Orleans, La.

W. F. M. S.

THE TREASURER'S REPORT AND AN APPEAL.

Our Conference Treasurer, Mrs. Zelle Watts Kendall, sends her report for the first quarter, which is very encouraging. She tells us that she has received more on the Pledge during this quarter than she has ever done in any preceding quarter. Let us keep the record up and see to it that Conference finds us with every dollar of our Pledge redeemed.

REPORT FOR FIRST QUARTER, 1908-09.

Dues	$304.68
Pledge	412.50
Scholarship	37.50
Day Schools	10.50
Bible Women	62.25
Conference Fund	72.39
	$900.39

I earnestly request each district secretary and every auxiliary to send me reports of work planned or accomplished. Letters from our missionaries will appear as often as possible. There will be need also of news from the home workers. Thus, we "provoke one another to love and to good works," and arouse an interest which cannot be awakened by exhortations or arguments on missions. We all believe in missions. We need to put our faith into practice.

CLARA B. DRAKE,
Supt. Press Work, Mississippi Conference.

LETTER FROM CHINA.

Shanghai, China, May 4, 1908.

Dear Friends: For so long a time we had our annual meeting later in June, that the early date has slipped upon me unawares. I have fears that in the long voyage my letter may miss you, but I make this trial.

It does seem more than two years since I met with you in Abilene, yet it seems a short time that I have been in China. Your prayers have done much to keep the days filled with holy joy for me, therefore they pass on rapid wings. Could you see me now you would doubtless be impressed with the fact that I have not changed any. I sit here in my study, wearing clothing that your eyes have seen, your loving hands helped to make—two years have brought little of outward change. Yet I am changed, as every one who lives in this Eastern world must be. Life is so different: ideals, standards, attitude toward life and things, all, all is different. As I live longer here, and grow into the consciousness that China is my home, the Chinese my adopted people, I begin to realize that I must of necessity adopt something of their attitude of mind and heart; that in order to enter into their heart-life and help them change what is wrong, they must feel that I am looking at them from their own standpoint. They do adopt things Western, but the more I watch them the more am I convinced that they are willing to adopt new ways, not because they are Western, but because they are good, and chance to be Western.

So, what we find to be true of them concerning reception of new inventions and outward changes, is just as true of their manner of receiving and adopting our faith, our Christ, our God. We cannot tack onto their old experience and wisdom about life and things our interpretations of Christ and his teachings. It is essential that we give them Christ, that we let them have his teachings—not our Western customs and peculiar way of putting the Gospel into practice. This may sound easy, but I have not found it so. As hard as it may seem to a newcomer not to be able to speak to the people, I begin to think it is really one of God's safeguards. While we learn their strange, intricate language, we are also learning to understand them, to respect their simple philosophy of people and life; and we ourselves are mysteriously changed the while.

So what may you not expect to see in me in six long years!

Just now in McTyeire School dining-room are gathered more than one hundred girls, three Chinese lady teachers. The primary children from the day school next door take tiffin (lunch) with the boarding school girls—though they go home at night. There are more than thirty of them from five to thirteen years old. About eighty board here.

Their windows are open on this lovely May day, and their voices betoken merry hearts—just such a sound as you would expect from one hundred school girls at home, only more subdued in tone.

They are there from all classes of society—though none are exceedingly poor. Some of the brightest and best we have are scholarship girls—some having finished in other mission schools have been transferred, scholarship and all, to McTyeire. Not one girl supported by the workers at home, now in our school, but that is a credit to our work. Then, too, we have girls from rich homes in Shanghai, others from high official homes in many provinces. They are most democratic in spirit, and nowhere does real worth of character and diligence as students count for more than among our school girls. Riches, even official rank, doesn't bring honor to a worthless or careless student. They are a crowd of lovely, dear girls, lovable and ready to be loved—ever responsive to the highest. All of our oldest girls are Christians. Still we have some now who are seventeen or eighteen, sent to us as graduates of a good Chinese School in Shanghai, opened and managed entirely by Chinese, and anti-Christians. Five of these girls are not Christians, and they attempt to take every decided stand against the Bible and Christian doctrine, yet our work and prayers are for them, and I don't believe they can hold out long. One of the brightest and strongest of them has shown signs of the power of the Gospel in her heart.

My work has been about the same as last year—three hours of teaching daily. Classes in American, Roman, English History, American and English Literature; two Bible classes. My Bible teaching I have enjoyed especially this year, taking a class of seven splendid young women through Prophecy. We began last year with Leviticus, so you see I have taught these almost all of the Old Testament. This is my joy, my first love.

My other Bible class consists of three younger girls, just beginning Bible in English with Genesis. To-day we had Exodus, chapters 5, 6 and 7. They seemed to understand and appreciate the situation of Moses and Pharaoh with each other and with God. One of these three girls is not a professed Christian, though she is much on my heart, and I believe is near the kingdom. It may be of interest to know that her father is a graduate of Yale, and is now president of the Shanghai-Nanking Railway. The name is Woo, and he is very wealthy. His wife is so heathen, and objects to Nyok Fang being a Christian, though I am trusting God to do his own work in her heart. She has a pretty face and is not spoiled yet.

This year we have three young ladies to graduate. One is going to Randolph-Macon, to join her friend, Miss Loki. The other two are scholarship girls—both daughters of preachers. Miss Zung came here from Huchow, so returns to Virginia School to teach music. The other, Miss Dong, will remain in McTyeire as teacher of music—she is one of the two really brilliant musicians from the school. The other one is also daughter of our own pastor, Mr. Sze, and has been one year in New York studying under Domroschk—we dare to hope that Miss Dong may also have such an opportunity.

Have you enjoyed hearing of the school and girls? It is my life, my loved labor, I know little else to tell you.

For myself, I am well, have been quite whole and able most of the days, and but for some false eyes I have adopted, you would never surmise that I have spent even two years studying Chinese.

Is Chinese hard? Yes, very hard—but I am digging away and learning something of it as the days pass.

Am I glad I am here? Yes, glad and grateful. I have all things and do abound. In love and thought and prayers from dear ones at home I am rich. In loving, helpful friends out here I rejoice; God is good. I find him all-sufficient.

Hardships? Yes, a few—the hardest, perhaps, just such as you would never think of—yet I find here, just as at home, that there is a way by which I can live above the hardships.

May the Spirit dwell in your hearts and in your midst, blessing you in abundant measure.

Loving greetings to all from your China missionary,

SOPHIA MANNS.

A PLEASANT AND PROFITABLE VISIT.

Recently I spent a week at Bolton assisting the pastor, Rev. I. L. Peebles, in a series of services. The congregations were large and appreciative, increasing in numbers and interest as the meeting progressed. Brother Peebles is rounding out very successfully his fourth year at Bolton. The people of all creeds and classes hold him in very high esteem. He is one of the most faithful and consecrated men I have ever known. It was a privilege to be associated with him and his kind people. They were especially kind to this scribe.

THOMAS B. CLIFFORD.
Meridian, Miss.

A MODEL LOCAL PREACHER.

A note in the ADVOCATE received yesterday tells me that Rev. Milton Ferrell, of the Adams Charge, is dead. I have known him for twenty-five years. He was a model local preacher. His educational and general intellectual equipment was limited. His physique was not robust—one arm was almost useless. His family was large and his means meagre. Yet no man of his rank was more useful. I do not recall any local preacher who did quite as much for the church as he. He was never idle, never out of work. He never aspired to be more than a local preacher, but I have known itinerants who accomplished far less. He was not of the class known as "roving evangelists"—he was simply a local preacher. He traveled through the counties, some four or five, contiguous to his home, and peddled as an "agent." As he went he found out the needy places—dark corners of which the circuit preachers knew not, or were unable to reach. In these he preached, held revivals, built up churches and organized Sunday Schools. Thus he was constantly an unsalaried and very efficient home missionary. The pastors and presiding elders honored him; "the common people heard him gladly," and everybody loved him. Alas! his class is too small. Wherever he went he left the impress of his life. "His works do follow him." Verily, he was a model local preacher. When shall we see his like again?

H. W. FEATHERSTUN.

KEEP COOL For Refrigerators and Gas Stoves go to United Hardward Co., Ltd.,
1005-1007 Canal Street, New Orleans.

ESTABLISHED 1891
JOHN DAVID BURGHARDT CO.,
THE RELIABLE PLUMBERS and GAS FITTERS.
Agency: Born's Patent Steel Ranges. Hygeia Water Filters.
612-615 Bienville St. Phone Main, [illegible]
Jobbing and Repair Work a Specialty. New Orleans, La.

The Home Circle.

A WORD FOR THE BOY.

A boy at fifteen years of age is, in our opinion, at the most important period of his life. He is at the forks of the road. What he needs more than anything else is sympathy and advice. It would be strange, indeed, if boys did not build castles in Spain at that age, and what they need is the practical suggestion of someone who is himself a success in life to guide them. Most people think that boys do not need their sympathy or advice. It is a great mistake. They need it as much as girls. We have never known one of them to refuse to take advice if it were tendered to him at the right time, in the right place, and in the right spirit. The mistake that most people make in talking to boys is that they lecture to them with all sorts of foolish suggestions, and expect a good deal more from them than they would from a man. If we had any word of counsel to give it would be: Don't lecture a boy. Don't nag him. Do not persecute him if he has done some wrong. Don't laugh at him if he has failed, perhaps in some over-ambitious boyish schemes. Don't crush him. Give the boy a chance.—Catholic Mirror.

AND WHAT THEN?

When Philip de Neri, who, in the sixteenth century, renounced the hereditary honors of Florentine nobility for the service of God, was living in an Italian university, a young man came to him with a face full of delight, and told him he had come to the law school of that place on account of its great fame, and that he intended to spare no pains or labor to get through his studies as soon as possible.

Philip waited for his conclusion with great patience, and then said:

"Well, and when you have got through your course of studies, what do you mean to do?"

"Then I shall take my doctor's degree," answered the young man.

"And then?" asked Philip again.

"And then," continued the youth, "I shall have a number of difficult questions to manage, shall catch people's notice by my eloquence, my zeal, my learning, my acuteness, and gain a great reputation."

"And then?" repeated the aged and honored teacher.

"And then," replied the youth, "why, there can't be a question, I shall be promoted to some high office or other. Besides, I will make money and grow rich."

"And then?" repeated Philip.

"And then," pursued the young lawyer, "I shall be comfortably and honorably situated in wealth and dignity."

"And then?" asked the venerable man.

"And then," said the youth," and then—and then—then I shall die."

Here Philip raised his voice. "And what then?"

Whereupon the young man made no answer, but cast down his head and went away. The last "And then?" had, like lightning, pierced his soul, and he could not get rid of it. Soon after he forsook the law and gave himself to the ministry of Christ, and spent the remainder of his days in godly words and works.—Home Herald.

THE YOUNG MAIL CARRIER.

"Uncle Sam's mail can't be delayed. It must go through. Clear the way!"

Warren flung himself on his sled, and went rushing down the steep hill at a rate that almost took his breath away.

"Guess it couldn't go much faster than that by the regular express," he said as he reached the end.

Then, in a rueful voice: "My, but I've lost some of it! Oh, dear! the letters are scattered all along the hill."

There were bright red postage stamps gleaming in the snow to mark the presence of letters. Warren went back and picked them up—one, two, three, four, five, six. How many did he have before he started? He stopped to think.

"Mother gave me two, and auntie—how many? I didn't notice I was so interested in playing with the sled. Well, I'll go on to the postoffice with them."

But he was quieter as he walked along, and only once attempted to run and slide on his sled.

"I suppose I didn't pay much attention to mother and auntie when they gave me the letters," he was reflecting aloud. "But I was so busy playing."

He took good care to hold the letters tightly in his hands and to mail them himself. Then he said in a relieved voice, "Well, I caught the mail train, and auntie said she didn't think I would have time. That's one good thing."

Hurrying home he entered the house with his cheeks all ablaze with excitement and health. He had found the trip one of pleasure, and his sled had proved a companion of the greatest value.

"Did you mail the letters?" asked his mother when he entered the house.

"Yes, mother, and I caught the mail train. I just whizzed down the hills. I played I was a regular mail train, and I didn't stop for anything."

"And you had all your letters?"

"Why, of course," replied Warren, flushing a little as he remembered his mishap.

There was a look in his mother's eyes that confused him; also he saw it reflected in his aunt's.

"I—that is, I think I did. How many did you give me?"

"How many did you take? A good mail carrier never goes off without knowing what he takes."

"I didn't count them," confessed Warren.

"No, you didn't count them, nor did you hear what we said, if you think you mailed them all," said his mother slowly.

Then holding a letter in her hand toward him she continued: "This was picked up on the hill by Mr. Surdam. He happened to know my sister's name, and he returned it to me."

Warren turned red, and then confessed: "I had an accident on the hill, and lost the letters, but I returned and thought I picked them all up."

"That's it, Warren, you thought you found them all, but you were not sure. You did not listen to us when we told you to mail them—seven in all. It is your old failing, lack of attention when others are giving you orders. Now you see the trouble you have caused us."

"But I'll go right down again to the postoffice."

"That will do no good. The mail train has gone."

"But there is another in a few hours, and I'll catch that," added Warren.

"No, that will not do. The letter happened to be the one to my sister, and I invited her up with Willie to spend to-morrow with you. She can't get in in time now. It may be that the punishment will be worth more to you after all than the holiday with your cousin."

Warren reflected deeply on these words that afternoon, and reached the conclusion after all that to be a successful mail carrier one had to be attentive to business as well as a quick traveler, and incidentally he knew that he would try to make the lesson a profitable one in correcting his peculiar fault of inattention when receiving orders.—Selected.

MIDGE SMILEY'S GRADUATION ESSAY.

"Midge Smiley is an awful smart gal," said Mrs. Hezekiah Cummins, as she folded her shawl in its regular creases on her return from the Berryville High School "exercises." "I must say it, even if she is my niece, that I consider she has real talent. Her composition was just as smooth as if she'd wrote for the papers all her days. Her ma set there, just like a bump on a log, an' didn't appear to know what was being read. It must 'a' been real disapp'intin' to Midge, after the way she's worked over that composition."

"What was the subject of her composition?" asked Mrs. Miller.

"It was a graduatin' essay," answered Mrs. Cummins, "an' it showed a good deal o' thought in a 16-year-old gal, jest finishin' off her schoolin'. It was called 'The Stern Duties of Life Upon Which We Are About Enterin'.' That was the subject of it, an' the idee was well kerried out."

"Well, now, it's sing'lar how gals is made, aint it?" inquired Mrs. Miller. "Now, I should never've expected to hear Midge Smiley holdin' forth on jest that subject."

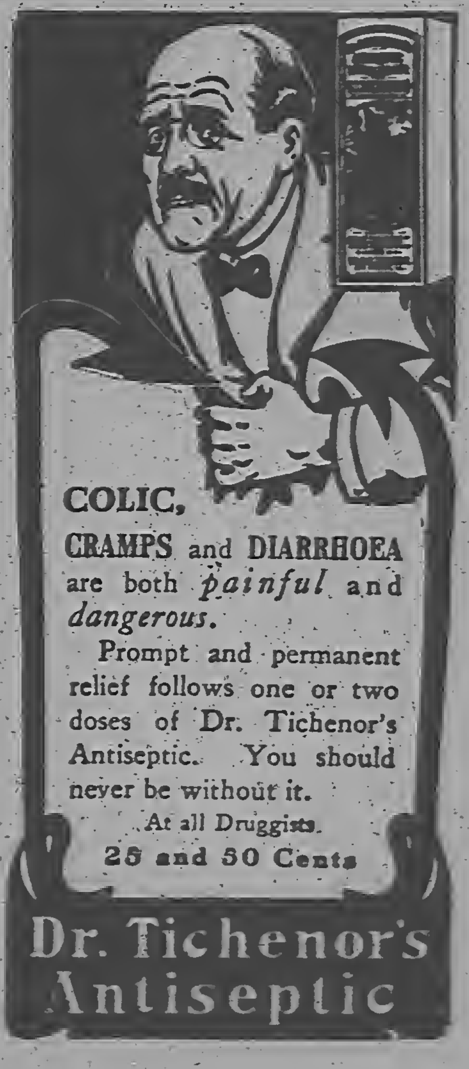
"Why wouldn't you, I'd like to know?" demanded the essayist's aunt.

"Well," resumed Mrs. Miller, "some way or 'nother, I didn't think Midge Smiley was jest perpared to tackle that subject. For yest'day afternoon, when I was over to her ma's, Midge she lay in a hammock readin' one of them historical novels, whilst her ma did up the dinner dishes, an' all the rest o' the work. But then," added Mrs. Miller, philosophically, "I reckon compositions is one thing an' the kerryin' out o' the ideas that's in 'em is another thing."—The Picayune.

"I want some collars for my husband," said a lady in a department store, "but I am afraid I have forgotten the size." "Thirteen and a half, ma'am?" suggested the clerk. "That's it. How on earth did you know?" "Gentlemen who let their wives buy their collars for 'em are almost always about that size, ma'am," exclaimed the observant clerk.—Exchange.

BELLEVUE POULTRY SUPPLY CO.

Everything in the poultry line: Chickens, Parrots, Guinea Pigs, Rabbits and Pet Stock of every description; Cyphers, Incubators and Feed at Factory Prices, may be had by writing us at 740 Camp St., New Orleans, La. Catalogue sent free.



COLIC,
CRAMPS and DIARRHOEA are both painful and dangerous.

Prompt and permanent relief follows one or two doses of Dr. Tichenor's Antiseptic. You should never be without it.

At all Druggists.
25 and 50 Cents

Dr. Tichenor's Antiseptic

Christian Advocate.

REV. JNO. W. BOSWELL, D.D., Editor.
REV. H. WHITEHEAD, Ass't Editor.
CHAS. O. CHALMERS, Publisher.

ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT NEW ORLEANS AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

OFFICE: 512 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

TERMS:
One Copy, one year, $2; six months, $1. To Preachers of all Denominations, half-price.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEES:
LOUISIANA CONFERENCE—Rev. W. W. Drake, Rev. K. E. Joyner, Rev. J. M. Henry.
MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE—Rev. M. L. Burton, Rev. W. H. Lewis, Rev. C. W. Crisler.
NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE—Rev. W. T. J. Sullivan, D.D.; Rev. J. T. Murrah; Rev. W. W. Woollard.

ROBBERS OF CHURCHES.

When Mr. Carnegie set apart millions of dollars for the pensioning of old and faithful teachers, stipulating that teachers in schools under denominational control should not share in its benefits, it is charitable to say that he did not intend to rob the churches of their schools. But such is the tendency. Trustees of school property, which for generations past have been accepted and acknowledged and reported and supported, as belonging to the Church, have discovered that the Church neither owns them nor has any control over them. And in at least one instance an ecclesiastical governing body, a Synod, authorized such a change in its charter as would vest the control of their school in a self-perpetuating board of trustees, and thus remove the school from the control of the Church. This was done by the two Synods of Kentucky with reference to Central University, a Presbyterian institution. The object in view was to place the school on the Carnegie pension foundation. This can be characterized in no other way than a deliberate effort to rob the Church of its right. Complaint of this action was made to the General Assembly (Southern), which sustained the complaint, and remanded the matter to the Synod for a rehearing.

An effort is likewise being made in Virginia to wrest the "Randolph-Macon system" of schools from the control of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. Indeed, the trustees have assumed, and passed a resolution to the effect, that the system is under the control of the trustees, and not of the Annual Conferences. There is ground for their contention, which the committee appointed by the Conference to confer with the trustees seem to have conceded by asking the trustees "to instruct its attorney to make application to the State Corporation Commission for such change in its charter as will give to the patronizing Conference the right to nominate or to elect trustees as the Conference may desire;" and by further asking "that, in the event this request for a change of charter shall be denied in the highest tribunals, the Board of Trustees pass a resolution requesting the Conference to select a certain number of men from among whom the Board will select trustees to fill all vacancies that may arise in their number." To these requests the trustees answered, that the Board is self-perpetuating, and without authority to delegate the election of trustees to the Conference, or to any other person or persons, and that such action would imperil the charter of the College and the title to its invested funds.

This was a virtual denial of the Church's ownership in Randolph-Macon College. Indeed, the trustees declared that the Church's interest in the College was "only sympathetic." Yet, ever since its establishment—more than seventy years ago—the trustees have been making their reports to the Conference regularly, and have ever looked to the Church for support. Until the teachers' pension fund was provided by Mr. Carnegie nobody ever thought of denying that Randolph-Macon College was a Church institution. But for the sake of an old-age pension the trustees are willing to divorce the College altogether from the Church and have it put on the Carnegie foundation. In that case the trustees can no longer make report to the Annual Conference, nor acknowledge any sort of supervision by the Church. They woold thus rob the Church.

The trustees do say that "if the acceptance of this benefit will require the relinquishing or limitation of the absolute right of management of the institution (by the Board of Trustees), or the conduct of its affairs under the charter, or change in any way the relationship of the schools and the Church, then we would decline to accept the benefits of the said Carnegie foundation." The trustees may well say that, for, as the Board has absolute control and is a self-perpetuating body, and as the Church has "only a sympathetic interest" in the schools, the trustees of the Carnegie fund will comply with their promise without further inquiry. Mr. Carnegie would not let the "sympathetic interest" of the Church in any school that comes up to his requirement stand in the way of a pension, provided the Church exercises no control.

We allude to this matter, and have given the details in regard to the Presbyterian school in Kentucky, and the Randolph-Macon system in Virginia, simply to show what a price our Methodist institutions and schools of all other denominations will have to pay in order to secure a pension for their teachers.

If our schools are worth the time and trouble and sacrifice necessary to establish them—all in the interest of Christian education—they are worth preserving. We can think nothing more traitorous to the highest and best interests of the Church than the action of trustees of the Church schools in deliberately severing their trust from the Church, and succumbing, for the sake of money, to the dictates of a rich man, who has no sympathy with evangelical religion. No matter if the fathers did make the mistake of chartering self-perpetuating boards, they should respect their intention to build up denominational schools for promoting religious education. Boards of Trustees should not rob the Churches of their hard-earned property.

WRITING FOR THE ADVOCATES.

Our Brother Lowrey, of the Louisiana Conference, has contributed to this issue of the ADVOCATE a striking article, which we hope all our friends will read with an eye to profit. It strikes in more directions than one. It strikes at a number of people who will never feel the blow, viz., that large class of Church members who never read the Church papers. It strikes a considerable number of pastors, who never aid in the circulation of the Conference organs. It strikes those editors who, through indolence and indifference or conceit, never seek to secure the best talent to write for their columns. And hardest of all, it strikes "those of our preachers that the Bishop's Cabinet brand as 'two thousand men' (that is something new to us; we hardly know what is meant), who seem to be the last that we hear from in our Church papers."

On the point last noted we might possibly be convicted of failure in duty. But we are not wholly at fault. Not once, but many times, we have spoken of the slowness of our best-equipped men to write for our paper. We have asked, and in instances have insisted, that brethren write. We have had promises. But we are not surprised that they decline. Men of "superior knowledge" these days sell the product of their brains, and if they write at all they write for those papers that pay them. How many communications have reached us, accompanied by a note saying, "the enclosed article is submitted at the usual rates." As we have no fund for the purchase of manuscripts, if the article is accompanied by stamps, we return it. If not, we gently lay it in a convenient drawer or put it in the waste-basket. The articles for sale, we are glad to say, have invariably come from men and women outside our patronizing territory.

Brethren inside of our territory should not wait to be invited to write for the paper. Brother Lowrey did not. The paper is theirs, more than it is ours, and they know the columns are open for the discussion of all suitable subjects. We would be glad to receive them, without promising to print everything that comes to hand. We have been fortunate of late. Dr. Featherstun has favored us with six thoughtful papers, and we have on file six more from Rev. D. M. Geddie on a subject that will probably provoke discussion. Let it come. We will all enjoy it, if conducted in a brotherly spirit. We have also the promise of several papers on infant baptism, a subject about which many of our best people need information.

A suggestion: Let those who go into the discussion, or send us an article on any subject, give us clean copy. Please do not write and scratch out, and line and interline until it is well-nigh impossible to read the paper. This is a hint to the wise.

BATON ROUGE DISTRICT CONFERENCE

It was our pleasure to spend one day last week at the Baton Rouge District Conference, which convened July 1 in the hospitable little town of Ponchatoula, La. Presiding Elder R. W. Tucker was in the chair, and Rev. W. D. Kleinschmidt was at the secretary's table. The delegation—preachers and laymen—was somewhat larger than is usually seen on such occasions. The brethren were in good health and fine spirits, and, as a rule, as far as we could hear, made good reports. The presiding elder was more than ordinarily happy, and, by his good talks and fine spirit, added much to the interest and profit of the occasion.

The brethren, at an unexpected moment, called us out to represent the ADVOCATE, and just as unexpectedly we made them a "brand-new" speech, the quality of which we will not vouch for. We were followed by Dr. Sawyer, who represented the mission interests of the Conference. During the first half of the speech the Doctor did not seem to be fully at himself. He did not ring clear. The last half he had liberty, and made a telling talk. Rev. William Schuhle was host, and looked well after his guests.

The Conference was held in the new church—finished and occupied just at the close of Rev. F. N. Sweeney's four-year pastorate at Ponchatoula. We had heard and read of the new church, but we had no idea until we saw it of its beauty and elegance. It must be seen to be appreciated. The picture we printed of it some months ago does not do it justice. When seated with modern pews, it will be in all respects a superior building—would be an ornament in a town four times the size of Ponchatoula.

We will look to the secretary to give the details of the Conference.

ATTENTION, UNDERGRADUATES.

At the request of Rev. H. W. May, of the Louisiana Conference, we print again the Course of Study for undergraduates. There is, he says, some misunderstanding, owing to the fact that the first edition of the new Discipline did not contain the revised course of study. It was not to go into effect until 1908. It is in effect now, and our young preachers would do well to bear it in mind, and prepare themselves.

The course will be found in another column of this issue.

PERSONAL.

Rev. George Jackson has been in the city the past week, and on Sunday last preached twice—in the morning at Mary Werlein Mission, and in the evening at Parker Memorial.

Rev. C. D. Atkinson and Rev. H. T. Carley, and other pastors whose names we have not heard, are enjoying a pleasant vacation at Sea Shore Camp meeting. Everybody ought to go who can.

Dr. F. R. Hill and Rev. H. R. Singleton are the Louisiana preachers for Sea Shore Camp meeting now in progress. Who the preachers are for the Mississippi and Mobile Conferences we have not learned.

There are not many parts of the vineyard more thrifty than that which embraces the Aberdeen district, but the presiding elder, Rev. J. H. Mitchell, says, "We are moving on I hope to better things."

We thank Brother J. H. Smith for providing a good place for us at the Kilmichael District Conference. We would have greatly enjoyed the hospitality of the preacher and his folks, but circumstances were against us.

We will begin next week a series of articles on "Original Sin," by Rev. D. M. Geddie, inspired by Rev. Dr. Mahon's article on the subject in the Review. The articles are thoughtful, and we ask our readers to give them thoughtful attention.

Rev. R. P. Neblett, of Shelby, Miss., will be married in the Presbyterian Church, Brownsville, Tenn., Thursday morning, July 16, to Miss Eva Beazley. So reads a card received at this office. Blessed be the union. We are thankful for an invitation to be present on the happy occasion.

Sunday last was the day for the third Quarterly Conference at Hammond. The presiding elder Rev. R. W. Tucker, was on hand and preached two excellent sermons. His visit to the home of the editor was refreshing. It is both pleasant and profitable to entertain "the man of God."

Rev. and Mrs. H. O. White, of the Louisiana Conference, invite us to the marriage of their daughter, Eugenia May, to Mr. Ivy A. Kern, on Wednesday afternoon, July 15, at the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, Columbia, La. The young people have our best wishes for this life and the life to come.

Dr. LaPrade, of Jackson, Miss., sends us the following notice: "Mrs. Lily Cox Moore, widow of the late Dr. J. A. Moore, of Millsaps College, died at her home at Jackson, Miss., June 16. Mrs. Moore was ill at the time of her honored husband's death, and gradually grew weaker until the end came. She was an earnest, quiet, sweet-spirited Christian, who, without display or obtruseness, had all the helpful and constant force of saintliness."

Rev. D. M. Floyd, of the Water Valley Circuit, though not yet engaged in protracted meetings, is having some fine services at the different churches on his work. Prayer meetings are well attended and are fruitful of good. Much sickness has prevailed on his charge during the past few weeks, and some good people have passed away. But health is returning, and the prospect for good is brightening. We trust a great revival may be experienced.

Dr. Sawyer returned a few days since from a ten days' engagement in upper Louisiana and is off again for another long stay in the interest of his work as Conference missionary evangelist. Dr. Sawyer has kindly written for us a very appreciative review of Bishop Hendrix's new book, "The Table Talks of Jesus." Those who read these "Talks" as they appeared in the Christian Advocate (Nashville) will be glad to get them in permanent book form.

The address of Rev. J. A. B. Jones, of the Mississippi Conference from now until August 8th will be 2105 Buena Vista street, San Antonio, Tex. Brother Jones and wife passed through the city on Tuesday. They go to Texas to visit friends and relatives, and to participate in revival meetings. Like a warhorse, Brother Jones "smells the battle from afar," and is anxious to be in the fray. He has fought and conquered in many a hand-to-hand conflict.

Rev. W. M. Young, presiding elder of the Sardis District, in a note to this office, says: "There is a gracious revival going on in the Methodist Church at Sardis, conducted by the pastor, Brother Gaines, with Brother T. W. Lewis doing the preaching. It is said not such congregations have been seen in the day services here in twenty-five years. . . . Brother Augustus has had a good meeting at Como, with twenty accessions, Brothers W. G. Harbin and Guice being his helpers."

DISTRICT CONFERENCE RESOLUTION

The following resolutions of esteem and love were adopted by a rising vote of the Baton Rouge District Conference:

"Whereas our presiding elder, Brother R. W. Tucker, at the expiration of this year, will conclude his quadrennium on this (the Baton Rouge) District, therefore be it

"Resolved by the Baton Rouge District Conference, That we express our great love for Brother Tucker and our high appreciation of his character as a man, his ability as a preacher, his helpfulness as a Christian brother, and his services as a workman in this part of the vineyard of our Lord.

"Resolved, That we commend him to the people whom he shall serve in the future, and pray God's blessing upon him that success and happiness may crown his work, and goodness and mercy follow him all the days of his life."

Signed by: E. K. Means, W. R. Howell, J. P. Haney and J. R. Abels, Committee.

CAMP MEETING.

The South Mississippi Holiness Camp Meeting begins Aug. 28, 1908, and runs ten days. The leaders are Revs. J. S. Sanders and R. A. Breland. Rev. A. P. Williams, song leader.

(MISS) ZORA SAUCIER, Sec'y.

Saucier, Miss.

CAMP MEETING.

The Bluff Creek Camp Meeting will open on the 7th day of August, and will continue ten days. All ministers are invited to come and stay free of charge. Accommodation can be had for man and beast. We have forty tents on the campus, and a good hotel and plenty of fine water. Brethren, come praying that God will bless the meeting, and that sinners may be saved.

O. E. TOWNSEND, President.

JACKSON DISTRICT CONFERENCE.

The Jackson District Conference will be held in Florence July 21-24, the opening sermon being preached at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening.

Dr. Lambuth, senior secretary of the General Board of Missions, will spend Wednesday and Thursday with us. At 10 o'clock Wednesday morning there will be held a layman's mass meeting in the interests of the "forward movement in missions," when addresses will be delivered by Dr. Lambuth, Judge A. G. Norrell and others. We hope to have a great gathering of the representative laymen of the district.

The editor of the ADVOCATE and others whose duty and pleasure will bring them will be cordially welcomed.

A. F. WATKINS, Presiding Elder.

Fourteen Good Reasons for Patronizing Grenada College.

First—The unexcelled Home Comforts, unequaled anywhere else in the State.

Second—The Health Conditions; we rarely require the service of a physician.

Third—Our unusually skilled corps of teachers, whom we were able to secure only by paying a salary much above that paid by other girls' schools of the State.

Fourth—The Fine Arts Department, unequaled in the State and unexcelled in the South. Our teacher of Art studied in Germany and France, and our teachers of Music are graduated from the best Conservatories of America.

Fifth—See Descriptive Course of Study, which is conscientiously carried out as indicated.

Sixth—The Lyceum Course, which is superior even to that sustained in the University of Mississippi.

Seventh—The Library, which is fuller and better adapted than that of most girls schools of the South.

Eighth—Strong Christian Influence dominating all instruction.

Ninth—Personal Attention to the Individual Pupil, with a view to develop the best even out of peculiarities of character.

Tenth—A superior Student Body as Associates, since most of the indifferent have been eliminated.

Eleventh—The Rates are lower than those of any other school doing the same grade of work, owing to the Conference Assessment, which gives us an income not possessed by other schools; further, we have no stockholders to whom we are forced to pay dividends, as are some private schools. Our patrons receive back in excellence of service more than they pay in.

Twelfth—We place but two girls in a room, while most schools put from two to six.

Thirteenth—We require our teachers to continue study. Two are in Europe, two in Chicago, others at other schools in North and East.

Fourteenth—All these superior features enable us to turn out a larger percentage of graduates, who take high stand in the educational world, than any other school in the State. It means something to hold a diploma of the Grenada College.

Register for Rooms at Once and Thus Secure Choice of Location.

Send for Catalogue.

W. L. CLIFTON, A.B., Ph.B., President.

Grenada, Miss.

Silliman Collegiate Institute,

CLINTON, LOUISIANA.

An endowed Christian school for girls and young women. You will find no better school of its grade in the South.

Healthful location in the hill country. Three handsome buildings. Beautiful, well-shaded campus. Electric lights. Steam-heat. All necessary equipment.

Scientific and classical courses leading to degrees. Special advantages in music, art, elocution, etc. For catalogue and information, address the president,

H. H. BROWNLEE, Clinton, Louisiana.

GOOD COFFEE
DEPENDS UPON
QUALITY - FRESHNESS - BLENDING
ROASTING - MAKING
WHEN YOU BUY
LUZIANNE COFFEE
You are positively insured upon the
First Four Points - as for the last
You can't possibly make poor Coffee
if you use LUZIANNE
Sold Everywhere 25¢ Lb Can
THE REILY-TAYLOR CO.
NEW ORLEANS U.S.A.

Obituaries.

Obituaries not over two hundred words in length will be published free of charge. All over two hundred words will be charged at the rate of 1 cent a word. Count the words and send the amount necessary with the obituary. That will save trouble all around.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

We, the committee appointed by the North Wesson Sunday School to draft resolutions in regard to Mr. BEN WILLIS BRIDEWELL, deceased, would respectfully report the following:

Whereas it has pleased our Heavenly Father, in his own will and providence, to take from us the soul of our beloved brother and friend, Mr. Ben Willis Bridewell; therefore,

Resolved, That the Church and Sunday School have suffered a great loss in the death of one who greatly endeared himself to all members of this Church and to this community.

Resolved, That we hereby desire to express the deep sorrow and sense of loss which we feel in common with many, and our sincere sympathy with the father, mother, brothers and sister.

J. C. ELLIS,
MABEL McINTOSH,
STELLA JONES,
Committee.

JOHN MURPHY DAVIES was born in St. Mary Parish, La., May 17, 1859, and passed away May 26, 1908, at his home in Minden, La. He was the son of Rev. Stephen J. Davies, Sr., who did efficient service in the pioneer days of Louisiana Methodism, and who at one time served the Minden Circuit, a territory practically coextensive with the parish in which the son has superintended the public educational interests for the past sixteen years. John Davies was graduated in Centenary College in 1882; soon thereafter was licensed to preach, and was admitted on trial in the Louisiana Conference, in which he served as itinerant until January, 1888, when he was located at his own request. Since that time he has been engaged in educational work, teaching a few years, and then filling the office of parish superintendent. His local preacher's license has been annually renewed, and he has continued to preach as opportunity afforded. He was married to Miss Josie Taylor, of Lake Providence, La., in 1886, which union was broken by her death, after a happy period of twenty-one years. Two daughters survive this marriage. Brother Davies was married the second time in December, 1907, to Miss Theresa Grigsby, of Minden, who now mourns his death, after so brief a period of union. Our brother's health has not been good since an attack of grippe in the winter, but no one suspected that insidious disease which would prove fatal was gradually gaining power until the alarming symptoms of its last stages were observed. Brother Davies' character in this community always commanded respect and confidence, and he was a useful citizen. He never became secularized, but always loved and served the Church. He made constant use of the opportunity afforded him in visiting the parish schools to make religious talks to the children. He was particularly gifted with the grace of practical charity described in I Cor., 13, which caused him to refrain from resentment, and made him a uniformly sunny Christian gentleman. Though not expecting to die, he was prepared for the great change, and is now promoted to a higher sphere of service.

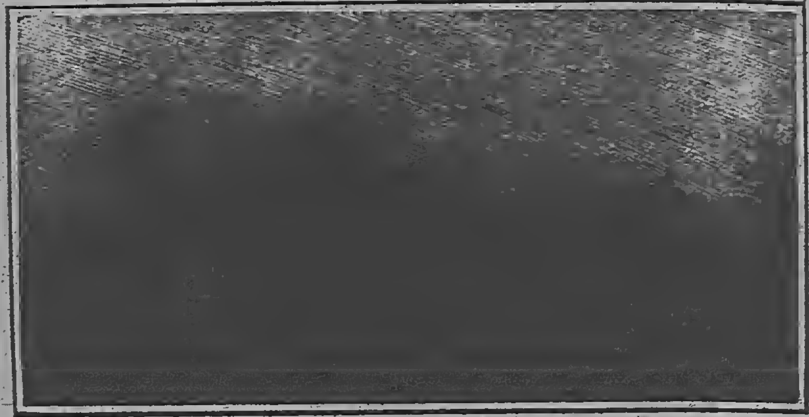
R. H. WYNN.

Mrs. MARY ELLA ELLEIN (nee Mathews) was born in Monroe County, Miss., Sept. 1, 1854, and died in Aberdeen, Miss., May 12, 1908. She was married to Dr. Thomas B. Elkin by Rev. Amos Kendall June 17, 1880. Her whole life, from early girlhood down to the day of her death, was one of devotion and consecration to God and his service. It was a singularly beautiful and useful life. After the death of her husband she devoted herself unreservedly to the education and training of her two daughters and to active work in the Church. She secured a matron's place in the Grenada Female College and in the Woman's College at Oxford, Miss., that she might be with her daughters and give them a mother's care while they were being educated. This devotion and attention resulted in the development of two splendid young women. The younger of the two died just as she came to the years of mature womanhood. The elder was married to Mr. Houston Woods, of Aberdeen, Miss., where she is a useful member of the Church. It was the fixed habit of Sister Elkin to pay up all her Church dues before she settled any other obligation. God and his cause were always first with her. She was active and efficient in the Sunday School, in the Woman's Missionary Societies and in ministering to the sick and sorrowing and visiting those who were in prison. Her special field of enlarged usefulness was as lady manager of the Juvenile Missionary Societies. She had conspicuous gifts for this primary work. The children loved her and looked up to her as their mother in the Lord. They followed her, hung upon her words and gladly obeyed her bidding. When she came to the brink of the last river she left a loving message for the little ones and charged those present to see that this work was carried on. It is needless to say that Sister Elkin was ready when the time for her departure came. She had lived in constant communion with God for many years. She was per-eminently a spiritually-minded woman and ripe and ready for the change. Her place in the Church in Aberdeen will be hard to fill.

R. G. PORTER.

The Lord gets his best soldiers out of the highlands of affliction.—Spurgeon.

Centenary Female College,
Cleveland, Tenn.



LOCATION—One hour from historic Chattanooga, "Prettiest town in all Tennessee." In mountain valley, above all malaria. Health of girls from South greatly improved.
FACULTY—Best American and European training. Teacher of Modern Languages, now studying in Germany.
RECREATION—Walks, drives, tennis, basket-ball, bowling, gymnasium, 634 ft. covered porches, physical culture, etc.
DEPARTMENTS—Thorough literary courses. Music Department under German Director. Art, Expression, Business.
Write for illustrated catalog to-day.

Alabama Polytechnic Institute
Only School of Technology in Alabama.
58 Professors and Instructors. 20 Well-Equipped Laboratories.
CHARLES C. THACH, M.A., LL.D., President.
AUBURN, ALABAMA.
Session begins Wednesday, September 2nd, 1908. Location high and healthful, 826 feet above sea level. Attendance, 617 students from 13 States and three foreign countries.
Courses of Instruction—Nine four-year degree courses. MINES, ENGINEERING, CHEMISTRY: (1) Mining, (2) Civil, (3) Electrical, (4) Mechanical, (5) Architecture, (6) Chemistry and Metallurgy, (7) Pharmacy. 35 professors and instructors. New Engineering Hall occupied. New machines and equipment in all laboratories. Students hold leading technical positions in Birmingham District and throughout the South. Only course of architecture in the South. New Library Building.
(8) History, Latin and Modern Language Course: English (4 years); Latin (4 years); History (4 years); French (2 years); German (2 years); Mathematics (3 years); Physics and Astronomy, Political Economy, and Physiology. 18 professors and instructors.
(9) Agriculture and Horticulture. 22 professors and instructors. (1) 1-year course in Pharmaceutical Chemistry, Ph.C.; (2) 2-year course, Ph.G.; (3) 3-year course in Veterinary Medicine, D. V. M., (only one in South.
New Dining Hall, also board in private families.
For catalogue and further information, address the President.

The Birmingham Dental College
OFFERS FINE ADVANTAGES FOR SECURING A DENTAL EDUCATION.
Over a hundred thousand people are in touch with the infirmary, furnishing abundant material for practice. Write at once for our catalogue.
CHAS. A. MERRILL, Dean,
708 First National Bank Building - - - Birmingham, Ala.

Belmont College
Nashville, Tenn.
For Young Women
Eleven Schools comprise the college. Prepares for all colleges and universities. College post-graduate courses leading to degrees of B. A. and M. A. Music, Art, Physical Culture and Languages. Director of Music, Edouard Hesselberg, the eminent Russian pianist and composer.
Belmont College is located in a beautiful hill-top park of 15 acres, inside the city limits, and only ten minutes by trolley from the center of Nashville. Climate invites to open air recreation two-thirds of school year. Golf, tennis, hockey, horseback riding and automobiling.
Many Northern as well as Southern families, realizing the benefits to be derived from such a location, and wishing their children educated under inter-sectional influences, are sending their daughters to Belmont. Of the total number of pupils registered last year, representing in all 32 States, 20 per cent were Northern girls. Early registration is necessary. Catalogue on request
Rev. IRA LANDRITH, D.D., LL.D., Regent.
Miss HOOD and Miss HERON, Principals.

Classified Advertisements.

EDUCATIONAL

LOW SUMMER RATE now on at Draughon's Business College, Nashville, Atlanta, Raleigh, St. Louis, Dallas, Little Rock; San Antonio, Memphis, Knoxville. Bookkeeping, Shorthand, Typewriting, Telegraphy, etc., taught. POSITIONS secured or MONEY BACK. Catalogue FREE.

AGENTS WANTED

WANTED.—Men and Women to sell Coffee, Teas Spices, to Family Trade, in communities of 1.000 to 10.090 population. Cash commission paid. Permanen agents wanted. People wanting steady employment, addre Bodenheimer Coffee & Tea Co., St. Louis, Mo.

FROM FLORA CHARGE.

Dear Doctor Boswell: Because of my silence this year, do not get the idea that I have been idle—far from it. My people on this work gave the pastor and family a warm and hearty reception. As fine a spread as I ever saw awaited us on the dining table, with many other substantials in the pantry. The parsonage and grounds have been greatly improved.

Our community was swept by a wave of the "grippe" and pneumonia, a great many being taken off. We lost some of our valuable members. We have buried quite a few people this year.

The pastor's salary has been increased. We are beginning to see an advance along all lines of church work. We are having some fine prayer meetings; services well attended, frequently taxing our churches.

The Lord is with us. We are planning for a great advancement of our Lord's kingdom in these parts. Our protracted meeting season is at hand.

I have held two meetings this year, one at Wesson, with Brother Grimes, and one at Yazoo City, with Brother Hardin. In both meetings we saw demonstrations of the Lord's power.

Doctor, can't you come and pay us a visit? We are getting mighty lonesome for the fellowship of some of the brethren.

I don't know of any news to write, as I have been staying very close to home, cultivating my large "patch."

May the Lord prosper Zion, and all the preachers have great success in their meetings this harvest-time.

Yours in his service,

J. J. SMYLIE.

There is nothing more dainty for a picnic or luncheon than Argo Salmon sandwiches or salad. The Argo Cook Book tells how to prepare them. See your grocer.

MOXINE CHILL TONIC
Only Tonic—one bottle—one cure.

REVIVAL AT MONTPELIER, LA.

Dear Dr. Boswell: We have been having a revival at Montpelier this week, with Brother S. L. Riggs to preach, and the Lord to bless. It has been a spiritual remembrance of the old-time religion. I have never seen greater results come in a five-day meeting—men and women were made to weep and cry for mercy. One day the cry was so great that every one not only heard, but spoke in their own tongue, to the extent that the preacher had no time for the preaching service. His hour was consumed in prayer and praise. We have reason for rejoicing when we see the wonderful change—where they confess having patronized seven blind tigers in one day, and now (six months later) can't find one.

We had a very strong pull for God and lasting impressions were made on the minds of the people by Brother Tucker, last month, at our Quarterly Meeting and dedication of the church, at which time the people got a foretaste of heaven, which appeared to have been like leaven, and now we trust it shall leaven the whole lump.

We have had but the one meeting on our work as yet; have planned for another soon, and already we are hearing people talking more about prayer.

God bless the dear old Advocate!

J. S. RUTLEDGE.

Pine Grove, La.

MOXINE
Cures LAGRIPPE and Colds.

REVIVAL AT McCOMB CITY, MISS.

Dear Doctor Boswell: Please report a fine meeting in South McComb Methodist Church, the preaching having been done by Rev. W. M. Sullivan, of Centenary, McComb, and to say that it was well done does not express it. We are having conversions and accessions almost every service. The meeting bids fair to be the best meeting ever held in this town. We are having the "old-time Gospel" and singing the "old-time songs," and getting the old-time religion.

G. D. ANDERS.

TAPE WORMS expelled alive with heads Guaranteed. No poisonou. drugs. Free booklet. GLOBE REMEDY CO., Birmingham, Alabama.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used for over Sixty-Five Years by millions of mothers for their children while teething with perfect success. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain; cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for Diarrhoea. Sold by Druggists in every part of the world. Be sure and ask for "Mrs Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Guaranteed under the Food and Drugs Act, June 30th, 1906. Serial Number 1098. An Old and Well Tried Remedy.

Can Fruits and Vegetables at Your Home!

THE WILSON CANNER pays for itself promptly in the price of canned goods saved. Gives better results, saves time and fuel. It is the perfection of clever mechanism, easily operated in doors or out, needing neither cook stove nor furnace; cannot rust or burn out. Write at once for circular.

The Wilson Canner Co., 2d St., Cochran, Ga.

DICKSON COLLEGE, DICKSON, TENN.

A select home school for both sexes; ideal location on the summit of the Highland Rim of Middle Tennessee. No malaria; pure air, crystal waters, splendid buildings, strong faculty. A practical school that makes practical men and women who do things. The school for the masses. Gives everybody a chance. Literary, Commercial, Telegraphy, Music, Elocution. New year begins Tuesday, Sept. 1, 1908. Expenses lower than anywhere else in the world. Write postal card for beautiful catalogue. Address,
T. B. LOGGINS, A. M., President, Dickson, Tenn.

WARD SEMINARY Nashville, Tenn., offers girls and young women Seminary and College Fitting Courses. Art, Expression, Conservatory of Music; native teachers of French and German, city advantages, all outdoor sports on beautiful city and suburban campus, mild and equable climate. Only 175 boarding pupils received. Write for Catalogue.

FLORENCE UNIVERSITY for WOMEN FLORENCE, ALA.

Magnificent buildings costing $100,000. Elegant appointments. Refined and Christian home. Pianos and furniture all new. Ideal location near the mountains. All college courses. Conservatory unsurpassed. Teachers from the best schools of Europe and America. Opens September 18, 1908. For handsome catalog address M. W. HATTON and O. W. ANDERTON, Presidents, Florence, Ala.

South Mississippi College HATTIESBURG, MISS.

CO-EDUCATIONAL.

New $100,000 equipment. 400 students. First class accommodations at reasonable rates. Courses of study equal to those given by any other college in the State and lead to the usual degrees. Special attention given to Domestic Science, Art, Music, Expression, and the training of teachers. Session opens September 8, 1908.
W. I. THAMES, President. Hattiesburg, Miss.

American TELEGRAPH School

ESTABLISHED 10 YEARS
MILLEDGEVILLE, GEORGIA
Largest and best equiped school South. Expert management. Railroad wire connections. Positions guaranteed. Railroad fares paid. Board at cost. Open year around. Write for catalogue C. Great demand for operators.

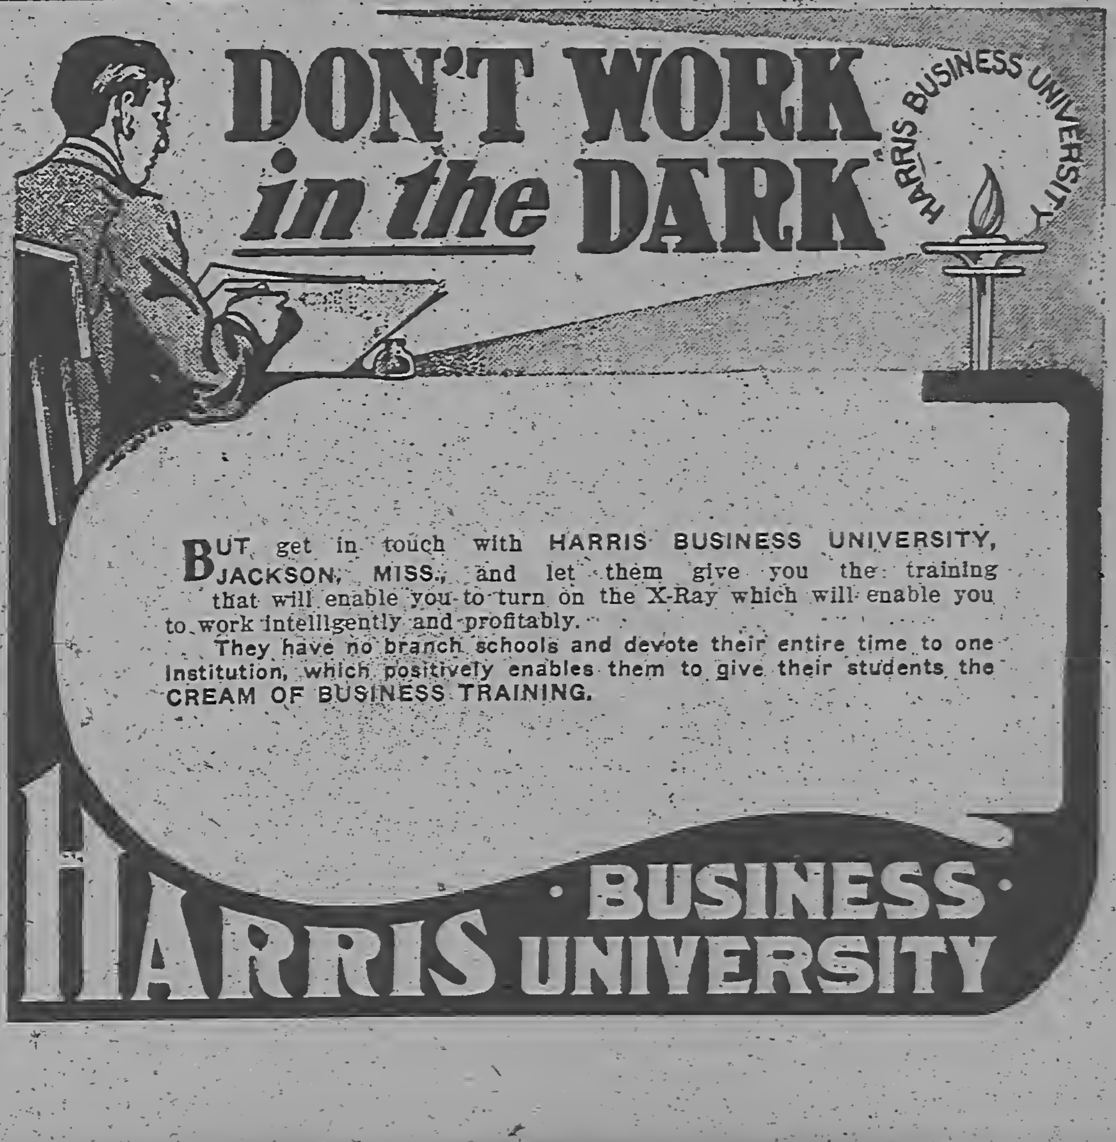
THE BLACKSTONE SCHOOL FOR GIRLS, BLACKSTONE, VA.
JAMES CANNON, JR., M. A. Principal

has since 1894 given "Thorough Instruction Under Positively Christian Influences at the Lowest Possible Cost."

RESULT: It is to-day with its faculty of 32, its student body of 403, and its plant worth $125,000.

The Leading Training School For Girls in Virginia.

$150 pays all charges for the year, including table board, and tuition in all subjects except music and elocution. Send for catalogue and application blank.



DON'T WORK in the DARK

HARRIS BUSINESS UNIVERSITY

BUT get in touch with HARRIS BUSINESS UNIVERSITY, JACKSON, MISS., and let them give you the training that will enable you to turn on the X-Ray which will enable you to work intelligently and profitably.

They have no branch schools and devote their entire time to one institution, which positively enables them to give their students the CREAM OF BUSINESS TRAINING.

HARRIS · BUSINESS · UNIVERSITY

Whitworth College

(FOR YOUNG LADIES)

Brookhaven, Miss.

Conservatory of Art, Music and Expression. Commercial Department. High Curriculum. Officers and Teachers, 22. Students, 255. Next session begins Sept. 22, 1908. Address,

WHITWORTH COLLEGE.

PORT GIBSON FEMALE COLLEGE,

Port Gibson, Miss.

68th Session Opens Sept. 23, 1908. Standard of Literary Work High. Music, Elocution, Art, Commerce, Sewing. Special Attention Given Health and Morals. Electric Lights, Artesian Water. Boarding Patronage Steadily Increasing. Trip to National Military Park, Mississippi's New Capitol, and State Fair—a Feature of Next Session.

Henry G. Hawkins, A. B., Pres.

BELLHAVEN COLLEGE

FOR YOUNG LADIES

JACKSON, MISSISSIPPI.

J. R. PRESTON, A. M., President.

Fifteen highly qualified instructors. Ten-acre campus and all modern comforts. Excellent table and courteous management. Patronage solicited from cultured homes. Sound instruction and satisfactory progress guaranteed. Fifteenth session opens Sept. 16, 1908.

BELVIRINO

A PROGRESSIVE COLLEGE FOR YOUNG LADIES.

WEST POINT, MISSISSIPPI.

EDWIN W. DORAN, Ph., D.,
PRESIDENT.

Fine buildings, accommodating 200 boarders. Cultured Teachers in Literary Department, Music, Expression, Art, Commercial Branches, Physical Culture, etc.
REDUCED RATE FOR 1908-9, $175.
Next term opens Sept. 8th. Send for Catalogue.

MERIDIAN WOMAN'S COLLEGE
CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC
LARGEST IN THE SOUTH

Belmont College

For YOUNG WOMEN. Nashville, Tenn.

Regular College and Preparatory Courses. Music, Art, Languages, Physical Culture. Beautiful location. Golf, tennis, hockey, all the year. Register now. Catalogue on request.

Rev. IRA LANDRITH, D.D., LL. D., Regent.
Miss HOOD and Miss HERON, Principals.

The Randolph-Macon System
of Endowed Colleges
and Correlated Schools

Educates men and women, boys and girls, not together but in Five Separate Institutions under one management. The combination enables us to offer the best advantages and to

Save Time and Money

For particulars, address, stating age and sex of student,
Chancellor WM. W. SMITH, A. M., LL.D.
College Park, Lynchburg, Va.

Sunday School

By W. B. Campbell.

LESSON FOR JULY 12, 1908.

Subject: Saul Chosen King.—1st Samuel x, 17-27.

Golden Text: "He that ruleth over men must be just, ruling in the fear of God."—2d Samuel, xxiii, 3.

The choice of Saul to be king over the descendants of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob was an act in which their self-will stands out in plain view. The guidance of the Lord was not asked, and if the writings of Moses had been consulted Samuel would have looked for the king to come from the tribe of Judah, not Benjamin. The recorded words of Jacob, speaking in phophecy, were that the scepter should not depart from Judah until the coming of the "Wonderful, Counsellor, the Mighty God, the Everlasting Father, the Prince of Peace," on whose shoulders the government should rest forever. The people followed, not the guiding hand of the Lord; yet the Lord directed them in their self-will. The Heavenly Father often allows his children to have their own way, just as the son, in Jesus' parable, was allowed to have his portion of his father's estate. Behold the great love of the Lord in that, even when his children turn away and follow after the counsels of this world, he does not cease to watch over and care for them!

Saul, the first king of Israel, was a man after the ideal of the world. He was handsome and strong and attractive to the eye, but in all the written account of his life we are impressed that he was not sincere in anything. He was just such a man as would be selected, if the outward appearance were only considered. He had a reputation that caused the people to make derisive remarks when first he essayed to consort with men of piety: "Is Saul also among the prophets?" This was before the people knew of his he was king he was the embodiment he aws king, he was the embodimenr of self-will, and caused great and grave apprehension on the part of Samuel, who watched over him, as a son is watched over by a father. Saul never appreciated Samuel's goodness until he was taken away, and until God allowed him his own way. This was the character of the first king, and the children of Israel were duly warned and had no reason to complain. As Israel was, so are we. We are mercifully warned against acting contrary to the will of God. We are told in the Scripture how Saul, in searching for the lost asses, should go near the city, where Samuel dwelt, so that he and Saul should meet. Samuel knew of Saul's coming; he must have been directed in the whole matter by the Lord. We learn here that God directs the least of our affairs to bring about his purposes concerning us. The world would say that the asses wandered so far away, just as it happened, and that our lives are made up of events that are as apt to turn one way as another; but the prayerful man will ask God's direction over the most minute particulars, that, as a whole, make up our days. Saul was not spiritual enough to see in Samuel God's prophet. He went to Samuel from the same impulse that in later years, led him to seek the assistance of the witch of Endor.

The meeting of Samuel and Saul seems to have been a planned, mutual introduction, so that there would be no mistake at the public selection of Saul in the presence of the assembly at Mizpeh, which was soon to follow. When they did come together at Mizpeh, Samuel stood up before the great convention and told them of how good in all the past the God of Abraham had been to them; of how he was their King and would still be; how he had saved them out of all their adversities; and now, on that day, they rejected their God, saying, "Nay, but set a king over us." Now, said the prophet, we will at once select the king. The tribe, the family and the man were known, but the man could not be found. When greatness was about to be thrust upon him, he shrank and "hid himself among the stuff."

What we know of Saul's character causes us to attribute this to awkward bashfulness, rather than to sweet, youthful modesty. We will see, as we pursue our study, that ere long Saul grew bold enough. He was led forth, and appeared before the people "every inch a king." The remaining proceedings of the convention, as to the form and manner of the newly-established kingdom, were recorded in a book by Samuel and preserved for reference. The people then dispersed and Saul went home to Gibeah, having now enough of royal importance as to be attended by a band of men "whose hearts God had touched" to be his body-guard. The choice of the new king was not unanimous; there was objection to him by a party termed "the children of Belial," which might have had some adverse influence, but the new king could afford to silently wait for the time of a public announcement of himself as king.

There is not a more sad story in all the Scriptures than the story of Saul, and it has always impressed our mind as having been written in warning against leaving God and turning to the world.

Whatever Saul did was insincere, and done from the wrong motive. He was inclined to appreciate appearances, but not to such an extent as to curb his willfulness. He would never have ruled the kingdom at all had he not had Samuel back of him as a restraint. When he did comply with any requirement, it was only done through compulsion, and Samuel was continually on the watch to correct the errors of the King as they occurred.

Those were awful words of the prophet, when he said to the headstrong people, "Ye have this day rejected your God." Let it not be said of us. Let us "commit our way unto the Lord, and lean not to our own understanding." We need his directing care in all things. If we are left to ourselves for one moment we are like sheep that turn every one to his own way. Let us rejoice in our King, who is the "Lion of the tribe of Judah," the King of kings and Lord of lords, Jesus of Nazareth, the Son of God. Through him we live and by him we have access to the Father through the Holy Ghost, that dwelleth within us. He had to learn obedience, and it was through suffering; so must we learn that "obedience is better than sacrifice, and to heaven than the fat of rams."

Argo Red Salmon lends zest to a meal. It is appetizing and nutritious.

WHITWORTH COLLEGE.

President [illegible] Whitworth College announces the following faculty for the session of [illegible], beginning Sept. 23, 1908.

[illegible] Bessie W. [illegible], A.M., Lady Principal, Higher Mathematics.

Miss Janie H. Drake, A.M., English.

[illegible] Bell Buckle, Agnes Scott, Latin and Greek.

[illegible] (Paris), French.

Miss Kate Gillett, A.B. (Randolph-Macon Woman's College), Science.

Miss Jessie Mounger, A.B. (Whitworth College), Assistant in Mathematics and Latin.

Preparatory Department—Miss Grace Leighton, B.L., Miss Laura Hemby, A.B., Assistant.

Miss Addie V. Marshall, A.M., Monitress.

Directress of Music—Miss Bessie McVoy (Cincinnati Conservatory).

Miss Clara [illegible] (St. Louis and Chicago), Piano.

Miss A[illegible] Lowe (Chicago), Piano.

Miss [illegible] Dawkins (Randolph-Macon M.P.I.), Piano.

Miss [illegible] (Chicago and New York), Voice.

Mrs. B. W. McCormick (Cincinnati), Violin and Guitar.

Expression—Miss Lilah Ragsdale (New York).

Art—Mrs. Marie T. Sisk (Cincinnati and Paris).

Commercial Department—Miss Blanche Stephens.

It is important that students should engage rooms early.

Send for catalogue. Address

WHITWORTH COLLEGE,
Brookhaven, Miss.

GAS STOVE REPAIRING.

If your gas stove needs repairing address a postal card to J. T. Chalmers, 526 Bellecastle St., City. Two or three dollars spent in this way may prove a big saving and bring about better service in the cooking.

Columbia College,

COLUMBIA, S. C.,

Opens Sept. 24, 1908.

Offers the best possible training for young ladies in the South.

Full college course leading to A. B., B. S., B. L., M. S., and M. A.

Musical instruction in all its branches.

Large Faculty of experienced teachers.

New buildings. 20 acre campus.

Write for catalogue.

W. W. DANIEL, A.M., D.D.,
President,
Columbia College, S. C.

Southern University,
Greensboro, Ala.

Last session most successful for several years past. All departments well organized. Excellent library and reading room; well-equipped chemical laboratory; new gymnasium with excellent equipment. Government paternal. Health record excellent. Charges moderate. $165.00 to $200.00 will cover all legitimate expenses.

We stand for culture, thoroughness, and Christian manhood—an education, classical in form, and Christian in spirit. Next session begins Sept. 16th, 1908. Send for catalogue.

REV. S. M. HOSMER, D.D., Pres.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

New Orleans District—Third Round.

Plaquemine	July 19
Donaldsonville, at Plattesville	July 26
Algiers	Aug. 2
Louisiana Avenue	Aug. 9
Felicity Street	Aug. 16
First Church a.m.	Aug. 23
Epworth p.m.	Aug. 23
Rayne Memorial	Aug. 30
Covington, at Fitzgerald	Sept. 5
Second Church	Sept. 13
Carrollton Avenue	Sept. 20

F. N. PARKER, P.E.

Arcadia Dist.—Third Round.

N. Bossler, at Emma	July 14,
Houghton, at Alberta	July 15,
Bienville, at Bocruk	July 18, 19
Arcadia	July 25, 26
District Conference, at Blenville	July 28, 31
Gibsland, at Mt. Moriah	Aug. 1, 2
Jonesboro	Aug. 4,
Vernon, at Oakridge	Aug. 5,
Minden	Aug. 8, 9
Lisbon, at Tulip	Aug. 11,
Winnfield	Aug. 13,
Bernice, at Summerfield	Aug. 15, 16
Ruston	Aug. 18,
Ringgold, at Gr. Bayou	Aug. 22, 23
Lanesville, at Brushwood	Aug. 25,
C. Valley, at Sp. Hill	Aug. 29, 30

BRISCOE CARTER, P. E.

Shreveport Dist.—Third Round.

LaChute, at Taylortown	July 18, 19
Pleasant Hill	July 22, 23
Pelican, at Bethel	July 25, 26
Coushatta, at Lake End	July 28, 29
Wesley, at Holly Spgs.	Aug. 1, 2
Many, at Ft. Jessup	Aug. 8, 9
Zwolle, at Lowering	Aug. 12, 13
Mooringsport	Aug. 15, 16
Ida, at M. Chapel	Aug. 19, 20
Mansfield Circuit, at Sloan	Aug. 22, 23
Mansfield Station	Aug. 23, 24
Hornbeck	Aug. 26, 27
Leesville	Aug. 29, 30
Bon Ami	Sept. 5, 6
De Ridder	Sept. 6, 7
Shreveport—First Ch.	Sept. 9,
Noel Tob.	Sept. 10,
Texas Avenue	Sept. 13, 14
Provencal	Sept 15, 16
Greenwood	Sept. 19, 20

T. J. WARLICK, P. E.

Baton Rouge Dist.—Third Round.

Wilson, at Pine Grove	July 18, 19
Clinton	July 19, 20
Ethel, at Tunica	July 26,
Baker, at Deerford	Aug. 1, 2
Zachary and Slaughter, at Slaughter	Aug. 2, 3
St. Francisville	Aug. 8, 9
Jackson	Aug. 9, 10
East Feliciana, at Camp Grounds	Aug. 15, 16
Mt. Hermon, at Pine Ridge	Aug. 22, 23
Kentwood 8 p. m.	Aug. 23
Amite City 8 p. m.	Aug. 24
Independence, at Red Oak	Aug. 29, 30
Live Oak, at Friendship	Aug. 30, 31
Franklinton, at Angle	Sept. 5, 6
St. Helena, at Darlington	Sept. 12, 13
Pine Grove, at Pipkins	Sept. 13, 14
Melville, at Melville	Sept. 19, 20
New Roads	Sept. 26, 27
Port Vincent, at Meadows	Oct. 3
Baton Rouge, 1st. Church	Oct. 4, 5
Baton Rouge, 2nd Church	Oct. 4, 5

R. W. TUCKER, P. E.

Alexandria Dist.—Third Round.

Alexandria	July 4, 5
Columbia	July 11, 12
Verda	July 15, 16
Standard	July 18, 19
Selma	July 20,
Simmsport, at Evergreen	July 23,
Glenmora, at Melder	July 25, 26
Boyce, at Fellowship	July 26, 27
Pineville, at Fellowship	Aug. 1, 2
Chicot, at Bethel	Aug. 5,
Master's Chapel	Aug. 8, 9
Boeuf River	Aug. 10,
Pollock, at Liberty Chap.	Aug. 15, 16
Natchitoches	Aug. 19,
Summerville, at Pinegrove	Aug. 22, 23
Trout	Aug. 23, 24
Dry Creek, at Spring Hill	Aug. 29, 30
Opelousas	Sept. 3,

N. E. JOYNER, P. E.

Monroe Dist.—Third Round.

W. Monroe, at Desaird	July 11, 12
Farmerville, at Greenville	July 15,
Bastrop, at Humphries C.	July 18, 19
Brookland, at Lapine	July 22,
Gilbert, at Magnolia	July 25, 26
Eros, at Calhoun	July 29,
Bonita, at Jones	Aug. 1, 2
Merrouge, at Collinston	Aug. 2, 3
Downsville, at Wilhite	Aug. 5,
Mangham, at Union	Aug. 8, 9
Florence, at Ferriday	Aug. 10,
Harrisonburg, at Vidalia	Aug. 11,
Floyd, at Midway	Aug. 15, 16
Tallulah, at T.	Aug. 16, 17
Lake Providence, at L. P.	Aug. 17,
Waterproof, at Wesley	Aug. 22, 23

J. E. DENSON, P. E.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

Brookhaven Dist.—Third Round.

Columbia	July 12, 13
Beauregard, at Matthew's	July 18, 19
Adams, at Ebenezer. Wed.	July 22,
Bogue Chitto and Norfield, at Bogue Chitto	July 25, 26
Magnolia	July 26, 27
Pearlhaven, at Pleasant Grove Wed.	July 29,
Brookhaven	Aug. 1, 2
Gallman, at Georgetown	Aug. 3,
Monticello, at Tilton	Aug. 6,
Tylertown, at Summers C.	Aug. 8, 9
Summit, at Muddy Spgs.	Aug. 12,
Topisaw, at Sartinsville	Aug. 15, 16
Pearl River, at P. Chapel	Aug. 23, 24
Wesson	Aug. 30, 31

GEO. H. THOMPSON, P. E.

Jackson Dist.—Third Round.

Collins	July 17,
Magee, at Pleasant Hill	July 18, 19
Sharon, at Soule's Chap.	July 22,
Canton	Aug. 2, 3
Pinola, at Rexford	Aug. 8, 9
Florence, at Monterey	Aug. 11
Terry, at Spring Ridge	Aug. 12
Deasonville, at Dover	Aug. 13
Benton, at Zeiglerville	Aug. 15, 16
Flora, at Livingston	Aug. 23, 24
Braxton, at Bethany	Aug. 26
Yazoo City	Aug. 30, 31
Lintonia, at Lake City	Sept. 1
Madison, Ridgeland, 11 a.m.	Sept. 5, 6
Jackson, Rankin St., 8 p.m.	Sept. 6, 7
Mount Olive	Sept. 9
Eden, at Lodi	Sept. 12, 13

The pastors are requested to give especial attention to Questions 17 and 22, and in both cases to present written reports. A. F. WATKINS, P. E.

Natchez Dist.—Third Round.

Liberty, at Glading	July 18, 19
Hamburg, at McNair	July 25,
Homochitto, at W. Chapel	July 26, 27
Caseyville, at Bethesda	Aug. 2, 3
Wilkinson, at Rosetta	Aug. 8, 9
Bethel, at Bethel	Aug. 11,
Meadville	Aug. 15, 16
Barlow, at Brandywine	Aug. 22, 23
Bayou Pierre, at Pleas. R.	Ang. 24,
Fayette, at Fayette	Aug. 26, 27
Washington, at Pinegrove	Aug. 29,
Natchez, Pearl Street	Aug. 29, 30
Natchez, Jefferson Street	Aug. 30, 31
Woodville	Sept. 5, 6
Percy Creek, at P. C.	Sept. 7,

J. T. LEGGETT, P. E.

Vicksburg Dist.—Third Round.

South Warren, at Asbury	July 18, 19
Vicksburg, S. Washington Street	July 24, 26
Vicksburg, Crawford St.	July 25, 26
Hermanville, at Carpenter	Aug. 1, 2
Oak Ridge, at Bradleys C.	Aug. 8, 9
Anguilla, at Sunflower	Aug. 15, 16
Bolton, at Brownsville	Aug. 22, 23
Satartia, at Wesley Chapel	Aug. 29, 30
Rockey Springs, at Hickory Ridge	Sept. 5, 6
Port Gibson, at P. G.	Sept. 12, 13
Rolling Fork, at R. F.	Sept. 19, 20
Silver City, at Holly Bluff	Sept. 26, 27
Mayersville, at Brunswick	Oct. 3, 4

G. H. GALLOWAY, P. E.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE

Greenville Dist.—Third Round.

Benoit, at Malvina	July 14,
Clarksdale	July 19, 20
Lula, at Lyon	July 20, 21
Coahoma, at Dundee, 8 p.m.	July 21,
Tunica, at Austin	July 26, 27
Alligator, at Duncan	July 27, 28
Rosedale, at Deeson	Aug. 2, 3
Hillhouse, at Gunnison	Aug. 3, 4
Cleveland Ct., at Lakeview	Aug. 8, 9
Cleveland Station	Aug. 12,
Friar's Point, at Sherard	Aug. 15, 16
Jonestown, at J.	Aug. 17,
Robinsonville, at Pop. C.	Aug. 19,
Glen Allan, at S. Greenvile	Sept. 13, 14
Shaw, at S.	Sept. 16,
Delta Mission	Sept. 19, 20

R. A. MEEK, P. E.

Oxford Dist.—Third Round.

Water Valley Ct., Pine F.	July 11, 12
Randolph Ct., Sarepta	July 18, 19
Toccapola Ct., Tula	July 25, 26
Abbeville Ct., at Union H.	Aug. 1, 2
Charleston Ct., at Oak G.	Aug. 8, 9
Red Banks Ct., at Mahon	Aug. 15, 16
Paris Ct., at Midway	Aug. 22, 23
Grenada Ct., at Duck Hill	Aug. 29, 30
Waterford Ct., at Pine Mt.	Sept. 4,
Holly Springs Ct., at Sylvestria	Sept. 5, 6
Coffeeville Ct., at Antioch	Sept. 12, 13
Potts Camp Ct., Palestine	Sept. 19, 20
Ashland Ct., at Union H.	Sept. 26, 27

J. E. CUNNINGHAM, P. E.

Winona Dist.—Third Round.

Winona Ct., at Salem	July 11, 12
Moorhead, at Baird	July 19, 20
Belzoni, at Sky Lake	July 25, 26
Webb, at Webb	Aug. 1,
Minter City, Strathmore	Aug. 2, 3
Inverness, at Isola	Aug. 8, 9
Ruleville, at Ruleville	Aug. 9, 10
N Carrollton, at McCarley	Aug. 15, 16
Vance	Aug. 18
Mar's Hill, at Chapel Hill	Aug. 22, 23
Tom Nolen, at Lebanon	Aug. 29, 30
Slate Springs, at Cross R.	Sept. 5, 6

E. S. LEWIS, P. E.

Corinth District—Third Round.

Kossuth Ct., at Kossuth	July 12, 13
Guntown & Baldwyn, at B.	July 15
Wheeler Ct., at Asbury	July 17
Corinth Station, at C.	July 19, 20
Iuka Ct., at Harmony	July 25
Iuka Station, at Iuka	July 26, 27
Tishomingo Ct., at F. G.	July 28
Marietta Ct., at Siloam	July 30
Booneville Station, at B.	Aug. 1, 2
Mooreville and Saltillo, at Allen's Chapel	Aug. 7
Blue Spgs. Ct., at Bethel	Aug. 8, 9
Mantachie Ct., at Shiloh	Aug. 15, 16
Belmont Ct., at Mt. Olive	Aug. 18
Booneville Ct., at Edges' Chapel	Aug. 22, 23
New Albany Circuit, at Bethlehem	Aug. 29, 30
Ripley and New Hope, at Dumas	Aug. 30, 31
New Albany Station, at Glenfield	Sept. 6, 7
Myrtle Ct., Union Hill	Sept. 8,
Rainey and Falkner	Sept. 12, 13
Jonesboro Ct., Ebenezer	Sept. 15,

BEN. P. JACO, P. E.

Durant District—Third Round.

Rural Hill	July 16,
Louisville	July 18, 19
Chester (South Union)	July 25, 26
Ebenezer	July 31,
Lexington	Aug. 1, 2
Kosciusko Circuit	Aug. 8, 9
Vaiden	Aug. 15, 16
West	Aug. 18,
McCool	Aug. 22, 23
Black Hawk	Aug. 29, 30
Sidon	Sept. 5, 6
Poplar Creek	Sept. 9,

S. M. THAMES, P. E.

Columbus Dist.—Third Round.

Starkville Ct., Steel's C.	July 18, 19
Starkville	July 19, 20
Shuqualak, Center Valley	July 25, 26
Winstonville, Mashulaville	Aug. 1, 2
Macon	Aug. 8, 9
Mayhew, Kilgore's Chapel	Aug. 15, 16
Mathiston, Providence	Aug. 22, 23
Crawford, Trinity	Aug. 29, 30
Sturges, Buel's Hill	Sept. 5, 6
Brooksville, Xprairie	Sept. 12, 13
Hebron	Sept. 19, 20
Cedar Bluff	Sept. 26, 27

L. M. LIPSCOMB, P. E.

Sardis Dist.—Third Round.

Sardis	July 11, 12
Mt. Pleasant, at N. Salem	July 17,
Olive Branch, at Center Hill	July 18, 19
Byhalia, at Fountainhead	July 25, 26
Coldwater, at Loucas	Aug. 1, 2
Cockrum, at Greenleaf	Aug. 8, 9
Wall Hill, at Marian	Aug. 15, 16
Hernando, at Horn Lake	Aug. 21,
Pleasant Hill, at Indora	Aug. 22, 23
Harrison, at Tillatoba	Aug. 29, 30
Courtland, at Chapel Hill	Aug. 31,
Eureka, at Lovejoy	Sept. 5, 6
Batesville	Sept. 12, 13
Tyro, at Malmaison	Sept. 16,
Crenshaw, at Crenshaw	Sept. 19, 20
Longtown	Sept. 25,
Arkabutla, at Harmony	Sept. 26, 27

W. M. YOUNG, P. E.

Newton Dist.—Third Round.

Montrose	July 11, 12
Shiloh, at Clear Creek	July 17,
Forest	July 19, 20
Lake, at Conehatta	July 21,
Taylorsville, at Ocoha	July 24,
Bay Springs	July 25, 26
Raleigh, at Cedar Grove, by W. W. M.	July 25, 26
Morton, at Lindsey	July 28,
Laurel	Aug. 2, 3
Kingston	Aug. 2, 3
Homewood, at Gasque	Aug. 7,
Trenton, at New Prospect	Aug. 8, 9
Hebron, at Pleasant Ridge	Aug. 15, 16
Ellisville, at Richton	Aug. 22, 23
Chunkey, at Sageville	Aug. 27,
V. and H., Sandersville	Aug. 29, 30
Decatur, at Good Hope	Sept. 12, 13
Newton	Sept. 16,
Neshoba, at ——	Sept. 18,
Philadelphia	Sept. 19, 20
Indian Mission	Sept. 21,
[illegible], at Mt. Zion	Sept. 22,
Harpersville, at Good H.	Sept. 24,
Carthage, at ——	Sept. 25,
Walnut Grove, at——	Sept 26, 27
Rose Hill, at ——	Sept 30,

Pastors will please give attention to questions 17, 20 and 22.

JAS. M. WEEMS, P. E.

Aberdeen Dist.—Third Round.

Buena Vista, at Ebenezer	July 11, 12
Okalona Sta.	July 13,
Verona, at Plantersville	July 19, 20
Amory and Nettleton, at N.	July 26, 27
Prairie, at Palm Chapel	Ang. 1, 2
Houlka, at Concord	Aug. 6,
Palestine, at P.	Aug. 8, 9
Pontotoc, at Harmony	Aug. 10,
Montpelier, at Palestine	Aug. 15, 16
Vardaman, at Sharon	Aug. 19,
Bounds, at Pleas. Ridge	Ang. 21,
Pittsboro, at Chapel Hill	Aug. 22, 23
Smithville, at P. Memorial	Aug. 29, 30
Aberdeen Ct., Riggan's C.	Sept. 3,
Okalona Ct., at Tranquil	Sept. 5, 6
Nettleton Ct., at Shiloh	Sept. 10,
Fulton, at Hopewell	Sept. 12, 13

J. H. MITCHELL, P. E.

LESS THAN ONE BOTTLE DID IT.

A sufferer writes: "Can certainly say that Hughes' Tonic is the best chill remedy I ever heard of. Used only part of a bottle, and used no quinine, and it cured me." Sold by Druggists—50c. and $1.00 bottles.

PREPARED BY
Robinson-Pettet Co., (Incorporated)
Louisville.

BLOOD POISONING POSITIVELY CURED

Hereditary, primary, secondary and tertiary. Scrofula; Eczema, Blood and Skin Disease. If you have exhausted old-time methods, and want to get well, write me in fullest confidence for proof of cures. Take my treatment and get well. A. A. BROWER, M. D.
San Antonio, Tex.

The only way to regenerate the wordlcinfwyp mbz mbz fgfi fg fgg world is to do the duty which lies nearest to us, and not to hunt after grand far-fetched ones for ourselves. —Canon Kingsley.

Every lady should have a copy of the Argo Red Salmon Cook Book. It gives thirty-nine different ways for preparing salmon. Ask your grocer for it.

HUSBAND INSISTED

Some ladies allow a simple little trouble to grow into a big one, just for lack of the right medicine.

Too much trouble; too much expense; don't know what medicine to take.

All excuses; and poor ones, too.

Such ladies need some one, with their own best interests at heart, who will see to it that they begin to take Cardui at once.

Now, Mrs. Rena Hare, of Pierce, Fla., luckily for her, had a husband, who, she says, "insisted on my taking Cardui."

In describing her plight, she uses these words: "I was a sufferer from severe female trouble. I had pains in my side, drawing pains in legs, fainty spells, could not sleep. In fact, it was a general break-down. I found no relief till I took Cardui, when the first bottle helped me and now I am almost well."

Your druggist will gladly sell you a bottle of Cardui, with full directions for use.

It is purely vegetable, non-intoxicating, and reliable remedy, for all women, young and old, who suffer from any of the common female troubles. Try Cardui.

REVIVAL AT SHUBUTA, MISS.

A most wonderful tide of revival power has recently swept the town of Shubuta. During the meeting 30 persons united with the church. The number of conversions was estimated at one hundred or more; 13 adult persons were baptized, and 5 infants; 7 family altars were established, and 8 subscriptions to our church papers secured.

It would be difficult, perhaps impossible, to estimate the great amount of good accomplished in the town and adjacent communities.

The meeting began on May 31, the pastor preaching on Sunday and Sunday night. Rev. John D. Ellis, of Waynesboro, came to his assistance on Monday morning, and did faithful preaching until relieved by the arrival of Brother C. N. Guice, Thursday morning. Brother Guice preached and sang until Saturday morning, when Rev. W. G. Harbin came in and took charge of the pulpit. Brother Harbin preached twice a day with power until the close of the meeting, each service growing in interest to the very last.

As evangelists, Brothers Harbin and Guice have our hearty endorsement. Any pastor who desires the very best help in a revival meeting will be fortunate in securing their services. H. L. NORTON.

ARGO RED SALMON is cleaned and packed entirely by machinery, not touched by hand. After trying it yon will use no other.

MOXINE CHILL TONIC
Only Tonic—one bottle—one cure.

PHILOMATHEANS
Felicitate Filias Fideles
who are
Wanters of Wisdom,
Lovers of Learning,
and
Finders of Fun in Doing of Duty.
Enthusiastic to enter? Well, write for catalogue of Grenada College and to me for particulars.
MISS EVLYN WAUGH, Pres't.
Goodman, Miss.

"THE RESTATEMENT" TURNED DOWN.

The Methodist Episcopal Church in its recent session in Baltimore voted adversely on the proposition of "Restatement," and because of this the editor of the Christian Advocate (Nashville) is in great distress, and is very much grieved that the committee voted unanimously against it, and is awfully hurt because the Conference adopted the committee report without debate.

That the Northern Church reported adversely on the proposition delights some of us; that the committee voted unanimously gives great emphasis; that the Conference adopted the report without debate is no more than might be expected after ample time to think the subject over carefully.

Surely, this was a more fair, reasonable and intelligent method than that enacted at Birmingham about two years ago, where, as if by political trickery, the proposition was presented for vote without any previous discussion or announcement, in the papers or otherwise. By no means was the Church advised that such a move would be made. The movers of the "Restatement" proposition are due the Church an apology for the manner in which the question was introduced.

The editor of the Nashville Christian Advocate has a gloomy foreboding that all the other branches of Methodism may take action similar to that of the Methodist Episcopal Church, but vaguely hopes that the Southern Church may pass favorably on the proposition, though alone. I think he will find that all the Southern Church needs to pass adversely on the subject is to have time to consider. Most of us think this the most radical move made among us during our existence.

Yours in the faith,

J. H. SMITH.

Vaiden, Miss.

INFANTILE HUMORS.
Nothing is more annoying than a fretful child; and nothing will make the baby cry like sore throat etao hrd hrod baby cry like sore, eczema-covered head and hands. Don't neglect the baby's skin; it is very tender, and a little neglect now may ruin its complexion for life. Tetterine will cure the most aggravated cases of tetter, ringworm, eczema, rashes, pimples, in fact any form of skin disease, and may be applied to the tenderest surface on the smallest child. Try a box. 50c at your drug store or by mail on receipt of price. Shuptrine Co., Savannah, Ga.

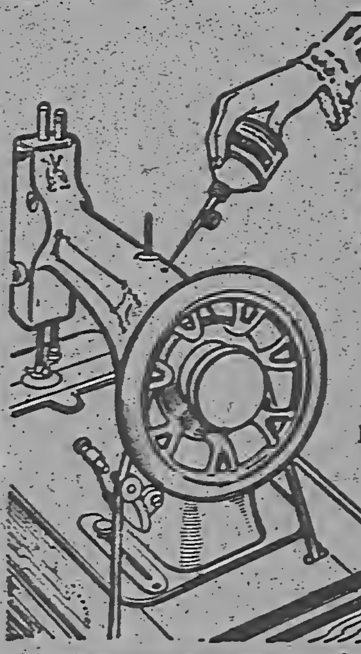
MOXINE
Cures LAGRIPPE and Colds.

Marriages.

At the Methodist Church at Sardis, Miss., on June 16, 1908, by Rev. W. M. Young, Mr. L. L. BILLUPS, of Greenville, Miss., to Miss MARY A. DUVALL, of Sardis, Miss.

At the residence of the groom in Tate County, Miss., Sunday, June 14, 1908, at 9 a.m., by Rev. E. E. Langford, Mr. G. D. GARRISON and Miss BIRDIE ATKINS.

If you would have the priestly gift of sympathy, you must be content to pay the price; like him, you must suffer.—F. W. Robertson.



Save the Machine
Put new life into the hard-worked sewing machine. Make it run lightly, noiselessly. Liven it and the hundred other things about the house that are getting "the worse for wear" with a little
Household Lubricant
Best of all oils for domestic purposes. Try it on the lawn mower, freezer, washer, bicycle, anything that needs oil. Won't corrode, gum, clog or tarnish.
Sold in handy-size, 4 and 8 ounce tin oilers. All dealers.
STANDARD OIL COMPANY
(INCORPORATED)

COMPLETE ONLY $15.00
BURNS WOOD OR COAL

JUST SEND ME ONE DOLLAR
and I will ship C. O. D. to any railroad station in the U. S. this fine Willard Steel Range. Anyone can say they have the best range in the world, but I will furnish the evidence and leave the verdict to you. After you examine this range, if you are satisfied in every way, pay Agent $14.00 and freight, and you become the possessor of the best range in the world for the money. The range has six 8-inch lids; 18-inch oven; 15-gal. reservoir; large warming closet; top cooking surface, 30x24 ins. Guaranteed to reach you in perfect order. Shipping weight, 400 lbs. Thousands in use and every one of them giving satisfaction. Write for full description and testimonials.
WM. G. WILLARD
No. 63 WILLARD BLDG.
[illegible] STREET
ST. LOUIS, MO.

W. H. BYRNE, Pres. JOHN T. GIBBONS, Vice-Pres. P. E. BURKE, Sec'y.
Capital..........$200,000.00
Assets..........479,860.90
HIBERNIA INSURANCE CO.,
No. 305 Camp Street,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
LOSSES PROMPTLY PAID.

YOUR SUMMER VACATION
IS NEAR AT HAND
THE
Southern SOUTHERN SUNSET ROUTE PACIFIC Pacific
WILL HAVE MANY ATTRACTIVE ROUTES TO OFFER BY RAIL OR WATER
To CALIFORNIA
GO ONE WAY---- RETURN ANOTHER THROUGH THE MOST BEAUTIFUL SCENERY IN THE WORLD
To NEW YORK
OR ONE OF OUR MAGNIFICENT STEAMSHIPS --- FIVE BIG BOATS
"CREOLE," "MOMUS," "ANTILLES," "PROTEUS," "COMUS."
ASK YOUR AGENT FOR LITERATURE, OR WRITE
G. E. GUEDRY, Div. Pass. Agt.
LAKE CHARLES
F. E. BATTURS, Gen. Pass. Agt.
NEW ORLEANS

The British Admiralty has ordered work to be begun on two new battleships, which will outclass all others now in the Navy. The largest will have a displacement of 21,000 tons, and will be provided with gas engines.

On a recent voyage from Liverpool to New York the Mauritania carried $40,000,000 in cash and securities. This is said to be the largest consignment of treasure ever brought from Europe to this country.

RECIPE FOR

DIXIE ICE CREAM

Can be made and frozen in 10 minutes at cost of

One Cent a Plate.

Stir contents of one 13c. package

Jell-O ICE CREAM Powder

into a quart of milk and freeze.

No cooking, no heating, nothing else to add. Everything but the ice and milk in the package.

Satisfaction guaranteed.

This makes 2 quarts of the most delicious ice cream you ever ate.

Five Kinds: Chocolate, Vanilla, Strawberry, Lemon and Unflavored.

2 packages 25c. at your grocers, or by mail if he does not keep it.

Illustrated Recipe Book Free.

The Genesee Pure Food Co., Le Roy, N. Y.

SHUQUALAK, MISS.

The fourth Sunday in May we began a series of meetings in the Church at Shuqualak, Miss., the pastor doing the preaching, excepting one sermon by Rev. Hal. Jenkins, of Shuqualak, who has just finished a theological course at the Presbyterian Seminary at Richmond, Va., till Tuesday evening. Then Brother M. B. Sharbrough, of Madison Circuit, Mississippi Conference, came and did all the preaching, excepting one sermon to the children preached by Rev. J. A. Poe.

Brother Sharbrough preached with fervor and power, giving us practical and strong sermons, rich in the profoundest and best thoughts. They were expressed in plain language, such as children could understand, and stirred the people perhaps as never before. On the fifth Sunday Brother Sharbrough preached an appropriate sermon, and formally dedicated our new Church in the presence of a full house.

The church is a beauty, and well suited to the needs of this place. The Methodist congregation here is small, and not a moneyed people, yet, with the help of $200 from the Board of Church Extension, and less than the same amount from other sources, they have paid every dollar themselves, and did it without suppers, fairs, and such like plans. For this much credit is due Rev. W. A. Bowlin, and Rev. J. A. Poe, former pastors, both of whom labored to raise the money, and planned for the building.

On the morning of the dedication they still lacked about $60 of having enough to pay the entire indebtedness. This we decided to raise by sending collectors through the congregation. The response was between $75 and $80. The result is that our people are proud and happy. They have been about seven years raising the money, and it was a hard struggle.

The meeting resulted in adding six new members to the church, and others yet to join. Shuqualak is peculiar in that all the people, not less than one dozen exceptions, from ten years old and upwards, were at the beginning of our meeting members of some Christian church. Our only hope was to quicken the spirituality and active working of those already in the church.

The Shuqualak Circuit has six churches, which gives a young man like this writer of nearly 60 summers about all he can do, especially when two Sundays are given to the Shuqualak Church, and one-half the Sundays he has to ride several miles and preach three times, and twice on each of the other Sundays—and the rides too. On the whole there seems to be progress, and the outlook is encouraging.

Q. A. OATS.

HOW'S THIS?

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrn Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligations made by his firm.

WALDING, KINNAN & MARVIN,
Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, Ohio.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Testimonials sent free. Price, 75c. per bottle. Sold by all Druggists.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

OAK RIDGE CHARGE.

Dear Dr. Boswell: Our Children's Day at Bradley Chapel was a great success. The house and grounds were crowded and the people seemed to enjoy the day to the fullest extent. The children did remarkably well and the singing is said to have been the best that was ever heard at that place. Our offering amounted to $24.

We had a very gracious prayer meeting on the night of the twenty-fourth of June; about forty-five people out. This is one instance which goes to prove that the "spiritual state" of our church at Oak Ridge is improving.

The greatest fault I find with these clever people is the absence of the "family altar" in the home. No church can be a live, progressive, or a soul-winning church as long as her members are prayerless in their homes. The more family altars we have the better the stewards, the Sunday School superintendents and teachers, the more and better the preachers will be.

JAS. M. LEWIS.

Oak Ridge, Miss.

If you have not received the Argo Red Salmon Cook Book, ask your grocer or send a postal to advertising department, Alaska Packers Association, San Francisco, Cal.

MOXINE CHILL TONIC
Only Tonic—one bottle—one cure.

FITS St. Vitus' Dance and Nervous diseases permanently cured by Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. Send for FREE $2.00 trial bottle and treatise. Dr. R. H. Kline, Ltd., 931 Arch St., Philadelphia, Pa.

WANTED.

Refined Young Ladies as Pupil Nurses,

GULF COAST HEALTH RESORT,
Biloxi, Miss.

HENDERSONVILLE, N. C.

"Pine Grove Lodge" will be open for guests after June 1. Delightful location; special rates for June.
Address, Mrs. E. C. Bedell.

MOXINE
Cures LAGRIPPE and Colds.

RHEUMATISM, DYSPEPSIA and
DISEASES of the NERVOUS SYSTEM
Including Neurasthenia & Paralysis.

Our new natural methods of treatment have been so succesful in the diseases named above and in other chronic ailments that we guarantee satisfaction in every case we accept for treatment. If after one full week's treatment and observance of our instructions, a patient is not convinced that our treatment is just what is needed for the cure of his or her disease, the week's treatment including room and board in the sanitarium will cost the patient nothing whatever.

If other treatment has failed to benefit you, come to us and BE CURED and at the same time learn how to avoid illness in the future. Illustrated phamphlet and diagnosis blank free.

The Biggs Sanitarium, GREENSBORO, N. C.

Pine-Brook Dairy Co., Ltd.

ALL OUR COWS TUBERCULINE TESTED.

Milk and Cream Delivered Morning and Evening.

COR. ST. CHARLES & WASHINGTON AVES. Phone 1514 Uptown.

THE AMERICAN PAINT WORKS,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.,

MANUFACTURES EVERYTHING IN PAINTS,

—Guaranteed Strictly Pure—

The Climatic Prepared Paints, Perfecto White and

SOLD SUBJECT TO A CHEMICAL ANALYSIS.

DIRECTORS:

Thos. S. Witherspoon, President. Francis Martin, Vice President.
R. B. Parker, John McCloskey, Geo. A. Hero.
PHONE, MAIN 915. Special Attention to Mail Orders.

THE BEST MADE.

Angell's Cough and Whooping Cough Syrup

For Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Coughs, Colds and Throat Trouble.
CONTAINS NO OPIUM OR MORPHINE,
All Druggists, Price 25 and 50 Cents.

SCROFULINE
The Wonderful Healer

Unsurpassed for tetter, ezcema, skin and scalp troubles, old sores, ulcers and piles, any nature or duration. Goes to the very seat of the trouble, kills the germs and extracts all foreign matter. Sold under a positive guarantee, 25c, 50c and $1.00 per jar. Mail orders promptly filled. Stamps accepted. Liberal sample upon request. Address,

THE SCROFULINE COMPANY, Waco, Texas.
SOLE OWNERS AND MANUFACTURERS.

Louisiana Railway and Navigation Company.

PASSENGER SERVICE,

Daily Passenger Trains between Shreveport and New Orleans. Daily Passenger Trains between Shreveport and Winnfield.

FREIGHT SERVICE,

Exceptional good time on carload traffic. Special attention given less than carload shipments all of which moves in

DAILY THROUGH PACKAGE CARS.

CLARENCE ELLERBE, Assistant to President.
H. B. HELM, General Superintendent.
E. C. D. MARSHALL, General Freight & Passenger Agent.
Shreveport, La.

Is Your Baby Teething?

There is no need to dread baby's second summer—the trying teething period—just keep its system in condition to make teething easy and save sleepless nights.

Teethina
(Teething Powders)

was first used by Dr. C. J. Moffett, a graduate of Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, in his extensive and successful treatment of children's diseases incident to teething and summer complaints—a standard remedy for over [illegible] years throughout the South. It contains the elements recommended by the most advanced medical science as necessary for removing the cause of disease and keeping baby's system in condition to make teething easy. In almost all of the cases of children [illegible] that prove fatal [illegible] the use of Teethina would have saved the child. At all Druggists, 25c Or from C. J. Moffett Medicine Company, St. Louis. Write for our free "Mother's Booklet."

HIS CHANCE IS GONE
YOUR CHANCE IS HERE

The question is, are you qualified to hold a responsible position? Have you had a thorough commercial training? Bankers, Merchants, and Manufacturers want you if you are competent. Now is Your Chance. Two roads are open to young people. One requires no training and leads to failure. The other requires training and leads to success. We prepare young men and women and start them on the road to success by securing them high-salaried positions. Fine climate, board cheap. Write for illustrated catalog and further information.
HATTIESBURG BUSINESS COLLEGE, HATTIESBURG, MISS.

BLYMYER CHURCH BELLS. [illegible]
[illegible] Cincinnati Bell Foundry Co., Cincinnati, O.

BELLS.
Steel Alloy Church and School Bells. Send for Catalogue. The C. S. BELL CO., Hillsboro, O.

RANDOLPH-MACON ACADEMY
For Boys and Young Men
Fits for college, university or business. Work endorsed by over 30 colleges and universities. Beautiful and healthful location. Ample athletic grounds; gymnasium. Terms only $220. No extras. For catalogue, address E. SUMTER SMITH, Principal, Bedford City, Va.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL
The Double Track Route.

26 Hours to Chicago
21 Hours to St. Louis
22 Hours to Louisville
26 Hours to Cincinnati

Through Sleeping Cars to above points. Dining Cars, Library Cars Chair Cars and Coaches.
Full Particulars at
City Ticket Office,
141 ST. CHARLES STREET.
Phone Main 3618.

MOXINE
Cures LAGRIPPE and Colds.

Epworth League

By Rev. H. Whitehead.

PRAYER-MEETING TOPIC.

June 12. The Fundamental Law of Jesus' Life. John iv. 34; v. 30; vi. 38; viii. 29; xiv. 31; xv. 10.

The fundamental law of Jesus' life was to do the Father's will. As a boy of 12 he is about his Father's business. While his disciples were in a neighboring village purchasing food, the Master entered into conversation with a Samaritan woman. He seemed to gain a vision of the lost world through this woman, and the passion for souls overwhelmed him. When his disciples returned he refused food. They asked if anyone had given him aught to eat. He answered, "My meat is to do the will of him that sent me, and to finish his work."

1. The power of a single purpose to absorb the life.

Ordinarily, each function of the body cares for its own. When the body lacks nutrition, you become hungry; when you have worked to the limit of your strength and endurance the body demands rest; when you have gone so long without sleep, nature requires the hours of slumber from you. But a great purpose, or a strong desire, can so master the body that you will forget hunger and weariness, and drive sleep from your eyelids. The Master uses this thought when he gives his reason for not desiring food. He was so concerned about the salvation of men that for the time he did not care to eat. His hunger was forgotten.

2. The supreme passion of the life of Christ was to do the will of the Father. He reiterates this thought again and again. He came not to do his own will, but the will of him that sent him. This fact gives a new vision of the Father. We all know the wonderful love and zeal for men displayed in the life of Christ, but we may feel sure that in no degree did the Christ exceed the zeal of the Father that gave his Son. The lessons of service and obedience are more vivid, when we observe how intense was the pains of the Christ to do the will of the Father.

Under the shadow of the cross, and with the voices of his enemies already echoing in the distance, Christ cries out that the Father's will be done. The shout of triumph on the cross is that he has finished the things which were given him to do.

3. An all-absorbing purpose to do the Father's will brings the world into its true relations to the souls.

You never really follow Christ until your soul is seeking above all else to do the will of God. But when your heart has caught this great passion, then you will come to know the Christ as never before. When you want to do his will, the Spirit will shine upon the way. Some one has said that if a man truly wants to do the will of God, that a whole constellation will be caused to shine upon his pathway, before that man will be allowed to go astray.

When you really want to do your Father's will you will dispose of a whole stock of excuses, for which you will have no further use.

Then you will not grow weary, for you will forget your fatigue, and your soul will find its delight in service. You will look for your joy in different things from what you did in former days. You will care more for what God can see in you than for what men see. You will measure the relative importance of different events, by their relations to eternal things. The will of God will be more than all the world besides, and always good, always for the best. You will study less about your circumstances, and more about the unfailing treasure of your Father. You will find time to do the Lord's work. You will fit your business to your religion and not your religion to your business. You will forget that there is such a thing as sacrifice in your life, for what men call sacrifice will be full of joy. When daily and continually you seek to do your Father's will, you will enjoy your religion here, and be ready to enjoy heaven hereafter.

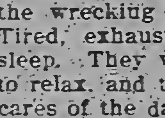
DON'T LOSE SLEEP.

Sleep is nature's safeguard against the wrecking of the mind and body. Tired, exhausted nerves rob you of sleep. They will not allow the brain to relax, and throw off the worry and cares of the day. Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills by their soothing influence upon the nerves bring refreshing sleep. Keep them convenient for immediate use and you'll lose no sleep. 25 doses 25c. Never sold in bulk.

Seek to cultivate a buoyant, joyous sense of the crowded kindness of God in your daily life.—McLaren.

Argo Red Salmon. A food of quality.

There has been a destructive fire at Port-au-Prince, Hayti, burning over four hundred buildings.



Meridian Male College
[illegible] FACULTY OF 25 EXPERIENCED TEACHERS [illegible] MERIDIAN, MISS.

A GOOD PIANO,
PIANO PLAYER or PLAYER PIANO, see the
Grunewald's
Before You Buy.
Agents for the Latest Improved and best Instruments on the Market.

TUSCALOOSA FEMALE COLLEGE
TUSCALOOSA, ALA.
A Safe Place to Send Your Daughters.

Only private Female College in the State. Select College. Faculty of Specialists. Superior advantages in Music, Art and Expression. Homelike accommodations. Beautiful buildings; excellent furniture. Hot and cold water on every floor. Electric lights and electric bells in every room. Health record unsurpassed. Beautiful grounds for out-door sports. High moral and religious tone. An ideal college home. Expenses $200—$300. A limited number of free tuition scholarships. Write for beautiful catalogues.
B. J. HOLSTON, A.M., President.

WESLEYAN COLLEGE, Macon, Ga. Oldest and Best.
WESLEYAN CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC Macon, Ga. Largest and Best.

Expression, Art, Physical Culture, and Business Instruction Same Standard.

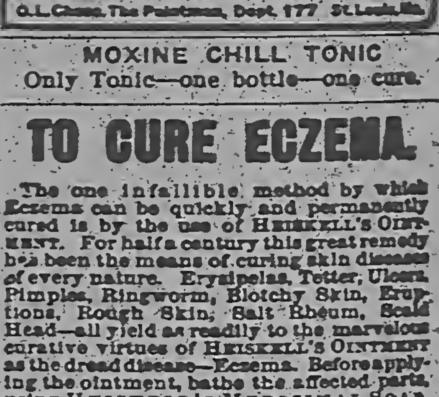
COLLEGE PLACED IN CLASS A, FIRST GRADE OF COLLEGES, by General Board of Education, M. E. Church, South, the requirements of which are equivalent to those established for Class A by the United States Government. First-class in all respects. Health record unsurpassed. Discipline liberal, but careful. Rates lower than those of any college of or near the same class in the Union. Not conducted for pecuniary profit, but to accomplish the best [illegible] work for the least money. Standard rates for literary, tuition, library and matriculation fee and board (including light, fuel and laundry) school year $237.00. No unpublished charges or unjust discriminations to secure pupils. Catalogues free. Fall term, September 16th.
DUPONT GUERRY, President.

TEN FINEST POST CARDS FREE
Ten high-grade, artistic and embossed Birthday, Friendship, Floral and Greeting cards, in exquisitely beautiful colors, our big post card catalogue and trial subscription to popular magazine all free if you answer ad. immediately and send 10c. for mailing expense. Thirty cards, all different, 25c. Post Card Co., 409 U. S. Express Bldg., Dept. 18, Chicago.

I am the Paint Man
Get my Big Free Book, including Color Cards to select from—also free Book of Painters' Supplies sold at Direct-to-You Prices. I make Paint to order—sell it on three months' time—allow two full gallons free to try—and pay all freight charges. Write postal for full particulars and FREE Books.
O. L. Chase, The Paintman, Dept. 177 St. Louis, Mo.

MOXINE CHILL TONIC
Only Tonic—one bottle—one cure.

TO CURE ECZEMA.
The one infallible method by which Eczema can be quickly and permanently cured is by the use of HEISKELL'S OINTMENT. For half a century this great remedy has been the means of curing skin diseases of every nature. Erysipelas, Tetter, Ulcers, Pimples, Ringworm, Blotchy Skin, Eruptions, Rough Skin, Salt Rheum, Scald Head—all yield as readily to the marvelous curative virtues of HEISKELL'S OINTMENT as the dread disease—Eczema. Before applying the ointment, bathe the affected parts, using HEISKELL'S MEDICINAL SOAP. HEISKELL'S BLOOD AND LIVER PILLS tone up the liver and cleanse the blood. Ointment, 50 cents a box; Soap, 25 cents a cake; Pills, 25 cents a bottle—at all druggists. Send for interesting book of testimonials to JOHNSTON, HOLLOWAY & Co., 531 Commerce street, Philadelphia, Pa.



The Guaranteed Exterminator
Stearns' Electric RAT and ROACH Paste
is guaranteed to rid the house, barn or store of cockroaches, rats, mice, water bugs, etc. Sold at druggists or general stores everywhere, or sent prepaid on receipt of price.
2 oz. box, 25c; 16 oz. box, $1.00.
STEARNS' ELECTRIC PASTE CO., Buffalo, N.Y., U.S.A.

MOXINE CHILL TONIC
Only Tonic—one bottle—one cure.

NEW ORLEANS
CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE

Millsaps College Library

REV. JOHN W. BOSWELL, Editor.
REV. H. WHITEHEAD, Ass't Editor.

NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, JULY 16, 1908.

CHAS. O. CHALMERS, Publisher,
Office, 512 Camp St., New Orleans.

VOL. 55—No. 28.

"PROVE ALL THINGS; HOLD FAST THAT WHICH IS GOOD."

WHOLE No. 5408.

Glances at the World.

The National Democratic Convention, in session last week, gave voice to the Democratic sentiment on every issue calculated to affect the interests of the people. In many respects the platform adopted is contrary to the sentiments of the Republicans. Some parts of the platform, seemingly, were adopted to catch votes. Some things proposed, if carried out, will be greatly to the advantage of the country. After touching on thirty or more different points, the platform closes with this paragraph: "The Democratic Party is the champion of equal rights and opportunities to all, and the Republican Party is the party of privilege and private monopoly. The Democratic Party listens to the voice of the whole people and guages progress by the prosperity and advancement of the average man; the Republican Party is subservient to the comparatively few who are the beneficiaries of governmental favoritism. We invite the co-operation of all, regardless of previous political affiliation or past differences, who desire to preserve a government of the people, by the people and for the people, and who favor such an administration of government as will insure, as well as human wisdom can, that each citizen shall draw from society a reward commensurate with his contribution to the welfare of society." Mr. Bryan, as was expected, was nominated on the first ballot. For Vice President, Hon. John S. Kern, of Indiana, was nominated. The Convention was not only enthusiastic, but noisy beyond reason. About the best thing done was to get rid of Thomas Taggart as chairman of the National Democratic Committee.

* * *

We do not know how to characterize the prohibition situation in Tennessee. It has been among the States of the South foremost in abolishing the saloons, having driven them out of every city and town in its borders except four. The work was accomplished under a local-option law. The canvass for Governor has just ended in a primary election. One candidate, Ex-Senator E. W. Carmack, stood for State-wide prohibition. Mr. M. R. Patterson, the present Governor, offering for re-election, advocated local option. No other issues seemed to interest or excite the people. Mr. Patterson was successful, by what majority is not yet known. It is not large. The whisky forces of the State were solidly arrayed in favor of Mr. Patterson, and his success is taken as an evidence that Tennessee is opposed to prohibition. We are not so sure. Had the contest been between a prohibitionist, such as Mr. Carmack, and an out-and-out whisky man, the issue would have been different. But Mr. Patterson stood for local option, and the whisky men accepted him as less likely to do them harm than Mr. Carmack. Local optionists, we dare say, voted for Mr. Patterson, who, on a square fight, whisky or no whisky, will vote no whisky every time. Then Mr. Patterson had served but one term, and many people, ready always to try a fair man another term, let sentiment govern their vote. Besides, Mr. Patterson pledged himself to sign a prohibition bill should the Legislature enact it. That doubtless had weight. We still look for Tennessee to go for prohibition.

* * *

At a special session of the Louisiana Legislature held about a year ago provision was made for a Commission to investigate port conditions at New Orleans, with a view to put an end to the frequent troubles occurring between the freight handlers and steamship agents and other employers of labor. The Commission was appointed and furnished with the means of conducting the investigation. An attorney was employed at the cost of $10,000. One attorney, it was thought, was not sufficient, and a second one was engaged, it appears, without a stipulated fee. The second attorney employed was Mr. Gilmore, the City Attorney of New Orleans, whose salary is $6,000 a year. The Commission did not have money to pay Mr. Gilmore. At the meeting of the regular session, just adjourned, a bill was introduced authorizing the payment of $10,000 to Mr. Gilmore for services rendered the Commission. The bill passed both houses of the Legislature. If Mr. Gilmore was employed by authority of the State, he was a double office-holder, and drew two salaries at the same time, which, if we are correctly informed, is in violation of the State Constitution. If he was simply called in as City Attorney to assist in the investigation, then the Legislature has deliberately given away $10,000 of the people's money. In either case, the transaction can be characterized in no other way than as an outrage.

* * *

In the inaugural message of Governor Sanders occurred some very plain and timely words in regard to lobbyists, who so frequently give trouble to Legislatures. His recommendations were so earnest and seemed so necessary, we really expected the legislators to take up the matter at once and save themselves from annoyance. But they did not, and the result was that the session just ended was as badly lobby-ridden as any in the history of the State. On almost every important measure before the body it was literally overrun with lobbyists. This was particularly true with regard to important reform measures. The defeat of every temperance measure, we think, was due to the influence of the lobbyists. But for their influence the question of prohibition would have been submitted to the people for settlement. And but for the strong prohibition sentiment throughout the State the strong restrictive measures, of a high-license character, probably would have failed. The lobbyists came within one vote of defeating the Anti-Race Track Gambling Bill. One sick man, barely able to get to the Statehouse, saved the day. A full and impartial hearing before committees is all right, but the domination of lobbyists is all wrong, and before the next meeting of the Legislature the people ought to demand their elimination from the Statehouse.

* * *

A public document from Washington says: "Japan is the only government in the world which takes upon itself the working of its lumber business, according to Consul General Henry B. Miller, of Yokohama, in a report in which he quotes the director of the Japanese Forest Bureau. The Mikado's government has set apart a quarter of a million dollars to build saw mills and lumber roads, manufacture lumber in remote districts and put it on the market. Except railroad ties for Manchuria roads, the Japanese government exports no timber. It is all needed at home. Many governments in different parts of the world own forests, but, as a rule, the timber is sold where it stands, and the buyer cuts and markets it. That is the way it is done in the National forests of this country. The Japanese government, however, proposes to carry on all parts of the work, from planting the trees to selling the lumber after it has been manufactured. The report says: 'The Japanese Department of Agriculture and Commerce, which established a saw mill in 1906, making a grant of $100,000 in that year and $150,000 in 1907 to develop the business, has obtained a vote of $150,000 toward the fund for the extension of the lumber business, and new government mills are to be established. Before the end of this year there will be nine timber mills in all worked by the government. In many forests reserved by the government there is a very heavy supply of timber, but these forests are remote from railways, rivers or seaports, and much expenditure is necessary for opening roads or constructing other means of transport in order to make such timber available. District forestry offices will, however, not work mills regardless of profit, as strong competition is going on among them. It is stated that the government mills will only supply their products to merchants in Japan, and the works are not yet progressed to such a stage that the Government can export direct. So far, the export of timber by the Government mills has been confined to supplying sleepers to the South Manchurian Railway Company.'"

Christian Advocate.

Published for the Louisiana, Mississippi and North Mississippi Conferences, Methodist Episcopal Church, South.

DIRECTIONS.

Correspondents will please direct all communications intended for the Editor to 512 Camp St., New Orleans, La. Communications intended for the Business Department should be addressed to the Manager of the New Orleans Christian Advocate. Write with ink and only on one side of the paper. No attention will be paid to rolled manuscripts.

The Printed Label on a paper shows the date to which a subscription is paid. It is as good as a written receipt. When renewal is made, if the date is not moved forward after two weeks, notify us and we will make it right. Papers will be continued unless subscribers order otherwise.

For Advertising Rates Apply to

Religious Press Advertising Syndicate,
JACOBS & CO., CLINTON, S. C.

Home Office Clinton, S. C., who have charge of the advertising of this paper.

ADVERTISING REPRESENTATIVES.

J. F. Jacobs, J. D. Jacobs, Home Office, Clinton, S. C.; R. J. Ritter, 415 W. St. Catherine St., Louisville, Ky.; Thornwell Jacobs, 1011 Stahlman Bldg., Nashville, Tenn.; C. C. Little, 501 Mutual Bldg., Richmond, Va.; D. J. Carter, 150 LaSalle St., Chicago, Ill.; Miss M. R. Middleton, 150 Nassau St., New York, N. Y.; Barton E. Buckman, 125 LaSalle St., Chicago, Ill.; J. H. Rich, Birmingham, Ala.; E. J. Barrett, New Orleans, La.; J. B. Keough, Atlanta, Ga.; J. B. Gentry, Clinton, S. C.; H. B. Ewbank, Houston, Texas; W. L. Boggs, Greensboro, N. C.; F. A. Wynne, corner Akard and Elm Sts., Dallas, Tex.

THE "ORIGINAL SIN" PROBLEM NOT YET SOLVED.

BY REV. D. M. GEDDIE.

No. 1.

Dr. R. H. Mahon's discussion of "Original Sin," published in the April number of the Review, is a valuable contribution to Methodist literature on that knotty problem. But the writer does not think, with the able editor of the Review, that Dr. Mahon has thought his way clear to the end. When he construes our Article on "Original Sin" as a definition of sin, he fatally blunders. Such it is not intended to be. It is a definition of one particular sin. The word "original" is intended to distinguish it from all other sins. Otherwise it would have no significance. If, indeed, this Article is a definition of sin, the word "original" should be left out, and some other words changed. It should read something like the following:

> Sin standeth not in the following of Adam (as the Pelagians do vainly talk) but it is the corruption of the nature of every man that naturally is engendered of the offspring of man, whereby man is very far gone from righteousness, and of his own nature a sinner.

But, as clearly indicated in the Article itself, this Article, like the one on "Free Will," was purposely designed as a denial of the heretical doctrine of Pelagius. Pelagius denied the doctrines of original sin, and of the atonement of Christ, as held by orthodox Christianity. Adam's sin did not corrupt him or his posterity. Man was free to will and choose and act for himself, and to work out his own salvation. Christ was a mere human example, and his death that of a martyr dying for his cause. It was not an atonement for Adam's sin; nor did it contain any propitiatory or redemptive efficacy. The race stood precisely where Adam did before he sinned; free to do right or to do wrong, as each man might elect for himself independent of what Christ had done and suffered, and the whole force of this Article is found in its denial of this heretical doctrine. It does not intimate that Adam's sin necessitates our actual voluntary transgressions, or that it is the cause of any man's condemnation. It simply states what was, or would have been, the moral condition of man without the atonement of Christ; that instead of man being free to work out his own salvation without the death of Christ it was the grace of God in Christ that gave him his freedom to will and choose and act. In other words, his free moral agency was the gift of divine grace through the redemption of Christ from original sin; that Christ's death was an atonement, a sacrifice, propitiation and satisfaction for original sin, and for the actual sins of men.

Dr. Mahon's second mistake is his own definition of sin. This definition is the logical sequence of his misconstruction and misapplication of our Article on "Original Sin." He says: "Sin is a disease, a disease of the moral nature. The Bible treats it as impurity, uncleanness, defilement, filthiness." But, as a matter of fact, the Bible does not define sin to be "a disease," or "impurity, uncleanness, defilement, filthiness." These are the results, the fruits of sin. Just as the violation of the laws of health bring physical disease, so does sin produce moral disease. Sin is the cause and disease the result.

But Dr. Mahon reminds us that hereditary disease will kill. Yes, if it is not cured it will; but if it is cured it will not kill. The condemnation of Adam's sin will possibly damn the soul if it has not been atoned for. But if Christ died for the "sin of the world," and "the free gift came upon all men unto justification of life," then Christ has atoned for it, and it does not damn any man. Hence the Bible defines sin to be "the transgression of the law," and not "a disease of the moral nature transmitted to us by natural generation from Adam." "Whosoever committeth sin transgresseth also the law: for sin is the transgression of the law." (1 John iii, 4.) "Because the law worketh wrath: for where no law is there is no transgression." (Rom. iv, 15.) "For until the law sin was in the world: but sin is not imputed where there is no law." (Rom. v, 13.) "The sting of death is sin; and the strength of sin is the law." (1 Cor. xv, 56.) "Without the law sin was dead." (Rom. vii, 8.)

But, to make sure of his definition, Dr. Mahon cites us to Romans i, 20-32. Unfortunately, however, for his theory, St. Paul here makes no allusion to "original sin," or its effects upon the race. The "qualities and characteristics of the human heart" and the "lusts, passions, tempers and dispositions that fester and ferment" are not in this chapter attributed by him to the nature of man as he received it by generation from Adam. Here is his language: "For the invisible things of him from the creation of the world are clearly seen, being understood by the things that are made, even his eternal power and Godhead; so that they are without excuse: Because that when they knew God they glorified him not as God, neither were thankful; but became vain in their imaginations and their foolish heart was darkened. Professing themselves to be wise, they became fools, and changed the glory of the uncorruptible God into an image made like to corruptible man, and to birds, and to fourfooted beasts, and creeping things. Wherefore God gave them up to uncleanness to dishonor their own bodies between themselves: Who changed the truth of God into a lie, and worshiped and served the creature more than the Creator," etc. (Rom. i, 20-32.) Evidently St. Paul was here speaking of free moral agents, who, having a knowledge of God and of spiritual worship, voluntarily and wickedly refused to serve and worship him and turned to the multiplied, vile and vulgar forms of idolatry common in his day. And he speaks of crimes actually committed by his own countrymen, rather than of the native, inborn qualities and characteristics of the human heart. They are held responsible for their sins, not on the ground of a diseased moral nature received by heredity from Adam, but on the ground that they knew better and had the moral capacity and freedom of will to choose and act for themselves. A clearer case of voluntary apostasy could not be found. They knew God, but would not worship him; they were ungrateful for his blessings; they changed his glory into an image, and his truth into a lie, and worshiped and served the creature in preference to the Creator. "When the Gentiles which have not the law, do by nature the things contained in the law, these having not the law, are a law unto themselves: which show the work of the law written in their hearts, their consciences also bearing witness, and their thoughts the meanwhile accusing, or else excusing one another." (Rom. ii, 14, 15.)

Mr. John Lord, LL.D., in his "Beacon Lights of History," after mentioning almost every conceivable crime and form of sensuality and idolatry as constantly and universally practiced by both men and women in Roman society in St. Paul's day, says: "Such was imperial Rome, in all the internal relations of life, and amid all the trophies and praises which resulted from universal conquest—a sad, gloomy, dismal picture, which fills us with disgust, as well as melancholy. If any one deems it an exaggeration, he has only to read St. Paul's first chapter in his epistle to the Romans." (Vol. III., page 383.) No wonder God gave them up to uncleanness to dishonor their own bodies between themselves, and to reprobacy of mind to do those things that are not convenient. But it was for their own sins, and not for Adam's.

Vernon, Miss.

SEASHORE ASSEMBLY FOR CHRISTIAN WORKERS.

The ninth session of the Seashore Assembly for Christian Workers (formerly the Seashore Epworth League Assembly) will open Thursday evening, July 23, at the famous Seashore Camp Ground, Biloxi, Miss., and will conclude Sunday evening, August 2. The Assembly offers to Epworth Leaguers, Sunday School workers, and all others who desire to equip themselves for Christian work, courses in systematic Bible Study, Home and Foreign Missions, Epworth League Methods, and Personal Work. Devotional meetings will be held every morning in the Tabernacle and every evening on thqe Beach. The forenoons will be given to study, the afternoons reserved for recreation, and the evenings for inspirational lectures.

Lodging will be provided in the Epworth Lodge, owned and managed by the Assembly, for as many advance applicants as the Lodge will accommodate at $2.50 for the ten days of the session. Board can be had at restaurant or private table at 75 cents to $1 a day.

For further particulars address F. S. Parker, President, 810 Broadway, Nashville, Tenn., or C. D. Atkinson, Secretary, 734 Nashville Avenue, New Orleans, La.

"THE LATEST AND BEST SCHOLARSHIP."

BY REV. H. W. FEATHERSTUN, D.D.

When the higher critical faddists are pressed for proof of their very remarkable declarations they tell us with a hypocritical naivete that their utterances are "the assured results of the latest and best scholarship"—or they may change the phrase to "the decisions of modern Biblical criticism"—or, more baldly put: "the assured results of modern criticism." In the business world we have had monopolies, until the idea has given slogans to our political parties: we have been saddened to find some misguided men who claimed a monopoly of holiness or piety, but now we have a set of learned (?) professors and their would-be-learned satellites, who claim a monopoly of scholarship. This claim would provoke from sensible men only a smile were it not that these monopolists refuse to argue their case, and expect us to accept their very remarkable declarations simply because they (the only scholars) make the declarations, the sayings of "the latest and best scholarship." In an old book somewhat known to us all I find these lines:

The noble Brutus
Hath told you Caesar was ambitious;
If it were so, it was a grievous fault;
And grievously hath Caesar answered it.
Here, under leave of Brutus, and the rest,
(For Brutus is an honorable man;
So are they all, all honorable men),
Come I to speak in Caesar's funeral.
He was my friend, faithful and just to me,
But Brutus says he was ambitious,
And Brutus is an honorable man.
He hath brought many captives home to Rome,
Whose ransoms did the general coffers fill.
Did this in Caesar seem ambitious?
When that the poor have cried, Caesar hath wept.
Ambition should be made of sterner stuff;
Yet Brutus says he was ambitious;
And Brutus is an honorable man.
You all did see, that on the Lupercal,
I thrice presented him a kingly crown,
Which he did thrice refuse. Was this ambition?
Yet Brutus says he was ambitious;
And, sure, he is an honorable man.

The following lines are not in the old book, but we can understand them:

Wellhausen and his followers declare
That Moses did not write the Pentateuch—
The whole or any little part of it;
But Moses claims he did, and Christ concedes
The claim, and those who wrote the sacred books,
Whoe'er they were concede the claim. But they,
The Christ and all these holy men of old,
And Moses, too, must be mistaken, for
Wellhausen and his followers, who claim
The best and latest scholarship, say "No."
Wellhausen and his followers insist
That John, the Apostle John, did not
In any way produce the Gospel which
Is claimed for him. John says he did; but, then,
The Apostle dreamed or—for they, the learned,
Have all "the best and latest scholarship;"
And they, the critics, say that he did not.
George Adam Smith, of Glasgow school, has said
That God once told to Abraham a lie,
Because the Patriarch did not have sense
Enough to take the truth if God had told it.
Is God a Jesuit? The thought appals—
But, then—but, then, George Adam and his crew
Have all "the best and latest scholarship."

Does someone suggest that there is no argument in ridicule? It is certainly true. But these higher critic gentlemen have no interest in argument—they never use it. They bolster their remarkable declarations by simply saying: "These are the assured results of the latest and best scholarship." Is it unfair to meet this supercilious dogmatism with ridicule? My ridicule is quite as logical as their dogmatism.

Because some college men in Germany and England and a few in America have learned Hebrew and Greek and have formed a trust in scholarship, is there any reason in granting unquestioned credence to all the strange declarations they make, regardless of how unreasonable they may be? One of the best musicians in the world was a negro idiot; and some of the prodigies in mathematical attainments have no sense about anything else. May it not be that some of these men of "the latest and best scholarship," with all their knowledge of Hebrew and Greek, may be as illogical as Blind Tom? A learned lawyer (Sir Robt. Anderson, K.C.B., LL.D.) has said: "The very qualities which constitute an expert's value as a witness tend to unfit him for the position of a judge. Hence it is that no civilized community tolerates a tribunal of experts." The religious world now is suffering from the wretched verdicts rendered by a set of experts in Hebrew, who have usurped the functions of judge and jury, as well as those of expert witnesses. These verdicts may not discount the learning of these experts, but they do fearful violence to all the canons of reasoning, and are utterly repugnant to common sense.

As an illustration of the wretched logic of these monopolists of "the latest and best scholarship" stands their treatment of the Samaritan Bible. We all know of the relentless feud between the Jews and Samaritans. Well, the Samaritan Bible consists of the Pentateuch only, because all of the rest of the Old Testament had more or less a Jewish taint about it. If, as these experts, a la Wellhausen and Geo. Adam Smith, assert, the Pentateuch was not written until Exilic or Post-Exilic times, how is it that these Samaritan haters of everything Jewish were induced to take this patent Jewish forgery and make it their sacrosanct Scriptures? This Samaritan Bible problem demands an explanation. The men of "the latest and best scholarship" gives us none. Common sense demands an explanation—"latest and best scholarship" ignore the demand. If common sense brands this "latest and best scholarship" as utterly illogical and unfair or contemptibly weak, who can challenge the charge?

Nobody values scholarship more than does this writer; but nobody despises arrogance and pretense, dogmatic weakness and supercilious Phariseeism more than does he. True learning is ever modest—what of these men who arrogantly claim a monopoly of "the latest and best scholarship?" What of modesty do they exhibit?

But, really, have these gentlemen any monopoly of "the latest and best scholarship?" A. H. Sayce, D.D., LL.D., possibly the most learned archaeologist alive, is not one of them, and has written against them his "Monument Facts and Higher Critical Fancies." Sir J. Wm. Dawson, F.R.S., LL.D., is a great scholar, and deals with these very questions; so does Sir Robt. Anderson, K.C.B., LL.D., another renowned scholar; and both oppose and arraign these monopolizing pretenders. Time would fail me to tell of Principal Cairns, Dean Howson, Prof. Blaikie and Prof. Von Orelli of Wellhausen's own land, and many others in England and America quite as learned and far more modest than any of the Geo. Adam Smith and C. A. Briggs School.

CENTENARY COLLEGE AND THE LOUISIANA LEGISLATURE.

The following is the report of the Special Committee of the General Assembly appointed to ascertain what rights the State of Louisiana has in and to the property of Centenary College. It is taken from the official journal of the House for Tuesday, July 7, 1908:

REPORT OF SPECIAL COMMITTEE.

Baton Rouge, La., July 7, 1908.

To the President and Members of the Senate and the Speaker and Members of the House of Representatives:

We, your committee appointed to ascertain what right the State of Louisiana has in and to the property of Centenary College of Louisiana, located at Jackson, La., beg leave to report as follows:

We are informed that the land upon which the buildings of the said college stands was donated to the State for the purpose of establishing thereon the College of Louisiana; that later the State sold to Edward McGehee the lands and buildings of said College of Louisiana on a credit, and on condition that an institution of learning would be conducted and maintained in said college at Jackson, La.; that subsequently the said McGehee transferred by deed of sale the property above referred to to the Board of Trustees of Centenary College, who assumed the mortgage given by McGehee in favor of his vendor, the State, taking over the property subject to all the provisions contained in the transfer to said Mr. McGehee; that by reference to the several acts of the Legislature and those deeds which we have had access to, the said Centenary College of Louisiana is required to maintain a literary institution of the collegiate grade at Jackson, La.; that they have not so done for the last two years. While it is the belief of your committee that the State of Louisiana has certain substantial rights in and to the property aforesaid, still on account of the lack of time now at the disposal of your committee, we would request that this be considered as a partial report, and ask for leave to report in full at the next session, after we have examined all papers, deeds and instruments relative to the status of the said Centenary College of Louisiana.

Signed by: A. F. Miller, Chas. A. Byrne and E. L. Irwin, Committee.

Mr. Miller moved that the House do now receive the report of the committee and have same printed in the journal, which motion was agreed to.

E. K. MEANS.

What can you do? The world seeks for the man that can do something.

The Centenary College of Louisiana,

Shreveport, La.

For Announcement or other information

Address:

President W. L. WEBER,
Shreveport, La.

A DAY AT REDBONE.

Redbone, Bethel, is one of the churches upon the South Warren pastoral charge, about twelve miles south of Vicksburg and four or five miles east of Warrenton. Warrenton is one of the oldest settlements in Mississippi, and was the seat of Warren County in the days before Vicksburg became prominent. There is little there now, except plantation houses and a wood veneer factory. But in the earlier part of the nineteenth century it was the home of lawyers and other professional and business men. The grave of Tobias Gibson is not far from the road between Warrenton and Vicksburg.

The Redbone Church building is of brick, covered with cement in imitation of granite. It was erected several years before the Civil War began, and the cement work remains intact over almost the whole surface of the building, just as when put on over fifty years ago. The present building succeeded an older one, in which many of our pioneer preachers appeared.

In response to the invitation of Rev. W. L. Blackwell, pastor, the writer spent a recent Sabbath at this interesting place, forming acquaintanceships with the people of this congregation, who have an enviable reputation for their zeal and faithfulness. It was the annual Children's Day occasion, with about three hundred people present. Dinner was served after the morning service, and the Church was filled again after dinner with earnest listeners to the Word that was spoken. The children acquitted themselves very creditably, and a goodly sum was collected.

Much of the credit for the success of the occasion was due to Mrs. Emma Fortner, who is the superintendent of the Sunday School.

Among those whom we met that day was Sister Hearst, widow of Rev. W. W. Hearst, whose grave is close by the church.

HENRY G. HAWKINS.

Port Gibson, Miss.

A MIGHTY CYCLONE.

It came from the northwest and struck Scranton on June 18, continuing its destructive work with increasing power until the 28th. Unlike ordinary cyclones, its destroying force was not in the direction of the physical, but in the line of moral evil; hence great good was done to this city and vicinity. Though somewhat agitating for awhile, all finally calmed down to a profound appreciation of the good results. It purified the religious atmosphere, promoted interdenominational fellowship and Christian zeal, improved home and social relations, and brought sinners to repentance and amendment of life.

The medium through which this mighty dynamic power was exerted is the Rev. T. J. Norsworthy, of the Little Rock Conference, who is in charge of the city church in Malvern, Ark. As the years pass this hero of the cross grows stronger and stronger in the Lord, and in the power of his might. This is because he is both aggressive and progressive in the service of his King, and bold to reprove the hidden works of darkness. This valiant hero of the cross reminds me of the late Confederate General McCulloch, who never lost a battle. Because of his splendid victories, he was thought to be a skilful military tactician, until he declared that he knew but one command, and that was, "Come, charge, boys!" He always emphasized the "come" by taking the lead. It was in one of those dashing charges that he sacrificed his life, fighting for constitutional liberty. So our hero of the cross, when rallying God's forces for attack on sin, takes the lead in the charge.

In his sermon to men only in the courthouse Brother Norsworthy was so severe and personal that one of the brethren feared lest he should be attacked after the service was over, but, instead of that, those who were most severely castigated even contributed money to help bear the expense of the meeting, and gave their hands in response to his proposition to live better lives. A brave man admires a fearless preacher, and will fight for him before he will fight against him.

Brother Norsworthy takes the lead in every good work and [illegible] Soon after disciplining his congregation—[illegible] them with the Gospel [illegible] his men—[illegible] him out leading to a different style of [illegible] in the parsonage, to which the parsonage [illegible] have not the least objection. Our hero is a [illegible], both his hands and his pocketbook are well trained to co-operate with his tongue. After taking an inventory and telling the brethren what is needed and what they ought to do, he then says, "Come on, and let's go to doing," and you will see him working as hard and as long as anyone to improve environments.

Any charge or community that can procure the ministerial services of this wonderful man of God will be fortunate, indeed. The good people of Scranton can never forget him. They regret his short stay, and hope for another visit in the near future.

L. P.

MANSFIELD COLLEGE.

Dear Dr. Boswell: Kindly let me say through the ADVOCATE to our people that, much to my disappointment, I have been suffering for about a month from an attack of nervous prostration with fever. To my very deep regret, I have been prevented from making a thorough canvass of the State in the interest of the College. I had intended to visit practically all the district conferences and to work every pastoral charge possible. But I am told by my physician that it will be impossible for me to do more than a limited amount of this work between now and September.

Within a few days, however (before this reaches the eyes of our readers), the Board will have a competent man in the field, and the work of the school will go on.

We closed, on May 27, one of the best years in the history of the College, sending out into the world to bless it nine noble young women. We had a fine student body, the best of health, excellent order and first-class work. Notwithstanding the great difficulties under which we had to labor, we paid our running expenses, a fact of which even many strictly business institutions cannot boast.

We have engaged for the incoming year a most excellent Faculty, the equal of any in the land. We are better prepared than ever to do work of the best type, and we are looking forward to the most prosperous year the College has ever seen.

Let all our ministers, and those interested in education, lay the cause of the College close to their hearts. Let them remember that we are depending on them to persuade girls to come to Mansfield, where they can secure true Christian training. We open September 16. Write at once for one of our pretty new catalogues. Sincerely yours,

OLIN S. DEAN.

MILLSAPS COLLEGE.

The growing usefulness of Millsaps College is a source of constant congratulation and intense satisfaction to all Methodists. Its contribution to the Church and the State during its brief history has been a rich one, and is a sure prophecy of yet greater things.

Major Millsaps has given more than a quarter of a million of dollars to the College, and is constantly giving more. From the beginning he has required the Board of Trustees to appoint annually an auditing committee to pass upon his work as treasurer. At the recent commencement the committee reported as follows:

"Your committee has examined the report of R. W. Millsaps, treasurer, and find it to be correct. We have compared the cash balances of the various funds, as shown in the report, with the amount to the credit of each fund, as shown on the books of the Capital National Bank, and they agree in every instance. We have handled and counted the notes, bonds and securities in which the endowment and other funds are invested, and we find all of them complete, accurate and correct. These securities are kept in lock-boxes belonging to the College, which are kept in the safety vaults of the Capital National Bank.

"Having for many years served as auditors, we used to marvel at the rare skill with which the financial affairs of the College were managed. Having grown accustomed to it, we have ceased to wonder, but have not ceased to admire. And we shall never cease to be grateful to the favoring Providence which has blessed us with such masterful management, without which our funds would not have yielded such rich results.

"Great as have been the gifts of Major Millsaps, his service has been greater. We would deserve censure should we ever take these gifts and this service as a matter of course and withhold due expression of grateful appreciation."

Surely every one who knows of these generous gifts and this unstinted service of our brother and benefactor will thank the committee and the trustees for this expression. It appears to me to be eminently proper that the above facts should be made known to all Mississippi Methodists.

J. R. BINGHAM.

Carrollton, Miss.

FELDER CAMP MEETING.

Felder Camp Meeting (Topisaw) will begin Aug. 7, 1908, and continue eight or ten days. All ministers are invited. I earnestly beg the preachers of the Brookhaven District to be with us in this meeting. For lack of time, I cannot write each one a personal letter, but ask them to consider this as personal to each one, and come and help in this great work. All expenses of preachers will be paid from the time they leave McComb to their return there. Hacks will run every day from McComb. Brethren, come and help us.

J. B. KING, P. C.

McComb, Miss., R. F. D. No. 1.

SOUTH UNION CAMP MEETING.

The South Union Camp Meeting, on the Chester circuit, will begin July 22, and continue five days. The outlook for a good meeting is encouraging; active preparations are now being made for a great meeting. Some good talent has been engaged to do the preaching. Ample provision will be made to take care of all the preachers and others who may come from a distance. South Union is an old-established camp-ground, having been in use for over thirty years. It has grown until some seventy-five or eighty families tent there. Several [illegible] tents are now in contemplation.

W. F. ROGERS.

Chester, Miss.

GET SOLID PROTECTION AND INSURE WITH
LEON IRWIN & CO.
Fire and Casualty Insurance.
736 UNION STREET. PHONE, MAIN 585.

W. W. Carre Co., Ltd,
Manufacturer and Exporter of
LUMBER,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Phone Main
ROOMS and BOARD
634 and 638 SOUTH STREET LAFAYETTE SQUARE
CORNER ST. CHARLES ST., NEW ORLEANS
UNLIMITED MEALS. ALVIN PORTER, Manager.

W. H. M. S.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

Mrs. E. R. Kennedy, our State President, left for New York, Monday June 29. Her address while there, is 228 Rich Avenue, Mount Vernon, New York.

My Sisters, if your auxiliary has done nothing to raise your share of the Conference expense fund, will you not bestir yourself and get a motion moved and carried to pay at once? Every cent of our dues ought to be used for the building of parsonages, and much more might be used for the same purpose. We ought to pay for the printing of the Minutes and the expense of our Annual Conference without touching our dues.

We know a great many of you do not understand that 10 cents per month, every cent of which goes to the State Treasurer, makes you a member of the Connectional W. H. M. Society, the only organization of its kind authorized by our Church, and that you are asked to pay 30 cents extra, half (15 cents), for the expense of your local auxiliary, and half (15 cents) for the Conference expense fund, but why you do not so understand is another story which the judgment day alone will reveal. You might compromise by paying say $3 at the beginning of the year, and let the treasurer divide the amount. No trouble to understand that $5 buys a "merry widow," $10 a dress, hat, etc., and it doesn't always "all stay at home," either.

Mrs. A. C. McKinney.

"CHRIST'S TABLE TALK."

This latest book of Bishop Hendrix is one of his best. Deeply spiritual, and its literary style and general make-up most excellent, it will delight and profit all who read it. We found its fourteen chapters of such absorbing interest that as we read we felt as if carried back to the very days when he "dwelt among us" and sat at table and talked freely with his own. The Bishop closes his first chapter in these words: "The best talk is that which is not dependent on the fare so much as on the company, and which survives the dinner hour, and even the age in which it was spoken. The best conversation is that which comes from fulness of information, from a sympathetic heart, from interest in the individual which puts one at ease both as listener and talker, from one who has a mission rather than a fad, whose life-purpose is large enough to float a life, and large enough to float many lives. All this, and more, had Jesus, the incomparable table talker." This estimate of our Lord as "the greatest table talker" is clearly proven by the Bishop; and his splendid book should be gotten and read by all who would know more of the Christ as he spake his mind and out of his heart in the unbent freedom of his private social life. (The book can be had for $1 from Smith & Lamar, Nashville, Tenn., and Dallas, Tex.)

HOW TO TELL RABIES.

Hundreds of dogs are annually killed innocently supposed to be "mad." The Outing Magazine tells its readers "How to Know a Mad Dog": "Hydrophobia is in reality so rare and so terrifying that its symptoms and treatment are little understood. As a matter of fact, the commonly accepted expression of madness in a dog is often misleading. The real mad dog does not shun water, as it is said. On the contrary, mad dogs often rush to the water and drink eagerly, if they are able to swallow. The mad dog does not foam at the mouth. It does not run amuck, snapping at everything in its path. What, then, are the indications of the mad dog? To those familiar with a given dog the surest symptom, and the one which should excite the closest attention, is a distinct and unaccountable change in the dog's disposition. The staid dog becomes excitable, and a frisky one dull. That condition does not necessarily mean rabies, but it is suspicious, and if, in addition, the dog has trouble in swallowing—as though it seemed to have a bone in its throat—beware! That dog should be instantly tied up, because, if it be rabid, it takes but a day or two for ferocious instincts to develop. The unmistakable evidence, however, in dealing with rabies is a sticky, whitish saliva which covers the teeth and shows on the drawn lips. The eyes glare and are red, the dog has paroxysms of running fury, during which it barks hoarsely, which alternate with periods of temporary exhaustion."

REMARKABLE RECORDS.

Two remarkable records are reported in the daily papers. One is reported from Boston as follows: "A silver medal inscribed with the record of his services was presented to Charles S. Capen by the school board of Boston yesterday. Capen is teacher in the Boston schools. He is 84 years old and yesterday celebrated the sixty-third anniversary of his appointment. For the last fifty-seven years he never has missed a single day's attendance at his duties during the school year." The other is from Glenside, Pa.: "Miss Mary E. Refsnyder, of Glenside, one of the twenty-one members of the class of '08 of the Cheltenham high school, is probably the only graduate in this suburban section to receive two diplomas with the completion of her school course. One bit of parchment was the regular document; the other was unique, for Miss Refsnyder from the time she was an infant pupil until she became a finished graduate had not missed a session of school."

SUCCESS OF PURE FOOD LAW.

The Philadelphia Ledger tells of the efficiency and far-reaching effects of the pure food law in Pennsylvania. What it says of that State can, with equal truth, be said of all the States, for they are working in harmony with the general government. "Great success has been achieved. All kinds of foodstuffs are now subjected to a searching scrutiny by the pure food departments of nearly every commonwealth under the warrant of both State and Federal laws. Practically everything that enters into the dietary of the household is thus guarded, including flour, potted and canned goods, preserves, jellies, flavoring extracts, and even salt, pepper and vinegar. Every consumer is protected from the impure and the unwholesome. It is a tremendous and far-reaching reform, accomplished in a remarkably short time. The thoroughness of the reform is not to be questioned, because every manufacturer or purveyor of foodstuffs, now that it appears that the laws will be enforced, is taking the greatest possible care, for the protection of his reputation and business, to attain high standards and thus avoid condemnation, controversy or publicity. A few years ago the purchaser of foodstuffs believed, or at least imagined, that there was but the slightest chance of buying a pure and harmless article, or the exact thing which was described in the labels. To-day consumers in Pennsylvania, at least, have the assurance that they get what they pay for, and that there is scarcely the slightest probability that they will receive an unwholesome or impure article." Argument is not required to make it clear that this is one of the greatest reforms ever effected.

A MARVELOUS WATCH.

The watchmaking firm of Patik-Philippe and Company, of Geneva, says The Jewelers' Circular, has for sixty years been making a specialty of complicated time-pieces, and a watch which they had on view at the Paris Exposition is regarded by them as their highest achievement. This watch, which is of ordinary size, has a perpetual calendar indicating the days of the month and the phases of the moon, and also possesses two separate small dials, upon which are shown automatically for a given latitude the beginning of the rising of the sun, and the time of its setting. The difficulty overcome here was great, but what comprises the merit of the piece is that, in connection with the minute-hand, which shows the mean time (the time we use), it carries another hand which indicates the sun's time or the true time. This hand, moving from the centre as do the hands showing the mean time, necessarily travels with them and, automatically, sets itself each day at midnight, in the position it should occupy in order to indicate for that day the difference between the mean and true time. The variation is very great, being as much as fifteen minutes in one direction or the other, and but four times in a year do these two minute-hands correspond within a few seconds of each other. These dates are April 15, June 15, September 1, and December 25.—Selected

DONE BY A FIVE-YEAR OLD BOY.

In his "Gleanings in Buddha Fields," Mr. Lafcadio Hearn tells of a wonderful thing he saw at the festival exhibition of pictures in the imperial summer palace of Kyoto.

Near the main entrance was a specimen of handwriting, intended to be mounted as a kakemono later on, and temporarily fixed upon a board about three feet long by eighteen inches wide—a Japanese poem. It was a wonder of calligraphy. Instead of the usual red stamp or seal with which the Japanese calligrapher marks his masterpieces, I saw the red imprint of a tiny, tiny hand—a living hand, which had been smeared with crimson printing ink and deftly pressed upon the paper.

That writing had been done in the presence of his imperial majesty by a child of six years—or of five, according to our Western method of computing age from the date of birth. The prime minister, Marquis Ito, saw the miracle, and adopted the little boy, whose present name is therefore Ito Medzin.

Even Japanese observers could scarcely believe the testimony of their own eyes. Few adult calligraphers could surpass that writing. Certainly no Occidental artist, even after years of study, could repeat the feat performed by the brush of that child before the emperor.

Persons desiring to communicate with the office of the New Orleans Christian Advocate may do so by calling up 'phone Main 4373.

Montrose Preparatory College,
MONTROSE, MISS.

REV. C. M. CHAPMAN, B.L., President.
COURSES: Graded, High School, College, Teachers, Music.
SESSION OPENS SEPTEMBER 1st. TUITION, $30. BOARD, $10.
This is the place for your boy or girl to have home influence. The Only School of its kind in the State of Mississippi. 250 Students. Write for Catalogue. On the M. J. & K. C. R. R., 14 miles south of Newton, Miss.

BATON ROUGE DISTRICT CONFERENCE.

The thirteenth annual session of the Baton Rouge District Conference convened in the new and handsome Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in the vigorous and prosperous town of Ponchatoula, July 1-5, 1908. It was conceded by all to have been the best Conference in the history of the District. Eighteen out of a possible twenty-three pastors answered roll-call. The lay representation was very gratifying to all concerned. From the opening sermon by Rev. J. P. Haney on "Regeneration" to the closing service in the interest of "The Orphanage," there was not a dull moment—no unbrotherly feeling manifested but it all seemed as though the Conference had come together for the distinct purpose of getting nearer to God.

We had a veritable revival. Souls were quickened, even strong men asking an interest in the prayers of the brethren. Co-laborers in the ministry, it has always been a desire on my part to attend a District Conference baptized with Pentecostal power, and that craving was realized at Ponchatoula. Can we not make our Annual Conference a season of refreshing from the Lord? Let us pray to that end.

Our Presiding Elder, Rev. R. W. Tucker, presided with grace and dignity and his heart was made glad at the gathering.

Dr. Boswell was there in the interest of the ADVOCATE. Dr. Weber, Centenary's new president, pressed his cause, while Brother Wier gave us encouraging news about our Orphanage.

The preaching was good and had the right ring. Besides Brother Haney, we had sermons by Brothers Alford, Means, and Williams. The singing was spirited; the organ was in charge of Brother H. H. Ahrens, the faithful correspondent of "The Picayune."

The Layman's Missionary Movement was given a faithful hearing and steps were taken toward a thorough organization in the District. Brother Wm. Jackson was elected District Leader, and we feel sure that the cause will not suffer in the selection.

W. H. Underwood, W. T. Holland, R. R. Reed and J. R. Abels were elected as delegates to the Annual Conference. Wm. Jackson and T. J. Reames, alternates.

Albert Dean George and Robert Stanton Walton were granted license to preach.

Ponchatoula dispensed a lavish hospitality, and all felt in the [illegible] of friends. Brother Schuhle is held in high regard and his bachelor quarters were the rendezvous for the Conference. By unanimous vote, the next Conference will be held at Slaughter. Respectfully,

W. D. KLEINSCHMIDT, Sec.

ABERDEEN DISTRICT CONFERENCE.

Dear Dr. Boswell: The Aberdeen District Conference met in the town of Houlka, June 3-5, under the presidency of Rev. J. H. Mitchell, Presiding Elder. The first day was devoted to the Sunday School work within the District, for the discussion of which a very helpful programme touching every phase of the work had been prepared by the presiding elder. The discussion of the Sunday School work revealed the fact that this most important department of service was well organized throughout the District, and was receiving that attention at the hands of the preachers and laymen that its great importance merits.

All the interests of the Church were carefully gone into, and the investigation showed progress along all lines. Some of the preachers have had good meetings in their respective charges; others have planned large things for their Lord. Souls have been converted and added to the Church, and the material interest of the Lord's Kingdom has been looked after carefully.

Brother Williams, Manager of the Methodist Orphanage at Jackson, Miss.; Rev. T. W. Lewis, Commissioner of Education for Millsaps College, Jackson, Miss., and Rev. G. W. Bachman, our own efficient and genial Colporter, were introduced to the Conference and spoke at length of the particular work committed to their hands. The work done at Grenada College, its equipment, its policy, etc., was spoken to earnestly and at length by both the presiding elder and Rev. W. S. Shipman.

P. W. Shell, R. L. Campbell, D. H. Alexander and A. S. Nabors were elected delegates to the Annual Conference, with T. D. Clark and J. A. Ramsey as alternates.

Brother Thomas Davis Clark and Brother David Richard McDougal were granted license to preach. Resolutions touching the life and labors of Brothers Barnes and Sage were read and unanimously adopted. Also resolutions expressing appreciation for the work and official administration of Rev. J. H. Mitchell were adopted by unanimous rising vote.

The hospitality of the little but vigorous and growing city of Houlka was as abundant as were the needs of the members of the Conference, for the entertainment of whom every door was opened wide. The Rev. W. C. Carlisle, preacher-in-charge, proved himself a host indeed. May, upon pastor and people, there come the the Divine Presence! The [illegible] of the Divine Presence! The next session of the Conference will be held at Nettleton. M.

CHURCH OPENING AT OKOLONA.

For a number of years the building of a new Methodist Church in the town of Okolona has been discussed. Under the pastorate of Rev. N. G. Augustus, a more eligible lot was bought at a cost of $2,000. Three years ago, under the pastorate of Rev. W. E. M. Brogan, the building was begun. When the brick work was about completed, Brogan was removed and Rev. R. A. Clark became the pastor, and many felt that this move would retard the work, but not so—Clark was the man for the hour. A whirlwind of enthusiasm struck the church and the town, and the work went rapidly on. So now there stands upon the most prominent street in the city an up-to-date, well-adapted, beautiful building that would be a credit to any city in the State. The whole plant completed will cost about $20,000. It is now completed except pews and carpet, and is without debt, except $1,500 borrowed from the Church Extension Society.

On Friday evening last the resourceful pastor arranged for a formal opening of the building. Everybody was invited and it looked as if all had come. A bright and happy audience assembled; much handshaking, congratulations, partaking of ice lemonade, served by bright young ladies. Timely talks by different brethren made it a most delightful and helpful evening.

The building of this house is the honor and glory of God, [illegible] to the community, especially of the Methodist Church. Already is manifest growth in all the departments of the church. Okolona Station takes its place as one of the best charges of the Conference. I congratulate these [illegible], the pastors who have wrought in the magnificent enterprise, and pray that many sons and daughters may be born into the [illegible].

J. H. MITCHELL.

FRENCH MISSION FUND.

LOUISIANA ANNUAL CONFERENCE.

The brethren who have subscribed to this fund will kindly forward the subscriptions at once. We are two months in arrears on Brother Martin Hebert's salary.

W. B. THOMSON, Treasurer,
231 S. Rampart St., New Orleans.

NOTICE, SUBSCRIBERS!

If you will cut this notice out and send us enough money to pay up the arrearages on your paper and renew for one year at the regular $2 rate, we will send you a good fountain pen. This offer expires with September, and does not apply to a renewal at the club rate.

ANSWERS TO SOME QUESTIONS.

This offer is open to all subscribers renewing at the regular rate.

The renewal of a year in advance may end any month in the year, as long as it carries you into 1909.

If you are not now a subscriber, and send this clipping from the ADVOCATE with $2, we will send the pen to you and give a year's subscription.

We have one of the pens in use now, and it gives good service.

We will not send the pen unless your remittance is accompanied by the notice clipped from this paper.

The company that manufactures the pen guarantees them and assumes responsibility of delivering same.

TO THE PASTOR.

If you will send in the names of the postoffices on your charge, we will send you a list of the subscribers on your work. You will find this a great help in securing renewals and new subscriptions. Put the ADVOCATE in the homes of your people, and you will have an assistant, unfailing in its visits, and doing you good all the time.

Life is a ceaseless vortex, a perpetual whirling from the beginning to the ending, and from the ending to the beginning. Every death is a new birth, every grave a cradle.—Macmillan.

BELLEVUE POULTRY SUPPLY CO.

Everything in the poultry line: Chickens, Parrots, Guinea Pigs, Rabbits and Pet Stock of every description; Cyphers, Incubators and Feed at Factory Prices, may be had by writing us at 740 Camp St., New Orleans, La. Catalogue sent free.

KEEP COOL For Refrigerators and Gas Stoves go to United Hardward Co., Ltd.,
1005-1007 Canal Street, New Orleans.

ESTABLISHED 1891
JOHN DAVID BURGHARDT CO.,
"THE RELIABLE" PLUMBERS and GAS FITTERS.
Agency: Born's Patent Steel Ranges. Hygeia Water Filters.
613-615 Bienville St. Phone Main [illegible]
Jobbing and Repair Work a Specialty. New Orleans, La.

THE SAFEST AND QUICKEST WAY
—TO—
TRANSFER MONEY
—IS BY—
Long Distance Telephone
FOR RATES APPLY TO LOCAL MANAGER.
Cumberland Telephone & Telegraph Co.
INCORPORATED.

The Home Circle.

ACTING A LIE.

Dolly had been told never to meddle with a beautiful vase on a bracket over the piano. "It will break very easily," her mother said. Now, Dolly had an intense desire to take the vase down without breaking it; but on trying to put it back the bracket slipped off its nail and the vase fell to the floor and was broken into a dozen pieces. Dolly was frightened. As she stood there trying to think her way out of the dilemma, her kitten came into the room.

"I'll shut Spotty into the room, and mamma'll think she did it," decided Dolly; "and Spotty can't tell."

So the kitten was shut up in the parlor, and when Dolly's mother came home she found Spotty there and the vase broken.

"Do you s'pose Spotty did it?" asked Dolly.

"I think she must have done so," answered her mother. "You don't know anything about it, do you?"

Dolly pretended that she didn't hear the question, and got out of the room as soon as possible. That night she couldn't sleep. "You lied," something said to her. "No, I didn't," she said. "I didn't say I didn't break it." "But you might just as well have said so," the voice of conscience told her. "If you didn't tell a lie, you acted one, and that is just as bad as telling one."

Dolly stood it as long as she could. She got up and went to her mother's bed.

"Mamma, I broke the vase," she sobbed out. "I thought, if I acted a lie, you wouldn't find out about it, but I can't sleep for thinking that God knows, if I don't."

Ah, that's it—God knows it no one else. We cannot deceive him.—Selected.

CURIOUS BRUSHES.

Willie, flushed and happy, had just come in from the barn where he had been playing hide and seek.

"I guess my little boy needs to find a brush," said mother, looking up from her work. For there were clinging to his pretty sailor suit bits of dry grass and seeds from the mows, and some were playing peekaboo in the little fellow's hair.

"O mother, can't I wait? I'm just too tired now."

"If flies had been playing hide and seek they would not allow a speck of dust to stay on their heads; they'd brush it off," casually remarked Aunt Nan.

"Where'd they get their brushes, I'd like to know?" "Oh, they have them, and use them," laughed Aunt Nan.

"Hair brushes?" questioned Willie, and his face took on a perplexed look.

"Yes; and they always keep themselves very clean. Have you never seen a fly rub his delicate front legs over his head?"

"Lots and lots of times," replied Willie quickly.

"Well," resumed Aunt Nan, "there are a great many hairs on the underside of a fly's feet and legs, and these form tiny hair brushes. When any dust gets on a fly's head, he brushes it off at once; and then he rubs his legs together, as you have probably noticed. This is so that no dust may cling to the little brushes."

"Hurrah, Mr. Fly!" exclaimed Willie; "I guess you needn't think you're the only one who can use a brush, even if the other fellow doesn't carry his brushes around with him on his feet!"

Away he ran; and when he came back mother said her little boy looked neat enough to be kissed.—Selected.

ONE TOUCH OF MOTHERHOOD.

A lady in waiting to Queen Alexandra told a friend a touching little incident which took place soon after the death of her son, the Duke of Clarence. The princess, with her usual gentle patience, tried to hide the grief for her first-born. It was shown only in her failing health and in increased tender consideration for all round her. One day, while walking with one of her ladies in the quiet lanes near Sandringham, she met an old woman weeping bitterly and tottering under a load of packages. On inquiry, it appeared that she was a carrier, and made her living by shopping and doing errands in the market-town for the country people.

"But the weight is too heavy at your age," said the princess.

"Yes. You're right, ma'am. I'll have to give it up, and if I give it up I'll starve. Jack carried them for me—my boy—ma'am."

"And where is he now?"

"Jack! He's dead! Oh, he's dead!" the old woman cried wildly.

The princess, without a word, hurried on, drawing her veil over her face to hide her tears.

A few days later a neat little cart with a stout donkey were brought to the old carrier's door. She now travels with them to and fro, making a comfortable living, and has never been told the rank of the friend who has tried to make her life easier for the sake of her dead boy.—Chicago Post.

HAVE YOU WRITTEN HOME?

When I was leaving for Australia every day for weeks before I sailed there came to me letters from all parts of the country entreating me to inquire for sons and daughters who had gone away, and of whom nothing had been heard for months, sometimes for years. What pictures I saw in those letters! The little cottage, where grow the roses about the porch; and every day as the postman passes there comes the mother to the door; the roses have faded from her cheek and the light has gone from her eyes. She hears the words so often spoken, "Nothing for you to-day, ma'am." I see her creeping back to her kitchen, and setting her arm against the old blackened mantlepiece she rests her head. The firelight glistens in the tears, and her heart swells with pain. Lads and maidens, vow to God that you will never hurt the mother so. "Say that wherever you go," said one to me one day. "I remember how I used to be out at the plow with my father, and many a time I have seen him walk along the furrow quite quiet, with his lip bitten, and the tear has crept down his cheek. I knew that he was thinking of his boy who had gone away, and he had not heard from him for many a month." The half of true religion lies in this sacred and tender love to father and mother.—Mark Guy Pearse.

UNCONSCIOUS INFLUENCE.

BY MARGARET ASHTON.

A large Opera House in Washington City was filled with people. Five hundred members of a Woman's Congress occupied the first floor. Flags and flowers beautified the stage, which was rendered doubly attractive by the elegant presence of a number of ladies officiating. Suspended above the brilliant scene, the insignia of the Society shone out in electric splendor. The United States Marine Band delighted every listener with a perfect melody that filled the building to its remotest corner.

A young woman was seated with strangers, her relatives having left her, to return later in the evening. They were in one of the upper circles, to which the general public was admitted. Attracted by the conversation of two ladies, she could scarcely do less than explain to them certain points in the programme which they did not seem to understand. They had attended a "Woman's Rights" convention the previous week. They also discussed the Daughters of the American Revolution. As they talked on, embracing Rebecca in the conversation, she observed that they wanted every one, in society, in religion and everything else, to do just as they pleased. They didn't "believe anything" themselves, but they "didn't want to interfere" with any one.

"You surely believe the Bible, don't you?" said Rebecca, much distressed.

"Parts of it, but purely as history," answered they.

"Oh, I feel very sorry for you," said Rebecca, earnestly, "I feel very sorry for you."

"You belong to some church, then?" remarked one of the ladies in some amusement.

"Yes, I am a Presbyterian."

"We know that is a strong Church with many influential members, but we know little else about it," was the reply.

* * *

"Katherine," said an old gentleman to his wife that night, "my mind is made up. I am with you at last, I have decided for Christ and the Church."

The invalid wife wept tears of joy. "Tell me, dear, what helped you to this decision? I know it was God's Spirit, but tell me about it."

"Only the simple faith and earnest testimony of a girl talking to some strong-minded women from Boston, who were down at the Congress to-night. I sat behind them and heard what was said."

The Boston ladies returned to their homes. Again and again the words came back to them, "I feel very sorry for you," and "Yes, I believe every word of it is true and the Word of God." Finally one of them spoke of this to the other, who confessed the same experience. "Suppose we read it and see if we can find anything in it for us?" They read, and God opened their eyes to behold wondrous things. They found something in it for them. Their souls were saved—their lives changed.

Rebecca may never know how far her words went. She returned to her home unconscious of having done anything for the advancement of Christ's Kingdom, yet she had been the instrument in God's hands of helping to bring three souls to the Savior. Let us weigh our words and be wise, that we may be among the blessed who turn many to righteousness.—The Presbyterian.

DOCTOR Tichenor's Antiseptic

THE GO-BETWEEN

whether it be a Burn, Bruise or Scald—

DR. TICHENOR'S ANTISEPTIC

affords instant relief: Its cooling effect prevents congestion and the antiseptic qualities prevent swelling, blistering and superation afterwards.

"It draws the fever"—you cannot afford to be without it at home.

All druggists 25 and 50 cts.

ASK ANY ONE WHO HAS EVER USED IT!

Christian Advocate.

REV. JNO. W. BOSWELL, D.D., Editor.
REV. H. WHITEHEAD, Ass't Editor.
CHAS. O. CHALMERS, Publisher.

ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT NEW ORLEANS AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

OFFICE: 512 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

TERMS:
One Copy, one year, $2; six months, $1. To Preachers of all Denominations, half-price.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEES:
LOUISIANA CONFERENCE—Rev. W. W. Drake, Rev. N. E. Joyner, Rev. J. M. Henry.
MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE—Rev. M. L. Burton, Rev. W. H. Lewis, Rev. C. W. Crisler.
NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE—Rev. W. T. J. Sullivan, D.D.; Rev. J. T. Murrah, Rev. W. W. Woollard.

ABOUT ANSWERING PRAYER.

Prayer is not only a recognition of God's existence, but also of the many perfections which go to make up the divine character. But recognition only of God and his perfections does not constitute prayer. A formal address to God, exalting his name, and power and majesty, may be faultless in expression, yet entirely destitute of every essential element of prayer. The address of the Pharisee as recorded by St. Luke was a very formal thing. As an address it was unobjectionable. As a prayer it was worthless. The man trusted in himself that he was righteous and despised others.

The prayer of the publican was of a different character. He knew he was a sinner, unworthy to come into the presence of God. He claimed nothing by virtue of any good in himself, or on account of any good that he had ever done. He did not feel even worthy to lift his eyes to heaven, but in utter depreciation of himself and in deepest penitence begged for mercy. His prayer prevailed with God. Jesus says, this man went down to his house justified rather than the other. Besides this parable, illustrating the willingness of God to hear and answer prayer, there are other teachings on the subject quite as plain, and encouraging.

Our Lord taught his disciples the duty of prayer in such a way as to impress them with their utter [illegible] personal strength and merit, and that in their approach to God there must be reverence, submission and intense earnestness. "When ye pray say, Our Father which art in Heaven," and then ask for such things as only he is able to bestow. Coming thus and with proper petitions, he assures them of an acceptable hearing and satisfactory answer. Until men realize fully what is implied in our Lord's words, "ask and ye shall receive, seek and ye shall find," it is not at all likely that they can be induced to ask or seek, much less to importune by knocking for needed help and blessings.

Men are sometimes worried and discouraged because God does not answer their prayers, or, as they think, keeps them long in waiting. It should be understood that God does not propose to answer every prayer that men offer, even when they ask for things which in themselves are lawful. It is perfectly lawful for Christians to pray for rain in time of great drought. Elijah did, and the Lord answered him. Great interests were at stake, and God had a special purpose in hearing the prophet's prayer. But God's answer on that occasion gives us no assurance that he will hear all others who may see fit to ask him for rain. It is true our Lord says: "Whatsoever ye desire, when ye pray, believe that ye receive them, and ye shall have them." But we hardly think Jesus intended to teach his disciples that the Lord would grant them an answer to petitions for any and everything which in their ignorance and selfishness they might present, notwithstanding their sincerity and honesty. Some things are to be left to God to grant or withhold, as his wisdom and goodness may dictate.

A man may ask for a thing good in itself and desirable, yet what he asks for may not be the best thing for him, and God may consistently deny him his request. One in feeble health may ask for restoration. A poor man may pray to be relieved of want. There is nothing wrong in either petition, but to answer according to the intent of the prayers might not be the best thing for the individuals, and God's wisdom and goodness will lead him to deny the request. St. Paul had a personal affliction of some kind. He called it "a thorn in the flesh." For this he "besought the Lord three times." The answer he got was: "My grace is sufficient for thee." The thorn remained.

Men must pray with humble submission to the divine will, in this assurance: That whatever God sees is good for us, if we pray believing, he will grant, and what is not good he will wisely and graciously deny. If a man cannot go to God in this spirit, his going will not avail, for he goes presumptuously, putting his will and desires against the will and wisdom of his heavenly Father.

But does God guarantee nothing to man in answer to prayer? He does. In the desire for personal salvation he may approach God in utmost confidence. Salvation is the one thing needful—the one thing about which there need be no misgivings or misapprehensions. "Seek ye the Lord while he may be found; call ye upon him while he is near: let the wicked forsake his way and the unrighteous man his thoughts, and let him return unto the Lord, and he will have mercy upon him; and to our God, for he will abundantly pardon."

The desire for salvation is also the one which, while it urges its possessors to call upon all men to "taste and see that the Lord is good," at the same time justifies cherishing the utmost degree of selfishness. Fixed in purpose to save his soul, the Christian may consistently say: Let others do as they please, "as for me and my house, we will serve the Lord."

Born into the new and holy life, and adopted into the family of God, the child is entitled to all the blessings and privileges belonging to the gracious relation, and may, with confidence, call upon the Lord to bestow them, even to fulness. What St. Paul prayed for in behalf of the Ephesians every man may ask for himself: "For this cause I bow my knees unto the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, of whom the whole family in heaven and earth is named, that he would grant you, according to the riches of his glory, to be strengthened with might by his Spirit in the inner man; that Christ may dwell in your hearts by faith; that ye, being rooted and grounded in love, may be able to comprehend with all saints what is the breadth, and length, and depth, and height; and to know the love of Christ, which passeth knowledge, that ye might be filled with all the fulness of God."

WILL IT REST?

Now that the largest [illegible] of Methodists has declined [illegible] with the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in [illegible] a new statement of the [illegible] Dr. [illegible] Western [illegible] says [illegible] Three of [illegible] Church [illegible] the matter. The St. Louis [illegible] states that Southern Methodism will pursue the work without assistance; and Dr. Cannon of the Richmond Advocate has expressed the hope that the Church would undertake it [illegible]. Dr. Winton says, "If it continues [illegible] other branches of the church as it has now [illegible] with our 'next of kin,' then it [illegible] for the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, to consider whether or not she shall go forward with the preparation of such a positive, modern, compact, adequate statement of the time-honored and still accepted tenets of the Methodist faith as shall satisfy the minds and meet the present needs of her own people at home and abroad. That she is competent to do this thing once she determined, we do not for a moment doubt."

For Southern Methodists to undertake single-handed and alone the preparation of a statement of faith such as has been proposed, after having appealed to other Methodist bodies and failed to secure their co-operation, would be regarded by many as an act of manly independence, and by quite as many more as a rash piece of business, for creed-making is not an easy task.

Dr. Winton does not doubt that Southern Methodism is competent to do the thing. That there are many men in the Church able to write a creed no one will dispute; but that there are a half-dozen or a score of men among us that can write a creed acceptable to all, we seriously doubt. If they are scattered all about and feel able for the task, why does not some one of them, or several, undertake it? A tentative creed might be put out just to show what could be done if once the Church determined on a new [illegible]. We should like to see it.

The supposition is that all in the Church now, [illegible] believe all the articles of the Christian faith, accept the faith as set forth in our Articles of Religion, and Standards of Doctrine, and are content. It would be altogether different, we think, should an effort be made to impose upon them another statement, especially if that statement differed in any particular from the old one. A single illustration on this point will suffice. Suppose Dr. Tillett, the prime mover in this business, with his widely-published and well-known views concerning the Bible, should undertake to restate our Fifth Article, and incorporate his "up-to-date" conclusions, which as an honest man he would be obliged to do, everybody can see at a glance that the hundreds, may be thousands, under his influence would accept his statement without question, while hundreds of thousands of others would not, and could not be persuaded to do it. Right there would be an impassable gulf.

Our "next of kin"—our big sister on whom all reliance was placed—having declared against the movement, we join Dr. Boyett in saying, "Let it Rest."

METHODIST FEDERATION.

The Western Methodist is opposed to the organic union of the various branches of Methodism, but favors federation—not a federation very limited in its scope, but such a federation as will consent to the division of the whole country into several jurisdictions, each jurisdiction to have its own General Conference, with, if we are not mistaken, a central advisory body. The editor who is doing the writing on the subject is evidently in earnest. He is enthusiastic, and, as we are inclined to think, not a little optimistic. He urges the cause with force. He sees [illegible] but does not see the spirit [illegible] which union would be a farce, [illegible] a worse state of things than exists [illegible].

[illegible] as far as we have noticed, the Western Methodist [illegible] on this question. If put to a [illegible] we think it possible that the Methodists of [illegible] South would favor it, but those of the North [illegible] the plan than [illegible] with reference to the proposition for [illegible] re-statement of Methodist [illegible]. They are for union. A proposition to [illegible] we believe would carry even in spite of [illegible] Dr. Buckley, provided it [illegible] concession of any kind on their [illegible].

[illegible] federation, such as is contemplated by the Western Methodist, like organic union, would [illegible] concessions. It would require the Northern Methodists, for example, to surrender all their white Conferences in the Southern division to the jurisdiction of the Southern General Conference. It would require them likewise to surrender their colored Conferences to the jurisdiction of a colored section, sure to be organized in case of federation. Are they willing to all this? Will they ever be? No, never. They have their grip on the whole country, and are establishing little Annual Conferences everywhere an opening is presented, evidently with the intention of holding the land. They have long since given up the idea of "disintegration and absorption." They have not up to this date signified their willingness to compromise, or to make any kind of concession—not so much as to consent to the union of their colored members with another colored body, or to set them up in a separate jurisdiction, either of which they could do without dishonor to themselves or hurt to their colored brethren. We can but conclude that their purpose is to conquer at all hazards. If such is not their purpose, why should they all the while favor organic union, and their public men violate the proprieties of certain special occasions by pleading for it, yet never make a single proposition that contains any sort of concession on their part?

If we read the signs of the times aright, our Southern brethren are ready to surrender the position maintained by the Southern delegates in the General Conference of 1844 in regard to the Episcopacy, viz. that our Episcopacy is a co-ordinate branch of the Church, and that Bishops cannot be deprived of their office without trial. This was the real cause of division, Bishop Andrew's connection with slavery being only the occasion. This we are sorry to say, but it seems to us there is a constantly-increasing number of our preachers giving over to the Northern view of the matter. Besides this, we do not know what the Methodist Episcopal Church could ask of us unless it be to surrender also our views and our prejudices in regard to the colored members. This our preachers and people will never do.

Looking at the matter the best we can, we are unable to see in the immediate future either organic union or the federation of Methodism.

MEETINGS FOR MEN ONLY.

In what we had to say a few weeks back about meetings for "men only" we had no reference to Young Men's Christian Associations, nor Student's Volunteer Movement, nor to the Layman's Movement, etc. These are organizations with rules and regulations for their proper government. Such organizations are all right. We had reference exclusively to meetings set apart for "men only" in which the public understands things are to be considered that would be out of place in a congregation made up in part of women. For such meetings we do not think there is any need. In a community where women as well as men need the Gospel, and are just as anxious to hear, they should be brought together as one congregation.

THE COURSE OF STUDY.

Rev. H. W. May calls our attention to the fact that the "Correspondence School" is sending out questions for the third year from a book that is not mentioned in the third year's course. The book is "Hendrix's Skilled Labor for the Master."

We printed the Course of Study as laid down in the Discipline. The book mentioned is not in the Course, else it was overlooked by the book editor at Nashville. If not that, and Brother May is correct, the "Correspondence School" is requiring the study of a book not authorized.

Who is responsible?

Persons desiring to communicate with the office of the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE may do so by calling up phone Main 4373.

PERSONAL.

Dr. W. R. Lambuth spent last Sunday in the city. He visited several churches during the day.

Rev. J. H. Williams is still free to help in meetings, and will be glad to hear from the brethren desiring his assistance. Address him at Slidell, La.

Rev. J. O. Ware, just out of Millsaps College, has been appointed to supply Decatur Circuit, Mississippi Conference, in place of Rev. B. H. Rawls, whose health has failed. He has been well received on the work, and feels that he is doing nicely.

Rev. W. W. Holmes has just returned from a week's stay in Minden, La., where he assisted Rev. R. H. Wynn in a meeting. He reports great success—many persons professed conversion, and the Church greatly revived. Will Brother Wynn please give us an account?

Dr. W. B. Murrah, president of Millsaps College, was in the city on Monday last. He is in fine health, and full of hope as to the future of the college over which he presides. The Doctor occupies a high place in our Methodism, and is impressing for good hundreds of the young men of Mississippi.

In our short account of the Baton Rouge District Conference last week we overlooked a note we had made concerning Rev. Glenn Flynn, who was present and made a fine talk in reference to the work of the American Bible Society. His district, as agent or superintendent, includes Louisiana. He is studying the situation, and will do his best to meet the demands of the territory.

A good brother, who perhaps does not care to enter into a controversy, says he "cannot see where the sister answered Brother Holloman's query—nor were her reasons for having the communion service at another church (than the one in which the King's Daughters' Convention was held) satisfactory." Brother Holloman could have answered his own query without any trouble. He knows.

The Expositor (Cleveland, Ohio) for July contains a sermon by Dr. J. E. Wray, pastor of our First Church, New Orleans, on "Moses' Glory," the text being "For he endured as seeing him who is invisible." It is rich in thought, as well as in expression. It is replete with pure gems. The Expositor classes it among the "Best of Recent Sermons." Brother Wray is always interesting and edifying.

We much regret misprinting the name of Mrs. Mary Ella Elkin, whose obituary, written by Rev. R. G. Porter, was published in our last issue. The fact, though, that the name was printed correctly in the body of the article, makes it unnecessary to put it again in type. We beg pardon of all, especially of Brother Porter, who always gives us well written copy.

Rev. W. Wootten, of Arcadia, La., will spend a month in the mountains of Virginia. This vacation is made possible by the good people of his charge who generously donated the money sufficient to pay the expenses of the trip. "That's the way to do things." Brother Wootten left for Virginia on Monday, the 13th. During his absence his pulpit will be filled by Revs. C. B. Carter and H. R. Singleton and President W. L. Weber.

Rev. W. D. Dominick was recently called to the bedside of his aged mother, who was thought to be at the point of death, but, though eighty-four years of age, she rallied, and will likely get well. She has been a devout Christian since childhood, and is ready to go or stay, as the Master wills. She speaks confidently of "going home." She loves flowers—has her yard full, and takes great pains in cultivating them, and says: "Isn't God good to give us so many beautiful things?" With her may it be light at evening time.

An important literary feature of the Midsummer Holiday Number of The Century will be "A Group of Aldrich Letters," to such interesting personalities as Bayard Taylor, Edwin Booth, Lowell, Fields, Stoddard, Stedman, Howells, Clemens and Woodberry—with comment by Ferris Greenslet. "It is with a certain surprise," Mr. Greenslet says, "that one becomes aware of the wide segment of American life that Aldrich's life touched. And it is precisely in this that one prime interest in his letters lies. Through them . . . we watch the flow and ebb of the literary tides of more than half a century."

Rev. C. F. Emery informs us of the death of Judge John R. Enochs, which occurred at his home in Brandon, Miss., on the 2d inst. Judge Enochs was well known throughout Mississippi, having served two terms in the Legislature, and two terms as circuit judge. He was likewise well known as a Methodist and consistent Christian. He was lately appointed leader of the Laymen's Movement for the Jackson District, but on account of feeble health was unable to attend to the duties of the position, or to attend the Chattanooga Convention, which he deeply regretted. His pastor, Brother Emery, will furnish us a memoir in a short time. We extend our sympathy to the bereaved family and to the Church, which he loved and served so well.

I wonder why it is we are not all kinder than we are? How much the world needs it! How easily it is done! How infallibly it is remembered! How superabundantly it pays itself back! For there is no debtor in the world so honorable, so superbly honorable, as love. "Love never faileth."—Prof. Drummond.

Fourteen Good Reasons for Patronizing Grenada College

First—The unexcelled Home Comforts, unequaled anywhere else in the State.

Second—The Health Conditions; we rarely require the service of a physician.

Third—Our unusually skilled corps of teachers, whom we were able to secure only by paying a salary much above that paid by other girls' schools of the State.

Fourth—The Fine Arts Department, unequaled in the State and unexcelled in the South. Our teacher of Art studied in Germany and France, and our teachers of Music are graduated from the best Conservatories of America.

Fifth—See Descriptive Course of Study, which is conscientiously carried out as indicated.

Sixth—The Lyceum Course, which is superior even to that sustained in the University of Mississippi.

Seventh—The Library, which is fuller and better adapted than that of most girls schools of the South.

Eighth—Strong Christian Influence dominating all instruction.

Ninth—Personal Attention to the Individual Pupil, with a view to develop the best even out of peculiarities of character.

Tenth—A superior Student Body as Associates, since most of the indifferent have been eliminated.

Eleventh—The Rates are lower than those of any other school doing the same grade of work, owing to the Conference Assessment, which gives us an income not possessed by other schools; further, we have no stockholders to whom we are forced to pay dividends, as are some private schools. Our patrons receive back in excellence of service more than they pay in.

Twelfth—We place but two girls in a room, while most schools put from two to six.

Thirteenth—We require our teachers to continue study. Two are in Europe, two in Chicago, others at other schools in North and East.

Fourteenth—All these superior features enable us to turn out a larger percentage of graduates, who take high stand in the educational world, than any other school in the State. It means something to hold a diploma of the Grenada College.

Register for Rooms at Once and Thus Secure Choice of Location.

Send for Catalogue.

W. L. CLIFTON, A.B., Ph.B., President.

Grenada, Miss.

SILLIMAN COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE

CLINTON, LOUISIANA.

An endowed Christian school for girls and young women. You will find no better school of its grade in the South.

Healthful location in the hill country. Three handsome buildings. Beautiful, well-shaded campus. Electric lights. Steam-heat. All necessary equipment.

Scientific and classical courses leading to degrees. Special advantages in music, art, elocution, etc. For catalogue and information, address the president, Financial aid given to earnest students needing it.

H. H. BROWNLEE, Clinton, Louisiana.

HUMAN HANDS DO NOT TOUCH IT.

From the time the raw materials reach our factory they are handled entirely by machinery, kept scrupulously clean. No chance for to become contaminated. It is strictly pure and wholesome. Our factory is as clean as your kitchen.

Jell-O ICE CREAM Powder

ICE CREAM is Easy to Make.

1 quart milk.
1 package JELL-O ICE CREAM Powder.
Mix and freeze without cooking.
Simple, isn't it?

This makes two quarts of smooth, velvety ice cream, deliciously flavored, in 10 minutes at cost of about 1 cent a plate.

Flavors: Chocolate, Vanilla, Strawberry, Lemon and Unflavored.

Sold by your grocer, 2 packages for 25c. "Enough for a gallon." [illegible]

The Genesee Pure Food Co., Le Roy, N. Y.

Obituaries.

Obituaries not over two hundred words in length will be published free of charge. All over two hundred words will be charged at the rate of 1 cent a word. Count the words and send the amount necessary with the obituary. That will save trouble all around.

G. P. TANKERSLEY—"Uncle Perry," as he was familiarly called, died at his home near Tishomingo, Miss., May 24, 1906, after an illness of several months. He was born May 25, 1830, hence he lacked only a few hours of being 76 years old. He had been a consistent member of the M. E. Church, South, for 35 years. In early life he was happily married to Miss Jane Harrison. God blessed this union with four children (two sons and two daughters), all of whom, with the widowed mother, are left to mourn their loss. "Uncle Perry" will be greatly missed by all his friends; but by no one so much as by his aged companion who has shared with him every joy and sorrow through life. But we should remember that death is the crown of life, and ere long we, too, shall see the sun of life sinking behind the western horizon and hear the summons from on high, there we shall be re-united and forever sing praises to the Father of our spirits. After funeral services conducted by the writer, assisted by Rev. Mr. Aughey, of Newton, N. J., a boyhood friend of "Uncle Perry's," the body was laid to rest in "Old Bethany" Cemetery to await the resurrection.

W. L. BROOM, Pastor.

RUBY GORDON VARNELL, daughter of Victor and Adelaide Varnelle, was born Sept. 9, 1905, and died May 26, 1906. The brief but beautiful life of this lovely little character is ended on earth. God kissed her pure spirit away, and she now sleeps in the far-away dreamland. It seems to us very sad, but God is good, and "doeth all things well." He makes no mistakes. We bow in humble submission to the rod, though it seems to smite. Little Ruby was the pet of the home which she had made so cheerful and happy for a few short years with her lovely disposition. She was a bright affectionate child. Although there are others, yet the home and parents are sad without her, the beautiful little sunbeam. May our heavenly Father sustain and comfort the loved ones in this hour of trial.

J. J. SMYLIE, Pastor.

MRS. VINNIE L. NOBLE (nee Green), wife of Rev. C. T. Noble, passed from a life of suffering to her reward on the morning of May 31, 1906, at Hintonville, Miss. She was born May 28, 1882, in Lebanon, Tenn. She was converted at the age of 13 years, and lived a consistent Christian life to the time of her death. She was married Feb. 26, 1899, and was the mother of five children, three of whom passed to the glory world before her. Her youngest child, little Helen Henrietta, aged 1 year and 8 months, departed this life on April 21, 1906. Sister Noble was a frequent sufferer for some time before her death, but she bore her affliction with patience and resignation to the will of God. Notwithstanding her affliction, she was a helpmeet "indeed." Besides looking after domestic affairs, she assisted her husband, who is blind, in bringing up the Conference papers first year, and also part of the second year. His success was her delight. She was never too sick or too weary to encourage him in his work. Her body was interred at Hintonville, Miss., there to await the resurrection and glorious reward that will be given to all the faithful in Christ Jesus. With a host of friends and relatives we mourn her death, but not as those who have no hope.

E. D. PHILLIPS.

TRIBUTE OF RESPECT.

As the shadows of the closing day were deepening, and a glorious sunset lit the skies in seemingly prophetic glory, the mortal being of Mrs. MARY FRANCES MILLSAPS was laid in its last earthly resting place. In her beautiful home, surrounded by a beloved and loving family, breathing the words of praise and promise which she had loved in life and which were her comfort at its close, she fell asleep, to waken in her Father's house, the heavenly mansion, which the Savior tells us is prepared for those who love and follow him. As long as strength and health were hers, she was an active member of the Cecilian Circle, and served for many years as treasurer. She was ever ready with willing hands and generous heart to do the Master's work which lay before her. In loving recognition of her life and service the following resolutions were adopted by the Woman's Society of the First Methodist Church of Jackson, Miss.:

Resolved, That in the passing of our beloved friend and sister we have lost a devoted member and a faithful and efficient officer; that we shall ever cherish the memory of her consecrated Christian example, and that while we miss her presence and mourn our loss, the influence of her life, with its grace and beauty, strength and sweetness, still lingers with us as an inspiration and a blessing.

Resolved, That our deep sympathies are with the sorrowing hearts of those nearest and dearest to her, and that our prayers commend them to the Father, who was her refuge and strength.

LILY W. THOMPSON,
LOU H. PULLEN,
HADIE L. BUCK,
Committee.

ARGO RED SALMON is cleaned and packed entirely by machinery, not touched by hand. After trying it you will use no other.

MOXINE CHILL TONIC
Only Tonic—one bottle—one cure.

PHILOMATHEANS
Felicitate Filiae Fideles
who are
Wanters of Wisdom,
Lovers of Learning
and
Finders of Fun in Doing of Duty. [illegible] Grenada College [illegible] particulars.
MISS EVLYN WAUGH, Pres't.
Goodman, Miss.

Centenary Female College,
Cleveland, Tenn.

LOCATION—One hour from historic Chattanooga. [illegible]
FACULTY—[illegible]
RECREATION—[illegible]
DEPARTMENTS—[illegible] Business.
Write for illustrated catalog to-day.

Alabama Polytechnic Institute

[illegible]

11 Professors and Instructors [illegible]

CHARLES C. THACH, M.A., LL.D., President.
AUBURN. ALABAMA.

Session begins Wednesday, September [illegible]

[illegible] MINES, ENGINEERING, CHEMISTRY [illegible] New Engineering Hall occupied. [illegible] New Library Building. [illegible]

New Dining Hall. [illegible] address the President.

The Birmingham Dental College

OFFERS FINE ADVANTAGES FOR SECURING A DENTAL EDUCATION.

Over a hundred thousand people are in touch with the infirmary, furnishing abundant material for practice. Write at once for our catalogue.

CHAS. A. MERRILL, Dean.
[illegible] First National Bank Building . . . . . Birmingham, Ala.

WESLEYAN COLLEGE.
Macon, Ga.
Oldest and Best.

WESLEYAN CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC
Macon, Ga.
Largest and Best.

Expression, Art, Physical Culture, and Business Instruction Same Standard.

[illegible]

DUPONT GUERRY, President.

TUSCALOOSA FEMALE COLLEGE
TUSCALOOSA, ALA.
A Safe Place to Send Your Daughters.

[illegible] $200—$300. [illegible]

B. J. HOLSTON, A.M., President.

FROM JONESBORO CHARGE.

Dear Dr. Boswell: I was so busy last year that I did not write to the Advocate about my work at all, so I hope you will allow me a little space now. It may not interest anyone else, but it will me.

The Conference of 1906 moved me from Alva, Mars Hill Circuit, to Kossuth Circuit, a distance of 160 miles, the route I must of necessity go. I dreaded the worry of the move, as I always do. There is such a waste of time and labor in moving and getting acquainted with the roads and people of a new charge, that they should never be made unnecessarily.

I was delighted with my new charge. I went to work to establish myself for four years as I always do. But, as usual, failed. I found two Sunday Schools; I left the charge with seven. I found no prayer meeting, but left two. We had fine revivals; received 87 members, and organized one Sunday School into a missionary society. One church, at least, was talking of raising its assessment from $75 to $125. I thought we were doing well, but the order came from the cabinet to move, after only one year's work.

I landed on Jonesboro Circuit, and found some clever people, but the parsonage had been condemned and we had no place to go. After trying for sometime, I succeeded in renting a house, at my expense, for four months. We then moved into a new parsonage at Brownfield. This will be a beautiful preacher's home when finished, but much remains to be done yet.

We are under many obligations to the Conference W. H. M. Society for a gift of $75. This will help us on lively, but we will still need money to carry on the work. Anyone friendly to the work can do a lasting favor to Jonesboro Charge by sending a donation of any amount, either to the writer, or to W. H. Brown, Chairman of Building Committee at Brownfield, Miss.

We have four churches and five Sunday Schools. We have a Woman's Home Mission Society just organized at Brownfield; twelve regular and eight honorary members. We are working and planning and praying for great revivals of religion this year. It has already started in the organization of a prayer meeting and Sunday School teachers' meeting combined at Brownfield.

Our new Presiding Elder, B. P. Jaco, is a success. If he could give us enough of his time, Jonesboro Charge would succeed. Yours truly,

E. C. SULLIVAN.

P. S.—I hope our own members will rally to the relief of the parsonage committee. E. C. S.

There is nothing more dainty for a picnic or luncheon than Argo Salmon sandwiches or salad. The Argo Cook Book tells how to prepare them. See your grocer.

MOXINE CHILL TONIC
Only Tonic—one bottle—one cure.

OLIVE BRANCH, MISS.

Dear Dr. Boswell: On reaching Olive Branch at the beginning of the Conference year we found a people to serve who have no superior anywhere—a people appreciative of a pastor's efforts, kind, loyal and zealous, a people which 'tis a pleasure to serve.

Though my worthy predecessors erected a monument by their untiring efforts, and left an imprint on the hearts and lives of the people whom they served by their devotion and unselfish interest, crowned with such signal success, I venture to assert that the present year has been the banner year in the history of the charge. I would not insinuate or endeavor to leave the impression that this marked success and creditable advancement is to be attributed to the efforts of the pastor, but rather to those of my loyal members.

By pastoral visiting in the homes of my people; by manifesting all interest in them and earnestly soliciting their co-operation for a great year, by mingling with them and winning their friendship, in some way the responsive cords in their lives were touched and we now have one of the best charges in the district. We have organized four live prayer meetings; have three well-working Home Mission Societies, one recently organized on my work. We have five Sunday schools doing good work, two organized in the spring, and one reorganized fully in the early summer. We have one of the four Epworth Leagues in Sardis District, and, with present progress, interest and outlook, expect to have the banner League of the District by Conference in December. Only last Sunday a completely new set of officers were installed, all of whom, except two, were young men. There is now enrolled in this League some twenty-five members, and they are workers, too. We have had one excellent Children's Day service. In the young people is the hope of the future, for upon them rests the burden and responsibility of Church and State; as the custodians of the future welfare and success of each.

We have, through the faithful work of Sister Jones and others, put a nice suit of furniture in the parsonage; matting the floor and otherwise improving the rooms. We have a really nice parsonage and most desirable lot here, with kind Methodist neighbors near.

We have carpeted the chancel in our church and purchased a new bell; we have the money in hand with which to repaint three churches on the charge, and to remodel two.

We have raised some two hundred dollars on parsonage and church furnishings and repairs up to date, and more to follow. Domestic Missions are in full, and Foreign Missions about half in cash. All collections well in hand, in cash and good subscriptions. "Will pay in full" is our motto this year.

We have secured the services of such men as our beloved presiding elder, Rev. W. M. Young, and Revs. H. S. Spragins and S. A. Brown in special revival services, which begin soon on my work. We expect great and telling work in these services, by God's help.

Our people all greatly love Brother Young, who is a forceful, eloquent gospel preacher, earnest and spotless in life, a man of unquestioned executive ability, whom to know is to admire and love.

Doctor, we are having a most successful year, and with the work well in hand, we expect this to be our banner year in reality. Many of our people remember you, as a presiding elder, going in and out before them, leaving imprinted upon their lives the imperishable truths of a pure religion. "Onward and success," is our motto, made possible by sincere prayer. Yours in the work,

K. P. FOUST.

Testifies with Pleasure.

Good evidence: "With pleasure I testify to the merits of Hughes Tonic as a remedy for chills and fever. I recommend it, and in no case have I known it to fail, even in the most obstinate." Sold by Druggists—50c and $1 bottles. PREPARED BY ROBINSON-PETTET CO., Louisville.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used for over Sixty-Five Years by millions of mothers for their children while teething with perfect success. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain; cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for Diarrhoea. Sold by Druggists in every part of the world. Be sure and ask for "Mrs Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Guaranteed under the Food and Drugs Act, June 30th, 1906. Serial Number 1098. An Old and Well Tried Remedy.

MOXINE
Cures LAGRIPPE and Colds.

DICKSON COLLEGE, DICKSON, TENN.

A select home school for both sexes; ideal location on the summit of the Highland Rim of Middle Tennessee. No malaria; pure air, crystal waters, splendid buildings, strong faculty. A practical school that makes practical men and women who do things. The school for the masses. Gives everybody a chance. Literary, Commercial, Telegraphy, Music, Elocution. New year begins Tuesday, Sept. 1, 1908. Expenses lower than anywhere else in the world. Write postal card for beautiful catalogue. Address,

T. B. LOGGINS, A. M., President, Dickson, Tenn.

FLORENCE UNIVERSITY for WOMEN FLORENCE, ALA.

Magnificent buildings costing $100,000. Elegant appointments. Refined and Christian home. Pianos and furniture all new. Ideal location near the mountains. All college courses. Conservatory unsurpassed. Teachers from the first schools of Europe and America. Opens September 18, 1908. For handsome catalog, address M. W. HATTON and O. W. ANDERTON, Presidents, Florence, Ala.

South Mississippi College
HATTIESBURG, MISS.

CO-EDUCATIONAL.

New $100,000 equipment. 400 students. First class accommodations at reasonable rates. Courses of study equal to those given by any other college in the State and lead to the usual degrees. Special attention given to Domestic Science, Art, Music, Expression, and the training of teachers. Session opens September 8, 1908.

W. I. THAMES, President. Hattiesburg, Miss.

American TELEGRAPH School

ESTABLISHED 10 YEARS
MILLEDGEVILLE, GEORGIA

Largest and best equiped school South. Expert management. Railroad wire connections. Positions guaranteed. Railroad fares paid. Board at cost. Open year around. Write for catalogue C. Great demand for operators.

Randolph-Macon
Woman's College
Lynchburg, Virginia.

Classed by the U. S. Commissioner of Education as one of the fifteen "A" colleges for women in the United States. Four Laboratories; Astronomical Observatory; Gymnasium; boating course, etc. Fifty acres in the campus. Endowment reduces cost to students to $300 a year for full literary courses. For catalogue, address WM. W. SMITH, A. M., LL. D., President.

WARD SEMINARY

Purpose The purpose of the school is to do serious and honest work in the Christian education of girls and young women.

Courses Seminary, Special, and College Preparatory Courses. French and German under native teachers. Art, life model. Expression, three years' course.

Conservatory of Music. Seven piano teachers, two voice teachers, etc. Thirty new pianos.

Advantages Nashville excels in climate, healthfulness, and social culture. It is the educational center of the South, and affords unusual advantages in lectures, recitals, and other opportunities for practical education.

Every facility for physical culture is afforded. Tennis, bowling, etc. Beautiful city campus of ten acres, and suburban campus of forty acres.

Only one hundred and seventy-five boarding pupils are received.

Indorsement Nearly half a century of increasing public favor and success. Patrons say: "Ward Seminary is an ideal Christian home." "The work done in Ward Seminary is of an unusually high order, and the religious tone the best." "The social life of the Seminary is of the very highest order." "My daughter has enjoyed in your school the best health she has had since she was twelve years old." "We can scarcely find words to thank you for what you have done for our daughter."

The Forty-fourth Year Begins September 24. Early Application is Advised.

For Catalog, Address J. D. BLANTON, President, Nashville, Tenn.

Cheapest School on E

BUSINESS COLLEGE Young VICKSBURG, MISS.

Because we charge enough to enable us to give something just a little better, just a little more up-to-date, and much more of it in the finished product, than the other "fellow."

Departments:—Preparatory, Bookkeeping, Shorthand, and Typewriting.

The best system of Bookkeeping, Shorthand, and general routine. The kind that is made up from actual office experience, not from supposition and a smattering book idea.

New typewriters; the touch system; with blanked keyboards.

Write to-day for prices, full particulars and a few souvenir post cards.

Belmont College For Young Women Nashville, Tenn.

Prepares for colleges and universities. College post graduate courses leading to degrees of B.A. and M.A. Eleven schools comprise the college, and each school is presided over by a trained specialist. Music, Art, Physical Culture and Languages. Unrivalled in the South for location and environment. The college stands in a beautiful park of fifteen acres. Golf, tennis, hockey, horseback riding, and automobiling. Many Northern, as well as Southern families, realizing the benefits to be derived from such a location, and wishing their children educated under inter-sectional influences, are sending their daughters to Belmont. Of the total number of pupils registered last year, representing in all 32 states, 30 per cent. were Northern girls. Early registration is necessary. Catalogue on request.

Rev. IRA LANDRITH, D. D., LL.D., Regent. Miss HOOD and Miss HERON, Principals.

Whitworth College

(FOR YOUNG LADIES)

Brookhaven, Miss.

Conservatory of Art, Music and Expression. Commercial Department. High Curriculum. Officers and Teachers, 22. Students, 255. Next session begins Sept. 23, 1908. Address,

WHITWORTH COLLEGE.

PORT GIBSON FEMALE COLLEGE,

Port Gibson, Miss.

68th Session Opens Sept. 23, 1908. Standard of Literary Work High. Music, Elocution, Art, Commerce, Sewing. Special Attention Given Health and Morals. Electric Lights, Artesian Water. Boarding Patronage Steadily Increasing. Trip to National Military Park, Mississippi's New Capitol, and State Fair—a Feature of Next Session.

Henry G. Hawkins, A. B., Pres.

BELLHAVEN COLLEGE

FOR YOUNG LADIES

JACKSON, MISSISSIPPI.

J. R. PRESTON, A. M., President.

Fifteen highly qualified instructors. Ten-acre campus and all modern comforts. Excellent table and courteous management. Patronage solicited from cultured homes. Sound instruction and satisfactory progress guaranteed. Fifteenth session opens Sept. 16, 1908.

BELVIRINO

A PROGRESSIVE COLLEGE FOR YOUNG LADIES.

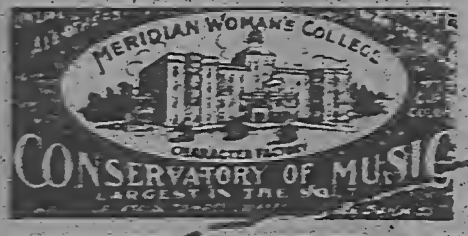
WEST POINT, MISSISSIPPI.

EDWIN W. DORAN, Ph., D., PRESIDENT.

Fine buildings, accommodating 200 boarders. Cultured Teachers in Literary Department, Music, Expression, Art, Commercial Branches, Physical Culture, etc.

REDUCED RATE FOR 1908-9, $175.

Next term opens Sept. 8th. Send for Catalogue.

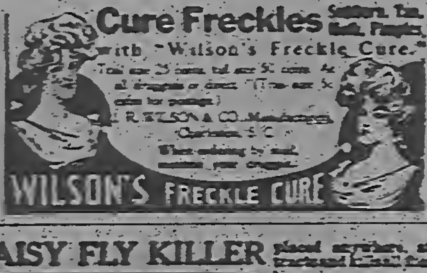


Belmont College

For YOUNG WOMEN. Nashville, Tenn.

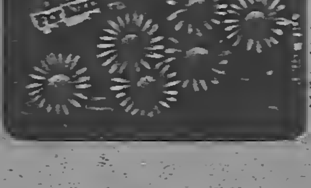
Regular College and Preparatory Courses. Music, Art, Languages, Physical Culture. Beautiful location. Golf, tennis, hockey all the year. Register now. Catalogue on request.

Rev. IRA LANDRITH, D.D., LL. D., Regent.
Miss HOOD and Miss HERON, Principals.



DAISY FLY KILLER placed anywhere, attracts and kills all flies. Neat, clean, ornamental, convenient, cheap. Lasts all season. Absolutely harmless, cannot spill or tip over, will not soil or injure anything. Guaranteed effective. Of all dealers or sent prepaid for 20 cents.

HAROLD SOMERS
149 DeKalb Ave.
Brooklyn, N. Y.



Sunday School

By W. B. Campbell.

LESSON FOR JULY 19.

Subject: "Samuel Warns Saul and the People."—1st Samuel xii. 13-25.

Golden Text: "Only fear the Lord, and serve Him with all your heart: for consider how great things He has done for you."—1st Samuel xii. 24.

Israel was a people greatly favored of the Lord. Page after page had been written by Moses, recounting the wonderful way in which God had watched over them, from the time of the call of Abraham to the time of Samuel; and now the prophet shows that gratitude demanded loyalty to God, if there was no other incentive to true service. The king was included in the warning of the prophet, because he was of the people in character and disposition. He had cause to be grateful also, for at the very beginning of his reign God blessed him with a change of heart. The self-will of his race, which was largely predominant in him, ruled his actions whenever he was out of the restraining influence of Samuel.

Saul and the people were on probation, and under the direction of Samuel they were to show themselves capable of maintaining a government like the nations around them. The outlook for both king and people was fair; they were assured of the blessing and guidance of the Almighty, and the result depended largely on their obedience to God's commandments. Saul's actions at once betokened a reliance on his own strength, and the people depended on the power of their king, both neglecting to ask the help of their heavenly Father. Saul would listen to the advice and counsel of Samuel; and then go and act on his own impulse. Samuel knew Saul's character, and also that of the people; hence the intense earnestness with which he sounded a warning so close behind the people's shout of "God save the king!" The occasion was extreme when it seemed needful that Samuel should attest his own integrity. They were all at Gilgal—Samuel, the king and the people. The prophet told them that the king was given them in acceding to their own request, intimating that it was not in the direct line of God's providence. However that should be, a blessing would follow if they would only hearken and be obedient. The people listened to Samuel, and seemed to take to heart his admonition, as also did the king; but "some seed fell on stony ground," and for this reason Samuel was moved to show them the ever present power of God by sending thunder and rain during wheat harvest, contrary to natural laws in that climate. This was done to show them that "the eyes of the Lord are upon the righteous, and his ears are open unto their cry," and also that "the face of the Lord is against them that do evil."

Samuel was earnest in his endeavor to impress on the mind of the people that they had been very wicked in desiring a king, thus ignoring the God that had been so wonderfully kind to them, when they were continually rebelling against him. The great display of God's power and the exhortation of Samuel caused a change in the attitude of the people. They greatly feared the Lord and Samuel, and cried unto the prophet that he should pray unto the Lord his God for them. Prayer that is induced by fear is the least acceptable unto God. "Man's extremity" should never be the only time to call for the help of the Father in heaven. Jesus said, "men ought always to pray." The flow of God's mercy is not stopped by the waywardness of his children. "Fear not," said Samuel, "though you have been very wicked, yet turn not aside from following the Lord."

Why should we wonder at the foolish children of Israel? We cannot condemn them, for as God's people were in olden time, so are we to-day. We have men after the manner of the first king of Israel, wholly after the ways of this world, and they are looked upon as worthy of our admiration; and the meek and humble minister of Christ is the last to whom we go for counsel and advice. The record of the Israelites is the history of our lives, every one of us. We have but to look back over our past days and see the goodness of God at every step, but we are ungrateful and neglect the Giver of all blessings until some great loss or danger threatens us, and then we think we are very pious in resorting to prayer, when, in fact, it was after every other measure had been tried with no avail. We are prone to presume on the mercy of God when we call on him at the occasion of our own choosing.

Many a man can testify to God's direct answer to prayer, yet we wonder at God's long-suffering in his dealing with the children of Israel. There is no shadow of turning with God; he is always the same. His wonderful love and infinite mercy was shown in the words of Samuel as he said to the people: "The Lord will not forsake his people"—not for the people's sake, however, but for his great name's sake. The purposes of God in choosing Israel must be carried out, and his promises must be fulfilled. God wants us to hold him to his promises, and that with all the power that faith can give us.

Now and then, in his address, Samuel turns to himself. He had already called attention to his manner of life; he says: "God forbid that I should sin against the Lord in ceasing to pray for you." It would be a sin for Samuel. He knew that God was dealing with Israel as with a spoiled child, and that he must represent the Almighty as a tender, loving Father. "Only fear not." How often did Jesus speak those words! Fear is the enemy of faith, and where fear is present love cannot be. The full assurance of faith must be our safeguard against fear. Satan uses fear against our efforts for good, because fear retards action and suggests retreat.

In our day the attitude of the Christian must be aggressive. He must not cast aside the meekness and gentleness of Christ, but should combat evil in the same spirit as did the Master when he denounced the hypocrites. We should have no fear to confess the Lord's name, for the wicked have become bold in the fight against the right, and they would mistake humbleness of mind for downright cowardice. This is the time for a bold, fearless soldier of Christ to go right into the camp of the enemy, proclaiming the power of the Gospel. Men will be attracted and give their attention if they see one standing up in their midst speaking for his Lord and King; they will say that there is something in a cause that will fill one with such earnestness. The enemies of Christ and his kingdom were never so bold as at this time, they even jeering and scoffing at any sacred thing, and when one arises in their midst proclaiming his loyalty to the Son of God their great surprise soon gives way to fear, and then comes the opportunity to tell them of a better way to live, a way that will give them [illegible] [illegible] satisfied with a [illegible] they have thus far found [illegible]. This [illegible] of warfare [illegible] the soldier [illegible] fear [illegible] [illegible] attacks [illegible] manly life. Action is the watchword for all; fear is forgotten when working for the King of Glory. Action in a life of love and mercy, and at the same time defending the name of God from blasphemy and [illegible] the weak in their [illegible] against wrong.

A living Christ is in command, and to follow him we must fear the Lord and serve him with all our heart, considering how great things he has done for us.

Argo Red Salmon lends zest to a meal. It is appetizing and nutritious.

Commander Peary has made a fresh start for the North Pole. On his last attempt he came within a few [illegible] miles. Perhaps [illegible] this time. He [illegible] force his vessel as far [illegible] as possible, [illegible] into winter quarters, and then [illegible] in February.

RINGWORM

[illegible]

J. T. SHUPTRINE, Savannah, Ga.

A petition is being circulated in the Philippine Islands asking for free trade with the United States. There are already over one hundred thousand signatures, and the petition will continue until the meeting of Congress in [illegible]. They ask to be treated just as well as Porto Rico.

It is announced that the railroads [illegible] to make a raise in the [illegible] [illegible].

Use Allen's Foot-Ease

A powder to be shaken into the shoes. If you have tired, aching feet, try Allen's Foot-Ease. It rests the feet and makes new or tight shoes easy. Cures aching, swollen, sweating feet. Relieves corns and bunions of all pain and gives rest and comfort. Try it to-day. Sold by all Druggists and Shoe Stores, 25c. Don't accept any substitute. For FREE trial package, also Free Sample of the FOOT-EASE Sanitary CORN-PAD, a new invention, address Allen S. Olmsted, LeRoy, N.Y.

GAS STOVE REPAIRING.

If your gas stove needs repairing address a postal card to J. T. Chalmers, [illegible] Bellecastle St., City. Two or three dollars spent in this way may save a big saving and bring about better service in the cooking.

Southern University,
Greensboro, Ala.

Last session most successful for several years past. All departments well [illegible]. Excellent library and reading [illegible] [illegible] laboratory, new gymnasium with excellent equipment. Government paternal. Health [illegible]. Charges moderate. [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] Next session begins Sept. 16th, 1908. Send for catalogue.

REV. S. M. HOSMER, D.D., Pres.

Meridian Male College
A LEADING INSTITUTION OF LEARNING
FACULTY OF 25 EXPERIENCED TEACHERS
MERIDIAN, MISS.

Vanderbilt University

NASHVILLE, TENN.

900 Students 100 Teachers
Campus of 80 Acres

New College Hall and Chemical Laboratory Just Completed

Expenses low. Literary courses for graduates and undergraduates. Professional courses in Engineering, Law, Medicine, Dentistry, Pharmacy, Theology. Send for catalogue, naming department.

J. E. HART, Secretary.

WHITWORTH COLLEGE.

President Cooper of Whitworth College announces the following faculty for the session of 1908-09, beginning Sept. 23, 1908.

Mrs. Bessie W. Lipscomb, A.M., Lady Principal, Higher Mathematics.

Miss Janie H. Drake, A.M., English.

Miss Elizabeth Lusby, (Bell Buckle, Agnes Scott), Latin and Greek.

Mrs. Maxie T. Sisk (Paris) French.

Miss Kate Gillett, A.B. (Randolph-Macon Woman's College), Science.

Miss Jessie Mounger, A.B. (Whitworth College) Assistant in Mathematics and Latin.

Preparatory Department—Miss Grace Leighton, B.L., Miss Laura Hemby, A.B., Assistant.

Miss Addie N. Marshall, A.M., Monitress.

Directress of Music—Miss Bessie McVoy (Cincinnati Conservatory).

Miss Clara Nilon (St. Louis and Chicago) Piano.

Miss Aileen Lowe (Chicago) Piano.

Miss Carrie Dawkins (Randolph-Macon, M.H.F.) Piano.

Miss Olive Ida Owen (Chicago and New York), Voice.

Mrs. R. W. McCormick (Cincinnati), Violin and Guitar.

Expression—Miss Lulah Ragsdale (New York).

Art—Mrs. Maxie T. Sisk (Cincinnati and Paris).

Commercial Departm't—Miss Blanche Stephens.

It is important that students should engage rooms early.

Send for catalogue. Address

WHITWORTH COLLEGE,
Brookhaven, Miss.

The Law School Vanderbilt University.

NASHVILLE, TENN.

For catalogue or special information, address,

ALLEN HALL, LL.D.,
Chairman of the Faculty.

It is our aim to offer to young ladies the best possible mental and moral training.

Full college course leading to A. B., B. S., B. L., M. S., and M. A.

COLUMBIA COLLEGE
Opens Sept. 24, 1908.

Musical instruction in all its branches, both vocal and instrumental.

Large Faculty of experienced teachers.

New buildings. Modern improvements. Large campus.

Write for catalogue.

W. W. DANIEL, A.M., D.D.,
President,
Columbia College, S. C.

CLIFTONIANS

Covet Constant Covenanters
to
Keep Karakter,
Invite Ideation,
Kultivate Kourage,
and
Grab Coin for Grenada College.

For particulars, address

MISS ALMA BECK, Pres't.
Drew, Miss.

TULANE UNIVERSITY of LOUISIANA
Medical Department.

Its advantages for practical instruction, both in ample laboratories and abundant hospital materials, are unequaled. Free access is given to the great Charity Hospital with 900 beds and 30,000 patients annually. Special instruction is given daily at the bedside of the sick. Department of Pharmacy also. The next session begins October 1st, 1908. For catalogue and information, address DR. ISADORE DYER, DEAN, P. O. Drawer 261, NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Co-Operative School
$150.00
$50,000 Plant. Special R. R. Rates.
BEDFORD, VIRGINIA.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

Brookhaven Dist.—Third Round.

Beauregard, at Matthew's	July 18, 19
Adams, at Ebenezer, Wed.	July 22,
Bogue Chitto and Norfield, at Bogue Chitto	July 25, 26
Magnolia	July 26, 27
Pearlhaven, at Pleasant Grove, Wed.	July 29,
Brookhaven	Aug. 1, 2
Gallman, at Georgetown	Aug. 3,
Monticello, at Tilton	Aug. 6,
Tylertown, at Summers C.	Aug. 8, 9
Summit, at Muddy Spgs.	Aug. 12,
Topisaw, at Sartinsville	Aug. 15, 16
Pearl River, at P. Chapel	Aug. 23, 24
Wesson	Aug. 30, 31

GEO. H. THOMPSON, P. E.

Jackson Dist.—Third Round.

Collins	July 17,
Magee, at Pleasant Hill	July 18, 19
Sharon, at Soule's Chap.	July 22,
Canton	Aug. 2, 3
Pinola, at Rexford	Aug. 8, 9
Florence, at Monterey	Aug. 11
Terry, at Spring Ridge	Aug. 12
Dearonville, at Dover	Aug. 13
Benton, at Zeiglerville	Aug. 15, 16
Flora, at Livingston	Aug. 23, 24
Braxton, at Bethany	Aug. 26
Yazoo City	Aug. 30, 31
Lintonia, at Lake City	Sept. 1
Madison, Ridgeland, 11 a.m.	Sept. 5, 6
Jackson, Rankin St., 8 p.m.	Sept. 6, 7
Mount Olive	Sept. 9
Eden, at Lodi	Sept. 12, 13

The pastors are requested to give especial attention to Questions 17 and 22, and in both cases to present written reports. A. F. WATKINS, P. E.

Natchez Dist.—Third Round.

Liberty, at Glading	July 18, 19
Hamburg, at McNair	July 25,
Homochitto, at W. Chapel	July 26, 27
Caseyville, at Bethesda	Aug. 2, 3
Wilkinson, at Rosetta	Aug. 8, 9
Bethel, at Bethel	Aug. 11,
Meadville	Aug. 15, 16
Barlow, at Brandywine	Aug. 22, 23
Bayou Pierre, at Pleas. R.	Aug. 24,
Fayette, at Fayette	Aug. 26, 27
Washington, at Pinegrove	Aug. 29,
Natchez, Pearl Street	Aug. 29, 30
Natchez, Jefferson Street	Aug. 30, 31
Woodville	Sept. 5, 6
Percy Creek, at P. C.	Sept. 7,

J. T. LEGGETT, P. E.

Vicksburg Dist.—Third Round.

South Warren, at Asbury	July 18, 19
Vicksburg, S. Washington Street	July 24, 26
Vicksburg, Crawford St.	July 25, 26
Hermanville, at Carpenter	Aug. 1, 2
Oak Ridge, at Bradleys C.	Aug. 8, 9
Anguilla, at Sunflower	Aug. 15, 16
Bolton, at Brownsville	Aug. 22, 23
Satartia, at Wesley Chapel	Aug. 29, 30
Rockey Springs, at Hickory Ridge	Sept. 5, 6
Port Gibson, at P. G.	Sept. 12, 13
Rolling Fork, at R. F.	Sept. 19, 20
Silver City, at Holly Bluff	Sept. 26, 27
Mayersville, at Brunswick	Oct. 3, 4

G. H. GALLOWAY, P. E.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

Seashore Dist.—Third Round.

Purvis, at Maple	July 18, 19
Poplarville	July 20,
New Augusta, at Petal	July 21,
Lucedale, at Shipman	July 25, 26
Bay St. Louis	July 26,
Escatawpa, at Orange Gr.	July 31,
Moss Point, 8 p.m.	July 31,
Americus, at Big Point	Aug. 1,
Pascagoula, 8 p.m.	Aug. 1, 2
Vancleave, at Red Hill	Aug. 8, 9
Mentorum, at Pinegrove	Aug. 9, 10
Leetown and Pearlington	Aug. 13,
Brooklyn and Bond	Aug. 15, 16
Estabutchie, at Maxie	Aug. 15, 16
Lumberton	Aug. 20,
Carriere, at Picayune	Aug. 21,
McH. and Wiggins, at W.	Aug. 22, 23
Howison and Saucier, at St. Johns	Aug. 24,
Longbeach	Aug. 28,
Gulfport, 29th Street, at Mississippi City	Aug. 31,
Biloxi	Sept. 1,
Coalville, Bayard's Chap.	Sept. 2,
Ocean Springs, at Oak St.	Sept. 2,
Pass Christian	Sept. 3,
Hattiesburg, Main Street	Sept. 6, 7
Broad Street, 8 p.m.	Sept. 12,
Court Street	Sept. 13, 14
Wolf River, at R. Bayou	Sept. 19, 20
Gulfport, 25th Ave.	Sept. 23,

M. L. BURTON, P. E.

Greenville Dist.—Third Round.

Lula, at Lyon	July 20, 21
Coahoma, at Dundee, 8 p.m.	July 21,
Tunica, at Austin	July 26, 27
Alligator, at Duncan	July 27, 28
Rosedale, at Deeson	Aug. 2, 3
Hillhouse, at Gunnison	Aug. 3, 4
Cleveland Ct., at Lakeview	Aug. 8, 9
Cleveland Station	Aug. 12,
Friar's Point, at Sherard	Aug. 15, 16
Jonestown, at J.	Aug. 17,
Robinsonville, at Pop. C.	Aug. 19,
Glen Allan, at S. Greenv'le	Sept. 13, 14
Shaw, at S.	Sept. 16,
Delta Mission	Sept. 19, 20

R. A. MEEK, P. E.

Oxford Dist.—Third Round.

Toccapola Ct., Tula	July 25, 26
Abbeville Ct., at Union H.	Aug. 1, 2
Charleston Ct., at Oak G.	Aug. 8, 9
Red Banks Ct., at Mahon	Aug. 15, 16
Paris Ct., at Midway	Aug. 22, 23
Grenada Ct., at Duck Hill	Aug. 29, 30
Waterford Ct., at Pine Mt.	Sept. 4,
Holly Springs Ct., at Sylvestria	Sept. 5, 6
Coffeeville Ct., at Antioch	Sept. 12, 13
Potts Camp Ct., Palestine	Sept. 19, 20
Ashland Ct., at Union H.	Sept. 26, 27

J. E. CUNNINGHAM, P. E.

Winona Dist.—Third Round.

Moorhead, at Baird	July 19, 20
Belzoni, at Sky Lake	July 25, 26
Webb, at Webb	Aug. 1,
Minter City, Strathmore	Aug. 2, 3
Inverness, at Isola	Aug. 8, 9
Ruleville, at Ruleville	Aug. 9, 10
N. Carrollton, at McCarley	Aug. 15, 16
Vance	Aug. 18
Maris Hill, at Chapel Hill	Aug. 22, 23
Tom Nolen, at Lebanon	Aug. 29, 30
Slate Springs, at Cross R.	Sept. 5, 6

E. S. LEWIS, P. E.

Corinth District—Third Round.

Wheeler Ct., at Asbury	July 17
Corinth Station, at C.	July 19, 20
Iuka Ct., at Harmony	July 25
Iuka Station, at Iuka	July 26, 27
Tishomingo Ct., at F. G.	July 28
Marietta Ct., at Siloam	July 30
Booneville Station, at B.	Aug. 1, 2
[illegible] and Saltillo, at [illegible]'s Chapel	Aug. 7
Blue Springs Ct., at Bethel	Aug. 8, 9
Mantachie Ct., at Shiloh	Aug. 15, 16
Belmont Ct., at Mt. Olive	Aug. 18
Booneville Ct., at Edges' Chapel	Aug. 22, 23
New Albany Circuit, at Bethlehem	Aug. 29, 30
Ripley and New Hope, at Dumas	Aug. 30, 31
New Albany Station, at Glenfield	Sept. 6, 7
Myrtle Ct., Union Hill	Sept. 8,
Rainey and Falkner	Sept. 12, 13
Jonesboro Ct., Ebenezer	Sept. 15,

BEN. P. JACO, P. E.

Durant District—Third Round.

Chester (South Union)	July 25, 26
Ebenezer	July 31,
Lexington	Aug. 1, 2
Kosciusko Circuit	Aug. 8, 9
Vaiden	Aug. 15, 16
West	Aug. 18,
McCool	Aug. 22, 23
Black Hawk	Aug. 29, 30
Sidon	Sept. 5, 6
Poplar Creek	Sept. 9,

S. M. THAMES, P. E.

Columbus Dist.—Third Round.

Shuqualak, Center Valley	July 25, 26
Winstonville, Mashulaville	Aug. 1, 2
Macon	Aug. 8, 9
Mayhew, Kilgore's Chapel	Aug. 15, 16
Mathiston, Providence	Aug. 22, 23
Crawford, Trinity	Aug. 29, 30
Sturges, Buel's Hill	Sept. 5, 6
Brooksville, Xprairie	Sept. 12, 13
Hebron	Sept. 19, 20
Cedar Bluff	Sept. 26, 27

L. M. LIPSCOMB, P. E.

Sardis Dist.—Third Round.

Byhalia, at Fountainhead	July 25, 26
Coldwater, at Loucas	Aug. 1, 2
Cockrum, at Greenleaf	Aug. 8, 9
Wall Hill, at Marian	Aug. 15, 16
Hernando, at Horn Lake	Aug. 21,
Pleasant Hill, at Indora	Aug. 22, 23
Harrison, at Tillatobia	Aug. 29, 30
Courtland, at Chapel Hill	Aug. 31,
Eureka, at Lovejoy	Sept. 5, 6
Batesville	Sept. 12, 13
Tyro, at Malmaison	Sept. 16,
Crenshaw, at Crenshaw	Sept. 19, 20
Longtown	Sept. 25,
Arkabutla, at Harmony	Sept. 26, 27

W. M. YOUNG, P. E.

Newton Dist.—Third Round.

Lake, at Conehatta	July 21,
Taylorville, at Ocoha	July 24,
Bay Springs	July 25, 26
Raleigh, at Cedar Grove, by W. W. M.	July 25, 26
Morton, at Lindsey	July 28,
Laurel	Aug. 2, 3
Kingston	Aug. 2, 3
Homewood, at Gasque	Aug. 7,
Trenton, at New Prospect	Aug. 8, 9
Hebron, at Pleasant Ridge	Aug. 15, 16
Ellisville, at Richton	Aug. 22, 23
Chunkey, at Sageville	Aug. 27,
V. and H., Sandersville	Aug. 29, 30
Decatur, at Good Hope	Sept. 12, 13
Newton	Sept. 16,
Neshoba, at ———	Sept. 18,
Philadelphia	Sept. 19, 20
Indian Mission	Sept. 21,
Edenberg, at Mt. Zion	Sept. 22,
Harpersville, at Good H.	Sept. 24,
Carthage, at ———	Sept. 25,
Walnut Grove, at ———	Sept 26, 27
Rose Hill, at ———	Sept 30,

JAS. M. WEEMS, P. E.

Aberdeen Dist.—Third Round.

Amory and Nettleton, at N.	July 26, 27
Prairie, at Pain Chapel	Aug. 1, 2
Houlka, at Concord	Aug. 6,
Palestine, at P.	Aug. 8, 9
Pontotoc, at Harmony	Aug. 10,
Montpelier, at Palestine	Aug. 15, 16
Vardaman, at Sharon	Aug. 19,
Bounds, at Pleas. Ridge	Aug. 21,
Pittsboro, at Chapel Hill	Aug. 22, 23
Smithville, at P. Memorial	Aug. 29, 30
Aberdeen Ct., Riggan's C.	Sept. 3,
Okalona Ct., at Tranquil	Sept. 5, 6
Nettleton Ct., at Shiloh	Sept. 10,
Fulton, at Hopewell	Sept. 12, 13

J. H. MITCHELL, P. E.

MILLSAPS COLLEGE,
JACKSON, MISSISSIPPI.
WILLIAM BELTON MURRAH, PRESIDENT.

A first-grade College situated at the Capital of the State. Offers unsurpassed advantages in Literary and Law Departments.

AMPLE GROUNDS—COMMODIOUS BUILDINGS—THOROUGHLY TRAINED TEACHERS—The best moral and cultural influences.

NEW CARNEGIE LIBRARY BUILDING—The College has a large and constantly increasing endowment, thus securing to students extraordinary advantages at a very moderate cost.

LOCATION IDEAL—Supplying the healthful conditions and immunities of the country with all the advantages of the city.

SEVENTEENTH SESSION BEGINS SEPTEMBER 30. Send for Catalogue giving full particulars. Address,

J. E. WALMSLEY, Secretary, Jackson, Miss.

Every lady should have a copy of the Argo Red Salmon Cook Book. It gives thirty-nine different ways for preparing salmon. Ask your grocer for it.

MOXINE CHILL TONIC
Only Tonic—one bottle—one cure.

T. W. O. C.

Just think of these four letters, next time you are ill.

They represent good advice to sick women.

Ladies, by thousands, have written to tell others to "Take Wine of Cardui."

They have tried it, and know what it will do for the ills and weaknesses peculiar to their sex.

Cardui, you must know, contains no injurious ingredients, but is a pure, vegetable, non-intoxicating, extract of medicinal herbs, which acts gently, specifically and curatively on the womanly organs.

"I was a total wreck," writes Mrs. Eveline McGrew, of 2650 Guadalupe Street, Austin, Tex., "and I wish I could tell all afflicted females what Cardui has done for me and for my daughters. It is certainly the best and most wonderful tonic, to build up shattered nerves and for all other female troubles. If all women and girls would use Cardui, they would not need doctors. It saved my life at the menopause and I recommend Cardui to all."

Cardui is an old and well tried remedy for female troubles. Your druggist sells it, with full directions for use on the wrapper. Try Cardui

FROM SKINNER, MISS.

Dear Brother Boswell: Please permit me to report a meeting at a place called Sand Hill. There was once a Baptist Church there, but it has gone. When I learned of the place I arranged for a meeting, and on the 12th of June I went there in the name of the Lord and waged war against sin. The people came in crowds to hear the truth. On Sunday the fire began to fall. Brother Gale came out Thursday and was with me until Saturday morning. I continued the fight, under the guidance of the Spirit, and on Sunday we had a good meeting. I had no way to tell how many were interested, but there were many, and we organized a Methodist Episcopal Church, South, with twenty-one members. On the next morning (Monday) I sent for Brother Gale. He came again and preached a very fine and an appropriate sermon on faith. After the sermon organization was effected and the following were taken into the church: By certificate 2, by vows 5, by baptism 14. We baptized the oldest woman in the whole country, and a man who was said to be the hardest case. The Lord is wonderful in his power. Oh, how he can whip Satan and drive him back! We also baptized seventeen children. Surely, the Lord is good! God bless the Advocate. J. O. WINBURN.

If you have not received the Argo Red Salmon Cook Book, ask your grocer or send a postal to advertising department, Alaska Packers Association, San Francisco, Cal.

GOOD WORK AT EROS, LA.

Mr. Editor: After having spent fourteen years in south Louisiana, as pastor, nine of which were spent in Crowley District, at our last Conference Bishop Ward said, "come up higher," and put me at Eros, north Louisiana, in the hills of Monroe District.

Eros has a population of 1,500, situated on the Tremont and Gulf Railroad. The Tremont Lumber Company here has a modern saw mill, which employs, I understand, 300 or 400 men. There is a bank and high school, a newspaper, two or three good hotels, four fraternal orders, several good mercantile firms, two churches, Baptist and Methodist, and a new parsonage. We have ceiled and painted, and furnished the parsonage at a cost of nearly $[illegible] and have canvas and paper for two rooms; have raised $50 for missions and received [illegible] into the church.

We have just closed a good meeting at which scores were deeply convicted, some were reclaimed and several converted. A young men's Bible class was organized, efforts are being made to secure a Y. M. C. A., and our church greatly revived. Three hundred people were present Sunday night. Brother Albert S. Lutz of New Orleans did the preaching and captured the town and held it to the close.

We have a fine W. H. M. Society, prayer meeting, Sunday School, and literature to organize an Epworth League.

Everybody thinks our Presiding Elder, Rev. J. E. Densen, is "the top notch." J. J. KELLY.

NEURALGIA

is an affliction of the nerves and therefore yields readily to the soothing influence of Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills. They are absolutely harmless, and drive out the pain by relieving the irritated condition of the nerves. Sold by druggists. 25 doses 25 cents. Never sold in bulk.

MOXINE

Cures LAGRIPPE and Colds.

GREAT REVIVALS IN CORINTH DISTRICT.

Dear Dr. Boswell: I have never known such revivals in the history of the Corinth District as the Lord is sending upon his preachers and people this year. I will not undertake at this time to write about all of the great meetings that have already been held in this part of the country in several of the pastoral charges, but make only a few references to our great union revival held in Saltillo, Miss.

We counted 155 conversions; how many more there were the last great day will reveal. Many testified that it was the greatest revival ever held in Lee County. Of course there were scores of additions to the different churches.

Brother C. W. Cummings is our pastor at Saltillo. His whole soul is in the salvation of his people. He is full of the Spirit, and it is a pleasure to hold a revival with him. The talented and consecrated leader in the great revival movement that is now on in our district is Rev. Ben P. Jaco, our presiding elder. He knows how to bring things to pass. He is honored and loved by preachers and people for his work's sake. Bishop Hendrix certainly gave us the man the district needed. His plans are the result of sober thought, with an eye single to the glory of God in the salvation of the people and the spiritual and material development of the Church. The plan is, with a good gospel tent, and preachers and people with a true spirit of loyalty to follow wise leadership, such as we have in Brother Jaco, to evangelize the district. I am not overestimating the outlook when I say, candidly, the prospects are fair now for the salvation of thousands of souls between this and Conference. The time has come for the Lord to revive his work throughout the Church. Blessed be God for the gift of his Son, who is everything to me.

The 10th of July I begin a camp meeting with Brother Sweeney and his people at Denham Springs, La. After that shall resume our revival campaign in Corinth District. The evangelistic tent method, in connection with the pastors, under the direction of presiding elders, with the baptism of the Spirit, is the greatest modern way of reaching the masses.

W. D. BASS.

Corinth, Miss.

THE BEST MADE.

Angell's Cough and Whooping Cough Syrup

For Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Coughs, Colds and Throat Trouble.
CONTAINS NO OPIUM OR MORPHINE,
All Druggists, Price 25 and 50 Cents.

A GOOD PIANO,
PIANO PLAYER or PLAYER PIANO, see the
Grunewald's
Before You Buy.
Agents for the Latest Improved and best Instruments on the Market.

METHODIST BENEVOLENT ASSOCIATION.

The Connectional Mutual Benefit Brotherhood of Southern Methodism.
1. Membership composed of ministers and laymen of the Southern Methodist Church. 2. Benefit payable at death, or Living Benefit on becoming disabled. 3. Over $[illegible] paid beneficiaries to date. If under fifty and in good health, write for full information.
METHODIST BENEVOLENT ASSOCIATION, Care Methodist Publishing House, Nashville, Tenn.

THE BLACKSTONE SCHOOL FOR GIRLS, BLACKSTONE, VA.
JAMES CANNON, JR., M. A., Principal
has since 1894 given "Thorough Instruction Under Positively Christian Influences at the Lowest Possible Cost."
RESULT: It is to-day with its faculty of [illegible], a student body of [illegible], and a plant worth $125,000.
The Leading Training School For Girls in Virginia.
$150 pays all charges for the year, including table board, and tuition in all subjects except music and elocution. Send for catalogue and application blank.

W. H. BYRNE, Pres. JOHN T. GIBBONS, Vice-Pres. P. E. BURKE, Sec'y.

Capital $200,000.00
Assets 479,560.90

HIBERNIA INSURANCE CO.,
No. 305 Camp Street,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.

LOSSES PROMPTLY PAID.

YOUR SUMMER VACATION
IS NEAR AT HAND
THE
Southern SOUTHERN SUNSET ROUTE PACIFIC Pacific
WILL HAVE MANY ATTRACTIVE ROUTES TO OFFER BY RAIL OR WATER
To CALIFORNIA
GO ONE WAY---- RETURN ANOTHER THROUGH THE MOST BEAUTIFUL SCENERY IN THE WORLD
To NEW YORK
ON ONE OF OUR MAGNIFICENT STEAMSHIPS --- FIVE BIG BOATS
"CREOLE," "MOMUS," "ANTILLES," "PROTEUS," "COMUS."
ASK YOUR AGENT FOR LITERATURE, OR WRITE
G. E. GUEDRY, Div. Pass. Agt. F. E. BATTURS, Gen. Pass. Agt.
LAKE CHARLES NEW ORLEANS

Epworth League

By Rev. H. Whitehead.

PRAYER-MEETING TOPIC.

July 19. The Passing of Doubt; The Illuminated Life. John i, 45-51; xx, 24-29.

The conflict of doubt has tried many men's souls. The great questions have arisen, and for the moment the heavens have seemed dark above them. Sometimes it seems as if there might have been such a moment in the mind of the Christ as he hung on the cross and all was dark about him, and there broke from his agonized heart the cry, "My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?" In almost every life there is a time when the great questions are settled, when you ask yourself what you know, what you believe, and why you believe. There has come to many a sin-laden soul, anxious for relief, doubt as to whether there was any help. When men have told of the Christ, the words have seemed meaningless, and there has been no hope. We study two instances of such doubt from the Bible.

1. Nathaniel.

He was a devout Jew, looking for the coming of the Messiah. While Jesus was calling disciples, Philip came to Nathaniel with the announcement that they had found the Christ. He received this statement with the same spirit of doubt that would have been in one of us had we been there. In addition to the fact that anyone making such claims must prove himself, there was a doubt because Jesus was from Nazareth. When Nathaniel responded to the invitation of Philip to "come and see," the Master read his heart, and commended its purity. In answer to the question of the astonished man, Jesus refers to some occurence in his garden that completely convinced him. It was not so much the miraculous knowledge of some hidden incident, as it was that Jesus read his heart. To-day the searching of the heart by the Spirit has convinced those who were proof against all the arguments that men might use.

2. Thomas.

Since the world began no man had conquered death. This wonderful man whom Thomas had followed was surrendered out of his life, when the cross and the grave gained their victory. It was an idle tale to Thomas when men told that they had seen the Master alive. He was not with the others when Jesus first came into their gathering, and their story seemed like the words of dreamers. Thomas doubted, as most of us would have done. But when he met the Lord face to face, and his own words were repeated to him, he cried out, "My Lord, and my God." He saw more than the mere physical Christ; there came to his soul the vision of his Redeemer. So to men since, who have not put their hands on the body of Jesus, has come a vision of the Christ. Men have doubted, and cried out in agony and fear, when over the heart has stolen a calm that has breathed peace and rest. Before the soul an unseen one has stood, and they have cried out in submission and worship. How, we cannot tell, but somehow the Lord has revealed himself, and without the evidence of the outward sense, we have been convinced, and doubt has fled.

3. The Remedy for Doubt.

From the lessons given above, as well as from the experience of men since, we would say that Jesus himself is the best remedy for doubt. Philip was wise when he said to Nathaniel, "Come and see." Thomas, after all, turned the right way when he insisted on seeing Jesus. If a man doubts, bring him into contact with the Christ in some way. Through the simple tale of personal experience, man have seen your meeting with your Lord and believed, when volumes of evidence would not have convinced. If your life is transformed by the indwelling Christ, some are going to see him and believe. Hosts of men have in the hour of doubt and despair turned their eyes to the darkness, with a cry for help, and somehow, in the secret of the soul, the light of an approaching Christ has broken upon them, and they have found peace. The heart that really wants to know the Christ and honestly seeks will always find the Master, no matter how deep the doubt or dark the ways. If the shadows ever come over your soul, O child of the King, trouble not yourself with the myriad hard questions that men raise, but go straight to the Master's feet and he will banish your doubts.

HOW'S THIS?

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligations made by his firm.

WALDING, KINNAN & MARVIN,
Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, Ohio.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Testimonials sent free. Price, 75c. per bottle. Sold by all Druggists.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

PLEASANT HILL, MISS.

Dear Dr. Boswell: We have closed a very successful meeting at Pleasant Hill. We began our meeting the fourth Thursday in June and continued up till Friday night. Brother W. R. Williams, of Cockrum, did the preaching with the exception of one sermon by the pastor. Brother Williams' preaching was of the highest order, and made a deep impression on our town. The spirituality of our church was increased four-fold. The conversation on the streets and in the homes are about the meeting. People who have never been known for spirituality are very much impressed with the importance of living a godly life. Brother Williams' sermons were strong presentations of Christian truths. They were spiritual and soul-searching. He dwelt upon the importance of an entire surrender to Christ and of personal consecration.

At the close of the meeting there was a unanimous request for Brother Williams to stay longer, but he was compelled to leave and a unanimous request was made that he come back later on. An arrangement was reached, and Brother Williams will be with us again the second week in September.

Brethren, pray for us.

C. W. BALEY, P. C.

MOXINE CHILL TONIC
Only Tonic—one bottle—one cure.

FITS St. Vitus' Dance and Nervous diseases permanently cured by Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. Send for FREE $2.00 trial bottle and treatise. Dr. R. H. Kline, Ltd., 931 Arch St., Philadelphia, Pa.

WANTED.

Refined Young Ladies as Pupil Nurses,

GULF COAST HEALTH RESORT,
Biloxi, Miss.

HENDERSONVILLE, N. C.

"Pine Grove Lodge" will be open for guests after June 1. Delightful location; special rates for June.
Address, Mrs. E. C. Bedell.

MOXINE
Cures LAGRIPPE and Colds.

The most famous Coffee
in America is New Orleans Coffee Roasted and Blended according to the Creole-French Formula
You get it when you buy
LUZIANNE COFFEE
A COFFEE OF SUPERB QUALITY-
DOUBLE STRENGTH-EXQUISITE BLEND-LOW PRICE
25¢ 1 LB CAN
SOLD EVERYWHERE
THE REILY-TAYLOR COMPANY,
NEW ORLEANS, U.S.A.
LUZIANNE COFFEE

Pine-Brook Dairy Co., Ltd.
ALL OUR COWS TUBERCULINE TESTED.
Milk and Cream Delivered Morning and Evening.
COR. ST. CHARLES & WASHINGTON AVES. Phone 1514 Uptown.

THE AMERICAN PAINT WORKS,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.,
MANUFACTURES EVERYTHING IN PAINTS,
Guaranteed Strictly Pure
The Climatic Prepared Paints, Perfecto White and
SOLD SUBJECT TO A CHEMICAL ANALYSIS.
DIRECTORS:
Thos. S. Witherspoon, President. Francis Martin, Vice President.
R. B. Parker, John McCloskey, Geo. A. Hero.
PHONE, MAIN 915. Special Attention to Mail Orders.

SCROFULINE
The Wonderful Healer
Unsurpassed for tetter, ezcema, skin and scalp troubles, old sores, ulcers and piles, any nature or duration. Goes to the very seat of the trouble, kills the germs and extracts all foreign matter. Sold under a positive guarantee, 25c, 50c and $1.00 per jar. Mail orders promptly filled. Stamps accepted. Liberal sample upon request. Address,
THE SCROFULINE COMPANY, Waco, Texas.
SOLE OWNERS AND MANUFACTURERS.

Louisiana Railway and Navigation Company.
PASSENGER SERVICE.
Daily Passenger Trains between Shreveport and New Orleans. Daily Passenger Trains between Shreveport and Winnfield.
FREIGHT SERVICE.
Exceptional good time on carload traffic. Special attention given less than carload shipments all of which moves in
DAILY THROUGH PACKAGE CARS.
CLARENCE ELLERBE, Assistant to President.
H. B. HELM, General Superintendent.
E. C. D. MARSHALL, General Freight & Passenger Agent.
Shreveport, La.

Healthy Happy Babies

Mother, you know the summer will be a trying time for your teething baby—a period of anxiety and sleepless nights for you unless you take the precaution to keep baby's system in condition to make teething easy.

Teethina (Teething Powders)

The prescription of Dr. C. J. Moffett, graduate of Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia; contains elements recommended by the most advanced medical science to remove the cause of disease and keep the system in condition to make teething easy. For [illegible] years the standard remedy throughout the South during the trying period of teething, colic, hives, etc., in children.

In nine out of ten cases of cholera infantum that prove fatal from ordinary neglect and subsequent treatment, the timely use of Teethina would have saved the child.

At All Druggists, 25 Cents

Or from

Dr. C. J. Moffett Medicine Co., St. Louis, Mo.

Write for our free "Mother's Booklet."

HIS CHANCE IS GONE
YOUR CHANCE IS HERE

The question is, are you qualified to hold a responsible position? Have you had a thorough commercial training? Bankers, Merchants and Manufacturers want you if you are competent. Now is Your Chance. Two roads are open to young people. One requires no training and leads to failure. The other requires training and leads to success. We prepare young men and women and start them on the road to success by securing them high-salaried positions. Fine climate, board cheap. Write for illustrated catalog and further information.

HATTIESBURG BUSINESS COLLEGE, HATTIESBURG, MISS.

BLYMYER CHURCH BELLS. [illegible]
Write to Cincinnati Bell Foundry Co., Cincinnati, O.

BELLS.
Steel Alloy Church and School Bells. Send for Catalogue. The C. S. BELL CO., Hillsboro, O.

RANDOLPH-MACON ACADEMY
For Boys and Young Men
Fits for college, university or business. Work endorsed by over 30 colleges and universities. Beautiful and healthful location. Ample athletic grounds; gymnasium. Terms only $230. No extras. For catalogue, address E. SUMTER SMITH, Principal, Bedford City, Va.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL
The Double Track Route.

26 Hours to Chicago
21 Hours to St. Louis
22 Hours to Louisville
26 Hours to Cincinnati

Through Sleeping Cars to above points. Dining Cars, Library Cars, Chair Cars and Coaches.
Full Particulars at
City Ticket Office,
141 ST. CHARLES STREET.
Phone Main 3618.

MOXINE
Cures LAGRIPPE and Colds.

A GREAT REVIVAL AT SALTILLO.

On June 14, 1908, Rev. W. D. Bass, our evangelist, opened fire on Satan and sin at Saltillo, Miss. He preached three times a day for eleven days and took the fort for Christ.

This was a great revival and a great victory, the different churches all coming as a solid army to the front. Every service was a feast. There were 185 conversions, and the people are rejoicing over the victory. About seventy were united with the churches here, and others will follow. This meeting will tell in eternity. Brother Bass is a great revivalist and is indeed the man for the place. He collected about $200 here and made a donation to our parsonage that we are soon to build. Dr. Stevenson is going to donate a beautiful lot for the parsonage. How good it is to have such big-hearted men among us!

We thank God and Brother Jaco for sending Brother Bass to us. Brother Jaco is a natural born leader and will bring his district to the front.

J. W. CUMMINGS, P. C.

TOPISAW CHARGE.

Dear Dr. Boswell: The revival season, as we call it, is drawing near, and we are expecting the Lord to do great things for us this year. To this end we are working and praying.

Our first protracted meeting will be at Sartinville, beginning Sunday, July 19. Rev. J. E. Williams, of Tylertown, will do the preaching. Brother Williams is a good man, and fine revivalist. We are looking for a great manifestation of God's power.

The camp meeting at Topisaw (Felder's Camp Ground) will begin on Friday, Aug. 7, and continue eight or ten days. We expect this to be the best camp meeting ever at this place.

Many of our people here are much more spiritual than they were one year ago, and with two prayer meetings weekly, with earnest prayer for the Lord's presence and power with us and upon all ministers and workers who may come, we have a right to expect a great meeting. All ministers are invited to the camp meeting. I ask all the ministers of the Brookhaven District to accept this as a personal invitation to each one to attend.

The last of the revivals will be at Holmesville, beginning Aug. 26 or 27, conducted by Rev. D. E. Kelly, of Bogue Chitto. Of course, that means a revival, for such godly men as Brother Kelly always bring a revival with them. We have a fine people at Holmesville, and with the fire still burning in the hearts of the people from the revival last year conducted by Brother J. E. Williams, we could not expect the meeting to be anything but a success. Brethren pray for us.

J. B. KING, P. C.

Argo Red Salmon. A food of quality.

FROM JENA, LA.

Dear Dr. Boswell: We have just closed a meeting at Bela, which started Saturday, June 20, and closed the night of the 27th. My presiding elder, N. E. Joyner, preached the first two sermons, and I continued until Tuesday, when Brother G. D. Purcell came to my assistance.

We had one of the best meetings that has been held at that place for six years. We had nine accessions on profession of faith, baptized ten babes and children, and organized a prayer meeting. One convert went to the Baptist church, which made ten who joined the church. We had several conversions, some of which were the brightest I ever saw.

Brother Purcell is a plain, practical gospel preacher; is splendid help, and preaches the truth as it is found in Christ Jesus. Any preacher will do well to get him in their meetings. We have organized three Sunday schools this year. The work would have been in a better condition could I have done more visiting; but being in school, I had more than I could attend to. We have purchased a new organ for Eden church at a cost of $60. We are planning for more meetings. I have a very difficult work trying to get my people to read. Am praying and looking to the Lord for a gracious outpouring of his Spirit. Pray for me.

Your brother in Christ,

H. W. CUDD.

BLOOD POISONING POSITIVELY CURED
Hereditary, primary, secondary and tertiary. Scrofula, Eczema, Blood and Skin Disease. If you have exhausted old-time methods, and want to get well, write me in fullest confidence for proof of cures. Take my treatment and get well. A. A. BROWER, M. D.
San Antonia, Tex.

NEW PITTSBORO CHARGE.

Dear Dr. Boswell: Feeling that a report from this new and fast-growing field would be of interest, I will give you some facts.

The Pittsboro Charge, as of old, embracing six or eight appointments, and belonging to Oxford District, is now in the Aberdeen District. At the last Annual Conference it was divided into two charges of four churches each—Pittsboro Circuit and Bounds Mission. The former charge I serve, embracing Pittsboro, Big Creek, Calhoun City and Derma, the last two being new and fast-growing towns on the new railroad from Okolona, via Houston, to Calhoun City, a distance of thirty-eight miles, opening up a fine section of beautiful country that is new and undeveloped, with a wealth of pine timber and productive lands.

This section is inhabited with a good class of energetic and enterprising people, who seem to have plenty of money, working almost day and night, and are literally building a city out here in the woods. Calhoun City is one of the best towns in the State for its age, a little over two years, with a population of several hundred people.

I have large congregations and live Sunday Schools at each appointment. We have organized four W. H. M. Societies that are doing good work. I am planning to build two new churches and a parsonage, all of which are badly needed, there being no houses of worship at either Calhoun City or Derma. We have good lots secured, and are putting material on the ground at the City. We are very much in need of more money, and contributions are in order, which will be thankfully received and duly credited.

Church buildings were never more needed anywhere, the "big pasture" (Oklahoma) not excepted, and if we don't get them soon we'll suffer loss.

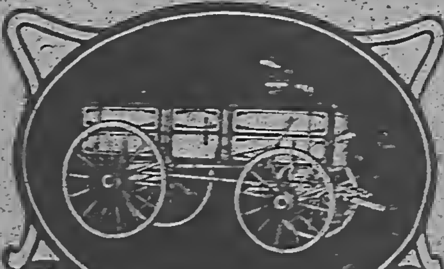
Doctor, you have acquaintances in this field who remember you kindly. I enjoy the "Advocate" and use every opportunity for its circulation.

W. A. BOWLIN, P. C.

Calhoun City, Miss.

MOXINE CHILL TONIC
Only Tonic—one bottle—one cure.

One of the greatest of American humorists, Joel Chandler Harris, is dead. "Uncle Remus" and his "Brer Rabbit" stories will have a permanent place in the annals of American humor.



LONG SERVICE
FARM WAGONS

THE wagon that breaks down and has to go to the repair shop every once in a while is not a good wagon to buy.

Such a wagon is a poor one because it is poorly constructed and [illegible] is made from poor and improperly seasoned material. It is dear at any price.

In the building of Weber and Columbus wagons there is always a rigid observance of these four indispensable requisites:

1. Proper wood materials,
2. Thorough seasoning,
3. Superior ironing,
4. The best of skilled workmanship.

These are the things which have built up the excellent reputation everywhere enjoyed by Weber and Columbus Wagons.

The New Bettendorf Wagon has steel gears which make it a wagon for any climate, and practically unbreakable.

Strength and durability should be first considerations when you buy a wagon. The Weber, Columbus and New Bettendorf wagons can be relied upon for long, satisfactory service. They are built to haul heavy loads and to stand the rough usage to which farm wagons are always subjected.

These wagons are in the front rank of high grade wagons.

With all their strength and durability, these wagons they are not made excessively heavy. They are noted for their light running qualities.

International local agents will be glad to show you these superior wagons and furnish catalogs with all desired information. Call and take the matter up with them or write direct to the home office.

International Harvester Company of America, Chicago, U. S. A.
(Incorporated)

HEISKELL'S OINTMENT
is the one infallible remedy for all skin diseases. Relief is instant. The cure quick and permanent. It quickly cures the worst case of
ECZEMA
Use Heiskell's Medicated Soap for bathing the affected parts. Heiskell's Blood and Liver Pills [illegible]
Johnston, Holloway & Co.
531 Commerce Street,
Phila.

Drives 'Em Out Of House To Die

Get a box of
Stearns' Electric RAT and ROACH Paste
If you are troubled with rats or mice. It is sure death, driving them out of the house to die. Easy to use and gives quick and sure results. Sold for 30 years, and never yet failed to kill off rats and mice. Also for cockroaches, water-bugs and other vermin. 2 oz. box, 25c; 16 oz. box, $1.00. Sold at druggists and general stores everywhere, or sent direct prepaid on receipt of price.
STEARNS' ELECTRIC PASTE CO. Buffalo, N.Y., U.S.A.

MOXINE CHILL TONIC
Only Tonic—one bottle—one cure.

NEW ORLEANS
CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE

Millsaps College Library.

REV. JOHN W. BOSWELL, Editor.
REV. H. WHITEHEAD, Ass't Editor.
NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, JULY 23, 1908.
CHAS. O. CHALMERS, Publisher,
Office, 512 Camp St., New Orleans.
VOL. 55—No. 29.
"PROVE ALL THINGS; HOLD FAST THAT WHICH IS GOOD."
WHOLE No. 5409.

Glances at the World.

Women who learn to swim greatly lessen their chances of being drowned, and all who have an opportunity should acquire the art, but we do not think it becoming in them to learn for the sake of putting themselves on exhibition. It is harmful to womanly instincts. In short, we think it is vulgar. Still we are of the opinion that the young woman who last week swam from Alton, Ill., to St. Louis, a distance of twenty-six miles, without stopping, was far less subject to criticism than the six girls from St. Louis who are traveling over the country and posing as baseball players. These girls were in one of our inland towns, a few days since and engaged in a game with the local team, made up, of course, of young men. How these girls were dressed we do not know, but from the manner in which one of the town papers—more candid than many—criticised them, we judge their garb attracted more attention than their playing. Their dress, perhaps, was the chief attraction, for, it is said, they "put up" a very poor game. The performance, so far as the girls were concerned, was characterized as disgusting. We dare say it was. And, strange to say, the girls' baseball game drew to the grounds the largest crowd of the season. The sight-seers expected to see a sight, and were not disappointed. Why will sensible people thus give way to curiosity?

* * *

Hon. Seaborn Wright was the leader in the movement that gave the State of Georgia her present prohibition law. His position in the legislature was pre-eminent. Because of this he has attracted the attention of the party prohibitionists who have recently been putting him forward as a candidate on the National Prohibition ticket for the presidency. He is a Democrat, and proposes to continue his fight for prohibition inside the Democratic Party. In an interview, he is reported as having said "It is the fear of 'liquor domination' in the Democratic Party in the South. If I should go out of the Democratic Party to accept the nomination for president, and carry with me any considerable number of Southern Democrats, it would turn the dominant Democratic Party in the South over to the liquor element in the Party, resulting in the repeal of the prohibition legislation secured already in the South through the Democratic Party. The one overshadowing question before the American people to-day is a clean, intelligent citizenship. If the American saloons are not destroyed, they will eventually destroy this Republic through the corruption of the people, especially in our great cities. The temperance question to-day is not so much the right of the individual to drink as the right of the dominant liquor interest to destroy the citizenship upon which this Republic is bottomed." That is a very practical view of the question.

* * *

We have never made a study of Socialism—that form of Socialism that strikes at good government. We have thought it a waste of time. We are satisfied that it has its roots in depravity. We so judge by looking at the men who adopt its principles. A system that can produce and put forth such men as Debs as leaders—going so far as to nominate them for the Presidency of the United States—is bound to be rotten at the core. These men, banded together and dignifying their clan by the name of Party, have had the hardihood to nominate a man for the Presidency who is now in prison, serving a twenty-five year sentence for shooting a citizen of Goldfield, Nevada. This action on the part of the Socialists looks like an effort to stamp contempt on the State or make a martyr of the nominee. Possibly both objects are in view. This, together with the fact that this man was named as the "standard-bearer" of the party "emphasizes the practical socialist opposition to law and order," and, as the Inter-Ocean says, "in order to make their meaning clearer, the selection of the nominee was accompanied by a eulogy of his crime," saying, "It was one any man should be proud of." Again we declare all our people are not civilized.

* * *

The desire to lessen the sufferings of a fellow-being, no matter how great a criminal, is natural among civilized and Christian people. But there is sometimes an unnecessary amount of what is commonly called sympathy (though the word is often misapplied) manifested towards criminals who deserve all the punishment inflicted. Justice and the safety of society demand punishment even to the penalty of death. Of late, many people in Louisiana have been exercised on the subject. A little boy was kidnaped and murdered. Several persons were indicted, tried by a jury and sentenced to life imprisonment. Not a few felt that justice had miscarried. They believed the criminals should have been sentenced to death. Later two other persons, a man and woman, brother and sister, were convicted for the same offense and sentenced to death. They were no more guilty than the first batch, and again not a few felt that justice had miscarried, in that the sentence imposed was too severe. In this case strong efforts have been made to commute the sentence, not so much out of sympathy for the individuals as to make their punishment equal to those who actually committed the murder. If the first batch tried and found guilty were worthy of punishment only to the extent of life imprisonment—which in Louisiana, it is understood, means fifteen years, even though the prisoners live—it is keenly felt that the young man and woman charged with conspiracy are not worthy of death, and that their sentence should be commuted. This desire for commutation is not the result of over-sympathy, but is a desire to see equal justice meted out to fellow criminals.

* * *

The Carrollton (Miss.) Conservative, always sensible, has this to say about education in Mississippi: "Prominent educators from all over the State have been at the university this week, holding what they term a great educational rally—a conference in the interest of the schools of Mississippi. The State Superintendent of Education, the heads of all the State colleges and of other colleges, were there to participate in the discussions of matters that will go to the improvement of the art of teaching. The School Improvement Association was also in session at the same time. This is one of the most important branches of the educational work. There are hundreds of schoolhouses in the State that are not fit to herd goats in, let alone make homes for the boys and girls—the future men and women of the country. Ninety-nine of every one hundred schoolhouses in Mississippi need improvements. They need better buildings, better lights, better trustees, better heating facilities, better equipment, better libraries, more cheerful surroundings, and last, but by no means least, better teachers than many of them have." That is a little hard on the educational facilities of Mississippi, notwithstanding there are many very fine high schools in the State and that it owns and boasts of a few of the best agricultural, mechanical and industrial schools in the country. We suppose, though, the Conservative has in mind only the rural district schools which doubtless need more attention. Maybe the work of the last legislature and of the School Improvement Association will result in good. Already five counties have located agricultural schools in accordance with the act of the last legislature, and that form of education will take a new start. If we are not mistaken, education in Mississippi will be greatly stimulated.

Christian Advocate.

Published for the Louisiana, Mississippi and North Mississippi Conferences, Methodist Episcopal Church, South.

DIRECTIONS.

Correspondents will please direct all communications intended for the Editor to 512 Camp St., New Orleans, La. Communications intended for the Business Department should be addressed to the Manager of the New Orleans Christian Advocate. Write with ink, and only on one side of the paper. No attention will be paid to rolled manuscripts.

The Printed Label on a paper shows the date to which a subscription is paid. It is as good as a written receipt. When renewal is made, if the date is not moved forward after two weeks, notify us, and we will make it right. Papers will be continued unless subscribers order otherwise.

For Advertising Rates Apply to

Religious Press Advertising Syndicate,

JACOBS & CO., CLINTON, S. C.

Home Office, Clinton, S. C., who have charge of the advertising of this paper.

ADVERTISING REPRESENTATIVES.

J. F. Jacobs, J. F. Jacobs, Home Office, Clinton, S. C.; R. J. Ritter, 415 W. St. Catherine St., Louisville, Ky.; Thornwell Jacobs, 811 Stahlman Bldg., Nashville, Tenn.; C. C. Little, 185 Mutual Bldg., Richmond, Va.; D. J. Carter, 112 LaSalle St., Chicago, Ill.; Miss M. R. Middleton, 150 Nassau St., New York, N. Y.; Barton E. Buckman, 112 LaSalle St., Chicago, Ill.; J. H. Rich, Birmingham, Ala.; E. J. Barrett, New Orleans, La.; J. B. Keough, Atlanta, Ga.; J. B. Gentry, Clinton, S. C.; H. B. Ewbank, Houston, Texas; W. L. Boggs, Greensboro, N. C.; F. A. Wynne, corner Akard and Elm Sts., Dallas, Tex.

THE "ORIGINAL SIN" PROBLEM NOT YET SOLVED.

BY REV. D. M. GEDDIE.

No. 2.

Dr. Manch, in his interpretation and application of the seventh and eighth chapters of Romans, makes a mistake similar to the one made in his use of the first chapter. In these chapters the Apostle was not discussing the moral conditions that Adam's sin brought upon the race. He had in mind an entirely different question. In the sixth chapter he treats the subject of whether a Christian should or should not live in sin. The seventh chapter is a continuation of this same thought, with a slight variation of treatment. He informs us that he is speaking to those who know the law, and who are under the law. But infants do not know the law; neither are they under the law. No law, human or divine, is binding on them. "Where no law is, there is no transgression; sin is not imputed when there is no law; the strength of sin is the law. Without the law sin is dead; sin is the transgression of the law." Now, if these utterances of St. John and St. Paul be true—one of them being found in the fifth chapter of Romans, where the "original sin" problem is under treatment, and one in the seventh chapter—and the Apostle is discussing the moral condition of infants, then we must conclude that they are in a state of innocence. No other conclusion is left us without violating every known rule of logic. We cannot predicate of infants that when they would do good evil is present with them, so that "the good" they "would" do they "do not," but "the evil that" they "would not" they "do;" or that they "delight in the law of God after the inward man," but see another law in "their" members warring against the law of "their" minds and bringing "them" into captivity to the law of sin, which is in "their members."

But it is contended that this law of sin in germinal form is in the members of the infant, and as soon as self-consciousness is sufficiently developed it will manifest itself in overt, voluntary acts of sin. The disease is there by heredity, and the child must follow the bent of its nature and become a practical sinner.

But before laying this down as a categorical conclusion, drawn from the plain teachings of the holy Bible, there are two thoughts that demand serious and prayerful consideration. The first is that by no writer of the New Testament are the [illegible] characteristic lusts, passions, tempers and dispositions of infantile nature mentioned. Wherever the tempers and dispositions of the human heart are spoken of it is in relation to adults, and the only way that we can connect them with infantile life is by gratuitous transference of them from adult life. Now, is that a straightforward, honest process of reasoning? If so, we can give to infantile nature any character and coloring that we may choose. But, [illegible] this, it seems to the writer that it should be shown from the plain teaching of the written Word of God, or from the known and admitted facts of human existence, that the adult and the infant both belong in the same mental and moral category, and that what is characteristic of the one is also characteristic of the other. That every moral aptitude or bias in the practical life of the adult is the development of a germinally inherent trait of the moral nature of the infant. But the very reverse of this in most respects seems to be true. The Bible, experience, observation, history, literature, philosophy, science and government are positively [illegible] against such an idea. They are placed in every department of thought and activity in two separate classes, so that many things morally true of the one are untrue of the other, and many elements of character are found in the adult that do not exist, even seminally, in the moral nature of the infant. Hence the logic that would transfer the moral condition of adults to infants is mere juggling with imaginary phenomena, and not categorical reasoning.

The second thought is that the transmitted disease of Adam's sin is not the only source of sin and corruption. It is that which comes out of the heart that defiles the man, but everything that comes out of the heart is not the development of an inborn trait or quality of the heart. Temptations to wrong enter the heart from the world and the devil, with all the motive and [illegible] that one moral agent can exert upon another. The purpose to betray his Lord was begotten in the heart of Judas Iscariot by the devil. "The devil having now put into the heart of Judas Iscariot, the son of Simon, to betray him," he went out under cover of darkness and committed one of the blackest crimes in the moral history of the race.

Now, in the light of these considerations, let us try to find out what St. Paul means by "the [illegible] of men," the law of sin, the carnal mind, and "the flesh." In Colossians iii. 5, we read: "Mortify therefore your members which are upon the earth; fornication, uncleanness, inordinate affection, evil concupiscence, and covetousness, which is idolatry." Many adults there are who have such members, but by what authority or by what process of logic can we predicate [illegible] fornication, uncleanness, inordinate affection, evil concupiscence and covetousness, which is idolatry, as the members of the moral nature of infants? Certainly we cannot [illegible] from the fact of Adam's sin, for we have not the least Bible evidence that he was ever guilty of these. [illegible] his guilt was not transmitted [illegible] It was the [illegible] was visited upon his posterity [illegible] Further that this we have [illegible] human guilt [illegible] may be transmitted [illegible] father [illegible]

In this seventh chapter of [illegible] Paul uses these same [illegible] man. Infants have [illegible] man? Character is [illegible] sands of men have the [illegible] describes; but if this is the [illegible] The infant, it is put off with its unholy passions and [illegible] lusts, before we behold its beautiful form, and listen to its innocent prattling, musical voice, and feel the warm flushes of its bewitching, heaven-drawing influence in our homes.

In the fifth chapter of Ephesians the Apostle says: "Now the works of the flesh are manifest, which are these, adultery, fornication, uncleanness, lasciviousness, idolatry, witchcraft, hatred, variance, emulations, wrath, strife, seditions, heresies, envyings, murders, drunkenness, revellings, and such like." Manifestations of some, if not all, of these are seen in the lives of men, but not in the lives of frolicing boys and girls in Christian homes and in Christian communities. It is only those whose lives are brought under the influence of Satanic suggestions and godless men who ever manifest such passions as dominant and ruling forces in their lives, so that when they would do good evil is present with them, and the good they would do they "do not," but "the evil" that they "would not" they "do." If Jesus Christ was the true Light that lighteth every man that cometh into the world; if every male that openeth the womb shall be called holy unto the Lord; if Christ said, "Suffer the little children to come unto me, and forbid them not, for of such is the kingdom of God"; if Samuel at 10 or 12 years of age could become God's prophet and [illegible] ministering servant in holy things, and John the Baptist was filled with the Holy Ghost from his mother's womb, we are forced to believe that there is as strong a tendency in the infant nature to good as there is to evil.

What, then, is Paul talking about in the seventh chapter of Romans? Simply and plainly he was describing the life of those Jews who, in their pretentious holiness, boasted that they were saved by obedience to the law given them by Moses, and denied their need of Christ to save them. He there [illegible] to their guilty hearts the [illegible] truth that the law offers no pardon to sinners, and no power to overcome the moral impotence that their sins produce. That in rejecting Christ they rejected their only means of recovery from sin, and the only power that could enable them to live righteous lives. And the [illegible] of the doctrine of justification by faith, not [illegible] encouraging men to continue in sin that grace may abound, and to do evil that good may come, it was their only hope of [illegible] dead to sin and alive to God. [illegible] the law could do for them was to show them that they were sinners, helpless, hopeless, and that [illegible] could save them through the sacrificial [illegible] of the "Lamb of God that taketh away the sin of the world."

The above is the only interpretation and application that can be given of this seventh chapter of Romans that will be found [illegible] consistent with all the facts involved. Let any one who [illegible] another [illegible] exposition, and he will find himself [illegible] however so thickly and strongly [illegible] that the strength of no [illegible] skill can [illegible] disentangle and liberate his feet.

Vaiden, Miss.

MILLSAPS COLLEGE.

BY REV. W. W. [illegible]

The Seventeenth Session of Millsaps College [illegible] the best in the history of that institution. [illegible] accumulating years its [illegible] broad-[illegible] becoming more and more thorough. [illegible] was no small praise for Dean [illegible] have [illegible] a college that he [illegible] and oc-[illegible] know that the work done in Millsaps [illegible] thorough as that done in any other [illegible] in the South.

With its increased endowment, the Board of [illegible] enabled to extend the [illegible] its [illegible] employ and retain the best of instructors and add to its general equipment. [illegible] the last meeting of the Board the salary of each professor was given a substantial and much-needed increase, one new chair was added to the Faculty, and better equipment was provided for the departments.

With its growing alumni, now numbering more than three hundred and fifty, there is going out into the various trades and professions of the State more enthusiastic friends of the College, who, apart from Church loyalty, become its most active advocates. The College is too young as yet to have created a state-wide Millsaps College spirit among its old students. Its seventeen years have not given time for its graduates to have entered in any appreciable numbers the different walks of life and to have demonstrated [illegible] its superior training. That comes only with the lapse of time. Millsaps' first generation has just entered upon the responsibilities of life. That they will make good their early achievements clearly promise. Happy the school whose multiplied years, growing into generations, enable [illegible] a large constituency to say of her, with pride, "my alma mater." This is one of a college's most valuable assets. It is won only by a college's permanent foundation, lofty ideals, efficient instruction and wise administration. These Millsaps has, and it awaits but the sure accretion of the years to win that state-wide college spirit born of a large and honorable alumni.

Its commencements have always been notable occasions. This is a time for a gathering of the clans, and they come. From the four quarters they come—fond parents to see their sons contest for its honors and receive its awards; the old boys again to sit within its walls and to renew their sacred comradeships; loving preachers and loyal laymen whose generous gifts have helped to make the College and the occasion, and perhaps to arrange for the entrance of a son; admiring friends from the city of Jackson, for Jackson is proud of the school, that they all may enjoy its feast of eloquence and flow of soul. Young men in their best suits, with their best girls; young women wearing their daintiest gowns and happiest smiles; old men whose accumulated years have not effaced the memory of youthhood's hopes and joys—all enter that they may contribute to their own and the school's pleasure. A Millsaps commencement is worth going far to see. The President has always been happy in the selection of commencement orators. Never was he more happy than in the choice of Dr. W. F. Tillett, whose baccalaureate address on "Ethics and Altruism" was one of the noblest ever delivered from the College rostrum.

Let us now take a candid and sincere view of what the College is and has and does. For some years I have been a member of its Board of Trust. I have taken the time and have had the opportunity to know. As a representative of the Church, guarding that for which the Church stands, I have watched with pride its growth, and heard with pleasure its praise voiced by men from great universities who knew its workings, for it is a college doing genuine college work. It allows nothing superficial to wear its seal. When a young man receives its diploma it means that he has done honest work, and is morally worthy, for which he is justly entitled to his degree. And this diploma is worth its full face value when he enters upon university work, or it stands for so much real training and equipment in the arena of life. It is the purpose of the Board of Trust and of the Faculty to give a thorough college education of which the Church, the parent and the student, as well as the College, may be justly proud. Along with this, it seeks to make of each student a genuine Christian. Every member of the Faculty is a positive Christian, who endeavors by all proper means to win the entire student body to an active Christian life. Very few young men have ever passed through its course and left its halls who have not given their life for service to God. May it ever be so!

[illegible] to bring in the largest possible revenue from the invested endowment, with never a loss of one

The Centenary College of Louisiana,
Shreveport, La.

For Announcement or other information

Address:
President W. L. WEBER,
Shreveport, La.

[illegible] There remains one question to be asked: What is the Church going to do for Millsaps College? [illegible] The South has very few first-class colleges. Why not make this the equal of any in America? To do this its endowment and equipment must be largely increased. [illegible]

[illegible] From every pulpit in Mississippi there should be spoken in the next four weeks the merits and advantages of Millsaps. Our Church should educate our young men. That is why we are in the College business. We have the equipment with which to do it. We can do it. If the nearly 350 Methodist pastors in the State, with our Church papers, will push a campaign for the College, instead of the 300 students we had last session, we will have 500 next.

Watervalley, Miss.

Y. M. C. A. AT MILLSAPS COLLEGE.

BY W. A. WELCH, PRESIDENT.

Last year was a most successful year in Association work here in many respects. The regular Friday evening and Sunday [illegible] services were conducted regularly throughout the session, and a splendid attendance was maintained. The boys conducted most of the meetings, but in addition to this there were a number of very interesting and inspiring messages delivered by outside men.

The Missionary Department did some very effective work. About fifty boys pursued the course in mission study, and out of this number nine have volunteered for the foreign field. The philanthropist may contribute his thousands for the support of missions, and well he may, and yet when we hear a man say, "Here am I, Lord, send me," we realize the true devotion such a one has for missions.

The Bible study phase of the Association work is decidedly the most important of all. More than one hundred boys were engaged in the work and pursued systematic courses in Biblical training. Courses were given in "The Life of Christ," "The Acts of the Apostles" and "Old Testament Characters." These courses were so arranged as to make daily study convenient, and quite a number observed the "morning watch" throughout the year.

Last Christmas ten delegates from Millsaps attended the Southwestern Students' Conference at Ruston, La., and received special training along lines of Association work. This was the largest representation sent up by any single institution, and great good has come from these men.

In the early spring a revival was conducted by Prof. Charles Lane, of Georgia. He did excellent service, but much of the success of the meeting was due to the services of personal workers. About thirty-five boys were converted and a number have since united with the different churches.

The Young Men's Christian Association is doing a great deal towards the development of Christian character, and is an element of vital importance in training men for Christian leadership; the great need felt in the churches today for lay workers will receive a great contribution from this source.

The need of an Association building is [illegible] felt by all, since the present quarters are confined to a single room, and much agitation has been carried on among the students to the effect that a campaign for a building should be begun. A $25,000 hall containing an auditorium, a library, reading and Bible study rooms, game rooms, a commodious gymnasium and a swimming pool connected with up-to-date bathrooms would certainly be an attractive place. Such a building would add much to making the Y. M. C. A. a commanding institution in our midst, and most assuredly such a building would be the greatest monument for good that our Christian people could erect.

It is hoped that next year will be the most eventful year the Association has ever had, and prospects are bright in that direction. Remember us and our work.

"MEN OF ISRAEL, HELP!"

For a nobler purpose is this cry made at this time than when its clarion notes echoed through the streets and alleys of Jerusalem and called everyone in the sound of it to united and enthusiastic action. As the purpose is nobler, the response ought to be the much more ready. The building of our Orphanage at Ruston must be stopped unless the Board of Trustees get immediate financial assistance. Further, we have [illegible] more orphans [illegible] The [illegible] the Board that [illegible] Conference next [illegible] We have [illegible] this year we [illegible] This past [illegible] expenses [illegible] this will [illegible]

Let every one who reads this appeal who has [illegible] Brother C. C. Weir [illegible] Ruston, La.

[illegible]

CAMP MEETING.

The [illegible] Creek Camp Meeting will open on the [illegible] and will continue ten [illegible] come and stay free of charge. [illegible] had for [illegible] We have [illegible] tents on the [illegible] plenty of fine water. [illegible] that God will [illegible] may be saved.

[illegible] E. [illegible], President.

CAMP MEETING.

The South Mississippi Holiness Camp Meeting [illegible] August 28, to [illegible] ten days. The leaders are Rev. J. S. [illegible] and R. A. [illegible] Rev. [illegible] leader.

Miss Z. [illegible], Sec'y.

[illegible], Miss.

HAVE YOU CHURCH MEMBERS IN LOS ANGELES?

The Church Federation of Los Angeles serves [illegible] all denominations [illegible] Church move to [illegible] their names and addresses [illegible] to which they belong. Address "Church Federation of Los Angeles, Cal." The [illegible] hands of the [illegible] the address [illegible] Strangers [illegible] multitudes.

NOTICE TO SUBSCRIBERS.

[illegible] this [illegible] and send us [illegible] arrearages on your [illegible] regular $2 [illegible] This [illegible] not apply [illegible]

ANSWERS TO SOME QUESTIONS.

[illegible] renewing [illegible] may end [illegible] carries you [illegible] and send this [illegible] $2, we will [illegible] subscription [illegible] now, and it [illegible] your remittance [illegible] clipped from [illegible]

KEEP COOL For Refrigerators and Gas Stoves go to United Hardward Co., Ltd.,
1005-1007 Canal Street, New Orleans.

GET SOLID PROTECTION AND INSURE WITH
LEON IRWIN & CO.
Fire and Casualty Insurance.
736 UNION STREET. PHONE, MAIN 585.

W. W. Carre Co., Ltd.
Manufacturer and Exporter of
LUMBER,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Phone Main [illegible]
ROOMS and BOARD
634 and 638 SOUTH STREET LAFAYETTE SQUARE
CORNER ST. CHARLES ST., NEW ORLEANS
UNLIMITED MEALS. ALVIN PORTER, Manager.

THE SEASHORE CAMP MEETING.

The thirty-seventh gathering on this famous campground was held July 8-15. The meeting was opened with a strong sermon by Dr. J. S. Frazer, presiding elder of the Mobile District. The presiding elders of the three districts chiefly interested in the meeting were all present, sharing in the responsibility and enjoyment of the occasion. The greater part of the preaching was done by Rev. M. Sharbrough, of the Mississippi Conference; Dr. Felix R. Hill and Rev. H. R. Singleton, of the Louisiana Conference; Rev. C. W. Rush and Rev. J. M. Roberts, of the Alabama Conference. Others who rendered most efficient service in the pulpit were Rev. W. B. Lewis, Rev. T. H. Dorsey, Rev. J. B. Tate and Rev. L. F. Foster. Others, both lay and clerical, gave valued help in the conduct of the prayer and altar services.

The preaching was direct and evangelical. There was a spirit of intense earnestness and a purpose to secure definite results. In point of interest, it was one of the best meetings ever held on this campground, certainly the best in many years. There were about one hundred professions of conversion, and over thirty applicants for church membership. While the converts came from localities as remote as Texas and Tennessee, the meeting was especially helpful to our work on the Mississippi coast. The experience meetings were equal to any I have ever attended, and the congregations particularly attentive. Many who have been in the church for years said that it was the best meeting they had ever seen.

The music under the direction of Prof. T. O. Adams, was the best I have ever heard at a campmeeting. Our standard hymnal was used exclusively, and it was clearly shown that a great revival may be had without the false emotionalism generated by the use of "ragtime" perversion of the service of song. One very successful minister informed this writer that he had not believed it possible to conduct a revival with the standard hymnbook until he had seen the work done at this meeting. An opportunity to point a moral: We owe it to the present generation to form a better taste in the service of song. The worthlessness of most collections of "ragtime" religious songs is proven by their ephemeral existence—No. 1 has to be supplemented speedily by Nos. 2 and 3, etc. A great Church, in its eagerness for education, ought not to neglect the training of its people for the holy service of song.

Another matter: We ought to realize the value of this great property. We know that it is still possible to have great spiritual meetings at this place. But the value of the investment to the Church is too great to be content with an eight-day campmeeting. I have never before realized so profoundly the natural beauty and suitability of this property for more extensive use. It should be made a great center of educational and inspirational work. If we are wise, this place shall attain a position of influence and power exceeding its former glory.

F. N. PARKER.

THE LAYMEN'S MOVEMENT.

Dear Editor: I will be very glad if you will announce through the columns of your paper that at the Arcadia District Conference, which convenes at Bienville, La., July 28 to 30, the presiding elder, Brother C. B. Carter, has given the afternoon session of Wednesday, July 29, to the Laymen's Movement, and it is trusted that a large number of the laymen of the district will be present. A programme will be prepared that will present the different aspects of the work, so that our district may begin at once to reap the good effects of a greater knowledge of and interest in the great work of our great Church on the part of the laymen.

We are trying to get every [illegible] church [illegible] ally.

N. R. [illegible]

District [illegible]

No. 2.

W. C. Harris, New Albany, $[illegible]

J. R. [illegible]

Treasurer Board Church Extension.

Carrollton, Miss.

JOINT BOARD OF FINANCE.

Mississippi Conference.

Following is the Treasurer's report of the Joint Board of Finance of the Mississippi Conference for the quarter ending June 30, 1908.

Brookhaven District for Conference Claimants—
Magnolia	$60.00
Wesson	34.50
Brookhaven (in full)	130.00
Summit	20.00
McComb Central	55.00
Hazlehurst	65.00
Silver Creek	5.00
Toglsaw	20.60
Monticello	5.00
Adams	12.00
Columbia (in full)	122.00
Total to date	$529.10
Jackson Dist. for Conference Claimants—
Yazoo City	$100.00
Benton	20.00
Collins	20.00
Previously reported	38.00
Total to date	$178.00
Meridian Dist. for Conference Claimants—
Waynesboro	$25.00
East End, Meridian	55.00
Previously reported	65.00
Total to date	$145.00
Newton District for Conference Claimants—
Vossburg and Heidelberg	$5.00
Lake	10.00
Ellisville	40.00
Fifth Avenue and Kingston, Laurel	10.00
Previously reported	299.50
Total to date	$364.50
Natchez Dist. for Conference Claimants—
Liberty	$20.00
Meadville	10.00
Hamburg	15.00
Woodville	5.00
Caseyville	25.00
Centerville	30.00
Total to date	$105.00
Seashore Dist. for Conference Claimants—
Main Street, Hattiesburg	$100.00
Pearlington and Logtown	25.00
Lucedale	40.00
Pass Christian	15.00
Court Street, Hattiesburg	50.00
Saucier and Howison	20.00
Mosspoint (in full)	110.00
Longbeach	25.00
Ocean Springs	20.00
Escatawpa	5.00
Previously reported	69.00
Total to date	$479.00
Vicksburg Dist. for Conference Claimants—
Rocky Springs	$30.00
Oak Ridge	7.00
Sataria	25.00
Port Gibson	50.00
Bolton	20.00
Hermanville	28.00
Previously reported	121.50
Total to date	$281.50
Reported to date for Bishops—
Newton District	$100.00

W. L. HIGHTOWER, Treasurer.

Philadelphia, Miss.

BOARD OF MISSIONS.

Mississippi Conference.

Following is the report of the Treasurer of the Board of Missions, Mississippi Conference, for the quarter ending June 30, 1908:

	Foreign.	Domestic.
Brookhaven District—
McComb Centenary	$24.05	....
McComb, Lee Branch Street	80.50	$78.00
Summit	25.00	25.00
Monticello	3.50	3.00
Toglsaw	10.30	10.30
Wesson	12.00	....
Magnolia	....	49.00
Brookhaven	....	8.00
Hazlehurst	....	10.00
	$154.85	$183.30
Jackson District—
Fannin	$9.00	$9.45
Mount Olive	60.00	60.00
Yazoo City	45.00	43.00
Capitol Street	....	110.00
	$114.00	$222.45
Meridian District—
Leakesville	$2.00	....
East End	45.00	40.00
DeKalb	9.00	....
Central	34.87	....
Shubuta	....	5.00
Scooba	....	15.15
	$90.87	$60.15
Natchez District—
Meadville	$7.50	$9.00
Jefferson Street	27.89	....
Liberty	10.00	15.00
Hamburg	11.00	11.00
Pearl Street	....	25.00
	$56.39	$60.00
Newton District—
Lake	$10.00	....
Neshoba	10.00	$10.00
Fifth Avenue and Kingston	10.00	....
Forest	20.00	....
Walnut Grove	5.00	....
Eucutta	6.50	7.00
Ellisville	38.00	38.00
Vossburg and Heidelberg	10.00	....
Laurel, Main Street	....	6.05
Homewood	....	20.00
	$109.50	$81.05
Seashore District—
Mentorum	$8.00	....
Pass Christian	15.00	$25.00
Pearlington	30.00	25.00
Vancleave	20.00	....
Court Street	15.00	10.00
Longbeach	25.00	15.00
Howison and Saucier	30.00	30.00
Wolf River	10.00	10.00
Americus	30.00	....
Coalville	10.00	10.00
Broad Street	10.00	....
Escatawpa	10.00	10.00
New Augusta	....	15.00
Twenty-ninth Street	....	10.00
Mosspoint	....	180.00
Ocean Springs	....	35.00
	$213.00	$375.00
Vicksburg District—
Crawford Street	$50.00	....
Rocky Springs	10.00	20.00
Hermanville	....	30.00
Port Gibson	....	45.00
Satartia	....	15.00
	$60.00	$110.00

SPECIALS.

[illegible] Institute—
Rev. W. H. Mounger	$5.00
Rev. W. W. Moore	15.00
Rev. W. D. Dominick	10.00
Wesleyan Bicentenary—
Rev. J. T. Abney	12.50
	$42.50

W. L. LINFIELD, Treasurer.

[illegible], Miss.

FRENCH MISSION FUND.

The brethren who have subscribed to this fund will kindly forward me subscriptions at once. We are two months in arrears on Brother Martin Hebert's salary.

W. B. THOMSON, Treasurer.
231 S. Rampart St., New Orleans.

W. F. M. S.

[illegible]

BELLEVUE POULTRY SUPPLY CO.

Everything in the Poultry line. Chickens, Parrots, Guinea Pigs, Rabbits and Pet Stock of every description. Cyphers Incubators and Food at Factory Prices, may be had by writing us at [illegible] Camp St, New Orleans, La. Catalogue sent free.

ESTABLISHED [illegible]

JOHN DAVID BURGHARDT CO.,

THE RELIABLE PLUMBERS and GAS FITTERS.
Agency: Born's Patent Steel Ranges. Hygeia Water Filters.
613-615 Bienville St. Phone Main [illegible]
Jobbing and Repair Work a Specialty. New Orleans, La.

THE SAFEST AND QUICKEST WAY

—TO—

TRANSFER MONEY

—IS BY—

Long Distance Telephone

FOR RATES APPLY TO LOCAL MANAGER.

Cumberland Telephone & Telegraph Co.
INCORPORATED.

The Home Circle.

THE LONELY GRANDPARENTS.

Do you younger people always think of the loneliness of the aged? They are provided with a pleasant room with the necessities, and even the luxuries of life, but many of their friends have passed onward into the other life, and their circle of acquaintances has narrowed, too. Also they have fewer interests, and occasionally they are dependent. When this is the unfortunate case, all possible pains should be taken to show them that the reasons for gratitude are on the side of their children and grandchildren, who are only paying a just debt when scrupulously caring for their parents.

With the return of each anniversary there is the opportunity to draw them into the good cheer, to give them unobtrusive attention. Is the old lady a little deaf, the old gentleman perhaps almost blind? Some younger ears must hear, some younger eyes see for both. Please them by gifts which convey some sentiment, not by those which are too strictly utilitarian.—Margaret E. Sangster.

A BOY'S PLUCK.

"True for ye, sir! Yes, he's a thinnish kind of a chap, but he's got a lot of grit," and Michael O'Rourke eyed his slender son affectionately. "And he can make good every inch—give him a chance," he added. "He's eighteen on Easter Day, and has been a sailor for four years, and they're telling me there ain't a monkey can climb higher, stick tighter, nor keep a steadier head at the maintop than Harry."

The foreman liked the young fellow's appearance.

"Well," he said, at last, "it is rather stretching rules to take on a boy for this high work, but let him hang round up here for a while and see if his head keeps level. Don't you try any show-off tricks, though, my lad. There's no place for jig dancing on the roof-skeleton of a twenty-five story skyscraper."

Bidding his son good-bye, O'Rourke thrust his foot into the crook of an enormous hook, and hanging to its rope, was carried out into space.

To have been where Harry stood would have turned the head of an untrained person, but the boy was unmoved. He had never been dizzy. In this he resembled his father. Therefore he felt no fear when he saw his father sitting astride an imperfectly secured tie-beam, directing its clumsy course into the flange of the huge corner post.

This work was of monotonous interest, and the boy soon turned away to look over the wide expanse of sky, river, bridge and sea.

The foreman glanced toward him. Suddenly, to his surprise, he saw the boy leave the firm platform upon which he had been standing, and without using his arms even as a balance, walk quietly along a girder not four inches wide, to the outer framework of the building.

There, stepping lightly to a side girder, he stood looking down at the river. Two hundred and sixty feet straight down from his shoes—if he faltered and fell! No wonder that the foreman gasped. "If the chap can do that—and come back alive—he shall have a job to-morrow, or my name isn't Macswiney."

By that time a number of workmen were watching the boy. At that moment Harry turned, and quietly retracing his steps, stood again upon the platform. The foreman met him.

Harry smiled, and whistling merrily disappeared down the ladder. He had descended two storeys when he heard a shout.

He stopped and looked up. Some of the workmen paused. The cry was repeated with the shout: "An accident—somebody hurt!"

There was a rush for the ladder; but Harry was the first to reach the platform.

An enormous steel girder, swinging high in the air, suspended from the [illegible] encircling chain had slipped [illegible] girder had dropped [illegible] lowest end had taken off.

The rope at the other end had been wrenched from the hands of the men who were guiding the unwieldy mass, and there the great beam dangled, threatening at any moment to slip away from the suspension chain and crash, end first, down through the labyrinth of half-built floors beneath, now crowded with busy workmen.

Then, to his horror, Harry saw that his father lay face downward astride the beam upon which he had been working. A blow from the runaway girder had laid him senseless.

But, worst of all, the blow had, in addition, loosened one end of this beam, which was now almost separated from its bolt flange in the corner post. Cool and level headed, the foreman had already planned the rescue.

Harry, sure-footed, quick-witted and bold-hearted, would now have a chance to make good. With two knife slashes through the laces, Harry's shoes were off. The foreman threw a thick coil of rope about his neck, and then a smaller coil on top. "Tie him to the beam—tight—then rope the girder and drop the line." The boy listened earnestly to the foreman's words, then seized a rope that dangled from a beam beyond that on which his father lay motionless.

With eyes steadily fixed upon his father, Harry pushed his way, inch by inch, over the intervening space, pausing now and then in order to lessen the vibration of the beam. Twenty-five feet to walk along a narrow, quivering, five-inch track—two hundred and sixty feet from the earth, with nothing but a steady head to balance him!

Ten feet—fifteen feet—he edged slowly along. Could he keep steady for only a moment more?

Suddenly a murmur of relief came from the watchers. The boy was safely astride the beam, winding the rope about his father's body. The men wanted to shout, but the foreman checked them sharply.

"Wait until he speaks!" he commanded. "Look at his face. If it is cool and steady, yell your heads off if you wish. If it's white, keep quiet. He is the grittiest chap, but he may turn dizzy yet. See, he is getting up!"

Harry did not speak, nor did he look down. He had other work to do. He had secured his father.

Slowly he crawled over the prostrate form, and then stood erect. The crowd of workmen from below who had hurried up at the alarm, stood scarcely breathing.

Again, little by little, he pushed his way along the quivering beam, with only the air above, around and beneath him. One step more, and he turned partly round, and waved to the watching men. What a shout went up!

Harry dropped the coiled rope to the platform, where it was caught by a score of hands. A huge bucket was attached to the ropes and the hoisting-crane carried a man to the rescue of Harry and his father. Not a moment too soon, for as the bucket swung free with its living freight the tie-beam parted from its inner socket. But Michael and his son were safe.—Scottish American.

WHY JENNIE WARNED THE JUDGE.

Jennie's teacher had poured something from a bottle into a saucer. It looked like water, but Miss Adams called it alcohol, and she always knew. Then it burned and blazed when her teacher touched a match to it, as water never does.

Jennie pitied the poor men who burned themselves with alcohol. It must be awful, she thought, to have a fire inside of one, such as teacher lighted!

The little girl [illegible] interest at [illegible] had to [illegible] Judge Day [illegible] but [illegible] are hot [illegible] Judge [illegible] to light [illegible] But only [illegible] her papa's [illegible] little girl, and [illegible]

[illegible] Oh, please, [illegible] There was a [illegible] little girl [illegible]

[illegible] it troubles you, but, Jennie, why do you not want me to light a match?" he asked.

"It's very dan-ger-ous—you might swallow it," Jennie sobbed. The man looked puzzled. "You then it would set fire to the al-co-hol in the beer you've been drinking—and—and—(sobbing again) there'd be a fire inside of you!"

The great judge did not even smile. He knew his little friend had got things mixed; but it was true that he had swallowed alcohol, which would surely burn him, even without the help of the lighted match.—Crusader Monthly.

Your anxiety does not empty to-morrow of its sorrows, but alas! it empties to-day of its strength. It does not make you escape the evil; it makes you unfit to cope with it if it comes.—Ian MacLaren.

Saints are not people living in cloisters after a fantastic ideal, but men and women immersed in the vulgar work of every-day life and worried by the small prosaic anxieties which fret us all, who amidst the whirr of the spindle in the mill, and the clink of the scales on the counter, and the hubbub of the market-place, and the jangle of the courts, are yet living lives of conscious devotion to God. The root idea of the word, which is an Old Testament word, is not moral purity, but separation to God.—MacLaren.

It's not always temper—

That causes a horse to balk. It may be a Sore Shoulder, a Bruise or a Strain—maybe Colic or Bots. Dr. Tichenor's Antiseptic cures all of these troubles.

AT ALL DRUGGISTS
25 and 50 Cents
Also in quart bottles.

Christian Advocate.

REV. JNO. W. BOSWELL, D.D., Editor.
REV. H. WHITEHEAD, Ass't Editor.
CHAS. C. CHALMERS, Publisher.

ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT NEW ORLEANS AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

OFFICE: [illegible] CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

TERMS:
One Copy, one Year, $2; six months, $1. To Preachers of all Denominations, half-price.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEES:
LOUISIANA CONFERENCE—Rev. W. W. Drake, Rev. N. E. Joyner, Rev. J. M. Henry.
MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE—Rev. M. L. Burton, Rev. W. H. Lewis, Rev. C. W. Crisler.
NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE—Rev. W. T. J. Sullivan, D.D., Rev. J. T. Murrah, Rev. W. W. Woollard.

ATTITUDINIZING.

Who does not attitudinize when called to exercise in public? The man who does not is an exception. It is rarely perceptible in some. In many, far too many, it is so glaring as to attract attention and inspire adverse criticism. Not long since in a public gathering, a brother was called out by name, and had he responded properly, he would have done nothing but quietly arise in his place and talk in a conversational tone and manner. But the first thing he did was to attitudinize: that is, he straightened himself up, slightly shrugged his shoulders (many shrug more than slightly), uttered a sound without sense or syllable, akimboed his arms, placed one foot before the other, as though he were going to walk off, and then began in oratorical style to tell his story. We have known a few men who, in annual Conference deliberations, took almost as much time in getting ready to speak as to get through with what they had to say.

Why such ado in beginning a discourse, whether sermon or essay, or speech, in a deliberative body? It is not natural. We grant that in most, if not all cases, it is indulged unconsciously—possibly in imitation of some one whom a young man greatly admires. Over twenty years ago a brother went from Mississippi to Arkansas prospecting. We met him at a District Conference. He preached one day at 11 o'clock [illegible] when he began we detected immediately the tone of voice and pronunciation of a certain presiding elder, an Englishman, in the North Mississippi Conference, whose voice we had not heard in more than ten years. The brother was innocent of intentional imitation, but he imitated his model all the same. He had fallen, imperceptibly to himself, into the habit. It was not imperceptible to others. If such men have friends, they should try to correct the error—for error it is, no matter how perfect the model is. Preachers should be natural. To strut and imitate are both unnatural.

In company once with several brethren, one of whom had not long been out of Vanderbilt, we fell into conversation on this subject. The young brother, now one of our strongest men, said: "If I imitate anybody, I am wholly unconscious of it." Our reply was: "Anybody that has ever heard Bishop McTyeire talk knows that you have been under his influence." Whether what we said helped to cure him we do not know, but we do know that inside a few years he was cured. To-day, save in his effort to pose after the manner of the Bishop, nobody could tell that he was ever a McTyeire disciple.

Dear young brother, if you are not right sure that you do not attitudinize, and do not imitate or "put on" some leading man, ask a judicious friend. If you have a wife, and she is a woman of good sense, as most preachers' wives are, she [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. [illegible] the great war [illegible] organized. [illegible] selves to the Northern Methodist [illegible] Southern friends. The Methodists of the North [illegible]

But Southern Methodism was not dead. The spirit of the fathers animated the sons and they began at once to rebuild their fallen fortunes. The churches left [illegible] were repaired and [illegible] Where no churches existed [illegible] New life was [illegible] [illegible] outlines of a constitution.

[illegible]

Northern Methodists are doing with the Lord's money in this great Southern city? The most they can do is to keep Northern Methodists who come here from going into other churches. Our observation in other places is they fail even in that, for the reason that social and commercial interests lead the new-comers in another direction. We suppose it is the same way in New Orleans. Congregating the Methodist Episcopal Church in the city would be strong, attractive and commanding.

There is no disposition to federate here; or, as far as I know, in the Gulf Conference, which stretches from where to where we are unable to say.

PERSONAL.

Rev. B. F. Meigs, of Carthage, Miss., in sending a good list of subscribers to the ADVOCATE, closes with this encouraging word: "My work is moving along nicely, and I am anticipating a good year in the service of my Lord."

We request our pastors in Louisiana and Mississippi to read the notice from the Church Federation of Los Angeles, Cal. Attention to the request will be of great advantage to church members, and also to pastors in that city.

President Dean, of Mansfield College for Women, who has been sick several weeks, is now able to be up part of the time. He hopes to be well enough to resume work in a short time. We join him and his friends in the wish for a speedy recovery.

A note from Brother J. R. Bingham, Carrollton, Miss., informs us that his pastor, "Rev. R. I. Allen, has gone to Quebec to meet the Prince of Wales." We didn't know before that they were "old acquaintances." We hope they will have a pleasant reunion.

Rev. T. J. Warlick, presiding elder of the Shreveport District, has been in the city several days. He preached Sunday morning at Parker Memorial, and in the evening for the brethren of First Church. He was a pleasant caller at this office on Monday morning.

Dr. John A. Rice had an engagement to preach and lecture at the Crystal Springs Chautauqua—to preach Sunday evening and lecture Monday morning. His lecture, "The Bible as Literature," captivated the people. Report says he greatly pleased and interested the large audience.

Miss Viola Blackburn, who for several years has been doing faithful work as a missionary in Mexico, has been called home for a while on account of the feebleness of her parents. Besides, she needs a rest on her own account. Her address is Buntyn, Tenn., R. F. D. No. 1.

A good brother sends us an account of a revival recently closed at a tabernacle near Wesson, Miss. It is a good, long article, but, as it is written with a pencil, we cannot, under the rule of our office, send it to the printer. Twenty persons were converted, and the Church much strengthened. Great good was accomplished.

Rev. W. G. Harbin, accompanied by Rev. C. N. Guice, who leads in the service of song, has just closed a good meeting at Merton, Miss. Thirteen persons joined the Church, eight heads of families covenanted to engage in family worship. Such results pay for all the labor expended in the work. Brother Harbin is resting a few days at Biloxi.

Rev. S. D. Howard is doing fine work at Eunice, La. Prayer meetings are well attended. Sunday school is well organized and accomplishing good. He has received thirty-eight persons into membership, with good prospects of receiving others. Sometimes the congregations more than fill the house. Brother Howard never forgets the ADVOCATE. He talks for it, and succeeds.

In the midsummer holiday number of the Century Jack London has based his story, "To Build a Fire," on this bit of the Yukon Code: He travels fastest who travels alone—but not after the frost has dropped below zero fifty degrees or more—the story of a man who traveled alone in the Yukon wilderness with the cold seventy-five below.

We give our readers this week a lengthy and admirably written article on Millsaps College. The subject is worthy, and we ask all our friends to give it a careful reading. Brother Woodard, the author, is the competent and faithful pastor of Wood Street Church, Watervalley, Miss., where he has recently enjoyed a precious revival season, in which he was assisted by Rev. E. S. Harris, of Humboldt, Tenn.

We thank Dr. F. N. Parker for a report of the Seashore Camp Meeting, the first (unless memory is at fault) during our connection with this ADVOCATE we ever received from a Seashore authority. Heretofore our reports have been made up from notices in the daily papers, except a year or two when we were on the ground and an eye-witness. We very much appreciate Dr. Parker's kindness.

Rev. J. T. Leggett, presiding elder of the Natchez District, gives us notice of the Sam Jones Camp Meeting, which will begin on Aug. 14. Rev. Wm. Green, of Texas, will do most of the preaching. The campground is situated on the Yazoo and Mississippi Valley Railroad, about three miles north of Gloster, Miss. It is a pleasant place in hot weather. We thank the presiding elder for an invitation to attend.

The Carrollton (Miss.) Conservative of last week contains the following complimentary of one of our promising and energetic young preachers: "Rev. W. C. Curtiss, of Coldwater, has been assisting in a meeting at North Carrollton this week. Mr. Curtiss has a thorough knowledge of the Scriptures, a wide acquaintance with history, a deep sympathy with mankind and an earnest and forceful manner of expressing his thoughts. Hence large congregations have enjoyed a series of sermons that were both pleasing and helpful."

Rev. Geo. Jackson has been staying in the city since the close of the Seashore Camp Meeting, enjoying the company of the brethren, and laboring in the pulpit and social meetings of the Church, and otherwise trying to do good. He was greatly rejoiced on Sunday morning last to be told by a bright young girl that she was converted while he was preaching. The dear old brother was so unfortunate as to lose his pocketbook, containing $20. Where or when he does not know. Probably one of the "light-fingered gentry" could inform him.

NOTE FROM BISHOP WARD.

My Dear Dr. Boswell: I leave this evening on my trip to the Orient. During my absence Bishop Galloway will have charge of the Louisiana Conference, and any matters requiring Episcopal attention may be submitted to him.

To the editor of the NEW ORLEANS ADVOCATE and the membership of the Louisiana Conference I send affectionate greeting. I hope to be back in ample time to meet the brethren in annual session at Leesville. Your brother,

SETH WARD.

Houston, Tex., July 10, 1908.

A FAREWELL MEETING.

There were many sad hearts in the large audience attending the Mary Werlein Mission on Monday night, the 13th inst. It was the regular meeting for that night, but a faithful and loved worker of the Mission, Brother A. Demuth, was leading what was to him a farewell service, on the eve of his departure for a permanent home in Tupelo, Miss.—in the place where he had so long been a part of and in whose interests he had so many years labored so faithfully. Many will recollect, in the early struggle of this Mission, years ago, how loyal Brother Demuth was to this work, and how faithfully he has remained. And it was so appropriate that Dr. Sawyer should be present on this occasion and in his usual way pay an eloquent tribute to the faithful disciple who was leaving. It was Dr. Sawyer who organized this flock into a church membership some years ago, with Brother Demuth as one of the number. After Dr. Sawyer's earnest and beautiful talk, many gave public expression to their regret at Brother Demuth's departure. We know that he has many friends in Methodism, whose prayers and interest will follow him to his new home.

A FRIEND.

SEASHORE ASSEMBLY FOR CHRISTIAN WORKERS.

The ninth annual session of the Assembly opens at the Seashore Campgrounds, Biloxi, Miss., July 23, at 8 p.m. President F. S. Parker, of Nashville, will preside. The Assembly will be ten days in session. The programme consists of three study periods in the forenoon of each day: From 9 to 10 o'clock a.m., Bible study, led by Prof. Tom Carter and Dr. Jno. A. Rice; from 10 to 11 o'clock, mission study, led by Dr. F. S. Parker and Miss Mabel Head; from 11 to 12 o'clock, school of methods. The evening services will be given over to inspirational lecturers. The Sunday sermons will be preached by Dr. A. F. Watkins, July 26, and Bishop E. R. Hendrix, Aug. 2.

Fourteen Good Reasons for Patronizing Grenada College

First—The unexcelled Home Comforts, unequaled anywhere else in the State.

Second—The Health Conditions; we rarely require the service of a physician.

Third—Our unusually skilled corps of teachers, whom we were able to secure only by paying a salary much above that paid by other girls' schools of the State.

Fourth—The Fine Arts Department, unequaled in the State and unexcelled in the South. Our teacher of Art studied in Germany and France, and our teachers of Music are graduated from the best Conservatories of America.

Fifth—See Descriptive Course of Study, which is conscientiously carried out as indicated.

Sixth—The Lyceum Course, which is superior even to that sustained in the University of Mississippi.

Seventh—The Library, which is fuller and better adapted than that of most girls schools of the South.

Eighth—Strong Christian Influence dominating all instruction.

Ninth—Personal Attention to the Individual Pupil, with a view to develop the best even out of peculiarities of character.

Tenth—A superior Student Body as Associates, since most of the indifferent have been eliminated.

Eleventh—The Rates are lower than those of any other school doing the same grade of work, owing to the Conference Assessment, which gives us an income not possessed by other schools; further, we have no stockholders to whom we are forced to pay dividends, as are some private schools. Our patrons receive back in excellence of service more than they pay in.

Twelfth—We place but two girls in a room, while most schools put from two to six.

Thirteenth—We require our teachers to continue study. Two are in Europe, two in Chicago, others at other schools in North and East.

Fourteenth—All these superior features enable us to turn out a larger percentage of graduates, who take high stand in the educational world, than any other school in the State. It means something to hold a diploma of the Grenada College.

Register for Rooms at Once and Thus Secure Choice of Location.

Send for Catalogue.

W. L. CLIFTON, A.B., Ph.B., President.

Grenada, Miss.

SILLIMAN COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE

CLINTON, LOUISIANA.

An endowed Christian school for girls and young women. You will find no better school of its grade in the South.

Healthful location in the hill country. Three handsome buildings. Beautiful, well-shaded campus. Electric lights. Steam-heat. All necessary equipment.

Scientific and classical courses leading to degrees. Special advantages in music, art, elocution, etc. For catalogue and information, address the president, Financial aid given to earnest students needing it.

H. H. BROWNLEE, Clinton, Louisiana.

Obituaries.

Obituaries not over two hundred words in length will be published free of charge. All over two-hundred words will be charged at the rate of 1 cent a word. Count the words and send the amount necessary with the obituary. That will save trouble all around.

On May 25th, at 7 o'clock, Rev. and Mrs. Martin Hebert, of New Iberia, La., saw their little son, THEODORE GIRARD, breathe his last. Born at Lydia, La., Sept. 20, 1906, he lived but a short time to brighten this happy home. For many months his body tossed in pain, while skilled physicians and nurses battled for his life, and father and mother watched anxiously and lovingly beside the little bed. One morning, while the world was yet fresh and still, the Master carried the little, tired sufferer away. He was given to you, dear mother, only for a little while, though long enough, I know, to make you long for a clasp of those tiny arms and the pressure of that baby cheek against your own. To-night, maybe, through your tears, you see his little toys, his tiny shoes, his empty place; But there is a voice of wondrous sweetness that speaks to you through the darkness, and the glimmer of a soft but radiant light. Look up, sad heart, and behold thy heavenly Father's face, for

"Still with patient love He waits
Till sorrow's tears all shed.
We creep, like children to His arms,
And so are comforted."

MRS. J. M. HENRY.

Mrs. MARY LEDBETTER (nee Miss Mary Goodwin) was born in Jackson Parish, La., May 1, 1858. When she was quite young she gave her heart to God and her life to his service, uniting with the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in which she lived a faithful member until called to her eternal reward June 28, 1908. In December, 1881, she was united in marriage to W. H. Ledbetter. God blessed their home with one son and three daughters, who have grown to manhood and womanhood, and are all devout Christians and members of their mother's Church. The oldest daughter is the wife of Rev. G. E. Glasspool, of the West Texas Conference. Sister Ledbetter was not only loyal to the Church and faithful in its service, but was spiritual, modestly, quietly, yet potently exercising a benign influence. Her life in the home was exemplary as a faithful companion and an ideal mother. Her last illness was long and painful, lasting for many weeks, through which she exercised the beautiful fruit of the Spirit in patience and faith, such as only those who live as she lived can experience. The Church, the community, and the home will sadly miss her, but our lives have been made richer by her life, and the imprint of her beautiful Christian character is so indellibly stamped upon the lives of those who knew her best as to inspire them to nobler efforts. "She hath done what she could." Bereaved friends, shall we not emulate her noble life, and live so true to God that when the shadow of death shall fall athwart our pathway of life it shall soon be forever banished by the eternal glories of heaven's perennial day as it breaks in transcendent splendor upon our enraptured gaze and reveals to us the glorified faces of those whom we have lost for awhile, but shall never lose again?

WM. H. COLEMAN.

Homer, La.

Mrs. EMMA C. FLURRY (nee Roberts) was born Aug. 8, 1865, and died June 11, 1908, at Vestry, Jackson County, Miss. She leaves a husband, J. W. Flurry, ten children, a father, Brother Irvin Roberts, an aged local preacher; mother and several brothers and sisters to mourn their loss. Her death was unexpected, but from her life and last look of joy we have the assurance that her's is the reward of the redeemed in Christ. Joining the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, at the age of twelve, she lived a Christian to the day of her death. On visiting their home one could realize the Christian influence that was her pleasure to have there, and the great interest in the education and welfare of their children. May she be the means of their greater usefulness in the Master's service—perchance, some as preachers, for they come of good preacher-stock. God bless and comfort the bereaved.

R. I. PICKETT.

M. J. CHANDLER was born in Carroll County, Ga., Sept. 14, 1830. He was married to Miss Caroline Bledsoe, Sept. 14, 1852. He moved to Mississippi in 1856. For nearly forty years he lived near Lawrence. He leaves two daughters and three sons, a number of grandchildren and a host of friends to mourn his departure. He was a useful citizen, and had a degree of prosperity in worldly matters. He was a member of the Methodist Church for forty years and a good part of that time he was an active steward. In his last illness he was tenderly ministered to by his children and others. The end came July 9, 1908, and his spirit rests in peace above. We buried the remains beside the grave of his companion who died many years ago. The large numbers at the funeral service attested the esteem of those who knew him. He lived without a blemish through a long and active life.

C. McDONALD.

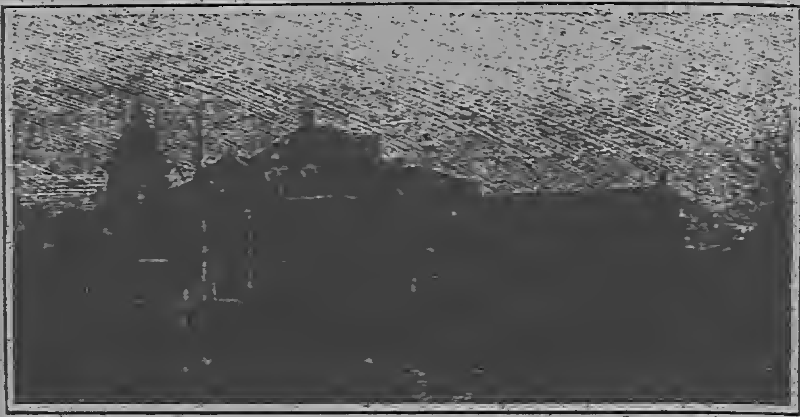
Lake, Miss.

An athletic Kaffir, hearing some passages from the New Testament on the "wrath to come," was filled with deep distress. The missionary who was dealing with him spoke to him of the crucified Savior, and that through the efficacy of his death all fear of the coming doom might be escaped. The man tremblingly answered: "Sir, I am old and stupid; tell me that again." And when the message was reiterated, the tears rolled down his cheeks and he became softened to the spirit of a child.—Exchange.

MOXINE CHILL TONIC
Only Tonic—one bottle—one cure.

PHILOMATHEANS
Felicitate Filias Fideles
who are
Wanters of Wisdom,
Lovers of Learning,
and
Finders of Fun in Doing of Duty.
Enthusiastic to enter? Well, write for catalogue of Grenada College and to me for particulars.
MISS EVLYN WAUGH, Pres't.
Goodman, Miss.

Centenary Female College,
Cleveland, Tenn.



LOCATION—One hour from historic Chattanooga, "Prettiest town in all Tennessee." In mountain valley, above all malaria. Health of girls from South greatly improved.
FACULTY—Best American and European training. Teacher of Modern Languages, now studying in Germany.
RECREATION—Walks, drives, tennis, basket-ball, bowling, gymnasium, 634 ft. covered porches, physical culture, etc.
DEPARTMENTS—Thorough literary courses. Music Department under German Director. Art, Expression, Business.
Write for illustrated catalog to-day.

MILLSAPS COLLEGE,
JACKSON, MISSISSIPPI.
WILLIAM BELTON MURRAH, PRESIDENT.
A high-grade College situated at the Capital of the State. Offers unsurpassed advantages in Literary and Law Departments.
AMPLE GROUNDS—COMMODIOUS BUILDINGS—THOROUGHLY TRAINED TEACHERS—The very finest moral and cultural influences.
NEW CARNEGIE LIBRARY BUILDING. The College has a large and constantly increasing endowment, thus securing to students extraordinary opportunities at very moderate cost.
LOCATION IDEAL—Supplying the healthful conditions and immunities of the country with all the advantages of the city.
SEVENTEENTH SESSION BEGINS SEPTEMBER 30. Send for Catalogue giving full particulars. Address,
J. E. WALMSLEY, Secretary, Jackson, Miss.

WESLEYAN COLLEGE, Macon, Ga. Oldest and Best.
WESLEYAN CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC, Macon, Ga. Largest and Best.
Expression, Art, Physical Culture, and Business Instruction Same Standard.
COLLEGE PLACED IN CLASS A, FIRST GRADE OF COLLEGES, by General Board of Education, M. E. Church, S., the requirements of which are equivalent to those established for Class A by the United States Government. First-class in all respects. Health record unsurpassed. Discipline liberal, but careful. Rates lower than those of any college [illegible] near the same class in the Union. Not conducted for pecuniary profit, but to accomplish the best [illegible] work for the least money. Standard rates for literary tuition, library and matriculation fee and board (including light, fuel and laundry), school year $237.00. No unpublished charges or unjust discriminations to secure pupils. Catalogues free. Fall term, September 16th.
DUPONT GUERRY, President.

TUSCALOOSA FEMALE COLLEGE
TUSCALOOSA, ALA.
A Safe Place to Send Your Daughters.
Only private Female College in the State of [illegible] College. Faculty of Specialists. Superior advantages in Music, Art and Expression. Home-like accommodations. Beautiful buildings, excellent furniture. Hot and cold water on every floor, gas lights and electric bells in every room. Health record unsurpassed. Beautiful grounds [illegible]. High moral and religious tone. An ideal college home. Expenses $200—$300. A limited number of free tuition scholarships. Write for beautiful catalogues.
E. J. HOLSTON, A.M., President.

Vanderbilt University,
Department of Dentistry.
This school being a department of Vanderbilt University insures a high standard school, run purely as an educational institution. Its faculty is the equal of any in the country, and the equipment is of the very best. The school furnishes a high standard dental education, in a college atmosphere. For information, address,
J. P. GRAY, M.D., D.D.S., Sec., Nashville, Tenn.

Belmont College For Young Women
Nashville, Tenn.
Prepares for colleges and universities. College post-graduate courses leading to degrees of B.A. and M.A. Eleven schools [illegible] Music, Art, Physical Culture and Languages. [illegible] The college stands in a beautiful park [illegible] Many Northern as well as Southern families [illegible] Catalogue on request. Rev. IRA LANDRITH, D. D., LL.D., Regent. Miss HOOD and Miss HERON, Principals.

Classified Advertisements.

EDUCATIONAL

LOW SUMMER RATE now on at Draughon's Business College, Nashville, Atlanta, Raleigh, St. Louis, Dallas, Little Rock, San Antonio, Memphis, Knoxville. Bookkeeping, Shorthand, Typewriting, Telegraphy, etc., taught. POSITIONS secured or MONEY BACK. Catalogue FREE.

AGENTS WANTED

PICTURE AGENTS. Portraits 40c. 16x[illegible] Enameled Picture and Frame ready to hang 2[illegible]. Large line of subjects. 30 days credit. Catalogue FREE. N. M. FRIEDMAN & CO., Box 510, Martinsburg, Mo.

WANTED.—Men and Women to sell Coffees, Teas, Spices, to Family Trade, in communities of 1,000 to 10,000 population. Cash commission paid. Permanent agents wanted. People wanting steady employment, address Bodenheimer Coffee & Tea Co., St. Louis, Mo.

REPORT ON TEMPERANCE.

The following report of the Committee on Temperance was read and adopted by the Baton Rouge District Conference at Ponchatoula, July 3, 1908. It was the sense of the Conference to have it published in the Advocate:

Whereas the Methodist Church has long since put itself on record as to its attitude upon the liquor traffic, the greatest of all the evils which it has ever had to combat, we thank God that the fruits of its labors are becoming visible and the day star of hope is rising high upon the horizon. The cries of the people have gone up until God has heard them and the great demon has been driven from many strongholds within the borders of our beloved State and throughout our beautiful Southland. Whole States, one after another, have fallen into the temperance column, and within our own State many recent elections have been held, and in every instance, save one, victory has perched upon our banners, and we feel encouraged to labor until the voice of the people can be heard and State-wide prohibition shall be secured for Louisiana. And, whereas, by the recent action of our legislature the people have been, for the present, denied the privilege of an election to say whether or not this great evil shall be abolished or abated; therefore be it

Resolved, by the Baton Rouge District Conference of the M. E. Church, South, That we deplore this action of our legislature, and especially the actions of certain members who were expected to support the great cause of prohibition by giving the people an opportunity to be heard from at the polls; be it further

Resolved, That we will carry this fight on, and as Christians, feeling the responsibility of saving our children and generations yet to come from this awful curse, hereafter we shall support no man for office to make laws for us of whom we have the least doubt as to his attitude upon these great moral questions.

Respectfully submitted.

W. T. HOLLAND,
W. H. UNDERWOOD,
J. R. ABELS,
Committee.

The Navy Department has about concluded to use turbine engines on the four big battleships of the Delaware type.

The Alaska Packer's Association gives the heartiest support to the U. S. Pure Food Laws, and guarantees its Canned Salmon to meet all the requirements.

MOXINE CHILL TONIC
Only Tonic—one bottle—one cure.

A GREAT MEETING AT MORTON, MISS.

Dear Dr. Boswell: We closed one of the best meetings at Morton on July 5th I ever attended.

Brothers W. G. Harbin and C. N. Guice were with us. Brother Harbin did all the preaching except two sermons, which were preached by Brother Guice.

Brother Harbin's preaching is clear, logical and convincing. His methods are admirable. His one aim seems to be to get people saved.

Brother Guice is a charming singer and an earnest worker, and he is no minnow in the pulpit. Both young and old were delighted with him, so alert was he for people to speak to about their soul's salvation and so ready was he to speak words of encouragement to seeking ones. Both of these brethren have won the love and admiration of the Morton people. Every service of the meeting was good and sometimes there was a real Pentecost, but the overshadowing service was the service for men only Sunday afternoon. The house was well filled, notwithstanding it was raining, and Brother Harbin discussed the problems particularly incident to men in one of the most powerful discourses I ever heard. He used no language that would have grated on the modesty of the most refined woman, but he handled the men's problems in a plain, practical, edifying way. I don't think there was a man present that was not benefited. I believe the effects of that sermon will be seen in Morton even in the next generation.

Some of the tangible results of the meeting are twelve accessions to the Church, twenty and odd conversions, seven family altars pledged, and the Church greatly revived.

We expect Brothers Harbin and Guice at Pelahatchie the second Sunday in August. May the Lord give us a good meeting there.

T. J. O'NEIL, P. C.

MOXINE
Cures LAGRIPPE and Colds.

Pine-Brook Dairy Co., Ltd.
ALL OUR COWS TUBERCULINE TESTED.
Milk and Cream Delivered Morning and Evening.
COR. ST. CHARLES & WASHINGTON AVES. Phone 1514 Uptown.

DICKSON COLLEGE, DICKSON, TENN.

A select home school for both sexes; ideal location on the summit of the Highland Rim of Middle Tennessee. No malaria; pure air, crystal waters, splendid buildings, strong faculty. A practical school that makes practical men and women who do things. The school for the masses. Gives everybody a chance. Literary, Commercial, Telegraphy, Music, Elocution. New year begins Tuesday, Sept. 1, 1908. Expenses lower than anywhere else in the world. Write postal card for beautiful catalogue. Address,

T. B. LOGGINS, A. M., President, Dickson, Tenn.

FLORENCE UNIVERSITY FOR WOMEN FLORENCE, ALA.

Magnificent buildings costing $100,000. Elegant appointments. Refined and Christian home. Pianos and furniture all new. Ideal location near the mountains. All college courses. Conservatory unsurpassed. Teachers from the best schools of Europe and America. Opens September 18, 1908. For handsome catalog address M. W. HATTON and O. W. ANDERTON, Presidents, Florence, Ala.

South Mississippi College
HATTIESBURG, MISS.

CO-EDUCATIONAL.

New $100,000 equipment. 400 students. First class accommodations at reasonable rates. Courses of study equal to those given by any other college in the State and lead to the usual degrees. Special attention given to Domestic Science, Art, Music, Expression, and the training of teachers. Session opens September 8, 1908.

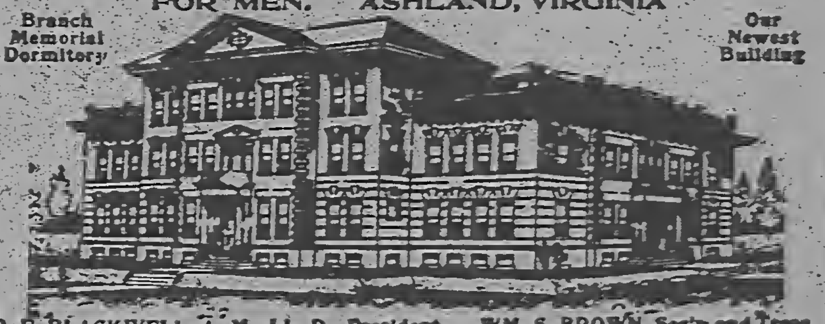
W. I. THAMES, President. Hattiesburg, Miss.

American TELEGRAPH School

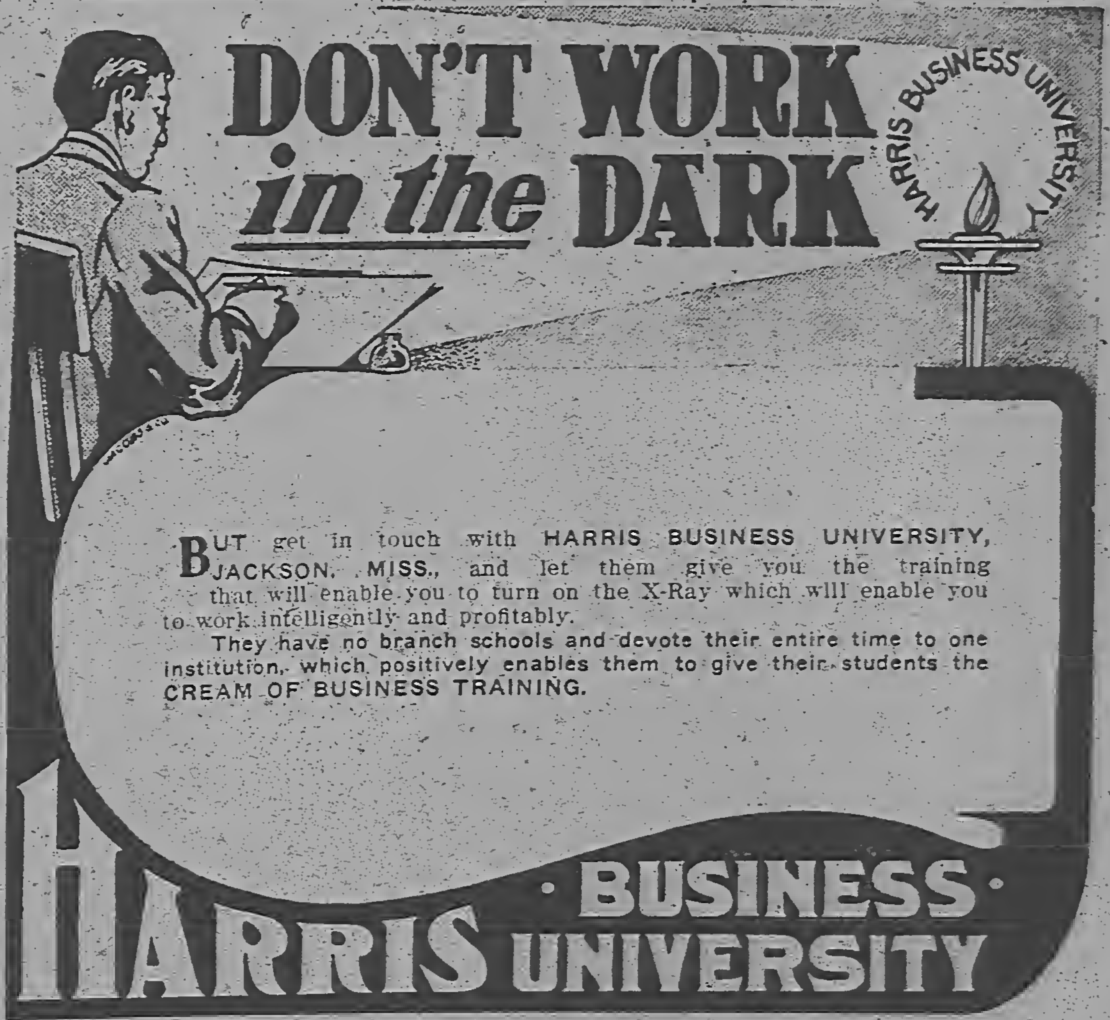
ESTABLISHED 10 YEARS
MILLEDGEVILLE, GEORGIA

Largest and best equiped school South. Expert management. Railroad wire connections. Positions guaranteed. Railroad fares paid. Board at cost. Open year around. Write for catalogue C. Great demand for operators.

RANDOLPH-MACON COLLEGE
FOR MEN. ASHLAND, VIRGINIA



R. E. BLACKWELL, A. M., LL. D., President WM. S. BROWN, Sec'y and Treas.



BUT get in touch with HARRIS BUSINESS UNIVERSITY, JACKSON, MISS., and let them give you the training that will enable you to turn on the X-Ray which will enable you to work intelligently and profitably.

They have no branch schools and devote their entire time to one institution, which positively enables them to give their students the CREAM OF BUSINESS TRAINING.

Whitworth College

(FOR YOUNG LADIES)

Brookhaven, Miss.

Conservatory of Art, Music and Expression. Commercial Department. High Curriculum. Officers and Teachers, 22. Students, 255. Next session begins Sept. 23, 1908. Address,

WHITWORTH COLLEGE.

PORT GIBSON FEMALE COLLEGE,

Port Gibson, Miss.

68th Session Opens Sept. 23, 1908. Standard of Literary Work High. Music, Elocution, Art, Commerce, Sewing. Special Attention Given Health and Morals. Electric Lights, Artesian Water. Boarding Patronage Steadily Increasing. Trip to National Military Park, Mississippi's New Capitol, and State Fair—a Feature of Next Session.

Henry G. Hawkins, A. B., Pres.

BELLHAVEN COLLEGE

FOR YOUNG LADIES

JACKSON, MISSISSIPPI.

J. R. PRESTON, A. M., President.

Fifteen highly qualified instructors. Ten-acre campus and all modern comforts. Excellent table and courteous management. Patronage solicited from cultured homes. Sound instruction and satisfactory progress guaranteed. Fifteenth session opens Sept. 16, 1908.

BELVIRINO

A PROGRESSIVE COLLEGE FOR YOUNG LADIES.

WEST POINT, MISSISSIPPI.

EDWIN W. DORAN, Ph., D.,
PRESIDENT.

Fine buildings, accommodating 200 boarders. Cultured Teachers in Literary Department, Music, Expression, Art, Commercial Branches, Physical Culture, etc.

REDUCED RATE FOR 1908-9, $175.

Next term opens Sept. 8th. Send for Catalogue.

MERIDIAN WOMAN'S COLLEGE
CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC

Belmont College

For YOUNG WOMEN. Nashville, Tenn.

Regular College and Preparatory Courses. Music, Art, Languages, Physical Culture. Beautiful location. Golf, tennis, hockey, all the year. Register now. Catalogue on request.

Rev. IRA LANDRITH, D.D., LL.D., Regent.
Miss HOOD and Miss HERON, Principals.

The Randolph-Macon System

Endowed Colleges and Correlated Schools

Educates men and women, boys and girls, not together but in Five Separate Institutions under one management. The combination enables us to offer the best advantages and to

Save Time and Money

For particulars, address, stating age and sex of student,
Chancellor WM. W. SMITH, A. M., LL.D.
College Park, Lynchburg, Va.

Epworth League

By Rev. H. Whitehead.

PRAYER-MEETING TOPIC.

July 26. The Emancipated Will: The Converted Life. Rom. vii. 7-12; viii. 1-4.

When Jesus said to the disciples that had gathered around him, that if they believed on him, he would make them free, they were angered. They said they were never in bondage to any man (John viii. 31). It was then that he made the startling statement, Whosoever committeth sin is the servant of sin. We are to study this survitude and the setting free of the soul.

1. The Bondage of the Will.

Paul writes, what I would, I do not; but what I hate, that I do. When you decide to do anything, the faculty of the mind that makes the decision is called the judgment, and the faculty that executes is called the will. When you raise your hand, the will sends the command along the nerves to the muscles. When you walk or talk, or do anything, the command that is executed is given by the will. A drunkard feels that he wants to drink, and his judgment tells him it is wrong, but the will yields, and he disgraces himself and brings sorrow to his home. Your judgment tells you that you should take work in your League, you feel that it is too hard, and your will does not hold you to your duty. Your judgment tells you that you should forgive a friend who has apparently done you a wrong, but you feel too angry, and you speak words that loses you a good friend. Sometimes you almost wonder if you are not two persons, so different does what you think you should do appear from what you actually do. Most men have a fair idea of what they should be and how they should live, but a large part of men fall very far short. It is in the survey of this conflict of the natural man that Paul cries out, who shall deliver me from the body of this death?

2. The Freedom of Christ.

The conquest of self, until the will yields obedience, is wrought in man by Christ, and this victory is a large part of what we call conversion. The seventh chapter of Romans represents the normal condition of the unconverted man, the eighth chapter the normal condition of the converted man.

When you permit the Spirit of the Lord to lead you, then there is no condemnation in your heart. The Master breaks the bondage of the soul, and no more does your will continually turn to the things which are evil. You feel like you want to do the things which your judgment tells you the Master would have you do, and the will yields a ready service. Many a converted man has lived an upright life with less effort than he really made when he was failing to live right as an unconverted man. If the Son shall make you free, you shall be free indeed.

The Argo Red Salmon Cook Book has more recipes for preparing Canned Salmon than ALL other Cook Books combined. A card to Alaska Packer's Association, San Francisco, Cal., will bring it to you.

The Locke racing law went into effect last Monday. Some of the tracks will try to operate under the law, which does not forbid individual betting. All are watching with interest the ultimate effect of the law.

GAINING IN POPULARITY DAILY.

A prominent Druggist says: "Hughes' Tonic has given more satisfaction than any other chill tonic we have sold." Sold by Druggists—50c. and $1.00 bottles.

PREPARED BY
Robinson-Pettet Co., Incorporated
Louisville.

Marriages.

On Wednesday, July 8, 1908, at the home of the bride's father, in Gallman, Miss., by Rev. H. R. Caldwell, Mr. L. C. RAMSEY and Miss VIVIAN ALFORD.

On Tuesday, June 30, 1908, at the residence of the bride's father, Mr. M. V. Powers, Gilead, La., by Rev. J. W. Harper, Mr. H. C. LIPSCOMB and Miss CORA E. POWERS, both of East Feliciana Parish, La.

A GREAT MEETING AT ACKERMAN.

Dear Dr. Boswell: We have just closed a great meeting in our town, which lasted two weeks. The preaching was done the first week by the pastor. Brother W. L. Graves, of Houston Station, did the preaching the second week. The people and town were wonderfully moved. The merchants and business men closed their places of business and attended services. Twenty-six were added to the Church, twelve by letter and fourteen on profession of faith. Eight children were baptized. The Church was greatly revied. We now have two weekly prayer-meetings, besides the regular prayer-meeting, one carried on by the children, the other by the ladies. I have heard several old men say that the town is higher spiritually than ever in its history. Some of the strong men are now praying in public who would have refused to do so before.

The good Baptist people deserve credit for helping to build up the town spiritually. They had just closed a good meeting when ours began. I have never lived in a town or a community in which the different denominations worked in such perfect harmony as they do here. It is good to be here. We are all happy and at work.

Brother Graves greatly pleased my people. He preaches with great zeal and earnestness, and never fails to impress his hearers. Choctaw is proud of him, he having been raised in Choctaw County. My people appreciate his work, and did not fail to show their appreciation. On the last night of the meeting the donation proved that he was loved. We shall not forget him.

We have one of the best towns in the State. No better people can be found anywhere than can be found at Ackerman. The charge is in every good condition. We have our new church at Highpoint ready for use, and will begin our meeting there in two weeks. The church is beautiful. We have paid our mission assessment in full, and all claims will be met by Conference.

J. D. SIMPSON, P. C.

TIRED BRAIN

means that you are losing control of your will power; it is difficult to concentrate your thoughts; you are forgetful, languid, nervous, irritable. Refresh your tired brain with Dr. Miles' Nervine, which will soothe, feed and strengthen the exhausted nerves, and renew your brain power. The first bottle will not fail to help you, if so your druggist will return your money.

This week Quebec will celebrate the 300th anniversary of its founding. As the city was 150 years under French domination, it is fitting that they should be asked to take part in the celebration. The Prince of Wales will represent Great Britain. Vice President Fairbanks will represent the United States, and a special mission will be present from France. There will be fleets of battleships from each of the three countries.

MOXINE
Cures LAGRIPPE and Colds.

ARE YOU SURE

That the ice cream you [illegible] is PURE?

Do you know that the [illegible] hands, [illegible] flies [illegible] from the factory, and freezers and other utensils kept in Sanitary Condition?

Why take any chance where your health is concerned? Why not

MAKE AND FREEZE YOUR OWN ICE CREAM
IN 10 MINUTES
FOR 1c. A PLATE with

Jell-O ICE CREAM Powder

It is so easy. Simply stir contents of one 13c. package into a quart of milk and freeze without cooking, heating or the addition of anything else. This makes two quarts of ice cream, clean, pure and wholesome. A good ice cream freezer can be bought for a dollar or two which will last for years, and will soon save its cost.

2 packages JELL-O ICE CREAM Powder for 25c.

Flavors: Chocolate, Vanilla, Strawberry, Lemon and Unflavored.

Sold by all good grocers.

The Genesee Pure Food Co., Le Roy, N. Y.

GAS STOVE REPAIRING.

If your gas stove needs repairing address a postal card to J. T. Chalmers, 526 Bellecastle St., City. Two or three dollars spent in this way may prove a big saving and bring about better service in the cooking.

Heiskell's

The most obstinate case of [illegible] can be speedily and completely cured by applying [illegible] Heiskell's Ointment. It [illegible] Blotches, [illegible] Skin [illegible]. Before applying the ointment, bathe the parts affected [illegible] Heiskell's Medicated Soap. Heiskell's Blood and Liver Pills [illegible] the liver and purify the blood. [illegible] Soap 25c. [illegible] Pills 25c. [illegible] book of [illegible] wonderful remedies have cured [illegible]

JOHNSTON, HOLLOWAY & CO.,
531 COMMERCE STREET, PHILADELPHIA, PA.

Ointment

The
GUARANTEED
EXTERMINATOR

Stearns' Electric RAT and ROACH Paste

is guaranteed to rid the house, barn or store of cockroaches, rats, mice, water bugs, etc. Sold at druggists or general stores everywhere, or sent prepaid on receipt of price.

2 oz. box, 25c; 16 oz. box, $1.00.

STEARNS' ELECTRIC PASTE CO., Buffalo, N.Y., U.S.A.

Southern University,
Greensboro, Ala.

Last session most successful for several years past. All departments well manned. Excellent library and reading room; well-equipped chemical laboratory; new gymnasium with excellent equipment; [illegible] Health [illegible]. Charges moderate [illegible] all legitimate expenses. [illegible] highness. [illegible] education. [illegible] Next session begins Sept. 16th, 1908. Send for catalogue.

REV. S. M. HOSMER, D.D., Pres.

Vanderbilt University

NASHVILLE, TENN.

900 Students 100 Teachers
Campus of 80 Acres

New College Hall and Chemical Laboratory Just Completed

Expenses low. Literary courses for graduates and undergraduates. Professional courses in Engineering, Law, Medicine, Dentistry, Pharmacy, Theology. Send for catalogue, naming department.

J. E. HART, Secretary.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

New Orleans District—Third Round.

Donaldsonville, at Plattesville....July 26
Algiers....Aug. 2
Louisiana Avenue....Aug. 9
Felicity Street....Aug. 16
First Church....a.m...Aug. 23
Epworth....p.m...Aug 23
Rayne Memorial....Aug. 30
Covington, at Fitzgerald....Sept. 5
Second Church....Sept. 13
Carrollton Avenue....Sept. 20

F. N. PARKER, P.E.

Arcadia Dist.—Third Round.

Arcadia....July 25, 26
District Couference, at Bienville....July 28, 31
Gibsland, at Mt. Moriah....Aug. 1, 2
Jonesboro....Aug. 4,
Vernon, at Oakridge....Aug. 5,
Minden....Aug. 8, 9
Lisbon, at Tulip....Aug. 11,
Winnfield....Aug. 13,
Bernice, at Summerfield....Aug. 15, 16
Ruston....Aug. 18,
Ringgold, at Gr. Bayou....Aug. 22, 23
Lanesville, at Brushwood..Aug. 25,
C. Valley, at Sp. Hill....Aug. 29, 30

BRISCOE CARTER, P. E.

Shreveport Dist.—Third Round.

Pelican, at Bethel....July 25, 26
Coushatta, at Lake End....July 28, 29
Wesley, at Holly Spgs....Aug. 1, 2
Many, at Ft. Jessup....Aug. 8, 9
Zwolle, at Lowering....Aug. 12, 13
Mooringsport....Aug. 15, 16
Ida, at M. Chapel....Aug. 19, 20
Mansfield Circuit, at Sloan.Aug. 22, 23
Mansfield Station....Aug. 23, 24
Hornbeck....Aug. 26, 27
Leesville....Aug. 29, 30
Bon Ami....Sept. 5, 6
De Ridder....Sept. 6, 7
Shreveport—First Ch....Sept. 9,
Noel Tob....Sept. 10,
Texas Avenue....Sept. 13, 14
Provencal....Sept 15, 16
Greenwood....Sept. 19, 20

T. J. WARLICK, P. E.

Baton Rouge Dist.—Third Round.

Ethel, at Tunica....July 26,
Baker, at Deerford....Aug. 1, 2
Zachary and Slaughter, at Slaughter....Aug. 2, 3
St. Francisville....Aug. 8, 9
Jackson....Aug. 9, 10
East Feliciana, at Camp Grounds....Aug. 15, 16
Mt. Hermon, at Pine Ridge.Aug. 22, 23
Kentwood....8 p. m..Aug. 23
Amite City....8 p. m..Aug. 24
Independence, at Red Oak.Aug. 29, 30
Live Oak, at Friendship..Aug. 30, 31
Franklinton, at Angie....Sept. 5, 6
St. Helena, at Darlington.Sept. 12, 13
Pine Grove, at Pipkins....Sept. 13, 14
Melville, at Melville....Sept. 19, 20
New Roads....Sept. 26, 27
Port Vinceut, at Meadows..Oct. 3
Baton Rouge, 1st Church..Oct. 4, 5
Baton Rouge, 2nd Church..Oct. 4, 5

R. W. TUCKER, P. E.

Alexandria Dist.—Third Round.

Glenmora, at Melder....July 25, 26
Boyce, at Fellowship....July 26, 27
Pineville, at Fellowship....Aug. 1, 2
Chicot, at Bethel....Aug. 5,
Master's Chapel....Aug. 8, 9
Boeuf River....Aug. 10,
Pollock, at Liberty Chap...Aug. 15, 16
Natchitoches....Aug. 19,
Summerville, at Pinegrove.Aug. 22, 23
Trout....Aug. 23, 24
Dry Creek, at Spring Hill..Aug. 29, 30
Opelousas....Sept. 3,

N. E. JOYNER, P. E.

Monroe Dist.—Third Round.

Gilbert, at Magnolia....July 25, 26
Eros, at Calhoun....July 29,
Bonita, at Jones....Aug. 1, 2
Merrouge, at Collinston....Aug. 2, 3
Downsville, at Wilhite....Aug. 5,
Mangham, at Union....Aug. 8, 9
Florence, at Ferriday....Aug. 10,
Harrisonburg, at Vidalia....Aug. 11,
Floyd, at Midway....Aug. 15, 16
Tallulah, at T....Aug. 16, 17
Lake Providence, at L. P...Aug. 17,
Waterproof, at Wesley....Aug. 22, 23

J. E. DENSON, P. E.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

Brookhaven Dist.—Third Round.

at Bogue Chitto....July 25, 26
Magnolia....July 26, 27
Pearlhaven, at Pleasant Grove....Wed., July 29,
Brookhaven....Aug. 1, 2
Gallman, at Georgetown....Aug. 3,
Monticello, at Tilton....Aug. 6,
Tylertown, at Summers C..Aug. 8, 9
Summit, at Muddy Spgs....Aug. 12,
Topisaw, at Sartinsville....Aug. 15, 16
Pearl River, at P. Chapel..Aug. 23, 24
Wesson....Aug. 30, 31

GEO. H. THOMPSON, P. E.

Jackson Dist.—Third Round.

Canton....Aug. 2, 3
Pinola, at Rexford....Aug. 8, 9
Florence, at Monterey....Aug. 11
Terry, at Spring Ridge....Aug. 12
Deasonville, at Dover....Aug. 13
Benton, at Zeiglerville....Aug. 15, 16
Flora, at Livingston....Aug. 23, 24
Braxton, at Bethany....Aug. 26
Yazoo City....Aug. 30, 31
Lintonia, at Lake City....Sept. 1
Madison, Ridgeland, 11 a.m.Sept. 5, 6
Jackson, Rankin St., 8 p.m.Sept. 6, 7
Mount Olive....Sept. 9
Eden, at Lodi....Sept. 12, 13

The pastors are requested to give especial attention to Questions 17 and 22, and in both cases to present written reports. A. F. WATKINS, P. E.

Natchez Dist.—Third Round.

Hamburg, at McNair....July 25,
Homochitto, at W. Chapel..July 26, 27
Caseyville, at Bethesda....Aug. 2, 3
Meadville....Aug. 8, 9
Bethel, at Bethel....Aug. 11,
Wilkinson, at Rosetta....Aug. 15, 16
Barlow, at Brandywine....Aug. 22, 23
Bayou Pierre, at Pleas. R..Aug. 24,
Fayette, at Fayette....Aug. 26, 27
Washington, at Pinegrove..Aug. 29,
Natchez, Pearl Street....Aug. 29, 30
Natchez, Jefferson Street..Aug. 30, 31
Woodville....Sept. 5, 6
Percy Creek, at P. C....Sept. 7,

J. T. LEGGETT, P. E.

Vicksburg Dist.—Third Round.

Vicksburg, S. Washington Street....July 24, 26
Vicksburg, Crawford St....July 25, 26
Hermanville, at Carpenter..Aug. 1, 2
Oak Ridge, at Bradleys C..Aug. 8, 9
Anguilla, at Sunflower....Aug. 15, 16
Bolton, at Brownsville....Aug. 22, 23
Satartia, at Wesley Chapel.Aug. 29, 30
Rockey Spriugs, at Hickory Ridge....Sept. 5, 6
Port Gibson, at P. G....Sept. 12, 13
Rolling Fork, at R. F....Sept. 19, 20
Silver City, at Holly Bluff..Sept. 26, 27
Mayersville, at Brunswick..Oct. 3, 4

G. H. GALLOWAY, P. E.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE

Seashore Dist.—Third Round.

New Augusta, at Petal....July 24,
Lucedale, at Shipman....July 25, 26
Bay St. Louis....July 29,
Escatawpa, at Orange Gr..July 31,
Mosspoint, 8 p.m....July 31,
Americus, at Big Point....Aug. 1,
Pascagoula 8 p.m....Aug. 1, 2
Vanvleave, at Red Hill....Aug. 8, 9
Mentorum, at Pinegrove....Aug. 9, 10
Logtown and Pearlington..Aug. 13,
Brooklyn and Bond....Aug. 15, 16
Estabutchie, at Maxie....Aug. 15, 16
Lumberton....Aug. 20,
Carriere, at Picayune....Aug. 21,
McH. and Wiggins, at W..Aug. 22, 23
Howison and Saucier, at St. Johns....Aug. 24,
Longbeach....Aug. 28,
Gulfport, 29th Street, at Mississippi City....Aug. 31,
Biloxi....Sept. 1,
Coalville, Fayard's Chap..Sept. 2,
Ocean Springs, at Oak St...Sept. 2,
Pass Christian....Sept. 3,
Hattiesburg, Main Street....Sept. 6, 7
Broad Street, 8 p.m...Sept. 12,
Court Street....Sept. 13, 14
Wolf River, at R. Bayou..Sept. 19, 20
Gulfport, 25th Ave....Sept. 23,

M. L. BURTON, P. E.

Greenville Dist.—Third Round.

Tunica, at Austin....July 26, 27
Alligator, at Duncan....July 27, 28
Rosedale, at Deeson....Aug. 2, 3
Hillhouse, at Gunnison....Aug. 3, 4
Cleveland Ct., at Lakeview.Aug. 8, 9
Cleveland Station....Aug. 12,
Friar's Point, at Sherard..Aug. 15, 16
Jonestown, at J....Aug. 17,
Robinsonville, at Pop. C...Aug. 19,
Glen Allan, at S. Greenv'le.Sept. 13, 14
Shaw, at S....Sept. 16,
Delta Mission....Sept. 19, 20

R. A. MEEK, P. E.

Oxford Dist.—Third Round.

Toccapola Ct., Tula....July 25, 26
Abbeville Ct., at Union H.Aug. 1, 2
Charleston Ct., at Oak G..Aug. 8, 9
Red Banks Ct., at Mahon..Aug. 15, 16
Paris Ct., at Midway....Aug. 22, 23
Grenada Ct., at Duck Hill.Aug. 29, 30
Waterford Ct., at Pine Mt.Sept. 4,
Holly Springs Ct., at Sylvestria....Sept. 5, 6
Coffeeville Ct., at Antioch.Sept. 12, 13
Potts Camp Ct., Palestine.Sept. 19, 20
Ashland Ct., at Union H.Sept. 26, 27

J. E. CUNNINGHAM, P. E.

Winona Dist.—Third Round.

Belzoni, at Sky Lake....July 25, 26
Webb, at Webb....Aug. 1,
Minter City, Strathmore..Aug. 2, 3
Inverness, at Isola....Aug. 8, 9
Ruleville, at Ruleville....Aug. 9, 10
N Carrollton, at McCarley.Aug. 15, 16
Vance....Aug. 18
Mar's Hill, at Chapel Hill.Aug. 22, 23
Tom Nolen, at Lebanon..Aug. 29, 30
Slate Springs, at Cross R.Sept. 5, 6

E. S. LEWIS, P. E.

Corinth District—Third Round.

Iuka Ct., at Harmony....July 25
Iuka Station, at Iuka....July 26, 27
Tishomingo Ct., at F. G..July 28
Marietta Ct., at Siloam....July 30
Booneville Station, at B..Aug. 1, 2
Mooreville and Saltillo, at Allen's Chapel....Aug. 7
Blue Spgs. Ct., at Bethel..Aug. 8, 9
Mantachie Ct., at Shiloh..Aug. 15, 16
Belmont Ct., at Mt. Olive..Aug. 18
Booneville Ct., at Edges' Chapel....Aug. 22, 23
New Albany Circuit, at Bethlehem....Aug. 29, 30
Ripley and New Hope, at Dumas....Aug. 30, 31
New Albany Station, at Glenfield....Sept. 6, 7
Myrtle Ct., Union Hill....Sept. 8,
Rainey and Falkner....Sept. 12, 13
Jonesboro Ct., Ebenezer..Sept. 15,

BEN. P. JACO, P. E.

Durant District—Third Round.

Chester (South Union)....July 25, 26
Ebenezer....July 31,
Lexington....Aug. 1, 2
Kosciusko Circuit....Aug. 8, 9
Vaiden....Aug. 15, 16
West....Aug. 18,
McCool....Aug. 22, 23
Black Hawk....Aug. 29, 30
Sidon....Sept. 5, 6
Poplar Creek....Sept. 9,

S. M. THAMES, P. E.

Columbus Dist.—Third Round.

Shuqualak, Center Valley..July 25, 26
Winstonville, Mashulaville.Aug. 1, 2
Macon....Aug. 8, 9
Mayhew, Kilgore's Chapel..Aug. 15, 16
Mathiston, Providence....Aug. 22, 23
Crawford, Trinity....Aug. 29, 30
Sturges, Buel's Hill....Sept. 5, 6
Brooksville, Xprairie....Sept. 12, 13
Hebron....Sept. 19, 20
Cedar Bluff....Sept. 26, 27

L. M. LIPSCOMB, P. E.

Sardis Dist.—Third Round.

Byhalia, at Fountainhead..July 25, 26
Coldwater, at Loucas....Aug. 1, 2
Cockrum, at Greenleaf....Aug. 8, 9
Wall Hill, at Marian....Aug. 15, 16
Hernando, at Horn Lake....Aug. 21,
Pleasant Hill, at Indora..Aug. 22, 23
Harrison, at Tillatobia....Aug. 29, 30
Courtland, at Chapel Hill..Aug. 31,
Eureka, at Lovejoy....Sept. 5, 6
Batesville....Sept. 12, 13
Tyro, at Malmaison....Sept. 16,
Crenshaw, at Crenshaw....Sept. 19, 20
Longtown....Sept. 25,
Arkabutla, at Harmony....Sept. 26, 27

W. M. YOUNG, P. E.

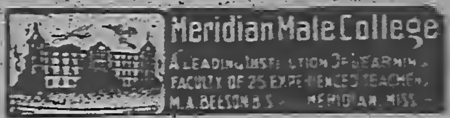
Aberdeen Dist.—Third Round.

Amory and Nettleton, at N..July 26, 27
Prairie, at Pain Chapel....Aug. 1, 2
Houlka, at Concord....Aug. 6,
Palestine, at P....Aug. 8, 9
Pontotoc, at Harmony....Aug. 10,
Montpelier, at Palestine....Aug. 15, 16
Vardaman, at Sharon....Aug. 19,
Bounds, at Pleas. Ridge...Aug. 21,
Pittsboro, at Chapel Hill....Aug. 22, 23
Smithville, at P. Memorial.Aug. 29, 30
Aberdeen Ct., Riggan's C..Sept. 3,
Okalona Ct., at Tranquil...Sept. 5, 6
Nettleton Ct., at Shiloh....Sept. 10,
Fulton, at Hopewell....Sept. 12, 13

J. H. MITCHELL, P. E.

Watch for the transparencies of Argo Red Salmon in your grocer's window.

The Law School Vanderbilt University,
NASHVILLE, TENN.
For catalogue or special information, address,
ALLEN HALL, LL.D.,
Chairman of the Faculty.



Meridian Male College
A LEADING INSTITUTION OF LEARNING
FACULTY OF 25 EXPERIENCED TEACHERS
M. A. BEESON D. S. — MERIDIAN, MISS.

TULANE UNIVERSITY of LOUISIANA
Medical Department.
Its advantages for practical instruction, both in ample laboratories and abundant hospital materials, are unequaled. Free access is given to the great Charity Hospital with 900 beds and 30,000 patients annually. Special instruction is given daily at the bedside of the sick. Department of Pharmacy also. The next session begins October 1st. 1908. For catalogue and information, address DR. ISADORE DYER, DEAN, P. O. Drawer 261, NEW ORLEANS, LA.

CLIFTONIANS
Covet Constant Covenanters
to
Keep Karakter,
Invite Ideation,
Kultivate Kourage,
and
Grab Coin for Grenada College.
For particulars, address
MISS ALMA BECK, Pres't.
Drew, Miss.

3½ to 200 H.P. Saw Mill Outfits.
Steam, Gasoline or Water Power.
Planers, Shingle Mills, Corn Mills.
WE PAY FREIGHT DeLOACH MILL MANUFACTURING CO.
BOX 100 BRIDGEPORT, ALA.

MOXINE CHILL TONIC
Only Tonic—one bottle—one cure.

MANSFIELD FEMALE COLLEGE
A Christian School for young ladies. Preparatory and Full College Courses. Denominational but nonsectarian. Competent Instructors, healthful location, large campus, indoor and outdoor recreation, special advantages in Music, Art, Elocution and Languages. Aims to develop true womanliness and self-reliance. Terms reasonable.
Catalogue free on request.
ADDRESS
Prof. Olin S. Dean, Pres.
Mansfield Female College,
MANSFIELD, LA.

GRATEFUL THANKS

"I write you a letter of grateful thanks," says Mrs. Fannie Rogers, of Pages Mills, S. C., "for the good that Cardui has done me. One day, I was taken all of a sudden and truly thought Death had struck me. My head felt like it was frozen and my limbs felt like they were burning up. I kept getting worse and the doctor only gave me temporary relief. I had chills and fever, bad appetite, bad feelings, bad dreams, was irregular, and suffered from other female troubles. At last I began to take Cardui and almost found relief in the first dose. I continued to take it and can truthfully testify that it is worth its weight in gold to any suffering woman. Now I am regular, can eat, sleep, and work every day, and feel good. Oh! What a God-send your medicine was to me!"

Try Cardui. Your druggist sells it. It is a gentle, curative remedy, for women's ills. Cardui cannot do you any harm, and is nearly sure to do great good. Get a bottle today.

MAIN STREET, HATTIESBURG.

On Sunday, June 14, Brother George A. Guice, of Saucier, began a series of services with us, preaching twice a day for ten days. Twenty more evangelical, more appropriate, more spiritual, stronger sermons it has not been the writer's privilege to have heard. They were food for our people in the strength of which they shall go for many days. In the social circles and in the pulpit alike he so impressed our people that his coming again will be welcomed with delight. No clap-trap movements, no questionable propositions, but a straightforward presentation of the faith once delivered to the saints and after the manner of our fathers.

After a cessation of six months, work was resumed on our new church on June 15, with promise that it shall go on to completion. No music ever so stirred the heartbeat of this pastor as the sound of the saw and hammer about this building for the Lord.

Dr. McMurry spent last Sunday with us, capturing our people with his presence and his sermons. He made the mistake of some others nearer home, of thinking Hattiesburg was only a wayside village and bought a ticket via the L. & N. and Pass Christian. But we forgive him the imputation.

T. B. HOLLOMAN.

REVIVAL AT LONGTOWN, MISS.

Dear Dr. Boswell: We have just closed a revival here. It was not a protracted meeting. It was a revival, in deed and in truth. Dear old Jessie McGee, from Water Valley, Miss., expounded God's Word to dying men and women in such weight and power that man is not capable, nor equal to. Only through wisdom from the merciful throne of God could man speak in such love, weight and force as did this poor, dear boy. The power of God was here in more convincing, convicting and converting power than I ever saw it; absolutely men and women, not children, fell under the overpowering Spirit of God and asked what they could do to be saved. They quivered and shook as I imagine old Belshazzer did when he saw and beheld the unknown handwriting on the wall, and then, oh, how they did plead to God for a dispensation of his mercy, love and compassion. Then, of course, God in his tender sympathy poured out his Spirit into their souls, for he promised that when men and women thirsted after righteousness they should be filled and he certainly filled them here. Oh, what a loving, saving Jesus we have!

Now, I will give you facts and figures. There were some sixty-five to seventy-five who professed faith in Christ and some 200 reclaimed. I wish I could tell you about some scenes that took place in the altar and on the highways and hedges. Words are inadequate to express it, and space and time will not permit.

I want to ask the prayers of every Christian that reads this piece, as we go to-morrow in our Pleasant Grove meeting, and will be in seven other meetings for the next seven weeks.

I am fraternally,

W. V. SHEARER, P. C.

Argo Red Salmon is the famous Red Salmon of the North, caught in Alaska's icy waters. There is no better salmon packed.

MOXINE
Cures LAGRIPPE and Colds.

A "DRY TOWN" REDUCES TAXES.

The following appeared recently in the Washington (D. C.) Star, as special correspondence from Laurel, Prince George's County, Maryland:

The advocates of local option in Laurel two years ago asked the legislature to pass an act authorizing an increase of 10 cents in the tax rate to be levied for 1906 and 1907 to help make up the reduction in revenue to Laurel from the loss of the amount previously received from the saloon licenses, which was done. The amount received from licenses under the high-license law was approximately $2,000 per annum, and the additional tax rate would yield only about $1,000.

Under the present administration all current bills against the town have been paid and the indebtedness outstanding May 1, 1906, has been considerably reduced. Under the administration of Mayor Gilbert and the present board of councilmen economy has been practiced, it is stated, and it was not necessary to have the legislature extend the time for the collection of the additional tax. In addition to the brick walk tax of 5 cents to pay for the bonds issued under the act of 1888, the taxes will be less by 10 cents, making a total reduction in the tax rate of 15 cents.

HENDERSONVILLE, N. C.

"Pine Grove Lodge" will be open for guests after June 1. Delightful location; special rates for June.
Address, Mrs. E. C. Bedell.

THE BEST MADE.
Angell's Cough and Whooping Cough Syrup
For Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Coughs, Colds and Throat Trouble.
CONTAINS NO OPIUM OR MORPHINE,
All Druggists, Price 25 and 50 Cents.

A GOOD

PIANO,
PIANO PLAYER or PLAYER PIANO see the Grunewald's
Before You Buy.
Agents for the Latest Improved and best Instruments on the Market.

WARD SEMINARY Nashville, Tenn., offers [illegible] and young women seminary and [illegible] Courses. Art, Expression, Conservatory of Music; native teachers of French and German; city advantages; all outdoor sports on beautiful city and [illegible] campus; mild and equable climate. Only 175 boarding pupils received. Write for Catalogue.

SCROFULINE
The Wonderful Healer
Unsurpassed for tetter, ezcema, skin and scalp troubles, old sores, ulcers and piles, any nature or duration. Goes to the very seat of the trouble, kills the germs and extracts all foreign matter. Sold under a positive guarantee, 25c, 50c and $1.00 per jar. Mail orders promptly filled. Stamps accepted. Liberal sample upon request. Address,
THE SCROFULINE COMPANY, Waco, Texas.
SOLE OWNERS AND MANUFACTURERS

W. H. BYRNE, Pres. JOHN T. GIBBONS, Vice-Pres. P. E. BURKE, Sec'y.
Capital........................$200,000.00
Assets........................479,860.90
HIBERNIA INSURANCE CO.,
No. 305 Camp Street,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
LOSSES PROMPTLY PAID.

YOUR SUMMER VACATION
IS NEAR AT HAND
THE
Southern SOUTHERN SUNSET ROUTE PACIFIC Pacific
WILL HAVE MANY ATTRACTIVE ROUTES TO OFFER BY RAIL OR WATER
To CALIFORNIA
GO ONE WAY ---- RETURN ANOTHER THROUGH THE MOST BEAUTIFUL SCENERY IN THE WORLD
To NEW YORK
ON ONE OF OUR MAGNIFICENT STEAMSHIPS --- FIVE BIG BOATS
"CREOLE," "MOMUS," "ANTILLES," "PROTEUS," "COMUS."
ASK YOUR AGENT FOR LITERATURE, OR WRITE
G. E. GUEDRY, Div. Pass. Agt. LAKE CHARLES
F. E. BATTURS, Gen. Pass. Agt. NEW ORLEANS

Sunday School

By W. B. Campbell.

LESSON FOR JULY 26.

SAUL REJECTED BY THE LORD.

1st Samuel xv: 13-23.

Golden text: "The Lord our God will we serve and his voice will we obey." Josh. xxiv: 24.

Saul was a king for the passing time. The form of government was in an unsettled condition, passing from the administration of the judges to that of a king, was new and untried, altogether in the nature of an experiment, and only one event of the many following each other in God's order, from the rule of the Patriarch's on down to the reign of the Prince of Peace in the hearts and minds of men. Saul did as near as God intended he should do for a people who thought they could get along without the overruling Providence that had attended them through their national existence. As Saul was a king of the people's selection, it naturally follows that he would depend on the people for success in time of war, and counsel in time of peace. Samuel was a man of prayer, and he taught the people that God hears the cry of his children. The record does not show that Saul prayed: and whatever he did in following religious custom was hollow, empty and full of formality. Saul was not spiritual enough to comprehend the gravity of his error in taking upon himself the service of the sanctuary that God had allotted in holiness to the sons of Levi. He could not be impressed with the sacredness of the temple service. There was no excuse for this sin, though he was king he was as any other man in the eye of God, and he was as unfit as any to enter the holy place.

Saul knew the emptiness of mere formality, or he ought to, for Samuel taught them that "God looketh on the heart" and "regardeth not the outward appearance." Samuel was to come down to Gilgal after seven days, and this time was a test of Saul's character. Two years had passed since Samuel anointed him king, and the crown did not seem to rest light on his head. The king's life was like the passage through which Jonathan marched to his attack on the Philistine army; there was a sharp rock on one side and a sharp rock on the other side. These sharp rocks were of his own make, for he was entirely a man of the world, trusting in his own strength. The Philistine army was as Bozez, and Seneh was the fear and trembling of the Hebrews. The king was blessed with a dutiful son; all that is told us of Jonathan attests his nobility of character. The march of the young prince between the sharp rock on the one side and the sharp rock on the other side of the passage in the way to the encampment of the enemy was in service of his father and king.

May no sharp rocks of despondency or lack of faith deter us in our service to the Christ, our King of the Israel of God. The expedition of Jonathan turned the tide of events, and victory was on the side of the Hebrews. However, the king was not elated. There must have been a darkness in his soul through which he could not see the hand of God. In his restlessness he sought the Urim and Thummim to inquire of the Lord. The guilt of having "forced himself" into the sacred precincts of the priestly office closed to him the ears of Jehovah. "The Lord saved Israel that day "for his great name's sake," not for the sake of the king or the people. As for Saul "God answered him not that day," which was the awful shadow going before his entire and final rejection by the Lord. There was no message from the Lord to Saul until Samuel came. Saul's obedience was to be put to a final test. The time had come when the cup of iniquity of the Amelekites was full. In the days when Israel was as a traveler, weary and foot-sore from the long, long journey, on the threshold of that land of rest so long promised of God, Amelek fought against the hosts of the Lord. For this Amelek was to be destroyed from the face of the earth. Saul, with his army, was to effect this, and full and complete instructions were given him by Samuel, coming direct from God himself. Saul's obedience was not full and complete. Far from it, for the enemy's king was saved alive, and great herds of cattle and sheep were brought back as spoils from the battle. Saul returned from the conflict elated with victory, and he, with the people, were drunken with covetousness, blinded with disobedience. The old prophet came out to meet the returning king. When Saul saw the prophet he began, "Blessed be thou of the Lord; I have performed the commandment of the Lord." Samuel knew the truth. He had spent the night in crying unto the Lord for Saul. "What meaneth, then, this bleating of sheep in mine ears, and this lowing of oxen that I hear?" Saul's excuses did not stay the words of doom that trembled on the lips of the prophet, as he reminded him of how God brought him forth from obscurity to be king over Israel; how he had continually acted contrary to the counsel of the Almighty. Saul continued to laud himself, telling how he had captured the enemy's king, and brought the best of the herds to offer up as a sacrifice to God. "To obey is better than sacrifice, and to hearken than the fat of rams. For rebellion is as the sin of witchcraft and stubborness is as iniquity and idolatry. Because thou hast rejected the word of the Lord, he hath also rejected thee." There was but one refrain in Saul's reply: "I have sinned," and he found no place for repentance, even though he had sought it carefully in tears. Henceforth and forever the first king of Israel would be without God and without hope in the world. The further history of Saul is the saddest ever penned of any man on earth. It is sad to us who know of the great love of our Father in heaven, and to reflect on how many in the world to-day that know not of that love. The Spirit of God had departed from Saul. He was without that sweet indwelling Comforter and Monitor. Let us rejoice in our great hope, "which hope we have as an anchor of the soul," even our obedience to the Lord's anointed, the Christ of God, assuring ourselves that "the Lord our God will we serve and his voice will he obey."

Try one can of Argo Red Salmon and you will use more.

In the warfare against sin there is no need for a man to haul down the colors of his soul.—Exchange.

HOW'S THIS?

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligations made by his firm.

WALDING, KINNAN & MARVIN,
Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, Ohio.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Testimonials sent free. Price, 75c. per bottle. Sold by all Druggists.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

MOXINE CHILL TONIC
Only Tonic—one bottle—one cure.

For Jellies and Preserves

On the proper sealing of your jellies and preserves depends their "keeping." Metal and glass caps too often leak; tying with paper is next to useless; [illegible]

Simply pour Pure Refined Paraffine over the tops of your jellies, or dip the closed end of the jar after cooling in melted

PURE
REFINED PARAFFINE

[illegible] inside. Sold everywhere.

STANDARD OIL COMPANY
(Incorporated)

THE BLACKSTONE SCHOOL FOR GIRLS, BLACKSTONE, VA.
JAMES CANNON, JR., M. A., Principal.

has since 1894 given "Thorough Instruction Under Positively Christian Influences at the Lowest Possible Cost."

RESULT: It is to-day with its faculty of 32, its student body of 403, and its plant worth $125,000.

The Leading Training School For Girls in Virginia.

$150 pays all charges for the year, including table board, and tuition in all subjects except music and elocution. Send for catalogue and application blank.

THE AMERICAN PAINT WORKS,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.,
MANUFACTURES EVERYTHING IN PAINTS,
Guaranteed Strictly Pure
The Climatic Prepared Paints, Perfecto White and
SOLD SUBJECT TO A CHEMICAL ANALYSIS.
DIRECTORS:
Thos. S. Witherspoon, President. Francis Martin, Vice President.
R. B. Parker. John McCloskey, Geo. A. Hero.
PHONE, MAIN 915. Special Attention to Mail Orders.

RHEUMATISM, DYSPEPSIA and
DISEASES of the NERVOUS SYSTEM
Including Naurasthenia & Paralysis.

Our new natural methods of treatment have been so succesful in the diseases named above and in other chronic ailments that we guarantee satisfaction in every case we accept for treatment. If, after one full week's treatment and observance of our instructions, a patient is not convinced that our treatment is just what is needed for the cure of his or her disease, the week's treatment including room and board in the sanitarium will cost the patient nothing whatever.

If other treatment has failed to benefit you, come to us and BE CURED and at the same time learn how to avoid illness in the future. Illustrated phamphlet and diagnosis blank free.

The Biggs Sanitarium, GREENSBORO, N. C.

Louisiana Railway and Navigation Company.

PASSENGER SERVICE.

Daily Passenger Trains between Shreveport and New Orleans. Daily Passenger Trains between Shreveport and Winnfield.

FREIGHT SERVICE.

Exceptional good time on carload traffic. Special attention given less than carload shipments all of which moves in

DAILY THROUGH PACKAGE CARS.

CLARENCE ELLERBE, Assistant to President.
H. B. HELM, General Superintendent.
E. C. D. MARSHALL, General Freight & Passenger Agent.
Shreveport, La.

Is Your Baby Teething?

There is no need to dread baby's second summer—the trying teething period—just keep its system in condition to make teething easy and save sleepless nights.

Teethina
(Teething Powders)

was first used by Dr. C. J. Moffett, a graduate of Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, in his extensive and successful treatment of children's diseases incident to teething and summer complaints—a standard remedy for forty years throughout the South. It contains the elements recommended by the most advanced medical sciences as necessary for removing the cause of disease and keeping baby's system in condition to make teething easy. In nine out of ten cases of cholera infantum that prove fatal from ordinary neglect and subsequent treatment, the use of Teethina would have saved the child. At all Druggists, 25c. Or from Dr. C. J. Moffett Medicine Company, St. Louis. Write for your free "Mother's Booklet."

RANDOLPH-MACON ACADEMY

For Boys and Young Men

Fits for college, university or business. Work endorsed by over 40 colleges and universities. Beautiful and healthful location. Ample athletic grounds; gymnasium. Terms only $230. No extras. For catalogue, address E. SUMTER SMITH, Principal, Bedford City, Va.

ILLINOIS
CENTRAL
The Double Track Route.

26 Hours to Chicago
21 Hours to St. Louis
22 Hours to Louisville
26 Hours to Cincinnati

Through Sleeping Cars to above points. Dining Cars, Library Cars, Chair Cars and Coaches.
Full Particulars at
City Ticket Office,
141 ST. CHARLES STREET.
Phone Main 2618.

Visit MINERAL WELLS
For Health and Pleasure, and WEST TEXAS
FOR FINE AGRICULTURAL LANDS REACHED VIA Texas & Pacific RAILWAY.
Homeseekers Tickets on Sale Daily
Write for Free Booklets.
E. P. TURNER,
General Passenger Agent,
DALLAS . . . TEXAS

MOXINE
Cures LAGRIPPE and Colds.

BELLS.
Steel Alloy Church and School Bells. ☞ Send for Catalogue. The C. S. BELL CO., Hillsboro, O.

OUR FRIENDS.

We give below a list of our friends who have helped us by sending in the largest number of subscribers. In this list the names sent in the last few days have not been included. In a few weeks we will show the list of clubs again.

Those who have sent us between five and ten are:

Rev. L. F. Alford, Pachuta, Miss.
Rev. S. S. Bogan, Milburn, La.
Rev. H. J. Boltz, Pleasant Hill, La.
Rev. Paul M. Brown, Trout, La.
Rev. W. M. Dorman, Lexington, Miss.
Rev. B. P. Fulliove, Potts Camp.
Rev. R. S. Gale, Lucedale, Miss.
Rev. J. D. Harper, Bunkie, La.
Rev. W. L. Linfield, Woodville, Miss.
Rev. Thos. J. Martin, Ringgold, La.
Rev. W. F. Rogers, Chester, Miss.
Rev. D. Scarborough, Fayette, Miss.
Rev. J. D. Simpson, Ackerman, Miss.
Rev. L. E. Alford, Meridian, Miss.
Rev. J. H. Bass, Charleston, Miss.
Rev. R. H. Barr, DeKalb, Miss.
Rev. W. J. Newsom, Jackson, La.
Rev. F. B. Ormond, Lauderdale, Miss.
Rev. J. A. Parker, Simsport, La.
Rev. J. A. Poe, Mayhew, Miss.
Rev. Ed. Stine, Grand Chenier, La.
Rev. W. L. Storment, West, Miss.
Rev. B. B. Sullivan, Montpelier, Miss.
Rev. E. L. Whiddon, Rocky Springs.
Rev. R. A. Davis, Tallulah, La.
Rev. H. W. Featherstun, Columbia.
Rev. Dennis Fordham, Green, La.
Rev. J. P. Haney, Greensburg, La.
Rev. J. M. Huggins, Wall Hill, Miss.
Rev. J. T. McVey, DeKalb, Miss.
Rev. J. L. Neill, Pass Christian, Miss.
Rev. C. McDonald, Lake, Miss.
Rev. J. R. Wilson, Mt. Pleasant.
Miss Mit Doty, Kosciusko, Miss.
Rev. W. G. Harbin, Fayette, Miss.
Rev. L. T. Sargent, Mariette, Miss.
Rev. R. I. Allen, Carrollton, Miss.
Rev. H. P. Lewis, Jr., Natchez, Miss.
Rev. H. P. Lewis, Sr., Liberty, Miss.
Rev. J. A. Alford, Jackson.
Rev. G. D. Anders, McComb, Miss.
Rev. McK. M. Black, Purvis, Miss.
Rev. D. L. Cogdell, Coahoma, Miss.
Rev. J. M. Carley, Prentiss, Miss.
Rev. J. E. Craig, Tickfaw, La.
Rev. T. J. Durrett, Nettleton, Miss.
Rev. R. A. Ellis, Yazoo City, Miss.
Rev. T. E. Gregory, Tomnolen, Miss.
Rev. W. H. Lane, Monticello, Miss.
Rev. A. H. Parker, Pelican, La.
Miss Susie Reed, Natchez, Miss.
Rev. B. H. Rawls, Decatur, Miss.
Rev. S. L. Riggs, Kentwood, La.
Rev. J. S. Rutledge, Pinegrove, La.
Rev. R. O. Weir, Bayou Lachute, La.

Those who sent from ten to fifteen are:

Rev. D. W. Babb, Crawford, Miss.
Rev. R. H. Wynn, Minden, La.
Rev. E. H. Rook, Black Hawk, Miss.
Rev. D. W. Babb, Crawford, Miss.
Rev. W. W. Simmons, Gloster, Miss.
Rev. J. V. Bennett, Auburn, Miss.
Rev. R. T. Nolan, Philadelphia, Miss.
Rev. R. Randle, Lisbon, La.
Rev. W. A. Clark, Kosciusko, Miss.
Rev. H. C. Edmonson, Slate Springs.
Rev. C. H. Ellis, Ellisville, Miss.
Rev. R. T. Nolen, Philadelphia, Miss.
Rev. J. M. Alford, Baker, La.
Rev. F. A. Lane, Forest, Miss.
Rev. W. W. Moore, Montrose, Miss.
Rev. A. G. Shankle, Ruston, La.

Those who sent from fifteen to twenty are:

Rev. S. D. Howard, Eunice, La.
Rev. J. A. Goad, McCool, Miss.
Rev. Isaac L. Peebles, Bolton, Miss.
Rev. D. M. Floyd, Water Valley, Miss.
Rev. W. W. Woollard, Watervalley.
Rev. W. J. Dawson, Ellisville, Miss.
Rev. J. B. King, McComb, Miss.
Rev. J. M. Massey, Satartia, Miss.
Rev. B. E. Meigs, Carthage, Miss.
Rev. J. L. Lay, Alberta, La.
Rev. W. W. Perry, Leakesville.
Mrs. T. S. Randle, Lanesville, La.
Rev. W. B. Lewis, Mosspoint, Miss.
Rev. W. L. Blackwell, Vicksburg.
Rev. W. W. Graves, Rose Hill, Miss.

Those who sent from twenty to thirty are:

Rev. J. J. Garner, West, Miss.
Rev. P. O. Lowry, Many, La.
Rev. A. W. Langley, N. Albany, Miss.
Rev. J. T. Abney, Sumrall, Miss.
T. J. Wilson (deceased), Belden, Miss.
Rev. W. W. Jones.
Rev. J. W. Rogers, Winona, Miss.
Rev. E. Blizzard, Myrtle, Miss.
Rev. S. A. Brown, Byhalia, Miss.
Rev. R. W. Evans, Brownville, Miss.
Rev. J. H. Foreman, Hermanville.
Miss M. Higginbotham, Merrouge.
Rev. A. A. Martin, Abbeville, Miss.
Rev. W. G. Harris, New Albany.
Rev. R. T. Pickett, Mentorum, Miss.
Rev. T. H. Porter, Webb, Miss.
Rev. O. L. Savage, Iuka, Miss.
Rev. M. L. Ward, Mantachie, Miss.
Rev. W. W. Woolard.
Rev. G. W. Gordon, Myrtle, Miss.

Those who sent over thirty are:

Rev. G. W. Bachman, Winona, Miss.
Rev. W. G. Harbin, Greenville, Miss.
Rev. C. C. Griffin, Daleville, Miss.
Rev. M. H. Moore, Sharon, Miss.
Rev. J. F. McClellan, Trenton, Miss.

BLOOD POISONING POSITIVELY CURED

Hereditary, primary, secondary and tertiary. Scrofula, Eczema, Blood and Skin Disease. If you have exhausted old-time methods, and want to get well, write me in fullest confidence for proof of cures. Take my treatment and get well. A. A. BROWER, M. D.
San Antonia, Tex.

REVIVAL AT MONTICELLO, MISS.

Dear Editor: We have just closed one of the best meetings held for years in the town of Monticello. The preaching was done by Rev. M. L. White, of Pearlhaven, for three days. Then Dr. Jones, of the Presbyterian Church, came in and united with us. The two men of God did the preaching with great power and demonstration of the Holy Spirit. Every church in town was greatly revived.

There were seven accessions to our Church on profession of faith, and several by certificate; six to the Baptist Church and several to the Presbyterian Church. We feel sure of several true conversions. Pray for us that the good impressions made upon this little town may be lasting and that God's richest blessings may rest upon the town of Monticello.

W. H. LANE, P. C.

There is no article of food more nutritious or healthful than Argo Red Salmon. As a brain and muscle builder, it is afr ahead of beef or other meats.

LAKE CIRCUIT.

Our protracted meeting at Lawrence began July 5 and closed the night of the 9th. Brother Peebles came to our help on Monday and remained to the close. His preaching is probably better than ever. It attracts and moves the people. There were two valuable accessions and the church was greatly revived. The books of Brother Peebles' own writing sold will be a lasting good.

C. McDONALD.

Lake, Miss.

RAW RASHES.

on the hands and face. Have you many times wished for something to remove these unsightly, painful rashes? Many sufferers have been relieved by Tetterine after all else had failed. Tetterine is cure absolute for tetter, ringworm, eczema, dandruff and all other skin diseases. No matter how long you have suffered, Tetterine will cure. A trial will prove it. Buy a box to-day. 50c per box at druggists or by mail on receipt of price.

J. T. SHUPTRINE, Savannah, Ga.

MOXINE CHILL TONIC
Only Tonic—one bottle—one cure.

The most famous Coffee in America is New Orleans Coffee Roasted and Blended according to the Creole-French Formula You get it when you buy
LUZIANNE COFFEE
A COFFEE OF SUPERB QUALITY—DOUBLE STRENGTH—EXQUISITE BLEND—LOW PRICE
25¢ 1 LB CAN
SOLD EVERYWHERE
THE REILY-TAYLOR COMPANY, NEW ORLEANS, U.S.A.

100 Visiting or Business CARDS Neatly Printed 50cts.
Wallace Card Co., 5104 Laurel St., New Orleans

Best College
FOR GIRLS
in the South.

Established 1854, Columbia College has since held its place as best school for girls in the South.

Large Faculty, trained instructors. New buildings, healthful, sanitary surroundings.

Full college course leading to A.B., B.S., B.L., M.S., and M.A.

Musical instruction, both vocal and instrumental. Best possible mental and moral training.

Catalogue on request.

OPENS SEPT. 2[illegible], 1908.

W. W. DANIEL, A.M., D.D., Pres.
Columbia College, S. C.

NEW BOOK.
Parliamentary Usage,

based upon the Journals of the General Conferences, M. E. Church, South. 52 pages. By J. E. Harrison, President San Antonio Female College. 25 cents. Order from Smith & Lamar. First edition, Aug. 1st.

HIS CHANCE IS GONE
YOUR CHANCE IS HERE

The question is, are you qualified to hold a responsible position? Have you had a thorough commercial training? Bankers, Merchants and Manufacturers want you, if you are competent. Now Is Your Chance. Two roads are open to young people. One requires no training and leads to failure. The other requires training and leads to success. We prepare young men and women, and start them on the road to success by securing them high-salaried positions. Fine climate, board cheap. Write for illustrated catalog and further information.
HATTIESBURG BUSINESS COLLEGE, HATTIESBURG, MISS.

BLYMYER CHURCH BELLS.
UNLIKE OTHER BELLS SWEETER, MORE DURABLE, LOWER PRICE. OUR FREE CATALOGUE TELLS WHY.
Write to Cincinnati Bell Foundry Co., Cincinnati, O.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup

has been used for over Sixty-Five Years by millions of mothers for their children while teething with perfect success. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain; cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for Diarrhoea. Sold by Druggists in every part of the world. Be sure and ask for Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup, and take no other kind. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Guaranteed under the Food and Drugs Act, June 30th, 1906. Serial Number 1098. An Old and Well Tried Remedy.

MOXINE CHILL TONIC
Only Tonic—one bottle—one cure.

NEW ORLEANS
CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE

Millsaps College Library

REV. JOHN W. BOSWELL, Editor.
REV. H. WHITEHEAD, Ass't Editor.
NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, JULY 30, 1908.
CHAS. O. CHALMERS, Publisher, Office, 512 Camp St., New Orleans.
VOL. 55—No. 30.
"PROVE ALL THINGS; HOLD FAST THAT WHICH IS GOOD."
WHOLE No. 5410.

Glances at the World.

Already "straw votes" are being taken to determine the presidency. Enthusiastic friends go through a railroad train and take the votes of the passengers, many of whom are ineligible to vote in the State where the straw-ballot is taken, but the result is published as an indication of what will be the outcome at the polls in November. In one train to-day it may be the vote will go to Mr. Bryan; to-morrow, on the same train, it may go to Mr. Taft. Such polling of the people is useless as a pointer, but serves to amuse or interest the passengers, and always pleases the successful candidate. Such a vote was taken a few days since on a far Western train that elected Mr. Bryan. It is reported that "he was greatly pleased." Even great men are thankful for small favors.

* * *

It has been given out that Mr. Bryan, candidate for President, has concluded that he can do more effective work in behalf of his candidacy by remaining at home and writing "signed editorials" for such papers as will use them than by canvassing the country and making speeches. We think it likely that he is correct in this conclusion. It has always appeared to us as unseemly for a man, set forward by the people for the highest and most dignified office in the land, to go abroad and harangue the people at every railroad station, as if he were running for beat or township constable. In Mr. Bryan's first canvass he was more like a wild man than a sane and dignified candidate for President. In the second canvass he was almost as bad. He has not lived the [illegible] years in vain. Mr. Taft, the Republ[illegible] speech-maker him[illegible] way to advance [illegible]

A new use f[illegible] As is well kno[illegible] pecially in sawing [illegible] the boards the greater the waste—in some cases fully one-third of the log is turned into dust. Attempts have been made to turn the dust into paper, but such attempts have been only partially sucessful, except, it is said, in making an ordinary grade of blotting paper. In Germany it is now being ground into a very fine flour and sold to dynamite factories and used as an absorbent for the chemicals which enter into the composition of the high explosive. In making the flour only ordinary mill-stones are used, but great care has to be taken to keep the stones from setting fire to the dust. Of course, only a small fraction of saw dust can be utilized in dynamite-making, but the experiment shows what can be done with a waste product. May be in time the effort to make paper of it will succeed. The paper mills will then have all the cheap material needed for their purposes. It would be a great blessing to the country if something could be done to break the grip of the paper trust.

* * *

Hon. Thomas E. Watson has again been nominated by the Populists for President of the United States. Mr. Watson is an honorable man, and far above the average in ability, but he will cut a mighty little figure in the present canvass. We can honor him as we do all other men who stand for vital principles. The principles for which he stands were once exceedingly popular, and bid fair to wreck the Democratic party, and did wreck it in many sections, but it waned, and we think Mr. Watson will be unable to make any serious breach in the ranks at this time. Mr. Watson did one thing that was sensible. He delivered his speech of acceptance on the spot. Mr. Taft has been nominated more than a month, and has not yet made his speech of acceptance. He is waiting for formal notification, which might have been given the day after the convention adjourned. Nor has Mr. Bryan accepted. He is likewise waiting, and the committee appointed to tell him is slow. There is no good sense in such red-tape way of proceeding. Why not officially notify the nominee at once and let him relieve himself of the speech that is struggling for expression? It would likewise relieve the politicians who are in a great strain. They are like war-horses—ready for battle, but impatient for the charge.

* * *

The Hon. Eugene W. Chafin, of Chicago, was nominated for the Presidency by the National Prohibition Party in convention last week. After the nomination he set to work vigorously to canvassing for the place. He spoke in nine towns [illegible] Chicago in one day. He traveled in [illegible] He is reported to have said in [illegible]ies: "If I am elected President [illegible]tes I will have a Congress which [illegible]bitory law, and if there are any [illegible] refuse to obey the law, and the [illegible] are unable to enforce it, I shall [illegible] conferred upon me by the Constitution and call out the militia, the standing army and the navy, and enforce prohibition on every inch of territory under the American flag." That sounds like the talk of an insane man. We seriously doubt whether he uttered such words. Notwithstanding, we fully believe that if Mr. Chafin is elected President he will do his best, as far as the Constitution will allow, to enforce prohibitory laws wherever they exist. But will not Mr. Bryan or Mr. Taft, one of whom is sure to be elected, do the same thing? If not, what is the oath of office worth? The only thing that stands in the way of enforcement of State prohibition is Federal law, but for which law Mr. Roosevelt, we dare say, would long since have put a stop to the practice of one State nullifying the law of another. But Mr. Chafin first promises a Congress that will do his bidding. That is very like the cook-book's recipe for making rabbit-pie: "First, catch the rabbit."

* * *

The following figures, taken from the Northwestern Christian Advocate, clearly show that the sentiment of the prohibitionists is getting in its work. They give us encouragement. "Prohibition evidently prohibits somewhere. The international revenue receipts from distilled and fermented liquors for the month of January, 1908, showed, as compared with January, 1907, a direct decrease of $479,533.63 from the spirits and $22,580.71 from the fermented liquors, a total of a little over $500,000 decrease for the first thirty-one days of 1908. The official figures of the bureau for the month of February show, as compared with the month of February, 1907, a decrease in revenue receipts from spirits of $1,134,867.91, and a decrease in receipts from fermented liquors of $187,289.86, a total decrease of $1,322,157.77. For the first two months of 1908, therefore, as compared with the first two months of 1907, the Internal Revenue Department reports a total decrease in collections from spirituous and fermented liquor of $1,824,292.11. Mida's Criterion (Chicago, Ill.) for March 16, in its staff correspondence from Philadelphia, says: 'There is not much activity in the wine and spirit market. . . . . Our trade is at the present time contending against the greatest and most widespread movement for prohibition that it has ever been called upon to meet, and the uncertainty of the future is not conducive to large buying.'"

* * *

We reproduce the following paragraph quoted in the Greene County Herald: "Some person is responsible for every infraction of law. The corporation can be guilty of nothing because it is not possessed of a moral nature. Blame cannot be fixed upon it. As well fine and imprison a gun which is used in the commission of a murder as to fine a corporation for violating the law. The prime requisite in dealing with corporations is to ascertain the responsible parties and apply the law to them as individuals. Laws should be passed compelling every corporation to designate an executive head, and hold that executive head responsible for the acts of his company as truly as for his act as an individual. Let the moral reprobation for his acts as the executive head of a corporation be as an individual. Ten men in the penitentiary would be a better deterrent from the violation of the law than the collection of millions of dollars in fines. We would then be saved the humiliating spectacle of punishing whom we should protect and protecting whom we should punish. Our system tends to develop anarchists from patriots. The spectacle of our nation is that of an unnatural mother who pets and coddles her strong sons and daughters, but beats and starves her weak ones."

Christian Advocate.

Published for the Louisiana, Mississippi and North Mississippi Conferences, Methodist Episcopal Church, South.

DIRECTIONS.

Correspondents will please direct all communications intended for the Editor to [illegible] Camp St., New Orleans, La. Communications intended for the Business Department should be addressed to the Manager of the New Orleans Christian Advocate. Write with ink and only on one side of the paper. No attention will be paid to rolled manuscripts.

The Printed Label on a paper shows the date to which a subscription is paid. It is as good as a written receipt. When renewal is made, if the date is not moved forward after two weeks, notify us, and we will make it right. Papers will be continued unless subscribers order otherwise.

For Advertising Rates Apply to

Religious Press Advertising Syndicate.

JACOBS & CO., CLINTON, S. C.

Home Office, Clinton, S. C., who have charge of the advertising of this paper.

ADVERTISING REPRESENTATIVES.

J. F. [illegible] Jacobs, Home Office, Clinton, S. C.; E. J. Ritter, 425 W. St. Catherine St., Louisville, Ky.; Thornwell Jacobs, [illegible] Stahlman Bldg., Nashville, Tenn.; C. C. [illegible], [illegible] Mutual Bldg., Richmond, Va.; D. J. Carter, [illegible] LaSalle St., Chicago, Ill.; Miss M. R. Middleton, [illegible] Nassau St., New York, N. Y.; Bartine E. [illegible], [illegible] LaSalle St., Chicago, Ill.; J. H. [illegible], Birmingham, Ala.; E. J. Parrott, New Orleans, La.; J. R. Keown, Atlanta, Ga.; J. E. Gentry, Clinton, S. C.; H. B. Ewbank, Houston, Texas; W. L. Boggs, Greensboro, N. C.; F. A. Wynne, corner Akard and Elm Sts., Dallas, Tex.

THE "ORIGINAL SIN" PROBLEM NOT YET SOLVED.

BY REV. D. M. [illegible].

No. 3.

Commenting on this same seventh chapter of Romans, Dr. Mahan says, on page 332: "The motions, or passions, of the carnal nature within the human being are called sins. These passions, or lusts, have absolute dominion by nature. The intelligence may see that which is good, and approve it, but both the intelligence and the will are powerless to restrain [illegible] evil."

Dr. Mahan is right in saying that the [illegible] passions of the carnal nature [illegible] are called sins, but he gives us not a single passage of Scripture to prove that the "motions or passions of the carnal nature" are within the hearts of infants. St. Paul, as I have shown, was speaking [illegible] passions of the carnal nature within the [illegible] of adults, and not within the [illegible] of infants.

If one single passage can be found in the Bible that categorically [illegible] attributes these "motions or passions of the carnal nature" to infants as a [illegible] inheritance from Adam, I will gladly accept it. The Bible is the sole guide, and we never err in following the plain teachings of God's Word.

"But to take what the Bible affirms of [illegible] and apply it to all classes, adults and infants, may not be following the plain teachings of God's Word." I am morally sure that [illegible] the "motions or passions of the carnal nature" have "absolute dominion by nature" [illegible] following the plain teachings of God's Word. Such an hypothesis, if provable at all, is provable by the most metaphysical [illegible] strained reasoning. But such proving he [illegible] not undertake, and the fact that he [illegible] [illegible] and attribute [illegible] is a [illegible] admission that the "plain teachings of God's Word" that he [illegible] applicable to infantile life, as that life is received by inheritance from Adam. St. Paul [illegible] guarded his language from such [illegible] and applications. When he [illegible] he unmistakably did in the seventh chapter of Romans, to those who had the written law of God as given by Moses, and who knew the law, [illegible] that without the [illegible] the law. [illegible] without the [illegible] and [illegible] life is [illegible] application [illegible] the seventh [illegible] be changed [illegible] interpreted [illegible] that the will [illegible] evil character." As Dr. [illegible] the plain teachings of [illegible] that he [illegible] Therefore [illegible] [illegible] this day. But I say unto you, it shall be more tolerable for the land of Sodom in the day of judgment than for thee."

In St. James' philosophy [illegible] the lust of the [illegible] until the man [illegible] until lust [illegible] bring forth [illegible] it bring forth death. [illegible] Be ye an- [illegible] philosophy of sin [illegible] the nature, causes and effects of sin [illegible] by Dr. Mahan. Strange, indeed, [illegible] as the [illegible] necessary [illegible] in hell, [illegible] who dis- [illegible] votes to [illegible] in that [illegible] clause, [illegible] sin is not [illegible] does not [illegible] life of sin [illegible] Adam. I [illegible] it sounds [illegible] original [illegible] of hu- [illegible] view it [illegible] and justifi- [illegible] a concise [illegible] had atoned [illegible] responsi- [illegible] that the human [illegible] has nothing [illegible] human char- [illegible]—What [illegible] nature is [illegible] absolute [illegible] will to the [illegible] Creator should [illegible] The instincts [illegible] just as well [illegible] things. It [illegible] will finds its [illegible] consciousness af- [illegible] power to [illegible] know our- [illegible] acting dif- [illegible] When we do wrong [illegible] wrongfulness of [illegible] penalty [illegible] conscious- [illegible] conscious- [illegible] any moral [illegible] moral ques- [illegible] we are [illegible] and of [illegible] dealings with [illegible] thought even [illegible] we gain [illegible] self-con- [illegible] things of [illegible] in him?" [illegible] God. It [illegible] conscious [illegible] God to [illegible] ness we [illegible] conscious- [illegible] ugh our [illegible] ness, that [illegible] our self- [illegible] and as- [illegible] that is [illegible] Christianity. But if I can- [illegible] unequiv- [illegible] gives [illegible] me the [illegible] then I [illegible] Hence the [illegible] far as a [illegible] salvation is concerned, [illegible] dominion" [illegible] is help- [illegible] quality to [illegible] that show [illegible] ated per- [illegible] He is [illegible] very best he can do. We cannot ask more. To demand of any man that which he is totally incapable of doing has always been rejected by Methodism as injustice. And the doctrine of the freedom of the human will in giving moral quality to human conduct, both to the regenerate and the unregenerate, has been tenaciously held against the strongest opposition as a fundamental tenet of her theology and in her evangelistic and revivalistic work. And now that all other churches are coming to accept it as the only factor that will solve the question of man's responsibility and accountability to God, and successfully reach the unsaved masses for Christ, it seems too late for her to renounce it, and accept, instead, a semi-antinomian theory. Will she do it? She will not. Whether the "original sin" problem is ever solved, or whether it forever remains among the mystic shadows of the unsolvable, in the future as in the past, that which contradicts the common sense of mankind and deprives man of his volition to give moral quality to his deeds, she will reject as untrue both in theory and in practice.

FRENCH MISSION WORK IN LOUISIANA.

BY REV. MARTIN HEBERT.

The readers of the ADVOCATE will, no doubt, be interested to learn that God has been graciously bestowing his blessings upon our French Mission work during the present year.

The Crowley District Conference arranged to give me three assistants, who have been at work since the first of June, with the result that four Sunday schools have been organized, three new preaching places opened, and as many as four or five hundred people have heard the Word who have never heard it before; twenty-two persons, most of whom are adults, have been received into the Church on profession of faith, while a few more have been received on probation, and sixteen infants have been baptized. A new parsonage has been enterprised and is now nearly ready for occupancy, and new pews have been placed in one of the churches.

Our work, as it is now organized, extends from Lafourche Parish, on the east, to the middle of Vermilion, on the west. We are preaching regularly at nine different points, and there are almost as many more to which we are being urged to come.

A short review of my last trip down in Terrebonne Parish (about 90 per cent of whose population speak French, and until we entered the field about fifteen months ago there were not, as far as I know, more than one or two Methodists in the entire parish) will probably be interesting.

After a ride of eighty-five miles by rail and twelve by buggy, I arrived at Bourg on Thursday at 2 o'clock p.m., where we last year built a large new church, and have just lately installed new pews.

Having visited six families during the remainder of the afternoon, I preached at night to a congregation of fifty or more persons, the services closing with an old-fashioned experience meeting, during which a dozen or more of the brethren related some most remarkable experiences of how they had been brought from darkness to light; some open confessions were made, and we received six applicants for church membership.

Friday, at 11 a.m., we had another preaching service, and then continued the exercises of the day by riding twenty miles in a buggy to another community known as Dulac, on Grand Caillou Bayou, where work has only recently been instituted by Rev. R. E. Martin, who is a production of our French Mission, having been licensed to preach at our late District Conference, and Rev. Wm. V. Falcon, a very promising young French preacher, who, though he hails from the Second Church, [illegible], has decided to cast his lot in the French Mission work.

Arriving there a little late in the evening, though in time to partake of a good, warm supper, we soon after repaired to the dance hall, [illegible] after the fashion of our good Creole people, not to dance, however, but to preach to a [illegible] congregation, many of whom had to stand for want of seats, and to them I told the old story of the power of Jesus' blood. We were disappointed, however, when informed that we could not use the hall on the following night, as it was the time for the periodic dance, which, from time immemorial, has been arranged to occur regularly once every two weeks.

Nevertheless, we were undaunted, and announced a service for the following Saturday morning. In the meantime we were not slack in publicly expressing our hope that our brother, the dancing master, would see fit to convert his dance hall into a house of prayer, but our prayer was answered in another way, i.e., before breakfast the next morning a man who had graduated out of the dance-hall business came over and offered his, with the assurance that we would make the other fellow regret that he had not called off his ball. We had an excellent service at 11 o'clock that morning, and to my great delight when I reached the large ex-dance hall that night, I found that, while a great many seats had been provided, standing room was still considerably at a premium. The service closed with many expressing a desire to be saved.

On returning to our room, we were delighted again to notice that, despite the fact that the dancing master had everything in his favor in the way of refreshments and enchanting music, he had been unable to draw more than a "corporal's guard," and I was told that he had already said that if the Methodists kept on coming he would be compelled to go out of business.

The service at 11 o'clock Sunday morning was well attended, and closed with every person in the house asking for prayer and some manifesting very deep emotions.

After a hasty dinner, with the proverbial Creole coffee before and after the meal, and another ride of twenty miles, we again arrived at Bourg, where preaching had been announced, with communion at the close. We had a magnificent sermon by Rev. E. C. Duplantis, who has just finished his education at Ruskin Cave College, the congregation numbering about one hundred persons, at the close of which the doors of the Church were again opened and sixteen persons were received into full connection, and the Lord's Supper was administered to fifty-six communicants.

It would hardly do to close this article without making mention of two other of God's servants who are doing efficient work in this field.

The first is the agent of the American Bible Society, who has been at work about three months, and has sold some three hundred copies of the Word, and the fruit of whose labors we have already begun to reap.

At our 11 o'clock service Friday morning was a man about 50 years of age, who had always been a Catholic, but who had driven ten miles to try and learn more about what he had been reading about in a New Testament which he had borrowed from a neighbor who had gotten one from the colporter. He was delighted with what he heard, and we were cordially invited to come and preach at his house, which we have promised to do on our return, and thus another door (which we have every reason to believe will be effectual) has been opened.

The second is Rev. O. Deronen, a native-born French-speaking Creole, and who was himself an ardent Catholic till the age of 30. He has been employed and is supported by the American Sunday School Union. During the four months which he has been at work he has already organized among the French people eight Sunday Schools, besides doing a great deal of mission work in [illegible] way.

At the western end of our work, Rev. S. R. [illegible], who, though unable as yet to speak [illegible] language, is nevertheless making himself [illegible] among them, and his work promises [illegible] results, though he has been [illegible] than two months. He has raised [illegible] and has about completed a neat [illegible] parsonage.

We [illegible] a very promising [illegible] Terrebonne and [illegible] the aid of a gasoline [illegible] almost [illegible] the different [illegible] and are easily reached by boat, but in many places cannot be reached in any other way. The gasoline launch would not only give us quick and easy access to all the people, but would very considerably reduce the expense of travel.

Should this article be so fortunate as to get the attention of some generous-hearted Christian whom God has blessed with means, and who has long cherished a desire in his heart to do something for the benighted French Catholics of Louisiana, but could not, because of his inability to speak their language, let him remember that he has at least this opportunity to furnish the means of [illegible] for others who can do so. And though this man may possibly not be found, may we not expect that from different sources money sufficient may be sent in to purchase the missionary boat.

Again, we are going to need a great deal more money than we now have in sight for the additional help which our next year's plans anticipate. Cannot something be done by which a permanent fund can be assured, that this work may go forward?

Will not the readers of the ADVOCATE also kindly remember us in their prayers?

New Iberia, La., July 16, 1908.

REV. THOMAS J. WILSON.

Thomas J. Wilson, son of M. H. and S. J. Wilson, was born in Alabama July 19, 1861; was educated at Double Springs High School and Farmers' College, Alabama. He was converted in 1875. In June, 1895, he was licensed to preach by the District Conference at Oakman, Ala., North Alabama Conference, and was admitted on trial into the North Mississippi Conference at Westpoint in December, 1900, and at the same time and place ordained Deacon by Bishop Hargrove. Brother Wilson was received into full connection at Tupelo in December, 1902; ordained elder at Kosciusko by Bishop Galloway in December, 1904, and died at Blue Springs Circuit parsonage, at Belden, Miss., June 13, 1908.

Brother Wilson served the following charges: During 1901, Shelby and Merigold; 1902-3, Carrollton Circuit; 1904, Courtland Circuit; 1905, Lamar Circuit; 1906 he transferred to the Alabama Conference and served Peachtree Circuit; in 1907 he returned to North Mississippi Conference and served Belmont Circuit; 1908, Blue Springs Circuit.

On April 16, 1899, at Plymouth, Miss., he was happily married to Miss Julia Johnson, who, with four small children, is now in deep sorrow through the loss sustained in his death. She says of him "he was all to me, always so kind and true, and oh, how hard it is to give him up!" But with an unwavering faith in God, she humbly submits to his will, and asks that earnest prayer be made for herself and her children.

Brother Wilson's development and usefulness as a preacher and pastor was largely interfered with by continuous poor health. He was never fully equal, physically, to the work of the itinerancy; yet he was far from being a weak preacher ir an efficient pastor. Personally it was not my privilege to hear him preach, but many expressions given by those who heard him warrant me in saying that his sermons were thoughtful presentations [illegible] strong in thought and [illegible] and am not intimately acquainted with his work as pastor [illegible]. There [illegible] work. [illegible] them [illegible] the [illegible] exceedingly difficult [illegible] gun well also [illegible] Springs [illegible] charge. His people there loved him, and lament his death.

Brother Wilson was feeling that his health had greatly improved. He was happy in his work and hopeful of a year of great success, but the Lord saw fit to call him from the midst of his labors. His last illness was for only [illegible] days. He ceased at once to work and live. A good man, a faithful servant, has gone to his reward.

W. C. H[illegible]

THE LAYMEN'S MISSIONARY MOVEMENT.

BY PROF. OLIN S. DEAN.

Whatever the conclusions of any man or set of men, there can be no successful denial of the fact that human life and civilization are distinctively characterized by an ever active and steadily unfolding process of evolution. The rise and decline of the vast empires of earth, out of the ashes of whose humiliation and death have arisen other structures more intricate in fabric and more complex in character, are everlasting contributions of evidence to the indisputable truth of the statement above recorded. The growth and development of the literatures of earth furnish incontrovertible proof, while the unfolding processes of thought in the respective cycles of human history, and in the progressive distribution of knowledge among the races of men, bear convincing testimony to the same great truth.

Our age is no exception to the rule. It is pre-eminently an age of organization. The Church is enlarging its machinery until we are getting such a multiplication of forces as to lead some to apprehend a disastrous dissipation of energy. These all doubtless have, however, a valuable use. They give employment to the energy that claims for expression, [illegible] the young and vigorous life of the Church from a fruitless waste of time and talent and quicken interest in the great work of the Church. Out of the complexity of human life and effort have arisen these organizations to meet the emergencies that continually arise in the onward march of history. If we view the subject from the standpoint commonly accepted by the Church and by the leaders of thought and promoters of progress in the world, this multiplying of machinery is absolutely indispensable, and it is true that to attain success as men commonly count success, a well constructed and well managed machinery, adapted to the constantly changing conditions of life and operated on practical business principles, is universally granted to be essential. I may be pardoned if I express the half-formed anxiety that in the direction and employment of our many-sided, complicated machinery, we are in danger of losing the power of that simplicity that was one of the distinguishing characteristics of the Master's own life and work. It is probably true, however, that as the complicated equipment of the human body all works together in the unity of [illegible] to attain the great end of bodily existence, so the machinery of the Church may be wisely [illegible] ated and made to contribute to the solution of great problems and the achievement of vast enterprises.

Thus it may be with the unusual and interesting enterprise known as "The Laymen's Missionary Movement," an organization born [illegible]

[illegible] the last few years [illegible]

[illegible] us [illegible] your [illegible] $2 [illegible] This [illegible] apply [illegible] following [illegible] end [illegible] you [illegible] this [illegible] will [illegible] scrip- [illegible] and it [illegible] remit- [illegible] from [illegible]

KEEP COOL For Refrigerators and Gas Stoves go to United Hardware Co., Ltd.,
1005-1007 Canal Street, New Orleans.

GET SOLID PROTECTION AND INSURE WITH
LEON IRWIN & CO.
Fire and Casualty Insurance.
[illegible] UNION STREET. PHONE MAIN [illegible]

W. W. Carre Co., Ltd,
Manufacturer and Exporter of
LUMBER,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.

[illegible] their great [illegible] in regard to the [illegible] new Missionary [illegible] them; [illegible] missionaries; [illegible] young [illegible] is to be [illegible] Church; [illegible] movement [illegible] regular [illegible] Mission- [illegible] already [illegible] all the [illegible] in that [illegible] movement," [illegible] this gen- [illegible] movement." [illegible] have now [illegible] they [illegible] time, and [illegible] Fourthly, [illegible] at home [illegible] before [illegible] century watch- [illegible] has been out [illegible] among [illegible] direction of [illegible] con- [illegible] in this [illegible] various [illegible] laymen, [illegible] as early as pos- [illegible] findings [illegible] beyond [illegible] those who [illegible] it.

Several representatives will leave for foreign lands during the summer that now is approaching. The plan of the movement has been approved by the foreign missionary boards of the United States and Canada; almost one hundred leading men from different denominations are members of the General Committee. The Southern Presbyterian, as well as the Presbyterian Church, North, the Southern Baptist, the Episcopal, the Northern Methodist Church, the Methodist Church, South, and others have entered into the movement.

Our Church, South, has just held a great convention of the laymen in Chattanooga. It has been launched in Great Britain, and has enlisted some of the strongest men of that realm. The men of Germany are inquiring into the movement. It is being taken up by the large cities, definite policies having been adopted by the men of at least twelve important cities of Canada and the United States.

And so the movement is arousing widespread attention and is enlisting the energies of some of the brainiest and best men in the ranks of the laymen. As we have said, no one can measure the outcome of this enterprise, which is literally taking hold of the heart and the purse of the world. In its educational work it will equip and prepare the men of the Church better to understand and appreciate the great work of missions. In the enlistment of pocket-book, mind and energy, the men who enter into it will receive a priceless reward in the enlargement of their own souls and a closer touch with God and humanity. The attention of practical business men throughout the Church will be enlisted and they will give to the work of the Church the benefit of their knowledge of business affairs, thus enabling the Church to carry on its work in a more dignified, secure and successful manner. It will result in the education of the Church into an acceptance of the truth that the man on the farm, the clerk in the store, the office man, the man that accumulates money—the laymen everywhere—is just as much entitled to be a witness for Jesus Christ as the man who stands in the pulpit and preaches from Sunday to Sunday.

It seems that this movement, if properly managed, truly consecrated and kept free from the pride of life and the vanity of this world, is destined to cause the surface of the earth to shrink and sink, until, as it were, the walls of Peking may be seen from the Statue of Liberty; the heart of the Congo Free State shall beat in response to the almost audible pulsations of our own loved America, and one may stand in the "Golden Gate" or on London Bridge and speak messages of love and peace to the far-away kingdoms and to the islands of the sea!

CORINTH DISTRICT CONFERENCE.

The thirty-eighth session of the Corinth District Conference convened in the Methodist Church at Baldwyn, Miss., July 14-16, 1908. It was conceded by all to have been one of the best Conferences in the history of the District. All of the pastors were present except two, Revs. A. W. Langley and G. W. Gordon. From the opening to the close there was not a dull service, no unbrotherly feeling manifested; but it all seemed as though the Conference had come together to get nearer to God. The presence of the Holy Ghost was manifest.

Our new presiding elder, Rev. B. P. Jaco, presided with dignity and grace, and his heart was made glad at the gathering. The pastors reported 553 conversions and 445 additions to our Church.

The speeches by the Hon. G. L. Jones, of New Albany, and Judge W. M. Cox, of Baldwyn, were very much appreciated. G. L. Jones was elected leader of the Laymen's Missionary Movement in the Corinth District. We feel sure the cause will not suffer in his efficient hands. Brother W. M. Williams gave us encouraging words about our Orphanage.

The preaching and debating were good and had the right ring. Rev. Wm. M. McIntosh, Dr. J. Y. Murry, G. E. Jones and J. A. Bonds were elected delegates to the Annual Conference; F. E. Ray and R. B. Henderson alternates. James Madison Carpenter, Olin Ray and J. A. Palmer were granted license to preach.

Baldwyn dispensed a lavish hospitality, and all felt in the hands of friends. Brother W. C. Lester is held in high repute, and his uniform kindness and courtesy were refreshing to us all. Each delegate thought he had the best home. By unanimous vote, the next Conference will be held at Booneville.

Rev. T. W. Lewis was with us. He has a great message for the Church. It is needless to say that Millsaps was well represented. There is a great opportunity before the Methodists of Mississippi. There is also a corresponding responsibility.

President Clifton and the Rev. J. H. Mitchel represented the interest of Grenada College. They made a strong appeal to the Corinth District, which will doubtless bear fruit. We must rally to the support of our own colleges. They are worthy of full confidence. Let the Methodists take due notice and govern themselves accordingly.

O. L. SAVAGE, Secretary.

WHAT OTHERS THINK.

We print below two short articles showing what others think of men who will sacrifice their church schools for the sake of Mr. Carnegie's money:

LEAVE THE NEXT WORLD FOR THIS.

The annual report of President Hyde, of Bowdoin, tells of the steps taken by that college to cut loose from any connection with the Congregational denomination in order to enable the professors and their wives to profit by the Carnegie Foundation. To have done otherwise, in President Hyde's opinion, and also that of the trustees, "would have been an administrative sin, which future generations of professors, officers and alumni would have found it hard to forgive." President Hyde's prominence as a teacher of and writer on ethics makes this reading of the duty of present day educators more significant than if it came from another source. Mr. Carnegie, when he established the Carnegie pension plan for American university and college officials, and limited it as he did, dealt a stagger-blow at sectarian education in this country. — Boston Herald.

THE UNDERMINING OF CHURCH SCHOOLS.

The Carnegie Foundation is undermining the foundations of the church schools. Whether he intended this or not—and he must have intended it—his pensions to aged professors in all schools except church schools, is having the effect of causing church schools to break away from the control of the churches. Several of the great denominations that felt a pride in their schools, and secure in their control, are now amazed to find that the dollar mark is more influential than the church creed in controlling the policy and destiny of the schools. It is amazing that this is true; but it is true nevertheless, and to be greatly regretted. The church schools have turned out strong, patriotic men, men of character and purpose, and we should regard it as very bad for the country should the influence of the churches in education be seriously weakened.

In Virginia, and in most of the States, churches cannot own the schools directly, but the schools must be chartered and controlled by self-perpetuating boards and trustees. Should these trustees, taking the Carnegie bait, declare their independence of the church that has built the schools and furnished the money and students to run it, the church is impotent to protect its rights and interests.

The inducements to declare their independence of the churches are: The professors are enabled to look forward to the day when they may retire on a Carnegie pension that will keep them comfortably the remainder of their days without working; the school can secure abler teachers if the latter have this to look forward to, and it is something of an advertisement for the school to be recognized as of sufficiently high standing to be on the roll of the Carnegie Foundation. These temptations have been so great that they have led boards to do an amount of juggling that one would hardly expect to find among professing Christians—certainly among those holding high position in the Church. They find themselves in the attitude of talking church to the Church and anti-church to Carnegie; they are black when it pays to be black, and white when it pays to be white. If they could keep Carnegie and the churches from comparing notes, they might play this role with some success; but that is an impossibility.—Staunton Dispatch.

CHURCH EXTENSION HANDBOOK.

The Church Extension Handbook, which contains the Twenty-sixth Annual Report, is being mailed from the office of the Board of Church Extension to all of our preachers whose names and addresses appear in the Conference minutes. Should any brother fail to receive a copy, a line to this office, giving the post office address, will secure one. I will also be glad to mail copies to local preachers and laymen who may apply.

Presiding elders and pastors may send names of brethren, who, in their judgment, should receive copies. All requests will be honored while the supply lasts.

W. F. McMURRY,
Corresponding Secretary.

Louisville, Ky.

Without temptations there would be no triumphs.—Southern Churchman.

The Centenary College of Louisiana,
Shreveport, La.

For Announcement or other information
Address:
President W. L. WEBER,
Shreveport, La.

THE SAFEST AND QUICKEST WAY
—TO—
TRANSFER MONEY
—IS BY—
Long Distance Telephone
FOR RATES APPLY TO LOCAL MANAGER.
Cumberland Telephone & Telegraph Co.
INCORPORATED.

W. F. M. S.

[illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] hardly [illegible] pretty [illegible] retiring [illegible] made fine progress in Chinese classics, native script and [illegible] She always [illegible] child's catechism [illegible] off in the corner with the [illegible] her the catechism [illegible] she has learned.

"This woman was brought home from the market square one day by the Bible woman and matron. She was crazy and had been dreadfully treated all day. In less than two weeks she was completely cured, and we believe it was through the earnest prayers of the children. She had been badly treated all her life and had never been taught to read. Now she is trying to learn, and every spare moment [illegible] she spends in learning [illegible] The spirit of helpfulness in the little girl shows itself in many ways.

"Her father has given [illegible] girl to [illegible] that she may tell the [illegible] of salvation to her fellow-countrymen.

"[illegible] and heart [illegible] Korean [illegible] never [illegible] be grateful that you have made possible the entrance of [illegible] into the heavenly [illegible] and now have [illegible] opportunity [illegible] bless you in all [illegible] for him."

* * *

Under date April [illegible], Janie Watkins writes her sister, Mrs. [illegible] W. L[illegible] of [illegible] Laura Haygood Memorial. We are permitted to [illegible] the following:

"I thought of you and the members of the meeting at the time of your annual gathering [illegible] Nell and I prayed for all of you, and [illegible] were praying for us. I am anxious to hear [illegible] in detail.

"[illegible] mother [illegible] the letter in which I told her I had [illegible] my examination. I am getting glimpses of the end, and some day I will write you that I have finished. I wish I might send a cable. I am studying hard to finish my novel and Evidences of Christianity [illegible] books left. I have to be alert to keep the [illegible] in mind. I have [illegible] bands of [illegible] polished [illegible] and [illegible] dowagers, and exalted men from being butchers to king's [illegible] sellers.

"We reach [illegible] about July [illegible] I can scarcely realize your commencement will be in May and that [illegible] two young ladies will be getting their diplomas. I should love to see the graduating exercises, but must be content with thinking about it all."

[illegible] little girls in Sunday [illegible] teaching them the lesson on [illegible] girls is [illegible] things [illegible] from way [illegible] They speak a different [illegible] it is hard to talk to them [illegible] especially—and [illegible] interest.

[illegible]

[illegible] Yangtse [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] Mrs. Watkins [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] Superintendent [illegible] W. F. M. S.

[illegible] THE MINISTRY

[illegible]

[illegible] verse of the same chapter [illegible] that the tenth is holy unto the Lord.

How much of the tithes does the Lord demand to be brought into the storehouse? "Bring ye all the tithes (the tenth) into the storehouse, that there may be meat in mine house." (Mal. iii. 10.) To whom does this tenth belong? "And, behold, I have given the children of Levi all the tenth in Israel for an inheritance, for their service which they serve, even the service of the tabernacle of the congregation." (Num. xviii. 21.)

The second verse of the eighteenth chapter of Numbers shows that the Levites were ministers. If one withholds from God that which belongs to him, of what sin is he guilty? "Will a man rob God? Yet ye have robbed me. But ye say, Wherein have we robbed thee? In tithes and offerings." (Mal. iii. 8.)

How early in the history of the world do we read of tithe-paying? "For this Melchisedec, king of Salem, priest of the most high God, who met Abraham returning from the slaughter of the kings and blessed him, to whom also Abraham gave a tenth part of all." (Heb. vii. 1-2.) Is that order of priesthood now in existence? "Jesus made a high priest forever after the order of Melchisedec." (Heb. vi. 20.) "Jesus saith unto them, If ye were Abraham's children ye would do the works of Abraham." (John viii. 39.) And Abraham gave the tenth of all. (Heb. vii. 2.) Christ said, ye pay tithes of mint and anise and cummin, and have omitted the weightier matters of the law, judgment, mercy and faith. These ought ye to have done, and not to leave the other undone. (Matt. xxiii. 23.) So we see that Christ approved of the tithing system.

What did Paul say on this thought? "Do ye not know that they which minister about holy things live of the things of the temple, and they which wait at the altar are partakers with the altar?" (1 Cor. ix. 13; also verse 14.) "If we have sown unto you spiritual things, is it a great thing if we shall reap your carnal things?" (1 Cor. ix. 11.) Paul enforces this doctrine as a duty. "For if the Gentiles have been made partakers of their spiritual things, their duty is also to minister unto them in carnal things." (Rom. xv. 27.)

It is strange, passing strange, how people in this enlightened age can read the Scriptures and fail to see that they ought to support the ministry. They claim to believe in an all-wise God, but how many, when it comes to the pocket-book, act like there is really a God? Some may say, Lord, Lord, open unto us; then will he say, I know ye not. Yours for success,

R. H. BAMBURG.

TO THE PASTOR.

If you will send in the names of the post-offices on your charge, we will send you a list of the subscribers on your work. You will find this a great help in securing renewals and new subscriptions. Put the ADVOCATE in the homes of your people, and you will have an assistant, unfailing in its visits, and doing you good all the time.

You cannot dream yourself into a character; you must hammer and forge yourself one.—Jas. A. Froude.

BELLEVUE POULTRY SUPPLY CO.

Everything in the poultry line: Chickens, Parrots, Guinea Pigs, Rabbits and Pet Stock of every description. Cyphers, Incubators and Feed at Factory Prices, may be had by writing us at 740 Camp St., New Orleans, La. Catalogue sent free.

ESTABLISHED 1881

JOHN DAVID BURGHARDT CO.,

"THE RELIABLE" PLUMBERS and GAS FITTERS.
Agency: Born's Patent Steel Ranges. Hygeia Water Filters.
613-615 Bienville St. Phone Main [illegible]
Jobbing and Repair Work a Specialty. New Orleans, La.

The Home Circle.

HE WAS A GENTLEMAN.

A few days ago I was passing through a pretty, shady street, where some boys were playing baseball. Among their number was a little lame fellow, seemingly about 12 years old—a pale, sickly-looking child, supported on two crutches, and who evidently found much difficulty in walking, even with such assistance.

The lame boy wished to join the game, for he did not seem to see how his infirmity would be in his own way, and how much it would hinder the progress of such an active sport as baseball.

His companions, very good-naturedly, tried to persuade him to stand at one side and let another take his place; and I was glad to notice that none of them hinted that he would be in the way, but that they all objected for fear he would hurt himself.

"Why, Jimmy," said one of them at last, "you can't run, you know."

"Oh, hush!" said another—the tallest in the party. "Never mind, I'll run for him;" and he took his place by Jimmy's side, prepared to act. "If you were like him," he said aside to the other boy, "you wouldn't want to be told of it all the time."

As I passed on I thought to myself, "that boy is a true gentleman."—Lutheran.

A KILLER NO MORE.

Of all the recreations known to me the only one which continues to hold its charm and grows rather than diminishes with the passage of years is the quiet and harmless pastime of observing all outdoors. I do not pretend to be a scientific naturalist; in fact, I find it almost impossible to subject a specimen to the rigid scrutiny of the microscope, yet I never grow tired of gazing at a certain pool containing within its quiet depths the gently waving stems of the golden club. A dozen times a day there passes across my mental vision the vignette of an incomparable dingle, just now ablaze with marsh marigold.

I can feast my eyes upon the wondrous flanks of a brace of trout until night sets in and heaven has swung her million candles. In former years I approached a stream to fish, trembling with suspense, and so excited that my wavering fingers could hardly slip the leader to pin upon the line; but now, having absorbed some of the wonderful calm of Mother Nature herself, who never hurries except with a certain majesty of pace, I often find myself after sitting down to assemble my rod, allowing the minutes to slip by one by one, while I gaze upon the landscape or the windings of the brook, sometimes until the hours of fishing are past. I am wont to throw myself down bodily, so that I may gaze into the heart of a flower or watch a bumblebee.

Where formerly I stalked the rabbit, my present pleasure is to catch the long-eared fellow at his continuous meal, and where, in former days, I would have been sure to set a steel trap for the weasel that dwells in yonder rock-pile, I now recognize his equal rights to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

In shooting, who has not felt the sharp twinge of his conscience upon picking up the riddled heap which a moment before had been a bundle of life and animation? Who has not realized that the fulfillment falls far short of the anticipation? How often have I regretted, and still how often has the lure of the chase led me on to err again? A bird on the bough is a source of universal pleasure; in the bag he is so much dead meat and feathers. Shooting seems to come natural as climbing to a small boy, but the history of clay-bird shooting proves that shooting and killing do not necessarily go hand in hand.

No less harmful thing can be imagined than the little garter snakes whose several bodies I often find, in the roadways [illegible] country [illegible] numbers. As for myself, the very squirming of the worm upon the hook extracts from me a [illegible] [illegible] be buried in [illegible] [illegible] I would feed them [illegible] in fish and [illegible] express [illegible] they [illegible].

The growing tenderness of the American toward [illegible] is the result of [illegible] will increase, and all parents [illegible] children true love of flowers, birds, [illegible] trees and animals.—[illegible]

THE PIAZZA GIRL.

"There have been six girls in [illegible] this morning," the dean remarked [illegible] to the gray-eyed girl before him, "who have said that they were willing to do anything to earn a little money."

The gray-eyed girl did not flinch. "But I am ready to do anything," she answered, with a smile that emphasized the significant word.

The dean turned to his desk and rummaged in one of the pigeon-holes.

"There are several ladies on the campus who are in need of some one to sweep their walks every day and wash the piazzas once or twice a week. Are you willing to do that? Of course, it will not bring you in much, but it is all I have to offer at present."

"I shall be glad to do it," the girl replied. "May I have their addresses? Thank you very much."

The dean, leaning back in his chair, watched his visitor as she crossed the campus. Six other girls had refused the work that morning. "But it remains to be seen whether she does it, after all," he said to himself.

She did do it. Every morning for nine days he passed her on his before-breakfast constitutional. She always spoke brightly, with no apparent consciousness of broom or mop.

"Means what she says, gives honest work, no false pride," the dean thought with satisfaction. Then suddenly the piazza had a relapse. When, two weeks later, he met her, he asked about it.

"Oh," she explained, "I'm doing typewriting for Prof. Sumner. He asked me if I could do it as well as I could sweep walks, and I told him I could. It is fascinating work—copying the notes of his experiments."

"I've no doubt," the dean declared, "that you intend to perform experiments of your own some day."

"I'm going to try," she laughed.

When he reached that point in his favorite story, the old professor always stopped.

"And did she?" somebody was sure to ask.

"No, she didn't. She went and married a young upstart of an instructor. She swept his piazza for a while till he made a reputation, and she copied his notes, and I've no doubt did half his work—he always said so."

"It seems a pity," the sympathetic listener, lured on so far, would probably begin, only to be vehemently interrupted.

"Pity? Where's the pity? What's a pity? She helped a man do his work in the world, and brought up three sons, any one of whom would [illegible] washed piazza floors cheerfully to get an education. One is building bridges out West, [illegible] in the East, the third [illegible]. I'd like to know how a woman [illegible] her education to better use."

Then he would smile, and look out across the [illegible] girls.

[illegible] higher education [illegible]. The girl who washed piazzas [illegible].—Youth's Companion.

COUNT OUR BLESSINGS.

So many [illegible] victories have been won [illegible] that we are likely to lose their meaning unless we group them. We mention the more important here:

On April 7 about 1500 saloons were voted out of Illinois, cleaning up 54,000 out of 57,000 square miles of territory in that State.

On the same day Wisconsin added large blocks of dry territory.

On April 6 Michigan voted in twelve counties and carried ten of them for prohibition.

Vermont, on the 7th, voted in every town in the State, and lost but twenty-eight towns to the whisky crowd, as against 31 last year.

On that day, too, about two-thirds of the cities of Nebraska voted dry, banishing a very large number of saloons.

The Ohio State local option bill became a law a few days ago, and it will soon be "moving day" for the Ohio saloon-keeper in about 70 counties.

Does it all mean anything? It is but a continuation of the rising tide against the saloon. It ought to teach the man engaged in the business that he can best show his good sense by getting his money and himself out of a business that is being outlawed so fast and so universally. Efforts to fool the people into letting them stay will never stop the mighty economic revolution now on in this country.—Exchange.

HE WAS ALARMED.

On a railway not many miles from Edinburgh, the rails slant on either side for some distance. In a carriage was a very stout lady, who had just risen to admire the view, when the train dipped to her side. When the startled passengers had regained their composure, the lady moved to she opposite side, with a view to having a look at the scenery from the other side, just as the train dipped again, whereupon an old man cried out: "Mercy me, wumman, sit still, or we'll a' be killed!"

Phone Main

ROOMS and BOARD

534 and 538 SOUTH STREET LAFAYETTE SQUARE
CORNER ST. CHARLES ST., NEW ORLEANS.
UNLIMITED MEALS. ALVIN PORTER, Manager.

Dr. Tichenor's Antiseptic

For all the Ills and Accidents which come to the Hunter or Fisherman—invaluable! Cuts, Burns, Bruises, Sprains, Insect Bites and Prickly Heat—internally for Colic and Cramps. Always have a bottle in your kit.

AT ALL DRUGSTORES.
25c and 50c

THE SPORTSMAN'S SAFEGUARD

Christian Advocate.

REV. JNO. W. BOSWELL, D.D., Editor.
REV. H. WHITEHEAD, Ass't Editor.
CHAS. O. CHALMERS, Publisher.

ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT NEW ORLEANS AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

OFFICE: 512 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

TERMS:
One Copy, one year, $2; six months, $1. To Preachers of all Denominations, half-price.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEES:
LOUISIANA CONFERENCE—Rev. W. W. Drake, Rev. N. E. Joyner, Rev. J. M. Henry.
MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE—Rev. M. L. Burton, Rev. W. H. Lewis, Rev. C. W. Crisler.
NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE—Rev. W. T. J. Sullivan, D.D.; Rev. J. T. Murrah, Rev. W. W. Woollard.

GIVING ONESELF TO GOD.

"First they gave their own selves to the Lord, and unto us by the will of God." Such is St. Paul's statement concerning the churches of Macedonia, who, in their deep poverty, had liberally contributed to the necessities of the poor saints at Jerusalem. This would indicate that a man's first duty is to give himself to God. This he must do before he can enter into and enjoy any of the blessings of the Gospel, or before he can justify himself in the sight of God by doing any kind of good works.

We would not have any reader to infer that the mere act of giving oneself to God is meritorious, and therefore a sufficient ground for pardon. The fact that Christ made atonement by the sacrifice of himself, and that God accepts and pardons men for his sake, sets aside the idea that there is any merit in man. This having been done, God requires only the exercise of faith in order to salvation. The giving of the body, therefore, unaccompanied by faith, would be useless; and faith would be equally useless without the sacrifice of the body. To come to God with the body, without faith, would look like an effort to purchase divine favor. To come with faith, without the body, would look like a desire to gain divine favor and at the same time live in the enjoyment of selfish and worldly pleasures.

The Macedonian Christians, so highly commended by the Apostle, "gave their own selves" to God before they attempted to please him by doing any good work. They were evidently well grounded in that part of St. Paul's system of grace that treated of the place and purpose of good works. They knew that their gifts, though prompted by benevolence, and would relieve the necessities of the saints, would do them no good individually unless there was upon their part a dedication of themselves to God.

How many are misled on this subject? Not a few believe there is merit in good works, and perform them as soul-saving agencies. Many believe it is possible to do more than is necessary to personal salvation, and that what is over and above the necessity is available for someone else, forgetting we are told in the Scriptures that, after having done all possible for us to do, we are unprofitable servants. Good works are enjoined upon all as a condition of keeping alive the work wrought in us by the power of God, for faith without works is dead. But, however great they may be, or however useful to others, if performed with a view to drive a bargain with the Lord, they cannot be well pleasing or acceptable to the Lord, for under no circumstances are good works regarded as ground of justification.

St. Paul tells us that "to him that worketh not, but believeth on him that justifieth the ungodly, his faith is counted to him for righteousness." This necessarily leads to the idea that, if a man is too poor to give anything to God, or wholly incapacitated through physical infirmity to do any kind of work, if he has faith his faith will save him. But this does not preclude the idea of giving oneself to God. Self must be given, whether one is able to give anything else or not. This fact was beautifully exemplified by a young lady, who, when a collection was being taken for foreign missions, wrote on a slip of paper and sent to the collector these words: "I have nothing else to give, and I give myself." That was, indeed, a sacrifice of sweet smelling savor, and well-pleasing to God. This spirit and sacrifice must characterize every one that comes to God, even though he may be the possessor of millions. Hundreds of times in the days of our fathers have we heard penitents say: "Here, Lord, I give myself away; 'tis all that I can do."

In my hands no price I bring,
Simply to thy cross I cling.

Let us give ourselves first to God, and then to his service for Christ's sake.

THE LAYMEN AND THE REVIVAL.

We favor all Scriptural means of promoting religion among the people at home and propagating it abroad. We rejoice in the fact that our laymen are so greatly stirred up in regard to missions to the heathen and revival work among our own people. Their great interest in the Master's work makes us glad. May their zeal abound and endure.

Is not a word of caution necessary? Not so far as the well-informed and prominent leaders are concerned, but we think it is as to some others, who, though not so prominent, are quite as much interested, and who have suffered their zeal to carry them further than they are warranted in going. For example, we feel that in exhorting the brethren there is no ground for saying that one of the Lord's greatest prophets "was only a layman." It may be true, but when the statement is made with a view to show that there is no distinction between the laity and the ministry when it comes to work in the Church, we think the statement is wrong and calculated to lower the ministry in the minds of those who would gladly rid the Church of preachers altogether. Some could be easily persuaded that it would be a good thing to do away with preachers as a class, in order to save money to carry the Gospel to the heathen.

Again: We think the brother goes too far when, in order to show that laymen are needed in a revival, and are expected to take part in the work, asks: "Does God call one class of his children to attend to all of the spiritual work in his kingdom, and expect all other [illegible] to occupy their time and energy solely in the material side of his work?" Would this brother [illegible] sweep away all distinctions between the ministry and the laity? So it seems from his words, though we have no idea he means to say that much. We are ready to grant that among some religionists functions are attributed to the ministry unauthorized by the New Testament, and that privileges are denied to laymen which the New Testament readily grants. At the same time nothing is clearer from New Testament teachings than that the Lord Jesus selected and set apart some of his disciples exclusively for the work of the ministry, and that, as head of the Church, he reserves to-day the right to call men—take them wholly out of secular work—and put them into the ministry. If not, then what we term the "call to the ministry" is meaningless, and those who profess to be called are both deceived and deceivers. We can gain nothing for the cause at large by magnifying the duty and work of laymen at the expense of God's ministers, who, if any duty is laid upon them, is "go into all the world and preach the Gospel"—a duty our Lord nowhere lays on the whole laity. This we say, notwithstanding we heard a preacher a short time ago declare that at the dispersion of the early Christians every one of them went out as a preacher, which meant that every man and his wife and their sons and daughters, if they happened to be members of the Church, were duly authorized expounders of the Word.

What would become of the Church of God should all men be persuaded that one man is as fully authorized as another to preach the Gospel? It is easy to see that in a little while it would be extinct. We exhort our laymen to zeal in the great work they have undertaken, and we pray for their success, but we pray them, for Christ's sake and the Church's sake, not to lay hands on God's anointed.

CHURCH EXTENSION HANDBOOK.

Through the kindness of Dr. W. F. McMurry, the Secretary, we have received the Twenty-Sixth Annual Report of the Board of Church Extension for the year 1907-1908. It is a pamphlet of 288 pages, with a map showing the number of churches aided by the Board in thirty-one States and Territories, and in six foreign countries. Altogether, the Board has assisted in building 10,057 houses of worship, some of which never could have been erected without aid from the Board. The present report is the fullest we have ever seen. With the illustrations—especially the pictures of the Board, donors of loan funds and Presidents of Conference Boards—it is an attractive volume. We congratulate the Secretary in being able to send out a volume that so well represents the value and magnitude of his work. Read Dr. McMurray's notice in another column.

PERSONAL.

A note from Rev. J. W. Ramsey, dated Wahalak, Miss., July 23, says: "A great revival is sweeping over the town of Wahalak. Strong men and women are consecrating their lives to God. Several have already come into the Church."

Dr. F. N. Parker, on Tuesday evening last, was booked for a lecture at the Seashore Assembly. His subject, "Some Lessons from the Life of Isaiah for the Church of To-day," as he proposed to treat it, was well worth hearing.

Rev. W. W. Perry, of the Mississippi Conference, in remitting for a new subscriber, says: "This makes twenty-two new and renewing subscribers this year, and the end is not yet." Brother Perry has our warmest thanks.

An appreciation of Lorado Taft, "the most prominent of our Western sculptors," by Henry B. Fuller, with reproductions of his group, "The Blind," and details therefrom, will be a feature of the Midsummer Holiday Number of The Century.

Rev. B. M. Lipscomb, presiding elder of the Columbus District, passed through the city last Friday on his way to Texas. In company with Rev. S. L. Pope, he paid the Advocate a pleasant visit, which was much appreciated by the office force.

Rev. E. W. Lipscomb, pastor of Broad Street Church, Hattiesburg, has been in Meridian, at the bedside of his child, who has been seriously ill. We are glad to learn that the little one is improving. We trust there will be speedy restoration to health.

Miss Mary E. Holloman, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. T. B. Holloman, of Hattiesburg, Miss., was married at 6:30 p.m., July 21, 1908, to Mr. F. H. Scott, of Greenwood, Miss. We wish for the young couple all the blessings of grace and Providence. They are at home in Greenwood.

We publish in this issue the report of the session of the Mississippi Conference Epworth League. It is rather late, but the copy reached us July 21, exactly one month after the Conference adjourned. Matter of such importance should be sent to the Advocate at the earliest date possible.

Rev. D. W. Babb, writing from Crawford, Miss., says: "We are well, and doing well on our work, but there is much room for improvement." As long as an active preacher recognizes such a state of things in his charge he is sure to go on making improvements. He will reach perfection, if possible.

We feel sure the readers of this issue of the Advocate will peruse with pleasure and profit the excellent communication of President Dean concerning the Laymen's Missionary Movement. And they will join with us in thanking him for the paper. "It is mighty good reading," as the great editor, Horace Greely, was wont to say.

Rev. C. E. Cain has just closed a gracious revival at Hamburg, Miss., in which Rev. R. W. Thurman did the preaching. "The great good done was in the reviving of a sleeping church, which gave a bright outlook for the future. Brother Thurman clearly and forcibly expounded the old, yet ever new, truths of the Gospel."

Rev. W. H. Saunders, of Gloster, has been engaged for two weeks past assisting in meetings. He was with Rev. H. P. Lewis and Rev. J. A. McBride. Matters in his own charge, Gloster, "are moving on fairly well, with prospects for better things." He will be pastor-in-charge of the Sam Jones Camp Meeting, to which we thank him for an invitation.

Rev. A. C. Holder has been blessed with great success in his charge, Texas Avenue, Shreveport. He has just closed a meeting in which there were over one hundred conversions, with an addition of seventy-five members to his church. He has received one hundred and eighty-eight members since Conference—about doubling the membership in seven months. We rejoice with our brother in his success.

Rev. S. L. Pope, of the North Mississippi Conference, was bitten by a dog a few days ago, which was supposed to be mad, and, on advice of his physician, he came to New Orleans in order to take the Pasteur treatment. He is located at 611 St. Charles Street, where he will remain until the middle of August. Brother Pope is in fine health and spirits, and really apprehends no serious results. The dog was killed before it was definitely determined that he was afflicted with rabies.

Rev. W. V. Shearer reports happy times in his charge, the Longtown Circuit. He is having fine revivals. We thank him for a pressing invitation to attend his meeting at Davis Chapel, which is now in progress. It would be delightful to attend a meeting at the chapel, where, long years ago, we, like Brother Shearer, had happy times. Rev. Robert Martin was the senior preacher (we went two and two together in those days), and Brother Benbury Walton was the steward and class-leader. No church ever had a better.

REV. M. A. THURMAN.

Rev. M. A. Thurman was born near Westville, Simpson County, Miss., July 20, 1868. He was converted at an early age and joined the Baptist Church, and was a true and faithful member for several years. In 1894, during a revival meeting conducted by Rev. B. H. Rawls, he joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and in a few months was licensed to exhort. In 1895 he was licensed to preach at Stearns Creek by Rev. C. McDonald. In 1896 he was admitted on trial into the Mississippi Conference, and served the following charges: Homewood, 1896; Hillsboro, 1897-8; Pleasant Grove and Whitestown, 1899; Mt. Carmel, 1900-1; Vancleave, 1902-3; Carriere, 1904. In Dec., 1904, he transferred to the Texas Conference and remained in that Conference two years. In November, 1906, he transferred to the West Texas Conference, and was appointed to the Menardville Charge. Here at Menardville his health failed him, and feeling that his work was nearly done, and wishing to return to his native home and Conference, he transferred back to the Mississippi Conference in November, 1907, and was appointed to the Hamburg Charge, where he was doing a fine work and where he was much beloved. Brother Thurman died at Hamburg, Miss., April 28, 1908. While his death was sudden and unexpected to many of his friends and brethren, it was not to him nor to his immediate family for some time before his death he often spoke of dying and always expressed himself as being ready and willing to go if it was the Master's will.

Brother Thurman was married to Miss Mary E. Mullican in 1886. This union was blessed with four children. These children, with their mother, are left to mourn their loss.

Brother Thurman was a good man, a good preacher, a diligent and self-sacrificing pastor, a kind husband and father, a useful citizen, a true friend. His labors were blessed of God in the conversion of many souls. Well done, thou good and faithful servant; enter thou into the joy of thy Lord.

W. W. Simmons.

A PREACHER WANTED.

I desire a preacher to take charge of the Vance Mission, Winona District, till Conference. There are six appointments, five on the railroad. Fair salary to right man. Answer at once.

E. S. Lewis, Winona, Miss.

NOTICE.

The Sam Jones Camp Meeting will begin on Aug. 13. Rev. John E. Green, of Houston, Tex., aided by other preachers in the Mississippi Conference, will do the preaching. The hotel on the grounds will be in the hands of competent parties. Rates on the Y. & M. V. and I. C. Railroads from all points in Mississippi will be one fare plus 25c. All trains on the Y. & M. V. will stop daily at the grounds, except trains 12 and 15, and they will stop on Sunday. The gates will be open and everybody admitted free. Arrangements are being made to have the best music. Satisfactory rates can be had for teams from Gloster to and from the grounds. Everybody is invited to attend this meeting.

W. H. Saunders, P. C.

NOTICE.

The third Quarterly Conference for the Wilkinson Charge will be held Aug. 15-16, at Rosetta. All stewards are requested to be present.

J. A. McBryde, P. C.

If conscience smite thee once, it is admonition; if twice, it is condemnation.—Southern Churchman.

A man may be lowered in the opinion of men by the sins of others, but it is only his own sin that lowers him in the sight of God.—Southern Churchman.

The larger the load the less the speed. Lumbering Christians are laden Christians. Agile spirits are those who have sloughed off the wordly, and so are able to run with patience the race that is set before them.—Southern Churchman.

Fourteen Good Reasons for Patronizing Grenada College

First—The unexcelled Home Comforts, unequaled anywhere else in the State.

Second—The Health Conditions; we rarely require the service of a physician.

Third—Our unusually skilled corps of teachers, whom we were able to secure only by paying a salary much above that paid by other girls' schools of the State.

Fourth—The Fine Arts Department, unequaled in the State and unexcelled in the South. Our teacher of Art studied in Germany and France, and our teachers of Music are graduated from the best Conservatories of America.

Fifth—See Descriptive Course of Study, which is conscientiously carried out as indicated.

Sixth—The Lyceum Course, which is superior even to that sustained in the University of Mississippi.

Seventh—The Library, which is fuller and better adapted than that of most girls schools of the South.

Eighth—Strong Christian Influence dominating all instruction.

Ninth—Personal Attention to the Individual Pupil, with a view to develop the best even out of peculiarities of character.

Tenth—A superior Student Body as Associates, since most of the indifferent have been eliminated.

Eleventh—The Rates are lower than those of any other school doing the same grade of work, owing to the Conference Assessment, which gives us an income not possessed by other schools; further, we have no stockholders to whom we are forced to pay dividends, as are some private schools. Our patrons receive back in excellence of service more than they pay in.

Twelfth—We place but two girls in a room, while most schools put from two to six.

Thirteenth—We require our teachers to continue study. Two are in Europe, two in Chicago, others at other schools in North and East.

Fourteenth—All these superior features enable us to turn out a larger percentage of graduates, who take high stand in the educational world, than any other school in the State. It means something to hold a diploma of the Grenada College.

Register for Rooms at Once and Thus Secure Choice of Location.

Send for Catalogue.

W. L. CLIFTON, A.B., Ph.B., President.

Grenada, Miss.

SILLIMAN COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE

CLINTON, LOUISIANA.

An endowed Christian school for girls and young women. You will find no better school of its grade in the South.

Healthful location in the hill country. Three handsome buildings. Beautiful, well-shaded campus. Electric lights. Steam-heat. All necessary equipment.

Scientific and classical courses leading to degrees. Special advantages in music, art, elocution, etc. For catalogue and information, address the president, Financial aid given to earnest students needing it.

H. H. BROWNLEE, Clinton, Louisiana.

PERSONAL WORK.

We have recently [illegible] a booklet of the [illegible] Personal Work, written by Elizabeth [illegible] Parker, entitled "Personal Work." It is strong, pointed and [illegible] the vital need of the day. Most men and women who are [illegible] church today are the fruit of personal work. The impulse may have moved to action, but [illegible] a surprising large number [illegible] will find there has been a personal [illegible] some friend.

Many of our churches are [illegible] because there is so little of personal effort to reach men that the world does not believe the Christ sends His men through His servants.

This booklet takes up this important need, and in a delightfully clear and pointed manner impresses the lesson.

Send for it [illegible] Send five cents to Smith & Lamar, at Nashville, Tenn., or Dallas, Tex.

The "Argo" Red Salmon Cook Book has more recipes for preparing Canned Salmon than ALL other Cook Books combined. A card to Alaska Packers' Association, San Francisco, Cal., will bring it to you.

A GREAT REVIVAL.

The greatest religious awakening that Okolona, Miss., has ever known closed Thursday night, July [illegible], after twenty continuous days of one of the best meetings I was ever in. It was a union meeting, and Rev. G. C. Cates was to have done the preaching. His co-worker, Rev. Burton A. Hall, came ahead and preached ten days before Brother Cates came. Brother Cates broke down the first day he came and didn't preach a single sermon. Was able to be in only two services. He had to go to the Coast for rest, but Rev. B. A. Hall continued the meeting until the close of the seventeenth day, at the close of which time there had been [illegible] conversions. Brother Hall was called to a Texas point by an urgent message. The day he left the executive committee from the three churches met and decided that the meeting could not close. So they asked the humble writer to do the preaching and carry on the meeting. We did so three days, the three days resulting in thirty conversions.

The whole town has been stirred. Hardened sinners were converted, old troubles were settled, families pledged to erect family altars, and the closing day between fifteen and twenty decks of cards were burned in the presence of a large congregation, which were brought in by some of the converts. A union prayer meeting for men has been inaugurated, and at the first service last Friday night there were about 55 men present.

Okolona is indeed a new town religiously. We have received sixty into the Methodist Church, and I think the Baptists and Presbyterians have received about forty-five each. The lukewarm church members were overhauled, and eternity alone will reveal the good that was done. The services were held under a tabernacle fitted up especially for the meeting.

The Sunday School in our church is going by leaps and bounds. Many people are attending Sunday School for the first time in years and years.

This revival could not have come at a better time for Methodism than now. We opened up our handsome new church just the night before the meeting began, with a social meeting, and our people were in a position to enjoy it, and now since we have received sixty members into the church the first three Sundays, it has placed our church on a very firm and enthusiastic basis. I know of no church in North Mississippi in a better condition spiritually than Okolona. There is a bright day before Okolona Methodism.

ROBT. A. CLARK.

Okolona, Miss., July 29, 1908.

General Conference for Christian Workers, at East Northfield, Mass.

Twenty-Sixth Annual Session, July 31 to Aug. 16, 1908.

One of the most encouraging signs of the times is the wide-spread interest in Bible study. Especially has this awakened interest shown itself among the young people both in educational institutions and in the church, and is an earnest of new conditions in another decade.

To meet the demands of such conditions there is a need of trained leaders, both in the ministry and among the laity, to rightly direct this interest. Otherwise this very spirit of inquiry may be misdirected into error by false teachers.

In extending a call to the Twenty-Sixth Conference of Christian Workers at Northfield, to be held July 31 to Aug. 16, we place special emphasis upon this need, and it is earnestly hoped that at this session God's Word may be taught with even greater blessing than ever before. To this end the prayers of the Christian public are sought, and the presence of all who yearn to know more regarding God's revealed will is invited.

The Daily Bible Class will be under the leadership of Rev. A. T. Pierson, D.D., and lectures will be given by a number of teachers whose names are already familiar to the friends of Northfield.

In view of the recent increased interest in men's organizations within the church, a special sub-conference will be held on the afternoons of Aug. 4 to [illegible] inclusive, to discuss methods of work. Addresses will be given by experienced workers in men's organizations, followed by discussions as to the means of conserving the interest of men in work for men.

W. R. MOODY.

East Northfield, Mass., July, 1908.

A partial list of the speakers includes: Rev. J. Stuart, of London; Rev. A. T. Pierson, D.D., of Brooklyn; Rev. Len G. Broughton, D.D., of Atlanta; Rev. W. L. Watkinson, D.D., of London; Rev. Hugh Black, D.D., of New York; Rev. C. A. R. Janvier, of Philadelphia; Rev. W. R. Macleod, of Edinburgh; Rev. R. A. Torrey, D.D., of Montrose, Pa.; Rev. John Douglas Adam, D.D., of Orange, N. J.; Dr. H. G. Underwood, of Korea; Rev. John A. Hutton, M.A., of Glasgow; Rev. C. C. Creegan, of New York; Rev. James E. Freeman, of Yonkers, N. Y.; Rev. D. M. Stearns, of Philadelphia; Mr. W. [illegible], of New York; Rev. Curtis Lee Laws, of Brooklyn; Rev. Joseph W. Cochran, of Philadelphia; Rev. Robert F. Y. Pierce, of New York.

Mr. George C. Stebbins and Mr. Charles M. Alexander will again have charge of the music.

The Post Conference Addresses will be given between Aug. 16 and Sept. [illegible] until about Sept. [illegible] by Rev. J. Stuart Holden, and between Sept. [illegible] and [illegible] by Rev. G. Campbell Morgan, D.D.

Special Bible Lectures at the Northfield Seminary will be given from Sept. [illegible] to about Nov. 1.

HOW'S THIS?

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

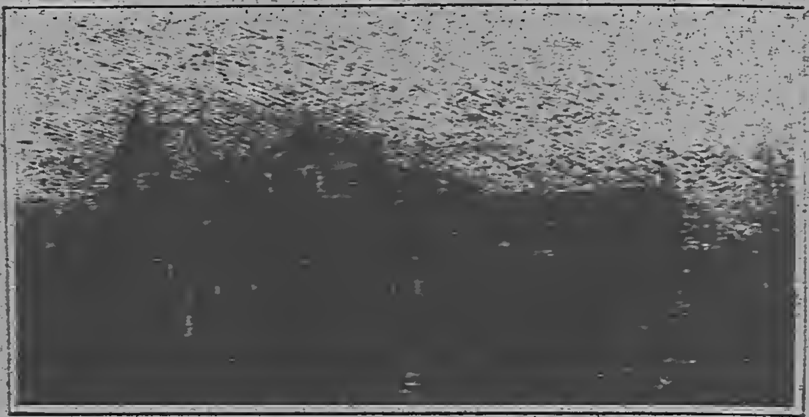
We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions, and financially able to carry out any obligations made by his firm.

WALDING, KINNAN & MARVIN,
Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, Ohio.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Testimonials sent free. Price, 75c. per bottle. Sold by all Druggists.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Centenary Female College,
Cleveland, Tenn.



LOCATION—One hour from historic Chattanooga. Prettiest town in all Tennessee. In mountain valley above all malaria. Health of girls from South greatly improved.
FACULTY—Best American and European training. Teacher of Modern Languages now studying in Germany.
RECREATION—[illegible]
DEPARTMENTS—[illegible] Music Department under German [illegible]. Art, Expression, Business.
Write for illustrated catalog to-day.

MILLSAPS COLLEGE,
JACKSON, MISSISSIPPI.
WILLIAM BELTON MURRAH, PRESIDENT.

A high-grade College situated at the capital of the State. Offers unsurpassed advantages in [illegible]. AMPLE GROUNDS—COMMODIOUS BUILDINGS—THOROUGHLY TRAINED TEACHERS—[illegible]. NEW CARNEGIE LIBRARY BUILDING [illegible] constantly increasing endowment, thus securing to students extraordinary opportunities at very moderate cost. LOCATION IDEAL—[illegible] of the country with all the advantages [illegible]. SEVENTEENTH SESSION BEGINS SEPTEMBER 30. Send for catalogue giving full particulars. Address,

J. E. WALMSLEY, Secretary, Jackson, Miss.

WESLEYAN COLLEGE, Macon, Ga. Oldest and Best.
WESLEYAN CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC, Macon, Ga. Largest and Best.
Expression, Art, Physical Culture, and Business Instruction Same Standard.

COLLEGE PLACED IN CLASS A, FIRST GRADE OF COLLEGES by General Board of Education M. E. Church [illegible]

DUPONT GUERRY, President.

TUSCALOOSA FEMALE COLLEGE
TUSCALOOSA, ALA.
A Safe Place to Send Your Daughters.

[illegible] Expenses $200—$300. A limited number of free [illegible] scholarships. [illegible]

B. J. HOLSTON, A.M., President.

Vanderbilt University,
Department of Dentistry.

This school being a department of Vanderbilt University insures a high standard school [illegible]. Its faculty is the equal of any [illegible] of the very best. The school furnishes a high standard [illegible] in a college atmosphere. For information address

J. P. GRAY, M.D., D.D.S., Sec., Nashville, Tenn.

Belmont College For Young Women
Nashville, Tenn.

[illegible]

Rev. IRA LANDRITH, D.D., LL.D., Regent. Miss HOOD and Miss HERON, Principals.

Sunday School

By W. B. Campbell.

LESSON FOR AUG. 2, 1908.

Subject: David Anointed at Bethlehem."—1st Samuel xvi, 1-16.

Golden Text: "Man looketh on the outward appearance, but the Lord looketh on the heart."—1st Samuel xvi, 7.

It was not for the one sin of disobedience, the failing to annihilate the Amalekites, that Saul was rejected of the Lord. That was only an incident of his stubbornness that indicated the character of his reign at the beginning of his kingship. Saul professed penitence, but his request of Samuel, that he should make a good appearance before the elders of his people, showed how much of sincerity there was in his confession of guilt. Samuel grieved for Saul, as good men always grieve over the shortcomings of those of whom much is expected. The Church grieves over many weak brethren that "crucify to themselves the Son of God afresh, and put him to an open shame." Let us learn that God rejected Saul because there was no promise in the King's future. He was not the man for the position. The people were as sheep, the flock of God, and he was not fit to be their shepherd. It is a sad duty that sometimes falls on a Conference committee, to inform a man that he is not fit to preach the Gospel; yet it is sometimes done and with as sincere grief as was Samuel's.

The prophet was to waste no time in useless mourning; he was to go at once to Bethlehem. "For out of thee shall come a governor that shall rule my people Israel" must be now prefigured in his choosing one of the sons of Jesse, of the tribe of Judah. Samuel was afraid to go; he knew Saul well, and that in his present mood even the killing of the prophet of the Lord was not too desperate an act for him to commit. When God sends, we do not go alone. He follows with his ever-present care. In his care for the Christian, we learn from 2d Corinthians i, 10, that he hath delivered the sinner from death—past; that he doth deliver the sinner from death—present; in whom we trust that he will deliver—future.

Samuel must have known that the selection of a new king, and from another tribe, was not in a manner a punishment from God, but the performing of the Lord's immutable purpose. It was no small matter to change royalty from one family to another, and it was not unwise to take precautions against an exceedingly excitable people. This people had designated the kind of king they wanted, and their choice had proven a failure; now came God's time, as he said to Samuel "I have provided me a king" from the sons of Jesse. When Samuel was come to Bethlehem he was to make a sacrifice to God, but it was not a subterfuge to deceive Saul. The choice of a new king was very properly to be preceded by a religious service, and Jesse was to be called to this service.

The elders of the town of Bethlehem trembled on the arrival of Samuel. There is always a feeling akin to fear that comes over wicked men in the presence of sincere religious people. The elders wanted to know at once the purport of Samuel's visit, it having been told them of the estrangement between the prophet and King Saul. Their minds were set at rest by being told to sanctify themselves preparatory to the sacrifice. When all were assembled, the sons of Jesse came before the prophet, the first being Eliab, and Samuel thought God's choice was quickly made. God was talking to Samuel as events were transpiring, and he told him not to decide by outward appearance, for "God looketh on the heart." Eliab was not chosen. Then Abinadab and Shammah came forward. "Neither hath the Lord chosen this" was said of each of these two in turn. Seven sons of Jesse passed in review. "The Lord hath not chosen these" was said in the Spirit to Samuel. Then who could be the chosen one? "Are here all thy children?" asked Samuel of Jesse. "No," said Jesse, "I have another, the youngest; we did not think it was important that he should come to the sacrifice; he is now out minding the sheep." "Send and fetch him," said Samuel; "we will not sit down till he come hither."

We love to recall the picture of this scene, for long ago it was impressed on childhood's memory by the loving words of mothers, and they seem to come back to-day, telling again the sweet story of the shepherd boy that was made a king. They came in, leading little David, ruddy and blushing, from the fields. It was strange that Jesse did not know of the true character of David, and then Samuel might have been well enough acquainted with human nature to decide which was the most suitable. It must have been that this was true to more deeply impress the minds of all that David was God's choice, not man's. The heart of the shepherd boy, that God had worked upon, must have shown outward, for David "was beautiful of countenance, and goodly to look to."

The new heart that God gives us when we become his children will shine upon our faces. An account will be required for the expression of the face when we are called to tell of the use of our talents. Many a poor sinner, under conviction, looking this way and that for encouragement among the people of God, has been driven away by a surly look.

"Then the Lord said, arise and anoint him;" and then and there the shepherd boy became the king of Israel; and all that is said in this connection is dear to us, for David is the ancestor of our Lord, the first King that reigns in the hearts of men. "The Spirit of the Lord came upon David from that time forward." Never in the years that followed, did God take his Spirit from David. He was human, and did not always the things right in God's eyes, but when he was reproved, though he was king, he was meekly repentant, and as such received pardon of the Lord. "Create in me a clean heart, take not thy Holy Spirit from me," were the words of his prayer after Nathan had shown him the enormity of his sin. So, prayerfully let us study the history of one whom God, in his dealings with, has shown us in his written Word, that he looketh on the heart, and will abundantly pardon our transgressions.

"Our Father, we thank thee that thou canst look upon our inward souls and canst see all the trials and struggles we make in trying to make ourselves worthy for the habitation of the Holy Ghost, the Comforter."

The Alaska Packer's Association gives the heartiest support to the U. S. Pure Food Laws, and guarantees its Canned Salmon to meet all the requirements.

MOXINE CHILL TONIC
Only Tonic—one bottle—one cure.

HENDERSONVILLE, N. C.
"Pine Grove Lodge" will be open for guests after June 1. Delightful location; special rates for June.
Address, Mrs. E. C. Bedell.

MOXINE CHILL TONIC
Only Tonic—one bottle—one cure.

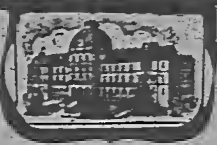
BELLS.
Steel Alloy Church and School Bells. Send for Catalogue. The C. S. BELL CO., Hillsboro, O.

Pine-Brook Dairy Co., Ltd.
ALL OUR COWS TUBERCULINE TESTED.
Milk and Cream Delivered Morning and Evening.
COR. ST. CHARLES & WASHINGTON AVES. Phone 1514 Uptown.

DICKSON COLLEGE, DICKSON, TENN.
A select home school for both sexes; ideal location on the summit of the Highland Rim of Middle Tennessee. No malaria; pure air, crystal waters, splendid buildings, strong faculty. A practical school that makes practical men and women who do things. The school for the masses. Gives everybody a chance. Literary, Commercial, Telegraphy, Music, Elocution. New year begins Tuesday, Sept. 1, 1908. Expenses lower than anywhere else in the world.
Write postal card for beautiful catalogue. Address,
T. B. LOGGINS, A. M., President, Dickson, Tenn.

The Birmingham Dental College
OFFERS FINE ADVANTAGES FOR SECURING A DENTAL EDUCATION.
Over a hundred thousand people are in touch with the infirmary, furnishing abundant material for practice. Write at once for our catalogue.
CHAS. A. MERRILL, Dean,
708 First National Bank Building - - - - - - - - - - Birmingham, Ala.

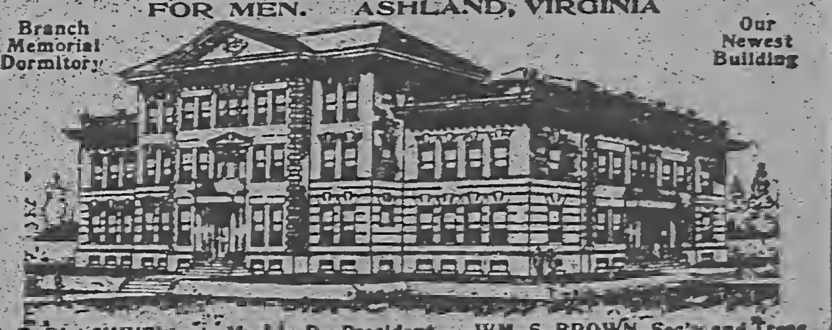
METHODIST BENEVOLENT ASSOCIATION.
The Connectional Mutual Benefit Brotherhood of Southern Methodism.
1. Membership composed of ministers and laymen of the Southern Methodist Church. 2. Benefit payable at death, or Living Benefit on becoming disabled. 3. Over $50,000.00 paid beneficiaries to date. If under fifty and in good health, write for full information.
METHODIST BENEVOLENT ASSOCIATION, Care Methodist Publishing House, Nashville, Tenn.



FLORENCE UNIVERSITY for WOMEN FLORENCE, ALA.
Magnificent buildings costing $100,000. Elegant appointments. Refined and Christian home. Pianos and furniture all new. Ideal location near the mountains. All college courses. Conservatory unsurpassed. Teachers from the best schools of Europe and America. Opens September 18, 1908. For handsome catalog, address M. W. HATTON and O. W. ANDERTON, Presidents, Florence, Ala.

South Mississippi College
HATTIESBURG, MISS.
CO-EDUCATIONAL.
New $100,000 equipment. 400 students. First class accommodations at reasonable rates. Courses of study equal to those given by any other college in the State and lead to the usual degrees. Special attention given to Domestic Science, Art, Music, Expression, and the training of teachers. Session opens September 8, 1908.
W. I. THAMES, President. Hattiesburg, Miss.

RANDOLPH-MACON COLLEGE
FOR MEN. ASHLAND, VIRGINIA



R. E. BLACKWELL, A. M., LL. D., President WM. S. BROWN, Sec'y and Treas.

WARD SEMINARY
Purpose The purpose of the school is to do serious and honest work in the Christian education of girls and young women.
Courses Seminary, Special, and College Preparatory Courses. French and German under native teachers. Art, life model. Expression, three years' course.
Conservatory of Music. Seven piano teachers, two voice teachers, etc. Thirty new pianos.
Advantages Nashville excels in climate, healthfulness, and social culture. It is the educational center of the South, and affords unusual advantages in lectures, recitals, and other opportunities for practical education.
Every facility for physical culture is afforded. Tennis, bowling, etc. Beautiful city campus of ten acres, and suburban campus of forty acres.
Only one hundred and seventy-five boarding pupils are received.
Indorsement Nearly half a century of increasing public favor and success. Patrons say: "Ward Seminary is an ideal Christian home." "The work done in Ward Seminary is of an unusually high order, and the religious tone the best." "The social life of the Seminary is of the very highest order." "My daughter has enjoyed in your school the best health she has had since she was twelve years old." "We can scarcely find words to thank you for what you have done for our daughter."
The Forty-fourth Year Begins September 24. Early Application is Advised.
For Catalog, Address J. D. BLANTON, President, Nashville, Tenn.

Classified Advertisements.

EDUCATIONAL

LOW SUMMER RATE now on at Draughon's Business College, Nashville, Atlanta, Raleigh, St. Louis, Dallas, Little Rock, San Antonio, Memphis, Knoxville. Bookkeeping, Shorthand, Typewriting, Telegraphy, etc., taught. POSITIONS secured or MONEY BACK. Catalogue FREE.

AGENTS WANTED—Male and Female.

LADIES make big money in spare time representing us. Nice work in your own town. Write us to-day. BRANDON COMPANY, Bellefontaine, Ohio.

Whitworth College

(FOR YOUNG LADIES)

Brookhaven, Miss.

Conservatory of Art, Music and Expression. Commercial Department. High Curriculum. Officers and Teachers, 22. Students, 255. Next session begins Sept. 23, 1908. Address,

WHITWORTH COLLEGE.

PORT GIBSON FEMALE COLLEGE,

Port Gibson, Miss.

68th Session Opens Sept. 23, 1908. Standard of Literary Work High. Music, Elocution, Art, Commerce, Sewing. Special Attention Given Health and Morals. Electric Lights, Artesian Water. Boarding Patronage Steadily Increasing. Trip to National Military Park, Mississippi's New Capitol, and State Fair—a Feature of Next Session.

Henry G. Hawkins, A. B., Pres.

BELVIRINO

A PROGRESSIVE COLLEGE FOR YOUNG LADIES.

WEST POINT, MISSISSIPPI.

EDWIN W. DORAN, Ph., D.,
PRESIDENT.

Fine buildings, accommodating 200 boarders. Cultured Teachers in Literary Department. Music, Expression, Art, Commercial Branches, Physical Culture, etc.

REDUCED RATE FOR 1908-9, $175.

Next term opens Sept. 8th. Send for Catalogue.

Southern University,

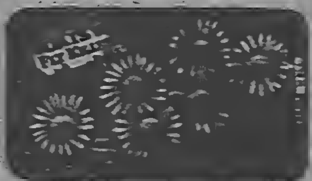
Greensboro, Ala.

Last session most successful for several years past. All departments well organized. Excellent library and reading room; well-equipped chemical laboratory; new gymnasium with excellent equipment. Government paternal. Health record excellent. Charges moderate. $165.00 to $2[illegible] will cover all legitimate expenses.

We stand for culture, thoroughness, and Christian manhood—an education classical in form, and Christian in spirit. Next session begins Sept. 16th, 1908. Send for catalogue.

REV. S. M. KOSMER, D.D., Pres.

DAISY FLY KILLER



placed anywhere, attracts and kills all flies. Neat, clean, ornamental, convenient, cheap. Lasts all season. Absolutely harmless. Cannot spill or tip over, will not soil or injure anything. Guaranteed effective. Of all dealers or sent prepaid for [illegible] cents.

HAROLD SOMERS
148 DeKalb Ave.
Brooklyn, N. Y.

Belmont College

For YOUNG WOMEN. Nashville, Tenn.

Regular College and Preparatory Courses. Music, Art, Languages, Physical Culture. Beautiful location. Golf, tennis, hockey, all the year. Register now. Catalogue on request.

Rev. IRA LANDRITH, D.D., LL. D., Regent.
Miss HOOD and Miss HERON, Principals.

MOXINE
Cures LAGRIPPE and Colds.

MY FIRST VACATION.

Dear Dr. Boswell: I have been a member of the Mississippi Conference since December, 1893. Having labored continuously during that time, save a few days off, once a year to visit my parents near Columbia, I have begun to feel very much the need of rest and recuperation. I mentioned the matter to my people last Sunday morning, and stated that a vacation would be greatly appreciated. Immediately after the benediction they got together and notified me that they would cheerfully release me for a month. Having provided the means by which I shall be able to take the rest they have expressed to me their hearty good wishes for a pleasant time. No pastor ever served a kinder or more appreciative people than the congregation here in Fayette.

I leave here to-morrow morning for points in Texas, Colorado and New Mexico. Should any one need to write me between this and Aug. 7, address me at Aztec, New Mexico, in care of Rev. James A. Lewis.

With best wishes for the Advocate force, I am, respectfully,

D. SCARBOROUGH.

Fayette, Miss.

Try one can of Argo Red Salmon and you will use more.

MOXINE CHILL TONIC
Only Tonic—one bottle—one cure.

FROM HAYNESVILLE, LA.

Dear Doctor: It has been the delightful privilege of the writer to attend the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago for three months past, and knowing so many of your pastors within the bounds of the Louisiana Conference, may I say through your paper, that indeed, I feel the Moody Institute is a vine of God's own planting, and that it is filling a need in Christian civilization that was felt as a great need by that wonderful man of God, D. L. Moody. "He beng dead, yet speaketh."

I found in this institution prayer and the study of the Bible is daily emphasized. There have gone forth from this institution almost every year young men and women into all parts of the earth to bring the message of salvation to hungry souls in foreign lands, as well as in the home land, and the Institute is planning and praying day by day for even a greater number to go forth in the Master's name. The music department conducted by D. B. Towner, is indeed a source of spiritual joy and helpfulness along these lines. World-wide missions is especially emphasized in this institution. Is there any reason why this place should not be a blessing where the Bible is taught and students are urged to pray to be led by the Holy Spirit?

I feel I can safely say no pastor will regret the time and means spent in the city mission work, and having an opportunity of attending while in the Institute the Moody Church, which to-day stands for so much in Chicago.

I am glad to be back home to loved ones and to my people.

E. C. CARGILL.

Haynesville, La.

MAKES STRONG HEARTS.

Thousands of weak hearts have been made strong and healthy by the use of Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure. It acts directly upon the heart muscles and nerves, quieting the excited condition, nourishing and building up their wasted energies. It regulates the circulation, stimulates the appetite and tones up the stomach. If first bottle fails to benefit, money back.

MOXINE
Cures LAGRIPPE and Colds.

FROM SOUTH McCOMB.

Dear Dr. Boswell: Our great meeting at South McComb closed two weeks ago after running eighteen days. We had fifty accessions and many bright conversions. Rev. W. M. Sullivan did all the preaching, with the exception of three plain, practical exhortations by the pastor, and a very touching and appropriate sermon by our presiding elder. We have had 150 accessions at this place this year and last. Brother Z. Z. Linton, our District leader in the Laymen's Movement, addressed my church at this place yesterday. His work was very much appreciated, and he impressed us all that God had called him to this great work. The work at Fernwood is booming. The town of Fernwood paid more money to the size of the place than any town in the State of Mississippi to the storm sufferers of Purvis. They paid $500.

Doctor, I cannot move this winter. I have a prospect for 500 bushels of sweet potatoes. G. D. ANDERS.

Dear Brother—You will be well able to move. With that pile of potatoes, you can afford to go to a poor place and "preach for nothing and pay for the privilege," as Dr. Green used to say.—Editor.

BETTER THAN QUININE.

Strong testimony: "Hughes' Tonic is the best chill tonic I ever tried. Better than quinine." Sold by Druggists—50c. and $1.00 bottles.

PREPARED BY
Robinson-Pettet Co., Incorporated
Louisville.

FROM HATHORN, MISS.

Dear Brother Boswell: The Lord hath done great things for us whereof we are glad. We began our meeting at Hathorn on Sunday, July 5, and continued ten days. The pastor conducted four services, while the rest of the preaching was done by Brother E. L. White. Certainly he was at his best and preached with much liberty. The singing was conducted by Brother J. R. Hitt, of Goss, with a choir of more than twenty voices. This trained and consecrated leader led me up near the battlements of heaven as they sung the Gospel and shouted the praises of our King.

Besides these helps a spirit of harmony and helpfulness pervaded the town and community. Christians of all denominations were interested in every manifestation of God's love and power. Over all and through all was the Spirit manifested, and to God we give all the glory.

As to the results, only eternity can speak. We know that Christians were made better, and our fellowship is more blessed. There were seven accessions to the church—one by certificate, one by vows, five by baptism; infants baptized, five.

While we give God the praise for all that was done, we shall ever appreciate the faithfulness of Brothers E. L. White and C. H. Herring. We love them for the work's sake, and commend them to our brethren as vessels meet for the Master's use.

W. J. BRANTON.

MOXINE
Cures LAGRIPPE and Colds.

PHILOMATHEANS

Felicitate Filias Fideles
who are
Wanters of Wisdom,
Lovers of Learning,
and
Finders of Fun in Fields of Duty.
Enthusiastic to enter? Well, write for catalogue of Grenada College and to me for particulars.

MISS EVLYN WAUGH, Pres't.
Goodman, Miss.

MOXINE CHILL TONIC
Only Tonic—one bottle—one cure.

MAKE ICE CREAM FROM WATER

and a small quantity of condensed milk, if fresh milk cannot be had.

RECIPE.

¼ pint condensed milk costs	.06c.
Add enough cold water to make one quart	.00
One 13c. package JELL-O ICE CREAM Powder	.13c.
Total	.19c.

Mix all together thoroughly and freeze. Don't heat or cook it; don't add anything else. This makes two quarts of delicious ice cream in 10 minutes at very small cost.

AND YOU KNOW IT'S PURE.

Five kinds—Chocolate, Vanilla, Strawberry, Lemon and Unflavored.

2 packages 25c. at all grocers.

Illustrated Recipe Book Free.

The Genesee Pure Food Co., Le Roy, N. Y.

MANSFIELD FEMALE COLLEGE

A Christian School for young ladies. Preparatory and Full College Courses. Denominational but nonsectarian. Competent Instructors, healthful location, large campus, indoor and outdoor recreation, special advantages in Music, Art, Elocution and Languages. Aims to develop true womanliness and self-reliance. Terms reasonable.

Catalogue free on request.

ADDRESS

Prof. Olin S. Dean, Pres.
Mansfield Female College,
MANSFIELD, LA.

The Law School Vanderbilt University,

NASHVILLE, TENN.

For catalogue or special information, address,

ALLEN HALL, LL.D.,
Chairman of the Faculty.

TULANE UNIVERSITY of LOUISIANA
Medical Department.

Its advantages for practical instruction, both in ample laboratories and abundant hospital materials, are unequaled. Free access is given to the great Charity Hospital with [illegible] beds and [illegible] patients annually. Special instruction is given daily at the bedside of the sick. Department of Pharmacy also. The next session begins October 1st, 1908. For catalogue and information, address DR. ISADORE DYER, DEAN, P. O. Drawer 261, NEW ORLEANS, LA.

CLIFTONIANS

Covet Constant Covenanters
to
Keep Karakter,
Invite Ideation,
Kultivate Kourage,
and
Grab Coin for Grenada College.
For particulars address
MISS ALMA BECK, Pres't.
Drew, Miss.

GAS STOVE REPAIRING.

If your gas stove needs repairing address a postal card to J. T. Chalmers, 526 Bellecastle St., City. Two or three dollars spent in this way may prove a big saving and bring about better service in the cooking.

3½ to 200 H.P. Saw Mill Outfits. Steam, Gasoline or Water Power. Planers, Shingle Mills, Corn Mills.
WE PAY FREIGHT. DeLoach Mill Manufacturing Co. SEND FOR CATALOG.
[illegible] Ala.

Obituaries.

Obituaries not over two hundred words in length will be published free of charge. All over two hundred words will be charged at the rate of 1 cent a word. Count the words and send the amount necessary with the obituary. That will save trouble all around.

LETTIE CLARK.

On Wednesday, April 29, 1908, in the 27th year of her age, LETTIE, daughter of A. J. Clark. A sentence can convey much; and this one above is the vehicle in which full measures of tragedy are gathered. On Thursday the 23rd, the writer was at Purvis, spending the evening and night at the home of the father. No home has expressed a finer hospitality than was always found there. With the tenderness of a mother, Brother Clark had brought up a large family. Lettie the quiet, lovely home nature was one of the favored, gifted girls. Friday afternoon, at 2 o'clock, the cyclone blew away nearly all the town, killing and maiming a number. With shattered limbs, Lettie was borne by loving hands to the station, and sent to the sanitarium nearest by. Suffering terribly as she was, she was selfforgetful enough to pass a sympathetic word with other victims of the storm as they lay on cots near hers. Her smile and hope that they would not find the injuries so bad were benedictions which registered blessings upon those with her in the fellowship of suffering. After lingering with varying prospect of recovery until the following Wednesday, death came—an angel of release. The interval between her injury and her passing was the source of great happiness to her. Always a Christian, the meaning of the Spirit's adoption and the glory of the cross were wonderfully amplified to the sufferer. Time was hers to ponder and realize in beauty the prospect of the soul going in faith and trust to God. The terrible character of the wounds seemed to impress her, more than others, with the futility of efforts to save her life. She said that she would be such a burden should she live—it were better to go. Leaving the body as a tenement no longer habitable, she gave attention to Christ and his love. This gracious study opened to her more and more that love she sought to certify; illumination grew upon her spirit until with beaming face and happy speech she blessed the hearts of the faithful brothers and sisters who remained constantly about her bedside. In peace she passed the few days before her death, and when she came to the passage home, it was a happy spirit going out to meet the promises with which Christ has taken thorn and shadow from death and grave. At the funeral from Purvis, from Brother Hand's home, one of the few homes not demolished, a large number of affectionate friends paid the tributes of the last office. Flowers covered the pure white casket; tears stood upon cheeks unheeded. All loved Lettie. The presence of a profound peace was perceptible; we gave thanks to God for the grace which furnished the "house not made with hands," after the poor material body was no longer fitted to minister to the soul. We were glad that the soul had adorned the body here, and we committed her with feelings of peculiar gratefulness into the hand which she felt to be holding her safe. Not often is one able to speak so gratefully of the issues in such a case. The storm had rolled away; the sound and fury of external influences were utterly effaced; a happy spirit, praising him for the blessings which she had extracted from the vain forces of nature winged conscious, fearless flight to him whom she had believed and trusted. She is at rest, but her place is vacant, and she will be sadly missed. I shall miss her, and I do. God bless all her people, her father especially, who will miss his Lettie, but who has not failed to believe through the disaster wrecking his home and destroying his daughter that the God of all the earth does right. His faith has helped the faith of many. W. H. HUNTLEY.

Lumberton, Miss.

JUDGE JOHN R. ENOCHS.—The State has sustained the loss of one of its most honored citizens, and the church has been deprived of the services of one of her most devoted sons, in the death of Judge John R. Enochs, which event occurred on the morning of Thursday, July 2, 1908, at his residence in Brandon, Miss., when in the presence of those whom he loved best his spirit passed into the realm of the eternally blessed. Early in the year, while in apparently robust health, he was stricken with grippe, which disease involved his heart. He realized the gravity of the disease, and soon knew that he would not recover. As his pastor, it was my privilege to visit him frequently during his long illness; and my intimate association with this saintly man will ever be to me of blessed memory. Time and again he assured me that he had no fear of death, but tears would come to his eyes as he would speak of the impending break in the family circle. His faith was firm, and his hope confident of soon meeting the Master whom he loved so dearly and whom he had so faithfully served as a loyal son of the Gospel. In the death of this zealous and devoted man of God, the church has sustained a loss that cannot now be estimated. As a steward, Judge Enochs was perhaps without peer. He was one of the very few men who actually took a delight in raising money for all the various enterprises of the church. Not only was he zealous in the financial interests of the church, but he was efficient in every department of religious activity. He has stood in the pulpit and preached the Gospel; in the Sunday School he taught the Bible class, among them men and women older than he; and in prayer he literally talked as face to face with God. Perhaps he was the only Circuit Judge in Mississippi who opened the daily sessions of his court with prayer. He was a man of pure and chaste conversation. In his last days, when his magnificent intellect was impaired by disease, it is said by those who constantly ministered to him that not one word escaped his lips but might have been heard by his wife and daughters, and the words that fell thus unconsciously indicated that his thoughts were about the things of God. His well-marked Bible was his constant companion, and is one of the most precious gifts that he has left his loved ones. The subject of this sketch was born in Florence, Rankin County, Miss., Dec. 28, 1848, and he passed away in the sixtieth year of his age. Speaking of his sickness he said that he felt that he was good for at least ten or fifteen years of usefulness yet, but God's will was otherwise. His youth and young manhood was passed in farming, milling and teaching school, until 1876, when he was elected county treasurer and moved to Brandon, where he had continuously resided. At the expiration of his term of office, he was re-elected. In 1879 he was admitted to the bar, which noble profession he dignified by an able, pure and conscientious life. He served two terms in the State Legislature. Twelve years ago he was appointed Circuit Judge—the appointment coming from his fellow-townsman, Governor A. J. McLaurin. His administration was so acceptable, both to the bar and the people, that he was reappointed by Governor A. H. Longino, thus serving eight years on the bench. In January, 1880, he married Miss Fannie Shaw, the daughter of Mr. Daniel Shaw, both of whom survive him. Of this union were born five children—DeWitt, Shaw, Sarah Elizabeth, Ruby and John R. Last year, during a meeting held by Rev. W. M. Sullivan, his youngest daughter, Ruby, was converted, and in January of this year his youngest son, John, was received into the church by the pastor. Thus he lived to see his entire family saved and on the way to heaven. Judge Enochs was a man of sturdy mould, physically and mentally. He was tender-hearted and generous to a fault. He gave with unstinting hand to the cause of his Master, and liberally aided every worthy cause of suffering humanity. While he may not have left his family provided with an abundance of the goods of this world, he left them the most priceless of legacies—a noble and an untarnished name. He is now happy beyond our conception, awaiting the final reunion by and by. May the abiding influence of his sanctified life long be felt by those who knew him best, and may our Heavenly Father comfort with the Christian's hope the widow and children, and so direct their lives that they all may meet as an undivided family at the last great day, and be assigned a mansion in God's eternal city.

C. F. EMERY.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

Crowley Dist.—Third Round.

Sulphur	July 30,
Jennings	July 31,
St. Martin	Aug. 2,
Lake Charles	Aug. 5,
Prudhomme	Aug. 8, 9
Franklin	Aug. 12,
Indian Bayou	Aug. 15, 16
Rayne	Aug. 15, 16
Gueydan	Aug. 22, 23
Eunice	Aug. 23,
Jeanerette	Aug. 25,
Lake Arthur	Aug. 26,

J. M. HENRY, P. E.

Watch for the transparencies of Argo Red Salmon in your grocer's window.

It is stated that in a very short time there will be a penny a word cable rate between this country and England.

SCALP HUMORS.

Dandruff, Eczema, and other scalp diseases, quickly relieved by Tetterine. Many cases of long standing cured. Letters like the following are daily occurances:

"Send box of Tetterine, I have suffered from scalp humors for seven years. Have used one box of Tetterine and am nearly cured.

"Mrs. Julia Foxby, Montelba, Texas."

Ringworm, tetter, piles, and other skin diseases, also cured by Tetterine; a box will convince, get one today. 50 cents at drug stores or by mail direct.

J. T. Shuptrine, Savannah, Ga.

BLOOD POISONING POSITIVELY CURED

Hereditary, primary, secondary and tertiary.—Scrofula, Eczema, Blood and Skin Disease. If you have exhausted old-time methods, and want to get well, write me in fullest confidence for proof of cures. Take my treatment and get well. A. A. BROWER, M. D.
San Antonia, Tex.

Murat Halstead, who for a half-century was one of the leading journalists of this country, died at his home in Cincinnati on the second of the month.

There is no article of food more nutritious or healthful than Argo Red Salmon. As a brain and muscle builder it is afr ahead of beef or other meats.

MOXINE CHILL TONIC
Only Tonic—one bottle—one cure.

TRACTS FREE
to those who will distribute them judiciously to the Glory of God. Apply to Pres. J. W. BEESON, Meridian Woman's College, Meridian, Miss.

Ideal School for Girls.

Next session opens Sept. 24, 1908.

Located on a beautiful 20 acre estate a few miles north of the city.

Cultured instructors, delightful home life, refined associations, wholesome social advantages. Full college course.

Musical instruction, both vocal and instrumental.

New buildings, with all modern improvements.

Write for catalogue.

W. W. DANIEL, A.M., D.D.,
President,
Columbia College, S. C.

Co-Operative School $150.00
$50,000 Plant. Special R. R. Rates.
BEDFORD, VIRGINIA.

TULANE University of Louisiana
NEW ORLEANS
E. B. CRAIGHEAD, LL. D., President
DEPARTMENTS:
Graduate Department
Academic Colleges
Newcomb College for Women
Teachers College
Law Department
Medical Department
Post-Graduate Medical Department
Pharmacy Department
For Catalogues address
RICHARD K. BRUFF, Secretary.

MERIDIAN WOMAN'S COLLEGE
CHARACTER FACTORY
CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC
LARGEST IN THE SOUTH
WRITE FOR CATALOG TO PRES. J. W. BEESON, A.M., MERIDIAN, MISS.

RANDOLPH-MACON ACADEMY
For Boys and Young Men
Fits for college, university or business. Work endorsed by over 30 colleges and universities. Beautiful and healthful location. Ample athletic grounds; gymnasium. Terms only $230. No extras. For catalogue, address E. SUMTER SMITH, Principal, Bedford City, Va.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL
The Double Track Route.

26 Hours to Chicago
21 Hours to St. Louis
22 Hours to Louisville
26 Hours to Cincinnati

Through Sleeping Cars to above points. Dining Cars, Library Cars, Chair Cars and Coaches.
Full Particulars at
City Ticket Office,
141 ST. CHARLES STREET.
Phone Main 3618.

LIFE A BURDEN

Pains, from which women suffer, often make living unendurable.

If you are a victim, do not remain one. No need. Most of such pains are preventable, curable.

Others have obtained relief, through Cardui. Why not you?

At least it can do no harm to give Cardui a fair trial.

It may be the very medicine you need.

Hearken to the words of Mrs. Mattie Campbell, of Ratcliff, Tex. She says: "Two years ago my health was very bad. I suffered untold misery every month. I ached all over. Life was a burden to me. At times, I wished for death, to end my suffering.

"At last I decided to try Cardui. I took one bottle and it helped me so much, I bought $5.00 worth. That kept me in health for one year, and saved a large doctor's bill. I took six more bottles and now I can say that Cardui has stopped my suffering and made life worth living. I would not be placed back where I was, two years ago, not for this whole world rolled at my feet."

Try Cardui.

REVIVAL AT PLEASANT GROVE, MISS.

Dear Dr. Boswell: We have just closed a revival meeting at Pleasant Grove, Miss. This is the second meeting that we have had in this Charge; have six others to hold yet. We had a grand and glorious time: God's power was with us, convincingly and convertingly. Men and women that had never before made any pretension to Christianity surrendered their lives to Christ and then and there went to work for our dear Master. Young women got in vehicles and went out into the highways and hedges and found dying men and women and pointed them to the Lamb of God that taketh away the sin of the world. They went into the homes of families in which Christ's name was never mentioned up to that good hour. Their tender, sympathetic appeal to our loving Savior for help to the unfortunates was heard and answered then and there.

Oh, if young people would just wake up to their duties to our God and to our fellow-man and go to work it would not take long to win the world for Christ! The young ladies and gentlemen above referred to were society belles and leaders in worldly amusements up to this past week, but now they are belles and leaders for Christ.

We had some twenty-five to thirty who professed faith in Christ, and some sixty-five to seventy-five reclaimed and got in harness to work for the Master, and the entire neighborhood very much revived. I want to ask the prayers of all Christians for us in our other meetings.

Rev. W. M. Young, the presiding elder of Sardis District, opened the meeting and preached until Wednesday morning, at which time Rev. J. W. McGee, of Water Valley, took up the work and closed with such a great success. I am, fraternally,

W. V. SHEARER, Pastor.

Argo Red Salmon is the famous Red Salmon of the North, caught in Alaska's icy waters. There is no better salmon packed.

MOXINE
Cures LAGRIPPE and Colds.

Epworth League

By Rev. H. Whitehead.

PRAYER-MEETING TOPIC.

August 2. The Passing of Prejudice. The Liberated Life.—Acts ix. 10-22; Phil. iii. 1-7.

How Jesus Masters Our Prejudices.—Scripture Ref.: Acts ix. 10-22.—This is the final chapter in the story of Saul's conversion. Ananias, a disciple, is made God's instrument in the final act. Full of fear and of prejudice against the persecutor of his people, Ananias obeys God—and is amazed together with the others present at the wondrous transformation. The disciple was so prejudiced against this man that he obeyed God with trepidation, and was surprised at the result.

Phil. iii. 1-7. Paul, the Jew, the Pharisee, the self-righteous, the persecutor of the Christians, the despiser of the Gentiles, has been transformed by the power of Christ, so that he writes to the Gentile Christians addressing them as spiritual Jews and warning them of those of his own nation who retain the prejudices he once possessed.

How does Jesus master our prejudices?

First—By Giving us a new heart. The heart is the seat of the affections. Christ has the power to give men hearts or to transform their affections. When we have this new heart our prejudices are mastered because of what the heart means. 1. It means faith. Prejudice cannot live long in an atmosphere of faith in God. 2. It means obedience. When we begin to do unquestioningly that which God commands, prejudice will certainly vanish away. 3. It means love. "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart," and "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." In this heart transformation love takes the throne, and love is death to prejudice.

Second—By giving us a new understanding. Not only does God change the heart, but he changes the understanding. 1. This means a new point of view. Prejudices are often the results of one-sided views. If we could only see all around we would form different opinions. The moment we begin to see the "other side" prejudices often vanish. 2. This means a new light. Prejudices are formed because we misunderstand motives, and do not know men's environments. What we need is new light, and very often all the new light needed is the new light of our own understanding. Then we know that we have misjudged motives; then we see the environment and the heredity that have worked together through no real fault of the object of our prejudice to make him despised.

Third—But sometimes these same changes come in the object of our prejudice and we know it not. His heart is changed; he has been given a new understanding; he is a new creature. We go on thinking of him as he was before, but Christ has changed him. No better illustration of this can be found than in to-day's Scripture. Ananias thought of Saul as he had been, and did not know of the marvelous change that Christ had wrought in him; hence his prejudice.

To the Leader: After all that has been suggested in the foregoing remarks nothing has been said directly on the folly, the senselessness, the uselessness, the unfairness of prejudice, and the pain that it brings to the parties of both parts. Here is your opportunity, in your own way, of painting a picture of prejudice that will make men hate her. Men say they are prejudiced, and make it an excuse for a course of action. Show the unfairness, not to say unkindness, of this. Show how universal it is; how few there are who are not touched by it. Finally, impress upon the audience that Christ is the remedy.—G. V. Morris, in Western Christian Advocate.

GOOD COFFEE
DEPENDS UPON
QUALITY – FRESHNESS – BLENDING
ROASTING – MAKING
WHEN YOU BUY
LUZIANNE COFFEE
You are positively insured upon the
First Four Points - as for the last
You can't possibly make poor Coffee
if you use LUZIANNE
Sold Everywhere 25¢ 1 lb. Can
THE REILY-TAYLOR Co.
NEW ORLEANS U.S.A.

THE ATLANTA DENTAL COLLEGE

A School of Dentistry
By Dentists, For Dentists

Largest School in the State. Leading School of the South

FEATURES: Large New College Building, Complete New Library, New Practical Porcelain Department, Heavy Operatory Clinic, Exclusively White Patients, Monthly Examinations and Daily Recitations, Central Location, Experienced Teachers and Demonstrators.

Write for souvenir catalog and further particulars to

WILLIAM CRENSHAW, D.D.S., Dean, Box 401, Atlanta, Ga.

THE BEST MADE.
Angell's Cough and Whooping Cough Syrup
For Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Coughs, Colds, and Throat Trouble.
CONTAINS NO OPIUM OR MORPHINE,
All Druggists, Price 25 and 50 Cents.

W. H. BYRNE, Pres. JOHN T. GIBBONS, Vice-Pres. P. E. BURKE, Sec'y.
Capital.......................$200,000.00
Assets.......................479,860.90
HIBERNIA INSURANCE CO.,
No. 305 Camp Street,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
LOSSES PROMPTLY PAID.

YOUR SUMMER TRIP SHOULD BE MADE VIA THE
Southern Pacific
LOW ROUND TRIP RATES TO RESORTS IN United States, Canada and Mexico.
See the Principal Points of Interest in Mexico and the Entire WEST on one Ticket. GO ONE WAY—RETURN ANOTHER.
COMBINATION RAIL AND WATER TRIP TO THE EAST—GO STEAMER—RETURN RAIL, or vice-versa.
SEE NEW YORK, NIAGRA FALLS, CHICAGO, and many other points of interest, and enjoy a steamer trip between NEW ORLEANS and NEW YORK on one of SOUTHERN PACIFIC'S magnificent 10,600 tons passenger vessels.
ALL ON ONE TICKET.
Call on any Agent of the Southern Pacific for literature and complete information, or write
G. E. GUEDRY, D. P. A., Lake Charles, La.
F. E. BATTURS, G. P. A., New Orleans, La.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE EPWORTH LEAGUE.

The sixth annual session of the Mississippi Conference Epworth League convened at Gulfport, June 18, and continued through Sunday the 21st. The opening session was in charge of the local League. Addresses of welcome were delivered on behalf of the city of Gulfport by Rev. Dr. Yerger, and on behalf of the local League by Miss Laura Rankin. Both of these addresses were replete with expressions of the pleasure that it gave the city and the League to have as their guests these representatives of that mighty army of young people that were banded together under the banner of "All for Christ." The response to these very much enjoyed addresses was delivered on behalf of the delegates by Rev. W. O. Sadler, of Meridian, who, in a most pleasing and eloquent manner, told how much joy it gave the delegates to be their guests.

The devotional exercises were conducted by the local president. An Epworth League Social was next on the programme which was conducted by Mrs. Edith Reid Neill, third vice-president. In this way the members were enabled to get acquainted with each other, and in this way were ready to begin work the next day, feeling that they already knew each other.

The Sunrise Prayer Meetings were held on the beach during the Conference. Miss Jackson, of New Orleans, and Dr. Featherstun, were the leaders.

The devotional exercises were conducted at the opening of each session by Dr. H. W. Featherstun, he using the general theme, "Christ and the Young People;" these exercises proved to be very interesting and helpful.

The first business session was called to order by President Hawkins, at 9:30 a.m., Friday, 19th. The regular secretary being absent, Conference elected Miss Janie Carruth, of McComb City.

The president's address was delivered covering the work of the past year, and giving his recommendations for the coming year, all of which were referred to the Committee on "Plan of Work."

Reports were heard from the Conference officers and District Secretaries.

The programme was carried out as printed with few exceptions or changes, and proved to be one of, if not the best ever had; the addresses and round-tables were all good, and in fact the work of the entire session above the average. The attendance was the best in our history. There were more than 150 present.

Letters from Drs. DuBose and Parker were read explaining their absence.

Addresses were delivered by Dr. H. W. Featherstun, Dr. F. P. Culver, Rev. W. M. Sullivan, Rev. H. G. Hawkins, Rev. J. B. Airey, and others that were very inspiring and helpful.

Rev. J. B. Airey, President of the Alabama League Conference, was fraternal messenger to our Conference, and his message of fraternity was happily delivered, and profitably received. Dr. F. P. Culver brought fraternal greetings from the North Alabama Conference.

Saturday morning Dr. F. L. Walton said "that he had a little matter" to bring before the Conference that he thought ought to be attended to, and then in a very able manner made the presentation speech on behalf of the delegates, in presenting a very handsome gold Epworth League Badge to the President, W. D. Hawkins. The badge was in the shape of a "Maltese cross," with his name on the bar above the cross; on one side of the badge was "Our President for Six Years;" on the other, "Gulfport Conference, June 18-21, 1908." As soon as Dr. Walton had finished his speech, Rev. H. W. VanHook began playing "God be with you till we meet again," and the entire Conference joined in the singing. At the conclusion of the song the president, [illegible] sufficiently recovered from the surprise to respond, which he did in a most feeling manner, expressing his great appreciation of the honor and confidence bestowed. During this service tears were in the eyes of nearly everyone present. It proved to be a very precious service.

Saturday afternoon the local League gave an excursion to Ship Island, all of the delegates being invited to go, and it is needless to say that they all went and thoroughly enjoyed it, though the sea was a little rough.

Sunday morning all attended Sunday School. At eleven o'clock the Annual Sermon was preached by Dr. W. B. Murrah, President of Millsaps College, his subject being, "The Choice of Moses." It was appropriate, helpful, and very much enjoyed.

Sunday afternoon the Missionary Rally, conducted by Rev. H. M. Ellis, proved of interest.

Sunday evening was held a "Grand Rally," conducted by the retiring president; about 20 minutes of the time being devoted to answering the question, "What have I gotten out of the Conference?" Many expressions of helpfulness were heard from the delegates; some pledging themselves to a more useful life in their local Leagues when they returned home.

Next came the installation of the officers-elect by W. D. Hawkins. This was an impressive service, as the officers were solemnly charged with their duties and responsibilities, especially when the gavel was presented the new president, he being told of the great love of the retiring president for these young people, with whom he had associated and labored for these six years, and of how they had endeared themselves to him, and impressed upon him the necessity of him proving faithful to the trust imposed. The new officers are:

President, Dr. F. L. Walton, Meridian; first vice-president, Mrs. Z. N. Davis, Vicksburg; second vice-president, Miss Georgia Rohrer, Gulfport; third vice-president, Miss Mabel Ellis, Montrose; fourth vice-president, Miss Ora Sullivan, McComb City; secretary, C. H. Poythress, Meridian; treasurer, Clifford Fields, Natchez; Era Agent, Miss Marion Marshall, Jackson; Supt. Junior League, Mrs. A. F. Watkins, Jackson.

District Secretaries—Meridian District, W. D. Hawkins, Meridian; Newton District, Chas. Darrell, Laurel; Jackson District, John Rickett, Jackson; Brookhaven District, Miss Janie Carruth, McComb City; Natchez District, Miss Jessie Porter, Natchez; Seashore District, Miss Laura Rankin, Gulfport; Vicksburg District, Warren White, Vicksburg.

Montrose was selected as the place of the next meeting.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON PLAN OF WORK.

Believing that we should put ourselves in line with the great "Forward Movement of Missions" in our Church, and that Korea presents the greatest opportunity, as well as the most inspiring mission field in the world:

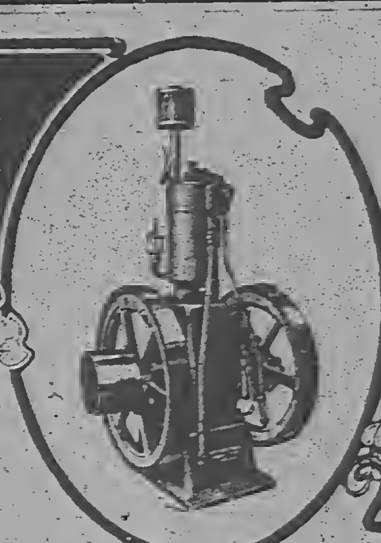
We recommend, That the Epworth Leagues are well able, and should become responsible for twenty shares at fifty dollars per share in the new mission station our Church is opening there.

We recommend further, That a special treasurer be appointed to keep the Leagues reminded of, and collect this sum and forward it to Rev. W. L. Linfield, our Conference Missionary Treasurer.

Miss Ora Sullivan, fourth vice-president, was appointed as this "special treasurer," in accordance with the above recommendation. Her address is McComb City.

That the Institute Plan adopted at the last Conference be continued.

(Continued on Next Page.)



I·H·C· GASOLINE ENGINES

Are solving the hired help problem for hundreds of farmers.

Vertical Engines made in 2 and 3 Horse Power.
Horizontal Engines (Portable and Stationary) made in 4, 6, 8, 10, 12, 15 and 20 Horse Power.
Air Cooled Engines, 1 Horse Power.
Traction Engines, 10, 12, 15 and 20 Horse Power.
Also sawing, spraying and pumping outfits.

YOU offer high wages, and still find it difficult to get hired men. Why not do as other progressive farmers are doing—let one of the dependable and ever ready I. H. C. gasoline engines be your hired man.

Suppose you want to grind feed, [illegible] shred fodder, pump water, operate the churn, grindstone, fanning mill, separator, bone cutter, or saw wood. With an I. H. C. engine you will need no extra help. You can run the engine and attend to the machine yourself.

In the same way you will be able to do dozens of farm jobs which usually require the labor of two men. You will be surprised to find how little attention an I. H. C. engine requires.

The engine will work for you indoors or out, in wet or dry, hot or cold weather. You will have no difficulty in operating or controlling it.

Only a few cents per hour is required for fuel. All I. H. C. engines use either gas, gasoline or denatured alcohol.

Please notice in the above list of styles and sizes that there is an I. H. C. gasoline engine adapted to practically every farm requirement.

You can have a small engine which you can easily move from place to place, as your work requires, or you can have a larger engine for stationary use. The efficiency of all I. H. C. engines is well known. You cannot possibly have any better guarantee of a dependable engine than one of these engines affords.

Call on the International local agent for catalogs, and inspect these engines. Write for colored hanger and booklet on "Development of Power."

INTERNATIONAL HARVESTER COMPANY OF AMERICA, Chicago, U.S.A.
(Incorporated)

SCROFULINE
The Wonderful Healer

Unsurpassed for tetter, ezcema, skin and scalp troubles, old sores, ulcers and piles, any nature or duration. Goes to the very seat of the trouble, kills the germs and extracts all foreign matter. Sold under a positive guarantee, 25c, 50c and $1.00 per jar. Mail orders promptly filled. Stamps accepted. Liberal sample upon request. Address,

THE SCROFULINE COMPANY, Waco, Texas.
SOLE OWNERS AND MANUFACTURERS.

THE AMERICAN PAINT WORKS,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.,
MANUFACTURES EVERYTHING IN PAINTS,
Guaranteed Strictly Pure
The Climatic Prepared Paints, Perfecto White and
SOLD SUBJECT TO A CHEMICAL ANALYSIS.
DIRECTORS:
Thos. S. Witherspoon, President. Francis Martin, Vice President
R. B. Parker. John McCloskey. Geo. A. Hero.
PHONE, MAIN 915. Special Attention to Mail Orders.

Louisiana Railway and Navigation Company.
PASSENGER SERVICE,
Daily Passenger Trains between Shreveport and New Orleans. Daily Passenger Trains between Shreveport and Winnfield.
FREIGHT SERVICE,
